attendance. The 15th Regimental Band of this city, under the capable leadership of Bandmaster Lieut. H. Hinchey was present and rendered a most enjoyable programme of choice selections. In the drawing room the guests were most cordially received by Mr. and Mrs. Graham and were also presented to their honored son. The interior of the home was tastefully decorated and illuminated for the occasion, while the spacious and beautiful lawn was well lighted by electric lamps. After the reception for some time the evening was spent in card playing and other games, after which dancing was indulged in, appropriate music for same being provided by the band. The greater number of those present indulged in the programme of dances provided. Before the delightful evening was brought to a close dainty refreshments were provided, which were thoroughly enjoyed. Shortly before the midnight hour the proceedings were brought to a close by the rendering of the National Anthem. All present voted Mr. and Mrs. Graham most kind and hospitable and wished for them and members of their family every happiness in the future.

German Slow In Peace Ratification

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer and Canadian Press Limited

BERLIN, July 2.—The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung states that it is authoritatively announced that definite steps have not been taken by Germany for the ratification of peace treaty for reason presumably that number of preliminary questions particularly those affecting fruitful fisheries and regions not yet decided were not satisfactorily settled.

Have The Intelligencer sent to your home address.

Dr Silex

By B. HARRIS-BURLAND

CHAPTER XXII—Continued

For hours in the day-time, by light of the great fires, I would see small black specks moving on the decks of the vessels and on the parapets of the long low mole. I was thankful for this one blessing—sometimes. But I looked in vain for any sign of activity on the land. After the defeat, they seemed to have settled down to a kind of armed neutrality, content to let the French work out their own affairs in their own way, and apparently careless of what happened to either her or her colonies. But I knew in my heart that this could not rest until he had secured his mistress or died in the attempt. Still it was strange that no word nor sign had come from him. I certainly expected that he would have made some effort to communicate with us.

Meanwhile I watched my dear lady's face for some sign by which I might read the story of Count Guy of Marmorel. She never spoke of him except in terms that could have been applied by any kind and courteous friend. I think a nice delicacy on her part prevented her from discussing him in his daughter's presence, even though she spoke in a language that the daughter could not understand. And the Lady Margaret was always with her, so we had no opportunities of talking alone. All the information that I could glean was written on her sweet face. I noticed with anxiety that it grew paler from day to day. I might have put this down to her enforced captivity, if I had not also noticed the shadows in her eyes and the new lines of thoughtfulness and perplexity on her fair white brow. It seemed to me that she was thrashing out some problem in her mind, and was unable to find a satisfactory solution.

Then one day the whole truth was flashed before my eyes like a flame of lightning across a dark sky. On October 20th I was serving at lady in some trivial matter—I think I had to convey some message to the kitchen about her meal—when the Lady Margaret went suddenly white as a sheet, and leaned back on her gilt oaken chair with closed eyes. In a second the Princess was by her side, rubbing her hand, and using such gentle words as were then towards each other on these occasions. The girl opened her eyes and asked to be excused from waiting on her for a few minutes. The Princess granted the door and summoned a slave-damna to assist her from the room. The door closed, and we were alone. I knew Count Guy's instructions, and realized that it would not be for more than a minute or two, until the slight confusion had settled down. I resolved to come to the point at once.

"Poor girl," the Princess murmured; but I am afraid it only dismayed the Lady Margaret from my mind with an indifference that amounted to brutality.

"Lady Thora," I cried, coming close to her, "we are alone for the first time since—since that awful night of defeat and bloodshed. I want to know the truth. I have no right to ask it, save that I wish to serve you. But I want to know the truth. What does Count Guy of Marmorel mean to you?"

She stepped back from me with a look of surprise, and even of anger on her face. Her eyes blazed, as for a second I loosened my own. Then I looked her squarely and unflinchingly in the face.

"What does Count Guy of Marmorel want with you?" I repeated slowly and sternly. "If you cannot answer me, I will ask him myself.

For a few seconds her eye met mine, and I fought them with my own till the light of anger died away in their depths, and the blood rushed to her cheeks. She opened her mouth to speak. Then there was a sound of voices in the outer room, and I could hear the clank of steel. "It is Count Guy," she cried, catching me by the arm.

"Well" I said quietly, "so much the better. I can ask him what I want to know."

"If he finds you here, he will kill you," she cried, looking up into my face. "Quick, Dr. Silex, you must hide. For my sake, for my sake." She looked at me in such a way that no resolution of man could have held out against the appeal.

I slipped behind some hangings which covered a small recess in the wall, and she held out her hand. I kissed it, and a moment later the door opened, and I shrank into my place of concealment. Through a small rent in the damask, no bigger than a threepenny piece, I saw Count Guy, tall, handsome, and soldier-like on the threshold. He was clad in complete armour, as if prepared for war and his dark face was lit up as though he anticipated victory.

CHAPTER XXIII

For a moment he stood in silence. The Princess bowed stiffly, and looked at him with questioning eyes. It was evident that his love suit was not prospering as he would wish. He turned round, and, closing the door walked across the room to her side.

"You are alone?" he said quietly giving a swift glance round the apartment. I shrank closer to the wall and began to wish that I held some weapon in my hand. It was probable that someone outside had told him that I was in attendance on the Princess.

"Your daughter is not well," she answered, "as perhaps you saw before you entered."

"I saw nothing," he cried passionately "and thought of nothing but you my dearest queen. I have news from the king of the highest importance and I can stay but a few minutes. He upbraids me with inactivity, and asks me why. I have not plotted out your followers from the face of his land."

"He would get an answer to that if he came himself," she replied with a smile.

DOROTHY DALTON COMING TO GRIFFIN'S IN HOMEBREAKER

Dorothy Dalton has one of the finest vehicles of her career in "The Homebreaker" which is announced for exhibition at Griffin's to-morrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. In "The Homebreaker" she has a character which is a strong reminder of her successful type in "Green Eyes" a play that firmly established her as one of the foremost dramatic actresses of the screen. Miss Dalton has had an enviable stage and screen career. Her first engagement on the stage was with Virginia Harned, in Chicago, her native city. After a couple of seasons in stock she toured the Orpheum Vaudeville circuit in a sketch of her own writing, "The Smugglers." Following her vaudeville engagement Miss Dalton went to Denver where she played ingenue roles with the Elitch's Garden stock company. Later she went to Los Angeles and was engaged by Thomas H. Ince for pictures. Some of her recent plays are "Extravagance," "Hard Boiled", "Vive la France," etc. Besides the above offering a thrilling story of modern daring, a two act Mack Sennett comedy and The Griffin British News will be presented.

TWO DARING PERFORMERS FEATURE CIRCUS SERIAL

Two of the most fearless performers in motion pictures have been selected to portray the leading roles in the great smashing circus serial, "The Lure of the Circus," which will be shown at the Palace theatre Thursday to Saturday, commencing to-morrow. They are Eddie Polo, known from the Atlantic to the Pacific as the "Hercules of the screen" and beautiful daring Eileen Sedgwick, whose work in wild animal pictures has thrilled hundreds of screen fans. Both Polo and Miss Sedgwick were recruited for the movies from the ranks of the "Big Show-ville"—that small coterie of actors and actresses who are absolutely without fear. Polo's years as an aerial performer in some of the biggest circus organizations of the world and Miss Sedgwick's ability as an athlete, rope climber and trainer of animals have made it possible to contribute the chief acting features of the most stupendous film drama of circus life and big business ever attempted. Another of the popular actor-lect photoplays is being offered on the same program for the week end, when Wm. Brady appears in "Tess of the Storm Country," the charming star portraying a dual role of twin sisters who are entirely different, physically, mentally and morally.

DANGEROUS ANTISEPTICS AND GERMINICIDES ARE UNNECESSARY

A dependable antiseptic has come to be considered a necessity in most homes. Especially is the true since Absorbine, Jr., has had such a wide introduction, because this liniment is not only a powerful antiseptic and germicide but it is absolutely safe to use and to have around the house. It is not poisonous and it cannot do harm even if the children do get hold of it. That is a big point to consider.

Absorbine, Jr. is concentrated and is therefore economical. It retains its germicidal properties even diluted one part Absorbine, Jr. to 100 parts water—and its antiseptic properties, one part Absorbine, Jr., to 200 parts of water.

The antiseptic and germicidal properties have been repeatedly tested and proven in many prominent chemical laboratories. Detailed laboratory reports mailed upon request.

Absorbine, Jr. combines safety with efficiency. $1.25 a bottle at most druggists or postpaid.

Send 10c for liberal trial bottle. W. F. Young, Inc., 457 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Canada.

KILLED AND INJURED IN EARTHQUAKE

FLORENCE, June 30.—A violent earthquake was felt here on Sunday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock. The victims so far reported number more than a hundred killed and several thousand injured. A million and a half people of the Provinces of Florence, Arezzo and Siena, where the shocks were especially severe, spent the night in the open air.

Called by Death

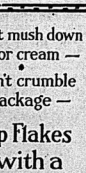

W. T. HOLLIS.

Mr. W. T. Hollis, who resided at 152 Foster Avenue, city, died at an early hour this morning after a brief illness. On Monday evening shortly after supper he was taken ill, the case being diagnosed as obstruction of the bowels. All that medical skill could do proved unavailing. Deceased was in his 46th year and was born in the State of Ohio. He came to Canada when a boy and resided for some time at Atwood and other places previous to coming to Belleville five years ago. He was engaged as an implement agent out of the city and by his many friends in Hollis and was deservedly popular with the public. Mr. Hollis was a member of Bridge Street Church and was also a member of Colborne Lodge A. F. & A. M. and the A. O. F. society at Atwood. Deceased had a large number of friends in this city and vicinity who will regret his demise. A widow, but no family survives. Notice of funeral will be given when Mr. and Mrs. Strothers of Alberta, parents of Mrs. Hollis, have been heard from.

SAY HOLLAND MUST GUARD FORMER GERMAN EMPEROR

LONDON, June 30.—The allied Governments have represented to the Government of Holland the necessity of taking steps to prevent the departure of the former German Emperor from Holland, C. B. Harmsworth, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

The Marsh Engineering Works won from the Steel Company Saturday afternoon by the score of 13—6. The game was a good one and the interest is growing. The high scores are the result of hard hitting, the Industrial League is made up of heavy batters who run up a high score each game. Saturday's game was featured by the fielding of Canning and the batting of Fye and Draycott. Draycott pipe handled himself well around third base and his work was a great help to his team. Bone and Clapp were the battery for the Engineers; Clapp's pitching was of the best and with the support that his team gives him they are a hard combination to defeat. Pritchard and Atkins were the battery for the Steel Company and with the exception of the first innings were very good. Atkins made a few bad throws and with the few errors in the out-field the Engineers were able to secure a lead of five runs. In the second innings the Steel Company were able to tie the score; things looked so serious in the third when the Engineers were retired without a man reaching first that even Hicker was silent and that's saying some thing. Draycott received a nasty crack in the left arm from the pitched ball and was forced to retire from the rest of the game. Hope it see you on deck the next game old timer."

The line up:—

Marsh Engineering—Cornell, C. F.; Scooner, R. F.; McKenas, F. B.; Clapper, S. B.; Phillip, T. B.; Draycott, S. F.; Canning, L. F.; Bone, C; Clapp, P.

Steel Company—Walsh, T. B.; Whalen, R. F.; McQuad, S. B.; Clapp, S. T.; Murphy, F. B.; Quaddock, L. F.; Pritchard P.; Fye, C. F. Atkins, C.

WIN FOR G. T. R.

The G. T. R. baseball team of this city, one of the teams in the Central Ontario Baseball League, continue in their line of victories. Yesterday afternoon they added another win to their already enviable record, by defeating the Cobourg team. The score was 20 to 9 in favor of Belleville. The game was played at the Exhibition Park here before a good audience and to the credit of the spectators and management the diamond was kept clear for the players. The diamond inside the base lines is in fair condition but the outfield to use a base ball expression is rotten. The grass is high and the ground filled with holes. It would not be an expensive undertaking for the city to have this remedied. The game was in many respects a good exhibition of ball, but was rather drawn out not being completed until after 6 o'clock, although it as commenced at 3.40 p.m. At the outset it looked as if Cobourg might win, but their lead was only temporarily. In the first innings neither team scored but in the second and third innings, the visitors scored 6 runs whilst our boys were blanketed. In the fourth innings the Belleville team added and run after run was scored until the scorers were almost tired marking them down. When the side had been retired no less than players had crossed the plate. In the next two innings our boys added 7 more runs to their score and in the eighth, 4 more added. In the latter innings Cobourg rescured 3 more runs which ended their ranging. Members of both teams made a number of errors, but some were excusable owing to the condition of the ground. Whalen pitched two innings for the locals and was replaced by F. Goyer. Both pitched good ball and Mills behind the batters was as usual right there. Although the game was prolonged the spectators were pleased especially as the home team was winning.

Mr. Donaldson of Oshawa was umpire on balls and strikes and his decisions were taken on the whole impartial. Dr. O'Callaghan as umpire on bases.

The line up of the teams were as follows:

Belleville—Meagher 3rd b., Weir, s. s., Gerow 1st b., Mills c., Morden r. f., Smith 2nd b. Kelleher, c. f. Goyer, p., and I. f. Whalen p. and f.

Cobourg—Burgess, c. f.; H. Sketch 3rd b. Higginbotham, 1.f.; Butler, s. s., W. Sketch, p.; Jones c., James 1st b., Boundry, r. f., and Kelso 2nd b.

Score of innings:

Belleville—00092504—20

Cobourg—03300000—9

CHINESE PLAYER JOINS BAY CITY

Bay City, Mich., June 23—The Wolves, Bay City's representatives in the Michigan-Ontario League, besides being the only team in the circuit to score a shutout victory over the leading Saginaw Aces, this season, have the further distinction of having the only Chinese in the league on their team.

He is Andrew Yim, who played last year with Bridgeport, Conn., in the Eastern League, where he batted .348 in 55 games. He is said to be a good slicker, a clever fielder and lightning fast on the paths, and in addition is an accomplished musician. In his first game with Bay City yesterday he batted .667.

Manager Billy Cristall, in an attempt to strengthen his team, has secured Pitchers Glen Cook and C. Thomas, the former from Indianapolis and the latter from Minneapolis. Infielder Porter also reported yesterday from Indianapolis.

BOWLING.

Two rinks from the Belleville Bowling Club went to Oshawa yesterday to compete in a tournament held in that town. Messrs. R. J. Wray and C. N. Sulman were the skips. The latter won out in the first, second and third round, but was defeated in the finals, by a rink skipped by G. S. Young of Oshawa. Mr. Wray's rink won the first and second rounds of the consolation series.

Hamby Accomplice Of John Kerfanko

Says That He Planned Bank of Montreal Robbery.

NEW YORK, July 2—Gordon Fawcett Hambly, Canadian-born bank robber and murderer, now in the death-house at Sing-Sing, was one of the bandits who held up the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Plum Coulee, near Winnipeg, in 1913, according to his own story, which is being written for the New York Evening World by Martin Green. Hambly declares that, with John Kerfanko, he planned the robbery, for the proceeds of which H. M. Arnold, the manager of the bank, was shot and killed. He refuses to say whether it was Kerfanko or he who fired on the manager as they were making their get-away in automobiles, but Kerfanko was captured shortly afterwards, and, following a sensational escape from prison, was hanged.

To check up the convicted bandit's story, the newspaper wires its Winnipeg correspondent. His reply follows:

"Bank robbery at Plum Coulee, Man., took place Wednesday, 9:15 o'clock), on September 3, 1913. Bank of Montreal Branch held up and manager, H. M. Arnold, shot dead. He ran out after robbery and was shot when robbers were getting into automobiles, in which they escaped. After long search John Kerfanko was arrested early in 1914. Trial lasted during March and April, convicted and hanged a few months later. Kerfanko was of Rumanian nationality. While slight held for trial he made a sensational escape. Winnipeg lawyer and fisherman were convicted of having aided him. Robbers got some $5,000 from the bank."

The Canadian Pacific Railway are now running first class excursions at reduced rates to Vancouver and coast points, good until October 31st. See L. Bryers, C.P.R. Agent.

A View of Digby, Nova Scotia, and a Close View of the Willows Under Which Evangeline Used to Rest.

The Pines at Digby is the first Dominion Atlantic Railway hotel to be opened in Nova Scotia. During the tourist season of 1919 it will be in full swing under the management of the new owners. The acquisition of The Pines by this railroad is a distinct advantage to tourists and to Nova Scotia, for a good hotel attracts visitors almost as much as a good scenic locality. Hotels and scenes go together in their call to the public. To enjoy the loveliness of nature one must be comfortably housed, and well fed. One might aptly parody Thomas Moore's lines and write:

The rooms where we dwell, and the meals that we eat,
Make every sweet scene of enchantment more sweet.

Reginald Graves is associate manager of The Pines, and he is one of the most experienced hotel men in America. He was manager of the Place Viger Hotel in Montreal for many years.

Tourists to Evangeline's Land generally make a tour of all the beauty spots of the region. Yarmouth, beside the sea, offers many attractions to the visitor. A colony of French-Canadians, whose ancestors were expelled from Grand Pre, resides in the vicinity of Yarmouth, and still retains the traditions of the Acadians. Westville is the headquarters of the Dominion Atlantic Railway which serves the entire district. Grand Pre was the site of the village from which the Acadians were banished in 1755. The well where Evangeline was wont to go for water and the willows under which she rested are still there. Blomidon mountain and the Basin of Minas near by are just as they were of old, the meadows are green on the dykelands, and the dykes keep out the sea, and a little inland the gentle hills are patched with luxurious orchards. Wolfville, the headquarters for tourists to Grand Pre, is built in the midst of one of the greatest apple growing localities in the world. The late King Edward was amongst those who visited and loved this spot. It is only a short walk from Wolfville to Grand Pre, and the marshlands extend from one place to the other.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway has purchased the "big field" where the Acadians made their village, which was their capital, and this has become a public park. A memorial cross now stands there on the site of the ancient burial ground, and a statue of Evangeline sculptured by Philippe Hebert and his son Henri, descendants of an Acadian family, will soon add the grace of art to attractions of a haunt where nature has lavished her rarest charms.

It is significant that the Dominion Atlantic Railway and the Boston and Yarmouth Steamship Company have enlarged on an exhibitors campaign to advertise the tourist attractions of Nova Scotia.

LANDED BIG FISH

While trawling a short distance west of the town, Douglas Webster, a youthful resident of Bellefille, who is visiting A. Wilson, Schofield's Hill, landed a 12-pound pike.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

IS ILL IN ENGLAND

James A. Richardson, president of the grain firm of James Richardson and Sons, Kingston, who went to England recently, has been seriously ill in London of ptomaine poisoning, which he developed in New York before sailing.

EXPRESS LEAVE TRACK

Trains from the west on the line of the G. T. R. were yesterday morning late in arriving at Belleville owing to the east bound express train leaving the rails near Port Hope, blocking the road. Fortunately no person was injured.

ALLEGED DISORDERLY CONDUCT

On Monday evening the police answered a call to Pinnacle street, north of Campbell street, where it was alleged some boys were acting in a disorderly manner. The names of some of the boys were obtained and they will be summoned before the magistrate to answer for their conduct.

DOMINION DAY QUIET

Dominion Day, a National holiday, was quietly commemorated in this city. Many citizens went to Napanee, Trenton, Campbellford and other places, where celebrations were held, while not a few indulged in fishing. A number of private picnics were held at various places along the bay shore.

FIRST EXCURSION OF SEASON

The first excursion of the season took place today and owing to it being a holiday for many business places, was largely attended. It was under the auspices of Bridge street Methodist church. The steamer Brockville conveyed the excursionists to Twelve O'clock Point.

A FAMILY JAR

All as early hour on Dominion Day the police responded to a call near the G.T.R. station. Trouble between husband and wife was the cause of alarm, but the difficulty was amicably settled.

RESPONDED TO STILL ALARM

At 4.43 yesterday afternoon the fire brigade responded to a still alarm. A new gas main is being laid on Coleman street and from some cause escaping gas became ignited. The blaze was soon extinguished and no damage resulted.

ATTENDED OBSEQUIES

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pratt and daughter, Mrs. S. Williams, arrived home on Saturday from attending the funeral of the late Mr. Arthur Lloyd of Peterboro.' The Loyal Orange Association conducted the funeral of which Society Mr. Lloyd was a member. A sermon was preached by Rev. Bro. Greatrix of St. John's Methodist Church of Peterboro. Deceased left a wife and six children to mourn his loss.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Reuben McFadden, a Wolfe Island farmer, was seriously injured early Sunday morning when returning home after delivering milk at the cheese factory at the foot of the island. His horse ran away and Mr. McFadden was thrown from the wagon against a barbed wire fence. The right side of his neck was cut from the chin to the ear and he sustained other cuts and some bruises. Dr. William Spankie was called and dressed the man's injuries, having to tie several severed veins, which bled profusely. Mr. McFadden had a narrow escape from death, but is resting in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, where he was conveyed.

Gained 28 Pounds

Mrs. Cooper, Aged 72, Says She Never Felt Better In Her Life Tanlac Ends 25 Years Trouble.

"The past winter was the first one I have gone through in fifteen years without having La Grippe and I attribute it to the wonderful builder up," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. T. A. Cooper of 1147 Trail street, Los Angeles, in an interview, recently.

Mrs. Cooper who is well-known in the literary field, has been writing for some of the magazines for years. She also writes "movie" stories and is at the present time writing a special story for one of our most popular actresses.

"When asked if she was willing to have her statement regarding Tanlac published, Mrs. Cooper said: "Yes, indeed, and you may tell them that when I began taking the medicine I only weighed ninety-eight pounds; but that I now weigh one hundred and twenty-six, making an actual gain of twenty-eight pounds.

"For twenty-five years I have had catarrh in my head. Ten years ago the trouble reached my stomach and made me most miserable. I got so I could not eat at all without bloating all up and suffering for hours. The gas would press on my heart and bring on such awful spells of palpitation that I would almost faint. I was so nervous the least noise would startle me and make me tremble like a leaf. I tried many different kinds of medicines but gradually got worse until I reached the point where I could not get around at all.

"I was almost a confirmed invalid for a long time and not until last fall when I got Tanlac was I able to find anything to help me. Well, almost from the time I began taking Tanlac I commenced to improve. Of course, when I found it was helping me I kept on taking it until now I can eat and drink just anything I want. The gas has left my stomach entirely and my nerves are as good as ever, and while I am now seventy-two years of age I don't believe I ever felt stronger and better. The only medicine I keep in my house now is Tanlac and the Laxative Tablets that come with it. I consider it the finest treatment for stomach trouble and a run-down condition there is and I will be glad to tell anyone who cares to call me up what it has done for me and what I believe it will do for them."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malloy, in Stirling by J. S. Marten, in Madoc by J. Will Vinson, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

FIRED PEACE SALUTE

William Kirby, an aged Kingston workman, recalls the fact that in 1856 he was one of the Royal Field Artillery who fired the salute at Woolwich, England, in honor of the declaration of peace after the Crimean War.

TABERNACLE 3. S. CLASS

On Monday evening the class of young ladies taught by Mrs. C. W. Moat at the Tabernacle Sunday school met at her home and presented her with an address and beautiful silver tray, both of which are greatly appreciated by the recipient and all is soon to remove from the city. During the evening the class was organized under the name of "Live Wires," with the motto "Me Last." The officers are: President, Miss Hazel Horton; Vice-President, Miss Viola McConnell; Secretary, Miss Helen Owens; Treasurer, Miss Verna Babcock. Refreshments were served and a pleasant social time enjoyed, when the girls said "good-bye" to their teacher.

SUCCESSFUL PUPILS.

At the Toronto Conservatory of Music examinations held at St. Agnes' School, the following pupils of Miss Pearl Bowerman were most successful: Junior Piano—Gracie Horle, Primary Piano (honors)—Dorothy Rasther, Amy Bowerman. Elementary Piano (honors)—Ida Parker and Kathleen Tack equal. Intermediate Piano, 1st class honors, Gladys Buck; honors, Grace Gilbert, Dorothy Gerow, Mildred Darlington and Helena Taylor equal. The results of the theory candidates have not been received yet.

N.C.-4 "Willard Equipped" on First Trans-Atlantic Flight

ALL THREE NAVY PLANES USE WILLARD BATTERIES ON BIG JUMP.

"Our Engines worked perfectly," said Commander Read of the N.C.-4.

The N.C.-4 carried Willard Batteries.

On the long jump, high in the air above the fog, the Willard Storage Batteries functioned perfectly, never a miss or a skip.

Ten S.O.S. (Willard) Batteries, with Threaded Rubber Insulation, were on the N.C.-4 as she blazed the new trail and made history. Four batteries were in use and six were held in reserve and never needed.

Absolute dependability and constant performance were essential—so Willard Batteries were chosen, and lived up to their reputation.

Every unit on the N.C.-4 flying boat had to pass a thorough inspection and rigid test before it was used. Willard Batteries were not chosen on reputation alone—they were selected because they earned and continued to earn that reputation.

Our customers will be interested in this fact. Everyone is talking about the wonderful feat of the N.C.-4, and we are proud of the part that Willard Batteries played in it.

Value of Assets Drops $3,118,483

Standard Reliance Company Shows a Total Deficit of $352,078.

TORONTO, July 2.—A reduction of $3,118,483 from the book values of assets of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation and its subsidiary, the Dovercourt Land Company, is one of the outstanding features of a statement as to the affairs of the companies issued yesterday by Mr. G. T. Clarkson, the official liquidator. This reduction results in a nominal deficit of $352,078 for the Standard Reliance Company.

The value of real estate shown on the records of the companies as of a net value of $2,595,927, has been fixed at $1,249,194, a reduction of $1,346,733, which with $925,000 written off as the difference between book values and the actual proceeds of sales of Lawrence Park properties at the recent auction sale, and a reduction of $848,750 in the values of mortgages receivable and agreements covering sales of land, makes up the total reduction of $3,118,483.

The official statement is as follows:

"The assets of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation, and its subsidiary, the Dovercourt Land, Building and Savings Company, Limited, consist principally of real estate and mortgages, with agreements covering the sale of land.

"The real estate is comprised almost wholly of improved properties in the central part of the City of Toronto and subdivisions on its northerly and northeasterly outskirts, part within and part without the city limits. The majority of such properties are subject to mortgages; some of them are free from encumbrance.

Three Classes of Mortgages.

"Mortgages receivable and agreements covering the sale of land consist almost entirely of three classes, namely:

"(1) Loans to the public, secured by real estate, mostly improved property in various parts of Canada;

"(2) Loans to companies owning real estate—largely adjacent to Toronto—for subdivision and sale;

"(3) Agreements covering property subdivided and sold by the Dovercourt Land, Building and Savings Co. Limited, and other allied companies.

FRENCH GIRL WEDS EIGHT U. S. SOLDIERS

NEW YORK, June 30.—The story of a French girl who married at least eight men of the 30th Division of the A. E. F. was told by troopers returning on the Italian liner Regina d'Italia.

The woman who married eight soldiers soldiers is now under arrest in Paris and her case is being investigated. Though it is known that she married eight men, it is feared, said Private Brown of the 153rd Infantry of the 30th Division who related the story that she has many more husbands in the division.

The first intimation that the woman was operating her polygamous game in the division came when Private Harper of the 142nd Infantry was walking through the streets of Paris

VOL. 66 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1919. NO. 27

Nation Is "Dry" But Beer Sold

WASHINGTON, July 3—The United States, or that part, small geographically but large in population, which has not gone dry heretofore, which has not gone dry heretofore, was dry yesterday. But the whole prohibition situation was so highly confused and is difficult to understand that a Philadelphia lawyer could hardly make plain to the average man what was the outlook for alcoholic drinks.

It should be recorded that though the nation has gone dry, beer and light wines still are being sold in the eastern districts, which always have been "wet" and there is the prospect that the sales of these products may spread to some of the Western States which long have been dry.

The situation arises from the fact that there is no adequate national law that says what intoxicating liquors are.

The brewers and saloon keepers contend that beers and light wines are not intoxicating and when the prohibitionists insist that anything containing one half of one per cent. or more of alcohol is intoxicating, the "wets" defy the "drys" to prove it. And because the "drys" cannot, it is beers and light wines continue to sell throughout the East despite the fact that the nation is dry.

The word "dry" therefore applies to whiskies, wines and other drinks not classified as "light" including gin, brandies, cordials and other liquors containing a high percentage of alcohol.

Montreal Express Jumped The Track

PORT HOPE, July 2.—Six baggage, express and mail cars and one day coach of the 10.30 Grand Trunk Montreal express left the rails and plunged up the roadbed near the lake shore subway on Monday night. One express car loaded with cherries and strawberries turned completely on its side down and the other cars were thrown across the tracks and the traffic was delayed for many hours. C. P. R. train was flagged and the passengers transferred. The midnight train came via the C.N.R. and did not reach here until after three o'clock. One of the express messengers, Mr. Holland, received a severe shaking up but fortunately no bones were broken.

Lillian Won't Remove Her Hubby's Boot

DETROIT, Mich., July 3.—One month after Lillian Trevlow became the wife of William Dennis Doherty, July 27, 1918, William, returning from where his regiment was encamped, is alleged demanded that his wife remove his military boots for him.

Lillian replied that she "did not consider it befitting to her position as a wife to perform such work for husband" request as long as he was physically able to remoge his own shoes."

Aquarrel followed, during which a neighbor telephoned military authorities and a soldier was delegated to come to the Dewstow home and take William in his custody. Recently Lillian has filed a bill for divorce at the county clerk's office through her attorney, in which she made the foregoing allegations.

J. D. COLEMAN DEAD

BIG DIRIGIBLE HALF WAY ACROSS ITS FLIGHT OVER THE ATLANTIC

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 3.—The Air Ministry received a report from the British dirigible R-34 at 6.11 o'clock this morning, Greenwich time, giving the position of the craft as approximately half way to Newfoundland. The British warship Renown, stationed in mid-Atlantic, reported at 6.15 this morning that the barometer was steady, wind blowing about four miles from northwest, the sky was clear and visibility good and the sea was smooth.

LONDON, July 3.—The British Air Ministry announced today that it expected the R-34 to be now in mid-ocean on her Trans-Atlantic flight. It expected the R-34 to be now in mid-ocean on her Trans-Atlantic flight.

Field, Long Island, early on Saturday morning.

MINEOLA, N.Y., July 3.—With everything in readiness to receive the giant dirigible R-34, officers of the Royal Air Force and American aviation units are on the alert for the arrival of the airship. Beginning tonight a score of searchlights will send up ribbons of light and signals of location. They are stationed around the field, on the ground on trucks, and on the water on wireless launches.

ST. JOHNS, July 2.—Wireless station here reports having heard signals at night from R34 indicating that all was well and that dirigible was continuing her westward journey. The position of ship was not reported and consequently station has no idea how

Salary About $60,000 A Year

General Manager of Alberta Pacific Grain Co. Doesn't Like to Tell.

OTTAWA, July 3.—Although exceedingly reluctant to divulge to curious ears the extent of the pittance which he has been receiving as President and General Manager of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, Mr. John A. MacFarlane admitted after cross-examination at two sessions of the Parliamentary Cost of Living Committee yesterday that he was paid more last year for his services than the people of Canada pay the Governor General.

At the morning session Mr. MacFarlane was willing to admit that he received a salary of $5,000 a year and a management commission on the net profits. Later stated that the commission amounted to 5 per cent. It needed only a slight computation to enable the members of the committee, in view of the profits, which ranged from $823,920 in 1912-13 to $2,175,300 in 1916-17, and $1,779,635 in 1917-18 to see that the commission would in some years be nearly $110,000.

ABOUT A $60,000 SALARY

After pressure he stated that he received only about half of this, and that the rest was divided among the active management. Even at that his salary was nearly $60,000 a year. He refused to say who the others were that received the rest of the commission, and what they received. He admitted at length that besides being managers, these others might also be directors. He himself was a director.

Awful Death in Gravel Pit From Suffocation

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT BEFELL JOHN CREEPER—BURIED BENEATH TONS OF SAND—LIFE EXTINCT WHEN EXTRICATED

Mr. John Creeper, an aged and well known resident of the city limits, was yesterday the victim of a shocking accident which caused his death, and which narrowly escaped the same fate. Situated on Mr. Creeper's place is a sand pit and he and his son Frank were engaged taking out sand when the embankment gave way and tons of the material was precipitated down upon the two men. The victim of the accident was completely buried and the only part of the son's body visible was the head. The accident was witnessed by Mrs. Frank Creeper, who immediately raised an alarm and neighbors were soon engaged in the work of rescue. Mr. Frank Creeper when taken was found to be but slightly injured. Unfortunately when Mr. John Creeper was reached life was found to be extinct. Efforts upon the part of the doctor failed to restore life. Mr. Creeper was a man much respected by all who knew him. He was a staunch Conservative in politics and for upwards of a half a century had been a subscriber of The Intelligencer. His wife preceded him to the tomb some four years ago. Two sons, Frank on the homestead, and William of Northport survive. The distressing affair has cast a gloom throughout the neighborhood and vicinity where the deceased was well known.

Dempsey Favorite With betting fraternity

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 3.—The rules governing the heavyweight championship bout between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey in Tex Rickard's $150,000 arena here tomorrow, are to be officially interpreted at a meeting today attended by Ollie Pecord, the referee; Rickard and Major Biddle, judges of the contest, the boxers themselves, and Jack Kearns, manager of the challenger. It is understood that Lord Lonsdale Marquis of Queensbury rules will apply.

Dempsey is favored in the betting. Betting on the outcome of the bout has proved surprisingly light to date, notwithstanding the gathering of thousands of spectators. In some quarters sentiment appears to be veering towards the champion, for while Dempsey backers were offering even money on the challenger a day or two ago, they are now asking that Willard men lay 10 to 8.

Fires Raging In Northland

Town of Matheson in Danger of Being Wiped Out Again.

COBALT, July 3—"If a strong wind arose Matheson would be demolished." The above phone message was received here last night from Matheson. It was sent out from Matheson yesterday afternoon. Reports that the town was in danger was heard here during the day. A strong wind blew for long distance that fires are burning south and north of the town, one and a half miles south a serious fire is burning and it is headed in the direction of the town. The fire, it was stated, is in a heavy bush, but no buildings had fallen in the country then. The wind was stated to be very light at the time.

North of the town some distance a serious fire is raging and playing havoc with the heavy timber.

Matheson has already been burned out twice. The last time was in 1916, when about 147 residents of the district perished and untold suffering resulted. There are hundreds of forest fires of different proportions burning in the north at the present time, and the outlook is decidedly serious. The same is true on the Quebec side. No fatalities have as yet been heard of.

Horizon is Illuminated

From the Haileybury wharf on Sunday night distinct fires could be seen burning in Nicholas Township and the whole horizon was brilliantly lighted.

North of Timiskaming, in Ontario, some fires could be noticed, while to the west of Cobalt others of a severe nature could be traced by their glare.

Between Porquis Junction and Cochrane fires are said to be very bad, especially so, mileage to the west of the T. N. O. Passengers arriving here on the National state that the fires were bad pretty much along the line, but particularly bad in the far north. There are reports that Cochrane had sent out a relief call, but this could not be confirmed.

The situation throughout the whole country is precarious, and rain is badly needed. Showers have not been frequent for the past few weeks, and what rain has fallen has been confined to limited areas.

Cochrane reported a light snowfall early the other morning and the temperature between here and that point was exceedingly low, registering 14 degrees of frost at Englehart. The rain that there has been a wholesale destruction of garden produce. Fine crops of potatoes all along the T. and N. O. line are reported to have suffered severely.

By a vote of 30 to 22 the Senate affirmed its former decision that the order-in-council regarding prohibition terminated with the signing of peace, and not twelve months after.

Dean of Orangemen In Canada Is Dead

WINNIPEG, July 2.—Robert Hunter, the dean of Orangeism in Canada, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. C. Davies, 245 Yale avenue, after a brief illness in his 89th year. Mr. Hunter was a native of Newry, Ireland. He came with his parents to ulster, Dufferin County seventy years ago, and took a contract in that locality thirty-five years.

New Yorkers Wink And Secure Drink With Kick in It

NEW YORK, July 2.—When the city roused itself after the wild time of Monday night it found the same old swinging door in operation, the same old lunch accommodations before the doors and the same old apprehensive vestry back of the mahogany. The saloons that failed to present "a business as usual" aspect were few. Though appearances indicated that prohibition had been all a dream, the facts in liquid form speedily disproved that.

Many persons in need of bracers found themselves up when they came swinging invitingly inward, but lost their brightness when they found that no amounts of winks, hints or out and out requests would bring anything stronger than war beer or light wines. The exception was in the case of tried and trued characters, or in places where the law was lightly regarded.

In some of these latter places, whiskey and gin were said to have been sold openly. One man who dropped into a Sixth avenue place ashed if 2.75 beer was on tap. The barkeeper said it was "and whiskey, too," and shoved out a decanter labelled "private stock." There wasn't much of this open defiance, although it was reported that saloons were doing a brisk trade in "port" wine and sherry wine, which was of one color and had a surprising amount of alcohol in it. It undoubtedly was pretty old wine, if it wasn't something else.

Shortly after morning hours the bars of most of the big hotels were empty melancholy places because the hotel men had decided not to risk disaster by selling 2.75 beer. At about midday word came from Washington that the sale of war beer would be unprotected for the present, and it was decided to reopen many of the bars. From then until closing time yesterday morning war beer was sold in them.

Ex-Kaiser To Be Placed on Trial

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, July 3.—The former German Emperor will soon be placed on trial, Premier Lloyd George said this announcement in the House today in his report on peace negotiations the Premier declared that the tribunal which would try the former Emperor would sit in London. The German army, the Premier said was at present disarming and he dislikes peace of feebles of neighbors of Germany. The terms of the treaty with Germany in such respects were terrible the Premier said, but terrible would have been the consequence if Germany had succeeded. German officers who had committed appalling infamies, the Premier added, would be placed on trial. Mr. Lloyd George declared that the British delegation has taken a stand resolutely opposing any attempt to put predominantly German population under Polish rule.

Mauretania Docks At Halifax

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

HALIFAX July 3.—The Mauretania with 5,700 returning Canadian troops advises that she will dock at 7.30 today. The Baltic is due to arrive off harbor early to-morrow morning and will anchor at 7 o'clock, the clearing depot officials stated to-day. The Baltic brings 2,500 troops.

A SENSATIONAL CASE.

Fredericton, N.B., June 30.—When the New Brunswick Divorce Court opens here some sensational cases will be on the docket. One is that in which a returned soldier who lived in the vicinity of Blackvill is bringing against his wife, who gave birth to a child during his absence overseas, and who before a justice of the peace named as the father a Baptist minister, Rev. Mr. Blackhouse, who is the co-respondent in the case.

Celebrate Peace Saturday, 19th

General Thanksgiving Day For Peace to be Sunday, July 6.

OTTAWA, July 2.—To-day the Governments received from the Colonial Secretary the despatch dated July 1 which are now made public.

His Majesty has issued a proclamation appointing Sunday, July 6, as a day of general thanksgiving for the blessing of peace, and it is his desire that this day shall be observed not only in the United Kingdom, but in all quarters of the Empire. The King has also given his sanction to a peace celebration in the United Kingdom on Saturday, July 19, and the hope is expressed that all parts of the Empire will join as far as possible in celebrating peace on that day.

As war is still being waged in many campaigns in Europe, and while peace still remains to be signed with the Turks, and it also concerned that in appointing Saturday, July 19, for peace celebrations in all parts of the Dominion.

Plan To Rebuild War-Swept Nancy

NEW YORK, July 3.—A contract for rebuilding of the war-ravaged city of Nancy, France, has been awarded to the Vulcan Steel Products Company, of New York at an estimated figure of $250,000,000, it was said, may however, be increased to $500,000,000 before the gigantic task is completed.

Associated with the Vulcan Company in the Nancy enterprise are the McClintick - Marshall Construction Company and the Lockwood Brothers Company, two of the largest contracting firms in the United States. The contract calls for reconstruction of public buildings, factories, dwellings, roads and bridges.

Express Car Robbed After Train Wreck

G. T. R. Train From Toronto is Derailed Near Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, July 3.—The G. T. R. train leaving Toronto at 8.45 p.m. was wrecked a mile and a half west of this town on Monday evening. Evidently the rail spread just as the engine proper passed, derailing the tender, the baggage and mail car and the first two passenger coaches. A man in the baggage car was injured, but others escaped. The engine did not go off the track. Both tracks were torn up and traffic was delayed for some hours.

The express car, which was sent up on a siding, was rifled during the following night, and some passing motorists are said to have been responsible.

Daily Happenings of General Interest in the Busy Town on The Trent

(From our own Correspondent)

A peculiar case of temporary insanity occurred here, last evening when Mrs. George Harrington of Wellington, after paying a visit to a local doctor's office disappeared and on herure turning home an alarm was given and her friends and neighbors searched all night for her, scouring the countryside and the search was continued today, finally relatives went to a local printing office and were in the act of getting notices printed of her disappearance when she appeared in the baggage room of the C. N. R. station. Friends were immediately notified and came for her and took her home. On being questioned she could not tell where she had been or what she had been doing, but apparently was in a daze and almost collapsed. Relatives say they never knew her mind to be affected before.

Ministerial Work Well Performed

Rev. Benj. Greatrix, one of the most highly esteemed and successful clergymen in the Bay of Quinte Conference, retired from the active ministry when he preached his final sermon as pastor of St. James' Church Peterboro on Sunday last. While life is left him, however he will remain a power for good in the church and the community, and at last will leave behind him a record of good works that will endure for all time.

Mr. Greatrix was born in London, nearly sixty years ago, and came to Canada in 1861 with his parents. His first start in life was as a farmer, and he afterward learned the blacksmith trade, these strenuous occupations developing the physical strength that has been one of his best assets through his ministerial career. He spent three and a half years as a student in Victoria College at that time located in Cobourg, and distinguished himself in class work, winning special honors as an elocutionist. He was ordained into the ministry at the meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference held in the George Street Methodist Church in this city in 1885. His first charge was at Athelney, a field forty by twenty miles in extent, and containing nine appointments. He travelled from place to place in a buggy over roads that were of primitive construction and at certain seasons almost impassable. Driving on Sunday night he was twenty-two miles from home. Two of his superintendants of those days are still living. These are Rev. W. C. Washington of Toronto, and Rev. J. C. Wilson bu t one time as pastor of Mark Street Church, Ashburnham. Among the charges that he held and the time of each was three years at Little Britain, Cannington and Typhon, four years at Campbellford, Port Perry and Oshawa, and three years in Belleville.

In every charge which he has held Mr. Greatrix has made good in the three-fold capacity of preacher, pastor and business manager. Year after year in every place where he has officiated the finances of the church have shown an increase, and this always means a corresponding growth in the membership and spiritual life of the congregation. No people will increase their offerings under a pastor who does not enjoy the fullest measure of their confidence and esteem.

Among the positions which Mr. Greatrix has filled was that of president and secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference. He has been chairman of four district conferences, holding that position here last year, and has been four times a delegate to the General Conference.

Many Local Soldiers Arrive Home

The following local soldiers arrived at Kingston this morning and are expected in Belleville this evening:

Bandsman W. H. Sills of 24 Holloway street. He went over with the 80th Band.

Private T. F. Wims of 22 Starriett street, who has been serving in the Sixth Reserve.

Private B. V. Brown of 3 Wilkins street. He enlisted with the 155th Battalion and was transferred to the Sixth Reserve.

Trumpeter H. Funn of Victoria Ave. He has been serving with a heavy battery in the First Division.

Private P. H. Tilley of 281 William street. He arrived home Wednesday morning, having come over on the Scandinavian. He signed up with the 155th Battalion and has been serving in the 2nd Battalion. Private Tilley was accompanied by his bride who was formerly Miss Laren Taylor of Hornchastle, England.

Sapper L. J. Ivers, Herchimer Avenue. He signed up and went over with a draft of the Canadian Engineers from Brockville.

KINGSTON GOLFERS WON

A party of Belleville golfers to the number of ten went to Kingston on Tuesday afternoon, by invitation, to play a friendly game of golf with an equal number of Kingston players, on the links of the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club. After an excellent round of 18 holes, the clubs turned in by the respective players showed that the Kingston players had won out in every contest—in some cases rather easily, in other cases after a well-contested struggle. The Kingston players were in his fattle while, naturally, the visitors were handicapped by the fact that they were playing on unfamiliar links.

Following the match the visitors were entertained at dinner at the Frontenac Club, with President A. B. Cunningham in the chair, and an invitation was then extended the Kingston players for a return game in Belleville. This will be accepted.

The players were as follows:

Belleville—N. D. McFayden, Fred W. Smith, G. A. Bennett (President of the Belleville Club), Dr. B. Faulkner, Major W. J. Cook, D. O. Deacon, J. G. Moffatt, J. W. Davidson, Col. A. P. Allen, E. S. McKeown.

Kingston—Dr. McKee, C. G. Shannon, A. B. Cunningham (President of the Kingston Club), Dr. Ross, George E. Hague, M. Farrell, T. J. Rigney, C. Bermingham, S. R. Hicks, T. A. McGinnis.

RED SOX VS. TIGERS

Last evening an interesting but one sided game took place at Ann Street School Grounds between two Junior City League teams, namely the Red Sox and the Tigers. The game resulted in the fourth victory for the Red Sox over the Tigers. The opposing batteries were Cretery and Ashley and it was easily seen that Cretery had the edge over Ashley all through the game. The feature of the game was the slugging of Cretery and Baldree, both Red Sox players. This pair made many long hits, with Baldree, cracking out a home run list to show that Cretery isn't the only home run hitter the Red Sox have. Grant Ashley also made four hits all of which resulted in runs. Fred Myles with first base played the best game of his life last night, making all kinds of catches, which gave the infield confidence in their throwing. Marakas and Jose played their usual steady game on third and short and although they did not do anything worthy of special mention it, was noticed that nothing got past them. Latchford on second base played a very poor game than usual getting three runs. Herity in centre field played a good game, having to cover more ground than usual on account of one of the Red Sox failing to show up. Manager Earl Collins was delighted at the outcome of the game and it is feared by some that the Red Sox lost their first game to the Y.M.C.A. team and the Tigers beat the Y.M.C.A. Both these teams will beat the Sox. The Sox and the Y.M.C.A. team meet Friday night up at the Fair Grounds and any fan who witnesses the game may be assured of a good game as the Sox are out for revenge. Fully a hundred spectators were at the game last night and they all went home satisfied that they witnessed a good game. W. Gerow umpired and he was fair and impartial to both teams. This makes the tenth game the Sox have won and one they lost. The game that they lost was close, it being 7-6. The line up was as follows:

Red Sox—Baldree, Cretery, Myles, Latchford, Marakas, Jose, Herity, Ashley.

Tigers—Kemp, Ashley, Storks, Carson, Lowe, Barrage, Machonachie, Buskart.

The League standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Red Sox	10	1	.940
Tigers	6	5	.600
Maple Leafs	3	8	.100
Y. M. C. A.	3	8	.100

LOCAL GRAND TRUNK TEAM MEET PETERBORO' AT PORT HOPE TOMORROW

Game to be Played Under Protest

The Grand Trunk team go to Port Hope tomorrow, where they will play the Peterboro team. This is the result of the protest that Peterboro put in when Belleville won from them 5—4 on June the 14th, and which the Central Ontario League were led to believe that the Belleville fans were as bad as Germans by Solomon's pitiful plea to the league. Mr. Rosevear, the umpire of Port Hope, gave a written statement that the spectators in no way interfered with the play but as the Central Ontario League which should be known as Solomon's League (it looks as if he is running it), needed the money to keep going, and are after the big gate in Port Hope. The local club were not given any chance of defending the protest which was illegal in every way and on advice received will play the game under protest, if a loss is registered against them.

However, we are not very shakey about losing tomorrow's game if Freddy Goyer is working right. He is best team won at Belleville and we are confident that the best team will win at Port Hope. Our boys are using the hickory and with the best battery in the league should travel on without getting the stop signal. The game is called for 5.00 p.m. and it is thought that a large following will go from Belleville to give the boys support.

Time!

Well, replied Jones, that's long enough. He ought to return it.

It is Different Because It is Dry

In the last few years, powdered goods and milk have become almost synonymous in Canada, but Klim is the powdered milk for the dry forest. KLIM. It is so easy to order Klim from the grocer and use it from the can as needed. There's no waste with Klim; it remains sweet and fresh until all used. Saves bottle washing, sour milk waste and delay of meals waiting for the milkman.

Try a tin from your grocer.

Spring Fever What Is It?

THREE o'clock in the afternoon — and absolutely no pep. You call it spring fever, but is it?

When you are constipated waste matter remains in the intestines, decays, forms poisons which are absorbed into your blood and carried by it to every cell in your body. When your cells are thus poisoned, of course you have no "pep."

Pills, salts, mineral waters, castor oil, etc., merely force the bowels to act, and make constipation and self-poisoning a habit. Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels.

Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world. Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and watch your "pep" come back.

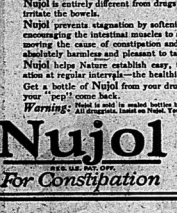

Warning: Refuse substitutes. All druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitution.

Week-Old Corns Should Be Unthinkable

These 7 positive facts are now known to millions.

The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever.

The corn itself can be ended completely, and usually in two days.

The method is scientific. It consists of attacking a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course. That's all.

The results have been proved by experience.

They have been proved so many people that corns are now comparatively an common.

Corn aches are needless.

Paring corns is folly.

Old-time harsh and msasy treatments have no place today.

You will know these facts, and quickly, if you'll try a Blue-jay on one corn. Do it tonight, and the whole corn question will settle itself forever.

"Aye, if he came here and saw me now," he said coldly, "then he would find a quite sufficient answer if he asked it a quarter of a mile from the mouth of our guns."

"Pshaw" he said, "you do not think I am afraid. We can afford to lose a few men. Numbers must tell in the end. But why talk to me like that? You know the reason of my inactivity. You know why I have spared your followers. You know why I, Count Guy of Marmorel, have forfeited my own honour as a knight."

"It is no honour to serve your king — a murderer and a tyrant. You swore to serve my father. He gave you your knighthood, yet you helped to steal the kingdom from his only child."

Count Guy came a little closer to her. "It is possible to make amends," he said in a low voice. She looked at him steadily. I do not know what he read in her eyes, but I saw his own flash dangerously.

"A man may make a mistake," he continued; "he may repent, and wish to make honourable amends."

"And why should Count Guy of Marmorel repent?" she asked. "He is high in the service of his king and may rise higher."

"Aye" he muttered, "and he may rise higher."

"He is a bulwark of his lord and master," she went on in a voice that must have cut the man to the heart, if he really loved her. "If all I hear be true, he has set up the rotten edifice he helped to build."

Count Guy was silent for a moment. Then a fierce passion seized him. He caught her by the arms and looked into her face as though he would devour it. "The bulwark is broken" he cried "shattered, crumbled into a thousand pieces—and you have broken it, and may break my heart as well. Lady Thora I have asked you to be my wife. I love you with all the passion of a man whose conquests have been on the battle-field rather than in the courts of love. I care for nothing if I have not you. The favours of the king! Bah, toys for fools! If you will consent to be my wife, I will forswear all, king, country, wealth, position, everything, absolutely everything! I will return with you in secret to the forts. We will embark on your ships. There is always a few hundred yards of clear water round these coasts. We will wait until the summer, until the ice breaks up, and we can return to those other countries you spoke of!"

I knew he spoke idly, for it was more than likely that the ice barrier would never be broken again. But the Princess Thora looked straight in to his eyes and I could read nothing from her face.

"I do not love you," she said slowly "I shall never love you, Count Guy of Marmorel. You are a brave and honorable soldier, according to the standard of this unhappy land, but there is much blood between us. I thank you for your offer. Made to a captive from whom you might have enforced favours and not sued for them, it does you much credit."

"I am the captive," he said losing her arms and striking across the room to the window "and you have made my captivity very hard for me."

"I am sorry," she replied simply. He returned swiftly to her side and in the white light of the flaming fires outside his armour looked like some tall pillar of flame.

"What do you tempt me?" he said; "you know I am all powerful in this castle. Why do you tempt me to do you wrong? I tell you my passion has so burnt up my brain, that before long I shall not know the difference between good and evil." Then suddenly pressed his great hands to his face and his whole frame shook. For a few seconds he did not speak; then he flung himself on one knee and kissed her hand.

"Forgive me" he cried hoarsely; "I know, too, that Count Guy of Marmorel is dead."

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

The Dragon Shows Here

All Next Week

The Pabish-Big Shows, which finished a big week at Kingston, opens in Belleville commencing Monday for one week, under the auspices of the A. and N. Veterans. Mr. Pobish has always given us the best for our money and this season this carnival attraction is bigger than ever. Fourteen cars are required for transport the show this season, so you can readily see it is a show of size. Many new and big novelties are connected with the carnival this season. Among them are Mail. Gay, the famous high diver, who dives from a horse 105 feet into a tub of water. He is a big free attraction. Another feature are the famous wrestlers in the athletic tent under the management of Nat Burker, the famous bicycle rider; famous oriental dancers and many other big features. Turn out all next week and boost the ex-citation which surely merits the support of all. This attraction has played Brockville, Kingston and Peterborough, and received the highest of praise from the press in all those cities.

HOGS ADVANCE IN PRICE

Mr. D. Scott and son today shipped from here a large number of live hogs was $22.25 per hundred weight as hogs was $22 per hundred weight, an increase of 40 cents over the price paid last week. Calves brought 16 cents per pound. Mr. Empson also made a shipment.

ABSENTEES APPREHENDED

Three young men who are attached to the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery at Kingston, were apprehended here last evening as absentees. An escort from Kingston arrived here today and took the absentees back to the Limestone City.

MONEY STOLEN

While Mrs. William Patience, Lans downe, was at work milking her cows at her home on Monday morning someone entered her residence and stole $20. Several cases of petty thieving have been reported in that district recently and a sharp lookout is being kept by the citizens for the miscreant.

HORSE KILLED BY TRAIN

Mr. William Henwood of the Township of Hope met with a very serious accident Tuesday. He was returning from his potato field with a horse and wagon and when crossing the C.N.R. the gravel train backed down striking the horse and killing it instantly. The wagon was badly demolished and Mr. Henwood was thrown a considerable distance. He received a very sever scalp wound and was badly shaken up.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC

The first excursion by boat since the Great War, took place yesterday to 12-o'clock Point, via Steamer Brockville, under the auspices of Bridge Street Church, and proved to be very successful. There was a rush for the morning boat and a number were left on the dock owing to the number of excursionists being larger than the boat could carry. It was the same in the afternoon. A large number who were unable to take advantage of the excursion during the day gathered at the wharf for the evening boat and were greatly disappointed to hear that owing to the large crowd at the Point it would be impossible to run the evening excursion.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

A young man appeared this morning before Magistrate Masson charged with an alleged serious offence. As the Crown was not prepared to proceed an enlargement of the case was made until Friday, the 11th inst.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON STREET

Driver O'Donnell of the A.S.C. Kingston, going out to the outer depot at five o'clock Wednesday morning to meet returning soldiers, found Edward Caryn, a returned soldier of Belleville, lying in an unconscious condition at the corner of Wallington and Barrack streets, with several cuts on his nose and face. It is said he is subject to weak spells and it is thought that attacked by one of these he fell on the walk, cutting his face. He was taken to the Hotel Dieu in R. Reid's ambulance and attended by Dr. Fergus O'Connor. He was able to leave the hospital at noon.

LAWRENCE HOLLEY

Many friends and relatives were yesterday in attendance at the funeral of the late Lawrence Holley, which took place from his late residence, Frank street. The funeral was under the auspices of the Sons of England. Rev. Dr. Scott, pastor of Bridge St. Church conducted the services at the house and Bros. W. E. Armitage and J. Savage presided at the graveside. The floral offerings were unusual and beautiful. The bearers were all members of the Sons of England—W. J. Bennett, C. Sutton, J. Fenn, C. Edwards, T. Weymark and C. Mason.

As illustrating the matter-of-fact way in which the average British bluejacket looks at things, Admiral Tyrwhitt relates how he was one day questioning a batch of men as to their accomplishments.

"Which of you men can swim?" he asked.

"I can, sir," said one.

"Good," answered Tyrwhitt. "Where did you learn?"

"Why—er—in the water, sir," came the unexpected reply from the rather mystified bluejacket.

N.C.-4 "Willard Equipped" on First Trans-Atlantic Flight

ALL THREE NAVY PLANES USE WILLARD BATTERIES ON BIG JUMP.

"Our Engines worked perfectly," said Commander Read of the N.C.-4.

The N.C.-4 carried Willard Batteries.

On the long jump, high in the air above the fog, the Willard Storage Batteries functioned perfectly, never a miss or a skip.

Ten S.O.R. Willard Batteries, with Threaded Rubber Insulation, were on the N.C.-4 as she blazed the new trail and made history. Four batteries were in use and six were held in reserve and never needed.

Absolute dependability and constant performance were essential—so Willard Batteries were chosen, and lived up to their reputation.

Every unit on the N.C.-4 flying boat had to pass a thorough inspection and rigid test before it was used. Willard Batteries were not chosen on reputation alone—they were selected because they earned and continued to earn that reputation.

Our customers will be interested in this fact. Everyone is talking about the wonderful feat of the N.C.-4, and we are proud of the part that Willard Batteries played in it.

Optimistic Explanation.

"You may talk about Beanbrough," said the fat plumber, "but he surely looks on the bright side of things."

"What has happened to Beanbrough?" the thin carpenter inquired.

"The other day I went with him to buy a pair of shoes."

"Uh huh"

"He didn't try them on at the store and when he got home he found that a nail was sticking right up through the heel of one."

"Did he make a fuss about it when he took the shoe back?"

"No. That's what I'm getting at."

"What did he do?"

"He told the clerk he supposed the nail was put there intentionally to keep the foot from sliding forward in the shoe."

Preliminaries At Championship Fight

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,

Canadian Press, Limited.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 4.—At 3.30 o'clock this afternoon Jess Willard, of Lawrence, Kansas, and Jack Dempsey, of Salt Lake City, Utah, met in a 12-round boxing match here to decide the heavyweight championship of the world. At their respective quarters this morning it was stated that both had slept well and were ready for the contest. From managers and principals came renewed expressions of confidence. The road to the park was alive and bustling at dawn. Police, state and soldiers were early at the grounds. In the arena carpenters were still busy putting on the final touches to the vast amphitheatre with its eighty thousand seats. Thousands of these were still on sale this morning. Detectives from all the principal cities of the land were mingling in the crowds, while five hundred Toledo citizens were secured to aid the regular city police in maintaining order. Willard was the favorite in betting today.

RINGSIDE, Toledo, July 4—Crowds began gathering in the great Arena early this afternoon to witness the Willard-Dempsey fight for the championship of the world. Comparatively little interest appeared to be taken in the seventy preliminary bouts which were staged this morning. At noon the crowd was rapidly gathering, the Arena being about one-third filled. Among thousands of contestants and collarless spectators was a good sprinkling of women.

At 12.45 p.m. the thermometer at ringside showed 112 degrees. By noon vertical sun was serving up to attendance an casserol. The breeze continued but confined its comforts to fluttering flags; it did nip into the bowl of the Amphitheatre. A small blaze was started at ringside by cigarette stump. It was extinguished with a pail of drinking water which happened to be at hand. A member of a big party from Ontario reported last word in fight enthusiasm. This man was totally blind, but paid sixty dollars for a seat under 112 degrees of sun for a show which he could only imagine from what his friends told him and from memories of fights of earlier days before his imprisonment in darkness.

New Brunswick Divorce Court Opens Before Jury

FREDERICTON, N.B., July 2.—A new era in the New Brunswick Divorce Court was marked to-day when the hearing of the suit of Lieut. Chas. Pitts Ketchum, was commenced before the first jury ever called in this province to hear a divorce case. The court is meeting at the Supreme Court Chambers in the Provincial Government Buildings, and the case gave early promise of developing into a bitterly fought legal contest.

Lieut. Pitts Ketchum was not in court, not having returned from England, where he went soon after the previous trial of the case when the jury was completed, but it was said he would be here some time today or to-morrow.

Haileybury In Line Of Bush Fire

HAILEYBURY, July 4.—The unchecked progress of the Sharp Lake bush fire toward the westerly outskirts of Haileybury resulted in the volunteer firemen being summoned for duty at the head of Browning street yesterday. The men have now lines laid, and the fire engine has been put in order. Operations during last evening were that the fire would pass between unless the wind which had risen in strength since yesterday morning veered to the west.

The Olsen and Neilson properties are reported to have been destroyed, and the only place we are personally threatened that a call for help was sent into town by the owner yesterday.

Latest reports from Boston Creek declare the danger past.

The Daily News says Ex-Emperor William will be brought to London and placed in the Tower of London. If found guilty at the trial he will be banished to St. Helena.

Put Hohenzollern In Tower of London

LONDON, July 4.—William Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, will be brought to England in a British ship and imprisoned in the Tower of London, according to The Daily Mail.

The death penalty will not be sought, the newspaper points out, but if he is found guilty the allies will ask his banishment for life to a remote island, following the precedent of Napoleon's exile on St. Helena.

The International Trial Court had intended to try the former Emperor alone, The Daily News says, but it is possible that the former Crown Prince Frederick William will also be arraigned before it.

Borden Gives Guthrie Place in Union Cabinet

OTTAWA, July 2.—Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Solicitor,General, has , it is understood, been given Cabinet rank.

In this the precedent is being followed of the appointment to the Cabinet of Hon Arthur Meighen, when Mr. Meighen likewise held the position of Solicitor-General.

The appointment of Mr. Guthrie to the Cabinet does not entail any change in portfolios.

Million For Graves And War Memorials

OTTAWA, July 4.—The supplementary estimates introduced by Sir Thomas White, in the House of Commons yesterday were:

$500,000 to provide for Canada's share of the expenditure by the Imperial War Graves Commission.

$500,000 for battlefield memorials in France and Belgium.

Printing Plant Raided

FORT WILLIAM, July 4.—The Royal North-West Mounted Police made a raid yesterday upon the home and printing office of Fred E. Moore, in the west-end of the city, and it is reported that a large quantity of literature was seized. Moore is secretary of the Trades and Labor Council here.

Lloyd George Will Take Needed Rest

LONDON July 4.—Premier Lloyd George will go into the country for a fortnight's rest. He will on his return take up the measures of reconstruction which were halted during his absence.

Mining Development of Hastings County Presented By An Expert

AN INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE PAPER BY MR. J. W. EVANS, C.E.—INCREASED DUTY ON IMPORTED FLUOR-SPAR SUGGESTED—CHEAPER ELECTRICAL POWER FOR INDUSTRIES DESIRED.

A meeting of the Hastings County Branch of the Canadian Mining Institute was held in the city building here last evening and was attended by a number who are interested in mining. During the afternoon the members while in the city made an inspection of the Tyrrel Steel Works and other plants also the power plant of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

In the absence of the President of the Branch, Mr. Darby of Deloro, was appointed chairman, and Mr. Elliott of Deloro the Secretary, read some communications. One of these was a reply from the head office in reference to the request from Hastings branch requesting the Government to place a duty of 20% ad valorem, also a duty of $1.50 per ton on ground and crude fluor spar imported into Canada from the diestrict which ensued it was ascertained that Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance had promised a revision of the tariff in the near future when this matter will be laid before him.

Mr. J. W. Evans, C.E., of this city, then read a very interesting and instructive paper:

The Application of Hydro-Electric Power To Mineral Development

The field for the development and treatment of minerals and metals in Canada is a very large one, and probably the most important and the one which will require the largest amount of power, is the smelting and refining of the extensive bodies of iron ores, known to exist throughout the Domiaion.

As early as 1620 the iron deposits of Hastings District were worked, and during the various times and extending over periods of eight or ten years with more or less success, until the last operations of the Deer Pig Iron from the U. S prevented the smelting of these hard ores, which are almost entirely magnetite. During late years the development of the electric furnace has demonstrated that magnetite ores are high in sulphur, and magnetic ores high in titanium, can be smelted successfully in the electric furnace where electric power can be had for a reasonable figure, and, as the ores of Hastings District are not suitable for blast furnace treatment, the only present available process for treatment is the electric furnace. With power at $18.00 per h.p. per year and charcoal at $14.00 per ton, Pig Iron can be made at the rate of one ton of Pig Iron per day, at a cost of about $25.00 per ton of Pig. The present market price of Pig Iron in the U.S. is $33.00 low phos. Pig being quoted at $40.00, both f.o.b. the furnace. The market for Pig Iron is slowly rising and it is unlikely that the price will drop below $30.00. There is available in Hastings District more than twenty million tons of iron ore, and, with the opening of the present mines, it is quite probable that large new deposits will be found throughout the district. The writer has stumbled on several hidden ore bodies while strongly attracted the magnet and which are as yet untouched and are not counted in this estimate. A fully output of five hundred tons would mean more than one hundred years supply. The industry would not be, by any means, a small one. There are other uses for electrical power, such as smelting Molybdenite Concentrates for the manufacture of Ferro-Molybdenum but there are extensive deposits of Molybdenite throughout the Hastings District. There are large bodies of sulphide available for the manufacture of sulphuric acid and the iron residue from a sulphide plant makes a very fair iron ore. It is too high in sulphur to be used in a blast furnace without mixing it with low sulphur ores but with the electric furnace treatment it makes a good grade of low sulphur pig.

If a smelting plant were built at Belleville of a size sufficient to treat five hundred tons a day, it would mean the use of 15,000 h.p. and the development of a steel industry which would, in turn, bring many other industries in its train. Very little is known at present of the composition of many of our Hastings County ores; as an instance, it has only been recently shown that the Titaniferous ores carry 0.4% Vanadium and that the Vanadium can be retained in the Pig Iron and Titanium slagged off. Vanadium at present is worth $2.00 a pound, which means that every ton of this Titaniferous ore contains $12.00 worth of Vanadium.

In 1906 the writer read a paper before the Canadian Mining Institute meeting in Quebec on the manufacture of steel from these Titaniferous ores and recognized the benefit derived from titanium and vanadium. Dr. Stansfield of McGill University, Montreal, read a paper on the direct smelting of these Titaniferous ores of Hastings County, and mentioned the high class steel made from them and quoted the writer's opinion that the titanium, nickle and vanadium in the ore, possibly account for the high quality of the steel. These steel tools sent to McGill University were tested and found to be superior to the Firth steel. Some steel was also made at the Tyrrel plant in 1912 are still in use at the Rolling Mills in Belleville, and are doing excellent. There is no question about the quality of the metal made from these Titaniferous ores in an electric furnace, and with the enormous bodies of ore, which are to be found throughout Canada and the amount of water power available, in many cases as yet undeveloped and the ever increasing cost of fuel, this, an industry started in Belleville would develop others of like nature in other parts of Canada; so that Belleville in this County was the pioneer county in making the first iron in Ontario, and the pioneer in the direct smelting of Titaniferous ores, and may yet be the pioneer of the iron and steel industries in Ontario, utilizing all Canadian ores and all Canadian magnetic for the complete conversion of ores into refined steel.

Hastings County had District has deposits of other minerals which could supply the iron and steel and the iron industry; among them may be mentioned Chalcopyrite, Galena, Fluorite, Barite, Graphite, Molybdenite, Talc, Rock for Road Metal, and Marble.

Electric power is also in demand for the manufacture of Lime and other non-Ferrous alloys. Deloro, Ontario, is the home of the non-Ferrous alloy, Stellite, the best cutting tool alloy on the market, and the plant of the Deloro Reduction Works where this high-priced alloy is manufactured, in its various forms, employs 60 to 70 hands and turns out an amount of considerable value per annum.

It may be of interest to mention the early history of mining in Hastings District. As early as 1820 ore was mined at the Blairton Iron Mine on Crow Lake. This is the eastern extension of the iron ore bearing belt across the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th Concessions of Marmora Township, Hastings County. Mine itself is situated in Peterboro County the smelter where the ore was treated was located at Marmora on the Crow River. An early analysis of the ore gave the following:

Metallic Iron	65.10%
Silica	2.85"
Alumina on	2.35"
Lime	2.93"
Magnesia	0.93"
Sulphur	0.097"
Phosphorus	0.005"
Sulphur	0.07"

Later analysis showed more sulphur and the writer also found Cobalt and nickle in this ore, one result giving 0.23% nickle and cobalt. The sulphur varied from 0.16% to 0.27%. Between 1820 and 1856 this mine and 1858 this mine was worked at various times and the ore smelted at Marmora. In 1825 it became the property of the Hon. Peter McGill, Montreal In 1831 an Act was passed, incorporating the Marmora Iron Foundry. Business was started on until 1837 when the mine was sold to Mr. Van Norman. In 1847 Mr. Van Norman moved to Marmora and spent $30,000 more in the plant, installing machinery, ovens, and blowing apparatus, cutting coedwood, and making charcoal for the furnace. The furnace was in blast in the summer of 1848 but the amount of iron produced for a given quantity of fuel was much less than had been estimated and disappointment and loss attended the enterprise.

The iron had to be carted thirty-two miles to Belleville over a rocky road, in many places corduroy. The road was so bad that a new route was laid out from the mine at Crow Lake to Healey Falls on the Trent and the Pig Iron was taken by steamer to Rice Lake and carted twelve miles to the

Aged Milk Vendor Cut To Pieces By Tram

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, Ont., July 4.—William Merkle, aged 74, a well known dairyman living near Eastwood, Ont., was cut to pieces by a fast east bound Grand Trunk Express early this morning while crossing the track. It is thought Merkle mistook the express for a milk train. The train did not stop and the engineer knew nothing of the accident until he found indications of the accident on the cow catcher when the train reached Brantford.

Demobolization By End of August

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

OTTAWA, July 4.—In the Commons this morning, Major-General Mewburn announced that from the time of the armistice to the end of June, 289,627 men had been demobolized. There were still in England about twenty thousand who would have been home by now, but for the strike. He expected all would be demobolized by the end of August.

Hamilton Police Find Two Stills

HAMILTON, July 4.—Two illicit stills were seized by the police and inland revenue officers Thursday afternoon. At 22 Vine street, tenanted by Mike Gorna, a Roumanian Jew was found the most complete distillery of the kind yet discovered in the city, with a capacity for producing 60 gallons of whiskey at a time. The equipment was taken to the police station. Several gallons of the finished product were also confiscated, as well as nearly 300 gallons of work in process of fermentation. The raid was conducted shortly before 3 o'clock by Constables Kay and Beckett, accompanied by W. A. D. Baby, of the Inland Revenue Department. In an upstairs room of the house was found the still in operation, with Metra Melnik in charge. The man was handcuffed and when questioned by the police told contradictory stories concerning his part in the work.

Says Peace Ends Order Of Prohibition

OTTAWA, July 4—If the two Houses of Parliament remain firm in the positions they have respectively adopted regarding the prohibition measure and neither will give way about a compromise, the bill will fall to the ground. The order-in-Council will then remain in operation. The Justice Department has given an opinion that that order can have no legal effect after the War Measures Act ceases to be in force with the proclamation of peace. There has, of course, however been no judicial decision on the point.

Over Manning Of Inside Civil Service

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

OTTAWA, July 4.—The Special Committee of Commons which investigated the inside civil service, has reported that over manning of inside civil service exists to a considerable degree in many departments and leave of absence is generally being utilized to an unreasonable degree. The investigation will be continued next session.

COBOURG BATTERY REUNION

COBOURG, July 4.—At a meeting held at the armouries of the men who enlisted in the Cobourg Heavy Battery during the war it was proposed that a reunion be held here with a military tatoo at night. A committee was appointed to secure the names of the men who went from Cobourg in the eleven drafts that were recruited here and communicate with them.

NEW YORK RESORTS TO WATER AS A DRINK

NEW YORK, July 4.—That New York has resigned itself to prohibition was indicated to-day when it was learned that 25,000,000 more gallons of water were consumed here on July 1 than on June 30.

According to the latest statistician of the water department 637,000,000 gallons of municipally supplied water were used. On July 1, 662,000,000 gallons passed through the spigots.

Big Dirigible Nearing End of Voyage

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 4.—The position of the British dirigible R-34 according to a report received by the Air Ministry at three o'clock this morning was 60.30 north latitude and 43.40 west longitude. This gives the position of the craft as just east of Newfoundland. A message received by the Air Ministry from the R-34 at 6.45 said: "We are flying at one thousand feet. All well on board. We expect to reach New York on Friday."

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., July 4.—British wireless has received a report from R34 saying the dirigible is expected to cross Newfoundland for north of St. John's this morning over the southern extremity of Notre Dame Bay, thence proceeding to Bonne Bay on west coast, going down the Gulf of St. Lawrence and reaching Canadian Mainland from the direction of Cape Breton or Prince Edward Island.

She Drives Her Car Thro' Robber Band

ST. THOMAS, July 4.—A daring attempt on the part of five masked men to hold up George Cloes, a well-known local shoe merchant, was frustrated by the presence of mind of Mrs. Cloes, who was driving her husband's car, and who, immediately when the command to stop was given by the leader of the gang, threw of the clutch and sped swiftly by the would-be robbers, forcing them to beat a hasty retreat from the centre of the road.

The occurrence took place on a lonely part of the Fingal road, about four miles south-east of this city, at midnight Wednesday.

Mr. Cloes was enabled to get a good look at the men and furnished the county authorities with their descriptions yesterday.

LONDON, July 4.—At the end of this week there will be only 40,000 Canadians in England. These will be largely composed of headquarters staffs and hospital cases. Sailings are proceeding without interruption and there has been no further trouble at the docks. To offset the newspaper sort of advertising the Canadians secured as a result of the recent camp disturbances there are letters from the Mayors of Canadian cities, Editors, Editorials of all three of which cities Canadian soldiers are well known, expressing the high opinion of the conduct of the Dominion troops who had been there on duty or on leave.

Sir Richard Kemp, Overseas Minister of Militia, returns here next week and will either continue in office here for some months or hand over the duties to the Militia Department.

Old Lady Remains With Trust in God

HAILEYBURY, July 4.—Within two or three miles to the west of Haileybury one aged lady with the forest fire only two hundred feet away from her buildings, refused to be taken away, declaring that she had placed her trust in God and He would bring her through to safety. The appeals of the Mayor and of a local preacher were of no avail.

WILL NOT MODIFY ORDER RE RACE TRACK BETTING

Premier Borden's announcement in the House on Thursday that no change or modification could be made in the order-in-Council prohibiting race-track betting until six months after peace is signed, comes as a boomerang to the horsemen, who thought the Government would meet them half-way, considering that the fighting stopped last November.

Would Marry German Girls

COBLENZ, July 4.—The American military authorities here have received from one hundred and forty American soldiers and officers applications for permission to marry German girls. One German girl yesterday applied for the permission, but was refused. It is expected was too useful to be extended to ask for permission.

The total of 140 is expected to be swelled materially as soon as the anti-fraternization military rule is taken off and assurance is given that evidence of the violation of the anti-fraternization rule will be strictly enforced. While, ever since the Americans have been here it has been against the military rule to associate with German girls, it has been known all along that the rule was being broken, but it was realized that a strict enforcement of it, in districts where Americans were billeted in German homes, was impossible.

From Private to Major.

The military authorities have taken no action on these applications, which, to tell the truth, have been made under the relaxation of the anti-fraternization rule had already been licensing. No action is probable until each man or officer who wishes to marry has made application through channels and it is considered unlikely that arrangements will be made by which they may marry the German girls of their choice before peace has been definitely established. The rank of those who wish to marry German girls ranges from private to major.

Woman Hampers Hubby on Head In A Dream

LONDON, July 4—In the British House of Commons today there was a scene like that in the "Follies" when carred in the "suffragette" days during the debate after the Prince's speech from the throne. Members shouted: "There is no need to send men to Russia. The war is over!"

Attendants carried her out struggling and crying that her husband was sent to Russia.

Another woman took up the cry, and while she was being carried out two more had a fit fight. The police were then cleared.

ON MEMORIAL COMMISSION

Kingston, July 4.—Col. H. W. Hughes, R.E., of Kingston, has been appointed Canadian commissioner on the Imperial Battlefield Memorial Commission. Col. Hughes will leave for Europe on September 1 to begin his duties, and he will be accompanied by Lieut. T. Adderley, C.E., who has had much experience in constructing models of trench systems for instructional purposes.

FOUND MILITARY STORES

KINGSTON, July 4.—A search was taken out to search the home of Sergt.-Major Herbert Fowler, and a large quantity of military blankets, coats, boots and other military goods were found and seized by the city and police. Fowler was handed over to the military authorities for court-martial.

CANADIANS ARE BACK FROM ARCHANGEL FRONT

London, July 4.—The Canadian artillery, which has been assisting General Ironsides and his mixed command of British, American and Russians in operations over an area of some 300 miles in the Archangel zone, has arrived at Ripon, and sails for home at the end of the month.

Mining Development of Hastings County Presented By An Expert

dock at Cobourg. This was a saving in transportation charge and, as Pig Iron sold readily at between $30.00 and $35.00 per ton, it looked as if the proposition would become a success. However, about this time the canals between the St. Lawrence River was completed and foreign Pig Iron was brought into Cobourg and sold at $16 per ton which ended the business of the Marmora Foundry.

The Iron made was of a superior quality the furnace charge being made up as follows:—400 lbs. of ore to 231 lbs. of Limestone, and sixteen bushels of Charcoal. For a time profit of $6.50 was made on the Pig Iron produced, from five to seven tons being made per day.

A Charcoal Blast furnace for smelting magnetic ores was erected at the village of Madoc in 1856-57 and was worked with varying success for eight or nine years. The Manager was Mr. Urish Seymour. The company of which Mr. Seymour was an active partner operated a furnace in Wayne County, N. Y., and tested some samples from the Seymour Mine on Lot 11, Concession 5, in the Township of Madoc. Three and a half tons of ore were treated in New York and it was found to improve the quality of the ore made from U. S. ores. First a fourth, and then a half of the Canadian ore was used and the Iron produced became softer and stronger. Later Canadian ore alone was charged and a still better quality of Iron was obtained.

These results being considered satisfactory, Mr. Seymour erected a furnace at Madoc in 1857 and put it in blast, Limestone was used as a flux and three different blasts were started materials found in the neighborhood for the purpose. Each of these blast trials the Hearthstone was rapidly cut out by the slag and the furnace became unworkable. Supposing that the hearthstones were of poor quality, a new hearth was ordered from Rossie N. Y. of the same material as was used in the furnaces there. The furnace was again started with the blast a only tuyere. The same flux was used as formerly and the same slag produced, cutting into the Rossie stone as it had ever done with the material previously used. t was thus demonstrated the former hearthstone were not at fault, and Mr. Seymour altered the flux, substituting for limestone a sandy clay. The blast was stopped t the damaged tuyere and introduced the one kept unused. Very soon the character of the slag changed. It became mild, did not cut into the hearthstone and kept fluid and in motion long after it had left the furnace. The Iron was of excellent but the stock of charcoal had become exhausted and t was impossible to produce enough charcoal in the burners, then available, to keep up the supply. Reduced to extremity, Mr. Seymour caused coal wood to be cut up into lengths of two feet and used instead of charcoal. For seventy-five days he continued to work his furnace with the same fuel and with only one tuyer, producing a good slag and an excellent Iron, to the extent of one ton daily. About eighty tons were produced during the blast and cast into stoves, potash kettles, and other utensils, besides a small quantity of Pig Iron which found a ready sale in Belleville at $27.00 per ton. Encouraged by his success in smelting with wood alone as fuel, Mr. Seymour repaired the furnace and started it again with wood as fuel and two tuyers at work. From two to two and a half tons of Iron were produced daily but it was an inferior quality. Castings made with it cracked in cooling. Mr. Seymour was led to suppose that this was caused by the wood descending too quickly before it had become sufficiently charred, and that this did affect the quality of the Iron was proved by stopping one of the tuyers. The daily production sank to one and a quarter tons but the good quality of the Iron was restored and the furnace kept in blast for three months. The daily product was, however, too small and smelting with an explosion in the mine. The difficulty of setting with his heirs was added to the financial difficulties of the firm and Mr. Seymour was obliged to suspend smelting operations.

The ores of Hastings District are similar to the magnetites being electrically smelted in Norway and Sweden at the present time. The writer has made a careful estimate of the known available supply in Hastings District, taking the Basic-the Magnetometric maps of the Surveys of the Province, Department of Mines at Ottawa and basing the depth of the ore body from diamond drill holes and shafts on the properties, and if where no depth is known basing it on an assumption of one hundred feet in depth.

The ore bodies are all available. As ore supplies for a smeltering situated at Belleville and will last for more than one hundred years if used at the rate of five hundred tons per day.

COST

The cost of smelting as stated above treating 200 tons of ore per day to make 100 tons of Pig Iron, would be $25.00 per ton when electric power could be had at $10.00 per h. p. per year. In order to open up the Iron mines and make a commencement at developing on our own Steel industry the Dominion Government are asked to grat a bonus of $10.00 per ton on the ore mined, and the Ontario Government will be asked to grant power (15,000 h. p.) at $10.00 per h. p. per year, for two years until the industry is on its feet, and then a price of $15.00 per h. p. per year.

The Steel industry is the backbone of every country where Iron ores are to be had and when the ores are refractory it is up to the country which wishes to advance to find the means of treatment. The method of treatment has already been found, and it is up to th Government of Canada to assist in the development of our own Iron ore bodies. With a bonus of $10.00 per ton and a market at hand there will be no trouble in securing two hundred tons of ore per day, and it would be a very short time before there would h room for a second 200-ton unit and h demand for another 15,000 h. p.

A brief discussion followed the reading of the paper during which Mr. Ireland, engineer of the Hydro Electric Power Commission stated that it was visionary to expect power at $10 or $15 per horse power, as it could not be done unless the Govera-farmer, ment declined to accept the offer.

Mr. Evans—asked Mr. Ireland if it was not a fact that there were some thousands horse power available on the Trent River.

Mr. Ireland—Not what is generally supposed to be. The power is limited and is by no means 100,000 as some think.

Mr. Evans—A steel plant is the backbone for other industries and should be encouraged by the power commission and Government. The Government will be approached in the matter.

The following motion was unanimously adopted:

That the Council of the Canadian Mining Institute be requested to sanction the Hastings branch applointing two delegates to join delegates of the Hastings Development Association in approaching the Ontario Government regarding mineral development in Hastings County.

Messrs. J. W. Evans and F. S. Pearce of Marmora, were appointed as delegates from the meeting.

After votes of thanks had been tendered to Mr. Evans for his paper and courtesy extended to the members and Mr. Carter of the Hydro Electric the meeting adjourned.

Successful Lawn Social At Roslin

The Presbyterians of Roslin held a very successful lawn social on the church grounds Wednesday evening when a number from Belleville motored out to participate in the pleasures of the evening. The ladies conducted an ice cream booth and served lunch to those present after which the pastor, the Rev. Mr. McDonald, delivered a short address and called on W. C. Mikel, K.C., who made a few humorous references and said that we now feel like enjoying ourselves after the close of the Great War. The war has done the world good and taught us useful lessons. The British Empire has kept Germany from defeating Belgium's neutrality at great cost of men and treasure. This great act will live in history and be referred to as an act of nobility till the end of time. There has been a distinct advance along the lines of temperance in the world as a result of the war. There has been a broadening along the lines of religion. The Jew and Gentile, the Roman Catholic and Protestant have fought together for the same cause, have eaten, slept and bled in the same trench. The effect of this will never die.

One of the evils, however, of the war we have inherited is Bolshevism. This system threatens to strike a blow at constituted authority, democracy, labor and religion. This system really got its impetus from the Hun, who having found that he failed after the battle of the Marne, fire and submarines, gathered the direlicts of humanity, the anarchistical monomaniacs. They may be sincere but that only makes them more dangerous.

The Foxboro band rendered a genous number of selections during the evening.

Wedding Bells

NAPHAN — HORRIGAN

A very quite but pretty wedding took place on Monday June 23rd at St. Charles Church, Read Ont., when Mary J. Horrigan was united in the holy bonds of Matrimony to Michael D. Naphan by Rev. Father McCarty. The bride wore a dress of cream satin and crepe, and a picture hat trimmed with osprey and roses. Margaret Horrigan, sister of the bride and John Kenny witnessed the ceremony, after which they returned to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. The bride received many costly gifts which showed esteem in which she was held among them was a substantial cheque the present of the groom. After breakfast they motored to Marysville where they left for Toronto, Buffalo and other western points, on their return they will reside in their home in Roslin, where the groom is a prosperous young

BEER QUANTITIES OF ALCOHOL INJURIOUS

There is reliable evidence from many sources that the amount of alcohol consumed by the average beer drinker is injurious. The record of forty-three American life insurance companies showed that policy holders, who at the time of applying for insurance were in the habit of drinking two glasses of beer daily, had an average death rate 16 per cent higher than the normal death rate.

The figures of beer consumption in the United States give an average of a glass of beer a day for every man, woman and child in the country. As there are millions of men, besides the women and children, who never touch beer, it is evident that those who do use it must on an average considerably exceed the daily amount that the life insurance records showed contributed to shortening life, and at least equal the amount that scientific tests have shown injurious.

It was beer quantities of alcohol (equivalent to from one to four glasses of 4 per cent beer) that Joss found progressively impaired during three hours the working ability of student from 43% to 12.5% and that Kraeplin found impaired preception such as is needed by engineers, mathematics, chauffeurs, sentries.

It was a beer quantity of alcohol (equivalent to 1½ pints (3 glasses of 4% beer) that Frankfurter found increased by 17 times mistakes in typeing, and that Aschaffenburg found decreased by 8.7% the work of typesetters.

Scientific experiment show that the habitual taking two glasses of beer daily is just as surely submitting his body and mind to the injurious effects of the drug alcohol as the man who chooses the whiskey road.

Blockade of Germany Will Be Lifted

PARIS, July 4—Conciliatory and satisfactory assurances have been received by the allied powers in response to thir communication to the German Government stating that the blockade of Germany will be lifted when the treaty is ratified by the German. The German Government's note said the National Assembly at Weimar was expected to ratify the treaty early next week, and President Ebert would carry out the terms faithfully.

In the communication the German Government expresses the hope that with the lifting of the blockade the allied powers would also arrange to release German prisoners of war.

The attitude of the German Government created an excellent impression in allied quarters. Continuance of that attitude is certain to result in willingness of the allies to show most favorable consideration toward Germany in carrying out the peace conditions.

"I have been in like case before," she replied, "when I was weak and foolish. When I am brave and sensible, only see a gallant band of strong-hearted men who will not rest till they have torn your king from this throne!" As she spoke her eyes flashed and she drew herself to her full height. Count Guy folded his arms and regarded her with a faint smile.

"Lady Thora," he said in a cold and quiet voice, "it is possible to be both brave and foolish. You know as well as I do that you are a prisoner in an almost impregnable castle, that twenty thousand men are at my service to keep you here, and that your expedition is doomed."

She was silent. Then she suddenly turned round on him. "Why do you wish to impress these facts on my mind so strongly?" she asked in a low voice. "What do you mean, Count Guy?"

He did not answer for a moment, but looked upon the ground, and a red flush came to his cheek. Then, after the pause, he raised his eyes on her face.

"I mean," he said slowly, "that there are but a thousand men in the king's army who would follow me anywhere and in any cause, and that the king himself retains his throne by the will of his soldiers. Do you understand me now?"

A strange and new light flashed in to her face, and my heart grew cold as I watched her features. Then it died away and gave place to a quick look of horror and disgust.

"I understand you, Count Guy," she answered "the king is fortunate in having such a servant. I did not know it was possible to buy the honor of a knight of Asturnia."

"I can bear your taunts," he said in a quiet, unmoved voice; "we are discussing business now. I have made you an offer and have named the price."

She moved away from the window, and her feet struck the sword that lay upon the floor. She stopped suddenly and laughed.

"I understand you now, Count Guy" she said contemptuously; "you have played the part of an ardent lover to perfection. You have not been worthy me, but a kingdom. By yourself you could never reach the throne. I am the daughter of a king to whose memory all the poorer classes do still do reverence. If I were by your side the whole country would rise and support our arms. I am your stepping-stone, and you tempt me with an offer that which is nearest and dearest to my heart. I do understand you, Sir Guy Count!"

He made a step towards her and caught her by the wrists. "By all the saints!" he cried out, "you do me a great wrong, Lady Thora. It is not I who have tempted you. It is you who have tempted me—to sacrifice my honor as a knight. I love you more than a thousand kingdoms. Can you not read it in my face? Can you not hear it in my voice?"

She looked at him coldly. "When I was in England," she said, "I saw men and women pretend to do what they were not, and feign emotions which they did not feel—for the amusement of the people. They feigned the passion of love most wonderfully."

"You will drive me mad," he cried hoarsely.

There is however," she continued in cold, even tones, "no need to discuss the question of love. It is indifferent to me whether you love me or not—perhaps, than my woman's vanity is a little piqued. Your proposed bargain is a purely commercial one. I do not love you, and it is perhaps better that there should be no sentiment on either side."

"You are right," he replied in a voice as calm as her own. "It is purely a matter of business. Look on me as an instrument, a means to an end an opportunity of gratifying the true love of your heart—the welfare of your country. On the one hand, I sell you an army and—my honour."

"On the other," she replied "I sell you the key to the hearts of the people —and myself. It is well to be plain about the matter."

"It is well to be plain," he said. "These are the terms. Do you accept or refuse them?"

She turned once more to the window and looked out to where the great barrier of ice stretched along the horizon. From the look on her face I think she realized that Count Guy had spoken the truth. The fate of the expedition was sealed. Her followers were rats in a trap, waiting until their foes chose to kill them. My heart was sick with pain and apprehension. She could fulfil her dearest hopes and ambitions with a single word, and with the same word could strike out all the happiness from my life.

Count Guy came to her side. "Before you choose," he said "I would place the matter clearly before you. I can fulfil my part of the bargain. The king has oppressed his country and his throne is tottering on its founda tions. You yourself have said that I support it. If I withdraw my support the kingdom falls. I will take no advantage of you. I will not ask you to marry me until you have been crowned Queen of Asturnia. There will be no misalliance. The blood of kings runs in my own veins."

She was silent and looked out across the ice. And even as she looked, the threat Finn suddenly died on mind and the night began. And with them all hope died out from my heart.

"For I had expected an indignanta rejection of the offer, a few scathing words of scorn a sharp d'smissal of the subject. But she was only silent.

"Do you know too?" he continued, "that your followers are in revolt? They have watched the ice close in upon them until they are sick with terror Three-quarters of the men are for leaving you to your fate. Any moment these ships of yours may go west in search of some escape from their prison. It is time for making scruples and delays. Remember that: this is merely a marriage of convenience and remember too, that by morrow you may lokk from that window and see nothing but an empty sea and sky and ice."

"How do you know this?" she asked quickly, without looking at him.

"I have been in correspondence with your officers," he replied; "I have suggested to Sir Thule de Brie the possibility of my assistance."

"And did you mention the price you ask?"

"No, I did not mention the price, I ask. I do not ask it of Sir Thule de Brie."

Again there was silence, and I heard nothing but the beating of my own heart and the rustling of the rushes as Count Guy stirred them with one of his feet.

"Remember your love for your country," he said after a pause; "your ember your oppressed people."

But still there was silence.

"Your followers have sacrificed their lives in this cause," he continued. "Are you prepared to sacrifice anything?"

AVONDALE

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough of Toronto, are home visiting the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Thompson.

Miss Winnifred Palmer has returned home after visiting in Napanee.

Mrs. Alexander Avondale attended the surprise party at the home of Mr. F. E. Wilson, on Monday evening.

Miss Erma Champaign spent the week-end at the home of Mr. W. Pope of Victoria.

Mrs. Ada Jones and son Clinton of Toronto, are renewing acquaintances in this community.

Mr. Frank Reid and family motored to Campbellford on Sunday.

Mrs. W. Hant of Shilton visited her sister, Mrs. Chas. Champaign last week.

Mr. Jean Marvin and family have the sympathy of the community in their recent sad bereavement; also Mrs. J. Loyst, who buried her brother Mr. W. Rosabo-rugh on Wednesday the 18th.

Mr. Clifford Champaign spent Sunday at Canifton.

Mr. J. Bernard of Toronto, is visiting at the home of Mr. J. Martin.

Mr. Burton Iemmon took dinner with his sister, Mrs. Fred Helm on Wednesday.

A number from here motored to the Sand Banks on Sunday.

An event of much interest took place in the school grounds on Tuesday evening when friends and pupils of Miss L. Robiln gathered to spend an hour with her before her departure from Avondale. For the past two years Miss Robiln has conducted school in such a manner as to gain the respect of all. The evening was spent in games, recitations, songs, etc., refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Miss Gladys Sharpe read the following address, while Miss Blanche Hoag charmingly attired in pink silk and carrying a beautiful basket of roses, presented Miss Robiln with a small gift. Although taken by surprise Miss Robiln adequately responded to the hearty applause rendered her. The address was as follows:

Miss L. R. Robiln:

We, your scholars and friends of Avondale have gathered here tonight for the purpose of expressing in a small measure how we appreciate your stay in our midst; as a teacher you have proven by the progress of the children to be all that parents could wish for, not only in your school work but in your true moral every day life has been an example for the scholars to live after. We remember your prayers in our league and in every way the spirit of Christian endeavor has made our school a spiritual feasts. We have appreciated and was proud to have a teacher of such a character and we regret very much to see you leaving us.

We realize that what is our loss is other's gain. We feel assured that wherever your field of labor may be those about you will not only be benefitted by your teachings but by your pleasant personality. We will gain many friends as you have in our midst. We now present you with a sunburst of pearls, and may you in wearing them feel that each pearl is a remembrance of a friend.

Signed on behalf of Avondale Public School and friends,

Percy Mott,
Gladys Sharpe,
Lena Bates,
Arthur Bills,
Hazel Denyes.

PAPER MAKERS' PROFITS

The Financial Post says: "The tremendous increase in profits exhibited by a section of the pulp and paper industry brought about an investigation by the Government. At once came a drop of 20 per cent. in prices. That was followed by strenuous efforts to call off or impede the inquiry. It has been going on in spite of continuous official delay. The Government auditor, accepting the figures supplied by the only company whose figures are obtainable—though the investigation started over two years ago—show that the average profits per pound of paper in the first half of 1918 were nearly 300 per cent. greater per pound than what they were in 1914. And in 1914 this company paid 7 per cent. dividends on its preferred stock which, in all probability, will be found to represent the total investment in the enterprise. Another company that had been paying regular dividends for years got into the control of a promoter, who watered the stock—doubling it without putting more money in—and they are now paying good dividends on the watered stock. Canadian publishers using this paper have no protection from their United States competitors, who have been buying paper at from 33½ to over 50 per cent. lower prices."

CANADA AND SHIPPING.

The Daily Express of London, England, recently under the heading of "Inter-Imperial Shipping: Plea for Building under State Aid and Control," contained a statement from "a prominent Canadian business man who just arrived in London." He stated that in his opinion the vital question of the moment was tonnage, and that Canada was unable to send to Europe all the urgent materials she can supply for purposes of reconstruction if shipping is not available. He added:

"As a nationalisation of shipping would mean England's doom as a merchant marine power, we must look to some other method of control such as subsidy or reduced taxation for ships trading inter-imperially, but in order to give effect to our imperial programme something more solid than high-sounding phrases and copy-book platitudes such as 'Trade follows the flag' must be used as the real connecting link.

"Practice must follow, and, indeed, ought to precede phrases. The Empire's resources are boundless, and we ought to harness them by action rather than eloquence.

"Britain's financial burden has been the greatest in the war, and in order that she shall quickly recuperate the trade of the Empire must be developed.

"Much developing our lagd areas in Canada we have had to link up place to place with railroads. That was vital to the development of dominions overseas. These railroads have had to be built with Government aid and under a certain amotnt of Government guidance and control. Just as internal transport was needed and must increase, so external transport is now of vital and urgent moment. How this is to be attained must and should be the work of legislation without delay."

SLIPPERY HUNS COAX DOUGHBOYS.

"An insidious but determined effort is being made by the Huns to influence the doughboys still remaining in France in favor of further peace concessions. In recognition of this activity, Major-General McGlachlin, commanding the first U. S. division, has addressed a letter to the men of his command, which has been generally circulated in the army of occupation. It says in part:

"German eyes look and see. Boche ears listen and hear. Hun lips tell all the half truths and lies, and only those truths calculated to accomplish their particular selfish ends. Our enemy still attempts always to impose his ideas on the world.

"Given every opportunity to avoid the war, he insists he was not responsible.

"Beaten by allied arms under American impetus, he denies he was defeated, but claims he was deceived.

"Entering Belgium contrary to his sacred promise, he argues untruthfully that a hostile nation did so first.

"Having through greed inflicted infinite losses upon us and our allies, he now whines and weeps and wrings his hands, that he is called upon for reparation in kind, though not in measure, for his misdeeds. He cries out against the diminution of war power imposed upon him, to remove his serious menace to peace, not to punish him.

"As during the war, by bribery, corruption, spying, stealth, secret destructions, lies, theft, violence, murder, violation of women, slavery, cruelty to children and old men and women, he made himself the horror of the world, now, by his insolence, bluff, lies and appeals for sympathy, he makes himself contemptible. His might is no longer to be feared, though he is dangerous because without conscience he conducts an organized, unscrupulous campaign to deny his unmeasured crimes, to create mutual distrust among the allies to make us suspicious of each other, to plant in our minds the seeds of doubt of our principles, our institutions, and our President, to gain sympathy for his future imaginary distress.

"In this organized campaign, the people among whom through necessity we have come, play their parts. By little, welcome favors, by insolence, by repetition, by making a friend here and there, they attempt to force their wedges of argument, disclaimer, pleading, suspicion, and distrust, to break our conviction in the righteousness of our cause, the unworthiness of theirs.

"There is nothing consistent between the German public motive and the American spirit and ideals. There is nothing in our soldierly duty requiring or authorizing us to convert the enemy to our beliefs. There is everything in our soldierly duty requiring us to keep faithfully our own beliefs, to be loyal to our allies, and to sustain our American traditions and morale.

"Let us see everything, hear everything of value to our cause, and say nothing to our enemy. Let us present and maintain our honor, perfect exactly our duty, devote ourselves loyally to our country."

The counsel of General McGlachlin is timely. The war is over and it is not human for the victor to look upon the vanquished in a merciful light. But their should be no maudlin sympathy shown for the Huns. The brutal, inhuman practices of Germany cannot be overlooked.

Thinks it Serious.

Toronto Globe

The serious feature of the Senate's action is that it discloses what is no doubt a settled intention to maintain the traffic in liquor entering Canada from foreign countries, and also passing from Province to Province. The Provincial Legislatures, according to the best legal advice, have no power to prevent any citizen from bringing in liquor for his own use from abroad or from any other Province of the Confederation.

News despatches from Montreal indicate that the Canadian Railway War Board considers that it cannot reach a decision upon the demands of the railway shopmen until the United States railway administration has reached its decision upon similar demands made by the railway shopmen of the United States.

Isn't it about time that Canada exercised her own brains instead of borrowing those of her neighbor? Last year the Railway War Board granted increases to Canadian railway employees, taking as a standard what is known as the "McAdoo award"—made in the United States. Then the Canadian railways increased their freight rates twice—in order to accord with increased freight rates in the United States.

West, the parliament of Canada rejected daylight saving and daylight saving was promptly adopted by the Canadian railways, because the United States railways had adopted it.

The Poet's Corner

THE PLANTING OF A TREE

Would'st thou unbuild a home where sweet wild lives are nested,
Glad with the sound of song, quick with the flash of wings,
Where the soft broods may rock, warm-housed and unmolested,
Deep in the leafy nooks thro' all the changeful springs?

Would'st thou make day more fair and night more rich and holy,
Winter more keenly bright and summer more dear,
Grant the sweet earth a gift, deep-rooted, ripening slowly,
Add to the store of joys that bless the mindful-year?

Go, then, and plant a tree, lovely in sun and shadow,
Gracious in every kind—maples and oak and pine,
Peace of the forest glade, wealth of the fruitful meadow,
Blessing of shade and shade, hereafter shall be thine.

For though thou never see the joy thy hand hath granted
Those who shall follow thee, thy generous boon shall share.
Thou shalt be nature's child, who her best fruit hath planted,
And each of many a spring shall find thy gift more fair.

Possession of the Saar Valley.
Vancouver Sun)

"Germany owes France coal, not men," says the Teutonic spokesman at Versailles. It is a neat phrase, but deceptive. At the bottom it is a claim that France ought to be satisfied if Germany will promise to supply her with coal, and that for France to take security by retaining possession of the Saar Valley is humiliating and unnecessary. No clause of the treaty has more absolute justification than that which hands the Saar Valley coal fields over to the French. The mines of Northern France were deliberately destroyed with the design of preventing the revival of French industry. What more fitting reparation than to take German coal instead? And how could the delivery of German coal be ensured except by compulsion? No sympathy need be wasted on the German population of the Saar Valley. They are not being enslaved.

SPORTING NEWS

BASEBALL.

Win for Ontarios.

Judging from the attendance at the exhibition park last evening, twilight baseball is popular in Belleville. At 6.30 a game was started between the Ontarios of this city and a team from Picton, being a Bay of Quinte League match. There was a large number of spectators present and the result doubtless pleased the great majority. A number of fans from Picton accompanied the team and naturally were disappointed with the result. For nine innings the visiting team made heroic efforts to score a run, but it was not forthcoming. In one innings they had three men on bases, with two out, but H. Smith, the Ontarios' pitcher, struck the third man out. During the game the Ontarios made 8 runs. Despite the fact that the score was one-sided it was nevertheless a good game. Every member of the local team played well, and the pitching by Smith was all that could have been desired. He was ably supported in the field. Croft, pitcher for Picton, had good control of the ball, but he was not given the support of the fielders he deserved. Mr. Croft, of Picton, was umpire on balls and strikes and it is due him to state that it was one of the best handled games played here this season. His decisions were most impartial. Mr. J. Fahey was base umpire. The line up of the teams was as follows:

Belleville—Hagerman, 2b.; Casey, l.f.; Whalen, l.f.; Mills, 1b.; Ross, c.f.; McWilliams, 3b.; Clapper, s.s.; J. Smith, s.s.; H. Smith, p.

Picton—B. Frederick, s.s.; J. Carter, 1b.; C. Frederick, c.; B. Sayers, l.f.; C. Croft, p.; A. Britton, 3b.; H. Campney, c.f.; H. Monaghan, 2b.; E. Mullholland, r.f.

Score by innings:

Belleville . . . . 0 1 2 1 0 1 2 1 x—8

Opening of East Belleville Playground

The East Belleville Playgrounds opened for the season on Monday, with over two hundred children in attendance. It was surely a pretty sight to see all the little figures filling the "out" space among the stately old trees, and listening to watch the happy groups about the swings, slides and see-saws. The giant stride is especially popular, judging from the shouts of glee as one or another catches a ladder and swings merrily around. There is always a "waiting list" for the baby swings and the sandboxes too, are thronged with wee people, who, with the irresponsibility of childhood, are building houses in the sand.

More equipment is much needed, and the Association hopes to make some additions at an early date, and would be grateful for contributions toward this end from any persons interested.

The salaries of the Supervisors for both East and West Belleville Playgrounds are contributed by one of our generous citizens, who is most interested in child welfare, and a firm believer in the value of supervised play.

Miss Bessie Ketcheson is in charge of the East Playground this year and bids fair to win the hearts of all the little ones. She is planning a course in basket weaving, folk dancing, etc., and with games and stories the summer hours will run away all too soon.

These playgrounds are ideal for one situation, located as they are on Bleecker Avenue, between Bridge and Queen streets. On the south side is a wide, open space, suitable for ball games of all sorts, and much used by older groups. Where the little children play there are dozens of beautiful old shade trees, so that it is cool and inviting there and the various pieces of equipment are set in shady spots. On the north side of another open space not used now, but which would furnish room and opportunity for two or three fine tennis courts. The Playground Association would welcome co-operation along this line. These tennis courts would help to supply a long felt want, not merely as playground equipment, but as a place for good wholesome sport that would help to keep boys and girls from questionable amusements.

The East Playground is open from 10 to 12 a.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. All children are welcome to come and enjoy the privileges under daily supervision. There is no fee, but we crave the interest of the mothers and all others who are willing to help us in our efforts to give children a better chance to learn to play the game of life.

THE HOME LAUNDRY WASHES CLOTHES TO SNOWY WHITENESS

The Washing Machine designed to run by water power has reached in the "Low Pressure Motor", a very high degree of perfection, on account of its correct design, first quality material used, and the high grade workmanship.

The Low Pressure Motor Washer is very simple to put in operation—you simply attach one hose to the water tap, the other hose drains into the sink. By turning on the tap, the motor is set in operation, there is nothing further then to be done—the motor does all the work to the rate of 60 strokes per minute—the operator is free then for other work.

By means of the Low Pressure Motor Washer the hard work is taken out of washing. The washing is through before it would be rightly started in the old fashioned way. The motor is the important part of the water power style of washing machine—and it is of primary importance that only the highest grade motor should be supplied. Anything else will only cause trouble and annoyance.

The Low Pressure Motor is composed of but very few working parts —which is guaranteed in itself of its simple and perfect design.

We guarantee our Low Pressure Motor Washer to wash quicker, cleaner and better than any other water power machine made. You run no risk in taking the Low Pressure Water Motor on trial in the work, where other motors will not operate without clothes in the machine.

We will refund your money if the machine does not give you entire satisfaction.

The hot water and clothes are put into the machine just as you would any hand power machine, but the pressure in the water tap does all the hard work, turns the dolly back and forth through the clothes, rubbing them against the corrugated sides and bottoms of the machines, and washing the clothes to snowy whiteness. For sale by The John Lewis Co., Ltd.

DOROTHY DALTON SCORES A HIT IN "THE HOMEBREAKER"

Dorothy Dalton, is delightfully vivacious in her latest Thomas H. Ince photoplay, "The Homebreaker" which opened a three day's engagement at Griffin's last night. In this modern society drama, Miss Dalton wears cloth as that vary from man's overalls to a $3,000 evening gown, but it is only fair to the star to say that she is always charming, whatever be her apparel. The story is one that scintillates with the humor, but back of all the laughs there is a well defined plot It concerns the machinations of two clever crooks, who come to New York and while posing as cubist artists win the favor of a young millionaire and his sister. With the glamor of frivolity they firmly attach themselves to the young people and are on the verge of enticing them into marriage, when Miss Marbury, a travelling saleswoman for the millionaire Father arrives Before her departure on a transcontinental trip, young Abbott was about to marry her. His father entreats her to help bring the young people to their senses, So she conspires unmasking the crooks and bringing the youths to her feet. The settings are very elaborate, and the photography very clear. Miss Dalton is supported by a remarkably clever cast, that includes Donald MacLean, Edwin Stevens and Mollie McConnell. Besides the above offering a funny 2-act Mack Sennett comedy, a thrilling western story and an interesting News Weekly are also being exhibited, all of which will be repeated again to-night and Saturday, matinee and night.

ALICE BRADY IN STERLING DRAMA

If your family, consisting of an aged father and a twin sister had been disrupted by an earthquake which destroyed your home in a Sicilian village and buried your sister; if you had come to New York learned stenography and secured a position at a typist's agency to support your father and yourself; if you unwittingly loaned your face to an artist to sketch and so used it to top off a risque theatrical poster, and if, after you secured a position as the secretary of a prominent author, the poster was discovered and you lied and said it was your twin sister's portrait—and then she came to life and you were both involved in a thrilling sequence of sensational incidents—what would you do? That is the problem which confronts Alice Brady, who plays the dual rôle of Rosetta and Lola Gelardi in "The Ordeal of Rosetta", which is being exhibited at the Palace for the week end. The opening chapter of "The Lure of the Circus" is also being screened on the same program. In this stupendous serial of life under the big white top love and big business Eddie Polo, the star goes through an amazing series of "Stunts" that make even blase picture fans gasp in amazement. The dare-devil feats of aerial ground tumblers, trapeze performers and equestrians, thrilling races between high-striving thoroughbred horse performances by wild animals under the whip of beautiful Elsie Seidwick, and other incidents of a great circus organization are features of this thrilling master serial which is to be screened at the Palace every week end for the next 19 weeks.

When a Maid Laughs

Yeats

By BERTHA E. MCDONALD.

When John Lawrence left his home on the outskirts of town and took the little path along the railroad he thought he was merely treading an old ash. His heart was in tune with all the world and the autumn sun, just setting, threw a great pot of gold on the end of his day's rainbow, beckoning him to a reward everlasting happiness. Then had given him to understand that afternoon that she really loved him, and had cooperated with him ever since she began going away to school. There could be no mistake about it this time, for she had written that she was afraid she might have been "kilted."

He placed the child upon a heap of nearby blankets and gathered the sobbing girl in his arms.

"Would you have cared, Lillith?" he whispered. "And, dear, don't you try to tease you again."

AS TO MEN AND HUSBANDS

According to This Writer There Is a Subtle Distinction Between the Two Species.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony men become dull and uninteresting and turn into husbands, says a writer in Judge. Husbands are "all right" in their place, but the place is not the social gathering by the same set expression about the eyes and mouth.

If it is more trouble to fetch a husband to fetch and carry than a fox terrier puppy, and as a rule the puppy acts much better when there is company around. Husbands wait until Sunday morning before they have their distinguished guests with you for the week end. They burrow in the back of the closet and pull things out from high shelves and go through the rag bag. Then they appear at the breakfast table in the oldest coat, the oldest trousers of another and a fancy vest, with an inch-wide tie tied in a four-in-hand as a finish.

And when you advertise your horror at this get-up they declare that the visitors that he is suffering from temporary aberration any and every husband will exhibit a lot of bewildered innocence and say:

"Why, what's the matter with this? It's just what I wear every Sunday morning when there's no one here!"

Husbands are the first to read newspapers on the floor. No man ever does this until he is married. His mother will not let him.

Husbands read to you the printed recipes they find on the woman's page of the paper. They get enthusiastic about some dish they have always detested before you would rather die than eat and say:

"Now, there's an idea for you. Why can't we ever have something like that?"

Women acquire a husband for much the same reason that a man gets a cane. They are a fearful bother, but one presents a better appearance with one in hand.

WASPS SWAYED BY EMOTION

Observations Made by Naturalists Prove That They Have Qualities Akin to Human Beings.

A book, "Wasps Studies Afield," by Phil and Nellie Peckham (Princeton University Press) maintains, giving instances, that insects—wasps, to be sure—have the power of emotion.

The evidences are plausible. A wasp, after regaining her spilled food-ball, a long way from home, pounced upon it with unmistakable viciousness. When later she returned, however, and approached her burrow she hitched it there angrily and curled her sting menacingly.

Another species certainly displayed anger when a spider she was pursuing made one leap and escaped. She grew frantic; she became so excited over her discomfiture that she acted madly, waiting, tapping and moving about on the ground in a frenzy till she rambled into a mole's hole.

Still another species, examining broken ground in search for her prey, scratched at a stone, turned it at a certain pile of loose earth. Her discovery instantly changed as she "struck right dirt." She became greatly excited, nervous and quivering with eagerness.

One's Own Interests.

The woman no longer young wholly sacrificed to her husband should make it a point to save a certain portion of her salary weekly, no matter how small it may be. Systematic saving leads to habits of thrift and gives the person dependent upon her own efforts a feeling of security. Many times a woman past her first youth will decide to marry for many dress like of the hour. Fashion is as wavering and as changeable as an April day, and the woman who must toil on alone will assuredly serve her best interests by clinging to quiet, conservative effects.—Exchange.

Special Pleading.

Mrs. Peter—You never pay me any compliments on my appearance as you did when we were first married.

Her Husband—That's all right. I said fully in advance then.

British airship was four hundred miles from St. John, at 10.30 last night. All was going well. Expected to arrive this morning.

Forest fires are still raging and no help is in sight unless it rains very soon.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, June 17.—With very light receipts of about 1500 cattle at the Union Stock Yards yesterday the prices for practically all classes of cattle was about 50c over the close of Thursday's market. Milkers and springers, especially the latter of the good classes, were readily taken up.

Butcher cows and bulls were steady and short-keep feeders were steady. Altogether it was a good strong demand with the advances in some spots probably a trifle more than the quotation.

The calf market with fair big run of 853 head was good and strong and 25c to 50c up over last week. The sheep and lambs held steady, especially the lambs, but some of the drovers were disposed to think the sheep market was off.

The run of hogs was 2244 and the prices held steady with the close of Thursday's. The balance of the week the buyers for the plants are quoting f.o.b. cars, $9.75 fed and watered and 22½c weighed off.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Hogs—Receipts, 45,000; steady, 5c to 10c higher. Heavy, mixed and yorkers, $10.40 to $10.60; pigs, $10.40 to $10.60; roughs, $9.75 to $10; stags, $8 to $10; heifers, $10.75 to $10.75.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 2,000; steady. Wethers, $8.50 to $9.50; lambs, $10 to $12; western yearlings, $11.50 to $12; wethers, $9 to $10; native sheep, $10.50 to $11.

Face Murder Charge.

GALT, June 17. — Following the inquest, at which a verdict was returned implicating them in the murder of Brinton Fetcott and Sarah Boyeff, two Stratford Bulgarians, were charged in the Police Court with the murder of a Turkish, John Sorokaky, whose body was found under a pile of stones on the Sheldon farm, near Galt. Both were committed to stand trial at the Assizes.

As the result of the revelation of the crime to the police by Stayko Boyeff, Ivan Petcoff has been held for about two weeks on a charge of murder, and Boyeff as a material witness. Boyeff signed a statement to the effect that he helped buy the murdered Russian before he was dead, and this resulted in his also being charged with murder.

By the end of the week there will pos be over forty thousand Canadian soldiers in England.

CANADIANS HONORED.

Among the list of those invested by the King at Buckingham Palace on June 27th was Nursing Sister Alberta Armstrong, daughter of Rev. Canon Armstrong of Trenton. She received the First Class Royal Red Cross.

PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY.

Lennox and Addington County Council report the receipt of a notice from the Provincial Highways Department that the Deseronto road from Napanee to Deseronto and thence to Marysville, had been adopted as Provincial highway from June 27th.

DISTRICT ARRIVALS

BROKE WRIST CRANKING CAR

Mr. Gordon Edwards, of Toronto, who is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, south John street, met with a painful accident. He was cranking a car at Frankford when the crank flew back, striking his wrist and breaking it. The fractured member was reduced after X-ray had been applied.

RACER INJURED.

Lovers of the track will regret to hear that the fast young colt owned by Messrs. J. A. Isaac and Geo. Cuttis of Peterborough, met with a slight mishap the other day on the Peterborough track, when she stepped on a stone and strained a ligament. The racer is being given the best of attention for a few days.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

Yesterday afternoon a horse attached to a light wagon, the property of Mr. W. H. Conklin, of Yeomans Corners, ran away from its owner who was driving it in, Sidney township. The animal ran for some miles before it was caught. Mr. Conklin escaped serious injury, but the vehicle was virtually demolished and the horse was injured.

SLED TO DEATH.

Herman Bleasy, of Augsburg, a Gratan township farmer, was found dead in his hay field Wednesday evening with his two legs above the ankles badly cut, presumably by the mower knives which he was supposed to have been replacing. His team of horses were standing close by still attached to the mower. He had bled to death before being discovered. His wife died only three months ago.

SUNDAY A DAY OF THANKSGIVING

Sunday next is to be observed as a day of thanksgiving in Ontario. The Prime Minister, Sir William Hearst, has recommended to his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor that a proclamation to this effect shall be issued forthwith. Writing to his Honour, Sir William says that proclamation name Sunday "to be solemnly observed throughout our Province of Ontario, as a day of general thanksgiving for the end of the war against Germany and her allies."

SUCCESSFUL S. S. EXCURSION

In the past, St. Thomas' Church Sunday School has had many successful excursions but that held yesterday per Str. Brockville to Twelve O'Clock Point, surpassed them all. Favored with bright sunshine, the boat left the Belleville dock at 9.30 a.m., loaded to its capacity with children and their friends. Each trip during the day was well patronized. At the Point races were held and prizes kindly competed for by the children. The last boat reached Belleville shortly after 10.30 p.m., everyone pleased with the day's outing. Financially the results were satisfactory, as after furnishing 200 free tickets to the children of the Sunday School, the cash received was over $150.

Traveling Man Gains 15 Pounds

Since Taniac Built Him Up.

N. M. Miller Works Every Day Since Taniac Built Him Up.

"I have gained fifteen pounds since I commenced taking Taniac, and since my health failed five years ago, it is the only medicine that has done me a particle of good," said Mr. M. Miller, a well known and popular travelling salesman for the Northeastern Manufacturing and Milling Co., who lives at 302 North State street, Aberdeen, S. Dako.

"I don't believe any man on earth ever had a worse case of stomach trouble than I did," continued Mr. Miller, "and I know I took enough medicine during that five years, to cure a dozen people, but I never got any relief until I got hold of this Taniac. Everything I ate would sour on my stomach and this would cause gas to form so bad that the pains I would take would almost kill me, I was in so much misery that I couldn't sleep at nights, and would have to walk the floor for hours at a time. I lost in weight from two hundred and forty-five pounds to one hundred and seventy, and finally got so weak and run-down that I was not able to work more than two days out of each week.

"Several of my friends spoke to me about Taniac, and recommended it so highly that I decided to give it a trial and I am here to tell you that you will have to go a mighty long ways to find a medicine to equal Taniac. Why, I can eat anything I want now, and I never have a sign of indigestion or stomach trouble of any kind. My strength has come back to me, and I am getting my weight back in a hurry. I feel as well in every way as I ever did in my life, and I never lose any time from my work at all. Yes, sir, I certainly can recommend Taniac for I know from my own experience with it that it is one medicine that will do all they say it will."

Taniac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. J. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Pannell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

INJURED IN FALL

When she opened by mistake a door leading to the stairway and fell to the bottom of the flight on Saturday night, Mrs. Doherty, Philipsville, sustained severe bruises and a cut over the right eye, which required several stitches to close. Mrs. Doherty was getting up from bed to answer a call of her small son and mistook the door.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

Fred McCormack, 639 Rubidge St., Peterborough, met with a distressing accident about 9 o'clock Wednesday night. He took a dive from the springboard at Inverlea Park and struck the bottom with his head, sustaining a very severe scalp wound. The skin was almost torn off his head and his face was badly marked with small pebbles. Dr. F. P. McNulty was immediately summoned by telephone and had the injured man removed to St. Joseph's Hospital. His wife is in the same institution at present undergoing treatment. He is employed as an operator in the power house of the Auburn Woollen Mills.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Michael Babri, Alex Martyniuk, Philip Hotyoski, Tom Komchek and Sam Zeluski, the five men arrested at Peterboro on suspicion of murdering Philip Yanoff at the Ontario Rock Co.'s premises on the morning of June 22nd were committed for trial at the next sitting of the High Court in Peterboro. They appeared before County Magistrate A. C. Langley on Monday and were represented by Lr. O'Brien in each case the prisoners made no statement. The cases will be heard by Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of the Exchequer, at the sessions beginning on September 30th.

BOY'S BODY FOUND

The body of Gerald Holmes, aged 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes, Ogdensburg, was found floating in the St. Lawrence off the Rutland docks in that city on Tuesday afternoon. The boy had been missing for a week and it is believed that while playing on the docks lost his balance and fell into deep water. Gerald Kennedy, a sailor on one of the Hall line steamers, found the body. Coroner C. C. Bartholomew decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

PREVENT POTATO ROT

Spraying With Bordeaux Mixture Proven Very Effective.

Machinery Must Be Kept Well Oiled If It Is to Do Work Efficiently—An Expert Discusses the Question From Every Angle.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

LATE Blight and Rot of Potatoes can be prevented by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Commence spraying when the plants are from five to eight inches high and keep the foliage covered with Bordeaux through-out the season. Take special care to see that the spraying is very thoroughly done if the weather is at all damp about the 15th of July, as Blight often begins about this time. Add a poison when necessary for potato beetles—arsenate of lead paste 3½ lbs. to each 40 gals. of the liquid spray, or Paris green 3 lbs. to 40 gals., or a mixture of 2 lbs. arsenate of lead paste and 1 lb. of Paris green to 40 gals. From three to seven applications should be made, depending upon the season—the wetter the weather the larger the number. Do not put off spraying because it looks like rain. If the spray is on the plants half an hour before the rain, come it will be dry and sufficient of it will stick to prevent infection, which takes place during or soon after rain. Such spraying should prevent not only Late Blight and Rot but also Early Blight and potato beetles.

Thorough spraying only is effective. If thorough spraying is to be done sufficient Bordeaux mixture must be used. From 50 to 150 gals per acre should be applied at each spraying, and when the plants are large not less than 100 gallons per acre should be used. Thorough spraying means the spraying of every portion of the potato plant with Bordeaux mixture in the form of a fine mist. This can only be done when the solution is applied with good pressure, so as to insure covering every portion of the plant. The best results from spraying are obtained when potato sprayers are used which are fitted with a Y-joint attachment so as to insure covering both surfaces of the leaves at each spraying. When the plants are large it has been found that it pays to go over each row twice at each spraying.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, O. A. College, Guelph.

The Importance of Keeping Machinery Properly Oiled.

The importance of keeping machinery properly oiled may be better realized when we try to compute, in dollars and cents, the annual saving in machine efficiency through friction. Correct lubrication may easily reduce the efficiency of a machine fifty per cent. At the same time the machine itself is wearing out faster, on account of the needless friction, than owing to the real work done.

The microscope reveals the fact that the surface of the most highly polished shaft ever made is as rough and untrue as a rough casting appears to the unaided eye. In practice it is not possible to make a metal surface that is absolutely smooth, incompressible, or even a true circle, hence inequalities of pressure at the bearings, scoring and tearing of the metal fibres, causing friction, produce the factors of inefficiency and wear and tear. Though these faults of construction cannot be avoided, we can in a great measure, overcome the effect in machinery, by judicious application of a lubricating agent.

The lubricant consists of minute balls or globules. These readily liquidate themselves between the faces of mutual contact forming a cushion, keeping the metals apart. Its use is not only to reduce friction, but also to carry away whatever excess of heat is generated. All liquids have not sufficient sustaining power to be used as efficient lubricants. Some cannot be retained between the metals; others do not cling together persistently enough. To resist the tendency of the metal to tear the lubricating film apart, these globules must have a good deal of internal strength, and must stick together well. They must also cling well to the metal, or they will be squeezed out from between the bearings.

The oils and the fats are the principal lubricants. The mineral oils are thin, and so are lard, olive, and sperm oils. Castor oil, neatsfoot, tallow and wax are thick. Nothing is better for high speed bearings and smooth spindles or shafts than sperm oil, but it is costly; for heavy bearings castor oil is superior to this, but it is also costly.

But there is relatively little pure lubricant used in machinery, for it is usually more economical to employ mineral oil, compounded for special uses, than to use pure lubricants which, after all, are often heavily adulterated — gum, soap lime, alumina soda, and free acids have their own distinct purpose to serve in the composition of cheap oils. The free acids of mineral oils, however, owing to the use of compound oils is, that the objectionable qualities, of one kind of lubricant can be neutralized by mixing it with a lubricant of another kind. For instance, vegetable and fish oils are drying oils, that is, they quickly solidify, and cause gumming or clogging of the bearings to which they are applied, and if allowed to drop and accumulate upon dust, cotton waste, and lumber are liable to ignite. Animal and mineral oils that is termed a low flashing point; that is, they fire or ignite at a low temperature, some at 315 degrees Fah., or under. Animal oils develop fatty acids, and these corrode and pit the surface of the metal which they are used to lubricate.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

N.C.-4 "Willard Equipped" on First Trans-Atlantic Flight

ALL THREE NAVY PLANES USE WILLARD BATTERIES ON BIG JUMP.

"Our Engines worked perfectly," said Commander Read of the N.C.-4.

The N.C.-4 carried Willard Batteries.

On the long jump, high in the air above the fog, the Willard Storage Batteries functioned perfectly, never a miss or a skip.

Ten S.O.S. Willard Batteries, with Threaded Rubber Insulation, were on the N.C.-4 as she blazed the new trail and made history. Your batteries were in use and six were held in reserve and never needed.

Absolute dependability and constant performance were essential—so Willard Batteries were chosen, and lived up to their reputation.

Every unit on the N.C.-4 flying boat had to pass a thorough inspection and rigid test before it was used. Willard Batteries were not chosen on reputation alone—they were selected because they earned and continued to earn that reputation.

Our customers will be interested in this fact. Everyone is talking about the wonderful feat of the N.C.-4, and we are proud of the part that Willard Batteries played in it.

VOL. 36 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, JULY 5, 1919. PRICE TWO CENTS

Handing A Poser To Mr. Flavelle

Problem of How to Replenish Empty Wine Cellar in Ontario Causes Inquiry.

OTTAWA, July 4.—In fiction there is no Duke without a wine cellar, and, according to strong presentations which have been made to the Minister of Customs, no Duke is real, practical, everyday life can be a real Duke—and, above all, a real Governor-General—unless special exemption be granted him from the hard Canadian laws so that he may keep a well-stocked cellar. It is urged that the Governor-General entertains for Canada and from many nations where wine is considered the indispensable accompaniment of social intercourse, and that it is a necessary lubricant of official hospitality.

The matter was first referred to the Ontario License Board, of which Mr. J. D. Flavelle is Chairman, the letter of inquiry stating that it was understood the Governor-General was "exempt from the provisions of the law against importation. Mr. Flavelle replied that the matter was one beyond his jurisdiction. The matter was then taken to the law, and it is understood that so far there has been displayed a signal unwillingness of variously interpreting to come to a decision on this knotty point. The idea that everybody is equal before the law is so ingrained in Canadian minds that Ministers have political considerations and the difficulty of keeping such transactions secret make this a very delicate problem to solve.

Six Charges To Be Faced

TORONTO, July 5.—Five charges of fraud and one of theft are laid against Earl Phillips, who was arrested by Detective Sergeant Hall, Detectives Crowe and Williams. The accused is said to have operated under several names and to have secured over a thousand dollars' worth of goods under false pretences from some of the biggest stores in the city.

A down store he is alleged to have secured a fur coat worth $275, giving a worthless cheque in return; and $300 worth of furs he is said to have secured articles totalling in value over three hundred dollars by the same means. He is also alleged to have sold the coat by the name of Nolan and not to have acquainted the latter with the fact that there was a lien on it.

A jeweler on Danforth avenue is said to have been mulcted of $25 by Phillips. The police claim that he also stole an automobile.

On the grave charge of conspiring to procure an abortion, Elizabeth Morgenson, Edmund Boyd, arrested yesterday afternoon by Inspector McKinney and Plainclothesman Massey of the Morality Department. A young married woman is said to be the complaint.

House To Porogue On Tuesday

OTTAWA, Ont., July 4.—The outlook for prorogation by Saturday is not bright. While the Whips have not given up hope the chances are that the House will not rise before the cool breezes of blue sea lake in order to officiate at the closing on Saturday, will have to spend the week-end amid the hideous Ottawa heat. Tuesday now is talked of for prorogation, although so many members have booked berths for Saturday night, it will be a slim House which will be here for the wind-up.

The Court of Commerce bill will be disposed of to-day, and it is understood that so far there has been displayed a signal unwillingness of various departments to come to a decision on this knotty point. The idea that everybody is equal before the law is so ingrained in Canadian minds that Ministers have political considerations and the difficulty of keeping such transactions secret make this a very delicate problem to solve.

Wants To Re-Establish A German Monarchy

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, July 5.—The German Conservative party has issued a proclamation signed by Ernest Von Heydebrand, party leader in Reichstag, stating that the party declares war on Government and intends to use its whole strength to re-establish a monarchy according to Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Brockville Man To Stand Trial On A Charge of Bigamy

OTTAWA, July 5.—Carswell E. Phillips, of Brockville, was committed for trial for bigamy by Magistrate Askwith in police court Thursday.

Mr. A. Lemieux, K.C., counsel for Phillips, appealed to Inspector McLaughlin calling Alexander Phillips, of Frankville, father of the accused, for the prosecution, and stated that committment would be accepted by his client rather than have further evidence taken now. Mr. Phillips, senior, happened to be in court, with a view to arranging for the release of his son on bail and the prosecution took advantage of his presence to call him as witness.

Evidence was given by Miss Janet Smith, whom Phillips married on April 28 last, and Constable W. H. Frost, who arrested the accused at Brockville. The most interesting bit of evidence submitted, and the cause of all the trouble, was a card purported to be written by Aedline Boyd, claiming to be Phillips' first wife, and addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Phillips." It was dated Toronto, May 15, but reached the second Mrs. Phillips about a month after her marriage.

"Dear Carl and Pearl Wife"

It was a printed card of congratulations, the verse reading:

Take this for a handshake,
And a hearty how-do-you-do.
And inasmuch I rejoice
In the joy that has come to you.

Around the verse on all four margins of the card was written: "I didn't die with the flu, you know, and I am very much alive. The folks over the way send us the people in the bigamy line. Ha! ha! Hope that Jean got a nice wedding ring, something I did not get. You can answer your letter to Adeline if you like. But good luck to you and good-bye forever. From your ex but legal wife, Adeline Boyd."

Miss Smith, cross-examined, said she did not show the card to her husband, but showed him the envelope in which it came, as said it was from the first wife's handwriting. Beyond this she admitted to Mr. Lemieux, she could not say definitely that the card was sent by the original Mrs. Phillips.

George Muller's Home Destroyed

KINGSTON, July 5.—Yesterday morning about eleven o'clock a most unfortunate fire occurred in the home of Mr. George Muller, who lives over his bicycle and sewing machine store, resulting in practically a complete loss of all the household furniture.

The fire occurred while Mr. Muller, his wife and children were out watching the circus parade, he having left two lads to watch the shop during their absence. The cause of the fire was a coal oil stove which had been left burning. The stove became overheated and burst. The fluid leaking out on the floor and hot anything was then the fire had made great headway and the crackling could be heard. Neighbors and others first two lads were amazed to find the whole upper storey a mass of flames, which soon set the stairs on fire. Although there was no help, the lads set about pouring water upon the fire while the other chap, Corbett by name, pulled the bicycles and motorcycles out of the shop. Having completed this laborious task the alarm was given and in a very short time the fire department under Chief Armstrong had their hose playing upon the fire. The fire continued well over an hour and by the time it was subdued the entire building was drenched with water and almost everything upstairs was a total loss by flames. Mr. Fred T. Todd's barber shop and home next door to the Muller's had a narrow escape, but got off with a slight wetting.

Many willing hands aided the proprietor in carrying the pianos, furniture, bicycles, etc., to a nearby shed, where they will be kept in storage until the shop is repaired sufficiently to carry on business.

FIFTEEN YEAR SENTENCE FOR BOY AGED FIFTEEN

Winnipeg, July 5.—John William Cochrane, the 15 year old Indian boy, who on June 25 last was found guilty of manslaughter of his employer, Jas. R. Campbell, a farmer of Rockwood, Man., with a long two-pronged wrench on April 5 last, was sentenced to the penitentiary by Mr. Justice Prendergast for 15 years.

Dempsey Champion Easily Defeats Willard

TOLEDO, July 4.—Dempsey was the first to enter the ring. It was just three minutes to four and he chose the corner of the ring with the sun at his back. Big Bill Tate, his sparring partner, kept the sun off the challenger. Willard came into the ring a minute later. The champion was also protected from the blazing sun by a big umbrella.

Round One—Willard landed the first blow, a light left to the head. The champion landed right and left to head. Dempsey hooked a left to Willard's stomach. Dempsey missed left and right to head. Willard snapped left to jaw. Dempsey knocked Willard down with a right to the jaw twice. Willard was saved by the gong.

Round Two—Dempsey rushed Willard into his corner, pounding his jaw with rights and lefts. The champion's right eye was closing from blows Dempsey landed. Dempsey walked around Willard, carefully measuring him with rights and left to the jaw. Willard seemed dazed. Dempsey put three left hooks to Willard's bad eye. Willard landed a feeble uppercut. Willard's eye was rapidly closing. Willard staggered to his corner at the end of the round.

Round Three.—Dempsey hit Willard twice with lefts to jaw. Dempsey sent right to jaw and left to body. Dempsey peppered lefts to Willard's face without a return. Dempsey backed the champion to the ropes, hammering him with lefts and rights to jaw and body. Dempsey put a right and left to head and had blood streaming from the champion's mouth. Willard landed a stinging uppercut to Dempsey's chin. Dempsey retaliated with a left to jaw. The challenger although unmarked, was covered with blood which poured from Willard's mouth. Dempsey hit the champion with right and left to jaw as the bell rang.

Willard's manager threw up the sponge in the third round. The result was never in doubt after the battle commenced.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 5.—Though a new heavy weight champion has been crowned in Jack Dempsey, and exclusive of fight fans has depopulated Toledo, controversy still rages over the sensational defeat of Jess Willard here ate yesterday afternoon. So much interest was developed during the nine minutes of terrific bombardment that scarcely two spectators saw the scene the same. The uncertainty regarding the situation at the end of the first round when Dempsey left the ring believing that he had given Willard a knock-out and payment of the bets on the fight, when Willard was stopped, furnished unlimited material for argument. So weak was the sound of the gong and so great an uproar about the ring that the referee Pecord failed to hear the bell when it sounded the count over Willard as he sat on the ring floor near neutral corner, although the time keeper ordered clang when Pecord's arm fell, signalling the seventh time. The first few hours after the battle were much the same as those following Dempsey's victory. Dempsey was soon dressed, much in evidence about down town section, followed by wildly enthusiastic and cheering throngs of admirers. At the same hour his dethroned opponent was resting in his temporary ome in the residential section with his battered head packed in ice. He was examined by a boxing commission physician, however, soon after his return from the ring. It was later stated officially that Willard was not seriously injured and would be able to appear to public as soon as his bruises and other marks of battle had yield ed to ordinary treatment.

Dempsey has no immediate idea of re-entering the ring for there is no worthy opponent in sight at this time. It is likely that he will endeavor to turn his newly gained ring laurels into commercial value, as has been the custom of all modern holders of the title. It is known that he is ready to defend the championship at any time, and it is quite likely that a bout will be started to find a suitable drawing antagonist within a few months.

FIRST POTATOES

The first new potatoes of the season decked the editor's table this morning. They were grown on the farm of Mr. George N. Phillips of Foxboro, and were of good quality and size.

Doctors Are Not Alarmed

TORONTO, July 5.—Some leading Toronto physicians do not look with alarm on the reported increase of smallpox throughout the province, and in general prevailing opinion will not change until some expert like Dr. Bell of the Provincial Board of Health personally vouches for the vast number of reported cases being differentiated from chickenpox, of which there is known to be a vast amount in Toronto and the outlying districts.

Dr. White, of the Isolation Hospital, told The Times yesterday that there is a vast number of cases reported to him as smallpox in Toronto during the last three months he was able to diagnose only one small pox; all the others were chickenpox.

Dr. White is of the opinion that it would be impossible for an epidemic of smallpox to get serious head in Toronto without its presence being known by the medical authorities of the Provincial Board of Health. He also mentioned that he was interested in some laxity in enforcing the law regarding smallpox vaccination in outer parts of the province.

WHEN YOU'RE YOUNG
IT'S HARD TO MARRY

GODFREY, July 5.—Almost anyone can hold up a wedding from objecting, but Cupid scored by the willing of the party of the first part, but a new drawback was sprung the other day in the little village of Godfrey. A bashful suitor of seventeen had for quite several years her elder sought to "entered into the holy state of matrimony" with the fair Miss Waller, but return only by will and consent of the honorable gentleman of the Senate, J. J. Hawkins, Hamilton, whose power was to have led the pair to the happy land but he was incapacitated by reason of the fact that he had not been ordained to perform marriages.

Rev. W. H. Gregory, Holiness Movement pastor, was sought by the amorous pair, but he did not feel inclined to tie the knot and shifted them to Rev. A. W. Stewart of Harrowsmith who sent the youthful couple home to their parents for consent to the marriage. The consent was obtained and the ceremony was duly performed.

Bush Fires Causing Much Damage

NEW LISKARD, July 5.—The sawmill of James McBrayne, in Firstbrook Township, with 7,000 feet of lumber, and the barn and machinery shed of Mr. Wm. Sharp, of John Sharp, two miles south of the town, have been destroyed by bush fires. Ferguson, a mailer was partly affected from the same cause. In the case of the Sharp farm, the fire jumped the railway tracks, the main road and the Montreal, mainly on the north, which the contents had been removed and attacking the other building on the lake shore.

Reports from Boston Creek declare the women and children have been ordered from the place on account of approaching fires. In the case of Patricia syndicate, built last summer was destroyed Thursday night only the foundations remaining.

Worthington's mill on the Metagami River, seven miles from Timmins with a large quantity of lumber is gone.

No further losses are reported in the Haileybury district where the Sharp Lake fire is still burning.

The Monitress is now days ago, clear.

Funeral of Late Sir Sam Steele

WINNIPEG, July 5.—No more impressive funeral in general has ever been witnessed than that of the late Major-General Sir S. B. Steele, K.C., M.G., C.B., M.V.O., yesterday afternoon. Official representatives of the Dominion, the Provincial, the city and numerous public organizations joined with the military in paying solemn tribute to the warrior, whose death has been mourned on three continents.

Service was opened at 3 Saints' church at 3.00 p.m., the remains of the casket was carried by the pall bearers between two lines of the firing party, standing at the present with arms presented to the gun carriage.

Six members of the R.N.W.M.P. acted as pall bearers, followed by six Brigadiers: Brigadier-General H. D. B. Ketchen, C.B.C., M.G., Brigadier General Hugh Dyer, C.B., C. M.G., D.S.O., Brigadier-General H. M. Rutlan, C.M.G.; Brigadier-General R. W. Patterson, C.M.G., D.S.O. Brigadier-General J. A. Kreelely, C. M.G., D.S.O. and Lieut-Colonel J. B. Mit-bell.

Family mourners including Lady Steele, two daughters and Captain Hardold Steele followed the pall bearers.

At the gate of the cemetery the firing party again presented arms while the casket was carried through. During the interment the booming of guns came from a detachment of 13th Field Battery, C.F.A. Thirteen guns were fired at one minute intervals. Three rounds were discharged over the grave by the firing party, then came "Last Post" from the buglers.

Allies Advance On Archangle Front

LONDON July 4.—The following official communique has been received from Archangel: On the right bank of the Dvina the Allied front advanced to the River Selmenda. On the left bank Canadian and American troops. Fores fires forced us temporarily to evacuate the front line on the railway front.

In Murmansk the enemy's positions on the railway were assaulted and captured. The enemy retreated, burning the bridges. The enemy's losses on the thungs peninsula are reliably estimated at five hundred.

Last Kingston Unit On The Way Home

KINGSTON, July 5.—The last of the Kingston units overseas is now on its way across the Atlantic. Word was received yesterday morning that the 7th Canadian Hospital (Queen's) had embarked on the Olympic on July 2nd.

The 7th Canadian Hospital left for overseas in May, 1915, with the 21st Battalion. The unit was then the Base Stationary Hospital, and was commanded by Lt.-Col. F. Etherington. It was first stationed at Cairo, Egypt, and later at Salonika, France, where it remained throughout the greater part of the war. Drafts were sent overseas twice to the hospital, and it was one of the largest of the Canadian forces.

Coming back with the unit are 22 officers and 96 other ranks, and these are expected to arrive in Kingston, in ten days or two weeks.

With the arrival of the hospital unit the last of Kingston's units will be home and the Civic Reception Committee will then tender them, collectively a reception.

Willard throws up Sponge in 3rd Round

TOLEDO, July 4.—By virtue of one of the speediest and most one-sided fights which ever decided a big field event, Jack Dempsey, who may now wish to be known by his full voting name of William Harrison Dempsey, today became the world's champion heavyweight boxer.

To all intents and purposes he whipped the huge Jess Willard, favorite in the meagre betting, in one round. Dempsey thought the referee had announced him winner and actually left the ring. But he was called back and the butchery continued for two rounds more when Jess, sitting in his corner, with a bewildered look on his battered countenance, failed to respond to the gong for the fourth round.

"It was no use to continue," said the ex-champion. "My strength went from me in the first round."

He sat there apparently the most dejected man in the United States at the moment. His right eye was closed and his cheek swollen and blue with bruises. Blood covered his body and arms having hopelessly tried to oppose that it seemed as a child might give him further abuse without arousing resistance.

Dempsey was breathing hard when the fight ended but it was from exertion and not from punishment. He escaped almost unhurt but as he has been using his arms like trip hammers on the anatomy of his opponent, for nine minutes it was no wonder that at the thermometer to 110 degrees his heart was till pumping at hit and more can be appreciated the breathing spell.

Woman Killed Man Arrested

HAMILTON, July 5.—Another regrettable motor fatality was recorded in the city Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Bridget Hunter, wife of David Hunter 427 James street north, died in the city hospital as a result of several injuries she received when she was hit by an automobile at the corner of King and Charles street. The driver of the car, John Barregar, 2 Walnut street south, was arrested shortly after the accident on a charge of criminal negligence. He appeared in the police court this morning and was remanded for a week. Later, through the efforts of his lawyer, T. H. Sloane he was allowed out on $5,000 bail.

DEFAULTERS SENTENCED

Two brother named Frandt and Henry Rhodes, whose home is in the Thurlow part of Hastings, Ont., were this morning before Magistrate Masson found guilty of being defaulters under the Military Service Act. A fine of $150 or default one month in jail was imposed, the date of imprisonment to commence June 30th. They will remain in jail over the expiration of the sentence. And

British Dirigible Near Halifax

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

HALIFAX, July 5.—The British dirigible R34 enroute to Mineola, N. Y., from East Portuse, Scotland, was sighted at Parrsboro, about fifty miles northwest of Halifax at noon on a special time today. Hour hostile calls on the beach attracted attention of the dirigible's crew and she circled the craft over town and turned down the river as though endeavoring to recognize the place.

HALIFAX, July 5.—At 10:30 this morning the Admiralty Official was informed by wireless from R-34 that the big dirigible was between Halifax and Canso and all was well.

N.Y. Police Out After Anarchists

NEW YORK, July 4.—While federal, state and local authorities throughout the country marshalled their forces to protect life and property against threatened independent the attacks by bomb terrorists, New York's police bomb squad took extraordinary measures to guard against violence. A city wide search of radical haunts and other places for bomb collection resulted in several arrests and the sensational arrest this evening of Senator George Brandt, a Socialist who was found to have secretly carried a loaded complete in a suit case. Senator Brandt was also arrested yesterday. Rasmussel Lopez, a Spaniard was taken into custody on charges of having explosives in his possession secreted.

The police report that many well known anarchists have disappeared from their usual haunts.

Welcome Rain Fell In Northern Ontario

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited.

COBALT, July 5.—Telephone messages this morning from several stations of the north country where bush fires have been raging for several days indicate that heavy rains have fallen in most localities. A further danger for the present is at an end. Many settlers have been burned out but so far as known no lives have been lost.

Revolution Breaks Out in Peru

LIMA, Peru, July 4.—A revolution broke out here at three o'clock this morning. President Pardo and the members of his Cabinet were imprisoned.

General A. A. Caceres, former President, was in charge of the revolutionary coup. Later in the morning he turned over control of affairs to Augusto B. Leguia, the president elect.

The revolutionary movement was accomplished without bloodshed.

Thurlow Hatchery Record For Season of 1918-19

Mr. A. W. McLeod, superintendent of the Government hatchery in Thurlow Township, has kindly furnished the following interesting statistics relative to the operation of the hatchery for the past season:

There was also a full supply of salmon trout eggs laid down in the hatchery which were collected on the Georgian Bay from commercial fishermen.

There was also a good supply of pickerel eggs laid down in the hatchery and hatched very successfully, being the second time that the Fish Department has hatched pickerel in the Lake Ontario district, and was very satisfactory.

The eggs were all collected in the Napanee River.

Fry distributed from Thurlow hatchery:

White fish fry distributed	77,300,000
Salmon trout fry	6,900,000
Pickerel fry	50,400,00
Total distribution, 1919	134,300,000

The white fish fry were all distributed in the Bay of Quinte on the different spawning grounds in the best possible condition. The salmon trout were all distributed in Lake Ontario in the vicinity of Presqu'ile Point and the eastern gap near Amherst Island.

The pickerel fry were all distributed in the Bay of Quinte in the vicinity of Napanee and Shannonville Rivers. The Fry were all in the very best possible condition on suitable feeding grounds.

The young fry that are being placed in the waters each year fro mthe Thurlow hatchery are greatly improving the fishing in Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte district.

The catch of white fish and herring last season was the largest in the history of the Bay of Quinte, the increase is due to the successful work of the Dominion Government hatchery in this district.

Fry distributed from the hatchery:

White fish—1914-15,	45,000,000; 1915-16 59,000,000; 1916-17, 65,000,000; 1917-18, 77,500,000; 1918-19, 77,300,000; total, 255,537,000.
Salmon trout—1914-15,	1,500,000; 1915-16, 6,900,000; 1916-17, 6,687,000; 1917-18, 7,560,000; 1918-19, 6,000,000; total, 28,737,000.
Pickerel—1917-18,	31000,000; 1918-19, 50,400,000; total, 80,400,000.
Sea Salmon—1918-19,	274,300.

A grand total of young fry distributed from Thurlow hatchery since starting operations in 1914 of 423,911,500.

TIRED PEOPLE ARE DEBILITATED

Full of Health and Strength Can Only be Regained by Enriching the Blood

People who are tired all the time and never feel rested, even after a long night in bed, people who cannot regain weight and strength, who feel no joy in living, are in a condition described by doctors as general debility. A medical examination might show that every organ in the body is acting normally, but the pallor of these face will usually show that the blood is weak and watery. This is the root of the trouble.

Debility is a loss of vitality, not affecting any one part of the body but the system generally. The blood goes to every part of the body and the use of a blood tonic like Dr. William's Pink Pills quickly tones up the whole system. The first sign of returning health is a better apetite, an improved digestion, a quicker step and better color in the cheeks. The rich, red blood, reaching every organ and muscle, carries new health and vigor. The nerves are quieted, sleep becomes more refreshing and with perfect treatment and a good diet the patient is once more enabled to enjoy life. The case of Mr. W. Doxtater, R. R. No. 4, Tilsonburg, Ont., illustrates the great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Mr. Doxtater says:—"I was troubled with pains throughout my whole body, was extremely nervous, did not sleep at night, and was further afflicted with rheumatism. In spite of different treatment this condition persisted, indeed, I was growing worse, and had fallen away in weight to 130 pounds and was scarcely able to do any work. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after a few weeks there was a noticeable improvement in my condition. I continued taking the pills, constantly gaining until I felt as well as ever I did. While taking the pills my weight increased to 170 pounds, and I can now do as good a day's work as anyone. My advice if you are not feeling well is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they will soon put you right."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STEVENS' HARD TASK.

Edwin Stevens, long famous as a musical comedy star, had a difficult part assigned him in the latest Ince photoplay, "Two Homebreakers," starring Dorothy Dalton, which is being shown at Griffin's tonight. Mr. Stevens appears as an old staid business man who is being taught to dance by Miss Marbury. The story requires that he act awkward. When it came to playing the scenes Mr. Stevens' feet wanted to obey their old musical comedy training and move in graceful rythm. It required some practice for him to be able to make his feet behave and get over awkward steps. "That Night" is the title of the Macdonnell company which is being offered in addition to a thrilling western story, and the British News.

REALISTIC EARTHQUAKE IN THE ORDEAL OF ROSETTA

"The Ordeal of Rosetta," Alice Brady's latest select picture, which is being shown at the Palace tonight, calls for the destruction by quake and fire of a street in the village of Castellana, in the heart of volcanic Sicily. To ensure the fidelity to details of production which mark every select picture, her director, Emile Chautard, held consultations with authorities on seismic disturbances, and also to bring about the desired effect most realistically. At the same time the studio forces erected the buildings to line the street, and the big explosion and fire took place according to specifications. This is the disaster that drives Professor Gerardi and his surviving daughter, Rosetta (played by Alice Brady), to New York, where she becomes a stenographer, and later meets the various adventures which furnish the ordeal from which she emerges victorious. The opening of the thrilling Universal circus serial, "The Lure ofthe Circus," is also being shown on the same program.

SHIRLEY MASON AN ARDENT DEVOTEE OF SPORTS

Dainty little Shirley Mason, who will be seen in "The Final Close-up," her latest starring vehicle, to be presented at the Palace this Monday to Wednesday, matinee daily, is an ardent devotee of healthful outdoor sports, and particularly horseback riding. Every time she gets a chance Miss Mason is off early from the studio, mount her steed and make off at a lively gallop for the hills. "If you ever want me and can't find me," said Miss Mason to her director, Walter Edwards, "you will know that I am somewhere up in Beverly Hills enjoying a horseback ride." Miss Mason is also a lover of wild animals of all kinds and spends little time in the cot post and other places where they may be found. They whould have to chloroform her to keep her at the studio when a circus comes to town. One of the most beautiful spots in Hollywood, California, is Miss Mason's little bungalow home. Here with her mother and little sister, Viola Dana, Miss Mason spends many a quiet and restful hour. The Final Close-up" is a picture based on a story which is particularly suited to Miss Mason's talents and her work is exceptional throughout.

SHE MARRIES A "COP"

If you are a pretty girl, and if you own an attractive automobile, just appropriate it. Then when you are arrested merely marry the police-man and you are safe. In "Fair Enough" beautiful Margarita Fisher's new and very funny farce to be seen at Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday, she demonstrates how their is a way out of all difficulties—if one is pretty. She is the care-free, whimsical daughter of parents of high social ambitions and she outwits a prude, prime and punctilious governess in order to be her own, untrammeled self. She turns all conventional tenets topsy-turvy, plays havoc with her father's finances, gives pianics to a horde of street gamins, falls in love with a policeman at first sight, and runs the gauntelets of dangers and escapades until she is finally apprehended for purloining a race car. Then, the clever way of getting out of her fix is well worth seeing. Jack Mower, one of the most popular talented players on the screen is her leading man. 8 other cualities reels will also be exhibited.

Military News

Permission is garnted to general officers and staff officers appointed to the services and departments of militia and district headquarters to wear slacks while performing office duties. Slacks will be worn by troops when directed by officers commanding units.

Col. H. T. Hughes, R.E., has been appointed Canadian commissioner on the Imperial Battlefields Memorial Commission. There will be eight memorial battlefields in France and Flanders and a memorial building will be erected on each of them. This building will have an observatory from which a view may be had of the surrounding country. Part of it will be set aside as a museum, which will contain models of trench systems in use by the opposing forces. Col. Hughes will save for Europe on September 1st, to begin his duties, and he will be accompanied by Lieut. E. T. Adney, C.E., who has had much experience in constructing models of trench systems for instructional purposes. Some of his work has attracted much attention, and may be seen at the Royal Military College.

HARVEST CLOVER AND TIMOTHY SEED

The Seed Commissioner has just returned from the International Convention of the Seed Trade Association held at Chicago, and reports that there is very real cause for prospective high prices in clover and timothy seeds for autumn delivery. Through the greater part of the clover growing districts of the United States and Western Ontario the new clover crop was destroyed by drouth in August of last year. The timothy acreage in the United States was also much reduced in order to grow wheat. There is practically no reserve supplies of clover seeds being carried over for next year, and timothy seed stocks are also very low.

Prices are soaring in consequence. Red clover seed on the Toledo market was quoted on June 28th, at $24.75 per bushel for autumn delivery, which is an advance of almost $8.00 since May 16th. Timothy seed was quoted at $12.25 per hundred pounds, and is advancing rapidly.

Farmers in Eastern Canada who have clover or timothy crops, reasonably free from weeds should difficult of separation, can depend on a strong demand for seed at unusually high prices. The Ontario Department of Agriculture is arranging to assist in the transportation of clover seed hullers, which can be spared from Western Ontario, to those counties in Eastern Ontario which have excellent clover crops for seed purposes. In Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia clover seed hullers are available for the use of farmers.

Save the Children

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, colic, constantan and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well little one, prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe, and may be especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Letters from Overseas

The following letter was received by Mrs. J. Lickfold, R.F.D. No. 8, from her brother, Roy:

Epsom, June 22, 1919.

Mrs. J. Lickfold,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sister:—I received your very welcome letter a few days ago and was very pleased to know you are all well as this leaves me fine. We have had splendid weather here for two months, only rather dry for the farmers, but we had two nice showers this week so the growth will freshen up now.

I suppose you have heard about the fleet we had over here; it is too bad that it happened, but no doubt they didn't expect it would turn out as it did. They are talking of taking a subscription for the widow of the Police Sergeant who was killed and I expect mostly all the lads will give ten shillings, so it will amount to three or four hundred pounds. Of course the lad that will never make up the loss of her husband, but it may make life a little easier than with out the money.

We would likely be home now, only they turned this into a hospital and they send in about 2,000 patients. They are getting them cured pretty fast now so we might be home by August or September.

The Sixth Reserve is gone now so the lads I knew will be all home or on their way.

This is all I can think of tonight, so will close. Hoping to hear from you soon. I am ever with love,

Sincerely yours,
ROY.

Letters to the Editor

Belleville, Ont., July 3, 1919.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,

Dear Sir,—In thinking of the children we have in the Shelter and the beautiful weather which we are having and hearing of so many people leaving the city for a little vacation and recreation in the cool spots on the bay and other points of interest, I wondered if some of these good people would be so kind as to take with them a little child from the Shelter on their holidays, bringing a little sunshine and happiness into the lives of these little not-wanted or dependent children. Even if it was only for a week or two or perhaps some kind farmer's wife would accept the responsibility of one on the farm for this school vacation.

Inspt. Ruston will be delighted to hear from anyone.

Write 223 Church St., or phone 644.

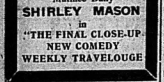

Trusting this appeal on behalf of the kiddies will meet with a hearty response, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
THOS. D. RUSTON.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

WASHBURN'S CORNERS, July 3—Edmund Lapointe narrowly escaped drowning while bathing in Delta Lake recently. He became entangled in the weeds, but was rescued in time by a nearby fisherman.

WOMEN CURED AT HOME

Women's disorders always yield from the very beginning of the treatment to the mild but effective action of Orange Lily. Within two or three days after commencing its use the improvement becomes noticeable, and this improvement continues until the patient is completely cured. Orange Lily is an applied or local treatment, and acts direct on the womanly organs, removing the congestion, toning and strengthening the nerves, and restoring perfect circulation in the diseased parts. In order to convince all suffering women of the value of this remedy, it will send a 40 cent box, enough for 10 days treatment, absolutely free to each lady who will send me her address. Enclose 2 stamps and address Mrs. Lydia W. Ladd, Windsor, Ont.

BEACON SHOWS

This big attraction visits Belleville for one week, commencing Monday, on Bleecker Avenue grounds, and presents to the Belleville public the best attraction of this nature that's ever played this city. The Parlor Circus, the Dog and Pony show, the 10-in-1 show, the famous Human Heart, the Lady Troubadour, the Athletic Tournament, Cleo and her Snakes, and many other novelties. The one great free exhibition afternoon and evening Matt Gay, who dives from a high ladder of 102 feet into a tank of four feet of water. Don't fail to see this wonderful act; in fact, don't fail to see all the noted attractions.

Called By Death

MRS. W. H. NOBES.

After an illness of ten weeks duration the death of the late Mrs. W. H. Nobes, wife of the clerk of Sidney Township, came as a shock to the surrounding community. Although, beside the family doctor, the best physicians that could be obtained were brought from Toronto, and every possible means used to bring about her recovery, yet death came at 8.15 p.m. on Thursday, June 14. Deceased, who was in her fifty-fifth year, was the youngest daughter of the late Samuel McTaggart, and had always resided in Hastings county. She was converted in early life under the ministry of the Rev. Samuel McCauley, and her Christian character was in evidence day by day throughout her life. Of a modest and retiring disposition, yet quiet and gentle life made a lasting impression on those who knew her best, and particularly on the members of her own household. The edem in which she was held was manifested at her obsequies by the many friends present from various neighborhoods where she had lived who came to pay the last tribute of respect to one whom they loved and to show their sympathy with the bereaved and grief-stricken family. The floral tributes with which the casket was loaded were from members of the family and others, also a beautiful design from the W. M. S. of which she was a member. Besides a husband she leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Ira Seansell, of Trenton; Mrs. Smith, of Toronto, and Mrs. Lane, of Sidney; also two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Esmond, of this city, and Mrs. J. J. Cooley, of Thurlow.

A very solemn and impressive funeral service was conducted on Saturday afternoon at the Wallbridge Methodist Church by Rev. T. Wallace, rector of Sidney circuit. The order of service was as follows: Congregational singing, "O God, our help in ages past." Prayer, Rev. T. Wallace. Solo, "In the sunshine of His Smile," by Mrs. (Rev.) McMullen, of Camilton, with harp accompaniment. Scripture readings, Psalm 91 and II. Timothy, iv:1-8. Selection by choir, "No Night There." Solo, "Some Day We'll Understand," by Mrs. (Rev.) Cooke of Newburgh. Sermon, Rev. T. Wallace, text, II. Timothy, iv:6,7,8. Solo with harp accompaniment by Mrs. Rev. McMullen, "Hold Thou my Hand." Congregational singing, "Rock of Ages."

The cortege then proceeded to the Belleville cemetery where the remains were interred in the family plot awaiting the resurrection of the just.

In Memoriam

In memoriam of our loving husband and father, Lawrence Holley, who passed away June 29th, 1919.

God has called our father home,
Called him to a better place,
Never more upon life's journey
Shall we see his smiling face.

We shall miss you sadly father,
But we would not call you back,
For we know you're resting safely
In God's loving arms at last.

Wife and Children.

Sporting News

RED SOX 7 VS. Y. M. C. A. 3

Last evening at the Fair Grounds, a fast and interesting ball game took place between two City Junior League Teams, namely the Reg Sox and the Giants. The game resulted in a victory for the Sox by the score of 7 to 3. The Sox had them 7 to 0 until the last innings when they loosened up and gave the Giants three runs which put them so excited they thought they were going to win the ball game. The Sox pitcher showed good form by getting the next three men at the bat. The Giants beat the Red Sox by the score of 7 to 6 in the first game they played but the Sox clearly showed that they were the best team and that only hard luck lost them their first game of the season.

Mr. Elvins and Mr. Anderson umpired the game and on the whole their decisions were fair and impartial

The line up was as follows:

Red Sox—Cretney, Moxam, Baldree Myles, Marakas, Jose, Hertig, Ashley, and Clark.

Giants—Hurley, Anderson, Leigh Wims, Harnes, Jeffries, Watts, Hibard, Miles.

G. T. R. WIN

The protested game of baseball between the G. T. R. team of this city and Perboro' team which was played evening at Port Hope and our boys won a decided victory. Peterboro' protested a previous game and won, with the result that the game was directed to be played at Port Hope. The result was a win for Belleville by a score of 6 to 3. A large crowd witnessed the game, not a few being from this city. Conover, pitcher for the winning team was in fine form, pitching one of his best games.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. John Elliott Extends Thanks

At the annual meeting of the Belleville Club held on Friday evening, the 27th ultimo, Mr. John Elliott thanked the President, Mr. A. Gillen, for having placed the Club premises at his disposal and thereby enabling him to entertain, as his guests, Hon. T. A. Crerar, then Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Hon. G. H. Henry, Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Ontario, Hon. Dr. H. J. Cody, Minister of Education in this province, and numerous other prominent Canadians, who were attending the annual meeting of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario convened here in January last.

Mr. Elliott feels gratified at having had the privilege and opportunity of entertaining so many distinguished people, and desires to thank the Belleville ladies who so willingly and capably assisted him on that occasion.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC

3 Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for six months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better; and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about "Fruit-a-tives" the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.

I have every confidence in "Fruit-a-tives" and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism".

EMPLOYERS

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OF CANADA

The PROFESSIONAL and BUSINESS SECTION has been established to assist professional, business and technical men and women.

Many officers, soldiers, sailors and war workers, who sacrificed their positions during the war, now desire to secure employment in the occupations for which they have been specially trained.

Employers should not wait until increasing business forces them to employ anybody they can obtain; but should look ahead and avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to enlist the services of highly trained workers, ordinarily secured only with difficulty. On application there can be referred to you, for example :—

ENGINEERS	LAW CLERKS
ARCHITECTS	COMMERCIAL ARTISTS
BUSINESS EXECUTIVES	SALES MANAGERS
ACCOUNTANTS	TRAVELLING SALESMEN
SECRETARIES	CHEMISTS
TEACHERS	YOUNG COLLEGE GRADUATES

These workers are returning to civil occupations with increased initiative, a broader view of life, and a greater capacity for work.

While some men practice what they preach the majority would be ashamed to preach half what they practise.

The government schools in Great Britain have done much in testing the availability of women for new kinds of work, carrying on experiments in this line which it would be difficult for a private firm to undertake.

It takes a hustler to distinguish the difference between an obstacle and a hindrance in his path.

THE MARKET.

Owing to the farmers being busy there was not a large attendance upon the market this morning. Prices were good for all products offered for sale. Dairy butter sold at from 55c. to 60c. per pound; fresh eggs, 45c. and 46c. per dozen and dressed chickens from $2.25 to $3.00 per pair. A few lots of strawberries brought 20c. a box and raspberries 35c. a box. Green peas sold at 35c. and 40c. per quart. Garden produce was readily disposed of.

SUCCESSFUL PUPILS.

The pupils of Miss Elizabeth Potter, V.P.C.M., Mus. Bac., who were successful in the recent piano examinations for the Toronto Conservatory of Music, were as follows: Intermediate—Valiere Wrightmeyer. Primary—Evelyn Campbell (honors). Introductory—Dorothy Roblin (honors), Mary Caldwell.

$200,000 FOR TRENTON HOMES.

The Government arbitrator, J. B. White, of Toronto, was in Trenton on Friday conducting an arbitration to fix the value of some seventy lots expropriated by the Trenton Housing Commission. The commission has obtained $200,000 from the Government for the purpose of building modern homes for the citizens of Trenton, who desire to take advantage of the Government's liberal policy of enabling people to become owners of up-to-date homes at moderate prices and on easy payments. The lots expropriated are high and dry and located on one of the most beautiful spots on the west hill, having a view of the Bay and being near the Trenton Park. The Trenton council is to be congratulated on its progressive spirit in this matter. W. C. Mikel, K.C., acted for the owners and A. Abbott for the Trenton Housing Commission.

INGAM—THRASHER

A pretty home wedding was solemnized by the Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Thrasher, Park St., when their only daughter Ethel was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Ingam, lately returned from overseas. Her little cousin, Evelyn Thrasher, was flower girl. The bride looked charming in a gown of grey georgette over grey satin and carried a bouquet of roses. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Ingam left for Toronto where they will reside.

This is a Greater Maxwell

There have been many improvements made in the Maxwell since the war ceased. Some of them have made the car look better. Others have made it run better.

You will note a new type radiator, a further advance in body detail, an improved electrical system, a Hot Spot and a Ram's-horn, a superior development in upholstery, and a top more durable.

Any of these is well worth any man's time to look over, and the sum of all represent a decided value added to the car.

But the fundamentals of the car are unchanged. 300,000 Maxwells on the highways of the world—all of the same model—have proved that a policy of never changing the base design is profitable in more ways than one to buyer and maker.

It means extra value at a lower price.
It means perfection in design.
It means perfection in workmanship.
It means you pay for no experiments, no engineering knick-knacks.
It means you pay for no mistakes.
It means a car of everlasting reliability.
It means a car of endless mileage.

You can easily pay $300 more and receive less. This Maxwell is old in antecedents but modern as far as sound engineering dare go.

There is no car of the day selling for so low a price to offer so many attractive inducements.

See this recent Maxwell, and bear in mind that despite the eight great Maxwell plants the supply is already running far short of the demand. $1155 f.o.b. Windsor.

But still there was a silence.

Then suddenly I saw the face of the Princess faintly silhouetted against the window. I started, for the only light outside that I knew of was due to the reflection from the city lamps and the sky. And this could not be occasioned by any such cause. But even as I looked, the patch of sky changed from grey to pink, and from pink to crimson, till the glare of it was reflected on every wall of the room.

"What is happening?" the Princess cried, pointing out across the sea, "what are those fires springing to light in the bay?"

He looked out into the glare and in the reflection of it I saw a smile of triumph on his face.

"They are your ships," he said quietly; "they are burning; they will never return to England."

"Is this your work?" she cried passionately, turning on him as though she would strike him in the face.

"It is the work of those who love you" he answered. "It is the best reply to those who would leave you to your fate. I suggested it to Sir Thule de Brie, when he sent word of the threatened mutiny. By all the saints! he will not be popular with his men to-night."

The Princess buried her face in her hands and was silent. The sight of the burning ships must have filled her mind with a multitude of thoughts. These men were now bound to her for life or death. There was no turning back. Their very lives were given in to her hand, and the question that would decide their fate was still unanswered. Count Guy was not slow to press his point.

"Lest they should draw back," he murmured. "Sir Jude de Brie could not have done this by himself. There are others, not men of this country, who have sacrificed themselves that you may be Queen of Asturnia. These rash fellows know their duty. Are you going to leave them to their fate"

The Princess did not answer, but I knew that she had been driven into a corner. If I had only had my revolver, I could have cut the whole tangled skein of rime and argument. But I was unarmed and the man I had to deal with could have crushed me with one hand.

"Have you no duty to your country?" he continued, and his voice was very tender. She drew herself up and looked at him with a face of stone.

"Count Guy," she said in a hard voice "I will give you your answer to-morrow morning. I must have the night in which to think it over. When I am by myself I shall be able to weigh things more clearly in my brain."

He bowed, and raising her hand to his lips, turned on his heel and left the room. When the clank of his steel had died away, I flung myself from my place of concealment with hot words of anger and passion on my lips. The Princess moved towards me, and the glow of the burning ships I could see the expression on her face. It was such that I could not speak. Pain and doubt and fear and noble resolve were mingled upon her countenance that all thought of self was thrust aside. I read the answer she would give Count Guy of Marmorel.

"My dear lady," I whispered, "can I help you?"

"By your silence," she replied; "by leaving unsaid what would bias my true judgment. My good and kind friend, I have a great burden to bear and I must bear it alone."

"I know, I know," I answered "and I would help you."

"You do not know all," she said, turning her eyes away from mine. I took her hand and lifted it to my lips but when I recalled who had kissed it last I dropped it as though it had stung me, and crept to the door with bowed head and clenched hands.

At the door I turned and for one brief moment I imagined I saw a look of love and pity upon her face. But when I looked again, I saw nothing but a cold mask of stone gazing out into the red glare on the sea.

CHAPTER XXIV

The next morning I heard from one of the pages that Lady Thora had consented to become the wife of Count Guy of Marmorel. An hour later we were summoned to a meeting in the great hall of the castle. It was full to its utmost extent with a moving mass of pennons and plumes and spears, and the low murmur that ran through the throng showed me that expectation and discussion ran high. In a few minutes the multitude of men had settled itself into a more orderly disposition. The knights stood in long ranks of steel and blazonry close to the great dais at the end of the hall, next to them the squires and pages, and then stretching to the other end close mass of archers and men-at-arms.

On the dais itself were placed two chairs, and behind these stood Sir Hugh de la Perche, Lord Falk of Brabancon, the Lord of Marmontier, and Sir Gascon de Verreille who were next to Count Guy of Marmorel, the foremost soldiers of the kingdom. They spoke with one another in a low voice and I tried in vain to glean from their impassive faces how they looked upon this desperate move. I could not doubt that they viewed it with some degree of favour. Count Guy was too keen a diplomat and too wary a soldier to have made a false step. It seemed plain to me that he had already sounded the most influential men here around him, and was unlikely to say anything which would bring the sword of every loyal subject to his breast. This was but the final move in a long-premeditated and thought-out game. The knights would be on his side. For the common soldiers he would care little. In a kingdom where internecine wars were so fierce and so constant as to have kept down the population for eight centuries, they would care little what master they served so long as they saw their way to victory and a certainty of being paid their wages. It would rest with the knights, their feudal lords, to direct their wills and energies.

Then a sudden hush came over the whole assembly, and the murmurs died away like falling echoes. I looked at the dais and saw an open door behind the chairs of state, beyond it the bright light from some lamp, and silhouetted against the light the tall figure of a man. He paused but for a second and then stepped forward a pace, closing the door and advancing towards us. It was Count Guy of Marmorel, clad from head to foot in cuirass and armour with his blazoned shield on his left arm, and his right hand upon his sword. He gave one keen glance round the whole room, as though estimating the exact attitude of every man's mind and spoke to the point without beating about the bush.

YO HO MOTOR BOAT MEN

(Montreal Gazette.

What a change! In the days of old with early spring, Montreal and Quebec sent the hardy, open-air bois sant on his long journey for furs in canoes up the Ottawa River, then lassing on the Georgian bay behind Manicoutin Island, Sault Ste. Marie was reached and the inter-change of goods took place for the splendid furs trained by the Indians. Think of the long days of arduous paddling, the carrying over long portages and well-earned nights of repose, stretching the trip both ways into months.

To-day how different the splendid and swift motor boat can leave Montreal and run up Lake Ontario through the charming Thousand Islands and entering the Trent Valley canal, in short time, find itself on Lake Simcoe. Verily doth time work wonders. A committee of sentors and members interested in the route are campaigning for the publicity of the route and with the following inducements ask motor boat enthusiasts to blaze the way this season.

Take the Trent Valley Canal at Trenton on north side of Lake Ontario thence to Lake Simcoe.

Least draft of water—6 feet.

Locks open on Sundays at certain hours.

Length of locks between hollow quoins, 134 fe., width 33 ft.

Telephone, telegraph system and good hotels along the route.

Take your party by automobile to Lake Simcoe, let another party proceed by motor boat to Lake Simcoe, then exchange and each have the two trips.

From Lake Simcoe south side, run into Toronto by Radial and see this fine city.

The route for the swell yachts, the medium sized one and fine for the husky boys who can camp along the way.

See at Peterboro the highest lift in the world—65 feet.

See fine progressive towns and beautiful farms en route.

Good fishing on the way.

In 1920 the motor will be able to go through to Georgian Bay.

See immense electrical power plants on the way and the industrial results with large manufacturing concerns.

Come up from Quebec over this grand water system with your boats and make a delightful run to Toronto with your brother motor boat enthusiasts to go down and see the beauties of the magnificent St. Lawrence River and your cities.

Asphalt for Protection

If you will write your name and address on the margin of this advertisement, tear the ad. out and mail it to us, we will send you, free of charge, miniature samples of the best shingles you can use for your home roof.

For Better Roofs

DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingles make a beautiful roof. The crushed slate surface, Red or Green, is thoroughly satisfying to the most critical eye, and since the color cannot fade or wash out the satisfaction is permanent.

But even more important are these facts—one DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingle takes the place of eight wooden shingles, and so saves labour and freight money. The asphalt base is perfect protection against weather and fire. And because DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingles are so durable, the cost per year of service is very small.

This is not Utopia

INSURANCE companies and insurance agents would find a poor field in "Utopia," where every good citizen is cared for by the state. But we do not live in Utopia.

In that happy (?) land no money is used as a medium of exchange but the different industrial communities barter their products. This looks easy—but again—we do not live in Utopia.

We live in Canada where there is competition both among manual workers and capitalists. Health, skill and hard work are essential to existence. When these fail, unless money has been saved to provide for old age, it is a question of dependence, death or the poor-house.

If health and life fail, a Mutual policy will provide for your dependents during the years when they are most helpless. When old age comes on a Mutual Life long term endowment policy will ensure independence.

The Mutual Life is the greatest exponent in Canada of modern scientific co-operation for mutual benefit.

ORANGE SERVICE

An Orangemen's service will be held at John Street Presbyterian Church tomorrow afternoon at 3 P. M. under the auspices of L. O. L. 274, L. O. L. 2519 and R. E. P. 883. The pastor Rev. D. C. Ramsay will officiate.

TRAIN OFF TRACK

The way-freight which left Bancroft for Mariposh on Tuesday morning had the misfortune to run off the track between here and Bird's Creek. The engine and tender left the rails and remained off until the auxiliary train and crew came up from Trenton, late in the afternoon to replace it.

WILL BE ORDAINED

Mr. Albert Redding, who is an accomplished musician and holds a degree of Associate, Royal College of Organists and who received his theological training for Holy Orders at St. Paul's House, Essex, England will be ordained to the Deaconate on Sunday, July 6th by Bishop of Ontario, Right Reverend Dr. Bidwell.

INSPECTED HIGHWAY

A thorough inspection of the Madoc Provincial Highway was made on Monday evening by the the Government Engineer, sent for the purpose and the Women's Committee. The road was carefully gone over not only on the surface but from the viewpoint of the dissatisfied residents along the way. Work has commenced on the highway and it is hoped that the energetic campaign of the women residents will meet with the success it deserves.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE

Mr. James Douglas of Fort Stewart had a narrow escape from being blown to atoms one day this week. While engaged in using blasting powder to remove boulders from the road on which they were working, he was in the act of tempering the powder with a crow bar, when the charge went off knocking him senseless. He was picked up unconscious and badly bruised and burnt about the face and hands. Mr. Douglas received a severe shaking up, but we are pleased to report that he took in the picnic on Tuesday and although looking the worst of the fracas, was able to meet his friends with a smile.

AGREEABLY SURPRISED

On Tuesday evening, July 1, when Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Marvin returned home after making some calls they were welcomed by a large gathering of people. Almost all of the families of the church people of the Wesley appointment had assembled for a lawn party and to show their appreciation of the services rendered by Dr. and Mrs. Marvin during their pastorate here. During the fore part of the evening games were played on the pretty parsonage grounds; later refreshments were served. During the course of the evening a program was given and several of those present spoke of the esteem in which Dr. and Mrs. Marvin are held and wished them every success and God's blessing in their new field of labor.

Obsequies

JOHN CREEPER

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. John Creeper, of Parks Mills, who met an untimely death in a gravel pit, was held and was largely attended. An impressive service was held at the family residence, conducted by Rev. J. Mellor of Northport, assisted by Rev. Mr. Jones and Adjutant Goodnow of the Salvation Army. Interment took place at Belleville cemetery. Many were the floral designs contributed by relatives and friends, among which was a sheet of newly ripened wheat from Mr. and Mrs. Gay, and wreaths and sprays from Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph, Mrs. W. F. Reeve, Miss C. W. Haynes, University Sabbath School and Derry Lodge True Blues. The bearers were six nephews of deceased, namely F. E. Denny G. E. Spencer, W. H. Robinson, W. Christie, T. Blackburn and S. Finkle.

80TH BATTALLION

The trustees of the battalion funds of the 80th Battalion, Canadian expeditionary force—Lieut.-Col. W. G. Ketcheson, Major H. H. Alger, Capt. R. E. Layfield and H. F. Ketcheson, ex-mayor of Belleville appointed by the officer commanding overseas force—held a meeting June 27. The funds of the battalion are available to expend in small grants for the use and benefit of the deserving of all ranks of the battalion who proceeded overseas, or of the dependents who are in need, or as the trustees see fit. The band instruments and music were presented to the individual members who played them and proceeded overseas. The distribution of these instruments will be under the direction of Lieut. H. A. Stares, late bandsmaster of the 80th Battalion, divisional band. The majority of these players are now connected with the 21st regiment band, Hamilton. It is the intention of the late commanding officer of this unit to call a reunion of all ranks in the City of Belleville

Build Now! Homes, Schools, Churches and Roads

That message, word for word, is being spread throughout our country by the U. S. Department of Labor.

"Build now." Goodrich is quick to echo the word and pass it along.

Just as Goodrich for years spread the message of building roads —new roads, good roads, better roads.

The Goodrich Guide Post pointing the way at cross-roads everywhere in our land, marks the Goodrich interest in roads.

But Goodrich Tires are built to meet the conditions of all roads, rough or smooth, paved or unpaved.

Whatever kind of going, the Goodrich SAFE-TY TREAD with its interlocking safety bars lay down more rubber, more wear, and more safety on the road.

The Goodrich extra wide tread, fortifying the sidewall, is your best defense when you must ride deep wagon tracks.

Build roads, good roads. They help you get out all the service value Goodrich puts into tires.

Solves The Problem Of Fooling Flivver

I have come to the conclusion that there is something almost human about an automobile, because whenever I made preparations for a trip of any distance, and had everything ready the night before for an early start, there would always be a flat tire, or carburetor out of adjustment, or some other mechanical trouble that had developed overnight.

Now, I never let the car know I am going on a trip. I just go about things as though I were going out to the park and taking a little extra precaution. I find it works, and the old car never knows when it is going until it gets there.—Thomas H. Green, in The Automobile Club of Maryland Motorist.

N.C.-4 "Willard Equipped" on First Trans-Atlantic Flight
ALL THREE NAVY PLANES USE WILLARD BATTERIES ON BIG JUMP.

"Our Engines worked perfectly," said Commander Read of the N.C.-4.

The N.C.-4 carried Willard Batteries.

On the long jump, high in the air above the fog, the Willard Storage Batteries functioned perfectly, never a miss or a skip.

Ten S.O.R. Willard Batteries, with Threaded Rubber Insulation, were on the N.C.-4 as she blazed the new trail and made history. Four batteries were in use and six were held in reserve and never needed.

Absolute dependability and constant performance were essential—so Willard Batteries were chosen, and lived up to their reputation.

Every unit on the N.C.-4 flying boat had to pass a thorough inspection and rigid test before it was used. Willard Batteries were not chosen on reputation alone—they were selected because they earned and continued to earn that reputation.

Our customers will be interested in this fact. Everyone is talking about the wonderful feat of the N.C.-4, and we are proud of the part that Willard Batteries played in it.

Societies Attend Divine Service At Presbyterian Church

A LARGE TURNOUT OF MEMBERS — APPROPRIATE DISCOURSE BY REV. D. C. RAMSAY.

Members of the Orange, Prentice Boys, True Blues, Sons of England, and Sons of United Societies in goodly numbers on Sunday afternoon attended divine service at John St. Presbyterian Church in this city. The parade was headed by the Johnstone's Kilties band playing appropriate selections. The church was well filled when the service commenced. Rev. D. C. Ramsay, pastor, officiated and preached, his discourse being in keeping with the occasion, Rev. Bro. A. L. Geen assisted in the service by reading the lesson. After the usual devotional exercises had been conducted Rev. Mr. Ramsay delivered the sermon, the subject of which was "Testing for Service." His text was a portion of the 4th verse of the 9th chapter of Judges:

"I will try them for there."

The divine in his opening remarks extended on behalf of the members of the congregation a hearty welcome to the members of the various societies to the house of worship. In referring to his subject Rev. Mr. Ramsay said we often think of the early struggle of Israel as we think of a great war. The early struggles of Israel were, however, somewhat different. New phases of warfare arose among them. There were three parties and for years the land was in constant struggle and turmoil. Gideon rose rapidly in Israel and soon was chief commander and an army was raised by him. A command came from God to test his army. Out of an army of 32,000 only 10,000 was left after the testing time to go out and fight the Midianites. He was commanded to take the 10,000 to a stream and only select those who lapped water by the tongue. These were the men chosen by God to do a big piece of work. The 10,000 was reduced to 300 and with this small number God said He would overthrow the Midianites. They were selected for their courage and zeal. They had within them those qualities that we needed for the present time. Any other man was a danger. One careless man might have destroyed all the plans of Gideon. We are called to a great conflict. Gideon's attack was against a physical foe who desired to destroy and ravish his country. We are called now to enlist in a course that stands for liberty of religion, not only in this but in every land. God has prepared His test. You need courage and zeal; a man may be as courageous as he can be and also zealous, yet not prepared for a great spiritual contest. In a conflict such as this three things are essential, knowledge, feeling and action. We are engaged in a spiritual conflict and the first question we should ask is what knowledge do I bring to bear on the problem... Did I understand the issue at stake? The first test in this contest of spiritual matters is knowledge. The second essential test is in the test of feeling. We should be inspired in the great feeling that we should have a great storehouse of feeling. We should decide in this conflict. The third test of service is the test of action and this is fundamental. If God is to realize His Kingdom it is to be done by action. We believe in religious liberties, and we are here because we believe this. It is time to teach our children these fundamental principles of religion. Let us be fair and honest soldiers and enlist in a great cause, the most fundamental cause in the world. If it succeeds it carries us to the foot of the throne of the eternal. The test is what are we doing in the battle for the cause? If we are not seized with the great principles involved in this struggle then we are in blindness. In closing the divine impressed upon all the necessity of attending every Sunday the place of worship of their choice.

During the service the choir rendered two anthems in a capable manner.

Auxiliary Crane Strikes Bridge, Toppling Over

As the result of a run off which occurred about noon on Sunday on the line of the G. T. R. just west of the railway bridge which spans the Moira River here another accident took place which might have resulted fatally but fortunately such was not the case. The big auxiliary was called out to replace a box car of an east bound freight train which left the track near Grier Street Crossing, owing it is alleged to a broken axle. The car was replaced and the track cleared after some time and the auxiliary train repaired to the yard for the purpose of bringing some trucks to replace beneath the car. Whilst proceeding on the scene of the run off the boom of the large hoisting crane was not lowered sufficiently with the result that it struck the overhead girder of the bridge, with sufficient force to cause the crane to topple over. At the time John Gunn, Norman Munro and J. Hay were aboard the crane and the two latter jumped escaping serious injury. Gunn was not so fortunate as he was caught by escaping steam and it is said was scalded to some extent. As speedily as possible he was rescued and taken to the hospital where his injuries were dressed. His condition is by no means serious. The crane in falling completely blocked the east bound track and the boom rested against the pier of the bridge. It was necessary to call into requisition a wrecking crew with a crane from Kingston Junction and the work shortly before 8 o'clock. The overturned crane was lifted upon the tracks and later trucks were placed beneath it. The crane is considerably damaged and was taken to Montreal to be repaired. During the afternoon and evening the scene of the accident was visited by hundreds of citizens who evidenced much interest in the procedure to restore the 90,000 ton piece of mechanism to its original position.

Prohibition Bill Dies By Deadlock

OTTAWA, July 7—The result of the conference between representatives of the Senate and the House of Commons upon the bill to prohibit for a year from the proclamation of peace the war order-in-Council prohibiting the importation, transportation and manufacture of liquor was announced to both Houses. The conferees failed to reach a compromise. The Senate "managers" refused to legislate to the effect that the order-in-Council should cease to have effect on November 11, 1919, one year from the date of the armistice. The Commons representatives suggested that the date be March 31st, 1920, and when that proposition was refused by the Senate managers a new amendment be adopted making the application of the legislation to any province optional with the Provincial governments. This was not accepted. Sir Thomas White, the referee, moved in the Commons that the House remain firm in refusing to concur the amendment made in the bill by the Senate. The bill thus fails to the ground and the order-in-Council remains operative. The opinion has been expressed that the order can have no validity after the expiration of the War Measures Act upon the proclamation of peace.

Western Crop Outlook Is Fairly Promising

LACK OF JUNE RAINS FELT BADLY IN SOME LOCALITIES, BUT RECUPERATIVE FARMERS OF COUNTRY EXPECTED TO RETRIEVE WHAT MIGHT OTHERWISE BE SERIOUS SITUATION.

WINNIPEG, July 7.—Advices regarding the outlook for Canada's western crops have been of much more cheerful tenor in the past few days, heavy rainfalls in Alberta and Saskatchewan having put an end to the drought that had been giving rise to considerable uneasiness. In Manitoba crop conditions are excellent and the report from Winnipeg in Bradstreet's thrade review this week emphasizes the highly gratifying character of the crop news where this province is concerned. On the other hand, Bradstreet's reports from Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and other cities in Alberta and Saskatchewan contained statements that grasshoppers as well as the rainless heat were proving a menace to crops, but since those reports were compiled there have been soaking rains which have put a new complexion on the situation.

The secretary of the Canadian Bank of Commerce said on Saturday that the latest news received was that in the Regina district there had been very heavy rainfalls. In Saskatoon and southern Alberta the outlook was not so good, but in Manitoba conditions were still above the average.

The Canadian National Railways did not receive its expected crop report on Saturday but previous advices dealing with the territory covered by the road were on the whole promising.

The reports of the situation from the agents of the Massey-Harris Company, located all over the western provinces and which are regarded as being exceptionally reliable have not commenced to come in to any extent as yet. Those received while they, as well, received give the situation as fair. In Central and South Alberta while the crops and hay are less favourable than last year, the outlook is not serious.

RAIN BADLY NEEDED

In the Edmonton district rain is badly needed and while the situation is not promising.

From other sources The World learns that last week the outlook in Saskatoon was not favorable, but expected rain would improve matters. It is also pointed out that the recuperative powers of this province's wheat crop are remarkable and farmers can quote from past experiences where at one stage the crop looked to be almost a total loss following a dry June but recovered in July when delayed rains fell and by harvest time yielded a fair crop.

ONTARIO CROPS

A survey of the southern belt of Ontario shows the crops to be in excellent promising.

Hay will be exceptionally heavy and quite a lot is already harvested. There is so much that it will take the rest of July to get it in.

Fall and spring wheat are in good shape as to condition and acreage.

Oats and barley in most sections underwent unfair seeding condition and will not make an average crop, notably difficult commissions for adjusting the extraordinarily delicate, complex, ethical, economic and strategic questions which had arisen.

"We owed a great deal to the ability and judgment with which they helped on the innumerable commissions, and their work has been the admiration of foreign delegations," said Mr. Lloyd George.

The five sons of the former Emperor William have offered themselves for trial in place of their father.

Late Telegraph Briefs

R-34 arrived at Mineola, N.Y., Sunday morning, at nine fifty after making the longest nonstop flight in history governing three thousand six hundred miles. She was almost entirely out of fuel when the voyage finished.

Rioting is taking place at Florence and one person has been killed and several wounded. All business has stopped.

A terrific rain and hail storm in Western Ontario on Saturday has completely ruined crops in many localities.

Conference between the Senate and House on Prohibition Bill failed to bring results. Dry bill therefore is a dead letter.

The Austrian Peace Treaty will be presented to the Austrian delegation on Tuesday.

Aftermath Of Championship Fight

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 7.—The official check of total gate receipts and attendance of the Jack Dempsey-Jess Willard heavy weight championship contest is expected to be completed before tonight. Tex Rickard, promotor, said he would be considerably surprised if the gate receipts exceeded $1,000,000. Rumors current today were to the effect that Willard was dead or dying from the effects of punishment Dempsey gave him. Newspaper offices were besieged with telephone calls from Cleveland and other cities as a result. One report was that the dethroned champion had died from a bursted blood vessel. Another report was that he had gone insane. There is no truth in these reports.

Handley Page May Also Fly To Toronto

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Admiralty station broadcasted a message to ships at sea this morning announcing the contemplated flight, and requesting that all steamers watch for and report promptly any signals sent out by the merchant rumors

It was understood here that if the flight to New York was successful, the Handley Page would fly to Toronto, to in the latter part of August, to take part in an air meet arranged there in connection with the proposed visit of the Prince of Wales. It was said that the big plane then probably would make flights to several American cities, including Atlantic City, and possibly would attempt a flight across the American continent in the autumn.

International Labor Demonstration

PARIS, July 5.—The Executive Committee of the General Labor Federation announces that after conferring with British and Italian "comrades," plans are being laid for an international Labor manifestation on July 21, when there will be a complete stoppage of all work in France and Italy.

The objects of the demonstration, it is said, are "The cessation of armed intervention of armies, the restoration of constitutional rights, full and absolute amnesty, and, above all, a war on the increased cost of living by all possible means."

Ex-Crown Prince Meditates Suicide

AMSTERDAM, July 7.—"The exiles can only have my dead body; I will myself decide on my life or death" the former German Crown Prince has quoted as having said Friday in discussing a possible demand for his extradition.

This statement reported by the British wireless service correspondent was said by him to have been made to a Dutch official who talks daily with the former Crown Prince.

British Dirigible On Return Trip

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Special

Mineola, July 7.—The British dirigible R-34 which is scheduled to start on her homeward trip an hour before day break on Tuesday morning may cast off late this forenoon or early this evening according to unofficial information obtained at Roosevelt Field at 8.30 this morning. Mechanics were rushing work of re-fueling and overhauling R-34 all night long.

"White Shall Not Neutralize Black"

COPENHAGEN, July 7.—The German National Assembly, according to press despatches, adopted new national colors and a commercial flag Friday by a vote of 211. to 89, on a compromise motion.

The national colors, by this action, were made black, red and gold. The commercial flag approved was black, white and red with a black, red and gold jack in the upper left-hand corner.

The old commercial flag was black, white and red.

Fatal Derailment East of North Bay

NORTH BAY, July 6.—No. 2 going east Saturday night ran off the track at Astard, 30 miles east of North Bay. Full particulars have not been received, except that Ed. Jarvis, one of the oldest engineers on the road, was killed. His fireman, named Van Buskirk, who was badly scalded, was taken to Pembroke Hospital, where he since died.

Kills His Friend Showing Him Blow

NEW YORK, July 7.—Demonstrating to a caller how Jack Dempsey knocked out Jesse Willard Friday evening, Anthony Wasielewski, 20 years old, of 101 Eagle avenue, Green Point, Long Island, playfully tapped Thoma Black on the left side of the jaw. Black dropped to the ground like a log, and Wasielewski declared he supposed he was continuing the joke.

When his friend failed to rise Wasielewski became alarmed and summoned Patrolman Travis of the Green Point station. He in turn called Dr. Kroll of Green Point Hospital, who pronounced Black dead. Wasielewski was arrested on the technical charge of homicide.

WANT TO CELEBRATE VICTORY THEY HELPED WIN

LONDON, Ont., July 7—Officials of Middlesex County Jail are leading their sympathetic support to a movement made by six prisoners for joint release to enable them to participate in the official celebration of peace on July 19. The men in their application which is being forwarded to the Attorney-General claim that they have fought in France for the victory that the Empire is now enabled to celebrate. Since returning home they have committed various offences, some of which were against the Ontario Temperance Act, and of a comparatively unimportant nature.

HER BASEBALL BAT FOR DEFENSE PURPOSE

LONDON, Ont., July 7.—Police Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon on Saturday, sent for trial A. E. Nutter, former City Architect of London, who was charged by his wife with assaulting their twelve-year-old son. Mrs. Nutter swore that her husband attacked the boy in the garden, threw him down, and kicked him viciously, and that when she went to the lad's assistance, she, too, was knocked down and kicked. She said that she had a baseball bat in the kitchen to defend herself, but that the trouble occurred in the garden.

Waters of Bay of Quinte Claim Another Victim

JOHN YORK LOSES LIFE WHILE SWIMMING — BODY RECOVERED SOME TIME AFTER ACCIDENT — INQUEST TO BE HELD.

The waters of the Bay of Quinte yesterday claimed as a victim, John York, an unmarried man, aged 35 years and by occupation a cheese maker of the Excelsior Cheese Factory of Sidney Township. It appears that the victim was spending a portion of Sunday with friends who are camping on the shores of the bay, near Jones' Creek, some three miles west of the city limits, and was indulging in swimming when he met his untimely death. The accident occurred about 5 o'clock and it was between three and four hours later when the body was recovered. York previous to meeting his death procured a canoe and was paddling about some distance from the shore when the craft capsized and he was thrown into the water. He swam to shore and changing his wet clothing for a bathing outfit, again got into the canoe and paddled out to a distance of between 200 and 300 yards shore to a spot where some young ladies were in a punt. He fastened the canoe to the punt and then boarded the latter from which he dove off into the water. After swimming about a few minutes he was seen to sink and that he felt tired. It was noticed by the occupants of the punt that York seemed distressed and a rope was thrown to him but he was unable to seize it. He sank to rise no more. As alarm was sounded by those who witnessed the affair and a boat from the shore was soon upon the spot but there was no trace of the victim. The police here were notified of the occurrence and boats with grappling appliances from the city went to the scene of the affair amongst them being one manned by Messrs. Tice and Wilbert Carter. At a few minutes before 9 o'clock the two latter located the body and brought it to the surface, and thence to shore. Later was brought to Tickell & Sons Undertaking Establishment. Dr. Yeomans, coroner, was notified of the drowning and visited the scene in company with County Constable Mr. L. Soule. It was decided that an inquest be held. Establishment this afternoon.

York the victim of the unfortunate affair was known to a number in this city and vicinity. He was born in the Old Country, his parents being dead the only known relative living is a sister who resides in England. He was for some years employed by Mr. Ellis and of late had been engaged in cheese making. Deceased was deservedly popular with those who knew him and his untimely death has caused much regret. It is surmised that heart failure was the cause of the victim's collapse.

Artificial Hands, But Deals 'Em Out

TORONTO, July 7.—While there are returned soldiers who find it difficult to get work it is a artificial limb there is one whose arms and legs are perfect. This individual, who happens to be colored, was uncovered by Patrol-Sergeant Scott of Court street station, and Plainclothesmen Jarvis and Pennock, when they raided a colored men's club on Chestnut street late last night for gambling on the Lord's Day. With his artificial hands the former soldier manipulated the cards as well as any of his friends at the table.

While eleven porters and cooks on the trains ruling from the station were arrested, the soldier was allowed to go.

"We couldn't bring him in," said Sergeant Scott, who declared that the soldier walked with an almost perfect step as he took advantage of the good will of the police

Trouble in Getting Body to the Railway

SAULT STE. MARIE, July 6—After being carried across four lakes and through miles of bush in a roundabout way to get to the Algoma Central Railway, the remains of Frank Kangas, a Finlander, who was drowned in a lake ten miles in from the railway, reached the Sault Friday evening. He had been working in a Oscar Makis' lumber camp, on the edge of a little lake, and went in for a swim on Monday, when it is supposed he took cramps and was drowned. His body was recovered from the lake shortly afterwards, and the trip to the railway was made with difficulty while endeavoring to keep clear of forest fires, which were raging all through the north country.

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT PROROGUED TODAY

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press, Limited

OTTAWA, July 7.—After a long and eventful session the Canadian Parliament was prorogued today, During the morning session Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr Meighen referred to the disagreement between Commons and Senate on the Prohibition Bill and amendments to criminal code declaring secular offences. By reason of these differences the Government stated that neither of these bills would pass this session and an order-in-Council respecting inter-Provincial transportation of liquor would stand until another session of Parliament.

The speech from the throne also said Having regard to the necessity of avoiding industrial disturbances and with a view to arriving at more stable and better understanding between employes and employed, my advisers intend to summon in the autumn a representative conference for friendly and intimate discussion of questions and for consideration of the report of the Industrial Conference Commission and of the proposal there to set forth.

On motion of Sir Robert Borden seconded by Mr. McKenzie, leader of opposition, the House of Commons took formal adjournment, passed a resolution of thanks to the Canadian Corps for its splendid achievements overseas. Both leaders paid tribute to the services and sacrifices of the Canadian Corpse in France. The speech from the throne delivered by the Governor-General when the House was prorogued reviews the Legislation enacted especially on the lines of reconstruction and rehabilitation of Canada's soldiers

R-34 torn from Her Mooring

MARGARITA FISHER AT GRIFFIN'S

A rollicking romance is presented in Margarita Fisher, a five act feature starring beautiful Margarita Fisher, which is to be shown at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday night. It is a lively delineation of the girl who simply would have her own way with the trials and tribulations which she causes herself and those connected with her. Jack Mower, big handsome man, takes the role of a millionaire who becomes a policeman under the "Work or Fight" clause; and he is humorously supported by "Bull" Montana, the "ugliest man on the screen." This extraordinary character actor has been seen much with Fairbanks, acts the part of a highly divorced servant and pal, who places his master on the alter of personal worship. Miss Fisher is the daughter of social climbers and she point blank refuses to climb but takes matters into her own hands and finds the above humorous offering, a thrilling western story. A two act Mack Sennett comedy, and an amusing Mutt & Jeff animated cartoon will also be shown.

PLENTY OF ACTION IN "THE FINAL CLOSE-UP."

Enough action to suit the most strenuously inclined will be found in "The Final Close-up," Winsome Shirley Mason's latest picture which is being shown at the Palace tonight to Wednesday, matinee daily. In the role of the department store clerk, so many things happen to Miss Mason that she has a difficult time keeping up with events. First, she pretends to faint on a hot day to get a vacation. The next day she receives and anonymous gift of two hundred dollars. Not knowing from whom it comes, and finding it impossible to return it, she uses it to meet the expense of a vacation. At the fashionable seaside resort to which she goes she meets a young newspaper man who falls in love with her, but just as things are going well she is accused of theft. By clever strategy she gets herself out of this mess, but her own money is stolen, and she has to go into the kitchen and wash dishes for her board bill. Then everything is adjusted to the satisfaction of all and she finds clear sailing in her love affair with Jimmie completes a really worth while screen vehicle for the peppery little star. The Canadian News Graphic, a beautiful hand colored travelogue and a funny "Toto" comedy are also being exhibited on the same program.

More Soldiers Arriving Home

A number of Belleville soldier boys arrived home since Saturday and others are expected within the next few hours. The list is as follows:

Q. M. Sergt. G. S. Dawkins arrived home this morning from overseas. He went with the 61st Battalion of Winnipeg and is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. G. Galloway, John street.

Pte. Corby of Deseronto was among yesterday's arrivals. He went over with the 25th Battalion.

Sig. Roy Cronk arrived home yesterday. He went over in 1917 with the 73rd Battery.

Gunner G. A. Draycott of Colman street was expected home today. He went with the 73rd Battery.

Corp. J. O. Collyer of 25 Meyers street, arrived home. He went with a battalion from Toronto.

Gunner A. Caron of 31 Lewis St., is expected to arrive today. He also had two brothers serving in the C. E. F.

Sapper "Billy" Grant arrived on the Mauretania. He was a favorite trap drummer with a local orchestra, and signed up with the 80th Band.

Is The Happiest Woman In The State

That is What Mrs. Poe Says After Tanlac Restores Health—Gains Thirty Pounds.

"The results I have gotten from Tanlac are so wonderful to me that I feel compelled to tell everybody about it," said Mrs. John Poe of 601 South Third street, Pekin, Illinois, while in the Sutliff & Case Drug store at Pekin, recently.

"I don't believe," she continued, "anyone could suffer much more than I did before I got Tanlac and my recovery has made me the happiest woman in Illinois. You would hardly believe me when I tell you I have gained more than thirty pounds, but I have and my daughter here with me will tell you the same thing. Why, my stomach was so much bad fix that everything I ate caused me to suffer agony. Time after time during the past fifteen years the gas would press on my heart so that I would faint. Great drops of perspiration would stand out on me and when I regained consciousness I would be so limp as a rag. Lots of times my neighbors would come in, thinking I was going to die. I didn't dare go any place for fear one of these spells would come on me and I wouldn't get home. I also suffered beyond words to tell with rheumatism in my feet and legs and elbows. I couldn't get my shoes on at times for the swelling in my feet and would have to sit for days with my feet on a pillow in a chair, they hurt me so. My elbows were so stiff I could scarcely bend them and the pain was so great that I could hardly use my arms at all. My misery was so awful that I couldn't sleep but little and I have stayed awake many a night suffering and wondering if there was nothing made that could help me.

"I had taken medicine until I was so discouraged and despondent that I didn't care how soon the end came, for I felt that it wasn't far off. My husband urged me to get Tanlac and, oh, how glad I am that I did, for I began taking it. My troubles have all disappeared now and my recovery is the gladdest surprise I ever came to me. I can eat just anything I want and lots of it and never suffer a particle from it. In fact, my stomach seems to be in perfect condition, as good as when I was a girl, and I haven't had one of those awful smothering, fainting spells since I began taking Tanlac. My head used to feel dull and hurt me in the mornings, but that is all gone, too, and I don't reck on anyone ever had more nerve to feel thankful than I have. I just feel like I owe my life to Tanlac and I only wish I had known about it long ago."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Tronton by J. McKelvey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

LAX BUSINESS METHODS.

A grave statement on the lack of business methods by some firms is hurting the general Canadian reputation in Great Britain is contained in a communication from Mr. Henry B. Thomson of the Canadian Trade Commission, now in London in an advisory capacity with the London Mission. He says:

"It has been brought to our notice by several firms here that Canadian manufacturers and others are very lax in not replying to correspondence and enquiries, and it is having the effect of creating an impression that Canada as a whole is not looking for business, or making much effort to get it. Cases of this kind create a false idea, as the people in the United States are very particular about prompt reply to enquiries, and furthermore carry on a regular follow-up course of correspondence. Not only has it a bad effect in creating an impression of slackness, but it is also causing some of the importers here to make strong representations to the Government to remove the import trade restrictions with other countries that are not within the Empire. At the present moment Canada is, as you are well aware, particularly favored in this regard as compared with the United States, but if the representations of the importers are sufficiently strong and insistent, the Government will be forced to allow certain commodities to be brought in here on a par with Canada, because these commodities cannot be procured, or apparently so, within the Dominion. Even if they have not got the stocks on hand, or do not deal in the commodities they are asked about, surely it would be a simple matter for them to write a note to the English firm enquiring and explain the situation to them."

LOOK OUT FOR THE FAKER.

With the coming of peace and the restoration of normal conditions, the financial faker is sure to make his appearance. He will not go about seeking whom he may devour; he will rather appear in the guise of a friend desirous of helping the person who wants to get on in the world.

The spring and summer seasons are those in which the financial faker is most active. He is so, because, when the temperature is high, he finds the public more inclined to warm up to his "bargains," more inclined to take a chance.

The financial faker expects to make a haul during the coming season, for during the reaction following upon enforce ! war-time economy, he thinks that the public will be inclined to go to the other extreme. He will thus be ready with his fake mining shares, wild-cat real estate schemes and worthless oil ventures. What is more, he will catch many persons if they don't look out.

Don't be fooled by the faker. Put your money into War Savings Stamps which are as safe as Victory Bonds ,and pay 4½ per cent. compounded half-yearly. By investing in them a person of small means protects himself against the faker, saves his money and ensures to himself a nice return on his savings.

TRADE WITH JAPAN.

Replying to an enquiry from the Canadian Trade Commission at Ottawa, regarding possibilities of trade in Canadian fish in Japan, Mr. A. E. Bryan, Trade Commissioner at Yokohama, says:

"Wholesale grocery travellers from other countries come out once a year or so, do show the various brands; they bring their samples with them, ... vote right on the spot. So far as the writer is aware, there ... en any Canadian wholesale grocer or traveller come to ... pur pose. Today when I was in one of the stores an Amer... and about half a dozen large trunks open, and was display... ... ers orders for the various lines which he carried. Everything ... active and he did a good business. This should be ... by Canadians. Fish packers should combine for export and should send a traveller out once a year who would carry their goods, as well as perhaps a general line of Canadian groceries. Nothing can be done here without samples and prices f.o.b. Vancouver or preferably c.i.f. Yokohama. Canadian packers should come out and study the market not only here, but in China, Korea and other eastern countries."

SEE CANADA FIRST.

"Distance lends enchantment to the view." This proverb probably explains the annual exodus of so many Canadians to the United States and European countries at vacation period.

Holiday time is again at hand. Many are considering where they will spend their period of relaxation, and to these we would make the appeal to "see Canada first." Within our borders we possess scenery and climate which cannot be excelled by any country. The sea coasts of the east and west, for example, the refreshing coolness of the gulf of St. Lawrence and the lovely fiords of British Columbia with their grand setting of forest and sierra, the lake districts of Muskoka, the Rideau Lakes, Lake of the Woods, the Thousand Islands and the peerless Great Lakes, as well as the awe-inspiring ranges of the Rockies and the Selkirks, invite the seeker for rest and quiet or the jaded traveller seeking further excitement.

Sunny France has long been before the public mind in Canada as a tourist centre. Many of our soldiers saw the fair regions of Normandy, of Artois, and of Picardy, parts of which are still unspoiled by the hand of the Hun; many had leave to Paris and some even to Nice and other places far afield. Ask our returned men if they can't have as good a time in Canada. The unanimous answer will be, "Much better."

Last year a young office girl said to the writer: "I spent sixty dollars to visit the Adirondaks in New York State. I could have had as fine scenery close to home at one-tenth the cost." She would, at the same time, have kept her money in Canada.

Many are the regrets over wasted summer vacation periods which might be avoided were less heed paid to flowery advertisements of foreign resorts and more attention given to studying the advantages of our own country. For this reason, get acquainted with Canada. In the United States our dollar is at 3 per cent. discount. National pride would suggest that we limit our spending there and confine it as much as possible to Canada.

OTHER VIEWS

One Relates to Other.

Edmonton Bulletin

The regulation of food prices without a corresponding regulation of wages would make a food strike scarcer. The higher the cost of producing in the city what the farmer has to buy, the higher the cost of producing on the farm what the city dweller has to eat. Unless, therefore, the Ministers are prepared to undertake the all-round regulation of both wages and food prices, regulative efforts are not a hopeful avenue of escape from the increasing cost of living.

Labor Emancipation.

New York Tribune.

The action of the American Federation of Labor in voting, with but one dissenting vote, to admit negroes into all trade unions when there is no express exclusion and to organize negro unions by direct charter when there is exclusion marks one of the greatest practical victories for the negro since Emancipation Day.

Germany Already Plotting.

London Chronicle.

The "Morning Post" published yesterday a long secret letter written last April by Herr Erzberger to some fellow-countrymen. If genuine (and it bears strong internal marks of genuineness) it is a document of great importance, for Herr Erzberger is certainly among the two or three most influential members of the present German Government. The gist of it is that Germany's plight is not so bad as it looks, and she may hope for revenge and triumph in ten or fifteen years. The Associated Powers are fast falling asunder; neither Great Britain nor the United States realise the importance of territorial questions on the Continent; France has, despite her victory, been mortally wounded. The only danger for Germany and the sole hope for France and the Anglo-Saxon powers is Poland. But Germany is well on the way to nip Polish prospects in the bud by her propaganda.

A Laugh or Two

Gambling has taught many a young man how he can't make money.

Tombstone Artist (after several suggestions failed) "How would simply 'Gone Home's do?"

Mrs. Newcomb: "I think that would do all right. It was always the last place he thought of going to!"

Obeyed the Order.

Mrs. N. was giving instructions to her new servant: "Before removing the soup-plate, Mary, always ask each person if he or she would like any more."

"Very good, madam."

Next day Mary, respectfully bowing to one of the guests, inquired:

"Would the gentleman like some more soup?"

"Yes, please."

"There ain't any left."

Just in Time.

A gossiping old rustic the other day entered the local purveyor's establishment, and in the course of a lengthy discussion on the usual village topics inquired what had become of the butcher's pony, as he hadn't seen it lately.

"E died yesterday," observed the man of chops and steaks, feelingly. "E 'adn't been well for some time; but what can I do for you, Giles?"

"Well, Oi did want some sausages," replied old bumpkin slowly, but, with a suspicious glance at the long hanging strings of the bag of mystery exposed for sale, "Oi think Oi'll take summat else this mornin'."

The Wrong End.

The navy boy was home on leave and the old man was admiring his uniform.

"But tell me, my boy; why do they make the pants so wide at the bottom?"

"So we can roll them up quickly," explained the lad.

"You're no son of mine," warned the old man, "if yer goin' ter fight wid yer feet! 'Tis yer jacket sleeves that ought to be wide at the bottom."

No Need for Haste.

The minister of a parish in Scotland was walking one misty night through a street in the village when he fell into a deep hole. After vainly trying to make his escape from the uncomfortable position, he began to shout for help. A laborer passing heard his cries and lookin, down asked who he was. The minister told him and at the same time evinced great agitation. The laborer, however, took the situation in a very philosophical manner and remarked:

"Weel, weel, yo needna kick up sic a noise. Ye'll no be needed afore Sawbath, an' this is only Wednesday nicht."

The Poet's Corner

THE WORTH-WHILE WEALTH

I longed for wealth—to hold it;
I longed by night and tame;
My youth? I shrugged and sold it
To trumpet for life's game.

I toiled and toiled unceasing,
To win my place, but when
I gained the thing I toiled for,
I did not want it then!

For then I found life's flowers
All faded by my doors;
I found the springtime showers
Less cooling than before;
I found the very sunshine
Had lost it's gleaming light,
And that the stars were pallid
That lit the world at night.

I longed for wealth, to hold it;
I longed for might and fame;
But—when I could unfold it,
I found it just a name!
And that the things worth saving
Were youth, and smiles, and flowers
And that the wealth enduring
Was found in golden hours.

THOSE WHO PAID.

Robert W. Service.

What d'ye think, lad; what d'ye think,
As the roaring crowds go by
To the banners flare and the brasses blare,
And the great guns rend the sky?
Is the women laugh like they'll all come true
Gone now, every one.
How they'd have cheered as the joy-bells chime,
And they grabbed each girl for a kiss!
And now—they're rotting in Flanders slime,
And they gave their lives—for this.

Or else d'ye think of the gusty a time,
When we slushed we too was dead,
Up to our knees in the freezin' grime,
With the fires o' hell overhead?
When the wrath and the strength of us sapped away,
And we cursed in our rage and pain—
And yet—we haven't word to say—we're glad. We'd do it again.

I'm scared that they pity us. Come, old boy,
Let's leave them their flags and their fuss.
We'd surely be hating to spoil their joy
With the sight of such wrecks as us.
Let's slip away quietly, you and me,
And we'll talk of our chums out there
You with your eyes that'll never see,
Me that's wheeled in a chair.

Letters to the Editor

Belleville July 6, 1919.

Editor The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly allow me a few lines in your paper in respect to a grant given to nine fairs in the County of Hastings of $100.00.

There are ten fairs including Belleville, which is also a County Fair.

For a number of years there was a County Fair at Thrasher's Corners, and the Board of Directors thought it would be the proper place to hold this County Fair at the County seat.

I cannot see why it is not a good place to hold a County Fair as well as a good meeting place for the County Council.

There are several fairs in the Provinces, we understand, holding their fairs at the county town and receiving help, not only from the county but also from the town.

The Board is doing everything in their power to make the Belleville Fair a success this year. We had a rainy day last year which affected the fair. We are endeavoring to put up the best and most attractive prise list of any fair between Toronto and Ottawa this year. All we want is a hearty co-operation between us the county and city. We have had good fairs in the past with the exception of two years of bad weather.

We hope that the County Council will yet arrange to give the Belleville Fair the same grant as the rest of the fairs.

The Board appreciates very much the splendid assistance rendered by the city.

Yours respectfully,
H. K. DENYES.

If you had a voice like thunder, with a thousand-power megaphone, you should not reason as many people do you want to sell.
You have not got the voice but our paper is at your service at the lowest rates.

Take This Milk of Course

NO need to do without real milk at picnic or camp. Take Carnation along.

Carnation is just pure, whole milk, evaporated to the consistency of cream and put up in tins. Sterilized of course.

But it's real milk. Nothing is taken away but water. By adding water you get fresh, sterilized milk of absolutely safe quality.

Carnation Milk is splendid for camp or summer home. Keeps for months in the can and for several days when opened. You never waste any. You are never caught without milk. And you have just the richness you want—as cream for coffee, cereals or whipping—rich milk for drinking—or add more water for cooking.

The Grocer is the Carnation Milk man. You can get it wherever groceries are sold. Buy it by the case for all summer. Case of 48 (16 oz.) tall size cans. Directions on every can.

Before you go away write for the booklet "The Story of Carnation Milk." It contains 100 splendid recipes. Sent from our Aylmer dairy.

Made in Canada by Carnation Milk Products Co., Limited Aylmer, Ont. Seattle and Chicago, U.S.A. Condensaries at Aylmer and Springfield, Ont. Canada Food Board Licenses 14-96 and 14-97

Remember your grocer can supply you with Carnation Milk.

Hard-Wearing Stockings that Require Less Mending

That's what Buster Brown Stockings are, for we designed them specially to stand the boisterous games your boy loves. Made them with a two-ply leg and three-ply heel and toe. Made them from extra-long yarn spun in our own factory.

Our employees have had years of special training in knitting Buster Brown quality and good looks into hosiery. Your boy will appreciate their snug-fitting comfort and neat appearance.

Buster Brown Stockings are young gentlemen's stockings—suitable for all occasions. And you'll find they do wear longer—they require less mending. You'll find it takes less money to clothe your boy.

Ask your dealer for "Buster Brown" durable hosiery. Sold everywhere.

"Knights of Asturnia," he said and there had been the ring of confidence in every word, "knights of Asturnia you my faithful followers, who have with me through battle, I that to tell you aloud which most should whisper in the counsel ber. I have to-day received a message which may plunge this unjoy country more deep in flood that it has ever stood before, yet which shall in the end banish all evil." He paused and watched the faces of his listeners. I may do them a wrong, but it seemed that the prospect of hard fighting illuminated their features with the light of a fierce joy.

"With my own hand," he continued "I set your king upon his throne, with my own hand and by your help. It seemed that the good of the nation required it; and that much wrong would be righted thereby. I was mistaken, as better men have been mistaken before me. The land has groaned under the hand of a tyrant. The people cry out to Heaven and God has answered them. To-day I give myself for an instrument of vengeance into His hands."

He paused again and among the soldiers every man looked at his neighbor with a grim face and questioning eyes. The knights alone as I expected, gave out no expression of surprise beyond the faint shivering rattle that ran through their ranks, for more than one of them lost his sword from its scabbard.

A low murmur ran through the body and it swelled into loud questions and the clank of weapons on the floor. Then a single voice cried "Silex!" above the tumult and a faint later I heard the groans of a dying man drowned in the swell of a great acclamation. The men of Asturnia! They themselves had sprung from the masses and knew the burden laid upon them. They had long watched for a leader, and now he stood before their eyes, a man triumphant in war, the first soldier in the kingdom. They knew not whither he might lead them but they were resolved to follow. Count Guy raised his hand, the noise died away like a passing storm, and the room was still once more.

"There is in our midst," he continued, "a lady by the fortune of war a captive, by birth one of the highest in the land. I myself in my mistaken zeal thrust her from her inheritance. She and her followers have fought for the crown against surpassing odds. She has the welfare of the nation at heart. She has sacrificed much to return to it. She would follow in the footsteps of her father. To whom should the crown go but to this lady to whom it rightfully belongs." A loud murmur of approval ran through the assembly, and it gradually swelled into a roar of applause. The knights alone preserved a dignified silence and some of them frowned.

"I will bring her before you," said the Count, "and you shall tell her your answer to my question," and with these words he passed through the door closing it behind him.

There followed gone a loud buzz of conversation filled the hall. The knights gathered themselves in to little groups, and appeared to be engaged in warm disputes with one another. Then the door was flung open and followed by Count Guy there appeared a person so glorious that the whole multitude was stricken with silence. It was the Princess herself.

She swept across the dais before their astonished eyes, as I had once seen her before, a glory of cloth of gold and jewelled crown. And as I looked upon her awful face, white as death, but magnificent in its pride and queenliness, there floated before my eyes a darkened room with rows of musty books and piles of strange and curious objects heaped upon the floor. I did almost hear the voice of John Silver saying, "The Princess! My Princess! and perhaps one day—yours."

I looked around me with blinking eyes and it flashed across me that I was looking on a familiar scene. The knights in armour, the hall of a great fortress, the solid mass of men-at-arms; I had seen all these before in the darkened room at Silent Square. But the scene was real enough now, and in the midst of it, like some golden star, stood the Queen of Asturnia, a woman who had conquered the hearts of every man who had ever seen her and who now had triumphed over her own heart as well.

My memories were swept from me by a terrific burst of cheering, by the loud clamour of trumpets by the clash and clang of arms and for the space of quite three minutes the air glittered with waving swords and spears and pennons. My dear lady looked on them with a gracious smile. She had a part to play and a popularity to win, and only two men in the hall knew the cold pain that gripped her heart. She bowed and moved a little forward, leaning on the arm of Count Guy of Marmorel. Then she opened her hands and shook with emotion. Count Guy led her to one of the chairs and when she was seated he stood by her side with drawn sword and-a formal look on his face that boded ill to any one who should dispute his right to stand there.

Wedding Bells

DENYES—SILLS

A social event of more than usual interest took place in the Zion neighborhood on Wednesday, June 18, when the beautiful home of Mr. J. G. Sills, deputy-reeve of Thurlow. It was the occasion of the marriage of Miss Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sills to Gr. Earl Stewart Denyes, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Denyes of the same neighborhood.

About fifty friends assembled to witness the ever interesting ceremony, which took place at 11 a.m. and which was performed by Rev. R. W. Tink, B.A., B.D., of Baltimore, assisted by Rev. F. W. White, B.A., of Plainfield.

The bride was given away by her father and entered the beautifully decorated drawing room as the appropriate melody at the wedding march, rendered by Miss Edyth Moore daughter of Dr. Moore of Shannonville, announced the coming of the nuptial party.

The bride and groom were unattended, except by the vivacious little flower girl, Miss Maude Denyes, of Belleville, a niece of the groom, and Master Tink as page, a son of the officiating clergyman.

After the vows had been register ed the guests partook of a bounteous wedding breakfast. The toast to "The Bride" was graciously proposed by Rev. Mr. Tink and acknowledged in a few graceful words by the groom. Rev. Mr. White performed the duties of toastmaster.

The happy couple left in the groom's auto for a honeymoon tour, during which they will visit various points in the province.

The bride is one of the most popular and estimable of the young ladies of Thurlow, while the groom is also well and favorably known as returned from over some months ago but not before he had made a splendid record in fighting the Huns. He had a close call from death after being gassed and lay in a semi-conscious condition for two days, alone in a solitary dugout, with neither food nor water. He was in a precarious condition for some weeks after but finally recovered his former vigor. He and Mrs. Denyes will take up the duties of housekeeping on the old Denyes homestead where a host of friends will wish them as much of happiness and prosperity as it is good for mortals to enjoy.

Wilson's Ship Passes Mine

On Board U. S. S. Oklahoma, July 7.—The President will not reach New York until Tuesday. He is thoroughly enjoying the rest aboard the George Washington, and is working on his message to Congress. He will speak to his party and the sailors and arrangements have been made to have the address read to the sailors on the Oklahoma.

After luncheon in the Captain's cabin, Wednesday I noticed that the Captain was exchanging an unusual number of notes with the bridge. At 1.30 I started below, and the Captain quietly remarked:

"You're safe to go now. We passed a mine we were looking out for fifteen minutes ago."

A floating mine had been reported in this vicinity and the officers of the Oklahoma had been on the alert for it. The mine itself was not sighted as it had probably drifted out of the course since the report was received.

One of the reasons why the George Washington is convoyed by a battleship is to have the battleship have first contact with any mine that may be floating about. For this reason the George Washington always follows immediately in the wake of a battleship. When the Oklahoma left Brest she put out paravanes so as to catch any fixed mines, but the paravane is ineffective gainst floating mines, and ours were taken up after ten and a half hours.

Unless, however a mine strikes the ship immediately upon the stern there is no danger of damage. The paravane will thrust the mine aside by her bow waves.

The discussion of the mine brought out the fact that it must have drifted to this locality from America with the Gulf Stream, as there are no opposite currents to bring mines here from Europe. This mine may have been an American mine, but more probably was one of those planted by the Germans on the American coast which sank the San Diego and damaged the Minnesota, and several other ships. Only German floating mines are dangerous, the allies have contented themselves with the International laws regulating that mines be so constructed so they will not explode when released from their moorings.

"Feathers" Flanagan's Classic Description

Of the Big Beacon Shows, On the Bleecker Avenue Grounds all This Week.

There are more ways of getting into a circus or carnival than Mr. Heinz has varieties of pickles, for every boy has his own method of trying to gain free admission.

There is also the small boy who has his pa, ma, or sister who will see that he sees the real carnival show and rides the merry-go-round and Ferris wheel to his heart's content.

But the youngsters who get the most enjoyment out of the Beacon Shows are those who were there to see it unload from the cars today. They were all there — Jimmy Fadden, Spikes Lewis, Newsy Jones, Ikey Weinstein, Feathers Flanagan—and Feathers knows the game, as he has carried water for all the elephants that has circused in Belleville for six years.

"Say, fellows," Feathers told the bunch, while the reporter of The Intelligencer stood a good listener, "This Beacon Shows is a live one, see the ponies and the trick mules? You bet I can eat five bones for ridin' him around the ring. Get next to Prof. and Madam Greco and their 20 leaping dogs, ain't they swells? See her with the flossy togs on? That's Mlle. Ame, the snake charmer—no she don't eat 'em alive, she charms 'em. There's Mr. Velare, he's de real big guy wid de shoes, he has de big 10-in-one—You're a hick. You don't know what the 10-in-1 is? Why it's 10 shows in 1 and you can see them all for de same price. That gent wid him? Why that's Matt Gay de greatest high diver in de world. He dives 102 feet from a high ladder every afternoon and night —Gets hurt? No, you look, he gets wet when he lands in de tank."

This is the description Feathers imparted to his chums as the Beacon Shows unloaded at the Grand Trunk today.

This carnival plays Belleville the entire week under the auspices of the A. and N. Veterans' Association, who have gone to a big expense in bringing the carnival to this city and earnestly desire the support of the citizens in making it a profitable week as the association is greatly in need of funds to carry on their work.

The carnival is a big 12-car show—this being their fourth stand in Canada, where they are booked for twelve weeks. That business in the State for the past seven weeks has been big and the press of the States and Canada speaks of the carnival as one of the best. The Peterborough press, where the show played all last week, spoke of it as being the best carnival that ever played that city.

SPECIAL SERVICES

In the various churches of the city yesterday services of a special nature to commemorate the signing of peace were held. In the evening the attendance was large.

ALLEGED INSULT

Saturday night the police answered a call to the Newfoundland Cafe where it was alleged the proprietor was being insulted by a customer. The party left when a call for the police was put in.

PAY BOOK FOUND

A military pay book which is evidently the property of William Stuart Downey of the 190th Battalion, C.E.F., is at the Police Station awaiting its owner. It was found on the street and among other papers is a railway ticket to Regina.

BIG POTATO

This morning Mr. Albert Keacheson of Frankford, sent to our office a potato of this years growth measuring 13 inches long and 9 inches in circumference. If any one has a larger one please bring it along and we will give it due publicity.

ONE-ALARM SCARE

At 12.50 on Sunday morning the police responded to a hurry up call to a residence on East Moira street, it being reported that some one was endeavoring to gain an entrance into the premises. The officer responding to the call made a thorough search about the premises but was unable to find any trace of any person.

ADJOURNED MEETING

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The object of the meeting is to meet the rate payers of West Bridge street and endeavor to arrive at a satisfactory understanding relative to the pavement laid upon that thoroughfare.

BRAKEMAN KILLED

Pte. Frank Pearson, son of Mr. John Pearson of Haliburton, formerly of Lalibar, was killed Saturday morning at Omemee, while engaged as brakeman on Conductor McIlroy's freight train. The victim was one of the first to enlist with the 45th Regiment of Victoria County, under the late Col. F. Holmes Hopkins, and he has served over five years at the front, returning about two months ago. His untimely death is particularly sad because of the fact that he passed through all the big engagements in France and Belgium and was wounded eight times.

PTE. ASSELSTINE HOME

Pte. Nicholas Asselstine of John Street, arrived home Friday morning from overseas. Pte. Asselstine left Belleville with the 155th Battalion and served several weeks in France when he received what is known in soldier language as a "blighty" in the form of a wound in the wrist. From that time until sailing for home he has been convalescing in England. His many friends welcome him back to civilian life.

DEFECTIVE SWITCH CAUSED ACCIDENT

The coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the circumstance regarding the death of Mowat Walt who died as the result of injuries sustained when an engine upon which he was riding left the rails near the C. N. R. station at Trenton, rendered the following verdict: That Mowat Walt died as the result of injuries received in Hospital on Monday June 30th as the result of injuries sustained in an accident at the C.N.R. yard at Trenton, while riding on an engine, said engine leaving rails through a defective switch which caused the accident.

R-34 to start Tomorrow Morning

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

NEW YORK, July 7.—Major Scott announced definitely at noon that R-34 would start on its journey, returning at five o'clock tomorrow morning, flying over Boston. The R-34 will not circle New York before turning east, he said. Major Scott said an effort would be made to shape the R-34's course so that it would pass over the steamer George Washington, which is bearing President Wilson home.

SPORTING NEWS

G. T. R. TEAM WINS

Our local team journeyed to Port Hope Friday with the determination to beat Bobonoro's Peterborough team, and they did—6 to 3. Now, gentle reader, if you were at Port Hope, or not, we want to tell you right here that it was one of the most sensational and thrilling games a spectator would care to throw his shillings in for watching. (Just here we might mention that the game has surely put the Central League in a good financial standing as they drew an extra large gate and the local club received only $25.00 expense money). Both teams fielded exceptionally well. Morden got one of the finest catches of the day. This same boy also started the doings for Belleville in their big innings when he connected for a lovely two-bagger. Then the others came across with the necessary taps, which netted five runs, ending the scoring for the G. T. R. Everything went along smoothly with a 5-run lead until the eighth, when Goyer went a little wild and the Peterborough team became very dangerous, scoring three runs, two of which were forced in. Freddy settled and got the third man cold with the bases still loaded. In the ninth Goyer struck out the first two but the next two walked. However, with two and three on the batter a pop fly was hit into the crowd. Mills waded right through like a fast train, making a great catch and sealing the old lid on the game. Pringle and Whalen did the coaching and handled that end of the game just right. We are on top of the league and the team is going great. The infield is going smooth. Weir at short played a nice game, accepting a number of hard chances. Gerow was injured early in the game but played a steady game throughout. Centre fielder Ross accepted five or six chances without a miss. He also punished the horse-hide for a nice two bagger. Goyer and Mills are right there and steady the whole team by their fine work.

G.T.R. line-up as follows: Ross, c.f.; Weir, s.s.; Gerow, 1st; Mills, c.; Morden, l.f.; Goyer, p.; Kelleher, r.f.; Meagher, 3rd; Smith, 2nd; Pringle, Cook and Whalen, spares.

Umpires—Kay of Peterborough at the plate; Rosevear of Port Hope on bases.

Notes.

In addition to our own team's good work we should mention that Peterborough catcher fielder made one of the prettiest running catches in deep centre one would wish to see. He robbede Morden of what looked to be a sure two-bagger. A number of lively plays were made with men on bases, stopping a score. With two and two on once the second baseman let a ball bounce out of his hands and the field er caught it, and another time with two and two gone Mills hit a liner on the ground which the second base deflected over to the short-stop, who threw the man out at first.

Umpire Kay handled the game in big league manner. Jake Solomon went where he belonged each time Kay pulled off the mask. He also sent Jakey from the coaching box to the bench for not behaving.

Mr. Norman Kerr, rooter-in-chief for the Grand Trunk, had everyone in the air with his wonderful voice and line. He got on the ladies' nerves and we believe they think he is a wild man and eats them raw. He was very careful to bring along his bathing suit for a swim, but some of his friends kindly substituted a bunch of paper and we are told that he had to dip down and rent one. A good one, eh!

VOL. 96 BELLEVILLE ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1919. NO. 88

Council Decided To Take No Action In Pavement Matter

RATEPAYERS OF BRIDGE STREET WEST ASK FOR REDRESS COUNCIL UNANIMOUS NOT TO INTERFERE OTHER MATTERS ATTENDED TO DURING SESSION.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held last evening, the object of which was to consider a request from the ratepayers of Bridge Street West for a reduction of their share of the cost of the pavement put down on that street, it being alleged by them that they were entitled to same as the cost was considerable in excess of the estimates. A large delegation of the residents upon the street were present, including a few ladies. They were also represented by Col. Ponton, K.C., and Mr. Mikel, K.C.

All the members of the Council excepting Ald. Bone were present.

After the meeting had been called to order by Mayor Platt counsel for the ratepayers were heard, also some of the latter.

Col. Ponton on behalf of the clients he represented, said they did not wish to be arbitrary in this matter, but rather get together and see if equity could not be done. They believe an injustice was done, but were ready to estimate for a fair allowance. His position was purely one of negotiations. They are not appearing here in an antagonist manner, but believing they have not had justice done in this matter.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., on behalf of certain ratepayers of West Bridge street, presented a detailed statement showing that an alleged injustice had been made in this matter. He advocated that all get together and have the matter adjusted in an amicable manner.

Ex-Mayor Panter said this matter had been pretty thoroughly discussed at the time when the petition was presented for a pavement on West Bridge street, which cost in excess of the estimate made by the city engineer. The ratepayers were willing to pay what is fair, but not for all the extra cost there charged for.

Ex-Ald. Parks spoke at considerable length, detailing the building of the pavement.

Mr. W. J. Campbell said members of the present Council were not responsible for the extra cost of West Bridge street pavement. We are paying for the street and are rather ashamed of the street. He hoped the Council would do the fair thing in the matter.

Mr. S. Hagerman said the ratepayers were led to believe that the city was to pay a certain proportion of the cost.

At this stage of the proceedings the Council on motion adjourned for a few minutes and went into committee to consider the matter. Upon reassembling the following recommendation from the committee was unanimously adopted.

That having heard the explanation re the charges for West Bridge street pavement from the city engineer, solicitor and solicitor, we recommend that the Council take no action in the matter.

Col. Ponton—Is it proposed to enforce the By-law and enforce payment?

City Solicitor—The Act provides for such.

Col. Ponton—Does the City Council accept the responsibility of the By-law.

City Solicitor—Certainly.

Mr. Mikel briefly in reply said that the Council had not been approached from the legal standpoint by the ratepayers, but considering an injustice had been done asked for some redress.

The deputation then withdrew.

Motions

Ald. Simmons moved, seconded by Ald. Ostrom, that the Industrial Commissioner be requested to make a report to the Council monthly—Carried.

Ald. Hunter moved, seconded by Ald. White, that the City Clerk be authorized to advertise the closing of premises to the bay shore.—Carried.

Ald. Hanna moved, seconded by Ald. Woodley, that a special committee composed of Aldermen Woodley, Hanna and Riggs be appointed to consider the advisability of establishing a peace celebration and arranging for same.—Carried.

Road Oiling

Dr. Coughlin, Superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, asked if an arrangement could be made whereby the roads could be oiled from the western limits of the city to the western end of the Institute grounds. The ratepayers would pay the cost.

Ald. Woodley—The task used for this purpose is at present being used on the highway at Madoc, but will be returned in a few days.

Dr. Coughlin was given to understand that the Council would do what it could in the matter.

Council adjourned.

HASTINGS CAN PRODUCE CLEVER SEED

There is no doubt but the good old county of Hastings could become a factor in Red Clover seed production. In fact it is not an experiment for seed has been produced in former years of splendid quality.

This year there are a number of fine clover meadows in the county. The season for haying has started early and in recent rains have brought about conditions for the second growth to come on rapidly. Every farmer in the county who will have second growth clover should save it all this year for seed if for no other reason than that they may have a supply of seed to sow next spring.

The prospects are for a great dearth of seed and an unprecedented demand this is shown from market quotations in the Seed World where dealers are bidding $24.10 per bushel for December deliveries and $21.00 for delivery in July. There may be expected to all advance in price this season.

It is expected that clover hullers will be around in the fall and intending farmers wherever there will be enough seed worth while saved and clover hullers are not already available.

Freight Held Up By Teamsters Strike

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

TORONTO, July 8.—Incoming and outgoing freight is being held up here by a strike this morning of four hundred teamsters and truck drivers of Shedded Co., Hendries and other freight delivery concerns. They asked for a minimum wage of $25 per week in lieu of $75 per month and a bonus they now receive. Negotiations for settlement is in progress.

Cleveland In The Toils Of Street Ry. Strike

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 8.—The street car service was again a standstill yesterday as a result of the strike on Sunday of 2,000 motormen and conductors of the Cleveland Street Railway Company to enforce their demands for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour. Automobile, special train service and conveyances of all descriptions transported persons to their employment, while thousands walked. Steam trains and bus service carried thousands to North Randall yesterday for the opening of the Grand Circuit harness horse meet. Inter-urban cars stopped at the city limits. Conferences which ended in a deadlock late Sunday night were to be continued late yesterday afternoon.

U.S. Handicapped As Money Market

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Protests to the Treasury Department against the present ban on bankers' bills by non-resident foreigners depositing in American banks, have met with a sympathetic response from Collector of Internal Revenue Rowe and other Treasury officials. Mr. Rowe has recently said in letters that the taxation handicaps the United States as an international money market and discourages other countries from doing business in this country.

Many of the protests have come from banking institutions on the Mexican border, which compare the American policy with that of the Canadian banks. The Canadian banks allow Mexican concerns to carry balances in Montreal and make cheques, through New York exchanges, against the country, from becoming an international money market.

Members Of Cabinet Unchanged

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,

OTTAWA, July 8.—There will be a scattering of the Cabinet Ministers with the closing of the session, but Robert Rogers will leave the city on a short holiday. Other members of the Government are planning a long vacation. The post of Minister of Agriculture is still unfilled but the appointment of Hon. Hugh Guthrie to Cabinet rank makes the number of members unchanged. Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, is expected home from Paris tomorrow. Hon. A. L. Sifton will be with Mr. Doherty also at the peace treaty on behalf of Canada, is remaining overseas at present. The Liberals are laying big plans for their convention here in August, when a policy will be adopted and a leader chosen in succession to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Copy of Memorandum Issued At Dublin

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,
Canadian Press, Limited.

NEW YORK, July 8.—A copy of a memorandum setting forth conditions in Tipperary county, Ireland, was issued yesterday at Dublin by the Chief Secretary for Ireland, in outlawing all Sinn Fein organizations and Irish volunteers from Tipperary county it has been received here from British sources in London. The issuance of the memorandum was announced last night in cable despatches. The memorandum cites a series of lawless acts and quotes from two documents seized by the British authorities in Ireland. The quotations are from these two documents deal with the boycott of the police and measures to be taken against them. Copies of Sinn Fein propaganda seized by the police in Tipperary were said to have declared the south riding of Tipperary to be a Sinn Fein military area and proclaimed six regulars, placing the county under Sinn Fein control.

WASHINGTON, July 8—Definite information that the Bolsheviks authorities are planning to evacuate Petrograd has been received in official circles here. The decision to quit the capital was said to have been violently opposed by some elements of the Government.

Embassies And Consulates Seized By Bolsheviks

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

HELSINGFORS, July 8.—It is reported that all the Foreign Embassies Legations and Consulates in Petrograd have been occupied by Bolshevik troops. Archives have been seized, it is said, and those in charge have been arrested and handed over to an extraordinary commission dealing with charges of espionage against Soviet Government.

Inquest Commenced On Drowning Accident

Before Dr. Yeomans, coroner, an inquest was opened yesterday afternoon at Tickell & Sons Undertaking Establishment, upon the body of John York who was drowned in the bay on Sunday last. The jury is composed of Messrs. J. D. Collip, foreman, C. R. Cole, B. F. Jennings, E. T. Cherry, E. T. Austin, J. Archibald, P. Harrison; F. Walsh and H. Benham. After the jury had been sworn in and viewed the body some evidence was submitted.

Mr. C. R. Cole undertaker for Tickell & Sons testified that on Sunday at 2.30 p.m. he was called to Jones' Creek to get the body of John York who was drowned. The body was taken from Barrett's cottage and brought to Tickell's Undertaking Establishment. That was the body the jury viewed. T. Nellen corroborated the statement of Mr. Cole.

Mr. L. Soule, County Constable, testified as to summoning jurors who were qualified to act as such. Did not know deceased. After hearing of the drowning, he secured the services of Thomas and Wilbert Carter to recovered the body in about 16 feet of water. Deceased had on only a bathing suit at the time of the accident. Witness took charge of deceased effects. Deceased drove to the camping grounds in an automobile. His bank book, watch and chain and money was taken care of.

Morley Haggerty of Huntingdon, said he knew deceased and recognized the body of that of John York. Deceased had boarded at witness' home. Knew nothing about the accident. Saw him when he left home on June 29th at witness' home, where he remained all day.

The enquiry was then adjourned until Monday next at 7.30 at the police court room.

President Wilson Arrives Home

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

NEW YORK, July 8.—Four dreadnoughts and thirty-six destroyers from the Atlantic fleet formed an escort that met the United States Naval Transport George Washington with President Wilson aboard, thirty miles east off Sandy Hook early today. On duty for the President's arrival this afternoon were one hundred policemen from Jersey City and Hoboken force. Immediately after arriving at the exercises in Carnegie Hall President Wilson will go to Pennsylvania station to take a special train for Washington.

Canadian Press, Limited.

PARIS, July 8.—The Council of Five has decided today to inform the Austrian delegation that their Government would be admitted to the League of Nations as soon as it complies with the necessary conditions. This notification will be in reply to an Austrian note on the subject. The reply will be of a friendly character.

French Gov't To Discuss Living Question

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Special

PARIS, July 8.—The French Government is considering the problem of high cost of living and the Cabinet will take up the question at a meeting to-day. According to Echo de Paris the Government is considering an issuance of decree on opening frontiers immediately for the importation of necessary raw materials. The Fivears was the Government is discussing the abolition of the octroi duties on food stuffs such of buter, eggs, and cheese. Other newspapers say that the Government intends to propose a law inflicting very severe penalties on food speculators.

Statutory Holiday For Peace Celebration

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

OTTAWA, July 8.—It is expected that an order declaring Saturday July 19th a statutory holiday for celebration of Peace will be passed by Cabinet this afternoon.

No Great War Veterans Association Delegates To Grit Convention

VANCOUVER, July 8.—The determination of the Great War Veterans' Association to keep itself clear of party affiliations as demonstrated at the session of the Dominion convention when they unanimously rejected the invitation by D. D. McKenzie, the Liberal leader, to send delegates to the national convention in Ottawa in August.

There was little discussion of the invitation which was laid aside when a resolution to be forwarded to Mr. McKenzie, with a copy of the association constitution showing their stand in such questions.

Most of the morning session was devoted to questions of constitution and membership.

MEMBERSHIP QUALIFICATIONS

After several proposals it was decided that qualifications for membership would remain as it is namely, confined to those who have had service overseas.

A proposal that membership be enlarged to those who had enlisted, but had not left Canada found some support but not sufficient to carry. Less support was given a proposal from the Manitoba command that the association should be organized on the basis of a fraternal organization, granting degrees according to staus of service and still less was received for a motion that the membership be open to those who served under the British flag in any war.

Comrade Cahley, of Montreal, explained that they were at present working under two constitutions, though they were practically the same. One of those had been passed when they were practically a voluntary body and the second had been made necessary when they were incorporated under the companies act. A letter dealing would bring one to the level of the other, and he moved that they adopt the latest constitution. This proposal was received without discussion.

Presidents Purney was re-elected to the office of chief executive of the association.

For the Dominion executive the following provinces have agreed on the representatives named, who will, therefore take office automatically:—British Columbia, Doherty, of New Westminster; Dace, Alberta; Andrews, M.P., Saskatchewan; Sandford, Saskatchewan; Ponton, Ontario; Teit, Nova Scotia.

The remaining provinces will submit their nominees on Friday morning.

ASKS BONUSES BE GRANTED

After an all day discussion the convention adopted a resolution calling on the Government to grant bonuses to all Canadians who served in the active military service, or their dependents.

The resolution was a compromise on the much-discussed Calgary resolution and differed from that passed at the Calgary convention on some points. On the final vote there were only two dissenting voices and these delegates were in favor of some form of credit.

West Bridge Street Pavement Matter

The people on West Bridge claim that all or some of the following items should be deducted from the amount of the assessment for the pavement in justice to them:

Amount of last payment made to sewer contractors for the sewer on West Bridge St., and which the city held as security for restoration of the street but was paid over to the contractors without having the street restored, though the contractors consented to the city doing it, and charging the cost to the contractors account. $1200.00

Interest charged in cost of construction owing to the city having delayed the assessment for nearly two years 600.00

Rent of heater charged in costs of construction while the city was experimenting 63.00

Rent of boiler charged in costs of construction while the city was experimenting 16.75

Wages paid and coal consumed in experimenting with the heating of asphalt 100.00

Road material taken from West Bridge St. to build Pope Street and Ridley Avenue 600.00

Demurrage on two tanks of asphalt binder, occasioned by the city's delay in unloading cars 150.00

Total $2630.51

In this assessment the cost of the pavement is entered at $7180 while the estimated cost was $5000.00.

The ratepayers in their petition for the pavement asked to have the assessment divided into 10 instalments, and by-law provides for 10 instalments, but the assessment divided the payments into 9 instalments, and the first instalments that much larger than year.

The ratepayers claim the pavement was forced upon them and although down only a year is fast wearing out and has over 700 weak holes already in it.

British Dirigible Return Trip Delayed

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

MINEOLA, N.Y. July 8.—An enforced stay of the giant British Dirigible R-34, is made necessary by unfavorable weather reports received the next forty-eight hours and repairs to her motors brought hundreds of visitors to Roosevelt field today. The big airship will not take off on her return trip across the Atlantic Ocean until after dawn tomorrow. In making the announcement, Commander of the British Air Ministry aboard the Dirigible, positively declared that R-34 would start tomorrow morning, wind or no wind. Although he hoped that weather conditions would be favorable.

Very Glad To See Them Go: May Fight To Hold Them

SUCH IS THE ATTITUDE OF HOLLAND REGARDING THE HOHENZOLLERNS—HAVE FULL LIBERTY TO LEAVE OF THEIR OWN ACCORD.

AMSTERDAM, July 8.—The Telegraaf understands that the attitude of the Dutch Government regarding the ex-Kaiser may be summarized as follows:

First of all, it should be made clear that recent messages about the alleged flight of the ex-Kaiser were based upon the misconception that the Hohenzollerns are prisoners. On the contrary, they have full liberty to leave the country, and their departure would even be a welcome to the Dutch Government.

A sudden and unprepared departure leaving doubt as to their future whereabouts, would, however, have the character of flight, to prevent which is the duty of the guard from the Crown Prince. A regular and formal departure will not be prevented unless a request for extradition of the ex-Kaiser is to be expected. In the latter case departure might be prevented. The ex-Kaiser would then be detained, provided a request for extradition comes forth within a certain time.

The request will be considered according to treaties and laws. The Dutch law refuses extradition with the exception of 26 specified crimes. Advice on the extradition request must be given by a law court, in this case at Utrecht, to whose jurisdiction Amerongen is assigned. This necessitates extradition of the ex-Kaiser by a law court, which may take place in a private sitting, but even then it is doubtful whether extradition will be granted.

In this connection stress is laid upon a statement made by the Prime Minister in the Dutch Second Chamber on December 10, 1918, to the effect that the Government is prepared to collaborate in finding a solution—for instance, assigning an abode to the ex-Kaiser.

Circus Attracts Many Spectators

Barnes's big show arrived in this city on Thursday afternoon and yesterday morning pitched their tents on the circus ground, Bleecker Avenue, and will remain here to-day (the remainder of the week). It is an excellent show and all the attractions advertised are to be seen. Yesterday afternoon there was a fair attendance at the afternoon and in the evening the grounds were besieged by a large crowd, the great majority of whom visited the various tents. In the latter way is to be seen a number of attractions which are both instructive and pleasing. The dog and pony show was to many one of the chief features, but perhaps the greatest of all is the human heart man. The beating of his heart is plainly visible through the skin. He has appeared before the leading practitioners of the country and is certainly an enigma to many. In this connection it may be stated that he has already sold his body to the Polytechnic Society of New York for a post mortem after death. This is but one of many of the attractions. The high dive of Mat Gay was witnessed by nearly all present. This takes place from the outside and is a wonderful feat. From a height of over 100 feet he dives head first into a tank containing about five feet of water. It is a thrilling spectacle and one to be seen to be appreciated. The Ferris Wheel and Merry-Go-Rounds were well patronized. The latter is under a worthy organization, namely the Army and Navy Veterans and should receive a liberal patronage. The performances will be repeated every afternoon and evening of this week.

CITY AND COUNTRY

BICYCLE STOLEN

Last night a bicycle, the property of Frank Mackie, was stolen from the verandah of the house on Church St. The theft was reported to the police who are endeavoring to recover same.

HIGH PRICE FOR HOGS

Mr. D. Scott and son of this city, today shipped from here a number of live hogs and calves. The prices paid for porkers was $22.50 to $23.75 per hundred weight and 15c to 16c. per pound for calves. Both prices are exceptionally high.

INSPECTION OF FIRE APPARATUS

Mr. Robertson who is an inspector of the Fire Underwriters Association, was in the city today making an inspection of the fire brigade and apparatus. At 9.30 he ordered an alarm of fire to be sent in, the supposedly place of fire being the City Hall. Chief Brown and his fire laddies were not found napping and responded with alacrity to the alarm. After the inspector had made a test of the water pressure from a hydrant he ordered nine leads of hose to be run out, of 250 feet in each lead. The nine streams were turned on simultaneously and all poured forth good streams. The test was from all appearances a satisfactory nature and was witnessed with interest by many citizens. Ald. Dafoe, Chairman of the Fire Committee, and other members of the Council were present during the progress of the test.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP

On Monday the Y.M.C.A. Boys Camp opened at Oak Hill Lake. Fifteen boys and two leaders went out and will be there until July 21. A full camp equipment is provided there and the boys are assured of a good outing that will be both pleasant and profitable under the supervision of Mr. Angus Buchanan, Boys' Work Secretary. The liberality of those boys have been enabled to take this outing under proper supervision by the courtesy of interested friends, who contribute the necessary funds for this special object.

Men From Mauretania And Cassandra Arrive

KINGSTON, July 8—One of the most humorous mix-ups took place Sunday that has happened for many a day in military circles of this town.

The train which was supposedly carrying the Kingston men from the Mauretania left Montreal at 9.30 a.m. Sunday, and arrived here at 1.40 p.m. The delegation was sent out to meet the, 18 all ranks there were, but to find them was a task impossible. The T. C. O. besides conducting the Kingston men had 400 others besides for Toronto and believed that he had the men for this city as well, for he had their papers. However, a systematic search took place and the only men for Kingston were 4 off the S. S. Belgic. It was concluded that the 18 men must have been left on the platform of the station at Montreal. This proved to be the case for at 12.43 yesterday morning the men arrived tired, dirty and grimy, with no one to tell them what to do. To make the picture more amusing the next troop train to arrive was with the troops of the Cassandra which arrived two days before she was expected. The T. C. O. in charge in this case had his men right enough, but papers he had none. The men will receive their discharges just as soon as the papers arrive.

STYLES ARE MANY

Clothes for Coming Season Marked by Diversity.

Various Periods Shown in Waistline or Sleeve; Skirts Are Long and Draped.

Great activity prevails in all the large Dressmaking establishments and an interesting fashion display is promised for the openings, which will be held soon.

Shall we have a new silhouette? That is the important question. So far there is little if any indication of it but one never knows what turn the fit vention of the fashion will take, many take, now that their minds are relieved of the anxieties of war. History does not help us much. After Waterloo there were no sudden shifts in the modes, but a gradual development from the styles of 1815 through the seasons until a definite change was crystallized in the fashions of 1824. There was a marked change in fashion, heralding that of hairdressing, just preceding the French revolution.

The question of the silhouette is no longer so important as it used to be. Modern women are less obedient to the dictates of a few designers than were their mothers and grandmothers. The bustle mode returned, but not every woman adopted it, as was the case in the eighties. The majority preferred the tunic or short skirt, or the slightly barrel effect. This is an indication that women now have independent opinions on the subject of dress.

One new feature of the year, Illinois there is no evidence at one and the same time the empire waistline, the sloping or the oriental line dropped below the hips, and the so-called normal waistline. As for sleeves there is the long, tight sleeve, the sleeve of 1840, with its underpuff of lighter material; the Gregorian sleeve and the Eastern sleeve slit along its length and tied about the wrist. These are but a few of the "varieties" which we may see in every gathering of well-dressed women.

Then there is the realm of the skirt. There is the long, draped skirt, the narrower skirt, the narrow and straight skirt, the kilt skirt and the tunic skirt, either draped or pulled.

We see a great diversity of style among the evening frocks.

There is an exceedingly attractive model of black velvet with a princesse effect, draped in rather clinging lines and completed with a long train, the drapery beginning at the waistline in the back and extending in panel effect. The right side of the bodice is of fine-figured tulle. The left side is formed of the velvet, draped and crossing over and fastened at the waistline at the right side with a cluster of flowers.

MANY USES FOR PAPER YARN

Combined With Wool, Shoddy, Cotton and Waste, Enlarging Supply of Fabrics for Clothing.

The use of paper yarn has been largely extended during the past half year. The importance of the industry in the Jaffrey district, estimated production now amounting to about 80,000,000 pounds a year, says the Frankfurter Zeitung.

The manufacturing processes are described as being improved, and in the matter stands now paper yarn can be used successfully in the manufacture of various fabrics and garments, excepting only body linen and the better sorts of outside garments. Workingmen's clothes, bed and table linen, curtains, sail cloth, imitation leather and many other articles of good quality can now be made.

In many fabrics the paper yarn is combined with wool, shoddy, cotton waste, etc., and the supply of fabrics for the clothing industry is thus enlarged. It is not to be supposed that all these articles will disappear immediately upon the return of peace. The demand for them will continue undiminished for some time, and some of them may retain their place in the market permanently.

The use of paper yarn for sewing thread is also increasing, owing chiefly to the scarcity of cotton and linen thread. The preparation, twisting, etc., have been improved to such an extent that the paper threads are strong and durable enough to be used in the manufacture of coarse clothing and sacks.

FASHION NOTES OF INTEREST

Fluted Pierrette collars, some of them with sculptured points to relieve the roundness, are to be popular.

Flower toques, always charming, are being shown a bit this year. Most times they have a body of georgette or straw with just the top bejeweled.

A pretty little sport hat for southern winter is of bands of oyster white grosgrain ribbon half-inch wide. A bit of long white fringe lounges over the side.

A gorgeous evening coat for warmer climes is of apricot crepe meteor, made in cape fashion with long points over the arms and widely banded about the bottom with chinchilla.

A dancing frock of yellow-green satin suits a slender style of maid by being made with tight, old fashioned bodice and ruffled, full tunic with just a peeping of narrow skirt beneath.

Many of the new blue serges and tricotines have wool in gray, embroidered in large designs over part of the skirt.

The wages of women in Oregon are regulated by a state law.

Rockford, Ill., has a union of women machine shop workers.

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued

"Knights and men of Asturnia," he said "I would have you know that the throne of this kingdom is no place for an unprotected woman. She needs by her side one with a grave and subtle mind to advise her, and with a strong arm to enforce her decrees. This gracious lady has been pleased to choose one, who, though far too unworthy to wear her hand, has in some small measure the qualities which will ensure the strength of her government. She has done me the the honor to entrust me to my wife, and I am prepared to uphold her position against all comers." He advanced a step and loosing his gauntlet from his left hand flung it with a crash on the stone steps of the dais.

For a moment no one in the hall uttered a word. Then Lord Falk de Brahancor, a grizzled noble of the Northern Province, moved a little forward from his place.

"Surely, Count Guy of Marmorel, he said, sternly, "this act is unnecessary. You are among friends, any if you want us to be the lady's free and unbiased will, we are prepared to uphold her choice. I think I express the thoughts of my comrades and their followers."

Every man thundered out a tumultuous "Aye" and the air once more rang with shouts of approval and greeting. Count Guy smiled and stepped forward to pick up his glove. But before he reached the step on which it lay I saw him stop and it seemed as though he were listening to something.

The cheers ceased and the eyes of everyone in the hall were upon him. They, too, were wondering why he did not pick up his gauntlet from the stone. And in the silence which ensued they heard a sound which had never been heard in the land before. Someone was playing a violin.

But though the instrument was strange to them, the music itself must have spoken very plainly to their minds, for I never saw so great a look of horror and consternation adorn the faces of a multitude. Men's countenances grew dark, their lips parted and their eyes stared at Count Guy of Marmorel, who still paused at the edge of the steps and listened.

"By the saints, what music!" whispered D'Arcy to me.

And music it was. Cordeaux of such a high order that I felt the wail of its notes in my ears like a song of despair and death. And as I listened, I realised that I had heard the tune before, and I shuddered at the recollection. Count Guy stepped forward livid with fury.

"What folly is this?" he cried. "Ribvault, take a hundred men and search the castle; lock the gates, and do not come back to me until you have hung the musician from the highest tower."

The man began to leave the room and for a few minutes the music was drowned by the clatter of steel as they pushed their way out through the throng. But when they had disappeared there was nothing to be heard but the wail of the violin. Everyone in the room listened to it in silence and I could not understand why the sound had so great an effect on them.

The Lady Thora alone stood with a wrapt expression on her face as though she were listening to some music of the spheres. Now that the men had departed, there was a grim smile on the Count's lips, but the sword in his hand quivered as though it would fain be buried in someone's heart. Then he abruptly moved towards his gauntlet and picked it up from the floor. And, as he did so, the music ceased.

"Men of Asturnia," he cried "my challenge has remained unanswered. You are soldiers, and not to be frightened by the pranks of a juggling minstrel. You know me for your leader, and with you behind me I will ring out such music with this sword that the world will dance to it." He was indeed a leader of men. His words acted like a spell on the assemblage, and they broke once more into a tu-

FINE COMEDY ROLE FOR SHIRLEY MASON

A light comedy role with lots of pathos in it is portrayed by Shirley Mason in her new picture, "The Final Close-up" which is being shown at the Palace the first three days this week. The young star has the part of a little department store clerk. On the hottest day of the year she becomes so tired that she faints in order to get a vacation. She gets $100 from an anonymous source. Then things start happening and they eventually end with happiness for all. Miss Mason has had many winsome roles, but never one which gave her such opportunities to win her audiences as in this one. Her characterization is particularly appealing, and later on, when the comedy element comes to the fore, her clever work brings many laughs. Walter Edwards directed the picture from the story by Royal Brown, which appeared in the Red Book. As the same program with the above offering, Pathe's Canadian Gazette, an amusing "Toto" comedy, and a beautiful hand colored Travelogue showing scenes in Burton, England, and Yellowstone stone are being exhibite..

SOLDIERS' CIVIL RE-ESTABLISHMENT

Neil Taylor, Managing Director of H. R. Marsden Limited, Leeds, England has been appointed by the British Ministry of Labor, is making a tour of Canada, for the purpose of investigating the work of the Canadian Government as to placing ex-members of the Canadian forces in touch with opportunities for employment.

When asked for an expression of opinion as to the work being done in Canada by the Information & Service Branch, Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment, he said: "I think the results obtained are nothing short of marvelous. I really cannot bring many laughs. Walter Edwards directed the picture from the story by Royal Brown, which appeared in the Red Book. As the same program with the above offering, Pathe's Canadian Gazette, an amusing "Toto" comedy, and a beautiful hand colored Travelogue showing scenes in Burton, England, and Yellowstone stone are being exhibite..

"I am particularly struck with the high type of intelligence of the staff actually dealing with this work; evidently they have been carefully selected, and backed by some knowledge they have been fired with an enthusiasm for the work in hand which cannot but insure a continuance of the splendid results already obtained.

"The quality of the staff and the general organization and administration of the Department is such that the work in Canada is being carried on with a much smaller staff in proportion than is usually the case with respect to Government work.

"The close co-operation that exists between the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment and the Department of Labour whereby one comprehensive chain of employment offices covers the whole of Canada is a noteworthy feature, and has practically eliminated overlapping of the work of these two important branches of the Government Service.

"The Canadian Government undoubtedly took a step in the right direction which should serve as a lead to other Allied countries, when it established a civilian department to administer benefits in behalf of ex-members of the Forces. The atmosphere of sympathetic man-to-man consideration that exists in the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment could not be obtained in any thing but a civilian organization, and I am sure that this has been a great factor in the success of the Canadian Government in re-establishing as self supporting citizens, those who have served so gallantly overseas."

Music And Drama

IT IS A GROUCH-CHASER

Seldom has a play star had a better supporting cast than Margarita Fisher in the rip-roaring picture, "Fair Enough" which is being screened at Griffin's first three days this week; and perhaps never has a more interesting mixture of dot laughs, bizarre vagaries on the part of a devil-may-care girl, been put into a light screen comedy in a more interesting and entertaining manner than in this production. Nothing more fitting, nothing more suitable has perhaps ever been written for Margarita Fisher than the J. Anthony Roach story. She plays the daughter of an upstart mother who attempts to fashion her according to her own pattern, but also the scissors slip, and instead of one "just so" female bud on the branch of a hoped-for family tree, the daughter turns out to be a veritable thistle in the garden of conventionality. Thus develops the story where a girl's pranks, abandon and caprice severely shock Freddie, an infated, stilted specimen of the male sex, who has been selected by the girl's mother. Contrary to the mothers hopes and intention the daughter falls in love with what appears to be a man of the plain people, a plain everyday policeman, plain, forceful, merely in his avocation, but not in "Looks". This idiot of the girl's heart, the object of skylarking love is Carey Phelan, played by Jack Mower, who, in reality is a millionaire taking the place of a policeman under the work of fight classification. Besides the above offering a thrilling 2 act Western drama, a funny Mack Sennett comedy, and A Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon are being shown on the same program.

Just One Application And The Hairs Vanish

(Modes of To-day)

A harmless, yet very effective, treatment is here given for the quick removal of hairy growth: Mix enough powdered delatouo and water to cover the undesirable hairs, apply paste and after 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. One application usually is sufficient, but to be certain of results, buy delatone in an original package.

M. CLEMENCEAU.

Many people find happiness in the anticipation of political change. Clemenceau, Premier of France, will retire from office directly peace is ratified, say the news despatches one day. Clemenceau will not retire for the present, the burden of the next day's cable. Keep guessing on this line, after one will be right once in two days. Whatever course he follows, M. Clemenceau has a record which justifies a belief that his guiding motive will be patriotic rather than political. Through the war he stood as the embodiment of "La Patrie," firm-hearted, zealous and efficient, with his courage set on the best and surest foundation—great expectations and the consciousness of a good cause. His example should be a beacon-light in the turmoils, perplexities and conflicts surging about the chief political problems, which are now pressing everywhere for solution. He was strong because of high principles, and doubly strong because he was fearless.

THE SENATE AND PROHIBITION.

The Senate has decided to stand by its amendment of the intoxicating Liquor Bill making the prohibition of the traffic in and transport of alcoholic liquors end with the end of the war instead of twelve months later. The matter hardly deserves the impostance that has been attached to it in some quarters. The prohibition that interferes with the liquor traffic is that enacted by the provinces. Some forbid the general sale of intoxicants of all kinds; Quebec permits the traffic in light beers, wine and cider. The federal orders in council, which are to be sanctioned are to the Intoxicating Liquor Bill, recognize the liberty of the provinces in the connection. Their avowed purpose is to supplement the provincial laws, and they do this by putting restrictions on interprovincial trade, the legality of which has been questioned by some.. They were passed as a war measure. That they should end with the war is reasonable. The purpose of retaining them in force for a longer time, with some at least, has been to give the country stricter prohibition than it may desire. The good purpose of prohibitionists may not be questioned; their wisdom does not always vindicate itself. Prohibition's early chance of success is in the moral support of a majority of the community. This cannot be invoked by trick legislation. It is difficult enough to secure when, after full and free discussion, a prohibition measure, framed and supported as such, receives the sanction of the legislative body having jurisdiction in the connection. The orders in council have had their force from a war law whose provisions are not to be maintained in peace. The Senate has good ground for the position it has taken.—Montreal Gazette.

U. S. PROHIBITION.

The acceptance in the United States of the war time prohibition law, which, as regards the retail sale of intoxicants, went into full effect on July 1, has been received with general good humor. As in the case of Canada, there was a great stocking-up by individuals in preparation for the arid spell; but this can have but small general effect on the situation. Not one man in a hundred has a "cellar," and not many of the cellars contain enough to last for over a month or two. Attorney-General Palmer, outlining the plan of the national Government, has issued a statement pointing out that under the law it is now unlawful to sell for beverage purposes any distilled spirits and any beer, wine or other intoxicating malt or vinous liquor, except for export, this prohibition to continue "until the conclusion of the present war and thereafter until the termination of demobilization." There is still some relief for those who like strength in their drink in the doubt as to whether the law regards as intoxicating beer of less than 2¼ per cent. alcoholic strength. The issue is before the courts, whose decisions are so far conflicting. The relief can only be temporary, however. On January 16, which is given as the date for the going into force of the newest amendment to the national constitution, traffic will be stopped by authority of the highest law in the country, and the prohibitionists in Congress intend that any liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol shall not be sold or consumed. The advantage in the greatest test of prohibition yet made will be with the law, and for the first time. It will need to make it effective, however, efforts beyond anything yet organized; and if it is not made effective there will be worse conditions than licensed sale developed.

CANADA LEADS.

A paragraph appearing in "Repatriation," a monthly bulletin published in the interests of returned men in Australia, quotes the speech delivered in Sydney by Premier Holman of New South Wales, in which he declared that that State had settled 1,100 men on the land. The Premier claimed that this was a much larger number than had been settled in any other States.

New South Wales sent to the battlefields of Europe thirty-nine per cent. of the total of the Australian expeditionary force. If the proportion of ex-service men settled on the land in the other States was equal to that of New South Wales the figures would be for the whole of Australia 7,800 men benefited by the Land Settlement Act up to the date of the Premier's speech.

Up to the 17th of May the Soldier Settlement Board of Canada had approved 7,000 applications for the benefits of the Soldier Settlement Act, and a great many more applications were before the Qualification Committees in the various provinces. These figures, which will be largely augmented by the returns for the last two weeks of May and for the present month show that Canada is well in advance of the sister commonwealth in providing suitable farms for her war heroes.

HIGHER TARIFF DUTIES FOR FRANCE.

France is to increase its protective duties. The French Minister of Finance has laid before the French Parliament proposals for increased taxes, including ad valorem surtaxes on imports. Increased prices have resulted in a decreased percentage of protection by specific duties and the Minister's proposal calls for ad valorem surtaxes on manufactured goods to give the same relative protection as before the war. The import duties are mentioned as accompanying a progressive removal of the import prohibitions. The French import duties are nearly all specific in form and, as prices have advanced, the present rates represent a much lower ad valorem duty than before the war.

The annual fire menace in Northern Ontario with its more or less disastrous consequence to life and property is again at hand. The absence of an efficient policy for combatting this great evil is a serious charge for the Ontario Government to answer.—Financial Post.

FLOWERS ON HATS

Spring Headgear Will Be Veritable Flower Gardens.

Roses, Which Affording Welcome Victory Color, Promise to Reign Supreme for Decoration.

We are told that hats this spring are to be veritable flower gardens, notes a millinery authority. And it would take no oracle to predict that of all flowers the rose would be supreme. Even before the armistice was signed the rose had been immensely popular—real roses and driftelal roses and the rose design in fabrics. Then with the armistice and victory the color of the rose became one of the most successful victory colors. In fact, it was various shades of rose that appeared to be the instinctive choice of most women, so that simultaneously they appeared in rose colored dance and theatre frocks after the war's end. One of the smartest of the advance season hats—one worn by a prominent actress—is a small hat entirely covered with rose petals. Doubtless the rose petal hat will be much in demand as spring comes on space.

No one with open eyes needs to be told that the corsage bouquet has been revived. It is not as yet so usual as to be actually popular. It has the advantage, as yet, of exclusiveness. It is seen worn on many evening gowns and not infrequently on afternoon gowns as well. It is possible that the spring will reintroduce the fashion of wearing flower bouquets on the tailored suit or street frock, as was the fashion a few years ago.

There are all sorts of flowered cottons fabrics for spring and summer. One of these is a rose strewn chintz that in the hands of the skilled dressmaker is decidedly attractive.

SUITABLE FOR STOUT WOMEN

Longer and Narrow Skirt Regarded as Far More in Favor—Open Sleeve a Blessing.

If you yourself are not more robust than you should be, you just don't know anything about it unless maybap you have narrowly watched the progress of a fat friend or are the dressmaker who must plan the raiment for the fat as well as the lean—you don't know anything about how perfectly and entirely unsuited the mode of the last year was for the stout. It will need to make it effective, however, efforts beyond anything yet organized; and if it is not made effective there will be worse conditions than licensed sale developed.

The short skirt is an abomination for the woman who weighs too much, as things were one looked absolutely frumpy in a long skirt. And short skirts seemed to call for French heeled shoes and a heavy woman really does not look her best in that type of shoe; or rather she so soon got the better of the shoe that that type of shoe always looks a little shabby and down at the heel when worn by her.

But the mode that is already with us is far more favorable. The narrow skirt is a blessed relief. The narrow skirt likewise helps, or rather the skirt draped to look narrow. The open sleeve is a blessing, for the increased width at the wrist makes the upper arm appear smaller. It hides the fat wrist and also makes the hand appear slender.

VASES TO HOLD THE POSIES

Vessels Regarded as a Failure as They Do Not Serve Purpose to Fullest Extent.

Highly ornamental vases are attractive in themselves, but as flower holders they may be said to be partial failures, as they do not serve their purpose in the fullest extent. They attract attention to themselves rather than set off the blooms for which they are designed.

A vase of plain material or color, or one on which the design is obscure, is more to the point, as it presents the flowers in their full beauty, and does not detract one's attention. In the same way a vare of luster ware, of a shade that blends with the flowers it holds, is far more attractive than one of contrasting color.

Vases are also to be used for all kinds of flowers might better be green, of a dull shade, as this resembles the plant coloring and is not noticeable.

BACTERIAL SOFT ROT

Disease Is Causing Great Loss of Vegetables.

Cauliflower, Carrots, Turnips, Celery and Tomatoes Particularly affected—How the Disease Spreads—Its Symptoms—Methods of Cure Necessary During Harvest and Storing.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

BACTERIAL soft rot is a disease liable to attack fleshy vegetables and flowers, particularly celery, carrots, cauliflower, turnips, celery, tomatoes, rhie and cala lily, and in a lesser degree onions, squash, peas, and pear bean plants. Occasionally the disease results in heavy losses to the grower of these crops.

General Appearance of the Disease.

As the name signifies, the disease results in a soft, wet rot of the plant attacked. The rotted portion of the tissue is darker in color than the rest of the plant. The color of the diseased part varies from a light, reddish brown to black. It is very dark brown.

Nature of the Disease.

The disease is due to the action of a certain species of bacillus known generally as "soft rot bacillus" or bacillus. This is a very minute organism about 1-10,000 of an inch long and 1-20,000 of an inch thick, but when it gets into the vegetable tissue its growth is rapid. By the use of a microscope or culture dish, it feeds on the plant juices and forms spores and by means of a ferment it produces an enzyme, which digests or softens the tissue, thus changing it down into a soft, pulpy, strong smelling mass, and this is easily detected. In this soft-rotted tissue the bacilli will be present in millions.

In cauliflower the disease is found more often in the flower than in the leaves or stems, the latter parts, however, are also subject to attack.

In turnips, the disease most frequently enters at or near the crown, through caterpillar or slug attack, or through injuries caused during hoeing or cultivation. It softens or rots the tissue, causing the leaves decaying them to fall over, and spreads slowly in the ground during the early weather, through the tissue of the root, inducing a brown-colored soft rot of the tissue.

In carrot the disease enters and spreads in the same way as described for the turnip. It is more apt to spread rapidly through a carrot in thickly seeded rows or well thinned out, the shade produced by the tops of the plants making ideal conditions by keeping the ground moist for the development of the disease when once it gains entrance, and hardboring slugs and caterpillars that feed upon the carrot tissue, which crack beneath the ground are liable to be attacked by the disease, the soft rot bacillus gaining entrance to the tissue through the cracked surface.

In celery the disease is not very common, but when present is most often found starting at or near the crown of the plant and growing.

In tomatoes the bacterial soft rot is frequently found during wet seasons. It is found most frequently in the fruits that are in contact with the soil after the fruit has commenced to ripen. The bacillus will not readily penetrate through the unbroken skin of the tomato. But when a tomato is resting on the damp earth, that part of the skin in contact with the soil is frequently weakened, thus providing a means of entrance for the bacillus. This, however, is not the only means in which the disease enters the fruit. Slugs are very partial to tomatoes just ripening. They attack on the fruit they eat through the skin, leaving the interior flesh exposed. This makes surface to an ideal medium for the bacillus of soft rot to develop in. The writer has found many tomatoes, particularly in wet seasons, when slugs are plentiful, that have contracted the disease in this way.

Eradication and Control of Disease.

Spraying with fungicides, which is so effective in controlling the fungus diseases of plants, is of no avail with bacterial diseases, as the bacteria, which causes the disease, are in the interior tissue rather than on the surface, hence the spray will not reach them.

Spraying with insecticides is helpful indirectly in that it will help to check the insects, slugs, caterpillars, etc., which are often the most common means of spreading bacterial diseases from one plant to another.

As a rule, the best method to adopt in dealing with a plant infected by bacterial disease is to carefully remove and burn it. Insects, garden tools, etc., coming in contact with it will spread the disease to the soil, with which they come in contact later.

Precautions.

Precautions, in order to prevent losses from bacterial soft rot of plants, remove and burn affected plants, or parts of plants, as soon as observed; be careful during cultivation not to wound plants, and keep caterpillars, slugs and biting insects in check. Do not put diseased plants never be put on the compost heap or manure pile.

Harvesting and Storing.

When harvesting and storing turnips, cauliflowers, cabbage, celery, tomatoes, or other vegetables from crops in which the disease has been present, great care should be taken not to handle any specimens that shows the slightest appearance of the disease, or to smear the healthy specimens with the juice from any of diseased specimens. If these precautions are not taken the disease is liable to establish itself and spread in the storage house, causing serious late crop stored.—D. H. Jones, B.S.A.

BUY A $10 UNIT IN TEXAS OIL-May Make You $100 In a short time

Here's a chance to make big money on a $10 investment --or to loose but $10--You Can't loose much if you do loose—You may make hundreds--or even thousands. Note the men back of this enterprise. Then Decide Yourself.

Great Fortunes Are Made When Oil Is Struck

ALL the oil enterprises that are today pouring forth vast riches were at the start speculative. This is speculative. If this were not speculative—if oil were actually spouting from wells on this property today—you wouldn't have this opportunity—your money wouldn't be needed or accepted.

Folks of very limited means—often very poor people with only a few dollars—have in many instances HAVE BEEN REAPING A FINANCIAL HARVEST through Texas oil resources.

It is reasonable to expect that what has happened elsewhere—in other Texas oil territories—must happen here. Those who bought ahead of the drill in other sections are rolling in wealth today. Take the famous Burkburnett and Ranger districts here at one time—not many months have—leases could be easily bought around $10.00 an acre. Deals have been reported recently as high as $186,000 an acre. Frequent deals in that field are around $25,000 an acre. An oil strike did the work.

You are invited to "look up" this Company through any channel you may choose. The officers and directors whose names follow are all men of integrity and reliability. They are putting their own money, their time and faith in this enterprise, with a determination to make it a big success.

Five wells to be drilled near Roby

FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM—Edition Wed., May 21, 1919—Roby, Texas, May—FIVE OIL WELL DRILLING CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN SIGNED ON BLOCKS OF LEASES IN THIS SECTION. TRY AND SEVEN MORE ARE BEING NEGOTIATED AT THIS TIME.

Our holdings in this rich Field offer choice locations for many Wells

We own leases aggregating 222 acres situated Northeast of Roby, Fisher County, Texas, a short distance west of the Ranger field, where many gushers of from 7,000 to 12,000 barrels of oil per day have been brought in.

Our leases offer choice locations for upwards of 60 wells. There are four oil sands in this section, and our chances of striking a gusher are equal to any and better than most.

On the North and East we have Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Electra, and Henrietta fields, and on a direct line, a short distance East, the famous Ranger oil fields all big producers. The Company's land shows all the surface indications of oil that these other fields ever had. Producing wells are being brought in nearer every day—they are now drilling to the North, East and South.

Many new locations are being made in this section—drilling rigs are being rapidly moved in and instructed to begin operations at once. The activity in this section is increasing daily and development is being rushed on a large scale. Any day word may reach us of the bringing in of these well-to-gushers—bringing to many persons fortunes—millions of dollars in increased values of our leases and the stock of this Company.

These are some of the reasons—without going into geological or technical details—why the officers and directors of the Company has such faith in this property.

10c Cents a Share Now & Money Back In 10 Days if You Want It

To enable the Company to start drilling as soon as possible and to pay necessary overhead costs this popular subscription plan has been adopted. Under this most unusual offer is made to those who will act at once. If you will remit promptly you will pay just ten cents per share or $10 per unit of 100 shares.

Send your money any convenient way—money order, check, bank draft or currency by registered letter—then look up the Company or directors or property, and if not perfectly satisfied, ask return of your money within ten days, and it will be forwarded to you at once.

Facts concerning this property have been told you in brief without elaboration. What do you think about the prospects of making your $10 in this venture many times over? As good as it looks, you have not been told anywhere near all the favorable things about this immense project. If you want a $10 unit at the present low price—fill out the subscription coupon (or send letter) without delay and send it with your $10—before the price goes up.

Buy Now--- After we start to Drill you'll have to Pay More for this Stock

Courage, initiative ability to see and grasp opportunities—that's what makes your money make money for you. Make the most of your opportunities. This is within your reach. Decide now.
WE RESERVE THE OPTION TO ADVANCE COST OF UNITS WITHOUT NOTICE
You Deal Direct With the Company. (No Brokers or Agents)

officers of health naturally hesitate has its day—that they shall not simply to close houses. Even when they do so the houses stand an offence to the eye at least." Meanwhile the owner may be content to fold his arms and await his reward in the appreciation of land values, for slums frequently occur where property values are tending upwards. SPORTING NEWS

OSHAWA, V.S. G.T.R. TOMORROW

If the fans of Belleville are out to support a team and are in any way enthused over baseball, tomorrow evening should be their time for showing themselves in numbers to show the local team that they are behind them. The exhibition grounds here are a joke, and we think that the City Council should put them in better shape, or at least have the grass cut. Belleville has the worst diamond of any our boys have struck on the Central Ontario circuit, even the spectators have their little joke each time they look it over.

The team has been playing wonderful ball. It looks like championship for Belleville. Although Oshawa won first at Oshawa, the home team expect to turn the trick tomorrow with a win which will keep them on top of the league. The game is a twilight fixture and is called for 6.30 p.m.

BELLEVILLE ORIOLES 4
VS. POINT ANNE 1

Last evening a fast, exciting game of ball was played at Point Anne between the Point Anne boys and the Orioles. The game resulted in a victory for the Orioles by the score of 4 to 1. The game was close and exciting with both teams playing good ball. The opposing twirlers, were Coon and Crosby and a more evenly matched pair would be hard to find, both having the opposing batters eating out of their hands all through the game with Coon receiving good support. Cook did the receiving end of the job for the Orioles and let us say right here Coon could not have wished for better battery mate. The pair make SOME battery. Cummings on first played a nice game, getting all kinds of catches which the infield had threw a little wild. Mr. Burke of Belleville umpired the game and he was good in spots although at one time after a row the Orioles threatened to throw him out in the bay as they were going home in their motorboat.

The line up was as follows:

Cooke, Coon, Cummings, Holloway, Hanner, Kemp, Markle, Ashley and Lowe.

Humor Of J. W. Leonard

His Scrap Book and His Well Done Work

The late James W. Leonard, formerly general superintendent of the C. P. R., Toronto, was one of that picturesque type of railroad man which is passing into history.

The older generation will recall the figure he made a quarter of a century ago when he was superintendent for the C. P. R. He wore a frock coat, a wide-brimmed slouch hat, and smoked a pipe of slight proportion.

The hat became a sort of landmark. It was a symbol around the C. P. R. To it, one came for the brief, business-like "yes" or "no" that characterized Jimmie Leonard's abrupt and efficient administration. But the hat began to show signs of decay, and however lavishly "J. W." cocked it over one eye, it wilted and faded. So his good friend, W. R. Callaway, now general passenger agent of the Soo lines, took Mr. Leonard up on the hat question and urged him to get a new one.

"What for?" demanded J. W. "Nobody would know me in another hat! This is my crown! Nothing doing!"

Mr. Callaway finally offered to buy a new hat, and J. W. said: "You're on."

A new derby was purchased, sleek, and in the latest fashion of the eighteen nineties. J. W. put it on, and ordered the famous old slouch hat to be sent home.

Next morning, J. W. appeared on the job in the old slouch hat!

Another anecdote indicates the late Mr. Leonard's quiet but effective method of brushing away the vanities of human nature. A young man, applied for a job to him. This young man was sporting a walking stick.

"I'm afraid we can't do anything for you," said Mr. Leonard. "We can't use a lame man."

"But I'm not lame!" protested the applicant.

"Then why the cane?" asked J. W.

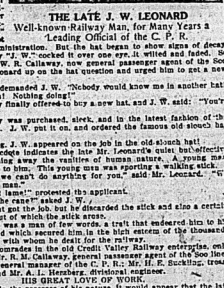

The applicant got the job, but he discarded the stick and also a certain frame of mind out of which the stick arose.

Mr. Leonard was a man of few words, a trait that endeared him to his many friends and which secured him in the high esteem of the thousands of business men with whom he dealt for the railway.

HIS GREAT LOVE OF WORK

Deep down in the recesses of his nature, it would appear that the late J. W. Leonard, whose life-motto was, "I want to do the work entrusted to me in the very best way that I can," should have been sorry for the approbation of his fellows. In a scrapbook, containing the clippings of newspapers for the past twenty years, there is a letter from Lord Strathcona, congratulating him upon the manner in which he had carried the world's crop unit during his first year as assistant superintendent of the western division. It is evident that he valued the letter as an evidence of work well done, rather than as the approval of the head of the system.

Low Cost and Big Capacity Make the Maxwell Everyman's Truck

More miles per gallon
More miles per tires

MAXWELL Trucks are in use today all over Canada—serving scores of different kinds of business.

They have solved transportation problems for manufacturers—at low cost. They are giving jobbers and wholesalers speedy deliveries—at low cost. They have given dependable cartage service to many retailers—at low cost.

Maxwell Trucks have earned money for farmers in every province—made them independent of the nearby markets—saved hours of valuable time.

In short, the Maxwell is Everyman's truck. Why?

Because the Maxwell calls for the smallest investment for a completely equipped truck.

Because the Maxwell will handle four out of every five freight-carrying jobs more speedily at less expense.

Because Maxwell service is available anywhere in Canada—fast service, complete service.

Remember this. Bigger trucks spend more gas hauling themselves than the Maxwell truck uses at peak load. Lighter trucks take more time, more gas to do the same work as a Maxwell—and they lack the complete equipment and high-grade construction of the Maxwell.

Not an assembled mechanism—but a scientific engineering job. Quantity production makes the price several hundred dollars less than that of any other truck of similar capacity.

Put the Maxwell to work in your business.

She had so many expenses she didn't know what to do;
So she split up the shoe, with some laths and cement,
And hung out a placard, "Apartments to Rent."

DIED FAR FROM RELATIVES

When Pte. E. A. Reardon, a private under the care of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment, died in hospital at Toronto he was far from his home and all but he was alone among friends. All that could be done was done to save his life but pneumonia proved too much for a constitution previously weakened by the strain of war service in Belgium and France.

At the time of his death, Pte. Reardon's wife was in Walthamstow, Essex, England and no other kin resided in Toronto.

As Pte. Reardon had served with the Royal Canadian Dragoons, the Officer Commanding that unit asked the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment to arrange the funeral to be conducted by that corps, and this was done. The body was conveyed from Military Barracks, Toronto, to Prospect Cemetery and there buried with all military honours.

Following cable announcement of Pte. Reardon's death, from the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment in accordance with its usual procedure, a letter was forwarded by its officers to Mrs. Reardon in Walthamstow, giving complete particulars of the illness and death of her husband. With the letter was enclosed snapshots of the final ceremony at the graveside and a photograph of the grave. There was also forwarded to the widow a list of the effects and a copy of the instructions providing for the perpetual care of the little plot.

THE DOWER OF CANADA.

Mineral Wealth of Country is Very Large.

Some years ago a Dominion Royal Commission was appointed to make inside survey of the British Empire. Lord D'Abernon was chairman. Members represented the United Kingdom and each of the self-governing Dominions sent one delegate. Canada was represented by Sir George E. Foster, and Mr. Rider Haggard was one of the outstanding British members.

The commission visited all parts of the Empire, and had collected much of the necessary information when its work was interrupted by the war. In due course the special value of the survey as a means of Empire intelligence was recognized, and the task of sifting and arranging the facts was resumed. The final report has been published in handy, cloth bound form, and can be obtained for 1s. 6d. from H. M. Stationery Office, London. The catalogue of Canadian resources of value to the Empire in peace and war is most interesting.

Of minerals, aside from the precious metals, Canada has a plentiful supply. Eighty per cent. of the world's production of raw asbestos is mined in the Dominion, and the industrial applications of this material are practically unlimited. Metallic cobalt is now being produced in Canada, for high-speed steel, and for use in metal plating instead of nickel, which it resembles. The report says that in future it may be of great importance in the production of munitions of war. Canada is the chief source of the world's supply.

Canada in 1913 had the seventh largest production of refined copper, namely 24,180 tons. During the war this output was greatly enlarged. The Canadian production of pig-iron was also considerable, no less than 832,000 tons. Of late years, owing to the increase of electrical installations, there has been a great demand for mica. Canada is one of the chief sources of the world's supply, mining in 1913 2,700,000 cwts. of the best sheet mica. Great Britain and India can meet the whole of the demand within the Empire.

Canada also provides the bulk of the world's nickel supply, producing in war years some 30,000 tons. Of sulphur is procured in large quantities from pyrites, and we have notable deposits of molybdenum, which has great metallurgical importance. One cannot read the report without being impressed with the enormous natural strength of the British Empire, how materials abound everywhere, that the heart of Canada is priceless.

Provincial Grants to Education.

During the session of the Ontario Legislature, just ended, votes were passed for the spending of additional sums of money in connection with public education. Among the more important items were:—

(1) To assist consolidated schools $100,000, to be used for transportation and to increase the grants to these schools, as well as paying for agricultural teachers.

(2) For medical and dental inspection in the Public and Separate School $20,000. This work, it is stated, will be carried on through the Women's Institutes.

(3) For technical education, the major portion of which is designated to be used for industrial and technical education, day and evening classes, grants and contingencies, $214,000. This amount $14,000 is for salaries of organizers.

(4) For each of the Normal Schools at Toronto, Ottawa, London, Hamilton, Peterboro, Kingston and Stratford, $7,000 for plant laboratories for the better studying of horticulture and botany.

(5) For agricultural and horticultural grants for school boards, teachers' institutes, Boys' and Girls' Separate Schools, $53,000. This is additional to the Dominion grant devoted to this purpose.

(6) For assisting in providing consolidated halls, $10,000.

(7) For the National Institute for the Blind, $50,000.

N.B.—The total amount voted for education was $2,434,547.

War Souvenirs.

A month ago a Canadian soldier in France, called his father and mother in Toronto that he was returning immediately with a Belgian girl. His father and mother, who were prominent in the social life of Toronto, were somewhat embarrassed by the cablegram, for they thought their son of twenty-three, who had been three years at the front, had without notifying them married outside their social circle.

This particular Canadian soldier arrived home the other day, and with him was a Belgian girl four years younger. The father and mother were much relieved when he told them how he was walking through the streets of Brussels one day and saw the little girl run and caught hold of his hand and said to him, "I want you to take me home." He could not resist the child's request, and Canada is the richer by one little Belgian girl four years old, and she is richer by a foster father and mother to take the place of those she lost during the war.

A returned member of the Canadian Aviation Corps has a little French boy, whom he adopted under the laws of France, because the little chap was an orphan and had only his grandmother, dying of an incurable disease, to take care of him. The little nine-year-old French boy will grow up to be a worthy citizen of Canada.

How to Grow Plants for Winter From Cuttings.

Aphis Ploughing Destroys a Considerable Proportion of White Grubs and Wires Infesting the Old Sod Fields—Flax Is a Splendid Crop for a First Crop on Such Fields.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

TOWARD the end of the summer the amateur flower grower often wonders how the stock of geraniums in the flower border can be increased and preserved by some other means than by taking up of the old plants in the autumn, the last named method, having, perhaps, proved unsuccessful in past seasons. By starting early, (towards the end of August, perhaps), quality cuttings appear, a nice supply of young plants, and especially of all kinds of geraniums of the flowering kind, or those having fragrant leaves, such as the bronze or silver-leaved kinds, can be had by starting cuttings or slips of these plants. First of all obtain a shallow, box about three inches deep, ten or twelve inches wide, and from four to twenty-four inches in length, as one small basket-full will do very well. It should have some small holes bored through the bottom for drainage, then take this box firmly with moist, clean, gritty sand; sand that will make good stobs mortar will do. Then, after having selected a number of the young growth of the plants, cut off pieces about four inches in length, each shoot or cutting having from four to six joints; where leaves are growing, the best place for the cutting just below one of these nodes or leaf joints, making a clean cut with a sharp knife flat across. Cut off the lower leaves, thus leaving two or three leaves at the top. Cut off all bloom buds and blossoms where possible. Make a hole or drill in the wet and deep enough to set fully half the length of stems of cuttings in the sand. Water them well and then keep the sand moist. Some cuttings are rooted, which should be in five or six weeks' time.—The box can be set out of doors in a partial shade until the first week in September, when they can be taken into the window. When cuttings have roots about an inch in length, dig them carefully from the sand without injuring the roots and pot them singly into small 2½ inch pots, and set them about two inches apart in well-drained shallow boxes in a soil made up of one part sand, one part leaf mould, and about six parts of light loamy soil enriched with one part dry pulverised cow manure (this last ingredient is the best). Or 25% of the best possible fertilizers for soil for pot plants. Set the potted plants in the window in a temperature of 60 to 70 deg. Fahr., ordinary house temperature.—Miss Willis Hunt, O. A. College, Guelph.

White Grubs and Wireworms.

White grubs are the larvae of the large "June Bug," as they are commonly called, and, as underground root feeders, are very difficult to control. A great many methods have been made with chemicals of many sorts, but none has proved successful. The best method control is by the adoption of a system of rotation of crops. In the autumn plough all the grass for more than three years. An old pasture, when broken up in autumn is often found to be full of these grubs, and they will attack the roots of any plants that are sown or planted in the ordinary food which has been removed. Corn, potatoes and turnips are severely, but clover is least affected by them. Plough the land down with rye. After the second year any crop will usually be safe. Deep ploughing in autumn before the weather becomes cold will expose the grubs and destroy many. Birds are fond of poultry, crows and other birds attack grubs in ploughed land. Where an old field is found to be badly infested, it is a good plan to turn in poultry in the spring to pasture on it and eat up all the grubs. If the field is small it would be well to turn some them with hurdles to a small portion of the field, and when it is cleared move them on to a fresh feeding ground.

Wireworms are the larvae of Click beetles, so called from their curious habit of springing up in the air with a "click" when laid upon their backs. The grubs are long, slender, narrow, rounded above, with very short legs, and usually dull gray or black in color. The beetles are very similar to that of the White Grub, as they thrive in old pastures and take three years to mature. They also feed upon the roots of any plants that may be growing upon the land, and are especially injurious to corn and potatoes, in the latter of which they often burrow great holes. As in the case of the White Grubs, no treatment of the soil will prevent, but only kill them; but this is an entire failure. The only remedy is a short rotation of crops as is the case of White Grubs. Ploughing in August and late-ploughing in September will destroy great numbers. Clean cultivation, keeping the land free from cover or shelter for the beetles, is fence corners and hedge rows is also important. Flax is a particularly valuable crop for sowing on old sod, as the wireworm does not like flax.

Break up the old pastures in the spring, as farmers should follow.—Dr. C. J. S. Bethune, O. A. College, Guelph.

Sir James Lougheed, Minister of the Department also sent a personal letter of condolence to the widow.

A reply has been received by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment from Mrs. Reardon, expressing deep appreciation of the services rendered in life and after death to her husband, and offering warm thanks to those who paid the tribute due a lonely soldier.

In every instance of the death of a patient of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment where interment takes place at a distance from the home of the next of kin, photographs of the grave are prepared and forwarded to the relatives, together with fullest particulars of the death and burial of the former soldier.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

Trouble in Winnipeg Recalls Fall Of Carey in 1869.

Labor troubles seem to be in the air just now. Not since 1869 have so many strikes been threatened in Canada as have been declared within the past few days. Yet, two enterprising Toronto papers sent representatives hundreds of miles across the wintry prairie, braving the cold, the storms and leaden bullets to get the news—and they got it.

Half a century ago Torontonians were anxiously awaiting the papers for news of the troubles in Winnipeg. Greybeards remember the wave of excitement that swept over the Toronto of 58,000 inhabitants, when in December, 1869, word came through that Louis Riel, chieftain of the rebels, had taken Fort Garry (now Winnipeg), imprisoned the Canadian Government representative and the Hudson Bay Co. officials and set up his own government in the Northwest Territories.

It was a far cry from Toronto to the Winnipeg of 1869—Fort Garry, the little outpost of civilization away off in the Great Lone Land. The C.P.R. was then scarcely thought of and spoken of by sound business men as a wild and impossible project. Twelve hundred miles of wilderness stretched between Toronto and the prairie trading post. The most feasible route to the west in those days lay via Minnesota. And it was this way that the late John Ross Robertson, afterwards proprietor of the Evening Telegram, Toronto, and at that time on the staff of the then Toronto defunct Daily Telegraph, of Toronto, set out to write the scene of the troubles on behalf of the paper. The Globe sent the late Mr. Robert Cunningham, and the rival newspapermen travelled together into the wild west. Mr. Robertson got only an hour's warning. The city editor called him, he noticed much of the assignment and handed him a roll of one thousand dollars for expenses and the long journey. Without a word he was down at the old Great Western Railway station, boarding the train for Detroit.

On the 'thirty-first they reached the little frontier town of St. Cloud, Minnesota—the end of the steel—and prepared to start on the 500-mile trail across the prairies to Fort Garry. While waiting there, John Ross Robertson got an important story of what was happening in isolated Fort Garry, from the officer commanding the American troops at St. Cloud. Forthwith Telegram's representative set up all night, wrapped in a buffalo robe, writing the story which his rival had not secured and which was sent by despatch was in charge of the United States Government mail courier, speeding over the snow in a dog train, and when he secured a big boat for his paper and the first responsible news to reach Toronto.

Securing a farmer's sleigh and team and a French half-breed guide the travellers set out for Fort Garry, 250 miles away. They travelled and camping nightly in the woods along the bank. The weather was bitter, ranging from zero to 40 below zero, and during a blizzard one of the horses almost died of cold. But after a strenuous journey of ten days over hill and the newspapermen drove in through the famous gateway of Fort Garry. They were immediately placed under arrest and taken before the self-styled President of the Northwest, Louis Riel. But gruffly asked them how they had dared to ride over into his country and shut them up in a section of the fort, where, however, he retired to the extent of allowing them out daily for exercise when under the escort of a half-breed with a big rifle who never allowed to go about the town seeing friends.

During this time they frequently dropped into the office of Riel's newspaper, the "Norwester," which was located in a log cabin. Like the Winnipeg papers of to-day, it had been ordered to cease publication. But the two Torontonians, sitting down amid the familiar smell of printer's ink, had long and interesting chats with the editor and the staff, and picked up much news which came in handy later.

At the end of a week of this sort of thing, Riel decided that the two Torontonians had, of course, been unable to get out a single line in their papers, Riel sent for them. The latter said that he had provided an armed escort to conduct across the border into Minnesota and warned them that he also had caught them in the Northwest he would shoot them without mercy. So back they went for Pembina, Minnesota, 60 miles below weather, after a brief but worthwhile visit to the storm centre of the Red River Rebellion. Not long after Colonel Wolseley and the troops went west after the murder of Scott, the Dominion Government agent.

ART OF SELECTING DRAPERIES

Wise Choosing and Placing of Lamps Lends an Air of Coziness to the Home.

While the selection of draperies and curtains is possibly the most obvious method of lending an air of coziness to the home, the wise choosing and placing of lamps is a factor which is equally important, though too frequently taken advantage of. To be thoroughly comfortable and practical during the evening hours, the home should be equipped with a variety of lamps, to meet the particular needs of the moment. The fact that one does not want the same kind of lighting at all times becomes an important item in the selection and arrangement of fixtures, for, while a soft, mellow glow is highly desirable for conversational purposes, it is usually insufficient for reading or other close work. The living room should therefore be furnished with both types of lamps, so that it will be satisfactory at all times. Proper illumination of this room will do much toward keeping the family together in the evening, for it makes it possible for several people to do their different work in comfort.

NEW PATTERN PRINTS SHOWN

Fabrics Entirely English in Design and Manufacture; Firm Like Percale; Dyes Warranted.

Some new English prints are in the market. They are entirely English in design and manufacture, the material is of a firm quality like percale and the dyes are warranted. They come in all colors—corn, pink, green, blues, terra cotta, as really the new banana, with the little old-fashioned designs in sprig or lavender. The patterns are small, delicate roses on the different grounds, small conventional patterns, and little leaf patterns combined with a small round figure of some kind. There are a few patterns with the ever recurrent polka dot of moderate size, set rather far apart on white or colored grounds. Also old-time dots revived in the tiny, pinhead dot in white on navy blue. These, however, are exceptions, most of the prints being in small, sometimes very tiny, all-over designs set closely. The only thing in a way of a stripe is indefinite, formed of lines of the dots. The prints make up into very simple gowns for women, children and young girls.

THE COOK MEDICINE CO., TORONTO, ONT. (Formerly Windsor, Ont.)

a very hearty farewell was extended to Rev. and Mrs. Moore on behalf of the congregation. Several short addresses of sincere appreciation of their unselfish and devoted services during the four years of their pastorate were delivered and a well filled purse was presented to them in token of the affection and regard in which they were held. The Ladies' Club also presented Mr. Moore, their teacher, with a splendid token in the form of a purse of money. Then on Monday evening the young people of the Epworth League expressed their regard for the pastor in kindly words of appreciation and presented him with a beautiful gold handled umbrella. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are deeply appreciative of their many tokens of kindness and goodwill on the part of their Tabernacle friends on leaving Belleville for their new charge in Bowmanville and will carry with them the good wishes of friends both within and without the bounds of their congregation.

ONLY MEDICINE MADE FROM FRUIT

Extraordinary Success which "Fruit-a-tives" Has Achieved

One reason why "Fruit-a-tives" is so extraordinarily successful in giving relief to those suffering with Constipation, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Chronic Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Pains in the Back, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Eczema, Pimples and Skin Affections, is because it is the only medicine in the world made from fruit juices.

It is composed of the medicinal principles found in apples, oranges, grapes and prunes, together with the nerve tonic and disinfectant properties of Nux Vomica.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ROBERT NICHOLS, POET

YOUNG ENGLISH WRITER PAYS VISIT TO CANADA.

He Went Through the War and Lost Many Friends in the Great Conflict. But Now He Will Devote Himself to Literature. A Few Tributes Paid to the Talented Young Poet from the Dominion.

ROBERT NICHOLS, one of those young poets of England who fought, who sang of death and battle, who through the murk of slaughter, saw visions of beauty and hope that never ed them from despair, paid a visit to Canada recently. Rupert Brooke, Sorley, Sassoon, Graves, Ledwidge, Nichols, these were the names of some of that famous band. Brooke sleeps his last sleep on a white beach land at Scyros, overlooking the Aegean Sea. Ledwidge was killed on the Western front in 1917. Charles Sorley lies in a graveyard in France and Graves was picked up for dead, but he protested: "I'm not dead. I'm not if I died." He wrote a poem about it. And Nichols! He was shell-shocked at Looe, but he lives, too. That is the background.

"On Achi Baba's rock their bones Gleam White, and on Flanders' plain. But of their travailings and groans Poetry is born again."

What is he doing on this continent? You are inquisitive, my friend. You are sometimes growing very jealous of us. Three years ago he would tell you. Three years ago authors were chosen by the American Society of Letters to represent their country at the Centenary in England at the Lowell Centenary in New York some weeks ago, and he was one. "It was a great honour," was one. "especially when one is only twenty-five," in personal appearance he is slight and tall, with a stoop to his shoulders. His hair is of a rich chestnut color, and the face presents a striking resemblance to the picture of John Keats. He is extremely shy, and a thinker. So far, an observer, and a thinker. So far, he thinks that we on this continent have masks, not faces. He does not feel at home in that respect. His humanity offend in that respect. His humanity and ease are his most noticeable traits.

He was born at Shanklin, Isle of Wight, in 1892. His early education was at Winchester, one of the oldest public schools in England. At the age of twenty he went up to Trinity College, Oxford. "I went after that the war broke out. "I never did much at Oxford, except row," he laughed. "I never learnt anything in the schools or colleges. What I got, I got by reading in small nooks and corners. Ah, there was one thing I was interested in at Oxford. I was one of a whole lot of people who were rallying to get the inhabitants of our island to realize that there was such a thing as the Empire. I think that one of the really great things that the war has done is to make us feel more at least that there is a British Empire.

"When the war came I managed to get into the army in a clear pinch; for I was not strong. After I was shell shocked at Looe, in 1917, I was out for seven months. When I did get back I went as a war correspondent, in charge of the records of the Engineers. It was then that I saw the Canadians. I was struck by their tricks and those of the men of the Dominions and the Old land. Canadian Mining Unit developed more enterprise and courage than any other mining unit in the war, not excepting the Imperial.

"At the start I thought there were great differences between the troops of the Dominions and the Old land. But after a time they narrowed down. We were pretty much alike before the war. Really, the English man is a difficult cuss to get along with. We were very insular; but that is gone now. Our society was not on the down grade, mind, but it was becoming finicky. In the old days if a fellow came up to you and patted you on the back, you would be pulled up on the mat. The war has brought back a hearty sense of companionship. Our manners were simplified by the coming of the over-seas Dominion troops. After all, I think it is the simplest nations that are the most artistic. His to back up his statement, he says, is an artist and an artistic, and one of the finest in the Wallace collection.

Mr. Nichols hates war. "Don't think anybody is made a poet by being shot at," he says. He doesn't think it is the source of emotions think it is the source of that make poets. during times of war that make poets. The poets are there before the war. After that, as a principle, the egoism of the human being is the fear that we are going to be snuffed out soon. Every man Jack is fed out soon. Every man Jack as thought so.

The great change in poetry since the nineties, he thinks, is its wider distribution. It is no longer the prerogative of the high brows, but something for everybody. It is no longer a thing for people to enjoy while lying around on cushions, but is far more virile, essential thing, such as boating or tennis.

The new poetry differs from the poetry of the nineties in these essential points. It has the desire for action. It has gained a sense of humor. It shows more interest now in the outside world; and is not in the least upon its own.

Better a little risk of frost after planting corn than a lot of risk as the crop approaches maturity.

ROBERT NICHOLS, POET

YOUNG ENGLISH WRITER PAYS VISIT TO CANADA.

He Went Through the War and Lost Many Friends in The Great Conflict, But Now He Will Devote Himself to Literature. A Warm Tribute Paid to the Torontonians From the Poet.

ROBERT NICHOLS, one of those young poets of England who fought, who sang of death and battle, who through the mist of slaughter, saw visions of beauty and hope that saved them from despair, paid a visit to Canada recently. Rupert Brooke, Sorley, Sassoon, Graves, Ledwidge, Nichols, these were the names of some of that famous band. Brooke sleeps his last sleep on a white headland at Scyros, overlooking the Aegean Sea. "Oh Achi Baba's rock their bones
White, and on Flanders plain,
But of their travailings and groans
Poetry is born again."

What is he doing on this conscientious objector's island? "Idly-larking and sometimes growing very tired," he would tell you. These authors were chosen by the American Society of Letters to represent England at the Lowell Centenary in New York some weeks ago, and he was one. "It was a great honor," he says, "especially when one is only twenty-five." In appearance he would be is slight and tall, with a stoop to his shoulders. His hair is dark, a chestnut color, and the features bear a striking resemblance to the pictures of Dante. He is very much an observer, and a thinker. So far, he thinks that war will contribute to have masks, not faces. He does not offend in that respect, and his face and voice are his most noticeable traits.

He was born at Shanklin, Isle of Wight, in 1893. His early education was at Winchester, 46 of the oldest public schools in England. At the age of 17 twenty he went to Trinity College, Oxford. One year after that the war broke out. "I never did it at Oxford, except rowdy," he laughed. "I never learnt anything in the whole of my career. What I got, I got, by reading in small hours or talking in the fields. Ah, there was one thing I was interested in at Oxford. Even in the old days if a fellow came up to you and patted you on the back, you would have thought him crude. The war has brought back a hearty sense of companionship. Our manners have simplified by the coming of the overseas Dominion troops. After all, I found out that our way of looking at things was fundamentally the same. We are not on the same fundamentality that made us victorious in the past; namely, frank thinking, based on the belief in the efficiency of bread, butter and beef."

"What I do want to say to Canadians, also, is that the great question, that will be the best military records of any army, the best war paintings, especially the best undertakings in the Ypres salient." Mr. Nichols has been appointed official to back up this statement. His father, also, is an artist and author, and one of the three trustees of the Wallace collection.

Mr. Nichols hates war. "Don't think anybody is made a poet by being in war," he says. He doesn't think it is the intensity of emotions during times of war that make poets. The poets are there before the war. After that, it is principally the egoism of the human being. It is the fear that we are going to be snuffed out soon. Every man's idea of us thought so.

Britain To Honor Late Capt. Fryatt

LONDON, July 7.—The body of Capt. Charles Fryatt, executed in 1916 by the Germans for attempting to ram a submarine, was brought to Dover today aboard a British destroyer escorted by vessels of the Dover patrol.

The casket, on gun carriage, was drawn solemnly from the destroyer to the railway station accompanied by a naval escort and civil authorities. The casket was placed in the station under a military guard for the night. It will be taken by train tomorrow to London, where national memorial services will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral.

Kingston Presbytery Meets in This City

The July meeting of the Kingston Presbytery, held in the John Street Church, Belleville, was well attended. The Moderator, Rev. J. T. Hall, presided, and the venerable clerk, Rev. W. T. Wilkins, B.A., was in his place as usual, though looking somewhat feeble after his recent illness.

Provision was made for disposing of the church at Wallbridge, and permission was given to sell the manse at Newbrigh.

Rev. A. O. McDonald, who was received from the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., was given a cordial welcome, and it was announced that he would be called immediately by the congregations of Roslin and Thurlow, where he has given stated supply for about a year.

Rev. Jas. Cumberland has expressed a desire to retire after 38 years of service in Bella, and a committee was appointed to visit his field. Dr. Gracey, Superintendent of Missions, had found much difficulty in finding enough students to supply all the fields. Queen's Missionary Society was cordially thanked for taking charge of so many fields.

The Presbytery was pleased to note that already four congregations have decided to pay the new salary fixed by the Assembly. Messrs. Conrad, Craig, Wilkins, Hall, McTavish and, Prof. Jordan gave their impressions of the Assembly. All agreed that its tone was admirable.

On motion of Drs. MacTavish and Gracey the following resolution was adopted: "That whereas in the opinion of this Presbytery the Ontario Temperance Act has been of incalculable benefit to the Province, and whereas the question of repealing or retaining the said Act will soon be submitted in the form of a referendum to the electors, this Presbytery would urgently counsel all the members and adherents within the bounds to make an earnest effort to prevent the repeal of this beneficial measure."

Putting Airplane To Commerical Uses

NEW YORK, July 8.—An airplane expedition to ascertain the value of the wood pulp resources of Labrador sailed last night for Nova Scotia.

The party, of 15 is headed by Capt. Daniels Owens, who served two years with the British Air Forces.

It is planned to take aerial photographs of all the large forests and from these calculate the value of the wood pulp. Four airplanes are to be used in the undertaking.

Increasing Suicides In Prussia

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

GENEVA, July 8.—Suicides among the German officers are increasing alarmingly, especially in Prussia, where a number of suicides is very heavy since it became known that former Emperor William was to be placed on trial by the allies. Wives of officers are also reported to be taking their own lives on account of loss of social standing.

VISITS CANADIAN CAMP

LONDON, July 8.—Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria and suite had a warm welcome on Wednesday at the Canadian hut-at Prosvenor Gardens, where they were received by Lady Drummond and F. Ridout, secretary. The visitors were presented with bouquets and made a tour of the premises and chatted with the men. They were also photographed and signed the visitors' book. Afterwards Mrs. Ronald Greville was presented.

Dr. and Mrs. Farncomb are in Belleville today to meet their son, Flight Lieut. Hugh Farncomb, of the Royal Air Force, who arrived in Montreal last night on the "Megantic," and expects to reach Belleville on the 2.45 today. Lieut. Farncomb, who has been two years overseas, was severely wounded last October while flying at Mudros, in the Aegean Sea.

In the prize list of Trinity College School, just published, we see that three sons of Mr. Walter Evans, C.E., of Belleville, carried off three first prizes. Charles coming first in his class, John first in his, and Heber winning first prize for drawing.

Former Resident Killed In Automobile Accident

At Vancouver, B. C., recently an automobile accident occurred which resulted in the death of Mr. Edwin Leavitt, a former well-known resident of Belleville and for some time was proprietor and manager of Massassaga Point. It appears that Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Levitt, guests at the Fulton rooms, were accompanying D. T. Widner, a realty salesman in the employ of R. J. McLeod, Pender street to look at some property on the south side of False Creek. When crossing Cambaight bridge the automobile is said to have swerved in an effort to avoid a truck, and striking the street car rails overturned when a tire punctured. Mr. Leavitt was thrown out of the machine, his head striking the pavement while Mrs. Leavitt and Widner were pinned beneath the overturned car. At the General Hospital where they were taken, Mr. Leavitt died about 7 p. m. half an hour after the accident. Examination proved Mrs. Leavitt to be suffering from shock and contusions, while Mr. Widner had four ribs broken in addition to several severe bruises. In addition to the wider, Mr. Leavitt is survived by two sons.

Liberals Work For Convention

OTTAWA, Ont., July 9.—With the House prorogued the members have lost no time in getting away from the heat of Ottawa and there is already an odd politician left in the capital and the few that are left are too busy preparing for holidays to be interested in political gossip.

Sir Robert Borden is clearing his desk of an accumulation of business and expects to leave the end of this week for two weeks' fishing at a favorite resort in the Gatineau Hills. Cabinet reconstruction and plans for organization of a new party as decided by the Government caucus will be left until his return. In the meantime there is surprisingly little gossip.

The opposition leaders are actively preparing for their national convention to be held in August. Their problem is how to get the conscription and anti-conscription leaders, free traders and protectionists together in the same platform. With re-actionary Laurier Liberals in control in Ontario and Ontario Unionists Liberals being similarly controlled, candidates from the Maritime Provinces.

It is predicted that the unrelenting disbanding will be in control by the end of September as in Toronto. This will mean that a leader of the stamp of Mr. D. D. McKenzie is likely to be selected.

Deadlock in Strike At Locomotive Works

KINGSTON, July 7.—Negotiations between the Metal Trades Council, representing the strikers, and President F. G. Wallace, representing the Canadian Locomotive Co., have reached a deadlock. The President has made a final offer of a 48-hour week at a 50-hour rate of pay, and the men have rejected the offer, insisting on a 44-hour week. The Council waited on Mr. Wallace and told him that the men could not accept his offer. They were told that the offer was final, and that the men could accept it or strike. The men struck. The Council, in view of the company's stand, is considering the matter again.

Prince of Wales Suffers From Chill

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press, Limited

LONDON, July 9.—The Canadian Associated Press is informed that there is no likelihood that indisposition of the Prince of Wales will interfere with his Canadian visit. The Prince of Wales was especially busy lately and a chill from which he is now suffering is partly due to exhaustion. The Duke of Connaught has also been ordered to take things more easily for the time being.

Senator's Son Slays Young Girl

LOS ANGELUS, Cal., July 9.—Harry S. New, of Glendale, Cal., walked into police headquarters early on Saturday and informed detectives there was a dead woman in his auto and he as desired to give himself up as a murderer.

He then led the officers to a car outside the station where the body of Frieda J. Lesser, 21 years of age was found.

New, according to a statement of the police, said he had quarreled with the young woman at Topanga Canyon, several miles from the city, and had shot her. She had a bullet hole through the head.

New was charged with murder and held without bail.

New told the police, they said, that he was the son of United States Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, and his claim was corroborated by relatives of the dead girl who said they had known New and his family in Indiana.

New's statements clashed each other, and New, according to Detective Sergeant, D. A. Davidson, "and so I shot her. And here I am. There is no doubt," he added, as he gazed at the dead girl.

New, 30 years of age, told the officers according to their statement of his story, that he was engaged to Miss Lesser. He said he urged her to marry him and when she refused he shot her.

He said he had borrowed the automobile from his mother, Mrs. Lulu M. Burger, of Glendale and had driven with the girl to Venice, then through Hollywood and finally up the Topanga Canyon Road, where their quarrel culminated in the shooting. He told the officers they said, that for three hours afterward he drove around town with the corpse hoping to make up his mind to surrender.

New is of slight build. He showed no evidence of excitement and officers said he had not been drinking.

Forest Fires Unchecked Close To Calgary

CALGARY, Alta., July 7.—The forest fire menace is getting close to Calgary with the outbreak of a fierce fire on the Elbow River Sunday, which was swept from the western boundary of the Dominion Forest Reserve right up to the eastern edge of the Scarces Indian Reserve.

The high wind Sunday caused an equally bad situation in the case of Sheep Creek fire, which broke out again on the north side of the stream. The fire also spread east among the ranches in that district, and some ranchers had a hard time saving their buildings. The high winds of to-day is causing great anxiety.

A similarly gloomy situation exists in the case of the big fire west of the Indian Reserve at Morley, which yesterday jumped the Ghost River, and is spreading rapidly.

Smiles At Fine Of A Thousand

HAMILTON, July 7.—In Police Court this morning, Petro Melilo, 23 Vine street, and Sam Dulberg, 29 North Caroline street, were each committed for trial on charges of manufacturing illicit stills. Bail was refused. Government inspectors told of raids at the two addresses. They stated that Melilo when caught in the house, smilingly declared that he would care little for a fine of $1,000, as he would make it up in a short time.

Complete Equality Granted To Jews

PARIS, July 7.—M. Pichon, the Foreign Minister, replying to a question from members of the Chamber of Deputies asking information as to the attitude of France in the Peace Conference with regard to the fairness of Poland, Roumania and other countries declares that from the beginning of the conference the French Government endeavored to secure thorough consideration of the Jewish question and had asked the conditions of absolute equality be granted Jews in new or enlarged states.

These efforts, M. Pichon says, resulted in the treaty already signed by Poland, guaranteeing complete liberty and equality to Jews in political and religious matters.

M. Pichon's communication in connection signifies the part the allied powers have taken in the defense of minorities, but asserts that no country was ahead of France in such defense.

Try To Frame Law To Keep States Dry

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The House will begin consideration this week of legislation to enforce wartime and national prohibition.

It is the belief of the "dry leaders" that this bill will be passed in the House by the end of the week, and the third week in July. It is thought, there will be drastic laws to enforce the prohibition upon which the country entered on July 1.

Representativ A. J. Volstead, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, intends to call the House together to-morrow for a rule to bring the bill before the House immediately.

The Rules Committee probably will grant the rule, and four days will be given to debate.

Cows Eat Broken Tile And A Number Died

WOODSTOCK, July 8.—A rumor which has been current in East Zorra that cows were causing some consternation among the farmers throughout the township, has been that some cows owned by different farmers were afflicted with black leg and had to be destroyed. During the week several cows belonging to Wm. Hart took sick with a mysterious illness. One of them died early in the week and another died yesterday. A local veterinary made an examination, and upon opening the stomach of the animals found that the sickness and death had resulted from bits of broken tile which the animal had picked up and eaten in the fields.

Peace Procession Seven Miles Long

LONDON, July 8.—The peace procession on July 19 will be the greatest in London's history. It will be seven miles long, and, from the route arranged for it to pass, two million people will be enabled to see from the buildings and the streets, as against seven hundred thousand who saw King George's coronation parade.

Increased Taxes Says Vice Chancellor

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Special

BERLIN, July 8.—Addressing German National Assembly at Weimar today Mathias Erzberger, Vice Chancellor and Minister of Finance, said that one of the first requirements relative to restoration of Life of Labor is establishment of orderly finances. I will have nothing to do with suggestions for annulment of war loans or a declaration of general bankruptcy, my highest aim is to establish justice in entire taxation system. The income from the capital must be taxed much more heavily than the income from work. An inheritance tax and heavy tax levy on all property will be the initial steps that will be taken. The Empire's income must be increased to nine hundred percent and that of individual states and communes perhaps one hundred percent. Such enormous charges require fresh measure.

E. Winds Prevent R. 34's Return

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

MINEOLA, July 9.—Again to-day unfavorable winds from the east prevented the giant dirigible from starting her trip to England. British officers in charge of R34 announced that there was no prospect that the big airship would get away before dawn tomorrow. It was made clear however that the start would be made as followed, to-morrow or on Friday. The airship is ready to start in the air to the east at any time when her commander Maclaskin notifies the port that the local report promises a successful return voyage.

British Officers To Come To Canada

LONDON, July 8.—It is officially announced that ex-Officers and men of British nationality domiciled elsewhere than in Canada are eligible to receive grants to enable them to study in Canada under the Imperial Government scheme for affording financial assistance for higher education and training.

Answering a question in the House of Lords, Lord Milner, Colonial Secretary, said that the Canadian universities will welcome such students.

Child Accidently Shot in Head, May Die

LONDON, Ont., July 8.—Francis O'Brien, a ten-year-old lad of Walter street, Stratford, who was accidentally shot in the head while playing soldier with his little companions at his home yesterday afternoon, is believed to be dying at St. Joseph Hospital here tonight.

The child was rushed to London and an X-ray examination revealed the location of the bullet. His condition, however, was so critical that an operation could not be attempted by Dr. W. J. Stevenson of this city. He lapsed into unconsciousness at 2 o'clock this afternoon and little hope for his recovery is held.

Parents Object To The Scissors

ABERDEEN, Scotland, July 8.—The parents of children attending an elementary school here have shown their resentment against the action of the authorities in cutting off the hair of girl pupils by an attack on the school.

Armed with missiles, a large crowd of women, men and children, women predominating, gathered near the school. It is understood that the lady doctor was about to apply the scissors to other pupils' hair. However, it was impossible to convince the crowd that the doctor had left earlier in the day, whereupon the school windows were wrecked and damage amounting to $1,000 was caused. Forty policemen were required to keep order in the crowd, which was estimated at 15,000.

BOWLING

At the annual Bowling Tournament being held at Niagara-on-the-Lake the Belleville rink skipped by Mr. R. J. Wray is doing well. In the second round the rink defeated a Canada rink by a score of 13 to 6 and in the third round were victorious by a score of 14 to 7 over a Granite club rink.

All Countries Wanted In League Of Nation

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,
Canadian Press, Limited.

NEW YORK, July 9.—A demand that all nations of the world be made eligible to the League of Nations was expressed in a resolution unanimously adopted here today at the first annual congress of the Pan-American Federation of Labor by delegates from 40 countries.

Danger in North From Fire Again

NEW LISKEARD, July 9.—Bush fires are gradually springing into renewed life following the return to clear, dry weather.

On almost every point of the horizon, small columns of smoke may be seen, not to be small, but they are rapidly becoming so. Fire guardians are numerous.

Another prolonged dry spell would endanger again the settlers farther north.

COBALT, July 9.—After a few days' respite from bush fires, following the rain of last Friday, smoke clouds are beginning to fill the Northern Ontario sky again. On the Elk Lake branch of the T. & N. O. where the rain fall was very light, the situation is still serious and reports from Earlton tell of continuous fights to save settlers' farms from fire.

One man had his roothouse, three feet underground, destroyed, but so far as known here no buildings have yet appear to be small, but they are crept as close as 20 feet in some instances. It is declared the bush from the main line of the railway east to Elk Lake is burning, and advice from north of Englehart, say smoke clouds are visible at different places.

The two fires behind Haileybury are again flaring up, but no damage is reported yet. Rain is urgently needed, but weather conditions last evening did not point in that direction.

Cross of Legion of Honor Presented To Rheims City

PARIS, July 8.—President Poincare, accompanied by several Senators and Deputies, went to Rheims yesterday and presented the city with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The decoration was bestowed.

President Poincare said in addressing the people of Rheims, "in solemn homage to the heroism of your great city."

The arrest was based on the charge of tampering with the rail that caused the derailment and wreckage of the train and the loss of life.

One of the men arrested, who belonged to a section gang, was recently discharged, and a number of tools with which to make a coupon were in the habit of working with on the days they were discovered in close proximity to the tampered rail. The men were taken to North Bay yesterday and appeared before Magistrate Weegar at the Police Court. They were remanded until today.

Pictures Barred By Ohio Censor

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 9.—The Willard-Dempsey pictures may never be seen in public. In Ohio, at least, they will not be placed on exhibition. The Ohio Censor Board officially rejected the pictures as being unfit to be exhibited in public.

The probability of the pictures being shown in other States is believed to depend upon the decision that is to be placed upon the Rodenberg Act, which prohibits prize-fight pictures being handled in inter-state commerce.

If the Rodenberg Act does not bar the pictures of boxing bouts, and the Willard-Dempsey affair is construed the pictures of boxing bouts, and the Willard-Dempsey affair is construed by the partisans to join in an attack on the Roman market places. The soldiers fired on the anarchists and seized several of them. The others fled.

The city remains tranquil.

16 Anarchist Plotters Are Held in Rome

ROME, July 9.—An anarchist plot to attack the central part of Rome by means of hand grenades and other explosives has been exposed by the arrest of sixteen of the conspirators, four hours before the time fixed for carrying out the plans.

About the same time thirty anarchists motored to Fort Pratalata, four miles from Rome, and tried to induce the garrison to join in an attack on the Roman market places. The soldiers fired on the anarchists and seized several of them. The others fled.

The city remains tranquil.

To Open Door Of Every Jail

NEW YORK, July 8.—The arrest of President Wilson and John D. Rockefeller, the opening of all jails and the formation of Soviet organizations throughout the country to take over the industries of the country, is the aim of The Anarchist Soviet Bulletin, according to Archibald E. Stevenson, who produced a copy of the Bulletin at the hearing of the Lusk Investigating Committee today in the City Hall.

The copy of The Bulletin was identified by Glenn Plunkett, as attendant at the New York Public Library, as being one of the 150 he had picked up on July 2 in the corridors of the library.

Mr. Stevenson read into the record the following extract from the Bulletin:

"First make it known that as soon as you are organized strong enough into your Soviets you are going to open the door of every jail in the country. You will free not only the political victims of capitalism, but also the economic victims of capitalism, whose only striving for the betterment of conditions, for their only crime, remember, the real criminals are not in jail houses.

"During the period of reconstructing the capitalistic society in the Soviets we will find a place for your jail all such honorable exploiters, oppressors, rulers, misleaders, hypocrites as Woodrow Wilson and Roger Faller. Putting on the harmless Government official or capitalist in jail will give us the chance to free ourselves. "Start to act, and, if you want to be real action, organize into Workers' Communes Soviets, wherever you are."

Stevenson read into the record other extracts of this Bulletin.

It is printed on both sides of the sheet. The back sheet contains an article entitled "Soviet Russia." The part read into the record reads:

"Let our message to the Workers' Soviet of Russia be: Keep up your courages battle for your rights. The working classes of the entire world will soon be fighting on the barricades of the social revolution against capitalism, its agents and upholders of the Government, the Church and the press." We, the Workers of the World, have committed a great crime against you Russian workers by refusing to aid you Russian workers by refusing to aid you Russian workers by refusing to aid

A SUCCESSION OF LAUGHS

"Fair Enough" the American filed comedy, in which beautiful Margarita Fischer is starred, is a cleverly wrought and unusual story. It is a brilliant succession of laughs. It shows how the very girl who is destined by her mother to become a social hothouse plant and who is selected as the wife of a top, takes matters in her own hands and turns out to be a thistle in the garden of conventionality as a result. It is interpreted by a carefully selected cast of players as follows: Ann Dickson, Margarita Fisher; Cater Phelan, Jack Mower, Happy Flanigan "Holl" Montana, Frederick Pearson, Harry McCoy, Helen Dickson, Eugenie Ford. This makes the picture which is being screened at Griffin's to-night an "All star cast" play, as it were. Harry McCoy is said to have stopped more custard pies than any man alive, plays the part of a petulant admirer of Ann Dickson, and proves he is the master of the "straight" comedy drama despite his "slap stick" past. "Fighting Brothers" is the title of the thrilling western drama which is being screened on the same program with a 2-act Mack Sennett comedy, and a very funny Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon.

CAPTIVATING PHOTOPLAY

Hazel Shirley Mason in "The Final Close-up" which is being screened at the Palace the first half of this week? It is a beautiful picture and filled with action from start to finish. The picture has been freely produced and the support is excellent. The Canadian Weekly Graphic, Lauri's "Toto" comedy and a beautiful hand colored travalogue are also being screened on the same program.

ENID BENNETT HAS FINE NEW PICTURE

Enid Benett has the role of a young sculptress in her new picture. "The Law of Men" which will be shown at Griffin's to-morrow to Saturday, with a matinee Saturday. The scenes are laid in Syracuse, N. Y. and Miss Bennett when the picture opens has gained quite a reputation for her work in clay. She is loved by two men, and is under the protection of a sort of a guardian. The picture develops into a strong drama, with a mystery element, and a sensational finish. Niles Welch who has been seen locally in support of Vivian Martin in all her pictures to Miss Bennett's leading man in this picture. The Million Dollar Comedian, Charlie Chaplin also appears on the same program in an excellent funny bone tickler entitled "A Night at the Show" a thrilling story of early Western daring and the British News will also be presented.

CONSTANCE TALMAGE AND DOM MOORE AT PALACE

Constance Talmage and Tom Moore appear at the Palace to-morrow to Saturday, matinee daily, in "The Lesson." The Helen Drayton of "The Lesson" reveals Constance Talmage in one of the most pleasing and authentic characterizations of her entire career, since it is just the type of "regular American girl" to which this captivating screen star naturally belongs The story concerns a young girl in a small town, who marries a city man, principally because she is tired of seeing the same old faces and dancing with the same old boys year after year. Her marriage is not a happy one, but she discovers, she has talents which enable her to make her way in the world independently and eventually she finds happiness as well. The second chapter of that smashing serial of life under the big top, big business and love "The Lure of the Circus" will be shown on the same program.

The Million Dollar Comedian, Charlie Chaplin, who appears at Griffin's Tomorrow to Saturday in a 2-act Sennb Shell of Joy "A Night at the Show."

SOLDIERS CIVIL RE-ESTABLISHMENT

Over four years out of Quickwitt's young life had been spent overseas in trench and muddy field, in billet and hospital. Here he had been known as Pte. Quickwitt.

The new suit of civics which changed him from a fighting man to a humble civilian left him with a feeling of strangeness and terror potence.

Back of the war the road stretched strange, dark and unfamiliar. His brain could not easily replace the old landmarks.

They had promised him his old job down at the steel works. It was the best job he had ever held. Now he was to return. He went to his way to the factory. Everything looked strange to him. There was a new foreman and a new man at the gate. Strange machinery roared and whirred overhead.

The first week was interminably long. Work seemed monotonous, and Quickwitt's fingers seemed to be nimble. He thought of the speed with which he had handled cartridges at the front. Several times the foreman warned him during the first ten days that he was slow in picking up his work. By the end of two weeks the complaint was registered that Quickwitt seemed to pay no attention to his job. He was accused of loitering unnecessarily, as several alterations took place between him and the foreman.

A few days later Quickwitt walked out—no one seemed to understand.

"Chaps changed a lot it seems to me," said one of the old hands, discussing Quickwitt's behaviour. "It isn't as though he had been gassed or had anything that would affect his head, yet he just acts deliberately and downright foolish over some things."

Quickwitt meanwhile wandered around. He had tried a job and failed. At present he didn't feel up to a second attempt. The world looked to be out of gear to him. Way could people understand a fellow and give him a chance?

In such a mood he crossed the path of a Unit Service Officer of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

"How did you like your job in the factory before the war?" asked the D.P.C.R. man.

"Oh, fine."

"Well, don't you think if you had stayed you would like it again?"

"Might, but it isn't the same. Everything is changed."

"Of course it has. What did you expect? Do you think Canada stood still while you were fighting over there? The country wouldn't be worthy of you boys if she had, that's progress."

"Yes! But," burst in Quickwitt, "they might give a fellow a chance."

And he related a few of the incidents of the past three weeks.

The Service Officer was a man who moved quickly. Within an hour he was down in the factory building chatting with the manager and head foreman about soldiers in general.

Sleepy-face returned man beard How do you find them? were his opening questions. Then he left the factory owner talk and finally brought forward the case of Quickwitt.

"You mean to be good to the returned men. You have several working for you and you cite the instance of two who are doing well to refute the case of Quickwitt," sized up the D.S.C.R. man in closing, but let me just point out one fact in this connection. Neither of the men you mention had been overseas longer than eight months. They did their bit, however, just as faithfully and well as Quickwitt, but do you see the difference as we see it. Close upon five years out of Quickwitt's life are lost to him as far as business goes. Remember that while he was overseas the world did not stand still. You have gained ideas in methods, in

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain modified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich creamy lather that will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, fluffy, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get modified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is sufficient to last everyone in the family for months.

Cook's Cotton Root Compound.

Then the ranks of soldiers opened, and the Princess herself came forward to welcome her faithful followers. Sir Thule de Brie flung himself from his horse and knelt to kiss her hand. I noticed, however, that he did not look her in the eye, and that his face grew even more cold and hard as she spoke a few gracious words to him. Then one by one the captains and sailors filed past, doing their obeisance with genuine pleasure on their weather-beaten faces, and, to my surprise and joy, Captain Thorlaxen was with them.

After that the men were dismissed and were entertained royally by their new comrades, whom but a short time ago they had encountered in a terrible and bloody combat. I went among them, and making my way to the side of Captain Thorlaxen grasped him by the hand, and overwhelmed him with a torrent of questions.

He told me how he had been left dead in a pool of blood, and that he would have died if it had not been for some worthy citizens who came out by night with lanterns to see if any lived in the great beartooth of death. One of these who had some skill in surgery had sent a message to the forts for a doctor and had given the wounded man every comfort and attention till he could be moved to the care of his own comrades.

He told me further how they had thought us dead; how they had failed to find a satisfactory plan of campaign; how their hearts had failed them, and how had determined to fly before the ice closed them in; how the sloops had all been moved to the forts on some pretext or other; how the ships had all been burnt by a few brave and desperate men, headed by Sir Thule de Brie; how they had returned to kill their betrayer and been shamed by the things he said to them; and how Count Guy had opened negotiations for peace, and promised his assistance.

The day was given up to rejoicing, and the men returned to the forts, Sir Thule de Brie, however, remained in the castle, and sat far into the night with Count Guy of Marmorel, and the four chief leaders of the army.

The next day the call to arms began Count Guy had laid his plans well and surely. The knights in command of the 9,000 troops quartered in the town had been thoroughly sounded as to their views before the Count openly declared himself. The men responded eagerly as their fellows in the castle had done though that night a dozen knights and their squires left Sancta Maria under cover of darkness and spurred their horses in hot haste to the capital each of them eager to be first with the news.

It was quite evident that Count Guy was going to adopt no Fabian policy of war. From what I had gathered he had assumed the king's immediate knowledge of the rebellion. Every day was laid out with a scheme or advance was thought of. For a week past provisions had been piled on great wagons, every minute detail of organization mapped out, and the whole force held in readiness to move at a hour's notice. It had been given out that the Northern Provinces were in revolt, and that instant orders might arrive to march on the insurgents.

That very night the whole army was on the road. A sufficient force was left to defend the castle and it was strengthened by twenty of our men-at-arms with their rifles, one Maxim, and one fifteen-pounder. All the rest of the guns and ammunition were stinted for the king's entertainment at Avranches, if indeed he did not act to hear the music before we reached his capital.

It is now the end of October, and the sea is within two hundred yards of the shore was covered with one solid mass of ice, several feet in thickness. The natural warmth of the land doubtless kept a narrow boundary of clear water round the island.

The thermometer, which I once more had an opportunity of consulting, stood at 10 above zero. This was an extraordinary reading for the time of the year in the high latitude and I realized how it was that the Asturians were able to support an existence round the North Pole itself. I afterwards found, as we marched northwards that the ground in places was quite warm beneath the feet, and we laid my hand on one or two rocks that were almost unpleasantly hot to touch.

We gathered in the great square before the castle at 9 o'clock p. m. Greenwich mean time. It was an impressive sight. The flaring light of a thousand torches fell on a long line of spears, on the glittering armour and swords of the knights, on varying silk pennons, rich with armorial bearings on the dull iron of Maxime and fifteen pounders, and on the great array of grim and eager faces. The two banners newly wrought, of Count Guy of Marmorel and the Lady Thora were planted side by side. The Count and Sir Thule de Brie rode hither and thither, shouting orders to the knights who echoed them in turn to their men. Then the last few were companies began to file off towards the town. There was a steady clank of steel and tramp of feet, swelling and swelling as the columns grew. The torches appeared like a long line of sparks streaming out into the darkness. I fell into an appointed place close to the Princess, who, disdaining any kind of conveyance, rode her horse in the centre of the column.

Friend Failed To Recognize Him

Farmer Looks Like Different Man Since Tanlac Built Him Up.

"There's been such a remarkable change in me that my friends, who haven't seen me since I began taking Tanlac, don't know me on first sight," was the statement made by William Porter, a well known farmer of Hanna, Illinois, R.F.D. No. 2, while in Sutton & Cass Drug Store at Peoria, recently.

"So many of my neighbors were telling me how well I'm looking these days," he continued, "that I got curious to see how much I had gained in weight and was surprised myself to find that I actually pull down forty-three pounds more than I did the day I started on Tanlac—going up from one hundred and seventeen pounds to one hundred and sixty. Why, even my wife has been astonished and says she can't understand how a medicine could do what Tanlac has done for me.

"My stomach had been all out of whack for sixteen years and, as nothing ever helped me, I had about come to the place where I was ready to quit trying. Many a time after eating I'd have such awful cramps in my stomach that I thought I would die. I would swell up with gas, I would go so dizzy for hours that my head seemed to be spinning around like a top, and I couldn't walk. I finally got so I was afraid to eat anything except something very light, as anything the least bit heavy would bring on one of those terrif'le spells of cramps. I couldn't sleep but little at night, always felt wornout in the mornings, and what little work I did on the farm was a drag to me. I would be so weak and played out by the middle of the day that my knees would knock together as I walked. I was constipated all the time, had sick headaches that were so nervous, weak and miserable that I just felt like giving up the fight.

"During those sixteen years I spent close to three thousand dollars for treatment and medicines, but nothing ever helped me until I got Tanlac. I was so discouraged that I couldn't see any hope for ever getting better. One day I said to my wife: 'Do you reckon this Tanlac, I read so much about, would help me?' So we talked it over and I bought a bottle. Well, what that bottle and nine others together have done for me has astonished everybody but me, for I knew all along I'd soon feel like the same man and look so different that I have to stop my friends who haven't seen me in sometime and tell 'em who I am. Things that used to nearly kill me when I ate them don't hurt me now a particle. I sleep like a log every night, never wake up until the birds begin singing around the house, and I feel like a boy again, full of life and energy. I jump out of bed in the mornings hungry as a bear, eat more breakfast than I used to eat all day, and go to work feeling fine, and can do as big a day's work as I ever could in my prime. I am now as strong and well as anybody and I believe Tanlac will do the same thing for anyone else in the same fix I was."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Stores, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

CHINESE SUSPECT ARRESTED

A few days ago H. was discovered that the residence of I. P. Wiser, Mayor of Prescott, had been burglarized, and money and jewelry to the amount of over two thousand dollars stolen. A Chinese employed by Mr. Wiser was suspected, and on Sunday he was placed under arrest at Toronto. He was taken to Prescott for hearing, and brought to Brockville to stand trial.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT

At Concord, N.H., on Monday, Mr. William A. Bleeper, aged 83, one of Watson daughters in the, wife of State Treasurer John Wesley Plummer and the other of Treasurer Fred N. Ladd of the Loan and Trust Savings Bank, died recently. He was born in Belleville, Ont., but had lived in Concord 60 years, being engaged in the banking business during his active life. Beside his wife and daughters he is survived by a brother, Charles, of Somerville, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. Josephine Griffith of Kalamazoo, Mich.

BARBERS STILL ON STRIKE

In reply to the demand of the Kingston barbers who are on strike, the employing barbers offered a guarantee of $18 a week and 50 per cent. over $36; hours from 8 a.m. to 7.30 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to 10.30 p.m.; week work holidays from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. Failing to agree the employers asked that the matter be put to arbitration. The men refused, standing by the original demands for the guarantee of $25 a week and 50 per cent. over $36, with hours 8 to 7, also holidays. They notified the employers that if their demands are not granted by Wednesday, Union cards will be removed from the barber shops.

GIVEN A GOLD WATCH

Brig.-Gen. Perreau, who is retiring from the position of Commandant of the Royal Military College, was presented this afternoon with a handsome gold watch and chain by a number of representative citizens. The presentation was made by Mayor Newman, who expressed the regret of the donors at his departure, and their admiration for his qualities as a man and an officer. Brig.-Gen. Perreau has been connected with the R. M. C. eight years, and is leaving on Saturday with his wife for England to rejoin his old regiment, the Dublyin Fusiliers. An Ottawa despatch received today says that Major-General Sir A. C. Macdonell, Commander of the 1st Division of Canadian Infantry in France, may succeed him.

BODY OF VICTIM BURIED

Yesterday afternoon the body of John Yorke, the victim of Sunday's drowning accident near Jones Creek, was consigned to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. At Tickell & Sons undertaking establishment an appropriate service was held by Rev. Dr. Scott of this city and Rev. Mr. Hall of Stirling, the latter paying a worthy tribute to the deceased. Many were in attendance at the impressive service. Upon the casket were placed a number of beautiful floral tributes, the pall bearers being Messrs. R. J. Laughlin, R. M. Haggerty, H. Wallace, W. Patterson, S. H. Meyers and W. Westfall.

VETERANS WANT BEER AND LIGHT WINES

The Army and Navy Veterans of Kingston Monday night passed the following resolution: "In view of the alarming increase in the number of men in general and soldiers in particular, who have become the victims of drugs and substitutes far more dangerous than the insidious Hun, this association goes on record as being opposed to the return of the old-time bar, but favoring the sale of all spirituous liquors under Government control, with the element of profit, and the sale of wholesome beer and light wines in a manner easy to dispense. With all the facts, figures and examples which have come to this fruit since the inauguration of prohibition, we feel satisfied that the present policy is dangerous and demoralizing in the extreme, and we are now determined to combat continuation and put every effort into an effort to secure a more safe and sane license law."

DISASTROUS FIRE AT COLBORNE

The Village of Colborne was at an early hour yesterday morning visited by a disastrous fire, which caused the destruction of three buildings, live stock and autos. The blaze from some cause unknown originated in a bar, the property of Mr. Morrow and spread rapidly to adjoining premises. After an alarm was sounded the village fire brigade was soon upon the scene but on account of the nature of the building consumed, Six

BARBERRY CAUSES RUST

Provincial Campaign Advocated to Destroy This Shrub.

Current and Gooseberry Worm Can Be Controlled. How to Identify It—Simple Measures of Control—Spraying With Arsenate of Lead Solution Most Effective.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE Barberry should not be tolerated by the farmers of Ontario. It is a blot on their midst, which every year takes money from their pockets, by increasing the amount of rust upon their grain, and thus reducing their crops.

The Barberry Increases the Amount and Severity of Rust.

It is not necessary to go into the complicated life-history of the fungus which causes stem rust of grain. Scientists have known for many years that one phase of its life-cycle is passed on the Barberry, and all who have made a study of this matter agree that the amount and severity of stem rust is very much increased by the presence of the Barberry in the neighborhood of grain fields. While scientists do not expect to see rust entirely disappear if the Barberry is destroyed, the general opinion is that if it were completely exterminated the chances of severe epidemics of stem rust occurring would be greatly reduced.

Action the Law Regarding the Barberry.

In Ontario legislation has been passed regarding the destruction of this shrub. Let all concerned realize that the Barberry does increase the amount and severity of stem rust and a sentiment will be created for the enforcement of the present act. This act should be enforced. The Barberry in Ontario should be destroyed. There is strong evidence to show that Barberry bushes are centres of infection which in wet seasons may give rise to severe epidemics of rust.

The Common Barberry and its Purple-leaved Variety the Japanese Barberry.

The Common Barberry and its purple-leaved variety barberry grain rust. The average man does not know this shrub when he sees it. It is a spiny shrub from 3 to 9 feet high, with yellow wood, arching branches and gray twigs. The leaves are bright green, smooth, somewhat oval, from one to three inches long. The stems with bristly teeth. The flowers are small, yellow and borne in long, drooping clusters. The berries are oblong, red and sour. The purple-leaved variety is similar except for the color of the leaves, which are purple. Unfortunately, the Barberry has been much planted in some sections of Ontario for ornamental purposes and has become established in many localities.

The Japanese Barberry Harmless.

If Barberries are required for ornamental shrubs the low growing, small, leaved Japanese Barberry (Berberis thumbergii, D.C.) may be planted, as this species is not host to the rust.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, O. A. College, Guelph.

Currant and Gooseberry Worm.

The most common insect enemy of currants and gooseberries is the Currant and Gooseberry Worm. The larva is a greenish caterpillar, about three-quarters of an inch long when full grown, with a black head and numerous black spots over the body. The adult insect is a small four-winged flies, about a quarter of an inch in length. They have black and abdomen yellowish and the rest of the body blackish in the male. The male is for the most part blackish or black. The flies appear in spring very soon after the leaves of the currant. Eggs are laid on the under surface of the leaves, usually along the main veins. Tne young larvae on hatching feed upon the foliage and become full grown in two or three weeks. Then they drop to the ground and form little cases in which they pupate. A new brood of flies emerge, lay their eggs and the larvae thus become a second brood of larvae, which may be seen on the plants at the time when the currants are ripe. When these larvae are full grown they enter the soil, form little cases or cocoons, and remain there till the following spring, when they pupate and emerge as adults.

Method of Control.—These are easy insects to kill. All currant bushes and gooseberries should be sprayed with from two to three pounds arsenate of lead paste or half that amount of the powder form in forty gallons of water as soon as the leaves have become well expanded. Particular care should be taken to spray thoroughly the lower parts of the bush. This will kill all the first brood. If a second brood appears (Middlebrook and Lochhead) spray with arsenate of lead, in the proportion of one ounce to one gallon of water. Arsenate of lead would be dangerous on the ripe fruit. The insect occurs everywhere in the province, and everyone should prevent his plants being weakened and seriously injured by it, especially as it is so easy to control.

Note.—Heilebore loses its insecticidal properties unless it is kept tight and dry.—Prof. L. Caesar, O. A. College, Guelph.

AN EXPENSIVE DRUNK

A party who gave his name as A. Kilborn, was this morning before Magistrate Mason convicted of two charges, namely intoxication and having in his possession liquor in a place other than his residence, namely upon his person. The fine and costs imposed amounted to nearly $250 or in default three months in jail. As Kilborn was unable to pay the fine he went to jail.

West Hard Hit In Wheat Crop

WINNIPEG, July 9.—With wheat generally in head and oats headed in many sections, present crop prospects in Manitoba leave little to be desired. The latest bulletin of the Provincial Department of Agriculture shows only one weak spot on the crop map of the Province.

Vero Brown, Superintendent of Western Branches of the Bank of Commerce, puts the condition of the Manitoba wheat at from 111 to 130 per cent. in all parts of the Province save the northwest corner where he places it at 80 per cent. In the south-west Manitoba where condition is lowest comparatively little wheat is grown.

In the portion of Saskatchewan, immediately adjoining Manitoba conditions are also fairly good. But from that point westward prospects steadily grow worse. Save in one part, where very little wheat is grown, the most optimistic do not look for more than a 75 per cent. crop. Some who cannot be classed as pessimist describe the situation beyond Regina as "rotten."

Near Pasqua, west of Regina, one farmer plowed up 125 acres of wheat to sow flax. About Swift Current, wheat headed when only a foot high. In Saskatchewan district, the hard winds in the spring blew a lot of the wheat out of the ground, so patching June burned up a lot more.

The Heart of the Home

THE piano soon becomes the very heart of home life. Around it the little tots take their first steps. It is witness, aye, even conspirator to many a courtin' episode; again, later, around it gather the gay parties at yule-tide and, in the October of their lives the home-folks like its company and the fond memories that are brought forth by its mere presence in the home is one which you can bring into your home with the certainty that it will outlive the present generation.

Before choosing your new piano be sure to see and hear the LINDSAY. Old instruments are taken in exchange as part payment on LINDSAY Piano purchases. Easy terms arranged if desired. Write or call in for illustrated catalogue.

Highway Robbers Work New Scheme

NEW YORK, July 9.—A new method of highway robbery was reported to the police by Joseph Hardcastle, a superintendent for the Hood-Ely Farm Products Co., who stated he had been robbed of $31,000 while motoring to a bank with the day's receipts of the Borden dairies on Long Island.

Mr. Hardcastle said that the highwymen drove up behind his auto mobile in a heavy touring car and smashed into it, throwing the light car into a ditch.

When the stunned occupant recovered they found themselves facing leveled revolvers in the hands of three bandits, who seized the small black bag containing the money. The bandits fled into their machine before Mr. Hardcastle or the three guards who had accompanied him could draw revolvers.

Lady Jean Won't Repeat Offence

LONDON, Ont., July 10—Rev. Lady Jean Hooper, pastor of the local Spiritualist colony, who was given a share in fixing the fine she was to pay for having told fortunes, succeeded to reduce the penalty from $100 to $50, by promising not to commit the offense again.

Judge MacBeth, in rendering a written judgment, prepared at the request of the defense, expressed the view that the Rev. Lady Jean 'can not have erred in what she was professing to believe."

Spiritualists, clairvoyants, and others throughout Ontario and Michigan, interested in various processes of foretelling future events have followed the case with keenest interest and it is possible that further efforts will be made to fight the decision. Judge MacBeth summarizes the reasons of his finding in the following paragraph:

"I find that the defendant undertook to tell fortunes within the meaning of section 443 of the Criminal Code. The word 'undertakes', as used in this section of the Code, implies an assertion of the power to perform, and a person undertaking to tell fortunes, and in doing so is asserting the possession of a power which he does not possess, and is thereby practising deception, and when this assertion of power is used by him with the intention of deluding and defrauding others, the offence arrived at by the statute is complete."

Harry New To Make Fight For His Life

LOS ANGELEC, Cal., July 10—Revelations of the inquest and autopsy Tuesday over the body of Miss Priscilla Lesser, shot and killed by Harry S. New who claims to be the son of United States Senator Henry S. New, of Indiana, were expected to form the big determining step in the disposition of New's case.

New himself has for the first time showed interest in saving himself from the gallows and a court fight is now expected.

"I fear just one thing in all the world—death," he declared in his cell Sunday. "For her I hope to defend myself."

His defence, his friends said, will be insanity.

The statement in Washington by Senator New, in which he was quoted as admitting that he had killed the accused man's mother 30 years ago, and which concluded with a declaration that he would not shirk responsibility, was taken here as proof that Harry New's expressed confidence that the man who he claims as his father would aid him, has at least some foundation.

New spent another almost sleepless night last night, but to-day reiterated his declaration that fears that he might attempt suicide are groundless.

"I haven't the slightest intention of harming myself," he declared.

To Try To Speak With Planet Mars

OMAHA, Neb., July 10—Professor Avis Todd of Amherst College is to make a serious attempt to communicate with the planet Mars, from a balloon which will be sent up from the War Department Balloon School at Fort Omaha, next Sunday. The balloon will be piloted by Capt. Leo Stevens, chief instructor for the War Department, and will be sent to the highest point ever reached by man, if present plans are carried out.

Capt. Stevens is rapidly holding the world's record for ballooning, having reached a height of 29,500 feet some years ago. He expects to take Professor Todd above that height next Sunday. One of the big spherical balloons used by the War Department will be used in the flight, and from 36 to 40 hours will be consumed.

Professor Todd has worked for years on the idea of communication with Mars, and reports at Fort Omaha are that he has now perfected his instruments and expects his next effort to be successful, provided he can rise above 29,61) feet. Six years ago, with Capt. Stevens as his pilot, he made an attempt to get into communication with Mars, but the balloon only got 22,000 feet high. The following year Professor Todd climbed a high peak in the Andes Mountains and set up his instruments, but found that proximity to the earth interfered.

Finance Minister Retiring From Borden Government

NEW PROBLEM FACES PRIME MINISTER IN REORGANIZATION OF HIS CABINET—SIR THOMAS WHITE FINDS THAT PRIVATE AFFAIRS COMPEL SACRIFICE OF POLITICAL CAREER.

OTTAWA, July 10—The Prime Minister's problem of Cabinet reorganization has been made much more difficult of solution by the decision of the Finance Minister, Sir Thomas White to retire from political life. The finance Minister finds that his private affairs make it necessary to give up a brilliant career, one of splendid service during the past eight years and a promise of even a more brilliant career in the future. There is no difference of opinion on policy or administration between he and his colleagues and it is only the strongest of private reasons that has forced him to arrive at this decision.

During the past few days many of his colleagues in the Cabinet and members of the Senate and Commons have urged on him the necessity of reconsideration of his decision. He has grown in a wonderful degree in popular esteem and confidence of the Government supporters in Parliament. They feel that his retirement from the country's service at the present time is a national loss. While the task of Finance Minister has been most difficult in the past it is believed it will be an even greater burden during the next five years. The domestic loan to be placed in the United States, and the revision of the tariff will call for the best talent of the most experienced financier.

Sir Thomas White's successor will have the most difficult financial problems to solve in the history of this country. Members of the Unionist party are urging on Sir Thomas White to remain if only for another year. It is believed that, much as he regrets the necessity of withdrawal, he believes that it is impossible for him to remain, and that his tenure office will only be until Sir Robert Borden can select his successor.

Makes Two Efforts To End Her Life

NEW YORK, July 10—Crazed with grief over the murder of her mother, the widow of Gen. Louis Morales one of President Diaz's leaders who was executed during the Madero revolution in Mexico, Miss Antoinette Morales, a beautiful Spanish girl of eighteen, twice attempted suicide, at No. 200 West 59th street, first by turning on the gas and later by plunging from a second story window to the sidewalk.

She was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital, where her mother died last night after having been shot by her second husband, Edward Vergas, a Spaniard, from whom she had separated ten days ago. The daughter sustained a fracture of the right leg and internal injuries, but the surgeons are hopeful that she will recover.

The girl's two unsuccessful attempts to end her life were a sequel to the tragedy enacted in the fourteenth street home Monday night, when Vergas, after pleading in vain that his wife return to live with him, drew revolver and shot her.

The daughter accompanied her mother to the hospital and remained with her until she died. Then she returned home and early Tuesday was found to have turned on the gas in her room. She was frustrated in this attempt by the neighbors, who traced the odor to her room and battered down the door. On being revived she promised she would not try again to join her mother in death, but when left alone yesterday morning she penned a note in Spanish setting forth that she couldn't live without her mother, and then jumped from the window.

MEATS NEVER HIGHER IN WINNIPEG'S HISTORY

Winnipeg, July 10—Dealers declared Tuesday that all pork products, fresh and cured, are at the highest point they ever reached in this city. Lard is higher priced than oleomargarine.

Pork chops command fifty-five cents per pound for the prime, fresh-killed stuff. Ham and bacon are prohibitive besides being somewhat difficult to get. Only slight prices in anticipated while the present high prices on live hogs remain in effect.

FISH PROFITEERS

BOSTON, July 9—Sentences to the House of Correction and fines were imposed to-day upon seventeen men connected with the financing and management of the fish industry of New England. They had been found guilty of conspiring to raise the price of fish in war times, and of creating a monopoly.

Newfoundland Fishing Threatened

Schooners Locked in An Ice Fields

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 10.—Great ice fields stretching for hundreds of miles from the north coast, probably mean a total failure for the Labrador fishing industry, with a resultant huge loss to Canada, it was declared yesterday on arrival of the ice breaker Terra Nova.

The crew of the ship reported huge fields of ice only a hundred miles north of Battle Harbor. Hundred of fishing schooners are locked in the field. Crews of four motor boats were removed by the Terra Nova. Three hundred persons, the entire population of Hebron Oak were aboard the Terra Nova two weeks, surrounded by ice.

Tragic Fatality At Brockville

Aged Minister Killed, and a Young Girl Going Home to Meet Brother.

BROCKVILLE, July 10.—Rev. John Osborne, a retired Anglican clergyman, residing with his son Reginald, two miles north of Brockville, and Miss Irene Westlake, 291 Brunswick avenue, Ottawa, were killed instantly yesterday afternoon when the buggy they were driving from the Osborne farm to Brockville was struck by No. 7, G.T.R. mail train from the east. Miss Flossie Headley daughter of John Headley of Smith's Falls Ont., another occupant was severely injured and is a patient in the local hospital. Unless internal injuries develop it is expected she will recover.

The three, with Mr. Osborne driving left his son's residence at 1.30 o'clock for the purpose of proceeding to the depot, the young women intending leaving for their homes on the C.P.R. train at 3.30. As they were approaching the crossing the horse either balked or died of fright, as it stopped dead still in front of the fast oncoming train.

The body of Miss Weatherton badly mauled, was carried over 100 feet and thrown into the ditch. That of Rev. Mr. Osborne appeared almost normal.

Earlier in the day Miss Weatherton had received a telegram from her home that her brother was returning from overseas and this prompted her to cut her visit short.

The inquest is being held. Engineer Robert McCuaig of Montreal claims that all warnings were given for the crossing.

Syracuse Woman Sleeps 40 Days

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 10.—Mrs. Barnet Kaufman, aged 65, of 916 Ackerman avenue has been in an unconscious condition at the Crouse-Irving hospital since May 31st, the day after she was stricken at her home.

This is the 40th day she has lain apparently asleep, responding to no attempts to arouse her, showing no indications that she knows anything about what is going on around her. Her heart action is described as fair, present indications she may remain in the same condition for some time.

She suffered a stroke of apoplexy on December, 1918. For a long time she was speechless. On January 21th of this year her son, Phillip Kaufman, the well-known singer was married in New York. When his body was brought home and she saw his face she regained her speech and remained so until a few days before she suffered another stroke on May 30th.

Precdent Established In U.S. Senate

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

WASHINGTON, July 10.—When President Wilson with the Peace Treaty to the Senate to-day, it will be the first time a President has presented a treaty in person and the first time a foreign statesman has been received with the Senate's doors open to the public.

Late Telegraph Briefs

British dirigible R-34 started on her return trip at 12.55 last night and passed over New York City, then turned eastward.

Prince Henry of Prussia, a brother of former Emperor William makes plea to save his brother fruit extradition.

Blockade against Germany by the allies will be raised immediately following the ratification of the Peace Treaty by the German Assembly.

The stowaway who came over on the R-34 was not taken back by the airship.

The Canadian loan for $75,000,000 was largely over-subscribed at New York.

Ratification of Peace Treaty Official

VERSAILLES, July 10.—Official notification of the ratifying of the Peace Treaty by the German National Assembly was given out by the peace congress this morning.

Lieut H.H. Ponton Commands Battery Firing Peace Salute

Official recognition was given the signing of the Peace Treaty at Versailles by the booming of a salute of 101 guns in front of the Parliament Buildings at Fredericton, N.B. Lieut. Harry H. Ponton, of that city, who took over a large detachment of the Cobourg Heavies, and was present at Passchendaele and other engagements) commanded the battery party, who were rushed by automobile lorries from St. John on receipt of orders from Ottawa. The band played alternately bars of the National Anthem, and an immense crowd enthusiastically participated in the function.

Alien Bill Adopted By Committee

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, July 10—Despite strong opposition by Government the House of Commons Committee today passed by a vote of 15 to 12 a clause in the Alien Bill restricting employment of Aliens in Great Britain, after Under-Secretary of Home Office had argued before the committee that inclusion of clauses in bill would work influence of the United Kingdom in the Empire.

Striking Coal Miners Return To Work

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, July 10.—Coal miners of Central and Southern France today decided to resume work on Friday. The differences between miners and their employers were adjusted through the arbitration of Ministry of Labor.

SHIP HAS MILLION DOLLARS' WORTH OF WHISKEY ON BOARD

WINDSOR, July 10.—When the steamship Lake Norden of the Emergency Fleet Corporation of Detroit weighed anchor at Walkerville yesterday, outward-bound for Liverpool, according to Captain Loughin, she had on board 1,100 tons of whiskey from the distillery of Hiram Walker & Sons.

This is but one of several shipments to be made to Scotland, the companies have contracts forcing the company to find markets over seas. The value of the shipment is estimated at over $1,000,000.

The Lake Norden is one of 95 ocean going boats built by the United States since they entered the war.

Hon. F.B. Carvell Is Not Resigning

OTTAWA, July 10—Sir Robert Borden leaves for his vacation on Friday and will be absent about ten days. Until his return no action will be taken on Sir Thomas White's resignation nor will there be any Cabinet appointments. There is no foundation in the report of Hon. F. B. Carvell's retirement from the Government. He left for his home in New Brunswick today and will return in a week. There is still a possibility of Sir Thomas White reconsidering his resignation and until he positively refuses to do so, the Prime Minister will make no effort to select his successor.

Covenant And Treaty Base on Fair Play

HALIFAX, July 10.—The White Star liner Olympic arrived yesterday afternoon on what is said to be her last trip with returned soldiers to this port. She brought more than 5,000 soldiers, and there were also on board a number of civilians. The men got away in good time, the Canadian National Railway having the trains all ready.

Asked for an opinion on the peace treaty, Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, who was also on board, said that the question was too large to be adequately dealt with within the limits of an interview.

"Such a convention could not, of course," he said, "be expected to meet entirely the views of any individual, nor to satisfy the full demands of any of the nations concerned. The treaty has been and would be still further subjected to adverse criticism in some respects, it doubtless fell short of the expectations of most. This much, however, must be conceded—that it was the result of an earnest endeavor on the part of the leading statesmen responsible for it to conciliate the frequently antagonistic views of the nations concerned.

Seven Secret War Rulers in U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Seven men formed a "secret Government of the United States" which is working "behind closed doors," determined all of the so-called war legislation "weeks and even months before war was declared against Germany, Chairman Graham of the House committee investigating War Department expenditures declared today after reading into the record a digest of the minutes of the Council of National Defence.

The seven men were named by Mr. Graham as Hollis Godfrey, Howard E. Coffin, Bernard M. Baruch, Samuel Gompers, Franklin H. Martin, Julius Rosenwald and Daniel Willard members of advisory commission of the council. This commission he said was designed by law to act in a purely advisory capacity to the council, composed of six Cabinet officers but the President he asserted, made them the real executives.

After Mr. Graham had read to the investigating committee a digest designed to show that the military draft food control and press censorship had been discussed by the commission several weeks before war was declared, Representative Reavis, Republican, Nebraska, interrupting asked if "all this was prior to the President's speech on armed neutrality, in which he said he was not contemplating war." The witness promptly affirmatively.

Later in the recital of the digest, Mr. Graham said that censure of the council and commission uttered in the senate by Senator Lodge, led Mr. Coffin to urge that "a definite chanel of contact" be established between the council and Congress.

"In other words," commented the chairman "Congress ought to be educated."

In brief, Mr. Graham's digest charged that the President organized the council in violation of the law and that it was in defiance of pending legislation, dictated the politics the country was to pursue and befriended 'big business' Included in the report read into the record was a letter by Judge Gary advising the commission that it was disregarding the laws "supposed to regulate business."

Steamship Grampian Collide With Iceburg

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 10.—Two men were killed and two injured when the Allan liner, Grampian from Montreal for Liverpool, collided with an iceberg o Cape Race last night. The steamship with 750 passengers and crew of 350 arrived here this morning for repairs.

How MoneyGrow s In Good Investment

NEW YORK, July 10.—A trust fund of $285,018, in Standard Oil stocks, left to Mrs. Grace O'Day MacPherson by her father, Daniel O'Day earned $500,000 in 10 years, according to an accounting filed with the Surrogate Court here yesterday. The trust fund now amounts to $567,561, nowithstanding the fact that Mrs. MacPherson had drawn from it an income amounting to $163,455 in the decade preceding her death last April. She left no will, and her husband, as executor, asked for a judicial settlement of her estate.

Bolshevik Forces Are Advancing

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON July 10—Bolshevik troops have started an advance in the region of Northern Dvina River southward to Archangel and have occupied Possne after fierce fighting. It is added that Bolshevik are pursuing north Russian troops in the region of Onega and Lakes south-west of Petrograd. Bolshevik are developing successfully an advance in the direction of Pskov and

PLEA FOR FRIENDSHIP WITH ENTENTE POWERS

ROME, July 10.—Premier Nitti, in a speech before Parliament yesterday urged that the peace negotiations be concluded and that friendly relations with the allies, especially France, be maintained.

The Premier informed the Deputies that all efforts should be made to re-establish the country on a peace footing, lower the prices of necessaries and bring about orderly conditions throughout Italy.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Saturday, July 19, has been officially fixed as a public holiday for the celebration with Peace Day throughout the Empire.

Once Noted Beauty Commits Suicide

Divorced Wife of Col. Atherton, Principal in Historic Case, Found Dead.

LONDON, July 10.—Mrs. Arthur Eliot, better known as Mrs. Mabel Louise Atherton, divorced wife of Col. Thomas Atherton, was found shot yesterday morning in her home in London, according to The Evening Standard yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Eliot, who was a sister of Sir Aubrey Dean-Paul, some years ago sued Baron Churston, then John Reginald Yarde-Buller, for breach of promise. The case created a considerable sensation at the time. Lord Aprti she married Capt. Arthur Eliot a dramatic grandson of the late Earl of St. Germans.

Evidence gathered by the police indicated strongly to them, it was said, that the case was one of suicide. About midnight a shot was heard. A maid went to Mrs. Elliot's room and found the door bolted and barricaded with furniture. An entrance was forced and the body of Mrs. Eliot was found with part of the head blown away. A discharged shotgun was beside the body.

Mrs. Eliot, who from the time of her marriage to Col. Atherton in 1892, was one of England's great beauties, first came prominently before the public in 1906, when Col. Atherton divorced her. The circumstances in the case was Mr. Yarde-Buller, Col. Atherton, according to the evidence given in the court, bore certain reasons in reference to his wife in their Africa in 1901, but "the gentleman mentioned was not the correspondent."

British Dirigible Starts Homeward

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

BOSTON, July 10—R-34 was reported 55 miles south of Marthas Vineyard island at 4 a.m. By the time she reached here, Marthas Vineyard is off the southern coast of Massachusetts.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The British dirigible R-34 today swell on her way home after a stay in America of eighty hours and seven minutes, which outstrips trans-Atlantic flight of lighter than airship. Taking the air at 11.59 o'clock last night, at Roosevelt Field on Long Island, the big dirigible passed over New York circled over Times Building Tower at 12.45 remained in sight of a dense Broadway crowd for five minutes before heading south over lower Manhattan and disappeared in an easterly direction at 1.16 a.m.

Record's Established Disemarking Troops

HALIFAX, July 10.—By disembarking and entraining 5,000 troops in three hours and thirty-five minutes the clearing depot here under command of Lieut.-Col. Robert Crean, established a record in the handling of Olympic's passengers last night that has probably been unequaled in any part of the world throughout the period of the repatriation movement.

Eleven trains were despatched at an average interval of eighteen minutes. Ontario trains left as follows: Sixth, to Hamilton and London, 9.05 p.m. seventh, to Toronto, 9.42; eight to Toronto, 10 p.m.; ninth to Toronto and Kingston, 10.20 p.m., tenth to Ottawa Montreal and Quebec, 10.45 p.m.

President Wilson in Person Presents Peace Treaty To Senate

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press Limited

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Wilson in presenting the Peace Treaty with Germany to the Senate to-day declared that a League of Free Nations had become a practical necessity to which framers of the Treaty felt obliged to turn as an indispensable instrumentality for maintenance of a new order. It has been their purpose to set up in the world the most stable political of Peace Conference. At Paris, President said he had turned more and more to League as the discussion progressed in seeking a solution of problems that must be solved by the terms of the treaty itself. When the President entered the Senate Chamber, escorted by a Committee of Senators, crowded galleries arose and cheered for a minute in disregard to Senate rules. The President to the Vice President sent spoke high with Vice President Marshal as the cheering continued punctuated with rebel yells.

THINK A MINUTE

WHAT is your doctor's first question? Why does he suspect constipation?

Because 90% of his patients are suffering from ailments caused directly or indirectly by the action of poisons formed in a sluggish intestinal tract.

These body poisons are absorbed by the blood and carried all over the body until the weakest organ, unable to withstand the poisonous contact, becomes infected and refuses to act properly. Unfortunately it is usually not until then that the doctor is consulted and asked to treat the diseased organ.

The surest way of purifying the blood and preventing the formation of these destructive body poisons is to prevent stagnation of food waste in the intestinal tract—to prevent constipation.

Constipation is not a matter to be taken lightly or neglected. Nor is it either sufficient or safe to take castor oil, pills, cathartical waters, etc., in order to "force" bowel action. Such action does not cure constipation, it makes constipation a habit.

Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels. Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasan to take.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuations at regular intervals —the healthiest habit in the world. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Warning: Nujol is sold in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

SPORTING NEWS

SHUT OUT FOR OSHAWA

Judging from the attendance at the Agricultural Park last evening, twilight baseball games are popular. The attendance was the largest at any league game excepting of course, that played here on June 3rd. Oshawa was opposing the G. T. R. team of this city, and a good game was anticipated, especially as Oshawa is the only team that had defeated the latter in the city here during the series of games. The visiting team had a number of baseball fans from the town arrived here during the afternoon and they had an idea that they would again make the G.T.R. team bite the dust, but in this respect they were doomed to disappointment. It was a fine exhibition of ball, despite the fact that the score alone was all on one side and to the satisfaction of the great majority of the spectators. Innings after innings the two players made a determined effort to score a run, but it was not forthcoming. Only twice during the nine innings was third base reached by any of the players and there they died, owing to the fine pitching of Mr. Goyer of the G.T.R. Freddie pitched one of his best games and was ably supported by Mills behind the bat and the fielders. Patton, pitcher for Oshawa, is a swift twiler and has good control of the ball, but at times was not given the support he deserved. He had 12 strike-outs to his credit, while Goyer had 14. Mr. Butler of Lindsay was Umpire on strikes and balls and he was certainly the right man in the right place. All of his decisions were given in a manner that could not be questioned. He was most impartial in every respect. Mr. Eddie Thomas of this city, was selected as base umpire and was all right. The final score of the game was 4 to 0 in favor of our G.T.R. team. In the first innings our boys secured two runs by bunching their hits, and in the fourth innings two more were tallied up by a clever piece of play. This was the only scoring done although on several occasions they had been on all bases but a hit was not forthcoming. Altogether it was the best game of ball seen here this season. Every member of the G.T.R. team played their part well Hayes in such a manner as to particularize would be unfair. The result was certainly well pleasing and keeps our boys at the top of the Central Ontario League where they have been since the opening of the League. We have a team to be proud of and deserving of the liberal patronage which was extended to them last night. The line up of the team was as follows:

Belleville—Ross, c.f.; Weir, s.s.; Gerow, 1st b.; Mills, c.; Morden, r.f.; Goyer, p.; Kelleher, l.f.; Meagher, 2nd b.; Smith, 2nd b.

Oshawa—Rowden, 2nds.; McComb, c.f.; Jacob, 2nd b.; Wilson, 3rd b.; Boults 1st b.; Fair, s.s.; Dobson, r.; Legge, c.f.; Patton, p.

Score by innings:

G. T. R.—2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—4.

My gilded costume was laid aside now, and I was clothed in the garb of an ordinary Englishman, but I wore a thin coat of chain mail beneath my fur-lined cloak. There were two reserves in my belt and a bandoleer of cartridges slung across my shoulders. We swung through the town, past closed doors and shuttered windows, with never a voice to wish us luck or a hand to wave us farewell. The prudent townspeople were resolved not to commit themselves to any appearance of partisanship in the war until they saw which way the wind blew. And so we passed through dark and silent streets, till we emerged upon the sloping road which led towards the north.

For five hours we never drew rein proceeding at a uniform pace of about three miles an hour. Then we pitched camp for the night. Before I turned in I stood with Captain Thorlassen on a spur of rock and looked across the country. We were still on the top of a range of low-down hills. The darkness was dotted with our fires and far away in the distance we could see a faint red glow which betrayed the positions of our outposts.

The moon rose above the horizon and the whole scene was bathed in a silvery light. A few miles away to the left the dark scenery bounded a vast plain of white. It was the Great Frozen Sea, and as I looked across it, I recalled how we had gazed over its surface from the other side little thinking it would ever open a pathway for us. Then we looked due north and, far away in the distance behind the range of mountains, the heavens glowed with a veritable sea of lights, and I guessed that there lay the destination of our army—Arrahches, the impregnable capital of Asturnia. I reminded Thorlassen of the day I called on him in his room and beside the fire we talked of many things far inland, and I did not wake till the noise of a trumpet roused me from my sleep.

The next day we continued our march, and did not halt until noon. We were now on the brink of a steep hill sloping down on either side with cliffs of black rock. The Princess told me that this was the very Lake of Nitril where her father's army had made a last stand against the insurgents; and whence the Lord of Arpenteill and Sir Thale de Brie had climbed over a tall heap of slain to reach their horses, and fly to save her.

I had a few words with Sir Thale de Brie, as he rode to the front of the column, to make some disposition of the knights, and he himself told me that it was very unlikely that we should emerge on the heights above Arrahches without a skirmish. He quickly arranged for the protection of the Princess and rode on.

I was not mistaken in his estimate of the king's intentions. Before we had traversed half the length of the lake there was the wild alarm of a trumpet in the distance; then the sound of running feet far ahead, the clank of steel on the rocky ground, cries and shouts of strife. Suddenly there seemed to run through the whole column, as though it had been struck, a quiver of excitement. A second or two later came the shock of battle, and the front ranks were in the thick of it. The scouts had been driven in; arrows began to whistle through the air and clink against the rocks. I could see in the white light of the fires that a long echelon of men were pressing against us, and that a terrible hand to hand combat was in progress. Long words, runes and evil spells were spoken backwards and forwards till they were red with blood. Gay pennons dipped and rose again crimson. There were cries of "A Marmaret!" "The King!" "Asturnia!" "The Queen!" and the whole air was full of the tumult of battle.

Then Sir Thale de Brie came thundering down the side of the column on his great white horse and I saw him fling himself into the thick of the fight, and heard the cry of "De Brie!" and saw the enemy's ranks part and close again as he drove himself into them like a wedge.

CONSTANCE TALMAGE AND TOM MOORE AT PALACE

Constance Talmage and Tom Moore appear at the Palace to-night to-Saturday, matinee daily in a screen adaption of Virginia Terhune Van de Water's story of Imperial life, "The Lesson." Miss Talmage is seen as little country girl, who makes the mistake of her life when she confuses the flash of fifty marks for something more substantial. There is a great deal of comedy in the picture because it deals with the common little incidents and eddies of village life. The informal dance in the town hall, the racket store, the soda fountain "Ch-s and all the other little incidents of small rural life are pictured in delightful scenes. There is a big "heart punch" in the picture and it is sure to win your hearts. The 2nd chapter of the great smashing circus serial "The Lure of the Circus" will also be exhibited.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AND ENID BENNETT AT GRIFFIN'S

There is something new in pictures—a cort scene with which judes, lawyers and official can pick no technical flaws. It occurs in the picturization of "The Law of Men" the latest Thomas H. Ince picture starring Enid Bennett which comes to Grifin's for three days commencing to-night and in which Niles Welch, a favorite screen player is the leading man. The court scene was staged in the Los Angelus County Court Room and the official clerk, bailiff and court engineer, used for the trial scene which is an important feature of the story. Every movement therefore, was in accordance with legal procedure. The picture was directed by Fred Niblo and tells the story of a lawyer who was called upon to defend an innocent man for the murder of which he himself was guilty Miss Bennett has the role of a sculptress whose love affair is the central theme. The picture is dramatic and filled with heart interest and is one of the best in which Miss Bennett has been seen this season. Charlie Chaplin appears on the same program in a 2-act funny bone tickler entitled "A Night at the Show." Both this novel and a gripping Western story will also be shown.

OATH KEEPS TRADE SECRET.

There are two trade secrets at least that the world at large may never know, but which it is well worth the while of inventors to study, writes Albert W. Wilsdon in the Electrical Experimenter. One is the Chinese method of making the bright and brilliant color known as vermilion, or Chinese red, and the other is a Turkish secret—the inlaying of the hardest steel with gold or silver. Among the Chinese and Turks these two secrets are guarded well. Apprentices, before they are taken for either trade, are compelled to swear an ironclad oath to reveal nothing of what passes in the workshop. They must also belong to families of high standing, must pay a large sum of money as a guarantee, and must furnish a certificate of good character and honesty. These secrets have been handed down faithfully from one generation to another for hundreds of years.

FOOD VALUES OF CANADIAN FISH.

A government analysis of the food values of certain Canadian fish has just been completed at Ottawa, and the Canadian Trade Commission believes that if the results were widely known there would be a much greater demand for the products of our waters rather than for the foreign brands of fish, which have merely a wider advertisement to recommend them. For instance, in four classes of the much "boosted" Norwegian sprats and bristlings packed as sardines, the calories given are 1,314, 1,640, 1,633 and 1,174. Canadian little herrings, our equivalent fish, also packed as sardines, contained 1,832, 1,720, 1,459 and 1,795 calories respectively.

The same revelation is made in the case of herring—the Canadian variety stands out for its better food value. The best known British brand, packed in tomato sauce, contains only 775 calories, as compared with four leading Canadian varieties of 890, 1,061, 1,081 and 1,024 calories.

The "calorie" it may be mentioned, is the recognized measure of nutriment in foods, just as the pound is for weight, and the yard for length. The higher the calorie for the same price, the better the value of the food.

The Trade Commission is omitting no occasion to point out the advantage of consuming Canadian produced food within the Dominion, both for its excellence and for its undoubted cheapness compared with imported classes.

THE RETURN OF INFLUENZA.

In speaking of the return of influenza, it is not to be implied that this obstinate and fatal disease, mysterious in many ways, has gone. Such is, unfortunately, not the case, for it is present in many parts of Canada at the present time, though not in epidemic form. The germs of influenza are still present with us, and it is impossible to say how long the disease may linger, or what circumstances conduce to its removal. The truth is, we do not know all about it, for pathologists differ in their expert views. To ascertain all the facts requires continuous research and intelligence work; the truth as to the presence of the filter-passing virus has yet to be conclusively proven.

Both the medical profession and the public must work together to prevent the spread of this scourge, the former along the lines of prevention and treatment, and the latter to avoid as far as possible the spread of the disease by a system of domestic inspection by which prompt medical care is obtained. It is only by team work on the part of the provincial and local health authorities, the medical profession, and public and private authorities that this end can be accomplished. The provision of competent nursing is a most important factor in turning the scale in the patient's favor, and measures taken in this direction are amply justified by past experiences.

As the epidemic of 1889-90 was followed by two others in the next two years,, and the second was the most severe of the three, it is not too much to expect that there may at least be outbreaks more or less limited in their extent. The public should be warned and urged to give to the medical men their intelligent co-operation, and also that the patients be assured of the provision of adequate nursing assistance.

IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Owen Wister, the American novelist and author of that flaming book, "The Pentecost of Calamity," was in Westminster Abbey at the funeral service of Edith Cavell. And he sends to the Times these thoughts on that great ceremony:

"In the hour of Edith Cavell's funeral service as her body approached Westminster Abbey, but before it had quite reached the entrance the waiting people thought it was come and rose in silent respect. During that silence, very faintly from above us as we stood, the clock struck noon.

"As I counted the strokes, these were my American thoughts:

"This woman, who died for her country, died for more than that. The shots by which she fell killed what was left of the chance we should stay out of the fight. They tore away whatever was left of the veil that hid German savagery from our eyes.

"After that it was merely a question of time when our bodies and our spirits should be equipped to join in defeating Germany.

"This Edith Cavell did; and now today, here comes her body, and we all, of many nations, but mostly of British race, rise to meet its approach.

"Presently the singing began, and my thoughts went on:

"These words from the Bible that I am hearing, these prayers, this hymn, 'Abide with me,' are the corner-stone of both my faith and my speech.

"This roof, where these words I have known by heart all my life are being uttered, is the shrine of my history. It belongs to me.

"It cannot be possible for any American, however untravelled hitherto, to enter here and linger awhile and learn what it holds, not to be stirred to his depths. The place speaks to him of himself, his meaning, his past, the great race to which he belongs.

"May the striking of that noon hour and the coming here of Edith Cavell's body mark the end of the era of misunderstanding and the beginning of the era of understanding between Great Britain and America."

The Poet's Corner

WHEN HE SCORED WHISTLING HOME

He used to come vacation times
Home on the midnight train,
Whistling a tune as any bird,
In spite of snow or rain;
So seldom heard that gaunt and shrill
Blow like a restless gale,
We were so sure, the night before,
He would not come till morn!

Such were our dreams there seemed to be
Can echo of great joy
Our sleep was filled with visions
Of him.
And all about "the boy"
The doorbell pealed the household
wakes,
Slippers and robes are donned,
And yawns and laughter break the hush,
And exclamations fond.

The door is opened; up the stairs
He comes on flying feet,
The motley crowd that gathers there
Tumultuous to greet.
"Caught us again." "The train was late!"
"Examinations done?"
"I wish we hadn't gone to bed!"
"Dear, boy!" "You scamp!" "What fun!"

A whining breaks upon the ear,
With scratchings mingled in it;
"The dog!" "He's wild." "He heard your voice!"
"Oh, let him in a minute!"
The door flies wide; he clears the stairs
In one long rapturous leap;
And in that happy household now
Is no more thought of sleep!

So long ago! so far away!
Such endless miles from home!
The transients dock, with cheering crowds,
And yet he does not come!
Four years waiting, listening years
—Of pride, love, fear, regret,
And yet he does not come! O France,
—Can you not spare him yet?

Some night upon the pavement still Shall sound a singing heel;
A step upon the echoing porch,
The doorbell's eager peal,
Oh, joy and laughter, hope and mirth,
No longer shall you roam;
You'll all be crowding back again
When he comes whistling home.

OTHER VIEWS

The Unionist Party.

Weekly Sun.

It is perhaps, not important that the Unionist party breaks faith with the electorate in resolving to hold on to power and establish itself as a permanent party. It is important that it is to be a war party appealing to war sentiment and to the war contractors and so prolonging the disunity of the people. It is clear that a party cannot be permanent which excludes the French from its ranks and the rumor is, therefore, creditable that a movement is on foot to bring in a French wing.

The League and the Great Charter

Westminster Gazette

The American Federation of Labor received a telegram from President Wilson saying that, though somewhat weakened by revision, the Labor part of the Covenant would "constitute a most serviceable Magna Charta." Here we feel that Mr. Wilson speaks with the knowledge of an expert in political science. The Great Charter was a document intended for a small purpose which served a great one; written to be a corner-stone of baronial privilege, it was made by legal construction and subsequent development to serve as a foundation-stone of popular liberty. So the Covenant, a document which does not fulfil all the hopes of its most enthusiastic promoters, does yet provide a fair and sufficient basis on which the present and future generations may erect a great and serviceable structure.

A Union Supporter's View.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

The Union Government was formed for a specific purpose, that of carrying on the war. Among those who were able to join hands for that laudable and patriotic purpose were men whose views on other public questions were widely different. In a time of national crisis they were able to work together in spite of their differences; but the great task which brought them together, and held them together, having been accomplished, how will they continue to find common standing ground?

Short, Snappy Corruptions.

Manchester Guardian

To what extent are newspaper headlines responsible for the deterioration of English? The necessity to compress the pith of things into a few words leads to many strange corruptions. A word of any length necessarily suffers. An aeroplane becomes a "plane," a photograph a "photo," a telephone a "phone," and so on. "Big" is often used, because it is a little word, when it doesn't accurately convey the degree of size. Short, snappy words, in fact, are sprinkled all through the headlines of our papers, to the detriment of many words of dignity. These words have become so familiar to people's minds that they pass into speech and writing when even the sub-editor's license cannot be put forward, and the circumstances threatens to make the evil even more serious by adopting the same elliptic form for the catchwords that tell about the pictures.

A Laugh or Two

Money can get tight without taking a drink.

Mrs. Maloney—"Twins are a great misfortune."

Mrs. Finnegan—"Shure, an' they be—wan o' thim misfortunes that never come single."

"Is your new maid particular with her work?"

"Yes, indeed. She breaks nothing but the best china."

Mrs. Goolleigh—"Her age really surprised me; she doesn't look twenty-eight, does she?"

Miss Snappe—"Not now, but I suppose she did once."

Bachelor—"What's the matter, old man? You look as if you had been making a night of it with the boys."

Married Friend—"You've hit it. The twins kept me up till three o'clock this morning."

Pretty Daughter—"Mamma, did you hear what George said to me last night?"

Anxious Mother—"No, dear, but I hope it was apropos."

Pretty Daughter—"It was more than that. It was a-proposal."

"I see Brown has a new suit."

"Yes. I wonder what his wife is doing without to let him get it."

Niece—Percy has bought this donkey for baby.

Aunt—How like dear Percy.

Doctor—Well, and how did you find yourself this morning?

Patient—Oh; I just opened my eyes, and there I was.

Sweet Young Thing—I'm terrible worried. I wrote Jack in my last letter to forget that I had told him I didn't mean to reconsider my decision not to change my mind, and he seems to have misunderstood me.

MURDERER SENTENCED

NEW YORK, July 10.—William Walters, the 19-year-old boy who a week ago was convicted of the murder of Leo Rubin, a grocer, was sentenced to the electric chair Monday by Judge Rosalsky. His will die some time in the week beginning August 18. The boy was convicted on evidence given by his sweetheart, May Berry, 16 years old.

On the night of March 29 last, Walters entered Rubin's shop on East Seventieth street and drew a pistol on the proprietor and customers. Rubin put up a fight and the boy shot and killed him. An hour or two later he was caught. Witnesses said he had attempted the robbery in order to get enough money to take his sweetheart, May Berry, to a dance.

CHANGES IN TRAIN SERVICE MAYNOOTH SUBDIVISION.

DOPE FIENDS TO BE TREATED

Blanche and Aurelie Gravelle, recently found guilty at Ottawa on charges of shoplifting, are being brought this week to the Ontario hospital, Brockville, for treatment. Both are drug fiends.

CALL FOR POLICE

At an early hour this morning the police answered a call to Corby Park being reported that some parties were there and prowling about. The officer answering the call advised the parties to leave, which they did.

AUTO STOLEN

The local police have been requested to be on the lookout for a Chevrolet car which was on Tuesday stolen at Gananoque. The marker number is 19169, and the serial number 11759. It is a 1918 model and black body.

MATRONS OF HOSPITALS.

The appointment of Matron Bertha Willoughby, just returned from overseas, as District Matron and head of Queen's Military Hospital Nursing, is announced. Miss Wurtele has been appointed Matron of the hospital at the Royal Military College. She has been Acting Matron at Queen's.

REBUILDING THE COMPTON

The steamer Compton, which ran on the rocks near Cross Over Light last fall and which was raised this spring and brought down to the Ogdensburg shipyard, is being rebuilt by the Hall Company there. A large force of men is engaged in the work and the vessel will be in a staunch, seaworthy condition when she is again placed in commission.

WILL GO TO ASYLUM

It is likely that Charles Keeler, the aged Ogdensburg man who allowed the dead body of his wife to remain in their home until it was accidentally discovered by a neighbor, will be committed either to the State Hospital for the Insane or to the county home at Canton. An autopsy disclosed the fact that the woman died of natural causes.

STOLE HORSE AND BUGGY

Alexander Lewis, arrested at Cornwall for the theft of an automobile owned by a farmer living near Cardinal, will also face a charge of stealing a horse and buggy from George Brimacombe, Scott. The horse was left at the farmer's when the car was stolen. Chief Jackson, of Prescott, has taken out a warrant over the theft of the horse and buggy.

MANY TOURISTS ARRIVING

During Friday morning, Saturday and Sunday, a large number of American tourists entered Canada at Brockville, including Misses Nina and Eva Warner, New York, to Easton's Corners; C. F. Faulds and Mrs. S. Fraser, Watertown, to Brockville; Mr. and Mrs. W. Spalker and child, W. L. Kelly, with Mr. and Mrs. W. Harris, Brooklyn, to Elgin; Mrs. A. J. Scott, daughters, Misses Ethel and Katie, Jersey City, to Crosby, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Chapman, Syracuse to Athens.

WOMAN TO BE TRIED

Mrs. "Billy" Gilmour, acquitted in the courts at Grand rapids, Michigan, on a charge of theft of several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds from an hotel in that city, and who is wanted in Toronto on a similar charge, will be brought back there for trial. Mrs. "Billy" Gilmour is said to have entered a suite of room occupied by Mrs. Albert Gilmour, of Brockville, Ont.—a namesake, but no relation—at the King Edward hotel on April 17th, and stole $3,000 worth of diamonds.

MERRISON FAMILY RE-UNION

A re-union of the family of the late Kenneth Morrison was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison, Elizabethtown, on Friday evening, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Knight and family, Rochester, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stagg, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stagg and family, Mrs. Mack Turkington and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morristown and family, of Brockville, and Mrs. Matthew Flanagan, Montreal. The members of the party proceeded by motor to the scene of the re-union and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

DEFAULTER FINED

William Davidson of Madoc Village, an Al man and defaulter under the Military Service Act of 1917, admitted the offence in the Police Court before Magistrate Masson yesterday morning and paid a fine of two hundred and fifty dollars. A second young man who had seen service in Canada and had been discharged was charged yesterday for not reporting a change of address, which is ordered to be done under the M.S.A. He proved he had sent his new address to Ottawa instead of Kingston. The case was dismissed with costs. Inspector J. J. Graham of the Dominion Police attended the court.

R. R. C. FOR NURSING SISTER

Lt Lucy C. Squire, daughter of Mr. J. L. Squire, J.P., Norwood, Ont., has been awarded the Royal Red Cross (first class). This is the highest rank that Miss Canada can attain. She had previously received high honors for her war service.

DOPE FOUND ON SOLDIERS

Military authorities are investigating the discovery of drugs found on soldiers at Kingston. One soldier suspected was searched and a needle and some dope were found on him. This led to a whole batch of men being lined up for search, and the doctors were shocked at discovering about five thousand morphine tablets.

TOOK CHILDREN IN CHARGE

Yesterday Capt Ruston, Agent of the Children's Aid Society of this city, took in charge two children in the Shelter four children all under the age of 11 years. They belong to a family in the city and, it is alleged, that the father does not provide adequate means for their support, and the mother is unable to do so.

ACCUSED OF BURGLARY

Two boys, aged 12 and 14 years, were last evening brought to the city to be taken care of, as they were charged with burglary. It is alleged that on Tuesday night they broke in to Messrs. Blackburn's and Dafoe's stores at Bellview, Rawdon Township, and stole two valises and other articles. This morning they were brought up in the Children's Court before Magistrate Masson and the case was adjourned for a week. In the meantime the boys will be under the supervision of Mr. Ruston of the Children's Aid Society.

The Man Who Banished Corns

Blue-jay was invented by a scientist of distinction. By a man whose lifetime has been spent in the study of surgical dressings.

This is a master's method—correct, complete and efficient. And the millions of people who know it, never think of enduring a corn.

All in One

The first step is to stop the pain. This is done by removing all pressure by the soft protecting ring marked A.

The next step is to gently cause the corn to disappear.

This is done by the remarkable B & B Wax, which no corn can resist.

This bit of wax—marked B—is centered on the corn. It cannot spread. Like all the old-time methods, it acts, on the corn alone.

C is rubber-coated adhesive. This snugly wraps the application, protecting everything.

That apply this Blue-jay in a jiffy. The corn pain stops at once. The wrapping is comfortable and you forget it.

In two days you remove it and the corn can be lifted out. Only rare cases need a second application.

This is the scientific way, the easy, sure and right way to end corns. You will never return to any wrong method when you try a Blue-jay once.

Try it tonight.

DOPE FIENDS TO BE TREATED

Blanche and Auzile Gravelle, recently found guilty at Ottawa on charge of shoplifting, are being brought this week to the Ontario hospital, Brockville, for treatment. Both are drug fiends.

CALL FOR POLICE

At an early hour this morning the police answered a call to Corby Falls made from a residence. Two parties were there and prowling about. The officer answering the call advised the parties to leave, which they did.

AUTO STOLEN

The local police have been requested to be on the lookout for a Chevrolet car which was on Tuesday stolen at Gananoque. The marker number is 10196, and the serial number 11759. It is a 1918 model and black body.

MATRONS OF HOSPITALS.

The appointment of Matron Bertha Willoughby, just returned from overseas, as District Matron and head of Queen's Military Hospital Nursing, is announced. Miss Wurtele has been appointed Matron of the hospital at the Royal Military College. She has been Acting Matron at Queen's.

REBUILDING THE COMPTON

The steamer Compton, which ran on the rocks near Cross Over Light last fall and which was raised this spring and brought down to the Ogdensburg shipyard, is being rebuilt by the Hall Company, there. A large force of men is engaged in the work and the vessel will be in a staunch, seaworthy condition when she is again placed in commission.

WILL GO TO ASYLUM

It is likely that Charles Kesler, the aged Ogdensburg man who allowed the dead body of his wife to remain in their home until it was accidentally discovered by a neighbor, will be committed either to the State Hospital for the Insane or to the county home at Canton. An autopsy disclosed the fact that the woman died of natural causes.

STOLE HORSE AND BUGGY

Alexander Lewis, arrested at Cornwall for the theft of an automobile owned by a farmer living near Cardinal, will also face a charge of stealing a horse and buggy from George Ben. Prescott. The horse was left at the farmer's when the car was stolen. Chief Jackson, of Prescott, has taken out a warrant over the theft of the horse and buggy.

MANY TOURISTS ARRIVING

During Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday, a large number of American tourists entered Canada at Brockville, including Misses Nina and Eva Warner, New York, to Easton's Corners; C. F. Faulds and Mrs. S. Fraser, Watertown, to Brockville; Mrs. and Mrs. W. Spelker and child, W. L. Kelly, with Mr. and Mrs. W. Harris, Brooklyn, to Elgin; Mrs. A. J. Scott, daughters, Misses Ethel and Katie, Jersey City, to Crosby, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Chapman, Syracuse to Athens.

WOMAN TO BE TRIED

Mrs. "Billy" Gilmour, acquitted in the courts at Grand rapids, Michigan, on a charge of theft of several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds from an hotel in that city, and who is wanted in Toronto on a similar charge, will be brought back there for trial. Mrs. "Billy" Gilmour is said to have entered a suite of room occupied by Mrs. Albert Gilmour, of Brockville, Ont.—a namesake, but no relation—at the King Edward hotel on April 17th, and stole $2,000 worth of diamonds.

MERRISON FAMILY RE-UNION

The annual reunion of the family of the late Kenneth Morrison was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison, Elizabethtown, on Friday evening last, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Knight and family, Rochester, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stagg, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stagg and family, Mrs. Mack Turkington and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morristown and family, of Brockville, and Mrs. Matthew Flanigan, Montreal. The members of the party proceeded by motor to the scene of the re-union and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

LINDSAY'S

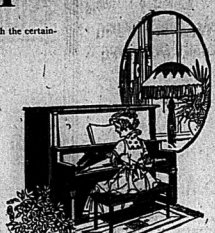

The Heart of the Home

THE piano soon becomes the very heart of home life. Around it the little tots take their first steps. It is witness, aye, even conspirator to many a courtin' ep sode; again, later, around it gather the gay parties at yule-tide and, in the October of their lives the home-folks like its company and the fond memories that are brought forth by its mere presence in the home.

The LINDSAY Piano

...is one which you can bring into your home with the certainty that it will outlive the present generation.

Before choosing your new piano be sure to see and hear the LINDSAY. Old instruments are taken in exchange as part payment on LINDSAY Piano purchases. Easy terms arranged if desired. Write or call in for illustrated catalogue.

VOL. 84 NO. 88

Walsh And Dunne Welcomed In United States by Valera's Men

NEW YORK, July 11.—After having represented the "Irish Republic" at the Peace Conference since early in April, Frank P. Walsh, former joint chairman of the War Labor Board and Edward Dunne, ex-Governor of Illinois, returned Tuesday on the President Lapland, including Harry T. Boland, Sinn Fein member of Parliament for South Roscommon, Dr. Patrick McCartan, "Irish envoy," John Devoy and Michael J. Lee and Patrick Wilkinson.

The press of Europe, he said Mr. Walsh, "rings with demand for Irish freedom. Nobody with the single exception of England is offering Ireland a 'Dominion' government. The sentiment in favor of free Ireland, which means more than a dominion Government can offer. Unless Ireland gets freedom with the next few weeks, this feeling and support will be extended.

That was all that Mr. Walsh would vouchsafe at the pier, driving off with almost 300 persons cheering him, cheering de Valera, and cheering the Irish cause. When the delegates arrived at the Waldorf they met de Valera and both issued prepared statements. In his, Dunne said:

"We are satisfied that our mission accomplished most, if not all, that we set out to achieve. The case of Ireland before the world's peace conference was not deliberately suppressed prior to our arrival in Paris and was being treated by England with her usual unconcern and contempt.

"Upon our instance, however, that it must be considered the American commission to negotiate peace made representations to the British Prime Minister urging that it should receive prompt consideration. The British Prime Minister thereupon expressed a desire to meet us in conference, and pending the fixing of a date for the conference, gave us diplomatic passports to visit England, expressing a desire that we should visit all parts of that country, including Belfast.

"We went to England and were there able to confer with De Valera and the members of the Irish Parliament and to become personally acquainted with the character of British rule in Ireland. This enabled us to give to Wilson, the American commission and the world a more enlightened story of English atrocities and military misrule in Ireland. We compelled the Castle authorities in Dublin and finally the whole English and Irish press to take up and discuss openly the scandal of military occupation and oppression.

RULE INTOLERABLE

"We compelled them to admit that the right of trial by jury, the right of habeas corpus, and all the other safeguards usually thrown around a people in civilized nations, had been overthrown in Ireland, and that British dominion was sustained only by the presence of an enormous army of occupation equipped with all the murderous weapons of modern warfare. Such influential English papers as the London Herald and the Manchester Guardian have been forced to admit that English rule in Ireland to-day is a scandal and a disgrace, and that its continuance is no longer tolerable.

"In liaison and concert with the representatives of the Irish Republic now in Paris, we respectfully submitted to the American commissioners, as the Irish representatives to the world's conference, the demand as an independent nation, now functioning as a republic. We have plainly shown to the American commissioners that Ireland is not in the position of colonies of farms from England, but is in the position of demanding from the world's conference recognition as a de facto and de jure government and as having the right to become a member of the League of Nations.

"We have, we believe, demonstrated to the American commission as the representatives of the Irish people have demonstrated to the world's conference, that the Irish question is an international problem that must be settled and solved by the Irish people with the approval of the nations of the world, and not by the British Parliament. We are confident of the outcome. Eighty per cent. of the people of Ireland demand a republic, and its people will not be content with anything but a republic. They have held an election within the last few months under all the forms and securities of British law, and have overwhelmingly declared for a republic.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION

"A gigantic military machine, equipped with machine-guns and armored cars, and the imprisonment of their trusted leaders, alone prevent the full operation of a republican form of government. This situation cannot last. It is intolerable and convicts the English nation of both hypocrisy and despotism. That Government now stands at the bar in the court of public opinion, and must before many months withdraw its army of occupation and allow the Irish people or be convicted of tyrannical misgovernment such as does not exist elsewhere in Europe or America.

"The Irish race both in Ireland and abroad intends to keep up the fight for an Irish republic until the flag of that republic floats over every inch of Irish soil. When that is accomplished he Irish nation will forget the past and be prepared to enter into fair and just treaties with Great Britain looking to the mutual development and protection of both nations and the footing of peaceful relations and amity between Great Britain and Ireland but between them and all the nations of the world."

MERE BRITISH LAKES

After declaring that Lloyd George had not practised his declaration that "small nationalities are a part of territory and we are in this war to defend the weak," Mr. Walsh asserted that Great Britain, since the war, had seized vast territory in Egypt, the Samoan Islands, the Bismark Peninsula, and Islands in the Solomon group. The continuance of an Irish citizen" to obtain information "may be hanged or drowned or shot on sight" and finally "every citizen must assist when required in enabling us to perform our duty."

SAVE FOR CONSCIENCES

The document described was said to be a manuscript found on J. A. Burke, a Sinn Fein member of Parliament, who was arrested near Thurles last February at a public meeting which he was addressing.

"In carrying out this 'peeler' (policeman)," a quotation from this manuscript read, "I would advise you to use some discretion. Peelers may be divided into two classes. Class 1 are those who joined up before the majority of the Irish people declared for a republic, class 2 are those who had no village to join after it." After stating there was some extenuation for the first class, the manuscript continued:

"As for class 2, their lives are forfeited on two grounds, first of all because they have committed high treason in taking up arms against the republic, and secondly, because they are in the position of spies caught in the act. The proper sentence and judge ment on themselves in putting on their uniforms and if any man shows a conscience he destroys one of them he may rest easy in his conscience for he is only carrying out the sentence already passed on him by the republican government."

The memorandum tells of measures taken to curb lawlessness but says that since 1916 there has been "increase in crime has been so marked in the county of Tipperary that the Government has been compelled to suppress as unlawful associations the organisations in that county.

Alarm Clock Wired Set For Hour of Fire

BRIDGEBURG, July 11.—Chief Edwards of the Ontario Police at Fort Erie is investigating the apparent mystery surrounding the fire which destroyed a frame building owned by the Hollaway Company, Canadian lake shore, formerly used for sand-drying purposes. The fire, which occurred late Saturday night, threatened to destroy the several summer houses in that populous vicinity, a few miles from here. The entire district is populated by lake shore summer residents.

The mystery is the finding of an alarm clock, wired, and set to a certain hour, which was found in the remains of the fire. This was the time when the fire broke out, and it is therefore believed to have been an incendiary one.

Helen Keller Popular As Dancing Partner

TORONTO, July 11.—The fact that Helen Keller is blind and deaf, and at one time dumb, caused afflicted soldiers to choose her as a dancing partner in preference to prettier girls who could talk, see and hear.

Dancing instructors said that the chief difficulty was to get soldiers to go on the floor, as they were backward and fearful of being in the way. Miss Keller merely smiled when she bumped into anyone. She said bumps proved that a crowd was at the party. Long ago she overcame the desire to hold back from crowds, and now she dances two-steps, waltzes, fox trots and all the latest steps.

At a dinner, following a dance for returned men, her sparkling wit made the boys forget their afflictions. They said they had been afraid of mingling in society because of the physical handicaps they had suffered through the war, but Miss Keller's cheery disposition proved to them their loss was not as great as they supposed.

Death Sentences Imposed En Bloc By Sinn Feiners

NEW YORK, July 11.—A copy of the memorandum setting forth alleged conditions in Tipperary county, Ireland, issued Monday at Dublin by the Chief Secretary for Ireland, outlawing all Sinn Fein organizations and Irish Volunteers in Tipperary county, has been received here from British sources in London. The issuance of the memorandum was announced in Monday's cable despatches.

The memorandum recites a series of lawless acts reported to British peace officers, and quotes from two documents said to have been seized by British authorities in Ireland.

Quotations given from these two documents deal with an alleged "boycott" of police and measures to be taken against them.

Copies of a Sinn Fein publication seized by the police in Tipperary were said to have declared the south riding of Tipperary to be a military area and proclaimed five regulations, summarized here:

"That a policeman found in that area will be deemed to have forfeited his life, the most notorious police being dealt with as far as possible first," "every person in the pay of England (magistrates, police, etc.) who helps England to rule this country will be deemed to have forfeited his life"; civilians giving information to the police or soldiers if convicted will be executed, i.e., shot or hanged"; police, doctors and prison officials compelled with the consistency of an Irish

International Control Of Meat Products

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

WASHINGTON, July 11.—An approaching packer domination of all important foods, in the United States and an international control of meat products in which foreign companies seek certain unless fundamental action is taken to prevent it, The Federal Trade Commission declared to-day in part one of its report to President Wilson on the extent and growth of power of five packers in meat and other food lines.

Wreck Held Up Olympic Troops

KINGSTON, July 10.—The troop train which is carrying the Kingston men who crossed on the Olympic was delayed seven hours outside of Londonderry, Nova Scotia, by a train in front being derailed. They were due to arrive to-day and if so were given a hearty welcome by Mayor Newman, General Williams and other military and civic officials, then fed and taken to Barriefield huts where they were discharged.

For those who have restatives that were expected back with the Queen's Military Hospital list whose names have appeared on the official lists, t may be said the list is not complete It is thought that many names of the Kingston list have been sent to Ottawa because the Ottawa list was sent here.

The troop train which was derailed and delayed the Kingston train carried the New Brunswick men and compromised eight cars and a caboose. The engine, and numerous cars remained on the cars remained on the track, breaking away from the others.

Three cars left the rails and toppled over the embankment. Two cars and the van also left the rails but did not topple over. The trucks were torn off the caboose and the caboose was held up by a telegraph pole. The roadbed was badly torn up for about three hundred yards. The train was running 25 miles an hour.

When the cars rolled over the kits fell on the soldiers and the men and kits were all mixed up. The mess escaped through some of the open windows. Shortly afterwards they built fires alongside the track and kept themselves warm until help came.

The following is the official list of injured men:

Privates J. A. Corbett, Picton, left thigh injured; J. A. Leblanc, left side and back sprained; J. H. Calvin, St. John, scalp wound; A. Calvin, St. John, scalp wound; P. L. Maspeak, St. John, fingers right hand cut; C. E. Harrington, St. John, slight cut over left eye; Dunfourey, cut about head; Richard Whitty, Negaue, N.B. slight cut about head and arm.

Sergeant Hamilton.

JAIL TERMS AND FINES.

Sentence Imposed Upon Seventeen Fish Magnates.

Boston, July 11.—Sentences to the House of Correction and fines were imposed upon seventeen men connected with the financing and management of the fish industry of New England, after they had been found guilty of conspiring to raise the price of fish in war times and of creating a monopoly. Arthur Jeriver, of New York, president; Ernest A. Jones, treasurer; John Burns, jr., manager and Joshua Paine and Joseph H. Rich, directors of the Bay State Fishing Company, of Maine, were sentenced to serve one year each and to pay fines of $1,000. Twelve other men were fined with substantial sums and associated firms of fish dealers were given sentences of six months each with $500 fines.

Sentence was stayed in each instance, pending a ruling by the Supreme Court on exceptions taken during the trial.

Canners' Business Very Speculative

OTTAWA, July 11.—Dr. W. T. Jackman, Toronto University, who has been conducting an investigation into the profits of the Dominion Canners, Limited, will shortly report his findings to the Government. It is understood that he has not found unusual profits, more especially when the average of a period of years is considered. He finds the business very speculative, and during the past six years there was no profit for half the period.

Daily Happenings of General Interest in The Busy Town on The Trent

(From our own Correspondence)

TRENTON, July 10.—During the electrical storm this afternoon, when half fell the size of hen's eggs, Miss Farley, a sister of Dr. Farley's and a niece of Dr. Farley's of Belleville, drove into Dave Jones' barn for shelter from the storm, and on arriving there her valuable horse dropped dead due to fright the veterinary said. A number of windows were broken in town here and great damage done in vegetable gardens.

Mr. J. D. Evans, C.E., received word yesterday of the arrival on the "Olympic" at Halifax, of his younger son, Evan, who has been overseas for nearly four years. He is a brother of Mr. J. W. Evans, C.E., of Belleville.

The last report from the R-34 late last night stated that she was going eighty knots an hour, all well, and the ship performing splendidly.

It was given out at London yesterday that the British Government has 20,000 troops on the Rhine.

Politeness Pays In Train Service

NEW YORK, July 11.—Because he was always polite and helpful to his fellow commuters, George F. Conroy, 25,o of 34 Laidlaw avenue, Jersey City, an Erie conductor, was bequethed $15,000. Mrs. Conroy, a commuter who rode morning and even ing with the young conductor. J. J. Adams a wealthy shoe manufacturer of Allendale, N. J., died recently, left the money in his will to Conroy "as a mark of appreciation for his kindly treatment of me and other passengers when he had no personal interest in us beyond his official duties."

Conroy said last night that he knew he was glad to get the money but he hadn't had the slightest idea that he was attracting Adams' attention.

"They all look alike to me," he said "and I try to treat them as I would like to be treated. I try to make every passenger feel I represent the railroad company; that the company has a personal interest in his safety and comfort, and that the service does not end with the sale of a ticket and transportation to destination. I try to make them feel they are getting more than they have paid for, and that the company is willing to give more than it receive."

Supply of Rum For Crew of Airship

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 10—The war time prohibition has not prevented the Navy Department from obtaining rum, which is part of the official ration of the dirigible crew. Twenty gallons of the liquor reached here yesterday and it is being stowed aboard the R-34. Navy officials said it came from a New York dealer.

Number Killed In Severe Electric Storm

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

PITTSBURG, Kans., July 11.—Five persons are dead today and a dozen others missing and more than two score are injured as the result of a severe electrical storm accompanied by high winds and a cloud burst which swept this section of the state late yesterday. The most serious damage done was at Bradford, where a tornado killed two persons, injured a score of others and demolished seventy-five houses. The lightning killed two campers near Clinton and a farmer at Greenburg. Property damage will run into many thousands of dollars.

Large Contract for Steel Co. of Canada

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

MONTREAL, July 11.—A contract for 250,000 tons of ships plates involving five years work and the completion of a new mill at Hamilton, rolling plant at Sydney, N. S., casting in the vicinity of five million dollars are given to the Dominion Steel Co., to-day by the Federal Government, according to an announcement by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine. The contract was accepted by the company at fifty cents per hundred pounds lower than the price now paid.

Ocean Liner Hits Iceberg

ST. JOHN'S July 11.—Two men were killed and two injured when the Allan liner Grampian, Montreal for Liverpool, collided with an iceberg off Cape Race on Wednesday night. The steamship, with 750 passengers and a crew of 350, arrived here yesterday morning at the head of the harbor.

The killed and injured were members of the crew, who were asleep in the bow of the ship. Fortunately all the passengers were awake but although there were more than 500 women and children aboard, there was little excitement and no panic.

HOTEL WORKERS JOIN THE RANKS OF THE RESTLESS

TORONTO, July 11.—Claiming that they were entitled to an increase in wages of $5 a month, the waiting staff has refused them by the management 50 employees of the Prince George Hotel went on on strike last evening at 6 o'clock. The strikers include the bellboys, porters and check room men. In addition to the extra $5 a month, the strikers asked for better conditions the chief demand being for shorter hours. The maids contend that under present conditions they are expected to work from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. each day and they asked for the nine-hour day. The strikers state that a short time ago the waiters and waitresses got a raise of an increase of $10 a month and that the present strikers were turned down. They add that their present scale of wage is $20 a month and meals

YELLOW FEVER IN YUCATAN

MEXICO, July 11.—Yellow fever has been discovered at Merida, Yucatan, according to a report received by the Excelsior. The report states that vigorous action has been taken by port officials to prevent a spread of the disease. Strict quarantine measures will probably be instituted.

ENUMERATORS APPOINTED

With the exception of the unorganized districts, and one or two other ridings, the chief returning officers who have charge of the preparation of the voters' list for the referendum have been appointed by the Government. Those for Hastings County are as follows: West Hastings, W. H. Matthews, Trenton; East Hastings, George H. Stokes, Tweed; and North Hastings, John West of Harold.

Cabinet Ministers Away For Vacation

OTTAWA, July 11.—The Cabinet's annual holiday is now here. Premier Sir Robert Borden leaves tomorrow but not to the Gatineau, as at first anticipated. Hon. A. R. MacLean left for Scotland yesterday, and will not have to send regrets to the Liberal convention, which meets here early in August. Hon. F. B. Carvell has left for New Brunswick, and from there will make an inspection trip of public works across the continent. Hon. Martin J. Calder will undertake an Easter reorganization while fishing for ten days in Muskoka. Hon. Newton W. Rowell will study the growing anti-beach prohibition sentiment in the Western provinces. Hon. C. C. Ballantyne will recuperate at St. Andrews.

There will be left to carry on the affairs of state Hon. Dr. Reid, Hon. Senator Robertson, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. E. C. Drayton, Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. C. J. Doherty.

Sir Thomas White White, the retiring Finance Minister, will return Monday and will remain in charge of his department until at least the middle of August. According to Acting Prime Minister, but it will probably be either Sir George E. Foster or Sir James Lougheed.

HENRY FORD TO TAKE STAND AS WITNESS IN LIBEL SUIT

Mt. Clemens, Mich., July 9.—Henry Ford was notified by The Tribune attorneys to come into court this afternoon, and it is expected his testimony as a witness for the defense in his million-dollar libel suit against the Chicago Tribune will begin as early as tomorrow morning.

It is understood the examination will go as far as the events leading to the affairs and motives of the suit go.

Robert R. McCormick, giant, blunt-spoken president and co-editor of the Tribune, occupied the stand during the entire session today and assumed responsibility for the editorial policy of the paper, including the editorial declaring Ford is an Anarchist, which precipitated this suit.

Holland Sends Very Curt Note

PARIS, July 11.—The Council of Five received a reply from Holland in answer to the council's note regarding the expected escape from the island of Weireagen of the former German Crown Prince. The Dutch note in what were said to be rather curt terms pointed out that the rumor of the escape was unfounded and expressed surprise at the warning given by the council.

The Dutch Government, the reply added, is conscious of its international obligations and must be left free to exercise its sovereignty as it sees fit.

Tacoma Woman Gains 25 Pounds

Mrs. Perry Will Praise Tanlac For the Remainder of Her Life, She Says.

"I will certainly praise Tanlac the remainder of my life," said Mrs. George Perry, residing at 1920 North Stevens street, Tacoma, Washington recently, for the medicine has really and truly made me feel like a new woman and in just about two months time after I began taking it my weight had increased twenty-five pounds.

"Seven or eight years ago," she continued, 'my stomach began to act in a very peculiar manner. Things I had always been eating failed to agree with me and I had no relish for my food any more. Then my appetite left me entirely and what I ate seemed to do me harm instead of good, as I would bloat up so with sour gas that I was miserable all the time. My whole body, even to my face, would bloat terribly and this gas would press on my heart, causing it to jump and palpitate fearfully. I suffered so with shortness of breath that I could not walk a block without having to stop several times to get my breath, and was completely exhausted by the time I had walked that far. I felt absolutely worn out all the time although I did very little work, being physically unable to do so, and was so nervous and restless that I would lay awake night after night—my eyes just seemed to be propped open—and there was no sleep for me. I often had raging headaches, my kidneys were in bad shape, too, and there was such awful cutting pains across my back that I could hardly bend over to put my shoes on. My limbs and feet got so they would often swell until I could not get my shoes on and sometimes I could not walk at all.

"I was paying out money all the time for treatment and medicine, but only got worse, so at last reached the point where life did not seem worth living. My mother finally persuaded me to take Tanlac and the results are I am a well and happy woman. My appetite is splendid and I eat just anything I want at any time without suffering the least bit afterwards. Since the gas has stopped forming on my stomach I can walk any distance, in fact, I am walking nearly all the time every day, and never suffer any more from palpitation or shortness of breath. I have also gotten entirely rid of the headaches, as well as the pain in my back, and my kidneys are in fine shape. I sleep like a child every night and I never have that tired feeling any more, although I am going all the time. To put it all in a few words, I was never in better health than I am right now and words cannot express the gratitude I really feel for what Tanlac has done for me. It has been a godsend to me."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. McCauley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Wright, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

ADVERTISING PAYS.

The present business outlook is better than it appears on the surface. While showing a tendency to exaggerate present dullness, business men are already looking forward to better times. If advertising plans mean anything—and they are probably the best criterion there is—the financial and commercial revival is not far away. Advertising men familiar with the national field say that large advertisers are making unusual plans for extensive publicity campaigns. This testimony is corroborated by a statement from Richard Spillane, a business expert well known for his writings on commerce and finance. He tells of one large monthly magazine which refused $63,000 of net advertising in hand for one of its issues, and expected to make it an even million before its forms closed. That is said to be the greatest amount of advertising ever printed in any publication. Mr. Spillane's conclusion is "Advertise." It is undoubtedly good advice. Business men are planning to advertise on a large scale, because they believe prosperity is coming. If enough business men believe that and know their example, there will be no doubt about it.

Dr. Collis said in speaking to the Ministerial Association of Toronto on the educational value of a campaign against venereal diseases:—

"Education is the only hope for the solution of this problem. The medical profession can help, but the evil will never be stamped out until it is treated fundamentally from a moral standpoint.

"Children should very early be educated in the habits of self-control at all kinds, and they should be taught the fundamental facts of life. This is the business of the parents but if they shirk their responsibility it falls upon the teachers or whoever will do it. England lost some 70,000 babies (annually) as a direct result of venereal diseases, and in Canada the figures are proportionately the same."

In many Christian homes the serious ones of owning wild oats is not understood and many a youth goes through all his adult life with a serious handicap and sob only himself but his children after him suffer for his indulgence want of self control and ignorance. Mr. Beal, the Government speaker in the schools tells of the scores of boys who come to him and say "Oh, if I had only been told the awful consequences of my indulgence."

Every parent should be instructed so as to warn his off spring in a sufficiently emphatic manner to make an impression. The statistics of venereal diseases among those tested for soldiers was most alarming.

Much can be done through legislation and education to combat the spread of venereal diseases, but the sure and absolutely safe remedy for all forms of sin is the fear of God in the human heart. The conscience of the child in its plastic period is the time to be enlightened by the stern precepts of God's Word. Children grow up with the idea that they can do anything and not have any lasting bad results. Until every one is carefully taught the innocent will suffer.

The W. C. T. U. believe prevention is better than cure and so advocate teaching the children and parents six questions.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, July 8.—Considering the run of cattle at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, more than $100, the market for practically all classes with the possible exception of the common to medium butcher cows, held good and steady with last week's best prices. The butcher steers and heifers were especially strong.

The strength of the market may be gathered from the fact that two or three straight loads of choice butchers brought $14.50.

With a run of about 710 sheep and lambs the market held steady, spring lambs selling around 21c for the best spring; 19c to 20c for the medium; sheep, 9½c to 11c, and heavy fat sheep, 7½c to 8½c, with yearlings at from 14c to 14½c.

Top calves with a run of 535 sold around 20c lb., with a few odd extra ones bridging 21c per lb. The market held about steady.

The hog market with deliveries of 2709 head, was good and strong, the packer buyers paying as high as 23½c fed and watered, equivalent of course to 22½c f.o.b. and 23¼c weighed off. In spite of everything the hog market continues strong and looks strong for the immediate future at least.

Bela Kun's Government Banned.

PARIS, July 8.—The Council of Five reached the conclusion at a meeting Saturday afternoon that it was necessary to make peace with Bela Kun's Government in Hungary, according to the Matin. Agents for Maintenance of the blockade, it was said, will be necessary, although the effects have not been felt by the Hungarian Bolshevist Government, as it is appropriating foodstuffs for itself and its friends.

DID NOT COME TO COURT

Minister Who Was Principal Figure in Divorce Case.

Fredericton, N.B., July 11.—Rev. W. N. Stackhouse, the Baptist minister who left his Doaktown, N.B., pastorate suddenly last winter, did not appear in the New Brunswick divorce court here this morning to defend his character, as he promised in letters to the Maritime Baptist, a church publication, when the case was tried. Nor was Rev. Mr. Stackhouse represented by counsel when eight witnesses gave their evidence in the case of Captain Ralph S. Holmes vs. May Jacobina Holmes, and their evidence was given of the minister's relations with the wife of the plaintiff, while he was overseas. The star witness of the plaintiff was Miss Margaret Brown, who lived with Mrs. Holmes while her husband was overseas. She told of the frequent visits which Rev. Mr. Stackhouse paid, coming at times in the afternoons and other times at 10 p.m. Judgment was promised before the present session of the court adjourned.

Previous in court said that Rev. Mr. Stackhouse, who has been in New York, is now in a hospital undergoing treatment, while Mrs. Holmes, who formerly a Miss Morehouse, is said by one of the witnesses to be employed in a hospital in Boston or vicinity.

ENID BENNETT IN
"THE LAW OF MEN"

Thomas H. Ince, has produced another clever picture with Enid Bennett in "The Life of Men", the latest starring vehicle for beautiful Enid Bennett in which Niles Welch plays the leading role, breaking a new line for the features of the picture, which is being shown at Griffin's for the week end are ambers, who, as the title of the star, ys a modeler in clay, who also moulds several human lives; the romantic atmosphere of Washington Square, New York's quiet spot in the busy heart of the city; a sensational murder trial and a dramatic confession, etc. Miss Bennett is described as the star of the supplies in this production with one of the strongest roles she has ever had and her innumerable Belleville admirers will find much to delight them. Miss Bennett is in the tense situation which call upon her for histrionic work of no mean order, including a fine striking feature, is the Bohemian atmosphere of the Latin quarter of Manhatten.

VIRGINIA VANDERWATER'S STORY OF MARRIED LIFE

"The Lesson," Constance Talmage's latest picture was adapted for the screen from Virginia Terhune Van de Waters stories of married life which have interested thousands of newspaper readers and being shown at the picture offering at the Palace for the week end. "The Lesson" is the story of Helen Drayton (played by Constance Talmage, a young girl who becomes bored by the dull routine of life in a small town. She likes her friends—"Chet" Vernon Tom Moore, in particular, but she regards it as a personal grievance that even this most desirable of all the bachelors in town is not for granted by everyone, including himself, as her inevitable companion at dances and other village affairs. Consequently when John Galvin, a young architect from New York, visits the town Helen is captivated, not so much by him as by the novelty of meeting a new man, and before many weeks they elope and are married. Galvin, like many young husbands, could always find money to spend downtown with his friends, but when it came to furnishing Helen with a few dollars for necessities and for those luxuries which are almost a necessity to a woman, it was a different matter. Helen soon discovered that she had married an unspeakably selfish man, and little by little the very slight bond between them stretched to the breaking point. From this step the story of Helen Drayton speeds forward to a highly dramatic conclusion. She learned her lesson; and, although it was an unhappy experience, she soon was able to discover the difference between real worth and real flash. The 2nd chapter of the thrilling serial story of circus life, "The Land of the Circus" is also being shown.

"THE INVESTMENT TRUST"

In view of Mr. Lloyd Harris' appeal for financial organization for the development of foreign trade, it is interesting to note that Mr. Paul M. Warburg, one of the ablest financiers in the United States, in an address before the Bond Club in New York, endorsed the "investment trust" as the most desirable agency for dealing with the problem of financing foreign purchases in the United States. He suggested that investment houses all over the country might join in such a trust, which would purchase foreign securities, thus enabling American exporters to finance sales abroad. In turn the investment trust would offer the foreign, or its own, securities to the public in the United States. In this way not only would the problem of foreign credits largely be solved, but the American people would be encouraged to save and invest in sound securities.

CLOVES AND PIMENTO.

It has long been the practice of many persons hurried from one form of entertainment to another to disguise their breath with a simple clove, with intent to deceive, or at all events to camouflage their former indulgence. It is not astonishing to learn that the clove is not so simple in its component parts as its unaffected appearance might lead one to believe. There has just been issued from Government House at Ottawa a decree establishing a standard for cloves, which are officially described as "the dried flower buds of Caryophyllus aromaticus L., which contain not more than five per cent. of clove stems, not less than fourteen per cent. of volatile (essential) oil, not more than eight per cent. of total ash, not more than five-tenths per cent. of ash insoluble in hydrochloric acid, and not more than ten per cent. of crude fiber." The decree gives directions for the use of cloves when used with "pimento," which, we take it, is some now name for a prohibition drink.

SOUTH AFRICA AND SELF GOVERNMENT.

After many delays and disappointments a delegation of the Nationalist party of South Africa has had an audience with Premier Lloyd George with such results as the delegates must have expected to receive before they started on their long journey, says the Montreal Star. General Herzog and Dr. F. W. Reitz are the leaders of the irreconcilable group that would sever every tie that binds South Africa to the Empire. Both were born in South Africa and brought up among the Dutch farmers of Cape Colony. Dr. Reitz was president of the Orange Free State and a close friend of the late Paul Kruger and acted as state secretary through out the negotiations that led to the war with Britain in which General Herzog took an active part. General Herzog's antipathy to British rule is accentuated by his personal quarrel with General Botha, due largely to the latter's ignoring him when constituting his first cabinet.

The Union of South Africa dates from May 31, 1910, the first movement for the federation of the colonies (from which Rhodesia is excluded) being launched at a convention in 1908. Under the constitution that was drafted in that and the following year there is a legislature composed of both Senate and House of Assembly with representation on a scale in proportion to the importance of the constituent colonies. The original constitution was to some extent tentative, for provision is made for the revision of certain clauses at the expiration of ten years, notably the method of electing the senate.

There are two vital principles of the constitution. First, South Africa is an integral part of the British Empire and, second, it is a self-governing nation. The constitution is powerful enough to effect all the redress which Herzog and others who see eye to eye with him demand. South Africa would not brook outside interference and England learned the meaning of colonial independence in the red months that followed the tea party at Boston.

So all General Herzog's laboriously inflated balloons come back to one common landing place—the floor of the Legislature at Cape Town. He must find his case as he has done before among his own people in South Africa. The British Government cannot recognize both General Herzog and General Botha, and if the matter is laid before Premier Botha he in turn will pass it on to the electors of South Africa. A more complete illustration of the serene finality of Dominion self-government it would be difficult to imagine.

THE KING ON THE NEW COMRADESHIP.

Unbounded enthusiasm marked the recent visit of the King and Queen to the historic city of Birmingham, where Mr. Joseph Chamberlain more than a generation ago launched a movement for municipal betterment which now touches thousands of cities all over the world. In replying to an address of loyal welcome from the corporation His Majesty delivered a message from the throne to the people which may well be taken to heart in all parts of the Empire during these troublous times of reconstruction. The King said in part:

> The sufferings and sorrows of the war have developed many noble qualities, foremost among which are the sinking of class differences and the realization of a common brotherhood. Face to face with danger demanding the utmost of human endurance, where nothing counts but character and the spirit of service, men discover in one another unsuspected and sterling virtues which foster new and mutual respect. The comradeship of the past must be maintained in the years to come, and I am confident that if employers and workers will settle down and grapple with the problems of peace in a similar spirit of unity of interest, good fellowship, and conciliation we need not fear the future. Industrial differences should be possible of adjustment, and then we may look with certainty for a speedy revival and expansion of British trade and commerce.

The Queen and I are keenly interested in your desire to provide improved and adequate housing accommodation for the working classes of your city. I am satisfied that Birmingham, with its traditional enlightened municipal spirit, will undertake the provision of these houses on a generous scale, and with an earnest conception of its duty. May I express the hope that, in making your plans, you will not merely aim at securing bright and healthy homes, but also provide ample facilities for recreation. I rejoice that in most of the new housing schemes greens, closes, and playing grounds are an important feature. They provide air space for the city, beautify it, and make for the happiness and health of the children. In addition to these minor amenities you will doubtless continue the work of providing larger parks, recreation and playing grounds, and thus afford ample facilities for the games and sports of the young. At present, as you know, in our large towns football and cricket grounds are seldom within near reach. The playground is often the street, with its deteriorating

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.—The Orangemen of this city will tomorrow commemorate the glorious 12th of July by attending a celebration at Cobourg. Walks will take place at Tweed, Marmora and other places in Hastings County.

DIES FROM SHOCK.—Miss Fleay Headley, daughter of John L. Headley, Smith Falls, succumbed in the Brockville hospital to injuries received Wednesday, when struck by a westbound G. T. R. passenger train, when the other occupants of the buggy, Rev. John Gibson of Elizabethtown and Miss Irene Weatherton of Ottawa, her cousin, were killed. Miss Headley's death was due to shock.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

During the severe electrical storm which passed over this city yesterday afternoon a tree in front of the premises of Chief Brown, of the fire department, situated on Octavia street, was struck by lightning, as was also the house. Fortunately the building was not ignited. The electric fluid entered the cornice of the house and went through one of the rooms, taking off a portion of the plaster. A curtain at a window was blackened, but did not catch fire. At the time of the storm Mrs. Brown was absent from the house and the damage was not ascertained for some time after.

CIRCUS ATTRACTS CROWDS.

Despite the chilly atmosphere last evening there was a large number present at Pohlill's Beacon Show. The various attractions were well patronized, especially the tent where the dog and pony show is held. This is certainly a clever and instructive performance. The tent where boxing and wrestling takes places attracts the attention of many who are sporting inclined. Tonight Hurtisaa of Peterboro, a champion wrestler, will try conclusions with Shimkus, a celebrated artist in this line, who is connected with the show. Al Peterboro these gladiators wrestled to a draw. Owing to the high wind prevailing last night Matt Gay, the high diver, was unable to perform this daring feat.

OTHER VIEWS

Waiting in Vain.

Vancouver Sun.

Many people have been waiting around since last November for prices to drop before building a house or going into business. But prices have not dropped, nor, generally speaking, do they show any indication of doing so. The probabilities seem to be that they will go higher rather than lower. We doubt, indeed, if prices generally will be lower in this generation; and we don't care if you mean the price of a house, or a watch, or a pork chop, or of a spring suit. Therefore we have about concluded that what we need, and have the money to pay for, we will buy; as we did before the war.

Civil Service Commission.

Ottawa Journal.

There is no more reason to add soldiers to the Civil Service Commission than to the Railway Commission or any other judicial body. If a vacancy occurs in the Civil Service Commission, qualified returned soldiers will then have a chance to compete for the vacant position. The adding of two commissioners, instead of helping the present commission, would complicate and delay its operation as each case has to be considered by each commissioner. And with a commission of five members, each subject will have to be dealt with by five instead of three persons. A larger commission would be cumbersome. The two extra commissioners will cost about $16,000 per annum. That money, we think, could be much better spent in adding to the operating staff of the commission.

The Poet's Corner

LEGENDS.

Beautiful, the quaint old legends
With their strange, half-sad refrain,
Sighing like the autumn's spirit
Midst the fields of garnered grain.

Calling back the heart, all wearied,
In the present's noon-day glare,
To the dusky land of lazy musing
And of dreaming strangely fair;

To the colored realms of fancy
Wherein witch and beast and knight
Ever wage their mystic struggle
By the moon's enchanted light;

With young lovers idly strolling
Down some fairy haunted dell,
Or an aged anchorite at prayer
In his ivy-covered cell.

Reason asks—unpitying critic—
If they're but an empty dream,
Mere revulsion from the present
When its young hopes blasted seem

Or if they're half-seen, fleeting visions
Of a wondrous after-life
Beckoning on the weary exile

Stomach Troubles Are Due To Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development of secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or when ever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia which is especially prepared for the

ELKS ACCEPT CHALLENGE

Six Hundred Thousand to Act as Detectives Against Bolshevism.

Atlantic City, N.J., July 11.—Six hundred thousand Elks will act as detectives in the war against Bolshevism.

This was determined upon today at the convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks here. The Elks went on record as accepting the challenge given by the radicals of the country to the forces of law and order Having entered the fight, they will stay in it until the men who exploded bombs in Philadelphia and New York are jailed or dead.

No temporizing with the Bolshevik menace will be permitted. The Elks have more than a half million members distributed over every part of the United States. In the future it will be part of their duty to watch for the clues that will lead to the unearthing and smashing of the criminal radical ring.

A resolution passed by the convention today read:

"Every Elk has taken a solemn obligation to support the constitution and laws of the United States. No man can be a Bolshevik and remain a loyal American citizen."

Over 12 per cent of the workers in the mines in France during the last year were women.

Alien women residing in New York City now number over 300,000.

MOUNTAIN MONARCHS OF CANADA

MOUNT ROBSON, THE HIGHEST PEAK IN THE CANADIAN ROCKIES

Where are Canada's highest mountain peaks? This question, of national interest, has been decided by the "Dictionary of Altitudes," prepared by Mr. James White, of the Commission of Conservation, Ottawa. This Governmen t publication gives a list of the great mountains along the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, showing their respective altitudes. These include the monarch of the Canadian Rockies, Mount Robson (13,068 feet). There are no fewer than fifty peaks along the Grand Trunk Pacific line with altitudes of eight thousand feet or over. These mountains not only excel in the matter of height, but are seen in their full contour and majesty by reason of their close rise from the valley floor. Some of these great peaks are:

Called By Death

WILLIAM KERR WIMS

At an early hour this morning Mr. William Kerr Wims, eldest son of Mr. F. J. Wims of this city, passed away at the General Hospital, Montreal, after a brief illness. A few days ago he was the victim of an attack of typhoid fever, but his condition was so much improved that only yesterday word was received that his condition was favorable. It was evident that during the night the illness developed a turn for the worst. On the 27th of November 1890, deceased was born at Deseronto, being thus in his 29th year. After passing through the Separate School he attended Belleville High School, graduating from same with much credit. He also graduated from Belleville Business College. For the past five years William has been successfully managing the Wims Company store at Montreal. He was very popular with all who knew him and by his affable manner made many friends who will sincerely regret his demise. Deceased was unmarried. He was a devout member of the Roman Catholic Church and was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Montreal. In addition to the bereaved parents, two brothers and four sisters survive. The brothers are Alexander and J. P., Jr. The sisters are Mary, Grace, Jessie and Margaret. A younger brother of deceased died a few months ago overseas as the result of being wounded. The body will be brought to this city for interment. To the bereaved will be extended the sincere sympathy of the numerous friends of the family in Belleville.

LAURA JANE BEESOCK

Mrs. Laura Jane Beesock, wife of Mr. William Beesock, assisting at 46 South John street, city, died this morning after being ill for some time from heart trouble. Deceased was born in England 67 years ago and for the past 12 years had resided in this city, previous to which for 25 years she lived in the United States. Mrs. Beesock was a member of the Methodist church. In addition to the husband one son, William and one daughter, Mrs. Amy Williams of Elmira, N.Y., are living. The body will be taken to Elmira for interment.

ROXINA HOSE

Mrs. Roxina Hose, aged 90 years, died last night at the House of Refuge. Deceased was born at Deseronto and had lived in this vicinity all her life. Old age was the cause of death. Her husband preceded her to the lomb some years ago.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contain too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. Use very sparingly, as one teaspoonful is enough for an ordinary shampoo. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses the hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff, and excessive oil, and rinses out easily. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Robinhood Ways Of Italian "Reds"

FLORENCE, Italy, July 11.—Enrico Caruso, the famous opera tenor, lost 30 barrels of wine when it was confiscated by the Work Committee at his villa in the outskirts of Florence during the recent disorders here.

He said yesterday that the committee left him just enough to last until the new vintage was ready. He added that the members of the committee were quite polite in presenting their demands.

"This morning the Prefect telephoned me," he said "that my automobile had been requisitioned. My villa is most difficult to reach because it is situated on a steep hill and I have no other means of transportation. I am lost without my automobile."

Dempsey Able To Pay An Old Debt

TOLEDO, July 10.—Before leaving the scene of his triumph to go forth and win the fortune which awaits him as heavyweight champion of the world, Jack Dempsey squared his account with the man who discovered him. This man is A. J. Auerbach, a business man of Salt Lake City. It was he who first took an interest in Jack Dempsey and helped him financially to get his start on his pugilistic career. In Dempsey's room in the Hotel Boody last evening Dempsey handed over to his benefactor, $16,128.20, the giant killer's original debt plus interest, and also Auerbach's expenses on the two weeks' vacation he took to come here and see his protege win the highest honors in the boxing world.

It never can be said that Dempsey is ungrateful to those who aided him when the sledding was rough. Auerbach's story goes back three or four years in Auerbachs store in Salt Lake City, Mrs. Ethel Clark was one of the employees. A big raw-boned lad used to come in to see Mrs. Clark. Auerbach asked who he was. Mrs. Clark told Auerbach that it was her younger brother and that he was ambitious to become a boxer. He had appeared at several smokers and stags and had discovered that he could hit hard.

Financed and Equipped Him.

Auerbach became interested. He asked Jack if he had any money. Jack didn't have a dollar. So the business man fitted the boy out with new clothes and started him at work in a gymnasium. He was quick to learn and ready to listen to advice.

"I knew he was a real fighter and was anxious to see him succeed," said Mr. Auerbach yesterday. "Jack was a sensation pro mthe start. He beat Terry Kellar twice and Kellar was considered a good man in those days. He also beat Dick Gilbert and a number of good men, and I knew that my confidence in him was justified.

"Remember he was still a minor and I made no contract with him to act as his manager. I accepted none of the money he earned, but on the contrary loaned him money.

"On August 22, 1916, shortly after Dempsey became 21, we entered into a contract whereby I was to be his manager for five years or until August 22, 1921. I was to arrange all his matches, handle his affairs and in return receive 25 per cent of his winnings. I have a copy of that contract with me today.

"Dempsey was just a boy then and that sudden possession of considerable amount of money naturally went to his head. Some of his actions did not please me, and I called him into my office and had a heart-to-heart talk with him, the result pf the talk being that Jack and I parted.

Offered Later Help If Needed

"Go and find another manager to handle your affairs, and if you ever need any help you can call on me," I then told Dempsey, for I liked the boy if he did make mistakes, and I never lost interest in him.

"After that, things broke badly for Jack, and I frequently made him loans, until I figured it up that Jack owed me exactly $5,340.50.

"Then success came to Jack, and he began making a national reputation for himself. In the meantime he had thought over seriously our dealings, and four months ago—after the match with Willard was made—Dempsey came into my store at Salt Lake City and declared himself.

"'Mr. Auerbach, I owe a lot of things to you, and I have come to tell you that I am ready to make good. My match with Willard will earn for me more than enough to pay you the money I owe you, with interest, and that is what I am going to do.

"'But that is not all. I don't know whether this match will be held in this country, in England, France Australia or where it 'will be held, but wherever it is, I want you to come to that place a couple of weeks in advance of the fight and be my guest until it is over and you are ready to return home. I will pay your railroad fare, your hotel bills and all your expenses, and am anxious that you accept. It will make me feel a whole lot better if you do.'

Mr. Auerbach accepted the offer. Consequently, two weeks ago he arrived in Toledo and obtained quarters at the Sector, where he remained until after the bout. Yesterday afternoon Dempsey was in a hurry to make good. Mr. Auerbach was invited by dirt and dandruff, and excessive oil, and rinses out easily. CHAPTER XXVI.—Continued

A few moments later Prince & small party of our own men detach themselves from the main body, dash down to the shore of the lake, and when the gun into position of as to cover the enemy's flanks. Up to this time there had been no sound of firing. The fight had been concentrated and the melee too thick to fire with safety. But this opportunity had evidently offered itself and I knew, after came the rattle of rifles and the sharp report of the quick-firing guns.

I could not restrain myself any long er. I gave one look at the Princess and saw that no chance across could reach her; I spurred my horse to the breach and dashed forward to the front. An arrow struck me full in the chest but snapped in two like a dead twig. The force of the blow surprised me; it was no feeling back on my horse as I was glad of the coat of mail Sir Thule de Brie had lent me. A moment later my horse was crashing to the ground; I was stunned for a minute or two; and, when I rose, I saw three arrows driven deep into his struggling body. I blew out his brains with my revolver and made my way on foot across the pebbles which bordered the lake.

As I did so, I saw a steel-clad lineman and horses wheel out of the enemy's ranks, and thunder along the beach to the guns. The rifles spoke three times and the guns belched once. Then our men dived one by one at their backs. But before the remnants of the knights could return, Sir Thule de Brie and Count Guy of Marmorel had flung themselves upon their flanks and were tearing their way into them like tigers into the midst of a pack of hounds. More knights came up on either side, and when they reached the scene of the conflict, at least eighty men were engaged in a terrible frenzy of hate. It was, however, quite evident that we were outnumbered, and the king's followers were artfully retreating, step by step so as to bring the contest within their own lines.

I caught a riderless horse, jumped on its back, and rode to within ten yards of the melee. It was no place for anyone but a knight in complete armour; and I was as useless as a child. Even the men-at-arms on either side forebore to fling themselves into that whirlpool of steel. The air sparkled with the flashing swords and axes. Strange plumes floated away into the lake. The very ground was red with blood, and a little stream of it flowed down among the pebbles.

Then I saw that Count Guy of Marmorel had got separated from the others, and that at least half a dozen of his opponents were on him and his followers. For a brief moment my heart was filled with a fierce joy, for it seemed as though the death sang of John Silver had spoken the truth, and that I would never live to marry the Princess. But I quickly stifled the unworthy thought. Here, at any rate, was a man fighting for his bonds he loved, and not a skulker like myself, hanging on the outskirts of the battle.

Then suddenly for some reason or other our knights seemed to give way and fall back, and there was a clear space between them and those who surrounded Count Guy of Marmorel. The Lord of Sancta Maria was fighting alone and never before did I see man fight as he did that day. Many and bones seemed to sink beneath his blows like corn cut down by a sickle. He was crimson from head to foot, and his horse's feet trampled in a pool of blood. I saw his horse fall, and noted that he sprang from its back before its body touched the ground. Not a man among the knights went out to help him. As a matter of fact, they had but left him for a few seconds, though the swift and terrible course of the combat made it seem as many minutes.

Then there rose a long cry of "De Brie!" A rescue!" "De Brie!" and Sir Thule flung himself and his horse against the ring of knights with such force that he bore two of them to the ground. Inch by inch he carved his way through them beating them down with his axe, and trampling them underfoot, hacking and hewing like a madman. Then I saw him lean from his saddle, fling Count Guy of Marmorel across in, hook two men from their horses with two successive blows and come galloping back to the rear of the melee.

It was all done with such strength and swiftness that no one had the courage or time to bar his way. Before a few seconds had passed the whole line of battle was raging as fiercely as before.

Sir Thule de Brie placed Count Guy upon his feet close to where I stood and the two men looked each other in the face. Their armour was battered and dented and red with blood. Count Guy's helmet was half shorn away, and Sir Thule de Brie's shield was reduced to a mere shapeless mass of steel.

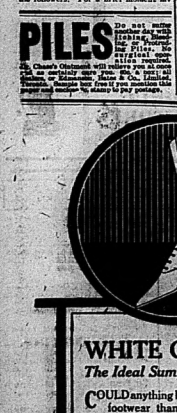

"You have saved my life, Sir Thule" Count Guy said simply, "and perhaps the fate of this kingdom. I shall not forget you."

"I would rather you forgot, Count Guy," the other answered, "I did not do it for the kingdom's sake nor yet for yours."

"I will find a horse," Count Guy spoke in sharply, "and again I say I will not forget you, and again I thank you," and turning abruptly on his heel, he went to find another horse. Sir Thule de Brie rode back into the fight, and as I sat my steed alone on the beach, I wondered why he had so effectually checked the fulfilment of his own desires.

Fishing Before Business; Back at 7 p.m.

(1) Kasio, B.C., on the Beautiful Upper Kootenay Lake. (2) Quiet Fishing in Noisy Waters.

Fishermen who go on a tent to live in, log fires, provisions from a country grocery store, fish that they nearly themselves and roast on the bare or on a frying pan that they provide, should take Upper Kootenay Lake into consideration when thinking of deciding on a fishing trip. The lake and the streams that feed it are less well known to anglers outside of British Columbia than they should be.

Salmon fishing is unparalled in the lake. R. McGregor, who is an enthusiastic Kasloite sportsman, says:—"I have locked my store door, walked across the street, jumped into a row boat, let out a line and got a salmon in less than half an hour." The best season for salmon fishing is from May 15th to June 30th, and from the beginning of September to the middle of November. Mr. McGregor again says: "I got a 19-lb. salmon within half a mile of my door on the 30th of November last." This heavy fish was caught, came from Pitlochry, the same part of Scotland as was the birthplace of the late Sir Sandford Fleming, former Vice-President of the C.P.R., knows all that is to be known about the Kootenay Lake fishing region. He recommends fishermen to go to the mouths of the creeks in July, August and September. "I do considerable fishing myself," he declares. "In fact, I am honest about my weakness. When they are biting good I often back up and write on a blackboard outside my store: "Fishing before business. Will be back at 7.00 o'clock Home." I usually stay as long as they bite well." Mr. McGregor is always glad to see anglers at Kasilo and delighted to tell them all about the kind of tackle he finds most successful. "I will answer any inquiries to any tourist at any time," he says.

There are several good guides for fishermen available at Kasilo. Our salmon fishing it is best to make Kasilo headquarters, and take the waters in a row-boat. Fly fishers are recommended to furnish themselves with their own leader, any canned goods they need, a frying pan, blankets, and canvas for a tent, then take a motor launch and go to the mouth of some of the best fishing creeks and send the motor launch away, with instructions to call back a few days later, and then pitch a tent. If the campers know anything at all about fishing they are likely to find all the trout they can eat and lots to bring home with them. Those who have undertaken such a holiday say that if we all could have a few weeks of this kind of life each year there would be less patent medicine concerns in the country.

Big game hunters also find a splendid field for activities in the neighborhood of Kasilo, five miles from the C.P.R. line, in the hunting season. Deer abound, and black, brown and grizzly bears are numerous. A government agent at Kasilo issues licenses to game hunters.

The scenery in this district is extremely beautiful, but trails are not yet generally opened up. Mr. McGregor is loud in praise of the glacier scenery. He likes to or "Up amongst the eagle" where he says "nature has a field o' great hay cocks."

Kasilo, the headquarters of tourists to Upper Kootenay Lake, is one of the most beautiful little cities in Canada. In the centre of a prosperous mining and fruit growing district. In the Kootenays, B.C., owes its origin some twenty years ago to a New Zealander, Mr. D. F. Kane, who with

NEW PROHIBITION FIGHT

NEW YORK, July 10.—Samuel Dutermeyer announced Monday at his home a new attack on the warime prohibition law. He will represent the British interests, who have more than $40,000,000 invested in the breweries in this country. He said he would fight on the ground that Congress has no power to enact war legislation in time of peace.

The fight will be made in co-operation with the United States Brewers' Association, represented by Elihu Root.

It will be insisted, among other things, that if "bone dry" prohibition is actually intended to be enforced, and against rich and middle, draconic provision is actually intended to be enforced, and against rich and poor alike, drastic provision must be added to the law for the search and seizure of liquor in private dwellings.

This, according to Mr. Dutermeyer, has been deliberately omitted, and which gives the rich man a virtual complete immunity for the rich man, who can store away his liquor for years to come and has. Some so is many cases already while the poor man, who cannot afford this luxury, is discriminated against even to the extent of his purchasing coffee, beer.

BEST MEDIUM OF ALL

A young man started a small men's clothing store in a Middle Western city. He had a capital of $12,00, and borrowed $9,000 more. His also had plans and hopes. Before he opened his door he had invested $5,000 in newspaper advertising.

Speaking of the part newspaper advertising played in his success the other day, this man said:

"It may seem strange, but the people believe what they read in the newspapers. That's what makes advertising in the newspapers so valuable. I have always made it a point to state the truth exactly, never to exaggerate. I would rather have the customer a little surprised when he looked at the goods than a little disappointed.

"I've tried advertising on billboards in street cars, in magazines, and pamphlets, in novelties. I once sent up a flock of balloons with letters tied to them, and prizes—$500, $100 and other awards—to the finders.

"I stuck up sign posts all over the city. Well, some of them went for kindling wood; some were torn down by the wind. I tried many other ways of advertising—but newspapers proved by all means the best, and I kept everlastingly at it. Advertising was the making of my business what steam is to commerce."

Petition To Wind Up Dovercourt Land Co.

TORONTO, July 10.—A petition for the winding up of the Dovercourt Land Building Co. has been lodged by the trustees of the John Arnold McKee estate Donald M. Waters of Belleville and W. D. Dewart, K.C. & McKee of Toronto. They allege that the company is indebted to the estate to the extent of $32,000 and that it has assigned to the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation the bulk of its assets without obtaining the consent of its creditors or satisfying their claims.

The accompanying material shows that the company was incorporated in 1885 and has an authorized capital stock of $500,000. The shares subscribed number 8190, on which there is paid up $409,500. The Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation is the holder of 6324 shares. According to a statement recently issued by G. T. Clarkson, there is a nominal deficiency of $2,518,768.07 in the latter company.

Mr. Clarkson when asked by The World if the filing of the petition would constitute a default of the Standard Reliance, plans for a reorganization of which company to render way replied: "Not in the least. The petition will not be pressed when the times comes and as the Standard Reliance owns 99¾ per cent. of the stock of the Dovercourt Land Company there is no importance to be attached to the petition.

New Canadian Loan Popular

NEW YORK, July 9.—While the new Canadian Government loan will not be offered officially until today, subscriptions are coming in to the members of the syndicate in a very substantial way, and there is every reason to anticipate that the securities will be taken without any trouble.

It is unusual that an opportunity is presented to secure a yield of 5.50 per cent. on a Government bond. There continues some selling of other Government issues to take advantage of this offering, but such selling was in less evidence today and undoubtedly will disappear within the course of the next few days, when United Kingdom 5½'s and the Anglo-French 5's, which have particularly felt this pressure, may be expected to recover some or all of their recent decline.

Liberty bonds were quite active, but without material price exchanges. The general bond market showed a great deal more activity than in the recent sessions, indicating that the return of both traders and investors from the holiday has been completed. Quotations were quite erratic at times, with fluctuations of as much as a point between sales.

$2,000 CANADIANS.

STILL OVERSEAS

LONDON, July 10.—With the sailing of the Carmania on Saturday with 2,495 troops and the sailing of the Tunisian on the same day with 2681 troops, 255,412 Canadian have been repatriated since the date of the armistice.

The number of Canadians overseas, both in the British Isles and France, is now approximately 32,000. This, of course, includes hospital staffs, patients, working parties in France and permanent cadre, and headquarters here. Shipping has been secured for the return of the remaining Canadian troops as fast as they are available.

Oxford Circus House, a supplementary office to Argyll House, was closed Saturday.

SOME KICKING OVER

SATURDAY HOLIDAY

OTTAWA, July 10.—Saturday, July 19, has been officially fixed as a public holiday for the celebration of peace. The date coincides with Peace Day throughout the world.

CHATHAM, July 10.—There is some doubt as to whether Saturday, July 19 will be observed as a holiday in Chatham. Mayor Hammond stated this morning that as this city is a market centre, and depends on Saturday as the big business day of the week, it was thought by some to be inadvisable to observe the day. Some are objecting to keeping the holiday on account of the difficulty in keeping foodstuffs over from Friday night Monday without ice.

The Retail Merchant's Association will be consulted and it is probable that a half holiday will be observed in any event.

THE EAST AND WEST BROUGHT CLOSER TOGETHER

Western Canada and the Pacific Coast have now been brought within much quicker reach of the East by "The Trans-Canada Limited" the new popular all-sleeping-car train operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Toronto and Montreal to Vancouver It makes the fastest time between terminals of any transcontinental train in America. Leaving Toronto at 7.15 p.m. daily, Fort William is reached in 26 hours, Winnipeg in 30, Regina in 50, Calgary in 64, and Vancouver in 90. By this means a business day is saved—a great convenience to the large number of business men who travel between Eastern and Western Canada. Leaving Toronto on the evening of Monday, for instance, it is possible to spend a full business day in Winnipeg and be back in Toronto by Friday afternoon. Tourists to the famous resorts of the Canadian Pacific at Banff, Lake Louise, Glacier, Vancouver and Victoria will also find this train particularly convenient. It consists of standard sleeping cars, dining car, and compartment observation car, and sleeping car passengers only are carried.

Then comes the high bush picking. The low bush berries are large. The high bush berries are small and not so plentiful.

FARMER KILLED BY FALL

Sherwood J. Morse, aged 55 years, lifelong resident of the town of Rodman, near Watertown, N.Y., was found dead about 8.30 on Tuesday morning a short distance from his house as a result of injuries sustained when he fell from a milk wagon. The circumstances will probably never be known, but the supposition is that in climbing to the waggon seat Mr. Morse arose from the wheel striking on his head and fracturing his skull, death resulting almost instantly.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT PICTON

On Tuesday afternoon a runaway occurred on Lake Street, resulting in somewhat serious injuries to Mr. Wm. Hall, who resides in that locality, also the death of the horse he was driving. The accident was caused by a team belonging to Mr. Fred Cole becoming frightened and running away. They were standing at Mr. Wm. Palmer's with a boy holding them. He was unable, however, to bring them under control and they dashed down the road running into Mr. Eaton's rig by which they were hitched to a heavy waggon used for hauling gravel on the county roads. When the team collided with Mr. Eaton's rig by which they were hitched to a heavy waggon used for hauling gravel on the county roads. When the team collided with Mr. Eaton's rig two were thrown out, one or three ribs broken, the buggy smashed and the horse killed. The team was not seriously injured.

R. E. Bray, of Winnipeg, the reformed soldier strike leader, who was recently arrested in that city, addressed a mass meeting of the Kingston labor unionists in the city park last evening with regard to the Winnipeg strike.

QUEEN'S SUMMER SCHOOL.

The attendance at the Queen's Summer School, Kingston, has reached a record, 200 students having registered up to date. The largest number registered in any previous year since the school was organized in 1909 was in 1915, when there were 150 students. Last year there were about 100. A score of the students have registered in the faculty of education, the remainder in arts.

OSHAWA REAL ESTATE.

Announcement has been made of the largest real estate transfer ever recorded in Oshawa, General Motors of Canada acquiring all the land between Mary and Simcoe Streets from Hill croft Street north to the northern limits of the town, a tract of over fifty acres. This tract is to be laid out in an attractive subdivision, and will be used to supply home sites for those in the employ of General Motors Corporation. It is an ideal location. Work will be commenced immediately.

LESS CHEESE THIS YEAR.

W. C. Publow, in addressing the Frontenac Cheese Board at Kingston yesterday afternoon, said that the make of cheese this year was less than that for the corresponding period a year ago, but he believed that the fall make would be better than that of last year, because the farmers were doing all they could to keep up the milk flow, anticipating a poor grain crop, and because of the high price of cheese now. He believed that the present high prices of cheese would continue for the rest of the season.

TENDERS TOO HIGH

The Board of Works of Kingston, at a special meeting yesterday decided not to accept any of the tenders for asphalt pavement for concrete roads. Three tenders were received and the figures were from $4 to $4.05 a square yard. As the city engineering department is doing the same paving at the present time for $2.10 a square yard, the Board decided that it would pay to put on two shifts of workers, and do all the paving itself.

IN MEMORY OF THE 139th.

Lieut.-Col. W. H. Floyd, officer commanding the 139th Northumberland Battalion, has ordered a brass memorial tablet containing the names of the one hundred and twenty-six men from that battalion who gave their lives for their country. The tablet is to be presented to the town of Cobourg and will be hung in an appropriate place in the Town Hall. Its presentation being attended with appropriate ceremonies. The Cobourg Collegiate Board is also preparing to erect a tablet to the twenty ex-students of the school who made the supreme sacrifice.

TO START BRIDGE AT ONCE.

Mayor G. H. Duncan of Peterboro' has denied a rumor to the effect that he would not sign the agreement between the city and the Russell Township Company, of Toronto, which provides for the construction of a bridge on Hunter Street across the Otonabee River, the cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. "I have protected myself by voting against the bylaw, but it is my duty to carry out the wishes of the majority of the council, and I will sign the agreement as soon as it is ready," said the Mayor. Work on the new bridge will be started at once, but the main arch across the river will not be constructed until next Summer owing to the lateness of the season and the engineering difficulties involved.

PEACE CELEBRATION HOLIDAY

A deputation of the Retail Merchants Association last evening waited upon the members of the City Council, who were in attendance at a meeting of the Civic Committees and requested that Wednesday 23rd inst be proclaimed as a holiday for the peace celebration. Members of the Council decided that as Saturday 19th inst. had been proclaimed as a public holiday throughout the British Empire, it should be observed here, and decided to proclaim it a holiday and strongly observe same.

Nor Anywhere Else.

London Advertiser.

The Montreal Herald declares that strawberries in Montreal that sell wholesale for twenty-seven cents a box are retailing at forty cents. Montreal dailers are apparently not operating "for the glory of God" either.

LAWN SOCIAL

The weather man has had very favorable yesterday afternoon when he sent a heavy shower of rain a short time before the time set for the Cafeteria tea to be served on the spacious lawns at St. Michael's church. The attendance was not as large as was expected, but those who were present thoroughly enjoyed the dainty viands provided by the ladies of St. Michael's. During the evening Sprague's orchestra furnished a good program of music, which was much appreciated.

PEACE HAT, NEW HEADGEAR.

London, July 11.—The "Peace Hat," is a new kind of headgear about to be offered to London men. Mystery veils its shape and material and hatters thus far have managed to keep the secret strictly guarded, but they have hinted enough about a revolution in men's head covering to stir up a lot of curiosity.

"Men are tired of the old time-honored bowlers (derbies), topper, straws and Homburgs," said one haberdasher, "and they want something new. The need is urgent for a new hat—the 'Peace Hat'."

A London milliner said she favored an innovation.

"It's quite time," said she. "Men's hats at present are undoubtedly the dullest things in life."

TENNIS SPOILS BEAUTY

London, June 16.—Tennis tournaments rob a pretty girl of her good looks, in the opinion of close observers of the game here.

"I have known pretty girls who after a season or two of tournaments have become so completely changed in appearance and manners that old friends have failed to recognize them," said a well-known player. "Their faces become hard and lined, their youthful bloom entirely disappears, and they lose much of their feminine charm. I have told my own daughter that she can play in no more than two tournaments a season. That means she cannot hope to become first-class, but I would prefer her to remain an attractive woman."

Fight Seems Like Dream Says Jess Willard in Final Statement To The Public

CLAIMS HE TOOK THE WORST BEATING ANY MAN EVER GOT

(By Jess Willard)

My head was too fuddled to express any definite views on my fight with Dempsey immediately afterwards on July 4, so I feel I owe it to the newspapers to add a little something now.

On looking back on the fight, it seems like a dream to me, but a very bad dream—that is, until I feel the side of my head and sore eye and cut lip. Then I know it was a reality. But actually I remember very few of the events from the time I stepped to the centre in response to the first gong until I was out of the ring and wandering in the field just outside the wooden structure, but within the wire fence of the arena enclosure. I was following a little boy, .

"Are you sure you know where you are going?" I asked him. "If you are it's all right."

Then my trainers came and took hold of me and began treating my battered features. From that time until this, what occurred during the actual combat has been hazy to me. After the first few seconds of the first round my head was never clear.

When I entered the ring I never felt in better shape or more confident. I was sure I was as good as when I fought Johnson, and I felt I could beat this man without trouble. I have seen since the fight that some of the newspapers written, in criticising my training methods, said I made a last-minute effort to put myself in shape by doing road work at night. This is not true. No man with common sense could certainly convince himself it was not true. Did any writer believe for an instant that I would take a chance on running in the dark with the attached risk of turning my ankle or perhaps breaking my leg? That would have been foolish, with so much daylight to use.

Saw Dempsey For First Time

I saw Dempsey for the first time stripped to fight science. I stepped into the ring. He looked to be in good condition, but his appearance did not shake my confidence. He did not look as big as either Johnson or Frank Moran, and neither of these men had been able to hurt me seriously. Dempsey also seemed to be nervous. I set down my impressions so that the reader will grasp the contrast which followed.

The bell was struck, and the first time it rang I turned, but Dempsey had not heard, and still stood in his corner under his manager with his back to the ring. I suppose that some of the cunning boxers of the old-en days would have rushed across and caught Dempsey unprepared to be aware that the bell had rung. But instead I looked at the time keeper who nodded his head feebly again. Dempsey still continued to talk, so once more the gong rang, and this time he turned and stepped out into the ring. I led with my left, feinted with white race. Now I wish Dempsey all the success he deserves, and I know he will make a worthy champion.

Masonic Grand Lodge Meets Next Week

A number of Belleville Masons are preparing to attend the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. which will be held in Toronto on Wednesday and Thursday, July 16 and 17. The meetings will be held in the Temple, Yonge street and Davenport Road.

This promises to be a very important session and as this is known as section year, a great number of delegates are expected to be present. Section year always proves interesting and this is no exception to the rule. Many candidates are mentioned for the various offices ad an exciting time is looked for. The position of Grand Master will undoubtedly go to R.W. Bro. F. W. Harcourt, the present Deputy Grand Master. For the position of Grand Senior Warden the names of at least four prominent Toronto men are mentioned.

There are many important notices of motion to come before Grand Lodge some of these being:

"To change the mode of election of officers so that the candidate receiving the highest number of votes when the ballot is counted shall be declared the face harder than I had ever been in my life before. I could feel my opponent's blows and could not stop them. I went down and took a count. I was on the floor. I had been hurt—knocked down in the first round. It was the first time I had ever been knocked down by any man and I couldn't think clearly but it didn't seem possible that this thing could have happened to me—something I never expected would happen because this was to be my last fight.

Now I hear the referee counting over me. I begin to pay attention to his count. I know I must get up. I am the champion of the world on the floor before all these people. At seven I climbed to my feet only to find those flats tearing into me once more. I try to cover up again. I am down again.

The rest is all a haze to me. Spectators can tell better what happened than I can. They saw. I couldn't. Every time I got up, I was down or hanging on the ropes.

Most Surprised of All

I guess I was the most surprised man in the whole vast crowd. Perhaps I had been too confident. While waiting for the fight to start, I had said to the men in the corner:

"Come on. Let's get this thing over."

That was my attitude. Dempsey got it over. After the third round, I weaved my way back to my corner. I did not think I could stand up for another round. Monaghan whispered to me and asked me whether I could take any more. I told him to throw in the towel. Many critics since I have seen myself criticised since for not going up for the fourth. I don't lay any claim to unusual gameness, but I ask any critics to name any fighter who ever took a worse beating than I did in the ring and stood up through three rounds of it. If I thought I could have stood up in the centre of the ring, I would have gone out for the fourth, but my nerves were dead. My legs would not work.

I have fought my last fight. Had I won, I was going to retire and go into the motion picture business. Now I am going to retire and go into the farming business in Kansas.

Dempsey should make a great champion. He is a fighter of instinct and likes the game. I never liked it. With me it was merely business. Dempsey now has everything in his favor, and the ability to punch harder than any man that ever lived, I believe. He can keep all those years away from temptations which down a fighter. His climb has been fast. He can hold the pinnacle by sticking to the road he has followed so far.

In retiring, I make no claims that I could have won by training differently. I don't know how far I had gone back. I did the best I could for the ring and the game. I brought the money back with me, and the white race. Now I wish Dempsey all the success he deserves, and I know he will make a worthy champion.

No Election For While Yet

OTTAWA, July 11.—There will be no Dominion general elections for three years, according to a pronouncement of Sir Thomas White, M.P., who is in close touch with the Government. He declared that the rumors circulated from time to time of a probable appeal to the people after the next session was merely talk.

"There has never been the slightest suggestion on the part of the Government of an appeal to the people. They have a mandate of the people for a full parliamentary term of five years. There is every indication that this great majority of the people are satisfied with their course consequently there is no reason for an election. As for the Opposition the last thing they want is an election.

"The Union Government is in a strong position—stronger than at any time since its inception. The waves ing ones have been weeded out and the Government can count on a majority in the House."

He expressed the belief that the new would stand solidly by the new Union party.

"There has been" he said, "talk of Mr. Carvell returning to the Liberal party, but I have it on the best authority that he has decided to cast in his lot permanently with the Unionist party.

WHEAT EXPLOIT LIGHT

Shipments From Quebec Since Navigation Opened

QUEBEC, July 11.—Exports of oats, flour, peas, rye, barley, grain and flour from the port of Quebec since the opening of navigation to date have been slight.

Since navigation opened, twelve steamers loaded 2,242,705 bushels of wheat for overseas and the shipments of flour consisted of 2,000 tons. The only steamer loading here at present is the Rayford, which is taking on about 225,000 bushels of wheat at the Quebec Harbor Commissioner's grain elevators. When this vessel is loaded which will likely be tomorrow, there will remain in the Quebec elevators only about one-half million bushels of wheat, though their loading capacity is 60,000 bushels per hour.

A record sale was made on Tuesday in loading the steamer Bayford, when 195,000 bushels of wheat were put into her holds in nine hours from but two bells.

TO REFUSE REQUEST

Pennsylvania Cannot Extradite Thaw to New York

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 12.—Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania, will very probably refuse the request of Governor Smith, of New York, and District Attorney Swann, of New York city for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw to New York state. Thaw is wanted there for assault of the second degree upon Frederick Gump, a Kansas City boy, on December 30, 1916, and today representatives of Swann's office and counsel for Mrs. Mary C. Thaw appeared before Attorney-General Francis Brown here, at a public hearing on the requisition request.

This application was a duplicate of the one refused two years ago by former Governor Brumbaugh. The opinion then written by Attorney-General Francis Brown who upheld by Attorney-General Shaffer, who has not making any formal disposition of the case, said in plain language that the state of Pennsylvania declined at the request of New York because of the Philadelphia court order declaring Thaw a lunatic. He said he would be glad to receive any brief which District Attorney Swann's office, but it is not likely that any will be filed, and wtiala a few days he will advise Governor Sproul that he has no power to grant the requisition:

Action Threatened Against Soviet Govt.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

BASLE, Switzerland, July 12.—Representatives of allies in Vienna have decided that action must be taken against the proceeding of the Bela Kun Scommunist Government in Hungary according to a despatch from the Austria capital. A special Courier has been sent to Paris to obtain necessary powers from the Allied Supreme Council, the newspaper declares.

Paris Doctor Would Brand All Prisoners

PARIS, July 12.—A plan for branding or marking criminals in an inconspicuous manner has been proposed by a French doctor. It had a decided advantage over the methods of similar purpose in that it does not tend to degrade unnecessarily, the malefactor who has reformed, it is not disfiguring and can be made to escape detection detective without removing the persons clothing.

It is well know that an injection of Paraffin under the skin will cause a permanent exerescence. The inventor of the system, Doctor Icard, therefore proposes to inject under the skin of criminals with one of these artificial lumps on the right shoulder blade. Even if it is seen by an ordinary observer it will be thought a natural growth but it will immediately tell the authorities, in the event of a man's arrest, whether he is an old offender or not. Moreover its presence can be determined in an instant by passing a hand over the designated part of the body. In connection with the method of identification, the placing of the lump in the upper part of the shoulder blade, instead of very dangerous criminal; in the middle, moderately dangerous, at the lower end, less dangerous.

While this paraffin-making system has been in use in the countries above they seem hardly sufficient to recommend it for general adoption in addition to the practical difficulty in vogue for identifying habitual offenders.

LIBERAL PREPARATIONS

OTTAWA, July 11.—Over eighteen hundred delegates are expected to attend the National Liberal Convention to be held here in August. How. Ick Hall, where the convention is to be held, is being equipped with special facilities for the delegates. There will be a restaurant on the grounds and sleeping accommodation for as many as 600 single men can be provided if necessary. There will also be a special building for the accommodation of women delegates.

Besides each riding there will be six delegates, three straight delegates and three alternatives, all of whom are entitled to attend the convention. In addition to the above there will be several members of the Senate and Commons and defeated Liberal candidates in the last election will attend. There will also be the usual provincial delegations. These are elected on a different basis by the Liberal members of the Provincial Legislature, acting in conjunction with the defeated Liberal candidates in the last provincial elections.

Two Dead And Score Injured

BRADFORD, Pa., July 12.—Two persons are known to be dead and more than a score seriously injured as a result of a tornado which swept over this section last Thursday. Five dwellings were demolished and many others wrecked. One of the dead has been identified as Mrs. Mary Biddle, an aged woman. The warehouse of the Bradford Supply company was blown to bits. Elsewhere, wreckage beyond repair and the loss to the building and its contents will be large.

Following the storm huge black clouds rolled up from the south-west In a funnel shape the gale struck and within a few minutes had left a path of ruin the like of which had never before been seen in this section of the country.

At Clarion street Joe Doudock lost his home, but his wife and three children were able to escape. Sylvester Hart, on the same street has nothing left of his comfortable home. His wife and children are at the Bradford Hospital It is expected that one of the children will die.

Leaving Clarion street, the tornado swept across Bradford Creek and struck the residence section and High streets. A number were laid flat and ruined beyond repair.

Sawyer City, a small place four miles from here was hit by the storm. Of its 15 houses only two were standing intact yesterday morning. Wooden sidewalks and trees in the town were also in the track of the wind. Trees were blown down and about 50 monuments in a cemetery there were overturned.

It is estimated that fully 750 houses in Brandford were either destroyed or damaged in the storm. The Red Cross has taken over charge of the relief work. Those who were made homeless are being housed in local hotels.

Throws Down The Gauntlet

LONDON, July 12.—A striking letter showing the rising temper of those opposed to the attitude of the triple alliance of Labor, was made by Lord Arthur H. Lee, of Fareham, at the press dinner Tuesday evening, the Labor Minister being present. Lord Lee, formerly of the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., submitting the toast to "Trade and Commerce," said he hoped the Labor Minister would be able to persuade the labor of the country that the extremists has misread the lessons of the war. The lesson, he said, was not to be threatening the community and employers, but to recognize that unless Labor joined hands and made a unionized effort towards increased output, it would be the capitalists who would suffer most. Britain's allies and enemies would go ahead and capture the trade of the world, upon which the very existence of the working classes depends. He proceeded:

"But if we have to have this thing out before we can settle conditions of trade, then let us have it fought out as soon as possible. It is far better that we should face it. If Labor is determined to have a fight in the same spirit of German militarism of five years ago, let us have it now. I say the trade of the country is ready, ough to organize itself and deal with the peril. Anyhow, it is no good feeding the tigers with buns."

British Forces On The Rhine

LONDON, July 12.—Reuter learns in regard to British forces overseas, that the forces on the Rhine number 260,000 and the army in France and Flanders, 21,000, the latter mainly for salvage work and also to supply the line of communication for the Rhine army of which it is to act as reserve in the event of further hostilities.

There are 11,000 British troops in Italy, including troops for clearing up purposes, and also a battalion forming part of the international garrison at Fiume.

There are in India 44,000 British troops, besides Indian troops, including 22,000 in the reserve, with the object of keeping order pending the establishment of peace conditions. The recent troubles in Egypt and the unrest element in Asia Minor necessitate the presence of 96,000 men [illegible] 10,000 Anzacs in Egypt and Palestine.

Woman's Screams Useful For Once

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 12.—The screams of a woman clerk saved most of the money in the Merchants' Bank of the Old Commercial Trust Company Grant street branch Thursday when four bandits attempted a robbery.

The clerk, Mrs. Chas Dreher, began to scream when the men entered the bank shortly after 1 o'clock and the rest of the clerks to line up against the wall. One of the men struck her with the butt of a revolver, but she continued to scream hysterically.

The noise and the delay threw the holdup men into a panic and they fled with less than $1,000 which had been bring on a table outside the cashier's cage.

Seventy-Five Millions For Ford Company

NEW YORK, July 12.—A syndicate has been formed here, it was announced yesterday to undertake the financing of a $75, 000,000 one-year credit for the Ford Motor Company, of Detroit. The funds will be used to retire 90-day promissory notes. It is understood the financing is for the purchase of minority stock.

Must Be Prepared Says General Haig

ABERDEEN, Scotland, July 11.—Field Marshal Haig, urging the necessity of a University Military Training Corps, declared here to-day:

"Those people are wrong who think we will never have to fight again. We must be prepared.

One on Teacher.

Teacher—There is not anything that has three feet. Everything has either two or four feet.

Tommy—I know two things that's got three feet.

Teacher—What are they, Tommy?

Tommy—A yard and a three-legged stool.

Municipal Markets Are Advocated

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

DENVER, July 12.—With a declaration that the high cost of living, high cost of dying, high cost of justice and outrageously high cost of everything is a Paramount issue in the World today, the convention of Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engiemen in late yesterday adopted a resolution urging immediate establishment of the municipal markets as cold storage houses to deal in necessities and thereby to eliminate the profits of middlemen the resolution attacked big packers for alleged control of food products.

Will Continue Shipbuilding

MONTREAL, July 12.—The announcement of the letting of the shipplate contract indicates that Canada is to continue her shipbuilding program. The order will likely cause the settlement of the troubles of several thousand mill workers in plants in Montreal who were either thrown out of work or struck because new wage demands could not be met by shipbuilding companies until the contract was let.

The new price will be $3.65 per hundred pounds.

The original contract was let in 1918 but was not proceeded with when the armistice was signed. The Dominion Government asked for a lower price and negotiations have been going on for several weeks between Mr. Ballantyne and the representatives of the company.

No Strike At Hotel

TORONTO, July 12. — Manager Clark of the Prince George Hotel gives emphatic denial to the report that any of the hotel employees have made demands or gone on strike.

Bad Accident Near Oakville

TORONTO, July 12.—Two Toronto lads are in St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, seriously injured, and another is under arrest at Oakville as the result of a motor accident on the Clarkson turn, about three miles west of Oakville, last night. The injured are Leo Mulhall and John Verrall, and the man under arrest is Charles Gallagher, 26 years old, who is charged with the Port Credit today on a nominal charge of a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, having been intoxicated, claim the Oakville police, when he was arrested, while a bottle of whiskey was found on the front seat of the car. Verrall is so badly injured that he is not expected to recover.

The overturned car with its three occupants was discovered by residents in the neighborhood and a military motor ambulance, which was passing, conveyed the injured men to the Hamilton hospital. According to the Oakville police, the car was approaching the turn at a high rate of speed when it swerved and left the road, crashing into a tree and turning turtle. A ditch close by broke the fall of the men or they would have been instantly killed.

Verrall had his skull fractured, while Mulhall had a couple of ribs broken. Gallagher escaped with a shaking up.

HOLDING STOLEN MONEY

After the fall of Emperor Nicholas, conservative Russian revolutionaries, who held brief power, transferred large sums of money to Sweden, in expectation of this time when, they could have to pack up their traps and flee. It is said that one Swedish bank alone holds fifty million dollars of Russian gold in its vaults and that property refuses to yield it to the original depositors, who most certainly stole it.

MUST SAVE FOUND SOME

FAIRMONT, W. Va., July 12.—While on her way home from Lumberport where she had been visiting relatives, Virginia Ash, 19-year-old daughter of the Rev. E. B. Ash, was stopped by a prohibition officer, who insisted on searching her suitcase. Finding nothing but articles of clothing, the officer apologized to the little girl, saying: "I was looking for whiskey." "Judging from the smell of your breath," said the little girl "you must have found it somewhere."

"REDS" BUSY IN MONTREAL

Montreal, July 12.—Bolshevik agents are at work in the city and through the country and the Industrial Workers of the World are carrying on a campaign to gain support among the returned soldiers. Happy Boys Camp In The Oak Hills

Joyous Bunch of Boisterous Boys Having a Whale of a Time, Swimming, Boating, Fishing and Learning the Secrets of the Forest.

Sixteen boys are having the time of their lives up in the beautiful Oak Hills these days living very close to Nature and enjoying every minute of their glorious vacation in the open air with swimming, boating, hiking, fishing, nature study and getting every bit of pleasure, healthful exercise and benefit physically, mentally and spiritually from the Great Out-Doors, with its wealth of treasures for those who know the Open Sesame which opens the portals of the treasury of Nature. The camp is under the auspices of the Belleville Y. M. C. A. and is for boys between twelve and sixteen years of age, and one of a series of vacation camps which will be held this summer. Messrs. Angus Buchanan and Albert Dunlop, of the Y. M. C. A. staff, are in charge of the party, and the boys are assured of a rip-roaring good time full of joy and benefit. That the camp will be a huge success goes without saying and visitors who basked in the radiant smiles of the boys and gazed at the healthy coats of tan covering their bodies are convinced that they will come back more than one hundred per cent efficient in every way.

A DAY AT OAK HILLS CAMP

As an illustration of the excellent routine of a Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp the day at Oak Hills is spent as follows:

6.30 a. m.—Everybody up, run and jump in the lake, start the day clean and spotless, morning devotions, followed by breakfast; then general clean up with the camp divided into three sections, each section taking their turn preparing the meals for the day; after the camp is thoroughly cleaned up, and inspected various athletic sports are indulged in until 11.30 o'clock, followed by one hour in the lake.

Dinner, then all hands gather under the trees and sit around and rest for half an hour, while Mr. Buchanan reads a story to them.

Bible Study, 2 to 4.

Sports until 5.30.

Dip in the lake.

Supper at 5.30.

Baseball between teams captained by the two instructors. Very close games have resulted thus far and the rivalry is very keen.

AROUND THE CAMP FIRE

Camp fire closes the day in a happy manner with songs and stories. First there is the camp sing, which is sung with a force and vim which sends the volume of boyish voices rollicking among the hills and brings smiles to the faces of many a camper or farm resident for miles around. Then there are the song sheets with the rousing choruses which every boy knows by heart now and sings with a will. The Camp Fire program closes with evening devotions after which everybody hikes to bed tired but happy and sleep enfolds them almost as soon as heads touch the pillows.

An incident of camp life enjoyed by the boys very much was a visit from Miss Thite, teacher of expression in Albert College, who is camping near by. Miss Thite came into the secret circle of the Camp Fire the other evening and in a few minutes had the attention of the boys and their wholehearted interest in a delightful little impromptu program of charming stories and imitations, as one of the amused boys said "that there woman was a dandy" and that expressed the opinion of the entire camp.

A LETTER FROM HOME

When the mail comes in is a very interesting time and how the boys do look for a letter from home and enjoy one if it comes, while those overlooked try to look cheerful while their more lucky pals are capering around with the home tidings in their hands. The Little Mothers at home should take notice and send that boy a few lines at least.

This is just an outline of what one day at the Y. M. C. A. Camp at Oak Hills really is like and gives a faint idea of the recreation and education which can be combined in a pleasure outing. The boys are writing little stories of their daily experiences which will prove interesting reading later on.

The Government will now use strong measures to suppress the Sinn Fein movement in Ireland.

Maxwell: advanced by fine engineering

FIVE decided improvements have been made in the Maxwell. One makes it look better. Another makes the electrical unit far more efficient. A third makes the engine run sweeter, steadier, and gives it advanced economy. A fourth adds a comfort in seating. A fifth produces increased durability in the top.

You get a Maxwell now with the famous Hot Spot and Ram's-horn and you find a rare delight in more power and more mileage at the old-time cost.

But it isn't a new model Maxwell. For this car is merely the chassis of five years ago with all the advances made in fine engineering.

This is the original chassis Model of which 300,000 have been built to date—300,000 all alike basically, but each one better than the previous one.

Thus you get a sound, safe, extremely reliable car, refined to a degree, and at the same time you get the new improvements. The price is $1395 f.o.b. Windsor.

INCOME TAXES.

Tariff reductions will result in an estimated loss of revenue to the Government of seventeen millions. And so the income tax rate is added to until it will produce an extra seventeen millions. Of course most of that extra income tax will be paid by the same people who have been paying the seventeen millions customs duties, because taxes are things that business firms as a rule are compelled to "pass on" in the shape of overhead charges. But one beauty of an income tax as against a customs tax is that it all goes into the Government exchequer and does not have to be divided with other beneficiaries. We know beforehand just what tax we have to pay and how much.

An income tax to be fair, must be collected impartially. The Dominion Government is the only authority that has complete facilities for checking the accuracy of a man's report on his income. Provincial and municipal income taxes have been unfair because they collected the full revenue from salaried men reported on officially by employers, but sometimes permitted others, who "forgot some things" in their returns, to escape some portion of what they were entitled to pay.—Ottawa Journal.

LABOR ENDORSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The latest endorsement of the League of Nations comes from the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, recently in session at Atlantic City. It hails "the triumph of freedom and justice as exemplified in the covenant of the League of Nations." This organization represents millions of Americans and Canadians, yet we find Senator Johnson of California declaring that the League would represent a gigantic war trust." He says we should have a league of peoples. This far-fetched difference between six and a half a dozen shows to what petty lengths opposition to the Administration is prepared to go. President San Fuentes, who is not concerned about the result of a presidential election in the United States next year, declares that Chile will adhere to the League of Nations "because it embodies the principles of universal peace."

The league has been attacked because it is too weak and also because it is too strong. Besides the Great Powers forming the basis of the league, thirteen neutral countries are asked by name to join. Any other "fully self-governed state, dominion or colony may join, if it accepts the terms of the league and receives three-fourth of the votes of the league's assembly.

THE DOMINION CABINET.

If Sir Thomas White persists in his determination to retire from public life he loss to Canada will be great. It has been known for many months past that the Finance Minister has remained in office only from a sense of duty, and at considerable personal sacrifice. Indeed, but for the heavy financial responsibilities imposed by the war, the burden of which he deemed it necessary to carry as an act of patriotism, it is no secret that Sir Thomas would long since have returned to private life and resumed some such occupation as that in which he was for many years engaged. Whether or not he is persuaded to remain in office, there will be no dissent from the tribute that Sir Thomas White has been one of the ablest, in many respects the ablest, finance ministers Canada has had. Down to the war period the Finance Minister was long concerned more with the fiscal than with financial matters, the tariff being the chief employment of his office, and it was in this connection that the abilities of Sir Leonard Tilley, Sir George Foster and Sir Thomas Fielding were more conspicuously displayed. In an earlier period Sir Francis Hincks, Sir John Rose, Sir A. T. Galt dealt with financial rather than fiscal subjects, but the financial problems of their day were petty compared with those which confronted Sir Thomas White, and which he has handled with rare talent. Indeed, it may truly be said to be fortunate that Canada has had during the last five years a Finance Minister trained in banking, familiar with economic questions, intimately acquainted with the subject of money and exchange. Entering Parliament eight years ago without previous experience or special training, and taking up the work of the most important and most exacting department in the Government, he at once manifested unusual aptitude for public place, quickly developing the exceptional talents with which he is endowed. He possesses in high degree that not common gift—political sense, the faculty of seeing things in the large, and of grasping both sides of a question. Sir Thomas rapidly became a ready debater. He is an excellent speaker, lucid, logical and convincing, of charming personality, courteous and considerate alike with political opponents as with political supporters. The retirement of such a man from public life at a time when public affairs require the best talent in the country will cause great regret and the hope will be generally entertained that Sir Thomas may be prevailed upon to reconsider his decision.

A reconstruction of the Cabinet is shortly to be made. One vacancy already exists, and others are about to occur. The lines reorganization should follow are clear enough. A definite policy for the future ought to be announced by the Premier with as little delay as possible and he should surround himself with the ablest men available, whether or not they are presently in public life. Sir Thomas White affords the latest, though not the only, example, that previous parliamentary experience is not indispensable to ministerial success. The conclusion of the war and of demobilization has in a measure dissolved the party affiliations of the last two years, and a new alignment is in the making. Old party lines will not be fully restored, and third parties have been organized on definite, though somewhat narrow platforms. We have the policy of the United Farmers defined; the Labor element may enter the field as an entity; the Liberal party will shortly announce its principles and perfect its organization. In these circumstances, it seems appropriate, expedient, needful, that Sir Robert Borden, having reconstructed his ministry, should declare the policy to which it will adhere and upon which in due course it will appeal to the electorate. It is a good sign that parties are becoming active, and that public questions are to receive popular discussion. These questions have not for many years been more important in relation to the material prosperity of the people, and upon their wise solution the representation of Canada's prosperity in large measure depends. —Montreal Gazette.

Weak Mothers Regain Health

Through the New Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

No mother should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her. If she does worry will mar her beauty, ruin home and ruin her health. Worry and nervousness are the forerunners of nervous prostration. Nervous women are miserable women. They are irritable, fretful, peevish, and unfit for the duties of life. Their nerves are all on edge, and they are a source of misery to themselves and all around them. Such women should not neglect their condition. Delay or trouble means suffering for the mother and often a life of misery for the children. Further information may be obtained at The Intelligencer Office.

Mrs. Harry P. Balder, Wilton, Ont., who says:—"Five years ago my twin babies were born, and I was left very weak and very miserable, hardly fit to do anything. The doctor gave me medicine, but it did not help me. Then I tried another doctor, but with no better results. One day I went home to my mother, telling her how miserable I felt, and that the doctor's medicine had not done me any good. Mother asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was glad to try anything that might help me, I got three boxes when I went back home. By the time these were used there was no doubt they were helping me, and I got three more boxes. But I did not need them all, for by the time the fifth box was used I was entirely cured, and never felt better in my life. Now when I hear people talk about feeling weak or miserable I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and tell what they did for me, and in similar cases I shall continue to recommend them."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OTHER VIEWS

Distrustful of Germany.

Burlington, Vt., Free Press.

Premier Clemenceau of France says: "We have waited forty-nine years for this moment," speaking of the announcement that Germany would sign the peace treaty. On the other hand the British press is profoundly distrustful of Germany, as it has a right to be in the light of the sinking of the German fleet interned in British waters. It is held that we cannot afford to regard the Germans otherwise than as treacherous until the last penalty is paid, and most of us will agree that this is a fair diagnosis of the German situation.

Liberalism and Conservatism.

New York Review

This paper might have been called either The Liberal or The Conservative without offense to the character which its editors hope to impress upon it. Between true liberalism and true conservatism there exists not only no incompatibility, but on the contrary a vital bond of connection. There is a loose-jointed liberalism which spurns the dear-bought fruits of the past, as there is an ossified conservatism which is incapable of seeing the inspiring possibilities of the future. But the true liberal views the future in the light of a gentle appreciation of the past, and the true conservative prizes the past without being blind to the demands of the present and the future.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY SWOLLEN VEINS RELIEVED

That Absorbine, Jr., would relieve varicose veins was discovered by an old gentleman who had suffered with swollen veins for nearly fifty years. He had made unsuccessful efforts to get relief and finally tried Absorbine, Jr., knowing its value in reducing swellings, aches, pains and soreness. Absorbine, Jr., relieved him and after he had applied it regularly for a few weeks he told us that his legs were as smooth as when he was a boy and all the pain and soreness had ceased.

Thousands have since used this antiseptic liniment for this purpose with remarkably good results.

Absorbine, Jr., is made of oils and extracts from pure herbs and when rubbed upon the skin is quickly taken up by the pores; the blood circulation in surrounding parts is thereby stimulated and healing helped. $1.25 a bottle at druggist or postpaid. A liberal Trial Bottle will be mailed your address for 10c in stamps. Booklet free. W. F. Young, Inc., 467 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

A Wide Gulf.

Hamilton Times.

There is a wide gulf fixed between members of the international trade unions and the One Big Union. The trade unionists are mostly all connected with highly organized and highly trained trades which have important agreements with their employers and enjoy many advantages through their organizations. The One Big Union recognizes no difference between the expert workman and the untrained one. It wants to bring all labor down to the same level. It regards as binding no trade agreement between employer and employee. They are only made to be broken, hence the sympathetic strike.

Lord Finch's Attack.

New Statesman, London.

But the public's importance of the controversy—it controversy so one-sided an affair can be called—between Mr. Asquith and Lord French has nothing whatever to do with the condition in which Lord French's reputation emerges from it. And as for the reputations of other people, no cool-headed man, we suppose, has ever doubted what would be the verdict of history, even quite proximate history, upon the part played in the great war and its preliminaries by such men as Mr. Asquith, Lord Grey, Lord Kitchener and Lord Haldane. The rejection against the campaign of crude calumny which overwhelmed them was always bound to come as soon as public feeling was freed from that mood of tense anxiety and ready suspicion which seems to be so inseparably associated with the "war spirit." But it is important, of course, that the reaction—as a symptom of returning health—should come soon, and Mr. Asquith's frank and determined defence of his own record after three years of silence has probably done more to promote it than other event since the armistice. It seems reasonable now to hope for an early convalescence. Mr. Asquith-French controversy however stands for much more than this. Its real significance lies in the fact that it is symbolical of a far greater struggle, the struggle between the type of man whose predominance in politics poisons public life and the type whose presence promises there enables ordinary men to believe that politics may be an honorable occupation. In that struggle the future of democracy is at stake. For unless democracy can be kept clean it will never fulfil the hopes of democrats.

A Laugh or Two

A Give-Away.

A stylishly dressed woman entered the restaurant. The waiter handed her a bill-of-fare written in French and said: "Please mark off the dishes you wish to order." Could a woman, dressed in the height of fashion, confess that she was unable to read French? Taking the pencil she made a few dashes, and the order read: Dinner, 2s." "March 20." "Vegetables." "Please pay at the desk." "No Tips." The waiter brought her a beefsteak and chip potatoes, but she did not dare to raise a word in protest.

Jackson—"It's awfully embarrassing when your wife asks you what day it is and you can't for the life of you remember."

Johnson: "I don't find it so. I simply say: "Of course, I remember, my dear; and then I go out and buy her a present."

He—You are so frightfully tanned. She (just back from abroad)—I know it, but I match my shoes perfectly now."

Comparing Values.

Mr. Knagge—I believe you think more of that Pekinese pup than you do of me.

His Wife—Why not? Chin-Chin is worth $300 any day and husbands don't cost anything but a little effort.

Red Hot July Days Hard on the Baby

July—the month or oppressive heat; red hot days and sweltering nights, is extremely hard on little folks. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the sick child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does not come suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Poet's Corner

SMILES AND FROWNS.

If I knew the box there smiles are kept,
No matter how large the key,
Or strong the bolt, I would try so hard
To get there.

'Twould open, I know, for me.
Then over the land and sea broadcast
I'd scatter the smiles to play,
That the children's faces might hold them fast
For many and many a day.

If I knew the box that was large enough
To hold all the frowns I meet,
I would like to gather them every one,
From nursery, school and street.
Then, folding and holding, I'd pack them in,
And turning the monster key,
I'd hire a giant to drop the box,
In the depths of the deep, deep sea.

A PRAYER.

Dear Lord, kind Lord,
Gracious Lord, I pray,
Thou will look on all I love
Tenderly today;
Weed from hearts all weariness,
Scatter every care,
Down the wake of angel wings,
Winnowed fair and sair.

Bring unto the sorrowing
All release from pain,
Let the lips of laughter
Overflow again;
And with all the needy,
Oh, little child, I pray,
Thou visit treasure of content
That is mine today.

The Central Point in Life Insurance

OF late years many new and attractive features have been introduced into life insurance policies but the Central Point is Protection. The Company takes the responsibility of caring for your family in the event of your death —that is the "point."

The Mutual Life of Canada has for a long time been issuing monthly income policies in which the claim is paid by monthly cheques throughout the life of the beneficiary, but the essential thing is protection, whether paid in a lump sum or in instalments.

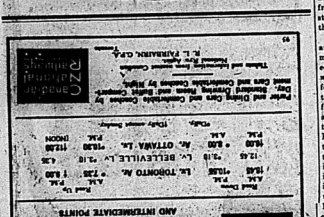

The Mutual also has introduced the disability feature under which the payment of premiums will be waived under certain conditions. But the great question is, are you insured and are you insured sufficiently.

The reason why the Mutual Life was organized was "to give the largest amount of real life insurance protection for the least possible outlay"—for this has been accomplished from the beginning, as the Central Point.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OF CANADA

EMPLOYERS

THE

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

OF CANADA

The PROFESSIONAL and BUSINESS SECTION has been established to assist professional, business and technical men and women.

Many officers, soldiers, sailors and war workers, who sacrificed their positions during the war, now desire to secure employment in the occupations for which they have been specially trained.

Employers should not wait until increasing business forces them to employ anybody they can obtain, but should look ahead and avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to enlist the services of highly trained workers, ordinarily secured only with difficulty. On application there can be referred to you, for example:

ENGINEERS	LAW CLERKS
ARCHITECTS	COMMERCIAL ARTISTS
BUSINESS EXECUTIVES	SALES MANAGERS
ACCOUNTANTS	TRAVELLING SALESMEN
SECRETARIES	CHEMISTS
TEACHERS	YOUNG COLLEGE GRADUATES

These workers are returning to civil occupations with increased initiative, a broader view of life, and a greater capacity for work.

CHAPTER XXVI—Continued

In less than a quarter of an hour the tide of battle turned. By a subsidiary outflanking movement, four Maxims and two guns were trained on the king's force, and guarded by a strong body of knights and spearmen. The effect of the fire was terrific, and we literally ploughed a path for our column through the enemy's ranks. Before an hour had passed they broke and fled.

Then, one by one, the lights died out upon the hills, and there was darkness.

CHAPTER XXVII

There was much to be thought of before we struck camp that night. Half of our force pursued the flying enemy and driving them out of the Nitr-l valley, established themselves in a strong position on the rising walls of boulders, and emplaced the guns under the direction of Captain Thorlassen. The remainder of us saw to the wounded and buried the dead. Among the latter were twenty-three of our own men and nineteen knights. Both sides had suffered severely in the contest, and as we searched the long dark shore and white road with our torches we found them thickly strewn with bodies. Some of these were even in the water, and one or two lay with their hands gripping at each other's throats.

When our task was ended, we proceeded on our way, emerged from the great rock-enclosed hollow, and rejoined our companions on the further hills. It was like coming into the fresh air from a room of sickness or death to the hills once more, and leave that dark pit of water behind us.

We passed an undistended night, and when the tall pillars of flame once more shot up from the earth and flooded the surrounding country with light we started our final day's march for our capital. Sir Thule de Brie told us that the last barrier of hills lay before us, and that he did not expect any more opposition until we reached the walls of the city itself. As far as I could judge from the distance we had travelled, and the observations I made that night by the stars, we were within a few miles of the Pole itself, and if that was the case, the goal of our original mission was in all probability within the very walls of the capital. How surprised the savants and explorers of Europe would have been to know that the busy feet of men trod daily past the place which was deemed to be either open sea or desolate expanse of snow-covered ice.

We toiled up the range of hills before us, and they were more rugged and precipitous than any I had yet seen in the country. Their lower slopes indeed, were fertile and cultivated, but their summits were great heaps of rock, piled by long gone ages into different spurs and eminences. The road itself was in excellent order, but ran up and down like a switchback, making the advance of an army with all its impediments of guns and waggons, a slow and laborious business. Traces of those who had fled before us were abundant; the drops and splashes of blood upon the stones, the broken lances, the pieces of heavy armour flung recklessly to one side, and here and there the bodies of dead and dying men, told us how terribly we had dealt with our adversaries, and how swift and anxious had been their flight.

After four hours of ascent and descent, along a path which took us high er after every dip and rise, the front of the column began to slowly climb a long slope which stood out against the sky, and then began to disappear from view. A few minutes later I reached the summit myself, and a wonderful sight spread itself out before my eyes.

Three miles away and six hundred feet beneath us lay the great city of Avranches. Not indeed seen, as a fair city should be for the first time in gold set sunlight, or with its walls and towers silvered by the moon, but set so wonderfully illuminated that it seemed like some fair palace from the Arabian Nights.

It was indeed a fitting home for the king of a country that had been plunged in civil war for nearly sixty centuries. It was built in the fork of a broad river, which sprung from a hundred streams in the hills. The valley itself was like a deep basin, six miles in diameter and entirely surrounded with hills. To the east it narrowed and sloped up steeply to the mountains. To the west the river had cut itself a deep and narrow ravine through a great wall of rock and poured through this in a long plain which bordered on the Frozen Sea.

The walls which surrounded the town seemed nearly a hundred feet in height and rose sheer from the waters of the river. Every eighty yards or so they jutted out into escarpments and flanking towers, and even at this distance I could see that they were pierced with countless casements and loopholes. Within lay the houses of the city, divided into concentric circles by line after line of walls and towers, and in the centre of all, on a rocky eminence lay a great castle, long and low built like some animal crouching to spring.

The whole city blazed with tall columns of blue-white flame, and covered with thousands of smaller lights. From the top of the hill we could see with a telescope black specks moving to and fro in the glare, and could catch the glint and flash of steel.

As fortune would have it, the whole column halted a few yards after I had caught my first glimpse of the town (and I was enabled to survey the whole scene with silent admiration. Never was a place so well adapted and fortified to hold an insecure throne. For the days of modern artillery it was too near the commanding hills, but I estimated that it was just out of range of the strongest mangonel. Plentifully stocked with provisions it would be almost impregnable.

Youths Joining Permanent Army

TORONTO, July 11.—Recruiting for the Permanent Military Force of Canada is progressing steadily, though not at a particularly rapid rate, as the reports show that since the local recruiting organization was opened in April, under the command of Lieut.-Col. W. P. Butcher, there have been 457 men signed on for service in Canada. Though a special effort has been made from time to time to get the returned soldiers to put in a little more time in the ranks, the home service does not appear to appeal to them, as the bulk of the recruits are drawn from the youths under 20. These are the young chaps who were not able to go overseas, owing to their ages, but who are now declaring that they would like a little experience in the military game. The services selected by the recruits would indicate that the artillery is the most popular, with the cavalry coming second, as 208 have joined the Royal Canadian Artillery, compared with 120 attested to the Royal Canadian Dragoons. Infantry does not appear to have a particularly strong appeal for the young fellows, doubtless owing to the lack of variety in the work, as the two regiments recruiting in this military district have taken less than the Dragoons. In the infantry the Princess Pats are leading with 66, followed by the Royal Canadian Regiment with 21, while the Lord Strathcona Horse, the Western cavalry unit, has taken 25. The balance of the recruits have been spread among the auxiliary services, such as the Engineers, Army Medical and Veterinary Corps.

Though no particular number of recruits has been allotted to this military area, the figure for Canada is set at 10,000, of whom approximately a quarter would be expected from Ontario, in the ordinary course of events. The local recruiting is in charge of the permanent officers and eight recruiting sergeants.

It is stated that Col. Butcher will shortly retire, upon completing his 35th year, and will be succeeded by Captain Hodgson, R.C.R., of Halfax, as in the C. E. F. The head office is being removed from Exhibition Camp to Givens Street School. Recruits sign on for two years and

ROOFING
Should Know This

The Roof Should Be Artistic

The roof can make or mar the whole appearance of your home. The soft slate shades of Red and Green in a roof of DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingles make as handsome a roof as you can choose.

The Roof Must Protect

DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingles are fire-resisting; will not split, crack, or warp; are unaffected by fumes and gases; they insulate against heat and cold, and they offer full protection against the weather.

The Roof Should Offer True Economy

It costs less, both in first outlay, and reckoning by years of service, to roof with DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingles. The cost of laying is less, freight is less, fire insurance is at the minimum rate, and there is no expense of "upkeep".

DURO 4 in 1 Asphalt Shingles

Size 10 inches x 32½ inches, with a covering capacity of eight wooden shingles. Asphalt-saturated felt base, coated with refined Asphaltum, into which is imbedded crushed slate, Red or Green. WILLIAMS

NEW SCALE PIANO

WHEN the price is no higher, wouldn't you prefer to buy a Canadian-made high-grade piano? There's only one answer, and that is—Yes. The Williams New Scale ranks among the world's best. The late Queen Victoria chose one for Windsor Castle. Famous artists like McIlhe, McCormack, Clara Butt, Kathleen Parlow, Alma Gluck, and hundreds of others, all choose the Williams New Scale for their Canadian tours. Facts like this enable you to form an idea of its quality—a quality that meets the most exacting tests. And the Williams is made in Canada by Canadians, for Canadians.

Give yourself a musical treat—go to any Williams Dealer and hear the Williams New Scale. Illustrated literature sent on request.

To Travelling Salesmen

WHEN showing goods, the traveller's cuffs as well as his goods are brought right before the prospective customer's eyes. A soiled cuff doesn't create a favorable impression. And it draws the attention away from the article to the soiled cuff.

The alert, particular traveller, therefore, has to take a big bunch of shirts on his trips and change often—unless he carries W. G. & R. Shirts with Double Wear Cuffs with him when he needs just half the usual quantity.

Everyone knows that the cuffs—the most exposed portion of a shirt—get soiled first. And it doesn't take long for a dirty train or dusty road to soil them.

But when one side of his Double Wear Cuffs gets soiled the traveller just turns the cuffs, which fold easily and fit perfectly flat either way they're turned. He thus wears his shirt twice as long.

If he is away for a period of two weeks or a month or longer every inch in his grip or personal trunk is valuable. W. G. & R. Shirts with Double Wear Cuffs save space for him. And laundry bills for shirts in half, and wear longer.

News of Interest To Motorists

There's less the engine when stuck in the mud. The slower the speed turns the more traction it has.

'Tis better to have sounded your horn as a mere precaution. Than never to have sounded it at all.

In passing a slower-moving vehicle always pass it on your left, but when passing a street car always keep to the right.

There has been made the 3,000,000 cars turned out from Ford factories. The present factory output is in excess of 9,000 per day.

An arrest at St. Catharines was fined $20 last week as a result of not reporting an accident in which his motor car collided with another auto.

The Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police are going to use motor trucks in the prairie districts for conveying supplies to isolated parts, and as ambulances.

When the car stops suddenly on the road the first place it look is in the gasoline tank. The veteran motorist does not need this advice but the new comer should take it to heart. Look into the gasoline tank first.

One mistake of drivers that costs much tire wear is the common practice of driving up to a stopping place at an excessive speed and then throwing on the brakes. The tires are scraped for some yards and invariably leave some of their rubber on the road.

The University of Michigan will shortly introduce a course in "Highway Transportation." Preparation of text books and references for the course are under way, and the matter is to be placed before all educational institutions for consideration.

The Essex County Automobile Club are arranging to hold a picnic at Sea Cliffe Park, Leamington. The officials anticipate a gathering of not less than 5,000 persons. The stunts, games and sports will be marked with an air that is distinctly "automobile."

The automobile is playing an important role of home-maker during the scarcity of houses. Hundreds of citizens have solved the housing problem by buying a car and then living further out in the suburbs. Increased prices and returns are driving homeseekers into suburban districts where sites may be purchased at moderate figures.

Death Notice

WIMS—In Montreal, July 11, 1919, William K. Wims, aged 28 years. The funeral will take place on Sunday, July 13, at three o'clock, from his parents' residence 119 Victoria Ave. for St. Michael's Church, thence to St. James Cemetery.

THE EAST AND WEST BROUGHT CLOSER TOGETHER

Western Canada and the Pacific Coast have now been brought within much quicker reach of the East by "The Trans-Canada Limited" the new popular all-sleeping-car train operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Toronto and Montreal to Vancouver. It makes the fastest time between terminals of any transcontinental train in America. Leaving Toronto at 7.15 p.m. daily, Fort William is reached in 26 hours, Winnipeg in 30, Regina in 50, Calgary in 64, and Vancouver in 90. By this means a business day is saved—a great convenience to the large number of business men who travel between Eastern and Western Canada. Leaving Toronto on the evening of Monday, for instance, it is possible to spend a full business day in Winnipeg and be back in Toronto by Friday afternoon. Tourists to the famous resorts of the Canadian Pacific at Banff, Lake Louise, Glacier, Vancouver and Victoria will also find this train particularly convenient. It consists of standard sleeping cars, dining car, and compartment observation car, and sleeping car passengers only are carried.

CURB SINN FEIN

DUBLIN, July 12.—The County of Tipperary and Ireland have received quietly the proclamation of the Government, Monday, declaring all Sinn Fein organisations and Irish volunteers in County Tipperary unlawful associations.

The proclamation places all local activities in Tipperary under control of the military and prevents all persons from entering the district without a permit, thus restricting business.

Kin.

A traveler entered a village inn with a dog, and an Irishman present asked what breed it was.

"It is a cross between an ape and an Irishman," drawled the dog's owner, regarding his questioner impolitely.

"Faith, thin, we're both related to the beast," was the quick retort.

TOWNSHIP NOMINATION

At the nominations held in Madoc township on Monday for the office of Reeve and Deputy-Reeve for the remainder of the year, Mr. Angus Nicolson and Mr. W. H. Kells were nominated for the Reeveship and Mr. S. Woods for Deputy Reeve. Mr. Kells withdrew and Mr. Nicolson was elected by acclamation. There will, therefore, be no election in Madoc township. Mr. Nicolson is the Reeve and Mr. Woods the new Deputy.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR PICTON

Picton is to have a jam factory. Messrs. Kinney & Colliver, who have been running a jam plant in Toronto have decided to move this business to Picton. They will erect a new factory adjoining their Canning Factory, on Barker street and building operations will begin immediately. This business will be a decided acquisition to the town. It will mean not only increased employment for Picton people but continuous employment as well. The firm expect to spend several thousand dollars in their new plant and hope to have it in operation before many weeks.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

A picnic party from Stirling this week visited Moira Lake and a fatality was narrowly averted. Two girls in the party went in swimming at a point not far from the bridges where the water is deep, close to shore. Getting beyond their depth the girls were soon in difficulty. A gentleman immediately jumped in to assist them but found the task to difficult but the efforts of Mr. E. Matthews was successful in bringing all to shore. While it took some some time to resuscitate one of the young ladies, there were no drownings. Mr. Matthews, who was in Madoc during the formation of the 155th Battalion, deserves great credit for his fearlessness and coolness. He is probably responsible for the saving of three lives—Madoc Review.

FIRE AT STIRLING

On Friday morning at Stirling fire was discovered in a frame barn belonging to A. Kirby. The flames spread rapidly to the sheds of the Kirby House and in a very short time the large barn was consumed with a quantity of grain and hay and a cutter. Mr. Fitzpatrick was just in time to save his horse and car. The new gasoline fire engine worked splendidly and several times the firemen were almost overcome by the heat and dense smoke but they worked faithfully and succeeded in saving the surrounding property which was in danger. Mr. Fitzpatrick owner of the Kirby House lost heavily, only partly covered by insurance.

WRESTLERS CLASH AT CARNIVAL

A very large crowd of local people had the pleasure of witnessing a good wrestling match last night, when Eugene Hurtubeau the 240 lb. title holder of Canada and Joe Shimkus the carnival wrestler went on for two falls. The last just swelled with admirers of both men, and every one cheered for his own man. Shimkus pulled up Hurtubeau's shoulders on the mat during the time allowed for each match, but Shimkus did most of the work and his backers went away well pleased. Shimkus weighs in at 165 lbs. but the little boxer handled the giant with ease; at one time he carried Hurtubeau around the ring on his shoulders. Bill Gew, the proud manager of Shimkus, is trying to have a good man in for tonight. If all goes well, Kenney, the Jap wrestler from Trenton, will be here to wrestle for a purse of $100. The local people will see a good wrestling match if these two can clash tonight. As a boxer Shimkus is also good. Last night he was awarded a draw with Joe Goyer, a local fist artist. On Saturday he will go on Bill Eves and Joe Murray in boxing contests. All the fans will have a chance to see their local man in action. Shimkus is not a boxer but a game sport and says, "I'll try anything once." Gew, the manager and talker for Shimkus is known as the boy with the golden smile and silver throat. He likes the local fans.

TODAY'S MARKET

Owing to the fact that farmer's are busy in the hay fields and Orange demonstrations being held in various parts of the county the attendance upon the market this morning was limited. Good prices were realized for all produce offered for sale. Butter was a scarce article and sold from 58c. to 60c. per pound and in a few instances a higher price was obtained. Fresh eggs were 48 cents per dozen and chickens from $7 to $9 per pair. Potatoes sold at 50 cents per half peck, green peas 30c. per quart. Fruit commanded high prices, raspberries selling at $1.00 per box, cherries 18c. per box and $3 by the basket, and huckle berries 30c. per quart.

Letters to the Editor

BIGGER AND BETTER BELLEVILLE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—Sometime ago Mr. George Gorman gave a suggestion through the press to the citizens to boost Belleville as they travelled around in their summer holidays This is an excellent suggestion, and the good move was that of our council in appointing a Commissioner to endeavor to make a Bigger and Better Belleville.

We have, however, allowed half of the year to go by while other places have been getting in ahead of us. The following indicate what other places have been doing the last half year.

1—One thousand acres have been acquired near Goderich and a company has been formed with $15,000,000 capital to manufacture among other things all parts of automobiles that have heretofore been only assembled in Ontario.

2—The Financial Post mentions a new American industry that will spend $10,000,000 adjacent to Toronto.

3—The General Motors Corporation is preparing to invest $6,000,000 in Walkerville.

4—The Maxwell Motor Co. has amalgamated with the Chalmers Motor Co. and will invest $1,000,000 in a Canadian plant.

5—The Champion Spark Plug Co. is building a factory at Windsor at a cost of $300,000.

6—The Auto Specialty Co. of Michigan has decided to invest $250,000 in a Canadian plant.

7—The Republic Motor Truck Co. of Michigan has decided to locate a branch at London.

8—The Hayes Manufacturing Co. of Brooklyn is locating in Port Hope.

9—The Ontario Steel Products Co. is locating at Oshawa.

10—The Oldsmobile Co. is locating a plant at Oshawa.

11—The Kelsey Wheel Co. of Detroit is doubling the capacity of its Canadian plant.

12—The Motor Protector Corporation is locating a plant in Canada.

13—I am informed by a Brantford citizen that they have obtained two new industries from the U. S.

14—The papers report that Lindsay and Peterboro are getting new industries.

15—Even Napanee is to have a powdered milk industry from the U.S.

16—Kingston, that like Belleville, has been asleep so long, is now waking up and is preparing to have that city made a great shipping terminal for the Great Lake waters, and as it is for being made to have the Government and the railways spend millions of dollars there.

Prior to the above mentioned industries there were 340 branches of American industries in Canada, but none in Belleville.

In England electrical energy costs now $30 to $100 per horse power, in Belleville it is about one quarter of that sum. We need power in Belleville, but it is about double what it is here.

Belleville, certainly is situated in a much more favorable position than most of the places in Ontario that are getting industries and going ahead. That we fail, must be the fault of ourselves and our methods. It is time for a change. Our boys and girls should not have to go to other places for employment when they grow to manhood and woman hood.

—W. C. MIKEL.

SPECIALIST SAID HE MUST OPERATE

But Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES" Instead, And So Made a Perfect Health

MME. F. GAREAU

158 Papineau Ave., Montreal.

"For three years, I suffered great pain in the lower part of my body, with swelling or bloating. I saw a specialist, who carefully examined me and gave me several tonics to take, which did not help me. Then he told me I must undergo an operation. This, I refused to permit.

I heard about "Fruit-a-tives" and the wonderful results it was giving because this medicine is made from fruit juices, so decided to try it.

The first box gave great relief; and I continued the treatment, taking six boxes more. Now, my health is excellent—I am free of pain and swelling—and I give "Fruit-a-tives" my warmest thanks".

Mme. F. GAREAU.

Eight Thousand March In Orange Procession

"THE GLORIOUS, PIOUS AND IMMORTAL MEMORY" FITTINGLY OBSERVED WITH TIME-HONDRED ABANDON AND ENTHUSIASM STIMULATED BY TRIUMPH AFTER FOUR YEARS' WAR.

At Toronto.

Orangemen in Toronto and district estimated at 7,000 or 8,000, were in line with their brethren in Belfast, Liverpool, and other strongholds on Saturday, celebrating the time-honored Twelfth and "the glorious, pious and immortal memory" of William of Orange. With a victorious peace consummated, the order, which made a splendid contribution to the fighting forces of the empire, honored "the day in old-time fashion, with an abandon and enthusiasm stimulated by the triumph after over four years' stress and struggle against a relentless foe to human rights and also the principles which form the Orangeman's confession of faith.

AT NAPANEE

The Twelfth of July was celebrated at Napanee on a big scale, lodges being represented from Lyn to Trenton. About 2,000 Orangemen were in the procession and fully 10,000 people were in the town. Speeches were made in the park by Dr. Edwards, M.P.; W. G. Paul, M.P.; and others.

At Cobourg.

A great celebration was held at the town of Cobourg and many from Belleville were in attendance, including the members of the two Orange lodges and the True Blues. They were accompanied by Johnstone's pipe band, which furnished an excellent programme of music. At 1.30 the parade formed and some 80 lodges were in line. After parading through the principal thoroughfares the procession halted at Victoria Park, where speeches were the order of the day. Bro. H. J. Spence of Cobourg was chairman, and the speakers were Mayor Denton, of that town, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, Bros. Geo. McCartney, of Bellamy, Bro. James Bicney, P.G.M., of Kingston; and Bro. Dr. T. E. Kaiser, of Oshawa.

At Tweed.

Here, the day was fittingly commemorated at the village of Tweed, where excellent arrangements had been made to handle the crowd, which was large, October than mid-summer. A thousand wounded soldiers with crutches or in wheel chairs and clad for most part in civilian clothes, led the parade being preceded by a drum corps. Cheers began firing a minute intervals at Triumphal Poincare placed a wreath at the foot of the Cenotaph, at Arc de Triomphe this morning. The empty casket placed there in memory of Allied Dead was also decorated by other wreaths, these being placed by Premier Clemenceau, a French soldier, a French sailor, an Alsatian girl, a girl from Lorraine and Col. Edmund, C.B., C.M.G., Marshal Joffre passed under the Arc de Triomphe at 8.45 o'clock. He rode alone and behind him came Marshal Foch. Tremendous applause arose from a vast throng as the two Marshals passed the President's stand and moved down Brilliant avenue.

AT MARMORA

Under the auspices of Marmora Lodge, L. O. L. No. 319 and Loyal True Blues, No. 177, a celebration was held in that village on Saturday and was a success in every respect. At noon, the ladies in connection with the Anglican Church, provided a dinner which was an excellent repast. In the afternoon the parade took place in which some 14 lodges participated. After parading through some of the streets the procession reached the Fair Ground, where speaking was indulged in. Mr. F. S. Pearce presided over the gathering, which numbered some thousands. The speakers were Mr. E. O. Foster, K.C., M.P. for West Hastings, ex-Judge E. B. Proctor, Rev. C. M. Harris and Rev. W. P. Woodger. The address of the day was undoubtedly that of the popular member for West Hastings in the House of Commons. Music was furnished by the 15th regimental band of this city.

Sixth Barn Is Set on Fire

DURHAM, July 14.—The Glenelg fire-bug is still at large, continuing his work. At 2 o'clock yesterday morning the large barn on the farm rented by James Murphy, owned by the late John Murphy, on the 8th concession, Glenelg, was destroyed by fire. It is about eleven miles northeast of here, a mile or two north of previous fires.

The barn was one of the finest in the township, 45 by 70 feet, with stone foundations and splendid stables. In it were burned a large pig, implements, sixty bushels of oats and four loads of hay. There is no house on the farm and the barn was first noticed in flames by J. Peart's son, when returning home from Markdale. On the floor near a hay-mow a rag about a foot square, partly burned, was found, leading to the belief that the incendiary's first effort was successful.

Exactly two weeks previous Pat Haley's barn on the 6th concession was fired, and with it twelve pigs, implements and a calf were consumed. This makes six incendiary fires in three months in Glenelg, and latterly they have been occurring at regular intervals, every two weeks or less than three, apart.

No clue has yet been discovered of the perpetrator, though efforts to locate him will be made with redoubled vigor, as in a short time when crops are garnered, the loss will be much more serious should the fire fiend still be free.

PULHAM, Norfolk, England, July 14.—Great Britain's mammoth transatlantic air pioneer, the dirigible R-34, arrived at the air station here at 6.56 o'clock, Greenwich mean time, on Sunday, completing her round trip from the British Isles to the United States and return.

The voyage from Long Island was without particular incident, and was completed in approximately 75 hours. Soon after day break 400 men stationed at the airdrome were roused from their sleep to meet the ship.

The lookouts took positions in towers and wireless operators prepared to pick up messages from the airship. The sun rose bright, but soon afterwards was obscured by clouds. There was no wind and those on watch were confident that the dirigible would arrive on time.

Shouts from those on the field greeted the first sight of the long, grey body low on the horizon. As the R-34 approached the field she dropped from a height of 2,000 feet to 1,000 feet. The men who were to aid the airship in landing were ordered to their positions and waited silently as the ship circled the field, dropping lower and lower.

PARIS, July 14.—During the parade this morning the roof of a house on Boulevard, St. Martin, collapsed. Eighteen persons were injured.

Wild Chase After Auto

OAKVILLE, July 14.—For 30 miles at a dizzy speed Constable Kerr of Oakville, chased six motorists Sunday finally to bring them to a halt near Dixie, on the Dundas road, by shooting holes in the rear tire of their motor car. In the round-up which followed six arrests were made, four men and two women, all of whom gave Toronto addresses and the following names: Herbert E. Poole, Albert McKenzie, Pte. A. G. McGuire, Leo Pinkney and Lea O'Grady. They spent the night in the Oakville jail on a charge of theft of a motor car.

Early in the afternoon Constable Kerr received word at Oakville of the theft in Hamilton of a big six-cylinder car. With detailed description of car and occupants he set out himself to patch the highway through Oakville, and within half an hour he saw the alleged stolen machine come careering along at a high speed. He ran to the centre of the road and signalled them to stop. Instead of obeying, the driver increased the speed and flashed by the constable, who barely had time to jump out of danger.

Good For World On Both Sides of Ocean

LONDON, July 14.—Philip Gibbs referring to the inter-change by airplane of newspapers between Great Britain and the United States, says:

"I am one of those who believe that this will be no good for the world on both sides of the Atlantic and will lead to a closer understanding between peoples who desire liberty and peace. At least, I hope that the ships which will pass by air between England and America will salute each other always in friendly rivalry, and with never a hostile signal, in the freedom of the air."

RUBBER COMPANY TO SPEND A MILLION IN KITCHENER

KITCHENER, July 14.—The Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company, Ltd., has decided to spend immediately one million dollars on their tire plant at Kitchener for the purpose of substantially increasing the output of the plant.

Irish "President" Hailed At Chicago

CHICAGO, July 14.—An audience of 50,000 persons, it was estimated yesterday hailed Eamon de Valera as "President of the Irish Republic" appeal for aid and recognition of Irish independence. It was at an open-air meeting held at the Chicago National League Baseball Park, where all seats were taken and nearly all available space occupied.

Mr. de Valera when he rose to speak was greeted by a demonstration A shouting and cheering that lasted minutes. A Canadian uniform mounted the speaker's stand and led the cheering.

The crowd was enthusiastic, but some of the spectators indulged in hits ing when the names of President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Sir Edward Carson, Irish Unionist Leader were mentioned. Persons on the speakers' platform, however, soon stopped the demonstrations.

Mr. de Valera expressed confidence that Americans sympathized with the Irish independence movement and hoped that the American Government would recognize the "de jure" Government of Ireland.

Frank P. Walsh and Edward F. Dunne, members of the delegation sent by Irish societies in America to present to the Peace Conference a petition for settlement of the Irish question of Chicago are other speakers.

Resolutions by the Congress be urged to "recognize the Irish Republic as now established," and to establish trade relations with Ireland for the benefit of American sovereignty and would imperil the constitution, destroy the Monroe doctrine and would guarantee "the world supremacy of the two remaining despotic Empires of the world—Great Britain and Japan."

Allies Willing To Meet Germany Half Way

PARIS, July 12.—The Allied Powers are showing Germany that they are willing to meet her half-way in an effort to carry out the terms of the Peace Treaty. It was at the request of the German Government will have the sense to see it they will realize that every demonstration by them that they are trying to fulfil the conditions in good faith will bring some corresponding response from their victorious enemies.

Thus, the Allied answer to the German notification that the treaty had been ratified is couched in a rather conciliatory tone, and indicates that the Allies are pleased over the prompt and regular manner in which ratification was carried out.

Preparations are being taken by the Allied Powers to fulfil their promise to lift the German blockade and abolish the censorship on mail and commercial telegrams, in these things each Allied Government will act separately. Even France, which least of all the Allies desires to show consideration to Germany, has already begun to put into effect the necessary machinery to these ends.

Coal Shoveller On Steamer Becomes Rich

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

NEW YORK, July 14.—When the giant liner Imperator docked at Hoboken last night there climbed out of the stoke hole a coal passer, who has suddenly come into an income of $480,000 a year. He is E. L. Perkins, 20 years old, of East-Land, Texas, a sailor in the United States navy. In 1913 Perkins bought an eighty acre farm three miles northeast of his home town and planted corn on it. During the war he enlisted in the navy. Just before the Imperator sailed from here for Brest to end troops Perkins who had been assigned to her fire room force, received word from his father that a six thousand barrel gusher had been located on his farm. Three drillers started to bore seven other wells and they figure the eight well will about his income up to a million dollars a year.

Quick Work Made At Photographs

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 14.—Photographs taken recently in the States, were brought to England by dirigible R-34 and to London by airplane from Pulham are published by the morning newspapers. This is looked upon as the first step towards the prediction of Northcliffe, that quick interchange of New York and London newspapers and photographs by aerial post was possibility of the near future. Photographs include President Wilson's arrival at New York, view of R-34 taken from an American airship as the British dirigible first approached Mineola and a scene of the first knock down in the Willard-Dempsey fight. Newspapers also published photograph showing four of the newspaper being delivered at Buckingham Palace.

Pole Pays Prescription Price

KITCHENER, July 14.—Is there anything in the Ontario Temperance Act which calls for the prosecution of qualified judges of whiskey? This is what Chief O'Neil wants to know.

The other day a Pole arrived in the office bearing a wrapped-up parcel. Inside the wrapping was exposed a bottle which formerly contained a well-known make of 10p whiskey.

"I good whiskey, been stuff, I paid $4 for it. Feller make him of potato," he remarked to the Chief. "You taste him," he went on, handing the "home-brew" to the Chief. After a smell the police official declined.

The foreigner had an idea that the law could force the return of his money. The whiskey made him sick he said. He was considerably surprised when he learned that, good, bad or indifferent all whiskey sales were under the ban.

It Happened

IN BELLEVILLE

A TIN CAN TRAGEDY.

It was Phileas T. Barnum, the great showman, who made the remark that one was born every minute, but the birth rate of that variety of easy-mark human known as "sucker" must have increased since his day, judging from the public records of "come-ons" who fall for the various schemes of slick talkers who continue to gather in money from the gullible public in these days of enlightenment and publicity.

This take concerns two dapper Indians who recently visited Belleville and engaged rooms with every appearance of making a prolonged stay. Their stay was short, however, but their visit will long be remembered by a number of thirsty citizens with scruples the reverse of scrupulous. The strangers were not long in getting busy and soon the word was passed in strict confidence that gallon cans of good whisky were not long for this setting and it is alleged that for a time at the reasonable price of fifteen dollars per can. Customers were not backward in speedily disposing of and hurried away to concealment by the eager purchasers.

Back to relate, when the cans were opened they yielded only a couple of drinks of liquor, and upon the spirit fountain so modified being put to investigation it showed that the same pint of a peculiar make with a small top compartment containing liquor, while the greater part of the can was filled with water, an inside cork keeping the liquor from penetrating to the water compartment.

Fifteen dollars for about fifteen cents worth of whiskey and nearly a gallon of water seems rather a steep price, but the victims are saying little or nothing of their experience and prefer not to be interviewed for publication.

The Tin-Can Brigade also paid a visit to Point Anne, where a thriving business was done in 'la' last hour by automobile, followed by a quick getaway before any post-mortems were held on the cans.

Several of the trick cans were found in Belleville back yards battered and broken, with gaping interiors showing how the game was played. It is understood that the trick ballad boxes which figured as part of the machinery of the notorious Grit political machine which won election during the Hoist Government regime—not by proxy, but by ways that were dark and tricky and there was rain—may have inspired the Tin Can Brigade in the production of the can with a false top.

The strangers were quick workers and after gathering upwards of seven hundred and fifty dollars in an incredibly short time they vanished to their native haunts and left the cans upon the streets of some other community.

Great Masonic City To Hold Gala Week

Toronto, With its Forty Blue Lodges, to Welcome the Grand Lodge

Toronto will be a Blue Lodge town this week, when at least 3,000 delegates to the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario will meet in the Masonic Temple, Bond St. and Davenport road. The thousand Masons will have 1,500 votes. The procedings will be mainly routine, but interesting. Page of important Masonic interest will be written.

The Board of General Purposes will meet to-day and to-morrow, July 14 and 15. The Grand Master will deliver his address on Wednesday morning. The D. D. G. M.'s will be chosen on Wednesday evening, and the Grand Lodge election of officers will be held on Thursday morning.

The Banquet Committee has not been idle. To-day at 6 p.m. at the Ontario Club, a dinner will be given to the Grand Master, the D. D. G. M.'s and members of the Board of General Purposes. Grand Lodge delegates will be fostered round the city between 4 and 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and on Wednesday evening after the election of the D. D. G. M.'s a high-class entertainment will be given in the auditoriuum of the Temple.

The retiring Grand Master, W. H. Wardrope, K.C., of Hamilton has been in England, where he attended the great Masonic peace conference. Among distinguished brethren were the Duke of Connaught and the Prince of Wales in the Honohold Brigade Lodge No. 2614, London, England, his uncle presided as Worshipful Master of the lodge.

F. W. HARCOURT NEXT G. M.

The next Grand Master in all probability will be F. W. Harcourt, K.C., official guardian for Ontario; and prospective Grand Master is Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., of Belleville, Grand Z of the Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons.

For the office of Grand Senior Warden, the following are mentioned; K. J. Dunstan, John O'Connor, "Tim" Barber, all of Hamilton.

Among those discussed in connection with the Grand Junior Wardenship are Milton Wilkes of Brantford, and W. J. Harris of Sarnia.

Rev. George H. Purchase and others are regarded as candidates for the office of Grand Chaplain.

E. T. Malone, K.C., for many years Grand Treasurer, is likely to be reelected. Now Grand Secretary may be W. M. Logan, of Hamilton. He has been the acting Grand Secretary since the death of R. L. Gunn.

The following are named for the post of Grand Registrar: A. B. Clark of Hamilton; George McLeish of Toronto; J. H. Malcolm of Toronto; and A. L. Burch of St. Catharines.

D. D. G. M. possibilities are: No. 11 (Toronto West) P. H. Brown of Lambton Mills and Dr. Emerson Bull of Islington.

No. 11-A (Toronto East) W. C. Sprinks and George H. Langley.

No. 11-B (Toronto Centre) E. W. E. Saunders.

SOLDIERS NOT FORGOTTEN

Some of the notices of motion to come before the Grand Lodge will be:

To permit soldiers who have become physically unfit by reason of eligible for membership in the craft.

To change the date of meeting of Grand Lodge from the third Wednesday in July to the second Wednesday in June.

To make all the members of lodges who have served overseas life-members and to present them with a special certificate.

To change the mode of electing officers so that the candidate receiving the highest number of votes when the ballots are counted shall be declared elected, thus doing away with the second or more ballots.

70,000 MASONS IN TORONTO

The Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario has 400 lodges in its jurisdiction, 10 of these being in Toronto.

The Blue Lodge membership totals 70,000. The Masonic war record has been such as to justify fraternal and patriotic pride.

FROM ENGLISH FREEMASONS

An interesting circular letter has been received from P. Colville Smith, Grand Secretary, Freemason's Hall, Great Queen street, London, W. C.:

"Dear Sir and Brother:

Representations have been made to the Board of General Purposes that cases of hardship may occur if unmained person, otherwise fully qualified, is allowed to become a Freemason. The board feel that it is impossible to lay down a hard and fast rule as to the institution of a candidate not perfect in his body within the meaning of article 4 of the Ancient Charges, prefaced to Book of Constitutions. But the board are of the opinion that where the defect does not render a candidate incapable of learning our art, there is no reason why he should not be initiated, provided he is able to understand our secrets and mysteries and to explain or exemplify them when properly called upon.

"Each case of this description must be decided on its merit by the members of the lodge to whom the candidate is personally known, subject to the investigation and approval of the master of the lodge, who is officially responsible that the candidate is 'in a condition to comply with the requirements above named, and subject also in Province or district Grand Master, or Deputy, who has to the sanction if the Grand Master after submission of the circumstances of the case."

MAYOR WEDS WOMAN SCRIBE

CALGARY, July 14.—The marriage of Miss Daisy McGregor, formerly of the Ottawa Citizen, Ca gary Albertan and Calgary Herald to Mayor R. C. Marshall, took place Wednesday evening in the Pro-Cathedral. Very Rev. Dean Paget, officiated. This is Mayor Marshall's second marriage, his first wife having been dead some years. He has one small daughter. Miss McGregor is a daughter of Mrs. J. McGregor, of Ottawa, and the late Mr. McGregor, of Metcalfe, Ont.

Letters to the Editor

Transportation Situation Considered, Lieut. Ponton Speaks Again

Belleville, July 13, 1919.

Editor Intelligencer,

Dear Sir:—W. C. Mikel's letter appearing in your columns July 12th, re the making of Belleville Beautiful and Better, his suggestion illustrates good sound business judgment and has within the grasp of the community wealth. Hastiers County being providentially blessed with such valuable natural resources that can be developed into immediate wealth, presents itself during this reconstruction period with returned veterans looking forward to be able to enter industrial services.

Now who are the promoters looking aid to assist them being placed in such desperate circumstances?

The Tivani Electric Steel Company's "proven patented process" demonstrates the successful treatment of the iron ore mines in Lake Ontario. Hastings County on a commercial basis should solicit the undivided support of every business man in the city of Belleville and accomplish the location of a $5,000,000 75 twenty-year gold Bond issue by subscribing for a substantial block of the bonds, to construct the first unit of Electric furnaces to purchase all the available electric power the Hydro Electric Commissioner can negotiate terms for on a commercial basis.

Deposit your subscriptions in the Trust Department of the Standard Bank of Canada and mathematical banking results will follow and reimburse handsomely your investment. We are from Missouri, we can show you.

Sincerely yours,
A. P. GILLIES,
Consulting Engineer.

Belleville, July 13, 1919.

Dear Editor:— It would appear to the public who read some of the contributed articles or letters appearing in your paper as though the industrial possibilities of Belleville were being sorely neglected. As chairman of the Industrial Committee I am very anxious to see a smokestack on every vacant lot, and to see our city grow to Trenton; and nothing has been dreamed of before. However, I wish to impress on the public the fact that nothing has been neglected in this connection. All inducements possible have been offered to prospective industries. These are the days of economy, and any parties desiring locating take this point into consideration. Among them are the following:

Plenty of raw material close to their site.

A good market for their product at their door.

Good shipping facilities.

By very little consideration you can see our situation is pretty fairly borne when we mention the many industries that are locating Belleville, but not enough there are many. I have followed many of these and find in some cases the raw material for the purpose had a good deal to do with their location, others a good market, though the greater part of these factories have located where they could get most interested and bought stock. Here I might stop to say there is a heap of money in Belleville which should be invested in local industries, and whereby boom Belleville instead of taking stock in outside companies. I would like very much to call attention to mention a few men who are willing to assist any local or new industry that can show any signs of success. However, I have no authority to do so, but to many local men I would say your city is just what you have made it. You have not seized opportunities when they presented themselves. Another point I would like to mention is publicity. Some writers publish in your paper lists of prospective industries which have located elsewhere. I believe if they handed this information to the proper party a few weeks previous to giving it out for publication, they would do their city a greater good.

Once published these articles are copied in all outside publications and immediately hundreds of cities and towns get busy and put their particular location and good points before the prospective industry, which always have with very valuable assistance from Ald. Bone, been in touch with over a hundred of these prospects and our possibilities of a good location etc., were always put up to them and followed up. Sorry to say we have not any positive guarantee of results. Since the appointment of an Industrial commissioner we have been able to follow a great many good prospects and hope with assistance in the near future to give you something for publication that will please your readers and the citizens in general. In conclusion I wish to take this opportunity of thanking those who have given me valuable assistance and also to state that in my opinion I have clean'ed up any doubt of neglect on the part of the Industrial Committee. I will not write again in defense of the Industrial Committee, but am ready at any and all times for a personal interview with anyone who might think we are not doing our duty. Thanking you for your valuable space.

ALD. CHAS. HANNA,
Chairman Industries.

Portland Man Has Gained 18 Pounds

A. M. Erskine Was Relieved at Hamilton — Other Treatments Had Failed.

"I have not only been completely relieved of a bad case of rheumatism by taking the Tanlac treatment; but have also gained eighteen pounds in weight, so you may know that I am a friend of the medicine," said A. M Erskine of 8130-84th street, Southeast, Portland, Ore., to a Tanlac representative recently. Mr. Erskine is employed by the Northwest Steel and Shipbuilding Co.

"I began to suffer with rheumatism about ten months ago," continued Mr. Erskine, "I was in Vancouver at the time, helping to build the Standard Shipbuilding plant, and I first noticed it in my left knee. The pain left there like neuralgia than anything else, but it kept getting worse all the time and finally shifted from my knee to my hip and at times I would have it in the back and then in the muscles of the calf of my leg. That part of my leg seemed to be troubled the most and he became just felt all the time like the skin had been torn and like a hot mustard plaster had been put on the spot. At times, I also suffered with a sharp shooting pain that would run up and down my leg and it just couldn't walk any distance without my leg giving out entirely. When this would happen I would just have to stop and rest and sometimes the pain would be so awfully bad it looked like it would run off my breath. Sometimes about the only way I could get any rest at nights would be to use hot applications and I suffered much agony for eight months and got in such bad shape that I fell off in weight from 145 pounds down to 130 pounds and while I kept at work, I was certainly in a bad way and would feel all fagged out when I would get home in the evenings. I tried different treatments and medicines but I might just as well have taken so much drinking water for all the relief I got.

"I had been reading so much about Tanlac and what it was doing for others, that I decided to try it and I didn't more than taking the Tanlac treatment relieved me of my rheumatism entirely. I not only got rid of the rheumatism but got all the weight I had lost and three pounds more besides. I am working fine every day now and never have that, weariness, dragging feeling that used to trouble me. I am certainly glad to give this statement for the sake of others that are suffering with rheumatism, because I know what Tanlac has done in my case."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vance in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

Political Railroading

Government operation of the United States railways is becoming more of a farce under peace conditions than it was in the most strenuous days of the war. It will be recalled that Mr. McAdoo recommended to Congress before he retired from the directorship of the railways that government operation should be continued over a period of five years in order that the country might judge and pass judgment on the respective merits of government and private operation.

For the month of April the railways showed an increase in the volume of business of 4.3 per cent.; but there was a decrease of 63.7 in net income. This loss in net was registered despite the fact that freight and passenger rates have been increased about 50 per cent. since the government took over the railways and began to operate them. The promising increase in net earnings during peace conditions proved to be false prophecy; there has been a steadily-increasing deficit.

During the first four months of the present year there has been a net loss for railway operation of $188,000,000, notwithstanding the increased rates. The financial expert of the New York Times makes the following figures relating to government operation, which are taken from the records of the Federal Department of Railways:

In comparison with the three-year average upon which the government rents the railways there was an increase of $110,-315,000 in gross earnings and a loss of $41,182,000 in net income. (This is for April only.) Over the five months of this year there was an increase of $447,-950,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,412,000 in net income. This is a loss of $1,000 in net earnings LEFT FOR THIS GOVERNMENT $45,854,000 WITH WHICH TO PAY $240,-000,000.

What more convincing object lesson of the failure of government ownership could be asked than this: two totals, an increase of $447,000,000 in gross earnings and a decrease of $174,000,000 in net earnings? That makes a difference of more than $600,000,000 between government and private operation in the short period of five months, or $120,000,000 in a single year.

Part of that loss is due to mismanagement and part of it to padding the railroad pay rolls. Senator Cummins, formerly an advocate of government ownership, read statistics showing that the railroads cut out 200,000 jobs and yet increased the pay without injuring the service in the least. In other words, there are 200,000 men on the railroad pay rolls at useless positions under the railway management.

Little wonder that the Democrats favor government ownership from their party platform and that several of the radical supporters of Senator Johnson failed to make any mention of it in their "Progressive" platform. In 1918 and again in 1919 the Progressives made government ownership a headliner in their politics. Now the idol has fallen so low that none will do it reverence.—From the Los Angeles Times.

Number of Soldiers Arrive Home

Corpl. A. Stirland, of 110½ East Moira street, arrived home last night. He went over with the first skilled railroad troops and served with the 58th. After a short furlough he will return to the Queen's Military Hospital.

Private Hallam of Elm Street spent Sunday with his family. He was taken seriously ill at Halifax on his arrival there several weeks ago. He has been making a rapid recovery and expects his discharge within a few days.

Private Carlee D. Bunnett, who went with a draft of the Engineers, has returned home after getting his discharge in Toronto.

Pte. Wesley Vancott of Catherine street, was among the arrivals on the Olympic. He served with the R.F.C.

Pte. Harold Davis of Albert Street arrived home Saturday. He has been serving with the heavy field artillery and received his discharge in Toronto.

Pte. J. O'Neil of 309½ Front St., arrived on the Empress of Britain. He is a veteran of other wars and wears the long service ribbon.

Surprise and Presentation

On Friday evening about one hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Miss Myrtle Wanamaker, to bid her farewell before leaving for Prince Albert, Mass. After social intercourse had been indulged in for some time, Mr. Walker Sayers, President of the Moira Cheese Factory, was elected chairman. Miss Wannamaker was called forward and the following address was read by Mrs. George Moon and a handsome mantle clock and glass marmalade dish set in silver was presented to her by Mrs. Arthur Elliott.

To Miss Myrtle Wannamaker,

Dear Friend:—There are times in our lives when we meet kind friends to stadd by us, to help us over hard places of life, in time of sickness or health, and we are devoutly thankful for such. Then there are times when the sun of life is not clouded and as you are about to join the matrimonial sphere of life we with others share our boys with you, and we make the occasion one to be remembered. A sort of milestone on the journey of life. We, therefore, deem it proper and fitting that we should mark this occasion by some tangible evidence of our regard for you. We finally believe that true worth should is recognized and a disposition of kindness towards it, and deep interest in the welfare of others should receive a kindred appreciation while you are still among us. As you are going many miles away, and our loss will be others gain, we hope that our presence here tonight and the purpose in coming will help you to feel that this is the beginning and not the ending of our good wishes for you.

We wish you all joy and happiness among your new friends and trust the china and silver will be a constant reminder of many happy days gone by and the prospect of still brighter days to come. We trust that your new home will be all that you have desired and we wish you every happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends.

Walker Sayers,
Herb. Pringle,
George Moon.

Although taken completely by surprise Miss Wannamaker very ably responded by a few well chosen words expressed her regret at leaving her home community. After short addresses by the gentlemen, refreshments were served by the ladies, after which the party dispersed all having fully enjoyed themselves.

GOLD VALUES.

The old saying that an article was worth its weight in gold has acquired a new significance now that that precious metal is more costly than ever.

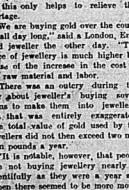

Gold is 115 shillings an ounce at present, compared with 84 shillings just before the war. It was such a rare commodity, when the restrictions on its importation and commercial uses were removed that firms at once set to have offered a premium of 95 per cent. on its market value in order to obtain supplies.

Many people are being tempted by high prices to sell their gold trinkets, but this only helps to relieve the shortage.

"We are buying gold over the counter all day long," said a London, England jeweller the other day. "The price of jewellery is much higher because of the increase in the cost of the raw material and labor.

"There was no outcry during the war about jeweller's buying sovereigns to make them into jewellery, but that was entirely exaggerated. The total value of gold used by the jewellers did not then exceed two million pounds a year.

"It is notable, however, that people are not buying jewellery nearly as plentifully as they were a year ago, when there seemed to be more money in circulation."

OVER SUSPECT RAY WAS SUPERSTITIOUS? OH, THAT HORSE-SHOE

No one ever thought Charles Ray was superstitious. Everyone at the Thomas H. Ince studios looked surprised when the popular young star asked to have a horseshoe soldered to the water tank cap on a racing automobile he was going to drive in "Greased Lightning," his new photoplay which is being shown at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday. 'Greased Lightning is the name of the racer which Mr. Ray, as the village juvenile, or, has built and enters in a bog race meet. The day was set for 'Shooting' the big race scene and Mr. Ray appeared at the studio. He refused to go to work until the horseshoe was placed as he designated. "I never should have believed Charlie was superstitious," said the property man, as he carried out the order given by Director Jerome Storm. Mr. Ray said nothing as just after 3st was buried at his head. He didn't even take his director into his secret, but when the scene was shot he executed one of the cleverest pieces of business with the horseshoe that he has ever acted. He —but that would be spoiling the surprise. You must see the picture as a whole to appreciate it. The photoplay is one of the most thrilling in which Mr. Ray has ever been seen. He is excellently supported, his leading woman being Wanda Hawley. No one can afford to miss seeing "Fatty" Arbuckle's latest comedy, "The Bell Boy" which is the added feature on the same program. "Fatty" is ably supported by such favorite comedians as Al. St. John, Buster Keaton and Alice Lake. As a combination of bell boy, waiter, barber, elevator and general utility man about a hotel "Fatty" has fun-making opportunities of which he does not fail to take the fullest advantage. The action is rapid, the fun spirited and the entertainment which is in two acts is calculated to dispel gloom of the most rock-ribbed variety. A new Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon and an excellent Western picture will also be screened on the same program.

NEW BABES IN THE WOODS

Baby Marie Osborne, the diminutive screen star, has a surprising gift of fairly invention, and some day, she says, she will write a book. In "Baby's Vacation," which is being exhibited at the Palace tonight to Wednesday, matinee daily, this fairy belief is a strange influence in shaping the most interesting part of the plot—where Dolly and her little colored playmate, Sambo, get lost in the woods, and, as they begin to fall, their imagination transforms familiar objects into gruesome and fearful proportions. A rabbit becomes a crouching tiger, trees turn into blood-thirsty Indians, crouching and ready to spring upon their victims. But this flash of childish terror is brief; has its humorous side as well; and, when the adventure ends with the settling of the strike in father's mill and the reconciliation between father and mother, who had deserted home to achieve artistic fame in New York, one realizes how skilfully and sympathetically the story has been builded by both the author, Mrs. Geo. Griffin Lee, and the director, William Bertram, who has made a reputation in this particular line of work. A new comedy, the Canadian news graphic and a beautiful land-colored travelogue are also features of the show. Miss Osborne's

He halted for an hour, and Count Guy of Marmorel and Sir Thule de Prie rode round and round the column in silent consultation. Then Captain Thorlassen was summoned, and a few minutes later a two fifteen-pounder was being brought into position and men carrying cartridges from the wagons. We were going to try this range of our artillery.

Then there was a report, and the eyes of all were fixed on the town. The shell burst a hundred yards short of the castle, and we could see the smoke of it drifting across one of the great fires and men running hither and thither in confusion. The guns ajusted the weapon afresh and the next struck one of the towers of the castle. That was sufficient. We could not afford to throw away more cartridges on experiments. Ammunition was none too plentiful, and we had to reserve it for large bodies of men where every shot would account for at least twenty dead.

After a brief discussion between the leaders of the expedition, it was resolved to make the place in which we had halted the base of our future operations. It commanded the city and also the road to Sancta Maria. There was a spring close by and our foregoing parties, covered by modern artillery, had practically the whole valley at their mercy.

Before evening came, and the great fires died out along the valley and hills we had marked out the site of our encampment. It was chosen with skill on a flat tableland, with precipitous sides—that of the great fires burned in the midst.

All night long large bodies of men toiled incessantly bearing boulders and baskets of earth, and when the fires once more flashed out across the country, a rampart three feet high had grown up all round the encampment, and before darkness came again it had rised itself as high as a tall man's head, and was bristled out thereon the entrenchments, like watch-dogs with open jaws. It was clear to me that Count Guy meditated a long siege. Subsequent consultation with Sir Thule de Brie showed that this was the policy they had decided on. Count Guy of Marmorel had sworn that he had been justified. We had struck a blow before the enemy had had time to fortify the road to the capital, and had struck the blow home. Now that we had reached the heights overhanging the town and valley, haste was unnecessary, and probably imprudent. We could watch the town from our lofty eminence, sweep down on foraging parties, hold the place in a state of siege, and bide our time.

For three days we waited and no sign came from the city beneath us. On the fourth occasional shot to remind the inhabitants that we were still close enough to them to make ourselves unpleasants, collected all the provisions we could from small villages and hamlets and watched the town day and night.

Then on the third day we saw a gate open in the walls nearest to us and a small procession file across the narrow bridge which crossed the river. In an instant the guns were turned upon it and if Sir Thule de Brie had not ordered the cessation of the cavalcade would have been a very sorry advance across the plain.

He looked through Captain Thorlassen's telescope, and abruptly told the men to wait.

"A herald," he said to me. "The fools have at last saved himself the trouble. He is not likely to bring a message of conciliation."

An hour later the herald himself arrived, a tall broad-shouldered man with fair hair and a long beard. He was clad in armour, covered with gorgeous cloths of silk, emblazoned with the royal arms. He bore no weapon about his person. In front of him rode two knights with white pennons flowing from their lances, and behind him six squires, bearing his lance a shield, sword and various emblems appertaining to his office.

He rode with quiet dignity up the only approach to our camp, and Count Guy of Marmorel and Sir Thule de Brie, summoned by all their knights received him in full sight of the whole army. He approached Count Guy, and bowing coldly, handed him a document scroll. The letter ran his eye over it and scowled.

"I read your message to my knights, Sir Herald," he said sharply "They will answer you!" and he whispered a few words to a squire at his side.

Then, amid the herald alMrACli somewhat, said the herald alMrACli somewhat.

"The message is to Count Guy of Marmorel," said the herald abruptly.

"The voice of Count Guy of Marmorel is the voice of his followers," replied the Count. "The answer will come from them. Knights and men-at-arms, this is the message of our lord the king."

Old Count Guy of Marmorel, sorrowful greeting. Though the heart is grieved that so distinguished a subject has, in a fit of temporary madness, taken to fit to take arms against his master, and league himself with the enemies of his country, yet bearing in mind the long years of faithful and loyal devotion, which we had deemed proof against the cercries of a woman's eyes we, your knights, are willing to grant a free pardon to him and all men of this kingdom if the woman calling herself Princess Thora of Asturnia, and her alien followers, are delivered into our hands." That is the message, my knights and soldiers! What answer have you to make to a fair a proposition?"

STARTLING EVIDENCE IN THE TEMPLETON CASE

PROOF SUBMITTED BY RETURNED SOLDIERS DISPELS PUBLIC SCEPTICISM

Public interest in the Templeton case has been accentuated by a volume of further evidence which has been submitted to prove that Templeton's Rheumatic Compound is a positive cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Lumbago and many of kindred diseases.

Canadian soldiers from the front claim that they owe much of the unusual benefit in relieving them of sciatic pains and preventing the development of Rheumatism. Civil well known Canadian General was a constant user of this remedy. Many others could refer to them is proof that they first were led to be sought.

Men such as our Canadian soldiers are not prepared to make false statements regarding the merits of anything that they use, and we are confident that we are glad to say so in order that others may benefit by their experience. There is no denying the fact that T.R.C.'S do cure as they will. Convince yourself. Try them.

Add your Druggist's name to the coupon below and he will be interesting and note you nothing to do with it. Templeton's Rheumatic Compound T.R.C.'s anywhere on receipt of $1.25.

Toronto Silo Means Dairy Profits

The most economical silo is the silo that gives the greatest capacity for the money, while affording complete protection to the ensilage.

These things the Toronto Silo does. The Hip Roof gives you extra capacity. The double tongued and grooved staves of selected spruce give adequate protection against air and frost.

The Toronto Ensilage Cutter will complete your equipment and save you cursing on a blind machine. Gives you that smooth, trouble-free service so necessary to quick, profitable work.

Our booklets on silos and ensilage cutters cover the subject completely and are full of valuable information. Sent free if you request them.

Famous Dancer Puts Ban on Jazz

ITHACA, N.Y., July 12.—The "Shimmie" is dead—long live the waltz.

Irene Castle-Treman, famous dancer, says this is so, hence it must be. In an interview Mrs. Treman discussed the future of the dance.

"Without wishing to appear narrow-minded," she said, "the 'Shimmie' and the 'Jazz' are both improper and awkward. I don't mean that persons are improper, but the 'Jazz' music appears to make them forget to really dance, and they abandon themselves to the unmusical rhythm and the unrefined looking result is called the 'Shimmie' and the 'Jazz.'

"It is certain the passing of liquor won't hurt dancing. It probably will be a good thing for it. Folk dance as well sober as when they are not. In recent months dancing has been growing rougher and rougher and there is nothing pretty in the modern movements.

"Personally, I believe that we are due to a return to favor of the waltz—the dance that can never be killed. It will live on forever; in one form or another. You seldom see it now, but it will not die. A year or two hence much better than now—smoothly, properly and gracefully. The urge of the waltz is irresistible."

RED SOX 15—TIGERS 11

A very exciting game of baseball was played last Friday night on Anne St. school grounds, between two teams of the Y. M. C. A. Junior City League, namely, the Red Sox and the Tigers, which resulted in a win for the former by the score of 15 to 11.

The line up was as follows:

Red Sox—Moxam, c.; Cretney, p.; Baldree, 1st b.; Miles, 2nd b.; Gobbler, 3rd b.; Joss, s.s.; Herlty, c. f., Clarke, l.f.; Latchford, r.f.

Tigers—E. Ashley, c.; Hunter, p.; Shorts, 1st b.; Barrlass, 2nd b.; Low, 3rd b.; Kempt, s.s.; Cummins, r.f.; Lloyd, c.f.; Carson, l.f

Bird Reserves.

It is something for one bird to tell another that Canada has created a series of reserves in the Province of Quebec where birds are safe from man-made troubles. Unlike most bird refuges, Perce Rock, a picturesque island near Perce Village; the east and north cliffs of Bonaventure Island, three miles further away; and the northernmost of the Magdalen Islands, 124 miles out to sea, have been set apart specifically to protect birds whose value to mankind is chiefly their beauty as a part of nature. There is no attempt to argue, for example, that the gannet, the kittiwake, or the razorbill auk should be protected because they speedily the farmer; they are protected simply because they are birds. No human being may disturb an egg from their nests; no weapon dangerous to their welfare may be brought within a mile of their island sanctuaries. Naturally all other birds are equally safe, and the three refuges will be a help toward carrying out the purpose of the international treaty for bird protection.

"Making Over" a Climate.

The latest suggestion toward "making over" a climate deals with that of Eastern Canada, which many people think would be improved if it were made milder. Mr. H. T. Elliott, a Canadian engineer, thinks such a change could be brought about by closing Belle Isle Straits. Among the results, in his opinion, would be that Montreal would become an open port during the whole year, the banks of the St. Lawrence would be in perpetual blossom of flowers and shrubbery and, incidentally, people all the world over would long to live there. As an engineering problem, there seems no reason to doubt that the Straits could be closed, although at an expense which Canada might not care to assume just at this time. Whether the seasons would be so greatly changed is another matter not conclusively settled by theoretical probabilities.

GREAT BOOM TO WEST.

Many Returned Soldiers Are Going on the Land.

Reports from the various Soldier Settlement Administration centres in the West indicate that possibly five thousand applications made by returned men have been approved of. 160 acres each this means the taking up of 800,000 acres of land. But the movement is only beginning to get under way. If the scheme is not too badly "knocked" by mistaken critics it is possible to suppose that between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 acres will, in this way, be taken up. Think of what it will mean to have this addition to permanent settlement in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Twenty-five thousand such settlers getting an average loan of $4,000 would mean $100,000,000 put out in three provinces.

Speaking at Regina recently Major Ashton, of the Soldier Settlement Board, pointed out the possibilities of the scheme to Saskatchewan. Probably about 30,000 soldiers, he said, would return to that province, and the records show that 75 per cent. of them were either farmers or farm laborers. If three-fifths of them, or 18,000 took advantage of the Soldier Settlement scheme and had an average loan of $4,000 it would mean the expending of $72,000,000 for farm development work in Saskatchewan alone. To date one-third more applications have been approved—from Alberta than from Saskatchewan, so it is easy to see what the West has to gain through the Soldier Settlement scheme.

If the loan completed were to put out $50,000,000 this year on farm loans in the prairie provinces what a wonderful thing it would be considered. With such appreciable measure of success, the Soldier Settlement Board will do better than that. Compared with anything that the western provinces have done in the way of assisting agriculture through loans, even now the Soldier Settlement scheme is a huge success. During the two years that the Saskatchewan Farm Loans Board has been in operation it has not loaned much more than $3,000,000, and Manitoba has probably not loaned more than $1,600,000. Still both of these provinces are claiming a great deal of credit for what they have done, and rightly so. Their work in this respect goes to show that the possibilities before the Soldier Settlement Board as a means of promoting permanent settlement are wonderful.

Using the Libraries.

During 1918 more than 130,000 books classified as "Useful Arts" were lent by the public libraries of the Province of Ontario to the schools. An estimable amount of good was done by the libraries in assisting men and women in vocational study.

The libraries are entitled to be rated as an essential part of the technical educational system of the Province. The library can reach a larger number of people with technical books than will ever be reached by technical schools. They can also provide books on subjects that are not commonly taught in technical schools and can supplement the work of instruction given in technical schools. The libraries can also serve men and women who can not attend a technical school.

During the same year the Canadian National Library for the Blind circulated 5,101 books in the province. The total membership for the year was 579.

Libraries were established in all the military camps in the province during the war of the soldiers' enlisting. Each camp was visited by a representative of the Public Libraries Branch for the purpose of studying conditions and of arranging for the reception of the books and for their circulation. The purchase of the books, their preparation for use, shipping, etc., were all done within a few weeks. About 8,000 volumes were purchased and 2,500 were received as gifts. The libraries sent out varied from 250 to 2,500 volumes each.

Libraries were sent to the following camps: Petawawa, Niagara Camp, Deseronto, Leaside (R.A.F.), Fort Henry Camp, Camp Borden (R.A.F.), Camp Mohawk (R.A.F.), London Camp, Beamsville (School of Aerial Fighting), Armour Heights (R.A.F.), and Brockville Camp.

The following hospitals also secured libraries: Whitby Convalescent Hospital, St. Andrew's Convalescent Hospital, Dunsmith Orthopaedic, Guelph Military Hospital, Mowat Sanitarium, Kingston, Wellington Street and Base, Ottawa, Imperial Munitions Board, Beamsville; Soldiers' and Sailors' Settlement, Kapuskasing; Soldiers' and Sailors' Training School, Monteith; Freeport Hospital, and Fort Henry Hospital.

The circulation of travelling libraries greatly increased.

Ontario's Largest Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schingh, of Ottawa, became the parents of a bouncing baby boy on May 31. It was their 21st child, making a big family in Ontario. Mr. Albert Schingh, father of the 21, is now in the employ of the Ottawa Electric Railway as a conductor. Both he and Mrs. Schingh are in their 44th year, and will celebrate the silver anniversary of their wedding in August.

ROADS ARE GOOD

Best so Far This Season, Reports Ontario Motor League.

The Ontario Motor League reports the roads of the province to be in the best condition so far this season. Reports out on the main roads between Gananoque and Kingston and between Kingston and Napanee, Motorists, however, will find no difficulty in getting through. A portion of the Barlington Beach road has been closed for repairs. Construction work continues on portions of some of the York roads and resurfacing of others in the majority of cases.

REGRET WHITE'S GOING

LONDON, July 12.—The report of the resignation of Sir Thomas White Canadian Minister of Finance, has been cabled. It has been received with considerable regret, although little surprise is expressed. Three years ago when Sir Thomas White paid a visit to England, Reginald McKenna, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer at the time, paid a high tribute to his financial leadership in the Dominion under which, said Mr. McKenna, Canada had become a lender instead of a borrower in this country.

Sailing on the Great Lakes

The C. P. R. Steamer Manitoba on the Great Lakes Service and Her Captain.

The Great Lakes are situated in the heart of the continent—Port McNicoll, for example, is almost a thousand miles by water from the tidal influence—liner form inland ocean steamships carry holiday-making passengers. Lake Superior is the largest body of fresh water in the world. It is over 350 miles long, 160 miles wide, with an area of 31,200 square miles and in places a depth of 900 feet. Lake Huron has an area of 23,200 square miles.

This journey across the Great Lakes offers, either as a round trip complete in itself, or as a break in an across-continent railway trip, one of the most delightful excursions, full of the most agreeable recreations, and circumstanced by the most health-giving qualities, that could be found anywhere.

The C.P.R. gives the traveller his choice of two sailings a week from Port McNicoll and one from Owen Sound. The route is across the Georgian Bay into Lake Huron, past that lake's numerous islands, of which Manitoulin is the largest; through the Soo Canal and Locks across Lake Superior to Port William and Port Arthur. The time of the journey is a little less than two days; and on the eastbound journey there are similar sailings as outward.

Sit on deck in the long throbbing twilight. You are in the north here, and you can read at nine o'clock at night. You can watch the past slip by in its canoe, dodging behind the dark islands of Georgian Bay.

You can smell miles of water in the breeze, and miles of northern lands beyond again. You can listen to the strange cries of the wheeling birds, the lingering liquid lap of the waves against the boat-side, the subaudible converse of Canadian past. For it is over these Great Lakes that the names of those hero explorers and missionaries who established New France are most profusely scattered — Joliet, Marquette, La Salle, Hennepin, Radisson, Cadillac and the rest of that brave company.

But perhaps you are not so much interested in the past—or even in the future—as in the present. For such a moment's return there are diversions limited only by your own capacity. There is the novelty of ship life and the comfort of luxurious accommodation. There is the chumming up, the making of new acquaintances, the deck conversations upon everything under the sun, even the climate under the moon. There is either lounging in sunny corners, or promenades on the upper deck in the tang of the healthy lake breezes. At night there is your choice of concert or card party, or—hastily clearing away the chairs—a dance on the verandah cafe. There is the pleasure of solicitous service and of an unsurpassed cuisine that provides for ravenous appetites (for what makes even the dyspeptic so hungry as sea breezes?) real ship's meals of the real and famous marine sort, and quantity.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

At Brockville on Friday morning John Whitmarsh, Westport, appeared before Magistrate Page on a charge preferred by James J. Bennett, Westport, of forging his name to a note. Whitmarsh was committed for trial. He was allowed his liberty on furnishing bail to the extent of $2,000. His own bond was accepted for $1,000 and that of J. C. McCulloch for a similar amount.

ROOF PARTIALLY BURNED

At a few minutes before 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a blaze was discovered on the roof of a double brick house situated on Bridge street east at the corner of John street. The brigade was summoned and soon had the fire extinguished. The building is the property of Dr. D. H. Ackerill, and the present occupant is Mrs. (Dr.) Goldsmith. Loss sustained covered by insurance. Had the blaze not been discovered in its inception the building would probably have been destroyed.

DEFENDS MEDICAL CORPS

Major W. M. Nickle, M.C., son of W. F. Nickle, M.P., of Kingston who has just returned home from four years service overseas, and who has three wound stripes, declared that the criticism of the Canadian medical service in England was unfair to the Canadian Army Medical Corps and to the nursing sisters and also unjust and unwarranted. Major Nickle said that he himself had been in several hospitals at one time or another and therefore could have testimony to the good service of the Canadian Medical Corps.

CHIEF KEEPER RETIRING

Announcement is made that after more than forty years of faithful service in the Portsmouth Penitentiary, Kingston, Chief Keeper Atkins is to retire in a few months' time, having been given a well-earned three months' leave of absence, at the expiration of which he will permanently step out of office Chief Atkins assumed his present important position about fifteen years ago, succeeding W. S. Hughes (now Brigadier-General and Superintendent of Penitentiaries), when the latter took over the accidental to Mr. Atkins' retirement. It is rumored that there will be several other important changes at the penitentiary in the near future.

How Pensions Differ.

Compared with the annual pensions granted by the Overseas Dominions and other countries to their totally disabled married soldiers, those paid by Great Britain cannot be said to err on the side of generosity, says Tit-Bits.

From the following table, which gives the respective pensions at a glance, it will be seen that the United Kingdom comes fifth on the list:

New Zealand pays each totally disabled married soldier £156, and £26 for each child under sixteen.

Canada—£146, and £20 for each child under seventeen.

Australia—£117, and £26 for the first child and £13 for others under sixteen.

United States—£113 10s., and £25 for each child up to three under sixteen.

United Kingdom—£71 10s. (plus 10 per cent. bonus for period from November, 1915, to June, 1919), and £17 10s. for the first child to £30 for four others under sixteen.

Italy—£62, and £5 10s. for each child under twelve.

France—£41, and £4 for each child. This, however, is being increased.

The Shanty-Man.

As the interlocking switch system extends its control of the railway tracks in Canada, the switch-tender, domiciled in his little shanty beside the right of way, disappears. The shanties cease into being with the first railroad, and from the beginning the shanty-men made them habitable places for other railway workers to drop in for a short visit. They were, dry when the weather was rainy, and their small stoves radiated an invitation of warmth in winter; the blizzard might blow its hardest outside, but here was heat and comfort, and a host, when he was not out looking after his switches, who had heard the gossip up and down the line, and was a good teller of old tales and listener to new ones. Usually he had come to his shanty after active service as a trainman. The travelling public will hardly know the difference, but to the small world that works and lives on the railroad the passing of the shanty marks the end of an era, and the shanty-man's stove will be sadly missed.

VOL. 84 NO. 169

"Wets" in Last Booze Battle

Marshal All Forces to Retain Sale of Wine and Beer.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Wet leaders have marshaled all their forces for a fight to compel war-time prohibition and substitute a joint resolution authorizing the President to allow the sale and manufacture of beer and wines before demobilization ends. This is the chief battle the wets will make when the War-time and National Prohibition Enforcement bill begins its hard course under the five-hour rule, in the House tomorrow. Absent members, some of whom voted for wartime and national prohibition, have been summoned to be on hand tomorrow, when the last-stand battle will be begun to prevent the nation remaining on a "dry" basis until January 16, when the 18th Amendment providing for national prohibition goes into effect.

"Sentiment Changes"

Into the twelve hours' debate on this bill, which ended to the House yesterday afternoon, it was manifest that sentiment had become strong for repeal of war-time prohibition so far as it affects wines and beer.

Leaders in the anti-prohibition movement declared that they had received promises of enough votes to repeal war-time prohibition by amending the bill to authorize the President to fix the limit within which beer and wines. They asserted that this amendment would prevent the sale and manufacture of whisky during the period of demobilization, and would be supported by a number of advocates of national prohibition.

Want to Keep Word

The latter are favorable to it because in the fight waged by them for national prohibition they specifically promised that a year would be given after the amendment was ratified, for the manufacturers and dealers to dispose of their supply. These men say they want to keep their word and do not believe, as some of the more ardent prohibitionists have said, that the situation was changed by the enactment of the war-time prohibition law subsequently.

In case the wets fail to force a partial repeal of war-time prohibition, their next fight will be made to eliminate the definition of an intoxicant, which the bill defines as any beverage containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol. An amendment will be offered by the wets striking out the definition, and thus not delegating the duty of determining what an intoxicant is to the courts.

British Premier Has A Relapse

LONDON, July 15.—A report from Wales says that Lloyd George's health is giving serious concern. The Premier is suffering a relapse, it is stated, due to his strenuous work in Paris, but it is not thought that he will not quickly restore him to his full strength. Several cabinet ministers spent the week-end with the Premier in the hope of reaching a decision on state matters of immediate importance.

ENVER PASHA MUST DIE FOR HIS CRIMES

Constantinople, July 15. — Enver Pasha, Talaat Bey and Djemal Pasha, the leaders of the Turkish Government during the war, were condemned to death by a Turkish constantial court investigating the conduct of the Turkish Government during the war period.

Enver and his leading associates in the Young Turk Government fled from Turkey several months ago and their whereabouts is uncertain.

Daniel Boyer, former Minister of Finance, and Ahmed Metaa Kiasam, former Shiek-al-islam, were sentenced to fifteen years at hard labor.

The court-martial acquitted Rifaat Bey, former President of the Senate and Hashim Bey, former Minister of Posts and Telegraphs.

TWO AIRMEN KILLED.

Little Rock, Ark., July 15.—Lieut. T. J. Lenihan of San Francisco, Cal., and Chaplain R. H. O'Dowd of Brooklyn, N.Y., assistant camp morale officer at Camp Pike, were instantly killed when a plane piloted by Lieut. Lenihan was overturned in a flight machine from Eberts Field. The second machine also fell, but its occupants were not injured.

Eight Killed, 30 Injured In Italian Strike Riot

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

ROME, July 15.—Strike disorders occurred at various places in Italy yesterday. At Lucera eight persons were killed and thirty wounded. Near Genoa two anarchists were killed in a fight with carabinieri. and four arrested. A general strike was declared and the people there marched through the streets crying, "Vive Soviet," and forced dealers in foodstuffs and other necessities to reduce prices fifty per cent.

The Italian Government, Premier Nitti announced in the Chamber of Deputies, has taken ample measures to preserve order in view of the threat of a general strike throughout the country. Troops have been distributed everywhere in cities and villages and in the country and provided with supplies for more than forty-eight hours in case they should be shut off from their bases.

Rowell Hits Out At Hartley Dewart

OTTAWA, July 15.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council in the Unionist Government and former Leader of the Liberal Party in Ontario, has issued a declaration of war against Mr. H. Hartley Dewart, his successor in the Provincial Leadership. Mr. Rowell writes a letter to Mr. W. J. Davidson, one of the leading Liberals of Port Hope, which he makes public, with an announcement that it is "in answer to inquiries from the Liberal constituencies in Durham county with reference to his views on the recent Liberal Convention in Ontario and the Liberal Convention to be held in Ottawa in August."

Mr. Rowell makes it clear that he proposes to maintain and to carry into the Provincial arena the differences which divided Federal Liberalism on the war issue of compulsory military service. "The illiberal and intolerant attitude of one section of the party, apparently largely represented at the convention, toward Mr. Proudfoot and other Unionist ministers, that co-operation at the present time is impossible in Provincial politics."

Mr. Rowell first arraigns Mr. Dewart on the count of the letter's opposition "to the formation of the National or Union Government for the vigorous prosecution of the war and the support of the men overseas." He charges that the new Liberal Leader, "in cooperation with Mr. Murphy, led all the diverse elements in our population in Ontario hostile to Union Government and Canada's war policy, and put forth his utmost efforts to defeat both."

Mr. Rowell then turns to the prohibition issue, and alleges that Mr. Dewart is looked upon by those opposed to temperance as the "rising hope" of the organized liquor traffic, and declares it "inconceivable" that tens of thousands of Liberals can ever follow him.

In conclusion Mr. Rowell makes a plea for continued support of the Union Government by Liberal-Unionists. —Toronto Globe.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited.

NEW YORK, July 15.—A zeppelin freight and passenger trans-Atlantic service to start about October 18, between New York and Hamburg with Boston, Chicago, Berlin and Dusseldorf as ports of call as announced in advertisements in German language newspapers and some American Trade paper published here yesterday.

Accidental Drowning Verdict of Jury

"That John York came to his death on Sunday, July 6th, 1919 by accidental drowning in the Bay of Quinte at a point about 300 yards from Jones' Creek in the Township of Sidney, Hastings County."

Such was the verdict rendered last evening by the coroner's jury in the case of Mr. John York, the cheese maker, who lost his life in the waters of the bay, whilst swimming. Dr. Yeoman's coroner, presided over the deliberations and Mr. Carnew, County Attorney, conducted the inquiry.

The witnesses, Hilda Barrett, Flora Patterson, Mrs. Margaret Westfall, Roy Wilson, Robert McLeighton gave evidence showing that York borrowed a bathing suit and left in a canoe, for a swim and was never seen by him in a cheerful disposition. The body was found in about fifteen feet of water.

Firebug Burns Barn of Widow

Fiend-Starts Seventh Blaze on Eve of Soldier Son's Return.

DURHAM, Ont. July 15.—Still another incendiary barn fire occurred in Centre Glenelg early yesterday morning when Mrs. Thos. Connelly's barn on the 6th concession went up in flames. The scene of this latest fire is about three miles southwest of Markdale, from which place it was destroyed approximately twenty-four hours previously.

The Connelly barn was a log structure and traces of an attempt to fire it three weeks ago had been found in a partially burned log but it is thought that heavy rain that night foiled the incendiary's work. The fire evidently was started in or near the hayloft as after it was first noticed by Wilfrid Leach, employed to Markdale, there was time to remove two horses from the stables below before it was entirely destroyed. Fortunately, the barn was quite empty, or the loss would have been more serious.

The whole neighborhood is aroused and anxious and wild rumors are afloat as to traces and identity of the fiend. Detectives are engaged and developments may be expected. The Connelly fire is the seventh in the district within the last three months.

Say School Teacher Is Smooth Swindler

FREDERICTON, N.B., July 15.—One of Canada's largest mail order houses located in Toronto has been victimized not once, but no fewer than sixteen times by a young woman, who, during the past year attended the New Brunswick Normal School here.

Like most crooked games, simply because everything seemed to be so easy that she did not know when to stop it came to grief. Now a representative of the Toronto mail order house is hot on her trail, saying: woman's plan of operation was to write a letter to the mail order house complaining that such a law will be passed this summer and will be the law for the whole Province some time in August," he said.

"Some of the cities have already passed ordinances, but these,' he explained, "are illegal and such bylaws are not enforced. There is no headlight by-law in Toronto," he concluded.

GOLD-BEARING QUARTZ STRUCK IN MANITOBA

Le Pas, Man., July 15.—Measuring twenty feet wide and five thousand feet in length, a solid dyke of quartz containing gold has been found at Copper Lake, north of here, by J. R. Gordon, ex-Chief Engineer of the Hudson Bay Railway. Mr. Gordon states that the values are uniform throughout, and average between nine and ten dollars to the ton.

Incoming prospectors confirm the report of the discovery, and a wild rush has already begun to the scene of the strike. Copper Lake is east of the Flin Flon copper mines, and it is also the scene of the finding of fish fossils a short time ago.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK.

Quebec, July 15.—By the derailment of the eastbound Maritime Express on the C.N.R. line west of Le Durantaye, county of Bellechasse, two men were killed and one was slightly injured; The victims are: Driver J. H. Fellether, and Fireman J. A. Lecierc, both of River du Loup, killed.

The injured: Mail Conductor Oscar Belanger, Bourlamaque street, Quebec.

Government To End Auto Glare Peril

TORONTO, July 15.—Mr. Gilbert Jackson, secretary of the Ontario Motor League, interviewed on the headlight glare menace, said that the league had urged on the Government the passing of a general law that the beams of light from headlights should be deflected in such a way that they will not rise at intervals above the surface of the road at a distance of 75 feet from the car.

"We have the assurance of the Government that such a law will be passed this summer and will be the law for the whole Province some time in August," he said.

"Some of the cities have already passed ordinances, but these,' he explained, "are illegal and such bylaws are not enforced. There is no headlight by-law in Toronto," he concluded.

"BLACK HAND" LETTER RECEIVED BY MAYOR

Pembroke, July 15.—At inquests held here into the deaths of Engineer Edward Jarvis, who was pinned under his engine when the Imperial Limited was wrecked at Milepac 31, near Stone Hills, and Fireman C. Van Buskirk, who died in the General Hospital here about ten hours after the wreck occurred, as the result of the scalds he sustained, the verdicts in both inquests was practically the same, declaring that the men had been killed by the wrecking of train No. 2, eastbound, at Milepac 31, North Bay sub-division, and that the wreck had been caused by the displacing of a rail of the track by some person or persons unknown.

The Mayor of North Bay has received a letter of a "Black Hand" nature threatening that unless the prisoners now held are released he will be killed, and that more wrecks of a similar nature will occur on the C.P.R.

Divide Liberals Into Two Camps

How Ottawa Views Rowell Attack on Dewart — Murphy Silent.

OTTAWA, July 15.—That the letter written by Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, to his constituents contains statements which will be a matter of active and bitter controversy for some time to come and especially in Ontario, is the opinion expressed here. Some go so far as to predict that it will accelerate a tendency, already somewhat marked, to divide Liberals into two groups—Laurier Liberals and Unionist Liberals and that this may cause some sensational incidents at the approaching August Convention.

There are a few leading Liberals in Ottawa, today. Charles Murphy refused to be drawn into a statement regarding the Rowell letter, beyond saying: "It will help Hartley." Another said "Let Hartley answer" and still another "It is good special pleading for Liberal-Unionists now in the field, a good reason for dropping 'Liberal' out of the name of their party."

Unionists hail the letter with frank delight, saying that it is bound to create discord and divided counsels at the Liberal Convention.

Ottawa Street Car Strike To Continue

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

OTTAWA, July 15.—The striking street railway employes voted against returning to work unless all the strikers are reinstated. A tragic incident of the strike this morning was the death of James Fryer, a Militia department employe, who while running to catch a Government truck taking Government employes to work, was struck and killed by another truck driven by Billy Allen, former lightweight boxing champion of Canada.

Daylight Saving Remains in Force

United States House Fails to Pass Bill Over President's Veto.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The daylight saving plan under which the clocks of the country are turned forward an hour in March and moved back in October will be continued indefinitely.

This was assured when, following President Wilson's veto of the $33,000,000 agricultural appropriation bill because of its rider repealing the Daylight Saving Act, the House refused by a vote of 247 to 135 to pass the measure over the President's veto.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR KILLED A BURGLAR

Philadelphia, July 15.—A masked burglar was shot and killed by Professor Benjamin Franklin Shappelle, head of the Department of Romantic Languages of the summer school of the University of Pennsylvania and Alpha Chi Rho Fraternity House here. The burglar, who was about 25 years old and who has not been identified by police, was shot after he threatened death to Professor Shappelle and others living in the fraternity building. Receiving a bullet full in the heart, the burglar leaped from a second floor window to the yard. The man rested across the street and died as two policemen reached his side.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

OTTAWA, July 15.—Sir Thomas White will continue as Minister of Finance until his successor is appointed, which will probably be before the end of this month. He has already done some preliminary work in connection with the budget, and the big Dominion fall loan, and is willing to assist his successor get started on this and other business of the department.

Sir Thomas is not likely to make any business plans for several months, during which time he will enjoy partial holidays in Toronto.

REMOVED FROM HOSPITAL TO TORONTO JAIL

Toronto, July 15.—Fred "Jack" Pulwain, one of the two young men who escaped in the early hours from the jail of the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Agincourt, on May 20th, was removed from the General Hospital yesterday to the Jail Hospital. Although the bullet remains in his brain, because of the danger attached to an operation for its removal, Pulwain is in excellent health. However, an eye is affected, and there is danger that he may suffer from loss of memory. As a patient in the General Hospital Pulwain was an expense to the county. Officers were continually on duty at his bedside.

HEIRESS TO $200,000 ESTATE CLAIMANTS

New York, July 15.—Miss Alice De Lamar, daughter of Captain Joseph R. De Lamar, sometimes called the "Monte Cristo of Idaho," and heiress to the bulk of his $30,000,000 estate, has come to the assistance of claimants against the estate who say they lost money through following her father's advice in making investments according to a statement issued by attorneys for the claimants.

The young heiress declared that her father had assured his friends who are now suing, including his housekeeper and the wife of his office manager, that he would guarantee them against loss if they made the investments he recommended. The claimants say they lost more than $100,000 through taking the Captain's advice.

Seven Killed By Floating Mine

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

WASHINGTON, July 15.—One officer and six enlisted men were killed in the destruction of the American mine sweeper, Richard H. Buckley by the explosion of a mine in the North Sea, on July 12. Two other officers were injured.

Doctors Fight Duel With Germs

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 15.—To prove she theory that germs do not cause disease, Dr. H. J. Hasselmann, of St. Paul, challenged Dr. E. W. Hill, executive officer of the Minnesota Public Health Association, to a duel to death with germs. Dr. Hasselmann stipulated that the test will expose themselves to the most virulent of contagious diseases, including typhoid, smallpox and bubonic plague.

Dr. Kettel will use in his defense against germs only sunshine, fresh air and sanitary methods. Dr. Hill will expose himself after scientific inoculation and vaccination. The survivor is to be honored and buried at the funeral of the vanquished according to Dr. Kettel's challenge.

The challenge grew out of the acceptance by Dr. Hill of Dr. Kettel's challenge issued by Dr. J. H. Friend of Toronto in an article, "Do Germs Cause Disease?" published in the Practical Gazette at St. Paul. Dr. Friend is an exponent of Dr. Fraser's place in the duel. Dr. Hill was a bacteriologist in Boston from 1898 to 1906.

FORMER $12 WEEK MAN DRAWS $5,000 YEARLY

WASHINGTON, July 15.—"I know a young man who was a waiter in a small town restaurant in pre-war days for $12 a week and board. He enlisted in the National Army and managed to get a commission as Second Lieutenant. He came back a Captain with a medal and a pension.

"Nothing odder has happened than the boss offered him his old job at $12 with the promise that he would get the position in a few months. He is now drawing $5,000-a-year man now."

"So he is. The other day the young Captain called at the office of the Chief Vocational Officer with a big concern which has a large number of men to handle, and he fit in admirably."

"See if you can get us a discharged army officer for the job."

"As industrial conditions improve, this seems to be the general run of letters to the army employment centres from large employers who are looking for competent employees."

WINNIPEG BILL TO GOVERNMENT

Winnipeg, July 15.—Claiming that in defeating the primary objects of the Winnipeg general strike, which authorities have asserted was an attempt to overthrow constituted authority in the city of Winnipeg fought the battle of all Canada, the Dominion Government may be requested to bear the whole or part of the cost of establishing the special returned soldier constable force during the industrial disturbances.

Alderman J. K. Sparling, chairman of the police commission, announced that the commission at its meeting last night had endorsed a recommendation to the City Council that such an appeal be sent to the Federal authorities. The cost of maintaining the force has been between $200,000 and $215,000, it was stated.

New Fire Hall Will Be Discussed

The City Council meeting last evening was of a short nature, nothing of great moment being done. An adjourned meeting will be held on Friday evening to consider the matter of erecting a new fire hall. Some business of a routine nature was transacted.

Members present were Mayor Platt, Alderman Woodley, Treverton, Ostrom, White, Hunter and Hanna.

In committee of the whole on reports, etc., Ald. Ostrom occupied the chair.

The accounts recommended to be paid by the various committees were passed, also the following recommendations:

That the assessor be notified to fulfil his duties as laid down by the statutes.

That Wm. O'Keefe be remitted an amount of $10 on account of a license issuer by the City Treasurer.

Fire Hall.

The following recommendation from the Fire Committee caused some discussion:

Recommended that a new fire hall be erected on the site at the entrance to Victoria Park, as this locality has been suggested by Mr. Wilson of the Fire Underwriters' Association as the most suitable location for a central station.

Ald. White was opposed to the recommendation owing to the site named.

After some discussion Ald. Hunter moved that the matter be dealt with at once.

Ald. Hanna was not in favor of the site proposed.

Ald. Ostrom desired unanimity of the Council in the matter of a site.

Mayor Platt suggested that discussion on the site and the matter might be delayed for a week.

It was decided to refer the matter to an adjourned meeting of the Council to be held on Friday evening.

Inquiries.

Ald. Hunter asked if on the streets where permanent pavements are being put down the electric companies can be made to put their wires under ground.

Mayor Platt said their was no power to control this.

Ald. Treverton asked when the estimates would be brought down.

The Clerk said the appeals from the Court of Revision would not be decided until Thursday.

Ald. Hunter asked why Mr. H. De-Marsh was not given consideration in his request for water for new buildings.

Ald. White said the pipe will be here shortly.

Peace Celebration.

Mayor Platt asked if it was desir. able to change the date of the peace demonstration. For his part he would rather not.

Ald. White.—Great Britain and the United States are celebrating on July 19th, and it was a day to be commemorated.

Mayor Platt said it is the greatest day in history, the end of the greatest war the world and the return of peace. He had called a public meeting to consider a celebration but only a few attended.

Ald. Woodley—It seem a the citizens have thrown it flat in our face. If the farmers had been given a week's notice it would be better.

The Mayor—Then Saturday stands as the legal day for celebrating peace.

Ald. Woodley—The Mayor and Council have done their part and the citizens have turned it down.

Ald. Hanna said he had suggested making Friday a market day and advertising it. But it is too late now.

It is likely there will be talk or no celebrating, however, as it is almost too late to make flares.

Ald. Hunter asked what about band concerts.

Ald. Hanna declared that Victoria Park was not suited for concerts this year, but plans could be made for holding concerts on other parks.

Introduction of Bylaws.

The following bylaw was given its first reading:

A bylaw to provide for borrowing $26,000 from the Lieutenant-Governor in Council under the provisions of sections 7 and 9 and subsection 3 of section 20 of the Ontario Housing Act, 1919, and for issuing debentures for said amount to be deposited with the Treasurer of the Province of Ontario as collateral security for the payment of said loan.

Motions.

Ald. White moved, seconded by Ald. Hunter, that the chairmen of the different committees submit to the chairman of the executive a statement showing the amount of money they will require to maintain their department for the year 1919 at the next regular meeting of the committee.—Carried.

Council adjourned until Friday night.

New Home Treatment For Banishing Hairs

(Beauty Topic)

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is an easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.

Normal Students Win Certificates

The results of the courses of training for Public and Separate School teachers are announced by the Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education. The successful students of Hastings County in attendance at the Peterborough Normal School are as follows:

The certificates of the successful candidates and the marks of those who failed will be forwarded in due course to the individual addresses. Candidates who failed to obtain the necessary standing for interim second class certificates, but whose marks bring them within the provisions of section 23 (2) of the Normal School Syllabus, will be granted limited third-class certificates, valid for five years, and upon passing the final examination at a Normal School not later than 1921 will be granted interim second-class certificates. Such candidates will be advised of the course they may pursue.

These candidates who have failed to obtain standing will be required to attend the Normal School July 8th and enter at the reopening of the Normal School in January, and complete their examinations in June.

MONTREAL STRIKE ENDS.

Montreal, July 15.—The strike at the shipbuilding plant of the Canadian Vickers, Ltd., which has caused 3,500 employees to be idle for over five weeks, has been called off as far as the Marine Federation is concerned. The 1,700 or 1,800 men thus concerned resumed work on Monday morning, the vote being 78 per cent. in favor of accepting the amended offer of the company.

WOMEN INJURED IN CHICAGO RIOT

Chicago, July 15.—Two women and a man were serious y injured when strikers at the Argo, Illinois plant of the Corn Products Refining Company stopped street cars carrying non-union men to the plant and clashed with armed guards who were aboard the cars. A number of shots were fired. Strikers and guards also clashed near the Argo Hospital and ten persons are reported to have been slightly injured.

First Nights At "The Movies"

Chas. Roy, Fatty Arbuckle and Baby Marie Osborne at Local Theatres.

One of the best comedy dramas in which Charles Ray has appeared for some time, is "Greased Lightning," his latest Thomas H. Ince picture, in which he is appearing at Griffin's the first half of this week. The photo-play affords Mr. Ray abundant opportunities for the display of his exceptional talents. The story deals with the trials and tribulations of a small town inventor struggling for fame and the heart of the skinflint banker's charming young daughter. Andy Fletcher, the character assumed by Mr. Ray, has capped a series of inventions with a ponderous "Little giant potato peeler." He wants to raise capital to promote it and arranges a big demonstration at which he proudly notes is the banker. The exhibition starts well but the blamed machine explodes and bombards the entire company with potatoes. Andy trades his potato peeler for the remnants of a smashed automobile and proceeds to manufacture a joy wagon and enters it in a big auto race. "Greased lightning," the name he has given the speedster, balks at the scratch and just as he gets it in working order, word comes that the banker has been assaulted and robbed and the villians are disappearing over the hill in a powerful car. Andy jumps in "Greased Lightning," pastes all the racers on the track, dashes over the field to the open road and hits a pace that wins. "Fatty" Arbuckle's newest comedy "The Bellboy" is also being shown on the same program; throughout the action the famous stunts of "Fatty" are much in evidence. A new Mutt and Jeff animated comedy cartoon, and a smashing Western picture entitled "Gunning Gunners" with Neal Hart in the stellar role are also being shown on the same program.

BABY KNEW DIFFERENT

A reviewer who thoroughly enjoyed "Dolly's Vacation" which is being screend at the Palace tonight and Wednesday, matinee daily, and which shows Baby Marie Osborne to such fine advantage, also the comic pickaninny, Sambo, who is her laugh-making assistant, declared this picture was a delightful "thought play." Childish imagination, which believes in fairies and peoples the gloaming with strange shapes, has a most interesting part; but, the illusion of the children is surpassed by that of the grown-ups. Mother thought she was an artist—but she wasn't. Dolly thought it was a wild Indian—but it wasn't. Father thought his factory hands were wrong—but they weren't. Uncle thought the kids would ruin his farm—but they didn't quite. Mother and father thought they could live happy apart—but Dolly knew different and proved it. This delightful comedy-drama combining child life with grave problems of matrimony, industry and ambition, is the work of Mrs. George Griffin Lee and was directed by William Bertram, who has achieved wide distinction in his handling of the little star. A funny Luke comedy, and the Canadian News Graphic are also being shown on the same program.

VETERANS THREATEN NOT TO GREET PRINCE

LONDON, Ont., July 15.—Now the Prince of Wales is being drawn into the argument over the the imprisonment of five London war veterans for offences against the Ontario Temperance Act. The men are serving terms at the County Jail for drinking, and are anxious to be liberated in time to participate in next Saturday's Peace demonstration.

The Great War Veterans' Association announced that the returned soldiers would take no part in the proceedings if their comrades were left in the cells. Yesterday they added that if pardon is not granted by Friday night the members of the G. W. V. A. will refrain from taking part in the reception to be tendered the Heir to the Throne when he comes to London next October.

There is, however, reason to believe that the soldiers will be dismissed from the jail in ample time to take part in the Peace Celebration.

DESTROYERS OF THE FOREST.

"The Canadian Forestry Association has a man's size, life-long job on its hands in its work of protecting the future of Canadian industries that are dependent upon the forest and which are seriously threatened with extinction by carelessness with regard to fires," says the Pulp and Paper Magazine. "They have recently put out a booklet in which the story of a camp fire is given as a dialogue between the spirit of flames and a boy who went out in the woods for an adventure. This certainly should bring home to the careless camper not only the danger of allowing a camp fire to get too large, but it also contains some of the most pointed directions for extinguishing a fire that we have seen. The whole booklet is packed with interesting way that makes very good reading and can be made the basis of a very lively evening's meeting for a troop of Boy Scouts or Camp Fire Girls or even for a reading lesson in a school class-room.

"Efficient forest protective orgnhizations are necessary, but the most important of all considerations is to have an intelligent public whose conscience will not permit them to throw lighted matches or hot pipe ashes or cigarette butts promiscuously about the woods, nor to leave camp fires with a single live coal, or permit settlers to burn brush except under perfectly safe conditions. Railroads are pretty well regulated and the fires from locomotives are becoming quite infrequent while section hands are also taking more care in regard to the danger from fire. It is the general public and the individual conscience that must be appealed to in order to prevent fires from starting. It is only by keeping fires from getting a start that we can hope to make our forests completely safe from this danger."

ONLY A SCRAP OF PAPER.

The official peace celebration next Saturday will lose some of its effectiveness through the knowledge that Germany, although defeated, is not contrite and agrees to the peace terms only under pressure and because she has been shorn of her power for evil for the time being at least. The war began with Germany regarding her treaties as scraps of paper and the war ends with the same spirit shown in the peace negotiations. The Berlin Vorwaerts, recognized as the organ of the present German Government, shows plainly just how far Germany can be trusted in the following pronouncement upon the peace treaty:

"Extortionate pressure renders signature of the peace treaty WORTHLESS. We must never forget it is only A SCRAP OF PAPER. Treaties based on violence can keep their validity only so long as force exists. DO NOT LOSE HOPE. THE RESURRECTION DAY COMES.

Other German papers and public men speak in the same strain, showing that world peace will continue and the provisions of the treaty of peace will be fulfilled only by the Allies continuing to act in concert and preserving the means to prevent a resurrection of the evils hinted at in the Berlin paper's threat of what Germany will do to the "scrap of paper" if she ever gets the opportunity.

Stern watchfulness and efficient preparedness must be the watchwords of the Allied nations to preserve peace for the world.

A LOSS TO CANADA.

The resignation of Sir Thomas White as Canadian Minister of Finance can not be received by true Canadians, regardless of party affiliations, except with keen regret. Sir Thomas has served Canada faithfully and well. As a statesman and financier he has proved his worth under the great strain of war conditions and his outstanding ability has been one of Canada's strongest bulwarks in war-time, when a strong hand at the financial helm was needed to keep the ship of state steady and keep it away from the rocks which threatened. Sir Robert Borden has been a war-time premier of whom Canada is justly proud, but he has been fortunate in having such an able assistant as Sir Thomas White who not only made a magnificent record as director of Canadian finances but with rare discretion, talent and tact, filled the position of leader of the Government during the prolonged but necessary absence of Sir Robert Borden overseas representing Canada in the great councils of the nations while the momentous questions of world peace and reparation were being decided. Sir Thomas White has proved himself a great Canadian and if he can not be induced to remain in public life his departure from the Government will be a heavy loss to Canada. In any event his extremely valuable services to Canada will always be remembered with deep appreciation and his public record will ever be an inspiration to those who follow him in the arena of national government.

Talking about a new central fire station for Belleville, what about a modern fire alarm system? The antiquated relic of village circumlocution still in use here for calling out the fire brigade has nothing to commend it and when it is relegated to the scrap heap, where it belongs, its successor will be hailed with delight, especially by citizens possessing telephones who have been roused from slumber in the middle of the night to ring up the police station to pass the word to the firemen that their services are required on Simply-Dimp street.

A writer in the National Review (London) in an analysis of the American army's achievements in the war, says that if the war had lasted another year or eighteen months longer the American army would have ranked among the greatest armies of the world, and that when the war came to an end it was "learning hard and fast." All of which is another way of saying that if the war had lasted long enough the American army might have justified the claims of some of the enthusiasts that "the United States won the war."

Benson's CORN STARCH

For Tomorrow's Dessert

The question of variety in summer desserts never troubles the woman who knows the possibilities of Benson's Corn Starch, the choicest product of the corn.

Benson's Corn Starch is equally fine for crisp, delicate pastries as it is for simple puddings; it is good for cakes and for pie fillings to say nothing of Blanc Mange, Custards and Ice Cream.

Try one of these recipes for tomorrow's dessert—

The Canada Starch Co. Limited - - Montreal

Blanc Mange

From two tablespoonfuls of Benson's Corn Starch and one quart of milk, make a blanc mange in the usual way. Flavor with vanilla and when cooling add a cupful of whipped cream. Serve with fruit or with a sauce made of a cupful of sugar, a cupful of boiling water, a tablespoonful of Benson's Corn Starch and flavoring to taste.

Mock Cream Pie

Beat the yolks of three eggs, one cupful of sugar and three tablespoonfuls of Benson's Corn Starch until smooth; add a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of vanilla and one pint of milk; bake with one crust and when cool cover with whipped cream.

Coffee Custard

Heat 1 pint of milk and ¾ cup of Lily White Sugar in double boiler. Add two eggs, well beaten, and 2 tablespoonfuls of Benson's Corn Starch mixed with a little cold milk. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Flavor with coffee extract. When very cool serve.

On Parliament Hill

By Tom King

Usually the political pool is placid for a time after prorogation. The ministers leave for their vacations almost as soon as the members of parliament leave for their homes, and there is a period of inanimate and inaction. But this year on the very day following prorogation came the semi-official announcement, of Sir Thomas White's resignation as minister of finance. The news leaked out prematurely for it had not been designed to make the resignation public until his successor had been chosen. However, the resignation is an accomplished fact. The efforts of some of the government papers to picture Sir Thomas as undecided or reluctant or willing to be coaxed back, do him a grave injustice.

Beyond doubt, a big timber is with drawn from the edifice of Union government by the retirement of Sir Thomas White. It is natural, if not unavoidable, that as governments grow older, outstanding ministers one by one retire and the prime minister assumes complete command. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's cabinet of all the talents was gradually transformed into a government consisting of Sir Wilfrid, himself, a few personal friends, and some executive heads. In the case of the Borden government we have seen retire one by one Hon. F. D. Monk, Sir Sam Hughes, Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. T. A. Crerar and Sir Thomas White. All these men however much as they disagreed among themselves and however much they may have differed in the matter of ability, were men of strong individuality. The men who succeed them manage the departments well, but are less consulted about the general policy of the government. For example, General Mewburn and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne are able administrators, but neither one ever speaks in the house upon any subject not immediately connected with his own department.

During the war the financial departments has been of supreme importance and it is not too much to say that seventy-five per cent of all the important legislation since the commencement of the war has been drafted and carried through the house by Sir Thos. White. For example he was charged with the heavy responsibility of a railway problem which became acute in 1914. It was he who secured the forty per cent. (the first block) of the Canadian Northern common stock for the government; it was he who again appointed Mr. Drayton-Acworth commission, and following its report acquired the entire Canadian Northern Railway system for the people of Canada. It was he who planned the Grand Trunk Pacific receivership and brought to almost complete fruition, the negotiations for the nationalization of the old Grand Trunk.

Not unnaturally, politicians and people are asking, who is to carry on the great work Sir Thomas White has performed up to this time and will the government depart from his policies or follow them out to complete development? It is an open secret that public ownership has lukewarm friends, perhaps enemies, in the cabinet and the new minister of finance may reflect the views of Montreal rather than the views of Ontario. If the government continues the general policy it has pursued it can no doubt count upon the aid and support of the retiring minister. If on the other hand, the government become reactionary it may find a powerful critic in Sir Thomas White, who will undoubtedly retain his seat in the house of commons.

It is idle to speculate upon the reasons that may have moved Sir Thomas White to resign from the cabinet. The official reasons will be disclosed in the letter of resignation and other, no reason why they should not be accepted. Many thousands of his fellow countrymen hope some day to see him prime minister, and there will always be a large party in the house anxious and willing to follow his lead. On the other hand powerful interests and financial groups would be glad to see Sir Thomas retire altogether from political life. They would like to check the onward march of public ownership even to the extent of taking the Canadian Northern off the hands of the government. The presence of Sir Thomas White in the house may be a great safeguard to the public and will provide a restraining influence upon the government.

HOW ABOUT MEIGHEN ?

Hon. Arthur Meighen who goes from one portfolio to another like the little girl going from one plate to another at the teamble in Alice in Wonderland, is said to be aspiring to become minister of finance. A friendly colleagist in one of the government papers reminds us that, Mr. Meighen got the gold medal in mathematics at some school examinations and has been filling in his spare time for many years reading works on currency and finance. The information thus acquired has until this time remained undisclosed and perhaps unsuspected in Mr. Meighen's breast. He has certainly taken no part in financial discussions and has never been thought of as acting minister of finance. At present he is administering the interior department and also the department of justice in the absence of Hon. C. J. Doherty overseas.

There is no question of Mr. Meighen's ability his passion for details, his tireless industry and his courage in riding rough-shod over a difficult situation. He is a politician, and a logician as well as a mathematician and lawyer and these all go to make him a formidable opponent. For example in the house the other night he took the position that the Borden government could not prosecute profiteers and combiners unless at the same time they prosecuted every man that got drunk, spat on the sidewalk or stole a loaf of bread. He seriously argued that there was no essential difference in the matter of offences but that they were all in the same class so long as they were defined in the criminal code.

PROFITEERING

The laws passed at this session against profiteering and combines and intended to lessen the cost of living are hopelessly crippled by the fact that no method is provided for their enforcement. The department of commerce cannot punish profiteers and the Dominion government will not prosecute so the whole thing depends on the provincial government or private prosecutor. When this was pointed out to Mr. Meighen he made the sweeping statement that the federal government never instituted any criminal prosecution. This remarkable statement was immediately contradicted by a score of members who gave instances in which the Dominion government had prosecuted offenders for smuggling, counterfeiting, robbing the mail, illicit distilling, illegal fishing and the like.

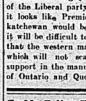

Then Mr. Meighen qualified his observation by saying that the federal government never intervened except for crimes against the revenue. To this, Mr. Jacobs of Montreal replied that the Dominion government had interfered to punish men who robbed banks. This brought from the acting minister of justice a contemptuous retort, and he was about to get away with it when Hon. Rodolph Lemieux gave some first-hand testimony. It appears that when the officials of the Bank at Ville Marie were indicted, the Dominion government conducted the prosecution, sending the solicitor-general of that city, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick to Montreal for that purpose.

However, a man convinced against his will is still of the same opinion and Mr. Meighen fairly inveighed against the proposal that certain federal laws like those protecting consumers from profiteers should be enforced by the federal government. It is this sort of pig-headedness which militates against the usefulness of Mr. Meighen He would master the details of the finance department but he would never surrender any prejudice or change any opinion which he brought to the department.

Every one desires to see the board of commerce for Canada do well. The board will start handicapped by the failure to provide it with powers to enforce its own decrees or even criminally prosecute offenders. If the right man, however, is placed at the head of the commission he will soon discover and make known the defects in the law and insist upon wide powers of enforcement. If he is appointed promptly and gets to work without delay he will probably have some amendments to propose to the law when parliament meets in October. The legislation of this session will have to be "scrambled" as Sir Robert Borden would say, i. e., it will have to be qualified and remade to work more smoothly.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

The next big event here is the national Liberal convention. Preparations are being made for a big time. The work of organization is being largely conducted though in a most unobtrusive manner, by Hon. Charles Murphy. Upon the issue of that convention will largely depend the future of the Liberal party. At the moment it looks like a Premier Martin of Saskatchewan would be the leader. But it will be difficult to frame a platform that the whole party can stand upon and which will not scare off substantial support in the manufacturing districts of Ontario and Quebec.

The knights were contemptuously silent, but the rest-at-arms laughed at the jest and derision.

"You have your answer, Sir Herald," said I do not take it from charlatans to Count Guy of Marmorel, and he must answer me."

"Look round you then," cried Count Guy of Marmorel, "and see what answer I am able to give you."

The herald glanced beyond the line of knights and my own eyes followed his look. Every gun and maxim had been swung round from its embrasure and was turned to a common centre-point blank on the herald, Count Guy his knights and all the mass of common soldiers. Beside each piece of artillery stood a knot of our sailors, alert for action. They could have blown the whole crowd of us into a heap of mangled flesh in five minutes. "Shall we bind them now, Sir Herald," the Count continued, "and deliver them into your hands, or shall we await their consent?"

"I do not understand you, Count Guy," the herald answered haughtily "What is this foolery? Have you no plain answer to a plain question?"

"It is certain that you do not understand," the knight said drily "But I will make things clear to you. You do not understand that we are in the power of these men, and that if I were to agree to the proposition of your king, they would sweep you and me and every living soul that stands about us into a bloody heap—corpses and spatter our dead bodies on the rock as men crush insects with their hands."

"I have heard of these weapons, Count Guy," he answered coldly, "and it may be as you say. Am I to understand that your answer is 'No?'"

"That most certainly must be my answer. It grieves me to give it, but it is enforced on me."

"And your answer might have been different, if you had been your own master?" the herald said, with a touch of sarcasm in his voice.

"It might have been different, Count Guy, replied grimly, "under different circumstances."

The herald smiled. "Then I will deliver you this message from the king. To you, Count Guy, to you, Sir Thule de Brie, and to you, man of Asturia. The king will give your possessions to those who have served him loyally, and will decorate the walls of his city with your bodies before another month has passed."

Sir Thule de Brie moved forward. "Tell your king from me," he answered, "that before a month has passed he will have no walls to decorate and that those who have served him loyally will be where earthly possessions will interest them but little."

The herald wheeled his horse round sharply, and followed by his escort, rode swiftly across the rocky tableland and disappeared from view. When he had gone, Count Guy of Marmorel broke into a hearty laugh.

"What think you of that my master, Was it not a jest?, he said "Methinks he will carry back a wholesome fear of the strange weapons in his mind, and perchance some false hopes in his heart."

"I would rather you had spoken your mind plainly," replied Sir Thule de Brie. "But I took the liberty of speaking it for you."

"Sir Thule de Brie," he answered quietly, "you are a brave man, but no versed in the craft which saves the fortunes of a leader. I have led the king to suppose that I am in your power, and that our force is divided in opinion. He will act accordingly and so play into our hands." And with these words he rode back to his tent while Sir Thule de Brie watched him with a faint smile upon his face.

* * * * *

Two months passed and we were still perched upon the top of the hills, waiting for an opportunity to strike at the city beneath us. The cold grew more intense, and night and day a hundred great fires blazed in our camp, and the spring of water was frozen. It was very weary work and I began to think that it might last for years. I was indeed informed that Count Guy had relied on a revolt in the city itself, and had hoped that the gates would have opened from within. But in this he had been disappointed. The place was watched day and night through a large telescope and there had not been the slightest sign of an unusual disturbance.

We were not, however, idle during this period of waiting. Day after day two thousand of our men toiled in the valley below and drew long entrenchments and parallels across the plain till they were within sight of the city itself. The enemy made several stories to stop the work, but a couple of maxims approached behind the higher earthworks and a few shells from our fifteen-pounders on the hill turned the scale in our favour and only on two occasions did they fight our way hand to hand.

As each day passed, Count Guy of Marmorel's face grew more stern and dark and I think indeed, that he spent very little time with the Princess He passed hour after hour looking through some embrasure, motionless and deep in thought occasionally studying a complete and accurate plan of the city but addressing no one and curtly answering anyone who came to him on business connected with the army. Every evening he and Sir Thule de Brie, and his chief knights would sit in consultation and discuss new schemes to take the capital.

Sir Edward Carson Warns America

Will Brook No Interference in Irish Affairs by Any Country.

BELFAST, Ireland, July 15.—The Twelfth of July celebrations were carried out Saturday in Ulster on a large scale. Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist leaders, speaking at the Orange demonstration at Holywood, Belfast, said:

"There is a campaign going on in America at the present moment, fostered by the Catholic Church, which will soon be joined by the Germans and their funds, in order to create a great anti-British feeling.

"Heaven knows I want good feeling between America and this country. I believe the whole future of the world probably depends upon the relations between the United States and ourselves, but I am not going to submit to this kind of a campaign, whether for friendship or any other purpose.

"I seriously say to America to-day —you attend to your own affairs; we will attend to ours. You look after your own questions at home; we will look after ours. We will brook no interference in our own affairs by any country, however powerful. It is not for that that we waged the great war of independence, which has just been concluded. What right has an American mission to come to this country—come here in a breach of hospitality of one nation towards another—to attempt to stir up strife in matters in which they were not connected?

Encouraging Lawlessness

"The encouragement those men gave the Sinn Fein party has created for the British Government far more difficulties than they ever had before. I believe that the visit of those men and the encouragement they gave to lawlessness, which is being preached throughout the land, has added greatly to the campaign of assassination of innocent policemen who were only doing their duty to their King and country, and who were foully murdered on the roadside, with men looking on who had not the courage to arrest the assassins or give such information as would bring them to justice."

Sir Edward Carson denounced Sir Horace Plunkett, who, he said, was elected chairman of the Irish Convention because he was "universally hated and distrusted by both sides," and, added the speaker, "a nice mess he has made of it."

"I do mind this gentleman," Sir Edward continued, "who has bozed the compass of political profigacy, walking in and out of the Carlton Club and spying on those who are real Unionists."

Secret Ballot To Test Strike

New South Wales Orders Vote to Get Seamen's True Opinion.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 15.—Virtually all shipping in the harbors of Melbourne and Sydney has been tied up in consequence of the seamen's strike which began several months ago in Queensland and has extended to Victoria and New South Wales. The resultant shortage of coal will be the most disastrous feature of the strike, and the cessation of interstate trade is already being felt in Queensland, the supply of wheat and flour having run off.

The New South Wales Government has ordered a secret ballot of the seamen regarding a resumption of the strike. The union is said to be entirely in favor of settling the dispute by arbitration. Acting Premier Holman has also announced that the Queensland Government for permission to charter cargo vessels to relieve the situation, but Mr. Watt withheld consent pending certain conferences which were to be held in Melbourne.

YOUNG LIEUTENANT SHOT LEAVING BASEBALL PARK

Walter G. Squires, a construction engineer who recently returned from service in France as a lieutenant in the Aviation Corps, was shot dead in sight of a large crowd leaving a baseball park here Saturday. Joe Mumitserio, alleged to have fired the shot, was roughly handled by the crowd, and was taken to police headquarters, where he was charged with first-degree murder. He said that Squires had insulted him as they were leaving the park. Squires was getting into an automobile with his fiancee when he was shot.

The Filipino Twins

Canadian Pacific Liner "Empress of Russia."

Rivals to the famous Siamese twins were found on the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Russia," which left Victoria, B.C., a few days ago, bound for the Orient. They are Lucio and Simplicio Godino, perfectly developed specimens of humanity, apart from the fact that they are inseparable, their bodies being joined at the hip.

The twins are eleven years of age, and are native born Filipinos, having first been the objects of curiosity at Samar, Philippine Islands. They have been in the United States for the past five years, and were educated at St. John's College, Washington, D.C. They are highly intelligent, and speak the English language fluently, to say nothing of a polished vocabulary in American slang.

In spite of their handicap the boys are able to get about with amazing speed. Lucio invariably takes the lead when the two are inclined to indulge in a little exercise and Simplicio goes along too, with a remarkable back-stepping movement. Displaying surprising intelligence for their age the twins are eager to converse on practically any topic, and they never lack an interested audience.

There are 4m other brothers and sisters in the family.

The little fellows were sitting on the steps of the grand staircase of the "Empress of Russia," and talked animatedly of the wonderful things they had seen during their travels without being conscious of the fact that they were the centre of curiosity.

"Sure mike," they exclaimed simultaneously and with considerable emphasis when they were asked if they were happy and contented.

While of a good-natured disposition the twins, like all full-blooded boys, have their quarrels and on occasions are disposed to fight.

"Oh, yes, we scrap at times," they explained, "but we are unable to get away from each other and soon make it up."

While in the United States the twins attracted much attention in the surgical world. The surgical specialists of the John Hopkins Hospital at Philadelphia, and other notable surgical institutions, declared that the twins could be separated without danger, but the boys declined to be operated upon, being obsessed with the fear that they could not survive the operation.

"We get along well together, and are happy enough," they explained. Despite their close physical association, the little chaps think along altogether different lines, but almost invariably they answer questions simultaneously. They are very bright boys with ideas of their own.

Would Be Priests.

They have not studied to follow any particular occupation, but when asked what profession they would like to follow, Lucio readily exclaimed, "I would like to be a priest." "And what would your brother like to be?" "I would like to be a priest also" ventured Simplicio.

The twins are fully versed in the history of the original "Siamese twins." "They lived to be fifty-eight years of age," said Lucio, "and we expect to stay together for a long time."

Remarkably agile, the twins displayed their ability in this respect by scampering around the decks and they negotiated the stairs with the greatest of ease.

They are taking along with them trunks loaded with interesting souvenirs and a well-stocked library of books. Both are great readers.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE

Relatives of E. V. Doyle, aged 23, of Toronto, son of Michael Doyle of that city, formerly of Plumtrih in Brockville and a native of Edwardsburg, are much concerned regarding his whereabouts. Doyle boarded the steamer Assiniboia at Port McNicoll as a passenger, and was last seen on the boat at 11 o'clock last Sunday night. Since then no trace has been found of him. His baggage and hat were found in his berth after the boat docked.

NOTICE

LEAVING FOR ENGLAND

Principal R. Bruce Taylor of Queens' University is leaving for England during the week. He will return before the opening of the fall session.

DESERTER IS FINED

J. H. Beamish, Merrickville, was fined $250 and costs or six months in jail by County Magistrate Bradshaw at Kingston for desertion. He was to have appeared for military service on April 15, 1918, but failed to show up.

HIGH PRICES FOR HOGS

Live hogs still continue to advance in price. Today Mr. D. Scott and Son shipped from here a large number of hogs and calves. The former brought $23.50 per hundred weight and calves 16c and 16c. per pound.

B. C. PASTOR FOR KINGSTON

Rev. Alexander Dunn, of Vancouver B.C., has accepted a call to the pulpit of Zion Presbyterian church, Kingston, extended him by the congregation of that church, succeeding the Rev. John Hood, who retired recently on account of illhealth.

SEEN HERE BEFORE

William Harris, who was yesterday by Magistrate Masson sentenced to six months at the industrial Farm for vagrancy, was same five years ago here sentenced for a similar term. His proper name is Joseph Whelan, and he is a genuine tramp.

CHARGED WITH DESERTION

William Logan was this morning charged on information as a deserter. He is a member of the Canadian Garrison Artillery at Kingston and has been absent from duty for such a period as to render him liable as a deserter. He will be taken back to Kingston by an escort.

CAPT. JORDAN IMPROVED

Dr. J. F. Sparks, physician of Capt. S. Jordan, the unfortunate officer who was semi-conscious for over a month following injury in a railway accident near Belleville, reports that his condition is wonderfully improved and he is able to go out driving every other day for a few hours. Capt. Jordan made a great fight for life and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his successful recovery.—Kingston Standard.

Tyranny Practised By The Japs in Korea

Christians Submitted to Unspeakable Torture, Says Missionary Report.

NEW YORK, July 15.—A report of alleged Japanese atrocities in Korea was made public at the headquarters of the Presbyterian Church in America. It is the result of investigations by representatives in Korea of the Presbyterian Church following the imprisonment from Korea was transmitted by such means that it escaped the Japanese censors.

The report says:

"Hundreds of Koreans who had professed Christianity are said to have been driven by Japanese gendarmes at the point of bayonets into churches there to be fired upon through open windows as they huddled in terror, still refusing to recant, in the flames as the places of worship were put to the torch. Most of these victims it is narrated were men. Surviving women and children were left in destitution."

WOMEN SUFFER INDIGNITIES

"Preliminary police examinations of Koreans accused of complicity in the revolutionary movement are said in the reports of the investigators to include 'every human refinement in brutality.'"

An American resident of Korea said that "the examination of women who have been arrested for their activity in the independent movement is the most disgraceful and humiliating possible between and Chinese women," he added, "have the same feelings of delicacy as Europeans, a modesty not shared by Japanese of either sex." He accuses the Japanese of taking advantage of this situation to increase the distress of women prisoners forced to undergo examination by the police and says cultured and refined Korean women were subjected to the grossest indignities.

Germany Must Pay Austrian War Dept.

MELBOURNE, Australia July 15—"If the bill for the war loans does not include the war debt resting on us Australia will be grievously disappointed" declared acting Prime Minister Watt, in a recent statement in a comment on the peace treaty. The is taken as indicating the position of the Commonwealth on the distribution of the reparation exacted from the Central Empires. It is understood here that of the first installment of $5,000,000,000 Australia is to receive $200,000,000 as her share, although the Commonwealth has been left in doubt as to how she will fare on the entire question of indemnity.

Speaking of the treaty as a whole Mr. Watt said:

"The impression gained by a first perusal is that it is drastic, but when one's memory goes back over the past four and a half years the view that the victors have been generous to the barbaric foe gathers strength. The League of Nations is the most gigantic experiment ever attempted by humanity."

A large percentage of the people employed in the manufacture of serums and vaccines are women.

A large percentage of the women workers have organized and affiliated with various labor organizations.

'Pussyfoot' Man Goes To England With Wrong Idea

LONDON, July 16.—"Pussyfoot" Johnson had a column and a half interview in the Daily Mail wherein he was said to have come to England from the United States to carry out a campaign to make the country dry. The Mail quoted Johnson as saying that the British temperance organizations "look upon it as an event of a year to come here," the "us" referring to the Anti-Saloon League and Johnson was further reported as announcing "our intention is to stay years if necessary."

The Mail story concluded as follows: "Pussyfoot" Johnson is anxious to point out that everything will be done in this country through the British temperance organizations already existing here. The Anti-Saloon League of North America is not interfering directly in our domestic situation. It is, however, going to solve what apparently has been our temperance organization's greatest difficulty until now—finance."

Johnson left London for Finland. The honorary secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance, the slimmest temperance organization in the country referring to Johnson said:

"It is true the alliance is going to have an autumn campaign all over the country, but it will not be for prohibition, but to bring the claims of local veto before the leaders of the nation. There is not the slightest intention of trying to force the British public into prohibition by American methods, as we want similar powers for England and Wales to those Scotland will exercise in November, 1920 under the Temperance (Scotland) Act of 1918.

JOHNSON IN ERROR

"It is absolutely untrue to say Mr. Johnson is here at the invitation of the British temperance leaders. He came here as an investigator of conditions, on behalf of the Anti-Saloon League and in connection with the world convention at Washington. One of the basic principles of the convention is that while each country would help another, each country runs its own propaganda work in its own way and decides its own lines of campaign.

"Johnson quite misunderstands the position as it was decided at the convention, and it is absolutely untrue he is in any way directing our propaganda work. While as for 'butting in' in our elections here, that would be disastrous.

"I have met the leaders of the Anti-Saloon League in America and they would disclaim any such programme as is attributed to Johnson. He is not entitled to speak in any way for the British temperance movement and not a penny of American money is behind our campaign."

Saskatchewan Crop Reports Are Bad

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

REGINA, July 16.—About one-fifth of the Saskatchewan crop is a failure and many people in the affected zone will need food for themselves and stock and seed next spring. Much stock will have to be exported from the province as it is admitted there is not enough feed even if scientifically distributed to feed all.

When There Was No Cold Storage And No Word Spelled "Profiteer"

INGERSOLL July 16.—Five old-timers, meeting by chance at the market Saturday, exchanged reminiscences of by-gone market days. Meantime a group of modern buyers, haunted by the high-cost-of-living, gathered around and listened with eager ears and eyes bulging.

"I remember an experience I had on this market when a boy," said one septuagenarian. "My brother and I bought 25 roosters from a neighbor with the speculative purpose of killing, plucking and selling them. We devoted a whole day to getting them ready to market. We drove in several loads, and, after standing here for some hours, finally disposed of the lot at one shilling each. They cost us ten cents each alive, leaving us a profit of only 63 cents."

"I recall bringing toresdilmitt cents, "I recall bringing toresdilmitt cents, "I recall bringing to this market a fine young turkey weighing twenty pounds. There was no demand, and, after tedious waiting, I accepted $1 for it."

A third member of the group shoved back the clock between 40 and 50 years. He had taken some excellent geese, all carefully dressed, to London, and secured 25 cents each for them, the best price offering.

"So it would appear that in those days a dollar didn't look like thirty-or, rather, three—cents."

Public Holiday Saturday To Observe Peace Day

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS PLACES WILL CLOSE IN ACCORDANCE WITH ROYAL PROCLAMATION, AND PEACE DAY WILL BE OBSERVED WITH APPROPRIATE CEREMONIES —CITIZENS MEETING TONIGHT TO ARRANGE DETAILS.

As there seems to be some uncertainty in regard to a general observance locally of the Public Holiday proclaimed by the Dominion Government for Saturday next, to celebrate the conclusion of peace, there should be a large and representative attendance at the meeting called for the City Hall this evening to arrange a suitable program. In every part of the British Empire Saturday will be observed as Peace Day in accordance with Royal Proclamation supplemented by the endorsation and proclamation of the various governments concerned, and the United States will also celebrate Saturday as Peace Day from coast to coast. This is one occasion which should be universally observed, and is hardly capable of local postponement if the spirit of the occasion is to be fully carried out. There was at first some difference of opinion among the business men of Belleville as to the advisability of observing the day as a public holiday on account of Saturday being the chief business day of the week. The merchants in considering the question of closing the stores on Saturday were concerned principally for the convenience of patrons who are accustomed to make their purchases on that day for Sunday, as a matter of service, the question of profit not being such a factor as some people seem to think.

It is to be hoped that representative citizens will make it a point to attend the public-meeting tonight so that a definite decision can be arrived at and program arranged for Belleville's observance of Peace Day.

A committee of merchants this morning canvassed all of the local stores and a general agreement to close on Saturday was arrived at.

All that remains now is to arrange a suitable program in accordance with the importance of the occasion.

Returned Soldiers Will Be Released

TORONTO, July 16.—All the 175 returned men in jail throughout Ontario for offences against the Ontario Temperance Act will be released prior to peace celebrations, on Saturday of this week. Such was the assurance given yesterday by Premier Hearst to the deputation from the Grand Army of Canada, which waited upon him on Saturday for such action.

The Ontario Licensee Commission, Sir William states, is now making inquiries with the view to obtaining the names of all returned men now in jail for breaches of the Act, and (as rapidly as these names are obtained together with particulars of the cases, orders will be issued for the release of the prisoners. This action will be taken in cases of all returned men convicted under the O.T.A., regardless of the length of their sentences and all releases will be made before Saturday. "It may be an unusual course of action," the Premier smiled, "but the occasion is an unusual one."

THE UNEASY PAVEMENT.

(Cleveland Motorist).

They took a little gravel, and they took a little tar,
And various ingredients imported from afar.
They hammered it and rolled it, and when they went away,
They said they had a pavement that would last for many a day.

But they came with picks and smote it to lay a water main;
And in time they called the workmen to put it back again.
To run a railway cable they took it up once more,
And later put it back again just where it was before.

They took it up for conduits to run the telephone,
And then they put it back again as hard as any stone.
They took it up for wires to feed the electric lights,
And then they put it back again: which was no more than right.

Oh, the pavement's full of furrows, there are patches everywhere;
You'd like to ride upon it, but it surely wears the dare.
It's a very handsome pavement—a credit to our town:
They're always digging of it up, or putting of it down.

Liberals Face Hard Problem In Naming Leader

OTTAWA, July 16.—The light in the Liberal window is flickering. Whether it shall flame up or flare out is the main issue confronting the Liberal convention, for the platforms of which t'e log-rollers are already busy.

The practical politicians realize that political the party's chances are very slim, unless the breach between the Laurier wing and the Liberal-Unionists is healed and white-washed over. On the other side there is a strong and still irreconcilable body of stand-patters, who swear they will never forgive nor forget the "treachery," who brand all who differed from the Lauriestes as "Tories" and who would rather risk another term in the cold shades than compromise.

At present the practical men have the floor. Their advocacy is for a leader whose record is sound in the war, and who so manoeuvered his self, as not to offend too much the anti-conscriptionists. He knows political trenches the name most frequently heard is that of Hon. W. S. Fielding, who, while giving temporary support to the Union Government, never really went up any enthusiasm about it, and stayed so near the top rail of the fence all through the fuss that it was no effort for him to drop back on the "anti" side again.

The fact that Fielding is well along in years is not very much in his favor, is urged in his favor rather than contrariwise. The plea is openly made that he would be a short-time leader, holding office while the party tried out the younger aspirants.

HAS PROVINCIAL SUPPORT

Most of the provincial Premiers, it is said will support Fielding, and the report is current that Sir Lomer Gouin in particular has signified that he will not oppose him.

Next to Fielding, in popular approval in Dame Rumor's court is Premier Martin, of Saskatchewan, who was never a moderate in the contentious Liberal-Unionist than Mr. Fielding. Martin stayed in his dug-out for a couple of months carefully testing all the winds of opposing doctrine, before he allowed his craft to drift on the rising tide of western Unionism. He has shown without a shadow of doubt patters that Fielding and would probably have a fighting chance if the party as a whole were all sure of his ability to unite. General report marks him as an amiable, plausible chap, with no black marks on his political record, but appears to lack without a shadow of doubt required to pilot on opposition party to victory. Hon. A. B. Hudson, of Manitoba, and Hon. Mr. Rodger, of Ontario, are also spoken of but not seriously.

MONTREALER ON LIST

Another dark horse is A. R. McMaster, of Montreal, in whose favor it is urged that he is a Quebec representative, which will give him strength in his province that no one else can. He has held he has taken a free trade stand, which will help him in the West. Against these arguments stands the unfortunate fact that Mr. McMaster has not succeeded in making himself popular with the party in Ottawa and it is well known through the rest of the country.

Of course there is D. D. McKenzie the present leader. He is as standpat as the rest, and still retains a little of the glamor of being Laurier's seat mate. He has the confidence if not the enthusiasm of the Old Liners, particularly in Quebec. He has played a fairly straight though stodgy game throughout the past session, except that his tariff views have antagonized the radical Westerners. It is still on the cards that none of the aspirants may develop enough strength to command anything like unanimous support, in which case "D. D." may keep the mantle.

87 ARE DEAD, 14 SHIPS SUNK, LOSS $200,000,000, MILLION SHEEP DROWNED

APPALLING STORM SWEEPS CHILI WITH THE PROBABILITY THAT HUNDREDS ARE DROWNED AND MANY SHIPS WRECKED—ONE MILLION SHEEP AND 100,000 CATTLE LOST, ACCORDING TO REPORTS FROM THE ARGENTINE, WHERE STORM HIT TOO.

VALPARAISO, Chile, July 16.—Eighty-seven persons are known to have been drowned and the loss of life may here much greater in a hurricane which swept this port Saturday and Sunday.

Fourteen vessels of various sizes were sunk and about a hundred lighters and other small craft were destroyed. The property loss is estimated at $200,000,000.

Among the steamers lost were the Don Carlos, 1,114 net tonnage; Toro, 76 tons; the tug Cordillera of 107 tons; the old Hulls, Lima, of 2,390 tons; the Longtue and the Ilhata.

The German steamer Sais, which was washed ashore and pounded to pieces, lost ten of its crew.

ONE MILLION SHEEP DROWNED.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 16.—Government reports show that 1,000,000 sheep and 100,000 cattle have been drowned in floods in the southern part of Buenos Aires province. The railways and telegraph communication have been interrupted, and several sections in that region have been completely isolated for more than a week from this cause. The floods were due to a month of the heaviest rainfall ever recorded here. Over on the Chilean side of Argentina there have been further heavy snowfalls along the trans-Andine railway, causing new damage to the line. At one point the debris on the tracks has accumulated to a depth of fifty yards. The snow in this region has been more or less continuous for a month, and in some places is more than 25 feet deep. A small party of Americans arrived here overland from the Pacific seaport of Antofagasta, Chile, last night. They reported almost unendurable hardships during their week's journey.

Large Expansion Of Local Steel Industry

A re-organization of the Tivan-Steel Company, Limited has been effected with an increase in capital stock to five million dollars. Mr. A. P. Gillies, who has had a wide experience in mining and milling operations is now connected with the Company as Consulting Engineer and is very optimistic as to the possibilities of a large steel industry in Belleville. Mr. Gillies states that the ores of Hastings are unequalled for commercial purposes and that there is a great quantity of Vanadium here which is in great demand at two dollars a pound. The Tivani Company is in communication with the Dominion and Provincial Governments in connection with the expansion of the steel industry here and has in view the extension of a branch steel industry in British Columbia where the Government bounty would be of great assistance. Orders are expected from the Dominion Government for steel plates in connection with the ship building industry. It is said the electric smelting process developed by Mr. J. W. Evans of The Tivani Electric Steel Company has proven completely successful and will be the principal factor in the contemplated expansion of the local steel industry.

A Movie Tragedy Staged At Trenton

Newspaper Story That Four Men Were Killed in Motor Car Accident Evidently a Hoax.

A special despatch from Trenton to the Toronto Globe dated yesterday gives "gruesome details" of four unknown men meeting horrible death when a big touring car plunged over the crest of "the mountain" there. The despatch says that the bodies were viewed by hundreds of citizens but could not be identified. Possibly if the "old clothes man" had been called in he might have identified the victims for inquiry at Trenton today elicited the information that while an automobile did make a spectacular plunge from "the mountain," at the pimple behind the town is called, the occupants were "dummies" and the whole affair staged to fit in with a news tragedy, being filmed by the Canadian Film company, which operates at Trenton. The despatch to the Globe was evidently intended for a hoax.

Returned Soldier Killed By Collingwood Farmer

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

COLLINGWOOD, July 16.—Jack Mooney, a returned soldier, aged thirty, was shot and killed this morning by Amos Sherrick, a farmer, aged sixty, on the latter's farm about two miles from town. Sherrick found Mooney in his pig pen and when the ex-soldier attempted to get away Sherrick shot him, the charge taking effect in Mooney's shoulder, death ensuing in fifteen minutes. Sherrick is under detention, but no charge has been laid as yet.

DIFFERENCE OF AN HOUR.

Owing to the continued strike of employees, who have been out since the 9th of May, the future of the Canadian Locomotive Works at Kingston appears uncertain. Members of the staff have received notice that their services will terminate at the end of this month if the strike continues. The only difference between the company and the men is that the latter want a 44-hour week, while the company asks that they work 45 hours in five days and take all Saturday off.

Huge Food Surplus In U.S. War Department

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The War Department has $12,000,000 worth of surplus food on hand.

Much of this could have been declared surplus and released to the public last February, chief of Staff March said before the House Sub-Committee, investigating War Department expenditures.

He also admitted that the subsistence division of the quarter-masters' corps is open to criticism for allowing millions of pounds of ham and bacon to deteriorate in army warehouses.

Local official figures furnished by General French show the following surplus food stores on July 8:

Corn beef	124,000,000
Bacon	27,000,000
Corned beef hash	15,000,000
Roast beef	30,000,000
Frozen meats (including poultry)	20,000,000
Canned vegetables	22,000,000

March placed blame for delay in declaring surpluses on the "quartermasters' corps, authority having been given that branch shortly after the armistice.

Alkali In Shampoos
Bad For The Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is never the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

RAY A LUCKY CHAP

Charles Ray, the Thomas H. Ince star, is a lucky chap in all his photo plays. He starts out under heavy handicap but always finishes by winning the marriage—the girl of his choice, and his film taste is varied, for during the past year he has married three bankers' daughters, two multi-millionaires, one actress, three daughters of prosperous farmers, one clergyman's daughter and one waitress. How he does it is shown in "Crossed Lightning" which is on view at Griffin's to-night.

SETTLED BY BABY

Mrs. George Griffin Lee is a great lover of children and it is her understanding of child life that gives such an appealing quality to "Dolly's Vacation" a five-act feature starring Baby Marie Osborne, and the comic pickaninny, Sambo, which is on exhibition at the Palace to-night. This talented little actress gives many delightful impersonations, but in the play they have more interest for children than grown folks, for it is a series of events. The story is told with admirable absolution that of a little girl who lives with her parents in New York, and of the unhappy trip, bringing over the desertion, resulting from the mismanagement of his mill until he is threatened with a strike. But the kiddies splash three greater problems with vanishing until they are finally reunited. The Canadian News Graphic and a funny Lubin comedy are also being shown on the bill.

DOROTHY DALTON AND JACK HOLT AT PALACE

The announcement of the Palace management in connection with the week-end re-appearance of charming Dorothy Dalton, this time in "Love Me", photoplay from the pen of C. Gardiner Sullivan, produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. In this picture Miss Dalton takes the part of a breezy Western girl, married to a really society man, whose family refuse to accept her as one of them making her life among them all that is hard to bear. How she finally wins their hearts completely as a tremendous cost to herself, is thrillingly told in this picture. An excellent cast including Jack Holt, Robert McKim and William Conklin has been supplied. The third chapter of the enthralling photo serial of circus life, "The Lure of the Circus" will also be presented.

NORMA TALMAGE

Unusually gifted as an actress Norma Talmage is ever delightful as a woman as her popularity which is universal, demonstrates. Her wonderful versatility enables her to appear in dramatic artistry in the role of a society woman or of a bedecked habitue of the most fashionable dance hall on the outskirts of civilization. In either characterization, her womanly traits, her exquisite personality and magnetism manifest themselves with equal force and inevitably win the admiration and sympathies of her audiences. In her latest photo-play, "By Right of Purchase" in which she is supported by Eugene O'Brien and which is to be screened at Griffin's for the week-end with matinee Saturday, she had to cope with the strongest dramatic roles of her career. That "By Right of Purchase" will increase Miss Talmage's popularity and reputation for artistry is a certain as that one from one leaves naught.

Literary Notes

ROD AND GUN FOR JULY

Anyone reading "Fish, Fishing and Fishermen" by George R. Belton in "Rod and Gun in Canada" for July cannot help thinking of the good old days when a bent pin, a piece of string and a willow switch made the best fishing tackle for shiners, chubs and perch knew. Albino Bass of The Ottawa" is the title of a real fishing story from the Dominion Capital which is one of the several good stories in this splendid outdoor magazine for July. The six illustrations showing the capture of a Newfoundland salmon are the best we have seen. They accompany a splendid article on the Humpback, King of Atlantic Salmon Streams. The interesting departments, Guns and Ammunition, Fishing Notes, Conservation, Kennel and Trap are all up to their usual standard and along with the second instalment of that interesting serial, "The Bear of Silver Dale" go to make up one of the best summer issues of the Canadian National sporting monthly. Rod and Gun in Canada can be obtained from any bookstand or direct from the publishers, W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

PUT MADE IN CANADA ON EVERY PACKAGE

OTTAWA, July 16.—A cablegram from the Canadian Mission to the Canadian Trade Commission, Ottawa, requests that Canadian goods shipped to the United Kingdom bearing trade marks or descriptions should also bear words showing the country of origin. Cases have been brought to the Mission's notice where goods from the Dominion have been defaced by the Customs authorities because they do not comply with the requirements of the Merchandise Marks Act. It is understood by the committee that the words "Canada Product" or "Made in Canada" will sufficiently meet the requirements. The trade commission points out that such a mark to designate Canadian goods can be made one of the most potent advertising factors for our producers and manufacturers and the quality of material shipped over seas is kept on a high level. For this reason made under the direction of the Commission it has definitely adopted the trade mark "Canada" and is being most distinctive.

Suffered Since Her Childhood

Mrs. May Frank Tonkas Has Had Long Standing Trouble

"It's Wonderful."

The best evidence of the merits of a medicine is what people who have used it, have to say about it. And this is true, beyond all questions when such statements are made by people of high character and standing, as the following, which is such and every fact can be investigated and verified.

Mrs. Edith May, residing on R. F. D. No. 2, Bonne Terre Mills, South Dakota, in relating her experience with Tanlac, recently said:

"I really can say in good truth for Tanlac, for it has really and truly made me feel like a new woman. I have had stomach trouble ever since I was fourteen years of age and it grew older other troubles kept coming on me. I had rheumatism in my right arm so bad I couldn't sleep for the pain, and would do everything trying to get easy so I could get a little rest. My back hurt me so bad at times that I could hardly get up when sitting or laying down, and I would often have dizzy spells and nervous, sick headaches. At the time I began taking Tanlac I was suffering with an awful pain in my side, so bad at times as to almost take my breath, and was told I would have to be operated on for appendicitis. I was plagued with pain and nearly worried out of my wits, besides.

"When I happened to read a testimonial from a Nebraska lady, who had gotten relief from the same kind of troubles by taking Tanlac, and set right on him that what's good for one is good for another kind of people. Well, it has helped me just like she said it did her and now I know for myself that it is wonderful. I never get nervous any more nor have any more headaches and the stomach trouble and rheumatism have disappeared, too. So Tanlac has not only helped me of my physical suffering, but it has eased my mind as well, for I fully believe I have saved me from an operation, as the pain is gone out of my side entirely. I am just feeling fine and my enthusiasm for Tanlac is unbounded."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dicky, in Deseronto by W. J. Maley, in Stirling by S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. T. Blakley.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends in the City of Belleville for their many expressions of sympathy on the death of my wife, and we especially appreciate the kind action of the Ladies Aid Committee, and the workmen, to my son and myself, in the Rolling Mills who have done much to assist and comfort us in this sad hour of our bereavement.

Letters To The Editor

PEACE DAY OBSERVANCE

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—May I through the columns of your paper call the attention of Belleville if it is possible that our city is to be considered among the live and progressive cities of Ontario by an absence of any pretence at a fitting Peace Demonstration.

Mr. Editor, the Mayor, called a public meeting on Friday evening last for the express purpose of planning, as stated in both city papers, for a suitable demonstration on Saturday, July 19th, and in response to this appeal, there assembled at the City Hall, His Worship the Mayor, two aldermen in the chair of the Fire Department, manufacturers and two Front street merchants.

A good norm constituted the crowd of enthusiastic citizens and naturally they did not feel disposed to assume the responsibility of a fitting demonstration.

There are those, and they seem to form the big majority, who seem to think that the closing of the stores all day Saturday and the parade of the Fire Department constitute an appropriate observances of the Great Peace Celebration, and it is just strange that the merchants of Belleville should feel that by simply closing their places of business for the one busy day of the week, that they are not thereby observing what must for all time be considered one of the world's greatest days.

If the citizens of Belleville really want any kind of a suitable celebration they should get real busy, for while the time is short there is yet time to do something.

D. V. SINCLAIR.

BUILDERS ALL

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—Alderman Hanna's interesting letter in Monday's issue apparently was intended to have two points clear. 1st, that he is not solely to blame because none of the industries which have come from the United States to Belleville during the first of this year have come to Belleville; 2nd, that getting industries is a very difficult business. As to the first point everyone will agree with the Alderman. He says he has done his best, but Alderman Hanna's "best" is not enough. The fact remains that not one do his "best" and if everyone in Belleville does his best success will come. As to the first of above points, no one pins the blame all on Alderman Hanna. There is little use wasting time trying to fix the blame. We can't move or less to blame. There are many, like Alderman Hanna, who have tried. Judge Wills, who may be mentioned because he is now removed from the bench, has struggled hard to improve industrial conditions in Belleville. The names of many citizens can also be mentioned, but these were not enough. It is generally that every man and woman should feel that it is his and her special business to help make Belleville a better and better city. Some can help along one line, some along another. Everyone can not play good ball, but everyone can roll, which will help accompany the play good ball. It is claimed that there is nearly ten million dollars on deposit in Banks in Belleville. This could help some.

W. C. MIKEL.

PEACE CELEBRATION.

July 16th, 1919.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Sir,—Belleville is hearing another holiday, and as usual the citizens are wondering which way the cat is going to jump.

First we have a meeting of the Retailers Association, which decided to petition the City Council to set the holiday to suit them; then we have a meeting called to arrange for a celebration which turns out a fiasco, and then we have a meeting of the City Council which does not seem to have a mind of its own.

Now what are we going to do? Who rules Belleville? Is it the City Council or the Retailers Association? It seems to be one or the other, but what about the people—have they no say in the matter? And what is the City Council there for? To do what the People want—not what the Retailers Association wants.

It seems to me this is the spirit that permeates Belleville—it is run by little cliques, and this is the main reason for the stagnation so apparent here. We are living in a spirit of indecision. Why cannot Belleville fall in line with the rest of the country? There is never a holiday comes along but what some one or other wants to change it.

Here we are, within four days of a day which is to be celebrated throughout the British Empire to commemorate the signing of peace after the greatest war in history—a war in which Belleville has been split freely by preservers of liberty—and patriotic Belleville does not know whether the day is going to be observed or not. That there is to be no celebration is clear, as the City Council decided there was not time to arrange anything. We have been waiting for this day for over six months and then they have the gall to tell us there is no time. And this day is to celebrate the deliverance of humanity from the yoke of Prussianism, and because the merchants of Belleville seem afraid of losing a few paltry dollars the people are to remain dumb. It is evident that Belleville appreciates the sacrifices that have been made to give us freedom when they allow an association to slip in and make it doubtful whether the day is to be a holiday or not and thus prevent the citizens from celebrating.

I think it would be well if the Government made all holidays compulsory and to be observed on the day set so as to prevent any organization hindering in the matter. The large cities can keep Saturday—why not Belleville. The factories in our city can do it—why not the merchants? We find in some instances, as on Empire Day, because of the merchants, half of the family had Saturday off while the other half had Monday. If a circus comes to town the merchants, again on the lookout for the almighty dollar, would not give their employees the regular half holiday that day so they could go along with the family and enjoy the circus. No, they must remain open to catch the trade; or it may be they do not believe in their employees going to such places as circuses!

Then I would like to know where all those patriotic (?) Belleville gentlemen are, who were so eager while the war was on to induce the young men to sign up and be men and go and do their bit in the fight for liberty. Now the war is over they seem to have crawled into their holes and pulled the holes in after them. Their patriotism could not have been very deep, it seems to have been just a matter of getting into the limelight. What did they care for King and Country? It celebrities of the deceased.

looks as if there was something more than patriotism brought them out. I venture to say if there had been a chance of getting some political honors there would have been more than five at that meeting last Friday night; but what it comes to the time of showing our appreciation for what the boys have done for us and our joy for the victorious outcome these patriots are celebrating.

It is time the people of Belleville began to have a say in some of these things. The fall has been warning the dog long enough. Now it's time for the dog to wag its tail. Majorities should rule, and I hope in the future the people of Belleville will take a stand for the observance of holidays on their proper day and then we might be able to enjoy and arrange for a holiday without living in a period of suspense waiting for some one to act, as we have done this time, and not find ourselves out of harmony with the rest of the country.

Yours truly,
H. ROBINSON.

IS ICE-COLD WATER BAD FOR RHEUMATISM?

A SETTLER SEEMS TO THINK SO

The story of Wm. Rogers, a seaman in the Mine Sweeping Branch of the Royal Navy, is absolutely true and can be easily verified.

At Niagara Camp, in 1914, Rogers contracted Rheumatism. He was sent to the Toronto General Hospital, where for over 12 months he was a patient, finally being discharged as incurable. He despaired, took a friend's advice and tried Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. The results were astounding—in a short time he was able to pass the stiff examination set by the Navy, and became an A.B. in the Mine Sweeping Branch.

For 17½ months he did service in the North Sea. On three occasions he was blown into the sea and remained in the ice-cold water as long as eleven hours at a stretch. Despite these hardships Rogers had no return of his Rheumatic trouble. Think about it. If T.R.C.'S did so much for Rogers—will they not do the same for you?

It was now evident that we could not specially blockade the city. Our force was too small, and would have been most dangerously weakened if we had divided it. It would have been equally foolhardy to attempt to storm the place, and vacate an impregnable position. There were at least 15,000 troops within the walls and a third of that number could have held them against us. We lived in hope that the enemy would leave the stronghold and give battle to us on the plain, but no device or ruse on our part could draw them out to a pitched battle. We continuously sent out small parties of men in the hope that some attempt would be made to cut them off, but the king knew the strength of his position and restrained himself from meeting us in open fight. The old Asturian proverb, was a true one: "Who holds Avrances is king of Asturnia."

It must not be supposed that Count Guy was idly waiting his chance and taking no further steps to bring the tottering throne of King Charles the Red to its fall. East and west and south and north his messengers were stirring up rebellion. They were enthusiastically received by the common people, but in most cases the knights and their followers refused to commit themselves and in one or two instances, having taken the oath to the usurper. The death roll of Count Guy's secret service was a long one. No less than thirty-five men had made their way into the city itself, to approach those knights who were known to be disaffected to the king, but not a man returned, nor was there any sign that the message had been delivered. The only gleam of hope came from the Northern Province. The chief city, St. Hrieux, had openly declared for the Princess Thors, and a force of five thousand men was slowly making its way through the great forests to our assistance.

Tea and Coffee Drinkers Take Notice!

There's No Increase In The Price of INSTANT POSTUM

But there's apt to be an increase in your comfort and health if you change from Tea or Coffee to Postum

On January 4th, the thermometer had fallen to 3, though in the camp itself, and near the great-fires, it was not unpleasantly cold. I shall remember that day well, for after a long conflict in my mind, I myself decided the fate of Avrances.

It was nearly seven o'clock and in a few minutes the whole land would be plunged in darkness. I stood alone by one of the embrasures and, leaning upon a fifteen pounder gazed idly on the glittering gun. My thoughts were not of the happiest, and I knew that however long the siege might be, it would be only a respite for me. When that proud city fell, the Princess would be crowned Queen of Asturnia and become the bride of Count Guy of Marmorel.

And as I gazed, the flaring lights acted on the front-bound river began to fascinate me; and in a moment's imagination that the city was the capital of a long white snake. I followed the silvery line of where it disappeared in a black mass of rock, and I could not get the idea out of my head that the tall mass of walls and towers and blazing lights was being strangled in the grip of that thin white reptile. Then, as I looked sharply round the valley and I felt a cold chill at my heart for the horror of the thing I had imagined was inconceivable.

The great fires died out, but for a whole hour I stood looking on the smaller lights that twinkled in the city. I was fighting a great struggle with myself. So long as Avrances held its own, the Princess Thora would be free, and yet so long would the desire of her heart remain unaccomplished. Love and jealousy and hatred of Count Guy of Marmorel warred fiercely with my wish to give her the greatest happiness of all—the crown of the kingdom. But in the end my better self conquered. She had of her own free will chosen her part, knowing the price she had to pay. It was not for me her most loving subject to do aught but further her wishes. I left the battlement and made my way to the tent of Count Guy of Marmorel, feeling that I was about to sign the death warrant of my own happiness, and thus I carried the dome of a great city on my hands.

CHAPTER XXVIII

When I had gained admission to Count Guy's tent through a double line of soldiers, I found myself in the presence of the whole council of war. Count Guy and Sir Thule de Brisac at each end of a long oaken table and on either side of them were Captain Thorlassen, the Lord of Marmontier, Sir Hughes de la Perche, Sir Gascon de Varaville and Lord Fulk de Brabancon. A large oil-lamp flared from the centre pole of the tent and the table was strewn with parchments and maps of the city and surrounding country. It was evident that there had been a heated discussion on some matter. There was a dark flush on Count Guy's face and Sir Thule de Brisk's eyebrows were knitted ominously together. The others looked sullen and discontented, as though they were sick of the whole business. It was apparent that my entrance was hailed as a relief from a somewhat awkward situation and Captain Thorlassen smiled at me.

Celebrate Peace With Community Dance

A great community dance will be held on Front street Saturday night by the 47th Battalion when it is expected thousands of people from the district will come in to join with the citizens of Belleville in a peace celebration. An interesting programme is being prepared and a real joyous time is in store for everyone.

It is the intention to have the road flushed and stop all traffic on one section of the street from 7.30 to 12 p.m. An effort is being made to have all stores close at 6 p.m. and everybody join to celebrate the greatest occasion the world has ever known.

No charge will be made for the entertainment, although the band may sell refreshments to replenish their funds.

A meeting will be held in the City Hall tonight at 8.30 to complete a programme, and citizens and merchants are urgently requested to attend and give their views, so that pressure can be brought to bear on the City Council to sanction any proceedings decided upon.

Belleville Will Celebrate Peace Day on Saturday

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR MORNING, AFTERNOON AND EVENING — THANKSGIVING SERVICE TO RETURN THANKS FOR VICTORY AND PEACE — GREAT PEACE PARADE—BAND CONCERTS — FIREWORKS AND COMMUNITY DANCE.

The public meeting called for last evening to make arrangements for a fitting peace celebration in this city on Saturday was well attended and much interest was manifested in the proceedings. Mayor Platt occupied the chair and referred to the object of the meeting, namely, to make plans for commemorating the greatest day in history. Judge Wills was in hearty accord with the proposition and said the first thing was to have a thanksgiving service to Almighty God Who has again brought peace to the world. All ministers and church members would assist in this service.

Mr. J. Elliott said that there had been no day in the world's history, since the Day of Resurrection, such as this peace day, and it was fitting that a general thanksgiving service be held.

After similar remarks by Messrs. D. V. Sinclair, J. O. Herity and others present, it was decided to proceed with the preparation of a programme, which will be carried out as follows:

MORNING.

Thanksgiving service at 11 o'clock on the Court House Lawn. At 10.30 the G.W.V.A. society and citizens are requested to assemble at the city building and, headed by the Fifteenth Regiment Band, proceed to the Court House lawn. Ministers and choirs of every church in the city are requested to take part in this service. Music for the singing will be furnished by the Salvation Army Band.

AFTERNOON.

Grand peace celebration parade to be formed on the market square at two o'clock, to be marshalled by Mr. J. J. B. Flint, and to be composed of members of the G.W.V.A., the fire brigade, City Council, Board of Trade, Board of Health, industrial floats, decorated autos and citizens on foot. The Fifteenth Regiment Band, the Kilties Band and the Salvation Army Band will provide music.

Special prizes will be given for the best decorated industrial float, other floats, decorated cars and bicycles.

EVENING.

In the evening a Community Dance will take place on Front Street between Victoria Avenue and Bridge Street. While this is in progress all traffic will be suspended between Bridge Street and Victoria Avenue. This will commence at 7.30 and continue until midnight. The street will be well lighted and an entertaining programme will be provided during the intermission. The Fifteenth Regiment Band will provide the music.

FIREWORKS.

Arrangements are being made for a grand display of fireworks at the entrance to Victoria Park.

DECORATE.

Merchants in particular and citizens generally are requested to decorate their places of business and residences.

All arrangements are well under way and the committee are working assiduously to make the celebration one that will long be remembered and worthy of the occasion.

GLASSES FOR SOLDIERS

Provision has been made for the supplying of spectacles and nose glasses to returned soldiers taking vocational training in the classes of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment. Such glasses will be supplied to those whose eyes have been affected by reason of military service, and not to those who were using glasses prior to enlistment unless it is shown by an eye specialist that there is an aggravation and need of strong- or lenses, or change of lenses, by reason of military service. Repairs and renewals to bridges, frames and lenses for the time may be made while the soldier is undergoing training. This service will continue while the soldier is attending the vocational schools.

Young Woman Beaten To Death In Montreal Rooming House

AFTERMATH OF DRINKING BOUT — POUNDED WITH BEER BOTTLE, OTTAWA GIRL DIES FROM WOUNDS—VICTIM LEFT HUSBAND IN OTTAWA TO COME TO MONTREAL WITH ACCUSED.

MONTREAL, July 17.—Horribly beaten and bruised, the body of Bella Roy, twenty-six years of age, who left her husband, Percy Pickens, in Ottawa two weeks ago, lies on a slab in the morgue.

At detective headquarters is William Fallon, who hates from Peterborough, Ont., a year younger than the woman, who is held for the crime. The detectives allege he admits having beaten the woman after a long drinking bout but he did not think she was in danger of death.

The sordid tragedy took place at 300 St. Lawrence Boulevard early yesterday morning. The couple came to the place at one o'clock in the morning looking for a room. They had been ejected, it is claimed by the police, from a house they lived in on St. Antoine Street, because they were too noisy. They got the new quarters and went to their room. There was a row between the new occupants between one and two o'clock and at 2.30 the man left the house and went away. Then all was still.

The prisoner was sober but sobered when he was led before Chief Lepage by Detectives Thibault, Walsh and Therien, who had been assigned to the case. He made no attempt to conceal his crime, and made his confession after he had been duly warned by Chief Lepage of the seriousness of his statements.

Fallon is a young man of 27 who has been twice overseas. He has had no occupation since he returned home to Canada and Peterborough last fall. The murdered woman was 23 years old, and before her marriage to Picken, was known as Bella Roy. Her home is at Ottawa.

Farmer Locked in His Own House Burned To Death Few Hours Later

GHASTLY STORY OF TRAGEDY COMES FROM CHATEAUGUAY COUNTY, IN THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC — DOMESTIC QUARREL AROSE OVER FINDING MAN VISITOR CALLING ON WIFE—THREATENED TO KILL WIFE, WHO FLED TO BARN WITH CHILDREN.

MONTREAL, July 17.—A horrible tragedy was enacted last Thursday night at St. Malachie of Ormstown, Chateauguay County, when a farmer named James Dubeau was burned alive in his house.

The story as related up to this time is that on Thursday afternoon, Dubeau was returning from Ormstown, where he had been selling farm products when he discovered a man in his home. A fight followed in which Dubeau attempted to shoot both his wife and the man he had found in his home. The latter however, succeeded in stopping the irate husband by striking him with a heavy stick.

A physician was called, and Dubeau was attended, but in order to prevent him from carrying out his threats against his wife and child he was bound to his chair. He was confined to his own house for the night, while his wife and their children took refuge into a nearby barn.

At about 11 o'clock the same night the whole village was awakened by the glimpse of flames from Dubeau's house, and although an attempt was made to extinguish the flames, the building was burned to ashes, and The body of Dubeau, horribly burned was found later amid the ruins.

British Flag Not Permitted in Church

TORONTO, July 17.—An investigation by the military authorities into the action of Dean Moyna, of St. Mary's Catholic Church on Bathurst street in ordering the British flag removed from the coffin of Pte. J. J. Riley, while it rested in the church is now being urged. Lieut. A. B. Palmer, officer in charge of the burial party, has made the following statement to The Times:

"I was in charge of the firing party detailed to attend the funeral of Pte. Riley. On arrival at the undertaker's, Mr. Banks, 455 Queen street west, he informed me that the Dean of St. Mary's Church objected to the Union Jack, being placed on the body while in the church and that the Dean had remarked that the flag were akin to him. I have been a witness, as well as being present at many Roman Catholic military funerals and I have yet to see where the British flag was not allowed, except on one occasion and that was in Dublin during the riots."

Price of Wheat To Be Fixed By Government

GOVERNMENT DECIDES TO FIX MINIMUM PRICE FOR 1919 CROP IN ORDER TO GIVE COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL STABILITY TO MARKET — NO ANNOUNCEMENT AS TO FIGURE — PRICE NOT TO DROP OWING TO EUROPEAN DEMAND.

OTTAWA, July 17.—The Government will fix a minimum price for the Canadian wheat crop. Sir Thomas White has been engaged on this subject since his return to Ottawa and has had many conferences with experts. He has decided that to give commercial and financial stability in the marketing of the crop the best plan is to fix a minimum price as a guarantee to farmers, dealers, bankers and others interested in the crop movement.

No announcement has yet been made as to the minimum price, but it will be made in the course of a few days.

LITTLE LIKELIHOOD OF PRICE DROPPING.

It is emphasized that no farmer need sell his crop at the minimum price. The Grain Exchange will open trading on July 21, and prices may go far above the minimum price or the guaranteed price of the United States of $2.26.

It is expected that with Europe and neutral countries requiring large quantities of wheat that the price will not drop. However it was found that financing was difficult without at least a minimum price, in order to give stability to the situation.

"Flag of Humanity" Unfurled In Ford Libel Suit

MT. CLEMENS, July 17.—Henry Ford, plaintiff in a $1,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Daily Tribune resumed the witness stand. He was questioned by attorney Elliott G. Stevenson, for the defendant.

The mysterious "flag of humanity" which counsel for the defendant have been demanding since the case began, made its appearance. "It's the first time I ever saw it," remarked Mr. Ford.

"Do you like it better than the Stars and Stripes?" asked Mr. Stevenson.

"It's a different kind of flag," answered the witness.

The flag was about seven by fourteen feet, with the earth in white on a blue field. Mr. Stevenson was attempting to show it to the jury when Mr. Ford took hold of one end and said:

"I'll help you."

The emblem designed to typify world brotherhood is said to have grown out of a remark by Mr. Ford three or four years ago, when he said that soldiers and flags should be succeeded by a flag of humanity under which all men of all nations might stand.

Up to Tuesday counsel for Mr. Ford denied the existence of such a flag but said a search for it was being prosecuted.

Mr. Ford admitted ignorance of history and said that more than ever he considered it "bunk" growing out of tradition; nor had he any personal use for music or other forms of art.

He reaffirmed his belief that professional soldiers are murderers nor would he exempt General Pershing or General Grant from this category. He said that his present view is for the United States to maintain a force in a league of nations and that if the war just concluded in Europe, does not result in such a league, he favors another great war without delay in order to clean up universal peace would be had. It developed that Theodore Lefigue, a publicity agent for Mr. Ford, wrote practically all of Mr. Ford's pacifist literature and that much of it was published broadcast without Mr. Ford having read it.

"I accept full responsibility for it, however," Mr. Ford testified repeated ly.

Killed By Train Seeing Friends Off

Aged Glengarry Woman Fell Between Coach and Platform.

GLEN ROBERTSON, Ont., July 17—Mrs. Don Duncan McDonald going to the G. T. R. Station here on Saturday morning to see her daughter, Miss Kate McDonald, and two friends off, fell under the car wheels and was killed.

Mrs. McDonald had followed the travellers into the east-bound train to bid them adieu and was leaving their car when she slipped and fell between the coach and the station platform. At that moment the train started and she was killed by the moving wheels.

Mrs. McDonald was 70 years old. She is survived by her husband, by four daughters and four sons, some of whom are residents in Montreal.

Struck Officer in Belgium Charge Against Gunner

BELLEVILLE SOLDIER COURT-MARTIALED AT KINGSTON FOR MILITARY OFFENCE ALLEGED TO HAVE TAKEN PLACE IN BELGIUM IN 1918 — RECEIVED DISCHARGE LAST MARCH, ARRESTED IN MAY—DEFENDED BY W. F. NICKLE, M.P.

Yesterday morning a court-martial convened at the Barriefield Huts Kingston, for the purpose of placing on trial ex-Gunner James Mossman, 40460, first battery, C.E.F., but owing to technical difficulties the case was paraded until this morning at nine o'clock.

Gunner Mossman is charged with striking a superior officer in Belgium on the 28th day of November, 1918. The case against Mossman was allowed to drift until the accused went into Germany, then back to England in March, 1919, and from England to Canada. On the 29th of March last Mossman was discharged at Barriefe'd Huts and returned to his usual civilian occupation. On the 9th of May last Mossman was arrested by the military police and brought to Kingston, being detained under arrest at the huts.

About the middle of June Mossman and his friends appealed to the Army and Navy Veterans, and the case was taken to Ottawa with the contention that the man is a civilian and cannot be tried by a military court. The department of the Judge-Advocate General decided to the contrary, and ordered that Mossman be tried by court-martial.

After the usual summary of evidence was taken, Mossman was on Monday afternoon ordered to be ready for trial on Wednesday morning. His friends objected to the brevity of the notice to prepare for trial, claiming that the Government held Mossman from the 9th of last May for the purpose of securing evidence against him, and the least they could do the purpose of securing evidence against him, and the least they could do was to give the man a reasonable time to have his defence prepared after furnishing a copy of the summary of evidence. Ottawa persisted in its refusal and at last Mr. W. F. Nickle, M.P., got busy with the telegraph wires and pointed out to the Minister of Militia, the Adjutant-General and the Judge-Advocate General the unfairness of their attitude.

Such cases belong to the department of the Adjutant-General, which did not act in the case, and this aroused the local member to the extent of sending a warm wire to Ottawa and receiving from the Minister of Militia a reply directing that the court be asked for sufficient time to prepare Mossman's defence. Mr. Nickle insisted that such arbitrary cases were frequently the cause of much civilian unrest, and without discussing the merits of the case at all he insisted that the right of defence, and the time for the preparation of the same was the right of every man, whether soldier or civilian. Such cases are not within the power of the G.O.C., so that Gen. Williams was powerless in the matter, and was in Ottawa in fact when it occurred.

Mossman will be tried today at Barriefield, and it is likely the trial will prove an interesting one from the standpoint of military against civilian jurisdiction.

WIN FOR BELLEVILLE

At present the Belleville Bowling Rink, composed of Messrs. C. H. Vermilyea, C. N. Holman, Judge Herrick and R. J. Wray, skip succeeded in winning for the second time the splendid trophy offered in competition at the Provincial Tournament in that town. This rink has gone through two tournaments without losing a game which is a creditable performance. At Prescott five games were played, the result being as follows:

Wray skip Belleville 16; Sparks skip Kingston 8.

Wray skip Belleville 16; Keeler skip Prescott 8.

Wray skip Belleville 15; Crookston skip Brockville 11.

Wray, skip Belleville 17; White skip Brockville 9.

Wray skip Belleville 14; Newman, skip Kingston 12.

WIN FOR LINDSAY

LINDSAY, July 17.—In a Central Ontario game here yesterday, Lindsay defeated Belleville, the league leaders by 5 to1. The Greys played well and landed on Belleville's crack southpaw for eight safeties, including a three-bagger by Workman. "Cannon Ball" Hal Scott twirled in championship form, having fifteen strikeouts and allowing but one hit.

The game was witnessed by Secretary Walker of the C. N. A. A., who expressed himself as surprised and delighted at the brand of ball in the Central Ontario League.

Lindsay's win makes Belleville and Peterboro a tie for first position. The batteries:—Lindsay—Scott and Logan.—Belleville—Goyer and Mills Umpires—Kay of Peterboro and Butler of Lindsay.

Quick, Painless Way To Remove Hairy Growths

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in an original package.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Private Edward James Townsend, who died for his King and Country, Saturday, July 20th, 1918, aged 27 years.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP

The Y.M.C.A. boys' camp at Old Lake is in full swing. There were a number of visitors at the camp over the week-end including a number of friends and relatives of the boys.

On Saturday afternoon an athletic meeting was held and a number of events were run off. Sam Curry was the star winning five firsts.

On Monday an Aquatic meeting was held with Cecil Elsemore as star winning three firsts.

On Sunday the boys attended service at the Baptist Church, Sydney, Mr. Buchanan, camp leader took charge.

On Sunday evening a sing song camp fire was held with a number of visitors who thoroughly enjoyed the hearty singing of the boys.

The Reds are ahead in the baseball league with the Blues pushing hard.

Dr. Scott and Bridge Street Church Scouts arrived in Camp on Monday and the two parties are carrying on a programme together and everything is very busy.

The Baby Organ is very popular after lunch with Albert Adams presiding.

Miss Tuite and Miss Young entertained the boys to some excellent readings.

Belleville Baby Choked To Death

Infant Put to Sleep in Swinging Hammock, Victim of Peculiar Accident.

Kenneth Wilson Boyle, aged 1 months, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Boyle, residing on College Hill yesterday afternoon met its death in a tragic manner. The mother after getting her infant to sleep placed it in a swinging hammock on the porch and then went about her household duties. The child awoke and evidently tried to get out of the hammock with the result that a strap became entangled about its neck and the baby's struggles to get free only wound the strap tighter until strangulation ensued. When discovered by the mother, the child was dead. A coroner was summoned and after having an explanation of the unfortunate affair decided that an inquest was not necessary. The sympathy of many friends will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Boyle in their bereavement.

Called by Death

NANCY E. ROBLIN

Mrs. Nancy Ellen Roblin, aged 78 years, died yesterday afternoon at the family residence, Plainfield, after being ill for some time. Deceased had been a resident of that locality for some time and was much respected. A husband and family survive.

"Well sir," said Count Guy sharply "I trust your news warrants this interruption of our business."

"It does, Count Guy of Marmorel" I answered, "If you are still of a mind to capture Avranches and place the Princess Thora on the throne of Asturia." Lord Fulk of Brabascon laughed and looked meaningly at Sir Hugh de La Perche, who frowned and fingered one of the maps on the table. I guessed that my word had gone home and that one, at least, of those present had been advocating the abandonment of the siege.

"Proceed," Sir Thule de Bris said quietly. "We are of one mind in this matter, but Charles the Red, of Asturia thinks differently and his opinion seems likely to prevail."

"I have that to lay before you, my lords," I continued "which may overrule the king's voice in this matter, and leave you alone to decide the fate of Avranches."

Sir Thule motioned me to a seat at the table, and casting my eyes over the various plans, I selected one which showed the whole valley of the Pas-

"Kindly state your business," Count Guy said sharply, "if there is anything in what you have to say."

I took the map and smoothing it out before me, went straight to the point.

"I understand," I said, "that the river Pasquerelle enters the valley down a long slope of hills and leaves it through a single opening in a sheer wall of rock."

"That is so," answered Sir Thule de Bris.

"I also understand that the circular basin in which the city of Avranches lies is about six miles in diameter and that there is no opening in the circle of hills except the ravine I have mentioned, or, at any rate no opening until the ground has risen at least two hundred feet above the level of the sea."

"You are correct," Count Guy said quickly, with a gleam of intelligence in his dark eyes.

"The river," I continued, "is I believe, a large one. Could anyone give me some idea of its width and depth?"

"It is about one hundred feet in width, and forty feet in depth where it crosses the plain," answered Count Guy. "Nearer the ravine is narrower and deepens. It is fed by all the streams in these hills, and is itself the conjunction of the only three rivers in the country."

"Good," I replied "Well, suppose it was possible to effectually close the ravine so that no water could pass through it, or, at any rate so that only a small portion of the river could find an outlet. What would be the result?"

"The valley would in time be flooded," said Lord Fulk of Brabascon, with a laugh, "and Avranches would be more impregnable than before. We cannot swim to the walls with our swords in our teeth."

"And yet," I continued slowly, giving effect to every word, "if the flood continued to rise, the water would reach the top of the walls themselves and if it still continued, the whole city would lie beneath the surface of a great lake."

For a few seconds no one spoke. The contemplation of so gigantic a catastrophe as the overwhelming of a whole city in one watery grave, was too tremendous, even for these stern warriors. They were accustomed to see hundreds slaughtered in the heat of battle. But this thing was different—a deed calmly calculated and carried out in cold blood, and a wiping-out of a tenth of the nation.

Then Count Guy laughed loudly and rose to his feet with an exultant look on his face. "By my faith, sir," he cried, "for a man of peace, you have pretty ideas of life and death."

"I have only one idea in my mind," I replied angrily, "and that is to set the Princess Thora on the throne of Asturia. For myself, I could not care a man die either for or against her, it could be avoided. But where she is concerned neither my own life, nor those of her enemies nor even yours, Count Guy of Marmorel, are aught but straws in the wind."

"You are right," said Sir Thule de Bris, "it is possible that by this plan many lives may be saved. The king may capitulate before the water is up to his ankles."

"I only jested," Count Guy said hastily; "I know that you do not seek your own advantage in this matter," and he looked at me with so much meaning in his eyes that I flushed and bit my lips with shame.

"Is it possible to fill up the ravine in less than a year?" asked Sir Hugh de La Perche. "The rock is hard as steel. There is no earth near the summit of the gorge."

"I will undertake to do it in two weeks," I replied, "with five hundred men. We have sappers at our disposal that you know little of, Sir Hugh. We could send half of one of those hills toppling into the valley if we wished to do so."

Count Guy smiled grimly. He remembered how the great gates of his castle had been blown in like bits of paper.

RECEIVED APPOINTMENT

Maj. D. T. McManus, brother of Maj. W. J. McManus of Kingston has received an important position as adjutant of Duffy camp, which is the last Canadian camp in England. Maj. Mc. Manus proceeded overseas as adjutant of the 39th Battalion, and later was transferred to the Forestry Depot for duty. For some months he was attached to the Canadian headquarters staff, London, England, where he rendered some very valuable service as inspector of depot battalions. It was thought Maj. McManus would return to Kingston next month, but owing to this position, he will undoubtedly be retained in England until Christmas.

POPULAR OFFICER RETIRED

Maj. C. R. Grant, late of the 14th Canadian Highlers and second in command of the District Depot, has been granted his discharge and has entered the firm of Thornton & Davidson, brokers, located in Montreal. For some months on his return from overseas Maj. Grant was attached to the District Depot, where his services were most valuable, and it was with a feeling of regret both with the officers and men that he relinquished his rank.

RETAINING UNIFORMS

Of late there seems to be some dissatisfaction among members of the C. E. F., who were discharged in 1918, having to return their uniforms while the men who have been discharged with in the past eight or nine months are allowed to retain their uniforms. To those concerned it is pointed out that those who returned to Canada in 1918 were not compelled to accept their discharges and in cases where may left the service it was at their own disconsent that no man was forced to make a change, but in those cases when men were discharged it was at their request. Men who were discharged at that time were compelled to return their clothes in order to receive the clothing grant of $35, but with the men returning for general demobilization they were dipped a few hours after returning and therefore they had no means nor had they made any preparations for civilian life. Thus the grant with its privilege to retain their clothes.

Music and Drama

DOROTHY DALTON AT PALACE

That Dorothy Dalton as Malda in her newest picture at the Palace for the week end, matinee daily, no prettier could be imagined. A role that fits her as perfectly as her diminutive gloves always do, has been provided for her in C. Gardner Sullivan's play "Love Me" produced under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince himself. An excellent cast including William Conklin, Jack Holt, Elinor Hancock, and Robert McKim add to the general effectiveness. The story is of a capable, breezy western girl who marries a younger son in an excessively exclusive Eastern family. This family refuses absolutely to welcome her until—well that is the part of the story you will be for yourself at the Palace for the week-end, along with the 3rd chapter of the fascinating circus serial, "The Lure of the Circus."

NORMA TALMADGE AND CHAPLIN

Known for her splendid acting, Norma Talmadge is one of the screen's most beautiful women. Miss Talmadge has done any number of good things for select pictures, among the many screened in Belleville might be mentioned "The Lure Annie." She is of the adaptable type, always to be depended upon for a highly artistic characterization and her quiet, calm charm and winsomeness never fail to win their sympathy and admiration of her Belleville patrons. The experience Miss Talmadge has had before the camera has enabled her to grasp quickly the essentials of any new character and to give a faithful and convincing portrayal thereof in a surprising natural and unaffected manner. This will be noted in her latest screen offering "The Right of Purchase," in which she is ably supported by Eugene O'Brien, and which is announced as the feature offering at Griffin's for the week-end. Besides the above offering Charlie Chaplin also appears on the same program in a new sloom chaser; the British News and a thrilling western story will also be exhibited.

ROAD ATTRACTIONS

The management of Griffin's Opera House announces that Belleville will be favored with a good list of high class road attractions this coming season. Jules Murray, General Representative of the famous New York Theatrical producers, Ban B. and Lee Shubert, was in Toronto Monday, completing booking arrangements for the presentation in Canada of several of the Shubert musical comedies. Klaw and Erlanger also announce their intention of routing their attractions through Canada. Belleville is on the route sheet of both of these noted producers. One of the early attractions here is the Seguoia in Augustus Thomas's elaborate revival of Demaux Thompson's American classic, "The Old Homestead."

25 INJURED WHEN LIGHTNING HIT CAR

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 17.—Twenty-five persons were injured, several probably fatally, when lightning struck a crowded street car in the course of a severe electrical storm. T. Hoffman, motorman, was severely burned when the lightning struck the trolley wire, came down into the car and exploded the controller. A number of women and children were trampled on in a panic which followed.

30,000 CANUCKS OVERSEAS

OTTAWA, July 17.—Cable advices of July 12, received at the Militia Department from England, put the number of men still to be returned to Canada at approximately 30,000. As the movement of troops depends on shipping facilities, it is difficult to state definitely when the last of the C. E. F. will reach Canada, but another month should see things pretty well cleaned up.

WATERING FARM HORSES.

Walter Moore, a well known writer, says:—

"It is a common thing for farmers to work their horses in the hayfield from morning to night, watering only at noon. This is done even on days of excessive heat. The driver usually has two or more refreshing drinks in the middle of the morning, and again in the afternoon; but the horses, who are equally as thirsty, go without. This want of water is not only distressing, but it causes the horses to drink to excess at noon and again at night, which often results in colic, and always tends to produce a distended stomach, or what farmers call a 'hay belly'. Farmers who would treat their horses humanely should take water into the field for them in hot weather."

LIBERAL PAPER PRAISES UNION GOVERNMENT.

The Toronto Star (Liberal) in a lengthy editorial review of the achievements of Union Government, heartily approves of the course of the Government since inception and summarizes its favorable comment as follows:

But the fact stands that more progressive measures have been introduced and put into effect by the Union Government since it came into office than the country has got from any preceding one-party Administration, or would have got from any such Administration, Liberal or Conservative, during the same period. The coalition enabled reforms to be introduced which would, otherwise have been possible. The wires were cut. The current was off. The pulling of the old familiar wires failed to produce the old familiar results.

POSSIBILITIES OF HIGHWAY TRANSPORTATION.

The epoch making transcontinental trip of two complete United States Motor Transport Corps companies of war strength, consisting of 42 army trucks, which started from Washington on July 7, is receiving an enthusiastic welcome at all points along the Lincoln Highway, which will be followed over almost the entire journey. The trucks are scheduled to arrive in San Francisco September 1st.

This first Atlantic to Pacific military trip will be a significant illustration of the tremendous possibilities of highway transportation. Furthermore, it will demonstrate the practicability of long distance freight haulage and the urgent necessity of linking up interstate highway routes and presenting the people with a unified system of national roads.

The army truck train comprises the following: Five passenger cars, thirty-five trucks, all of army types, two ambulances, six motorcycles, two tank trucks, two kitchen trailers, two water tank trucks, one engineer shop truck and one searchlight truck. Technical personnel from the motor transport corps, engineer corps, medical corps, field artillery and air service are making the journey.

According to Brigadier General Charles P. Drake, chief of the Motor Transport Corps, the purposes of the long trip will be four-fold: To provide service and performance tests of various types of army motor equipment; to collect data to be used in connection with the technical training of the personnel of the M.T.C., and to provide an opportunity for extensive study in terrain observation, including the practicability of long distance commercial motor truck transportation and to point out the necessity of governmental appropriations to assist in the continuous improvement of all through connecting routes in the United States, and to provide an opportunity for procuring recruits for the Motor Transport Service.

A GLANCE BACK.

A short time ago, twenty-one thousand people crowded into a small city in Ohio and paid from $10 to $100 apiece to see a prize fight. Their other expenses were in proportion.

Rickard, the man who promoted the show, loudly expressed his anger because special trains were not provided to bring in another 50,000 who stood ready to come.

The event in Ohio is worth some passing notice, before it disappears in the growing mist of more important happenings. A glance back is worth while.

Here were thousands of ardent critics of the high cost of living who had considerable money to spend on what to them seems non-essential. And let it be remembered that a prize-fight is not a social event, but an extremely democratic occasion. Anybody can attend.

Economists do not need to tell us that prices are high, but is the general habit of living adjusted properly to meet conditions? The Toledo demonstration argues not.

Broadly speaking, the savings of the people, the world's capital, has gone to pay for the war. The first and essential duty of this generation is to produce, to refill the coffers emptied by Mars. We who live today have no license to waste. When we do so, we spend what rightfully belongs to the generations to come, whose condition we have mortgaged.

High prices and wasteful tendencies do not mix. Production on the one hand, and thrift on the other alone will guide the world back to normal.—Montreal Star.

Taking the Grit out of Liberal Unionists seems to be the task now undertaken by Canada's Premier in the process of cementing the coalition into a permanent Unionist party. In the opinion of the Toronto Telegram Sir Robert Borden's problem seems to be how to make a polished hardwood cabinet out of basswood.

As it Should Be.

Calgary Herald.

Winnipeg strike leaders are now said to be planning to carry their fight into the political arena, municipal, provincial and Dominion. To this there can be no objection whatever. It is what should have been done in the first place. If the radicals in the labor element are able to elect a majority in councils, legislatures or parliament they will get what they are after in the only way of government. By no other process would they be legitimately entitled to it.

Strikes Come High.

Hamilton Herald

Economists agree that what is needed to combat the high cost of living is increased production. There cannot be increased production without the application of more labor to materials. Every worker withdrawn from production tends to keep up the cost of living.

If this be so, see what folly a general strike is from the point of view of the consumer—and we are all consumers.

It has been estimated that the direct loss in wages and profits from the Winnipeg strike was over four million dollars. This applies to the industrial side only. The losses of merchants in Winnipeg and the farmers of Manitoba are not included in the estimate.

Judge Was Too Curious

A Philadelphia negro was caught with a number of hides in his possession, for which he could not reasonably account, and was brought into court charged with stealing.

"Guilty or not guilty?" thundered the judge.

"Not guilty!" emphatically responded the negro.

"Then how do you account for the fact that you were in possession of two five-dollar bills when you were arrested, although you are known to have been employed for a year?" demanded his honor.

"Jes' let me relate the circumstances, Mr. Judge—"

"And three hides, of which you claim to know nothing were found hidden in your cellar?"

"I dunno, Judge, but—"

"And that you were seen coming out of the tannery with three more?"

The negro scratched his head in silence for a minute and then blurted out:

"Looky here, Mr. Judge, if you is gwine to git so troublesome an' so quizzitive 'bout this little matter, I'se jest gwine to confess de fake back what I said 'bout not guilty an' make it guilty."

CHOIR PICNIC

Yesterday afternoon the members of Christ Church Choir enjoyed their annual outing. Motor boats conveyed the party to "Pete's Point." Swimming and sports of all kinds were enjoyed by the various members. After a regular picnic supper, singing and games, the happy party returned to Belleville. It being voted the "best picnic yet." Much credit is due to Miss Lavole for her efficient management and care for all.

SOLDIERS POOR SAILORS

The yacht purchased last fall by the Royal Military College at Toronto, arrived in Kingston harbor in tow of the Belleville Tuesday evening. She is a wooden 50-footer, about the lake and will be used by the cadets of the college for recreation. She started from Toronto for Kingston many weeks ago manned by a crew of six cadets who had figured that they could reach their destination in time for the June ball. Such, however, was not the case. They went 18 miles the first three days and finally arrived at Belleville when they left her and finished their journey by train. Some days later another crew set out with the intention of finishing the job. They started from Belleville in their good ship with a fair breeze and got well away. However, a cloud again appeared on the horizon. When several miles out, one of the crew looked below and great was his consternation and amazement to see the ship fast filling with water. Immediately she set back once more and just docking in time at Belleville to prevent her sinking, and Tuesday she completed her belated voyage behind the rudder post of the old Steamer Belleville.

WEEPING ECZEMA SOON RELIEVED

A Perfect Treatment For This Distressing Complaint

"I had an attack of Weeping Eczema, so bad that my clothes would be wet through at times.

For four months, I suffered terribly. I could get no relief until I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and 'Zoothia Salve' The first treatment gave me relief.

After that, I have used three boxes of 'Zoothia Salve' and two of 'Fruit-a-tives', and am entirely cured."

G. W. HALL.

Both these starting remedies are sold by dealers at 50c. a box; 6 for $2.50, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"Fruit-a-tives" is also put up in a trial size which sells for 25c.

MINISTER IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK, July 17.—Supreme Court Justice Giegerich has denied a divorce to Mrs. Emelie Neifert from the Rev. Josiah M. Neifert, formerly assistant rector of St. Mark's on the Bowery, and now rector of the Episcopal church at Presque Isle, Maine. The court also denied the clergyman's counter-claim for separation, based on a charge of abandonment. Justice Giegerich directed that the Neifert children, a boy and a girl, remain with their mother.

Mrs. Neifert said her husband had a weakness for drink, and the evidence on which she based her plea for divorce had to do with alleged occurrences during the period when a nurse was caring for the clergyman, who had an attack of rheumatism. The Neifert children appeared against their father.

Wish-Bone Jaw-Bone And Back-Bone

Make Up Humanity, Says Member for West Hastings at Herb Lennox's Picnic.

JACKSON'S POINT, July 16.—Ideal weather a large attendance and the usual holiday attractions filled the eleventh annual picnic, given by T. Herbert Lennox, Provincial member for North York riding, at Jackson's Point to-day. During the greater part of the afternoon speakers from various parts of the Province delivered addresses. Among those on the platform, including Premier Hearst, were Hon. Geo. Henry, E. Gus Porter, K. C. M. P., Belleville; Capt. Tom Wallace, H. B. Morphy, Lambton; W. M. Smith, South Ontario; J. A. Armstrong, Chas McCrea, Sudbury; and Dr. K. F. Preston, North Lanark.

"I was disappointed on arriving here to-day," said Mr. Porter, "for I supposed this was to be a political picnic, where politics would be the theme of discussion, but I was informed that no politics are to be argued.' He therefore confined his address to the subject of the present unrest throughout the world, and told his audience that humanity was made up of three groups, viz: the wish-bone, the jaw-bone and the back-bone classes. The first two consisted of the great majority of people who were continually finding fault or wishing for something new to happen, while the last class were the people who were willing to put their shoulder to the wheel, bring prosperity, success and freedom to the nation.

Mr. Porter referred to the unrest prevalent throughout the country, and urged the need for the mutual recognition by capital and labor of the just rights of each other. He appealed for a sane and courageous stand on the part of everyone in bringing about a settled condition of things.

The Belleville member defended the action of the Union Government in enacting the Military Service Act, and the subsequent cancellation of part of the exemptions granted to farm help. He urged his hearers to put themselves in the place of the Government, and to weigh the matter of the hour when these steps were taken. "I ask you when you have done so if you would not have acted as the Government did under the circumstances," he said.

BOOZE HIDDEN UNDER FLOOR OF CHURCH

WOODSTOCK, Ont., July 17.—A novel resort of thirsty ones of this city has been discovered. It is got in some secluded valley, some deserted shack, or in a lone and desolate cave. It is in the Congregational Church, right in the heart of the city and but a stone's throw from Dundas street.

The discovery was made of a loose stone slab in the side of the church. Under this was disclosed a crevice containing several bottles of "hooch." The church has lately been deserted and those who chose this rifling place for their precious liquor apparently had used it for a long time, since one end of the cellar was found thickly strewn with bottles which once contained the "elixir."

Look For Many Big Surprises InReconstruction Of Cabinet

MEN WHO HAVE BECOME OLD POLITICAL LANDMARKS WILL PASS FROM SCENE AND NEW FIGURES REPLACE THEM—QUEBEC WILL BE GIVEN REPRESENTATION.

OTTAWA, July 18.—The Prime Minister has practically completed his plans for Cabinet reconstruction. He will leave Ottawa for a brief vacation and no changes are likely to be announced for the present, but there is reason for stating that, with the possible exception of Quebec's representation, everything will be in readiness on his return for a thorough-and immediate shuffle.

The rejuvenated Cabinet will contain some surprises. Old political landmarks, men whose names have been notable in Parliament for a generation and more, are likely to pass from the stage; new figures, representative of the best and strongest elements in the nation will take their places and Quebec, which, so far as Cabinet representation is concerned, has been for the past two years practically isolated from Confederation, will once more take an adequate part in councils of the Ministry.

THE POSITION OF QUEBEC

For two years the Prime Minister has striven to give Quebec the representation in the Cabinet to which by virtue of an outstanding position in Confederation it was entitled. The former of war politics, fresh in the public mind, rendered all his efforts futile, but with characteristic perseverance Sir Robert Borden continued his endeavors, and at last there is reason for believing that he is about to succeed. The Premier is known to have always held the view that no Cabinet could be truly representative of Canada which did not contain adequate representation from each of the two great races and from the second largest province of the Dominion. This view he has succeeded in imposing on his colleagues, when antagonism to Quebec's participation in a Unionist Ministry was strongest, and it is known that personal influences are now at work to give effect to such a desirat-atum.

QUEBEC AND RADICALISM.

There are signs too, that sentiment in Quebec, where antagonism to Unionism was deep-seated and bitter is undergoing a change. Traditionally Conservative, Quebec leaders see in the growth of unbridled radicalism in some parts of Europe and in Western Canada a future menace to institutions which they cherish. They discern that a possible triumph of a Radical party clothed with Bolshevist or Sinn Feinish work greater harm to their guarantees and rights within Confederation than any conceivable combination of Whig-Liberals and Ontario Conservatives and the wiser heads among them men of the Louis Beliveau-Beliveau school of conservative Liberals of the Laurier-mould, hostile by tradition and training to extreme radicalism, are re-shaping their ideas to meet the conditions which confront them.

Just how far this new change of heart has thus far gone toward aiding the Prime Minister in his re-organization plans is not definitely known but there is reason for assuming that at least one new French-Canadian representative has already been decided upon. Mr. George H. Boivin, Mr. Bourvin is a young Parliamentarian of notable ability. In pre-war days he was singled out as the future Liberal Solicitor-General and since 1917 he has been Deputy Speaker of the House. He is an able debater, equally fluent in both languages, is a lawyer by profession and is head of the Knights of Columbus in Quebec.

ENGLISH-SPEAKING SHUFFLE

The English-speaking shuffle is likely to be radical, with the addition to Mr. Crerar and Sir Thomas White, whose resignations are already facts, Ministers who will be retiring are Sir George Foster, Dr. Reid, Mr. Cochrane, Mr. Burrel, Mr. Doherty and Mr. Burrell have been anxious to retire for some time past; Mr. Cochrane's health is not as good as might be desired and Mr. Carrell appears to think that his contract with Union Government has expired. Mr. Meighen whose outstanding ability has marked him for promotion, is almost certain to succeed Sir Thos. White in finance, but Calder's going to the Interior and Mr. Rowell taking up Immigration and Health. Sir Henry Drayton, accord-ed to seemingly reliable rumor, is to leave the Railway Commission to accept the post of Railways, or perhaps portfolio more important; Mr. Gosh-en, the astute Minister, is likely to move up a peg; Mr. Sifrons of Vancouver, is said to be under considera-tion to follow Mr. Carrell in Public Works; a well known prairie representative is in view to take the place of Mr. Crerar, and Chief Justice Hazen of New Brunswick, is likely to return as the representative of his province and to succeed Mr. Doherty as Minister of Justice.

It is just possible that there may be one or two other changes, out in any event the Prime Minister appears to have ample material at his disposal to fill up any quantity of gaps; Mr. Nickle and Mr. Cronyn all being of Cabinet material and said to be awaiting their leader's call.

SOME BIG NEW JOBS

Reorganization of the Ministry will be followed by almost a score of notable appointments. These include a High Commissioner in London (Sir George Perley is said to be anxious to retire); a Canadian Commissioner at Washington; three commissioners for the Canadian Corps; a Lieutenant-Governor for Ontario; a Deputy Minister for the Department of Public Health; a (possible) Chief Justice for New Brunswick and a number of Senatorships. Never has a Prime Minister had such an opportunity to shuffle his Cabinet without throwing mi-isters out upon the charity of the world.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

Meanwhile the Liberals are preparing feverishly for their coming National Convention. From present indications it will be a very large gathering, all of the provinces, including Manitoba which one looked doubtful, having decided to send delegates. The Great War Veterans and the Canadian Coun-il of Agriculture have declined their invitations with thanks; but the West will be heavily represented. It is the moment Mr. William Martin, Premier of Saskatchewan, looms up as the most probable choice as Sir Wilfrid's successor, but Mr. Fielding, despite his advanced years, is a dangerous competitor, with Mr. McKenzie and Mr. Hazen in the running, and Mr. Sydney Fisher hoping against hope.

No Cause For War Wrote Kaiser

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

BERLIN, July 18.—A letter written by former Emperor William on July 28, 1914, to Dr. Von Bethman Hollweg, then Imperial German Chancellor, is published here. The letter says that after hearing that the Serbian reply to the Austrian ultimatum it was the opinion of the Emperor that all of Austria's wishes had been met, and that all ground for war was removed. It said, however, that as the Serbians are oriental and untrustworthy that the Austrians should occupy Belgrade until Serbia's promises are fulfilled. On this basis, says the Emperor, I would be ready to arrange peace in Austria.

Premium on Large Families And Illegitimate Children

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WEIMAR, Germany, July 18.—The German Nationa' Assembly rejected a motion introduced by the Independents to abolish capital punishment. The vote was 154 to 129. The Assembly has adopted a bill placing maternity under the care of the State. A proposal by the Independents that the mother of an illegitimate child should officially be designated as a frau was carried by a vote of 138 to 133. It was decided by the Assembly that the same educational and social opportunities should be provided by legislation for illegitimate as for legitimate children, likewise that large families were entitled to State assistance.

Ex-Kaiser Victim Of Depression

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press, Limited

BERLIN, July 18.—The pan-German Deutsche Zeitung, which stands close to former royal circles takes a serious view of the illness of former Emperor William calling it deep melancholy. It is said that he is so depressed that his physician views his condition as critical. Count Hohenzollern is said to rarely leave his apartment and seldom sees his closest friends. The paper says he spends many hours in prayer and that when he talks he reverts to converse on religious subjects.

Gunner Mossman Not Guilty Of Striking Officer

CHARGE PREFERRED BY LIEUT. LECKIE AGAINST BELLEVILLE SOLDIER OF AN ASSAULT IN BELGIUM NOT SUBSTANTIATED—MOSSMAN FOUND NOT GUILTY—DEFENDED BY COMMANDANT EVANS OF ARMY AND NAVY VETERANS.

Ex-Gunner Mossman, of Belleville, who was tried at Barriefield yesterday morning by court martial, was found not guilty on the charge of committing an assault on an officer in Belgium in November, 1918. The accused was defended by Commandant Evans of the Army and Navy Veterans, and the prosecution was conducted by Major Newcombe of the headquarters staff, Ottawa. Lt.-Col. Crocker was president of the court and Lt.-Col. Boggs acted as Judge Advocate General.

The reason for the trial not taking place Wednesday was due to the fact that a special courier had to be sent from Ottawa to Lt.-Col. Crocker regarding the date of the trial. Colonel Crocker insisted upon proper procedure and traversed the case until Thursday.

The court only took a short time to deliberate, and the accused with his counsel was taken back into the court and the sentence read by the president, Lt.-Col. Crocker, which was, "That in the opinion of this court the accused is not guilty of the charge, and we order that he be immediately released."

Mossman was released and returned to his home in Belleville last evening. He will be paid for the entire time he was under arrest. Commandant Evans thanked the court for its courtesies on behalf of Mossman, and for the faithful discharge in an effort to establish the innocence of Mossman. Mossman served in France from February, 1915, until December, 1918, and was a good soldier throughout his service.

The case collapsed as there was no evidence to convict the soldier of having assaulted Lieut. Leckie. The episode occurred in the dark, and while the officer said Mossman did the act, the soldier denied the allegation. The court dismissed the case on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Mossman was charged with striking Lieut. Leckie while in Belgium. The accused states that as the officer was alleged to have taken place in Belgium eight months ago, and as he has now been discharged into civil life no action lay against him.

Condemn Carson's Speech, But Set No Law in Motion

HIS THREAT TO CALL OUT ULSTER VOLUNTEERS DEBATED IN BRITISH COMMONS—MOTION TO PROSECUTE HIM IS REJECTED.

LONDON, July 18.—Sir Edward Carson's recent speech regarding irish conditions came up in the House of Commons Wednesday. The Attorney-General, Sir Gordon Hewart, announced that there were no grounds for setting the law in motion against Sir Edward for his threat to call out the Ulster Volunteers against Home Rule.

By a vote of 217 to 27 the House rejected a motion by J. R. Clynes, Labor member, urging the Government to prosecute Sir Edward Carson for his speech of incitement to violence and breach of the law. Labor organs had not been slow to show how such incitement to "direct action" might also be followed in industrial fields, while Irish papers declared there was no difference in the methods of "King De Valera" and "King Carson."

The debate turned on the legal point in which the Attorney-General said he had the occurrence of the Solicitor General. But almost all the speakers, without distinction of party, condemned the Carson speech. Sir Donald MacLean, Liberal, appealed to the Government to prevent, by the moral authority of Parliament by condemning the language the Irish Unionist Leader used.

Mr. Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, contended that the Government was bound to be guided by its legal advisers, though nothing could be more painful to him. If the Government had been advised that the law had been broken he would have insisted on action being taken, or would have resigned.

The whole thing was a very unfortunate affair, said Mr. Bonar Law, while Lord Hugh Cecil and other Unionist members condemned Carson's remarks as indefensible. J. R. Clynes pointed out that it was a speech inciting violence, and poor men were now in prison for saying less harmful things.

Cease To Hate Says The Pope

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, July 18.—Pope Benedict, in a letter addressed to Duke of Germany a letter expressing joy over the removal of the blockade. The letter recommends that the attitude of Christian charity be taken toward the question of reparation for war damages. The Pope expressed confidence that Germany Catholics will give aid to populations brought to a state of extreme need. He recommended in conclusion that all thoughts of hatred against former enemies be eliminated from the minds of German Catholics.

French Cannon With 100-Mile Range

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer,
Canadian Press Limited

PARIS, July 18.—While giving evidence before the Committee of the Chamber of Deputies investigating the Brisy question, M. L. Bourgeois Chief Engineer of the Navy Department, said that at the time Paris was being bombarded by German Long Range Guns, he had designed a cannon with a range of 100 miles which could be put in position in one hour. M. Bourgeois stated that previous to that time he had urged upon Albert Thomas then Under-Secretary of State for War and Munitions, the importance of bombarding the Brisy Iron Works and had been asked to design a long range cannon. His plans however were sent from one committee to another and the order to manufacture it was not given until February, 1918. The gun was ready for action at the time the Armistice was signed, he said.

Celebrate Peace Day With Thanksgiving And Joy

PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR ALL-DAY OBSERVANCE OF DAY SET APART BY ROYAL PROCLAMATION FOR THANKSGIVING FOR SIGNING OF PEACE—OPEN AIR RELIGIOUS SERVICE, PARADES, FIREWORKS, MUSIC AND DANCING.

All arrangements have been perfected for the observance in Belleville tomorrow of the public holiday set apart for appropriate celebration of the signing of peace. All places of business will be closed and it is hoped that all citizens will take part in making the occasion a memorable one and in keeping with the importance of the event which will be commemorated. The program will be as follows:

Morning.

Thanksgiving service at 11 o'clock on the Court House lawn. At 10.30 the G.W.V.A., fraternal societies and citizens are requested to assemble at the city building and, headed by the Fifteenth Regiment Band, proceed to the Court House lawn. Ministers and choirs of every church in the city are requested to take part in this service, Music for the singing will be furnished by the Salvation Army Band.

Afternoon.

Grand peace celebration parade to be formed on the market square at two o'clock, to be marshalled by Mr. J. J. B. Flint, and to be composed of members of the G.W.V.A., societies, the fire brigade, City Council, Board of Trade, Board of Health, fraternal societies, decorated autos and citizens on foot. The Fifteenth Regiment Band, the Kilties Band and the Salvation Army Band will provide music.

Special prizes will be given for the best decorated industrial float, other floats, decorated cars and bicycles.

Evening.

In the evening a Community Dance will take place on Front Street between Victoria Avenue and Bridge Street. While this is in progress all traffic will be suspended between Bridge Street and Victoria Avenue. This will commence at 7.30 and continue until midnight. The street will be well lighted. An interesting program will be provided during the intermission by the Fifteenth Regiment Band will provide the music.

Fireworks.

Arrangements are being made for a grand display of fireworks at the entrance to Victoria Park.

Decorate.

Merchants in particular and citizens generally are requested to decorate their places of business and residences.

In connection with the Grand Peace Parade valuable prizes have been procured and will be awarded as follows:

Best Industrial Float.

Best Decorated Truck.

Best Decorated Car.

Best Decorated Bicycle.

The judging will be done while the parade is in progress and the prizes will be awarded from the platform on Front street at 9 p.m.

The Community Dance will start on Front Street at 7.30 and continue until midnight. All who wish may masquerade for the dance and prizes will be awarded for the best dressed lady, gent, boy and girl and presented at 11 p.m. There will be a grand parade of those in costume at 10 p.m.

The display of fireworks will start at 10 p.m. at the entrance to Victoria Park.

Merchants are requested to light their windows for the evening.

Mirth and Melody.

There will be a band concert given by the Salvation Army Band at the entrance to Victoria Park beginning at 9 p.m.

Bagpipe solos by Pipe-Major Johnstone will be a feature of the evening program.

The night will be full of music, mirth and joyous good fellowship. Get together, everybody, forget class distinctions and remember that the world has been made safe for democracy by the democratic soldiers of Canada and the other allied countries.

The ex-kaiser has been captured again and will be executed on Front Street at 10 p.m., so says Ald. Hanna, whose opinion of the Hohenzollern murderer is too hot for publication.

Ald. Hanna and Fire Chief Brown were seen stretching a rope high over Front street last evening, and it looks as though someone was going to walk the tight rope.

Messrs. Sanford & Wheeler's burnt cork minstrels will spring some novelties during the evening program.

Make this a real joyous thanksgiving celebration for the blessings of peace by taking part in a genial whole-hearted way. Be friendly, speak to your neighbor, and smile all the while. Co-operation will be encouraged for Peace Day and surely no one will take unfair advantage of the privileges of such an important occasion.

Don't come to criticize—the program was arranged in a hurry and there may be rough spots, but the sentiment is right, royal and patriotic, and Belleville is not going to be out of step with the rest of the British Empire and the United States tomorrow—so much! Watch your step and get in fine.

The Toronto Leafs yesterday won their tenth consecutive when they defeated Jersey City by 4 to 3 in twelve innings.

First Nights At "The Movies"

Norma Talmadge in "By Right of Purchase" at Griffin's—Dorothy Dalton at The Palace.

Appearing in a role of tremendous force, Norma Talmadge has achieved another screen triumph in her latest picture, "By Right of Purchase," which is the feature offering at Griffin's for the week-end. The story is dramatic and exceptionally appealing. Eugene O'Brien plays opposite the star, with signal success. Charlie Chaplin is appearing on the same program in a funny two-act comedy which is having its initial screening in Belleville, entitled "Police." The British News is of unusual interest this week, revealing for the first time the immense British fleet of submarines, and the secrets and inner workings of a submarine, all of which was not allowed to be shown during the war.

DOROTHY DALTON
IN "LOVE ME"

A fascinating story of a breezy Western girl who, after a long struggle, captivates the hearts of her husband's exclusive and wealthy family who at first hand refused to receive her, in "Love Me", the latest Dorothy Dalton picture, now showing at the Palace Theatre for the week-end. Always winsome, Miss Dalton is more than ever adorable in her new role and some of the gowns she wears, as well as those of her socially correct "in-laws" caused gasps of pleasure from the feminine contingent of the audience. William Conlin plays the "Villain" as usual in Miss Dalton's pictures, while Robert McKim assists him in his machinations, and clever young Jack Holt is the husband, who, after proving "no man in the case," too, played by Dorcas Matthews, while Elinore Hancock makes a stunning mother. A thrilling chapter of the popular circus serial, "Lure of the Circus" will also screened on the same program.

"THE HOME TOWN GIRL"

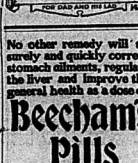

In the beginning of all things so 'tis said, the first woman led the first man into sin and caused him to yield to temptation, but in the ages that have elapsed since that time, there have been countless cases where every man has been responsible for the upbuilding of man's character and moral courage. This latter theme is embodied in "The Home Town Girl," a new picture starring Vivian Martin, which will be presented at Griffin's next Monday to Wednesday. On the same program with the above offering a funny two-act Mack Sennett comedy a new Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon and a smashing story of Western daring will also be shown.

A PEPPY PUZZLE-PICTURE

Patrons of the Palace are assured of banner entertainment next Monday to Wednesday, for "The Ginger Snap" William Russell, will be there in a lively new production entitled "Sporting Chance. "A Sporting Chance" is a bona fide thriller. "Big Bill" has the role of a young millionaire, who registers at a Metropolitan hotel for the purpose of killing himself—for reasons he deems good and sufficient, but which are not disclosed until later. Just as he is about to pull the trigger, a shot in the room across the court arrests his hand. Through the open window he sees a beautiful young woman bending over the prostrate figure and taking from the man's hand a magnificent jewel—the signet of Sheba. Her story winning Russell's sympathy, he astonishes her with an offer to shoulder the blame, so that she may go free. Thus he is drawn into a series of amazing adventures, absorbing in their interest, full of thrills and hair-raising exploits, mysterious mystifying with touches of delightful romance. The incidents are strung together in a way that succeeds in keeping one guessing until the end. It is a pretty clever direction that can keep the astute picture fan from spotting the clue to a mystery at least two reels from the climax, but "A Sporting Chance" manages to achieve this very thing.

Farmers Institute Picnic At Latta

Last Wednesday the Ladies' Farmers Institute and the Men's Farmers Institute of East Hastings held a joint picnic at the beautiful picnic grounds at Latta. The men spent weeks beforehand building a race track and laying out the grounds for picnicing and recreation in this section. To the west, nature has provided an excellent grand stand that will hold one thousand people. The track laid out is a half mile with an excellent base-ball diamond, basket ball court and with plenty of shade trees for picnicing. There were three excellent races with eight horses entered. The farmers race created a great deal of interest, best two of three half mile heats. The time announced was 2.40 seconds.

The judges for the races were Wm. Carnew, Harvey Wallace and W. C. Mikel, K.C.

The tug-of-war between two teams composed of Thurlow and Tyendinaga on the one side and Huntingdon and Hungerford on the other was won by Thurlow and Tyendinaga.

The basket ball game was won by the Gilead team, and the Gilead Ladies' Foot-ball Club also won the foot-ball game 1-0.

The foot-ball game was one of the most keenly contested events on the program.

The base-ball match between Plainfield and Canifton was won by Plainfield by one run.

There were also a number of foot races for the young people.

Great credit is due to Sandy Moore, J.P., John Sherman, Wm. J. Hall, Wesley Parks, Wm. Collins and others for their efforts in making the entertainment such a success.

The evening's delightful concert given in the evening in the Orange Hall at Plainfield by the Madoc Quartette, Sandy Moore, Chairman.

Gas in Stomach Is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble. Caused By Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, or so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

The Central Point in Life Insurance

Of late years many new and attractive features have been introduced into life insurance policies but the Central Point is Protection. The Company takes the responsibility of caring for your family in the event of your death —that is the "point."

The Mutual Life of Canada has for a long time been issuing monthly income policies in which the claim is paid by monthly cheques throughout the life of the beneficiary, but the essential thing is protection, whether paid in a lump sum or in instalments.

The Mutual also has introduced the disability feature under which the payment of premiums will be waived under certain conditions. But the great question is, are you insured and are you insured sufficiently?

The reason why the Mutual Life was organized was "to give the largest amount of real life insurance protection for the least possible cost" for this has been recognized from the beginning as the Central Point.

PRESCOTT TOURNAMENT

The Brockville Recorder and Times is referring to the bowling tournament at Prescott in describing the final game in which Belleville rink won out, says: The game which attracted the largest gathering of the tournament was keenly contested from start to finish. It was close all the way through and Newman, skip for Kingston, coming from behind tied up the score on the 17th end. On the last end, however, Mr. Wray, skip for the Belleville rink, secured two shots and won out.

Coconut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

These Have Made It a Greater Maxwell

300,000 who drive Maxwells of this very model will tell you that reliability plus, ability to endure, ability to stand the gaff of any going, is built into the Maxwell.

Reduced to a single word its story is—reliability.

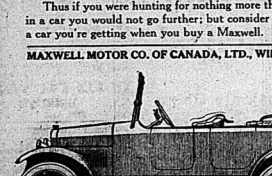

But now this great car becomes even greater by five important improvements:

1. Hot Spot and Ram's-horn, which make the car run smoother, steadier, and with less wear, and give greater mileage.
2. Improved electrical unit, which cuts down battery wear.
3. New type radiator, which makes the car more pleasing to the eye.
4. New upholstery and seat springs, which produce a better riding quality.
5. A new top fabric, making the top more durable (tops so often are the first things to go in a car).

An important sum of money has been expended to make it a greater Maxwell. Yet the price is only $1395, f.o.b. Windsor.

Thus if you were hunting for nothing more than a bargain in a car you would not go further; but consider how superior a car you're getting when you buy a Maxwell.

Moving Pictures For Canadian Soldiers

Canada is the most popular subject among the Canadian soldiers yet awaiting return to the Dominion, and more particularly among the wounded and disabled in the hospitals, says a despatch from London, England. These men are anxious to learn more of the resources of the country, of the land policy, of the industrial opportunities and the possibilities offered to them upon their return.

To graphically present information on these topics the overseas representative of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment has made considerable use of moving pictures. By means of the films these men have been enabled to obtain comprehensive grasp of what Canada is doing for the returned disabled men.

These views have been shown to a hundred audiences throughout the United Kingdom and more than 50,000 men have been present at such exhibitions. These audiences are always most interesting gatherings. Some men are rolled in on their beds, others on wheel chairs, while yet others are on crutches or hobble in aided by stout sticks. The men on the beds obtain the choice spots and they usually are the most enthusiastic, but, indeed, it is always a spirited and lively audience that greets the lecturer when he steps out to explain the pictures as they are projected on the screen.

From beginning to end the audience misses nothing, every word and picture are carefully followed. A large number of those in the audience have been severely injured, but they are beginning to learn that handicaps may be overcome, and that through the medium of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment the future is no longer the uncertain prospect they had deemed it. Consequently there is a deep personal interest in these films for every man present.

The first reel shows the arrival of returned troops at a Canadian seaport and the procedure that follows. This invariably causes considerable joking and merriment and audible comment. "Hello, Bill!" "Hi, Sparky!" "Oh, there's Jim," voices cry, or perhaps a figure is discovered taking a surreptitious whiff, and then follows an immediate "Stop smoking on parade." There is a scene showing a pile of Canadian money and whenever it is flashed on the screen one chap is sure to yell out: "That's the stuff to give the troops."

Then there are the pictures showing the work of re-training disabled men. These are received with close attention, each man being occupied with his own thoughts and concerning himself with the application to his own particular case of what the screen shows. The future which for many a man was clouded, now begins to clear and take color. He soon discovers that he can take up some useful calling or occupation and mingle with his fellow workers when he reaches home again.

This section of the picture stirs the men and many questions are asked. They have the evidences of their own eyes that disabled men are being taught new trades and occupations and they desire immediate information as to the manner in which the industrial re-training is taught, and, in fact, all about the re-training system of the Vocational Branch of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment. Their questions are promptly answered and all the necessary information given. From such exhibitions many a case goes away with hope rekindled, and a new faith established in himself that banishes all fears for the future.

"You have not seen the ravine yet,' said Captain Thorlasen. "I would not promise to do it in so short a time. How long would the valley take to fill?"

I took out a piece of paper and a pencil, and made some rough and hurried calculations.

"The water should be one hundred feet deep in three months," I replied. "Of course this is only an estimate. I have no exact measurements; I don't know the rate which the stream runs nor can I yet tell how much water will escape."

"The water will freeze of course," said Sir Thule de Brie, "and it will be possible for our troops to advance over the ice. It will be about two feet thick."

"I had that in my mind, Sir Thule de Brie," I answered. "The barrier should be raised to such a height as to bring the water within a foot of the top of the walls. It will not be hard to make the calculation with our instruments. If the king refuses to give in, we can raise it higher. If he capitulates his troops can leave the city and deliver up their arms under the shadow of our guns.

"And when we are in possession of the city?" someone asked.

"We can blast the barrier to pieces, let the water out of the valley and remain, with the key of Astarnia in our hands."

"A well-thought-out plan," said Count Guy of Marmorel, holding out his hand to me. "What say you my lords and knights? Is not this gentleman deserving of our thanks?"

"Aye, aye," they cried one by one, raising and pressing round me to grasp my hand. I responded but coldly to the warmth of their enthusiasm.

"You owe me no thanks," I said moving towards the door, "we all have the same interests at stake and—and at heart."

"When Avranches falls," said Count Guy, his great form towering over me, "I will lead my own knights to the breach and set the banner of Marmorel on the highest tower of the city. Then will I ask you for your reward."

I looked him straight in the eyes and turning sharply on my heel without a word, left the room. I had done a night's work that the whole world could not compensate me for. Perchance too, the deaths of ten thousand fellow-men would be laid at the door of my soul.

The next day the great dam was begun. We picked out two hundred of our sailors and three hundred Astarnians for the work in hand. All the men were fully armed, and a long line of waggons followed us laden with food, tents, pickaxes, crowbars, 1,000 lbs. of blasting gelatine and all the apparatus and instruments necessary for firing the charges and obtaining the level of the top of the town walls. We had resolved to save time by camping on the spot. The ravine was only one and a half miles from our guns and was practically inaccessible from the valley side without a considerable detour. It was moreover very unlikely that the king's forces would leave the town, as we had failed to draw them out on so many previous occasions. By way of further precaution, however, we took with us a fifteen-pounder and two Maxims. The moon was favorable for our enterprise. It hung above the horizon for ten days and nights like a great electric lamp; and gave us so much light it was easy to read small print by it. We divided ourselves into three shifts, and were able to work every hour out of the twenty-four.

The ravine itself was well worth a visit from the artistic standpoint and would have been a show place for tourists, if it had been in Switzerland. The walls were at least two hundred feet in height and the space between them not more than twenty feet in width. When I first looked over the edge there was nothing to be seen but a black gulf, from which ascended the roar of waters and a faint mist of spray. But we had brought a searchlight with us and when its rays had pierced the darkness, we saw near the entrance a cauldron of boiling foam and farther down a long lane of swift black water flecked with white froth, and further still a veritable inferno glittering with frozen spray and from every projection in the rock hung gigantic icicles. The water itself was descending as far as I could judge, about one in twenty, and it was almost impossible for the surface to freeze; but every now and then a great block of ice detached from the upper part of the river, would whirl into the ravine and splinter itself into a thousand fragments.

Such was the place we had to work in. I had spoken boldly enough in the tent about making a dam, but as I looked into that awful hell of ice and water, I realized that the credit of the work would not rest with him who planned the scheme, but with those who dared to carry it out. Small wonder that such a task had never been attempted in the previous history of the kingdom. I doubt if it could have possibly been accomplished without modern explosives.

BELLEVILLE A CONVENTION CITY.

It is said that the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will not be held in Toronto in 1920 as arranged on account of the scarcity of good hotel accommodation in the Queen City. Why not come to Belleville, where the convention accommodation is plentiful and high-class, as was evidenced during the Masonic Grand Lodge meeting and other conventions held here. Belleville's new Industrial Commissioner should be well employed in making Belleville a convention city in addition to seeking out for industries, as a convention of any size means considerable money put in local circulation, the delegates having to be provided with food and lodging as well as spending much money upon incidentals during their stay. Everything that will help Belleville should be done after by the Industrial Commissioner and bringing prominent people here to conventions is one good way of showing the many advantages of Belleville for business, residence or recreation.

STILL SLAMMING DEWART.

Hartley Dewart is still fighting for his place in the sun as leader of the Ontario Liberal party, but it is a lonely up-hill fight. The Toronto Star (Liberal) joins the chorus of disapproval against the selection of Dewart as Liberal leader with a strong editorial accusing him of being the political hope of the liquor interests. The Globe, senior Liberal organ, has already expressed its disapproval of the Dewart accession to the Liberal leadership, and other prominent Liberal newspapers have spoken in the same strain. Whatever Dewart's association with the liquor interests are, his welcome as Liberal leader has been of the cold water variety and the coup evidently inspired by Ottawa reactionaries to punish Liberal Leader Proudfoot has apparently had the effect of making another breach deep and wide in the Liberal party in Ontario. Dewart's selection of Ontario Liberal leader was just another example of machine politics which the people are in no mood to be made the victims of just now.

SIGNIFICANCE OF PEACE DAY.

Peace Day is not a holiday in the general acceptance of the term, not a day for picnic and fishing parties, but a day for general and heartfelt thanksgiving that the world has been saved from the horror of German domination. Coupled with this sentiment should be a feeling of deep appreciation for the sacrifices of the soldiers who helped to defeat the Huns, of an appreciative feeling at the sacrifice of home comforts, health and even life itself, and we should not forget the glorious wartime services of the noble women who gave their time, their talents and their soldier sons and husbands to make Canada's war effort worthy of this great nation. To the men in public life who worked so hard in their various spheres for righteous victory the nation should also be grateful, but above all we must not forget to be humbly grateful to the God of Battles Who alone giveth the victory.

Peace Day is a day for Thanksgiving and great joy for deliverance from a fate worse than death, and should be celebrated accordingly.

YOU'RE FIRED, SAYS THE GLOBE.

The Toronto Globe reads Hon. N. W. Rowell out of the Liberal party in an editorial review of that gentleman's recently published letter denouncing the selection of Hartley Dewart as Liberal leader in Ontario and discussing Union Government.

The Globe objects strenuously to the proposal of a permanent merger of Liberals with Conservatives in a new Unionist party and accuses Rowell of attempting to "destroy the historic Liberal party of Canada by agreeing to a political merger with the Conservatives."

Mr. Rowell seems to have been selected as the goat upon whom all the Grit soreness arising out of the present disorganized state of the party can be wished and he has been more generally abused since casting in his lot with Union Government than any other Liberal who refused to follow Quebec into the jungle of Little-Canadianism. A great deal of the ill-feeling aroused against Hon. N. W. Rowell has originated in Quebec, where politicians are wide use of Mr. Rowell's North West speech criticizing Quebec's recruiting record. If Mr. Rowell is now definitely out of the Liberal party, as The Globe insists he is, it remains to be seen what kind of a welcome he will receive in the Conservative party. Hitherto he has not been very popular with the rank and file of Conservatives, but if he really has his eyes open at last he may yet develop into a really first-class Tory. At present, however, he is just as good a Liberal-Unionist as The Globe, probably better, for The Globe is showing signs of uneasiness and desire to get back to straight party conditions while Mr. Rowell realizes that there is still much hard work to do for Canada which can best be accomplished by the Unionist Government. The Globe should remember that the very men who are doing their best to drive Mr. Rowell, Mr. Proudfoot and other prominent men out of the Liberal party, hate The Globe no less fervently, and would like to excommunicate that journal also from a "so-called" Liberal party which clung to politics when patriotism should have been the only thought.

CRISP COMMENT

That is a grand and pathetic notice which has been put up in front of the ruins of the Cathedral and Cloth Hall at Ypres: "This is Holy Ground. No dust of this fabric may be disturbed. It is a heritage of all civilized people."

The public will have to pay the Dominion Ministers better if it desires to have men of the best calibre, says the Kingston Standard. The salary paid Sir Thomas White was ridiculous compared with what he could earn elsewhere. Honor is all right, but it does not pay the butcher's bill.

Spent A Small Fortune, He Says

Chappell Suffered Fifteen Years Before Finding Relief—Praises Tanlac.

Remarkable, indeed, was the statement made by W. D. Chappell, a well-known painter and paper hanger, living at 311 South Franklin street, St. Paul, Minnesota, while in the St. Paul Drug Company's store, recently. Mr. Chappell declared that three bottles of Tanlac have done him more real good than other treatment and medicines that I have cost him a small fortune, which he has paid out during the past fifteen years trying to get rid of a bad case of stomach trouble and kidney complaint.

"For fifteen years," said Mr. Chappel, "I have suffered from stomach trouble and painful, disordered kidneys. My appetite was gone and dis-gas from what little I did eat would bloat me up terribly causing intense pains in my left side and, about my heart. My kidneys disturbed me so at night that I never averaged more than about three hours sleep and the pains in my back were so bad that it was a agony for me to bend over and straight en up. I was also badly constipated and felt tired out all the time. I have spent a small fortune trying to get rid of these troubles but only got worse. This spring I got in such a bad shape I was forced to quit work entirely.

"A man I know personally, one whose word I could not doubt, recommended Tanlac to me, and while I have only taken three bottles so far, the medicine has done me more real good than everything else I have taken combined, and I am still taking it and improving right along. My appetite is so good that I just want to eat all the time and since the gas has stopped forming on my stomach I am not troubled any more with pains in my side or about my heart. Tanlac commenced to build me up before I had finished the first bottle and I have been steadily improving ever since. I had about given up hope of ever finding a medicine that would help me, so you may know how thankful I am that I came by way, and I am glad to pass the good word along."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAffrey, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

SINN AND HELL WERE LET LOOSE

St. Louis, July 18.—Mrs. Albert Sinn obtained a divorce in the Circuit Court and Judge Grimm grim grimly decreed that hereafter the wages of Sinn shall be divided. Sinn, who is a barber, must give Mrs. Sinn $4 per week.

When Mrs. Sinn left the stand Mrs. Alfred B. Bell ascended. She, too, wanted freedom. She was married to Hell in July and had enough of Hell in a month. She will have Hell no more, her maiden name of Hemmelmann being restored.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST TWO BOYS

NEW YORK, July 17.—Two boys are under arrest charged with the murder of Gardiner C. Hull, found dying from hammer blows in his downtown stationery store on Friday.

Edward Earl Paige, 19, was apprehended in Philadelphia, and Edward O'Brien, 20, at Long Beach, N.J. According to the police, both boys admitted in participating in the murder and robbery, but each contended he did not strike the blows. Both were employed as messengers in the stationery concern. Hull, who died without regaining consciousness, was robbed $200.

Preparing Voters List Change in Qualification Term

Clerks of municipalities in preparing Voters' Lists this year should bear in mind the amendment made to the Voters' List Act in the Statute Law Amendment Act, passed April 17, 1919, which reads as follows:

3.—(1) Subsection 7 of Section 8 of the Voters' List Act is amended by striking out the words "Ontario Franchise Act or the letters O.F.A." added thereto by section 3 of the Act passed in the 7th year of His Majesty's reign, chaptered 4, and substituting therefor the words "Legislative franchise, or the letters L.F."

Formerly in preparing the voters' lists the letters M.F. were used to denote Manhood Franchise; this was amended and the letters O. F. A., denoting the Ontario Franchise Act as qualification to vote were used; now, according to the latest amendment to the Voters' List Act, the letters L.F. must be used, denoting Legislative Franchise. Municipal clerks will do well to note the change made necessary by the amendment, as voters' lists prepared in the old way will have to be reprinted and thus cause the municipalities considerable, although needless expense.

Dundurn Foundered Two Sailors Drowned

ASHTABULA, Ohio, July 18.—After dragging the waters for miles in all directions throughout the entire day, rescuing parties were unable to find any trace of the bodies of Leonda C. Leboeuf, twenty-one, and Edward Barinell, forty-five, members of the crew of the barge Dundurn, who were drowned when the vessel foundered and sank just outside the outer breakwater at this point Wednesday night during a heavy storm.

The Dundurn, which was in tow of the tug Home Rule, Captain Walter Simpson, left this port late in the evening for Toronto, laden with coal. Just as she pulled into the open sea the Dundurn signalled trouble, and the Home Rule cut the tow line.

Captain Simpson looked in time to see the Dundurn sink out of sight. Although a high sea was running the crew of the Home Rule succeeded in rescuing Captain O. Leboeuf, master of the Dundurn, a woman, stewardess and a deck hand from the water.

The younger Leboeuf, the Captain's son, and Barinell, another deck hand went down, and it is the supposition that the suction drew them under at once.

The Dundurn was owned and operated by the Canadian Steamship Lines of Montreal. She was a wooden craft of 790 net tons, and was a steady trader out of this port. Captain Leboeuf is from Toronto, as were all the other members of the crew.

The Dundurn went down about 700 feet northeast of the breakwater entrance. The steamer, which was insured, has been abandoned to the underwriters as a constructive total loss. The Dundurn, which was formerly a passenger vessel, was 186 feet keel, 30 feet beam, and 12 feet deep.

U.S. Senate Rages Over Shantung Award

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The stormy Senate fight over the peace treaty shifted away from the League of Nations covenant and broke with a new fury about the provision giving Shantung penin-la to Japan.

In five hours of debate the treaty opponents charged in bitter terms that the Tokio Government had wheedled Shantung from China at the peace table without its shadow of a cause, except the ambition of conquest and supporters of the treaty defended the course of President Wilson in the negotiations by declaring the only alternative was failure of the whole Peace Conference.

Chairman Lodge, of the Foreign Relations Committee, declared Shantung was "a price paid" for Japan's acceptance of the League of Nations. Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, charged that Japan in 1917, secretly had investigated the European Allies into a promise to support the Shantung claims. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, asserted that if the United States must either underwrite the Shantung agreement or accept the challenge of another power, the country would choose the latter course.

Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, ranking Democratic official of the committee replied that the German rights in Shantung were obtained legally by treaty in 1898, and were won fairly from Germany by Japan long before the United States entered the war.

Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, said the President had to accept the Shantung settlement or come home without a general treaty of peace, and that Japan never would give up the peninsula unless forced to do so by war.

Alleged Secret Treaty

In the end the Senate adopted, without a record vote a resolution by Senator Lodge asking the President for any available information about a secret treaty alleged to have been negotiated between Japan and Germany in 1918, embodying a plan for Russian rehabilitation, and promising Japan's indirect protection of German interests at the Versailles negotiations.

A sweeping request for information about the conversations at Versailles also was sent to the White House by the foreign relations committee, which adopted a resolution, by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, calling for all proposed drafts for a league covenant, for reports of the arguments relative to the league, and for "all data bearing upon or used in connection with the treaty of peace."

At its meeting the committee began the reading of the treaty, covering in less than two hours about one-fifth of its sections, but passing over for future consideration the league covenant the boundaries of Germany, and many minor provisions. The reading will continue to-morrow.

SIR ROBERT KINDERSLEY

Chairman National War Savings Committee of the United Kingdom.

Sir Robert Kindersley, K.B.E., Chairman of the National War Savings Committee of the United Kingdom, has had remarkable success with his organization. Indeed among a series of notable achievements during the war, that if this committee stands out prominently. He brought to his work all the prestige that accompanies a leader in financial circles in Great Britain, for Sir Robert is a director of the Bank of England, a Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, and a partner in the well known international banking house of Lazard Brothers & Co. He is also a Lieutenant of the city of London and a member of the Court of the Fishmongers Company. Being forty-seven years of age he is in the prime of life and undoubtedly has ahead of him many years of life in the public service. He received his knighthood in 1917.

The success of the campaign conducted by the National War Savings Committee has been of a very striking character. After a discouraging start, when war saving was universally unpopular, the campaign succeeded beyond the highest expectations. On the 1st of January, 1919, there were in Great Britain over 3,000 War Savings Committees, flourishing and active self-governing bodies so distributed that there was one within easy reach of every inhabitant. They supervised over 50,000 War Savings Societies. The total number of War Savings Certificates sold exceeded 270,000,000 and less than 10,000,000 had been cashed. Everything over £900,000,000 had been contributed through War Savings Certificates and at least one-third of the 45,000,000 inhabitants of Great Britain had become holders of Government securities.

The success of the War Savings Committee was such that in January, 1917, it was called on to place its organization at the disposal of the Treasury for conducting the campaign for the War Loan of January and February, 1917, when close on £1,000,000,000 was subscribed. During the spring and summer of 1917 the committee conducted the Food Saving Campaign which preceded the introduction of the rationing system in Great Britain. Finally it is the War Savings Committee which from October, 1917, onwards has had charge of the campaign for selling National War Bonds, which has continued from that time on without cessation and has produced over £1,800,000,000 of subscriptions.

The Savings Movement is being continued in the British Isles as a peace effort and with every prospect of continued success.

THE BUSINESS OFFICE of THE INTELLIGENCER will close on Saturdays during JUNE, JULY AND AUGUST at 5 o'clock.

Bolsheviki Lose Heavily On South Siberian Front

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Col. A. M. Nikhlaieff, military attache to the Russian Embassy, made public here the following official communique from Omsk, describing the situation on the anti-Bolshevist fronts on July 12.

"On the southern front, the Bolsheviki, after capturing Perm, Kungour and Krasnoufimsk, continued their offensive along the Samara-Zlatoust railroad. South from the Samara-Zlatoust railroad up to Orenbourg, the situation remains unchanged. The rural and town population are leaving their homes and retreating together with our troops.

Peninsula Liberated.

"On the southern front, the army of General Denikine continues successfully its operations. In the Astrakhan direction the troops have reached the mouth of the Volga. In the Alexandrovsk direction the troops of General Denikine have occupied the entire Verkhnednieprovsk. In the south they have occupied Alexandrovsk, Orekhov, Melitopol and Perekop. The entire Taurida peninsula is liberated from the Bolsheviki. The beaten Bolshevist troops are retreating in the direction of Saratov, Tambov, Voronezh, Kourisk and Khereon. The Bolshevist losses, from June 24 up to July 5 are over 500,000 men. The troops of General Denikine have captured about half of the military supplies and ammunition of the Bolshevist troops.

Reserves All Exhausted.

"In Bolshevist Russia, the Bolshevist reserves are all exhausted and they are unable to send additional troops to the Siberian front. The Bolshevist commissionaires are trying their best to organize voluntary detachments. Detachments of 'Greens,' consisting of Bolshevist soldiers who deserted the front, appeared in the woods of the Moscow and Vladimir districts. In order to combat desertion, the Bolshevist commissaries have introduced flogging in the red army. There is great religious and patriotic enthusiasm in south Russia, in connection with the success of Gen. Denikine's army."

NOT ENOUGH HOTELS IN TORONTO, SO IT LOSES CONVENTION

TORONTO, uly 17.—Because Toronto's hotel accomodation is regarded as insufficient to provide for the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in 1922, especially with reference to a headquarters' hotel the gathering may not be held in this city although so decided upon at Cleveland Ohio, last May, according to a letter received By Mayor Church from Vice-President James Murdock, of the Brotherhood. Unless the hotel accommodation is considerably increased by the date in question the convention will not likely come to Toronto, Mr. Murdock states.

BRITISH RAILWAYMEN STRIKE

London, July 18.—Engineers on the North-Eastern Railway system went on strike yesterday, seriously crippling the operation of the railway. The signalmne also went out during the day, and the strike movement is spreading to other employees. The engineers, it is said, oppose a regulation of the company regarding eye tests.

MEDALS FOR BRAVE BOYS.

FACE CUT BY CRANK

Mr. Percy Deayes of Campbellford, met with a painful accident this week. He was starting the engine in his motor boat when the crank struck him in the face, giving him an ugly wound. Immediate attentions was given to the injury which is healing nicely. The victim is a son of Mrs. Jay Deayes residing on Catharine street in this city.

R. A. F. SAVED NEW YORK.

Flt.-Lieut. John Tomkins, who returned to Kingston this week from overseas, spent two years with the Royal Air Force, and was a member of a squadron that attacked three German Zeppelins in the North Sea. Two of the Zeppelins were brought down, and it was ascertained later that the Zeppelins were headed for New York to bomb that city, as plans were discovered and instructions were found for the bombing of that city.

MAJOR SHARPE ILL

Army and Navy Veterans have asked for the release from Burwash Prison of Major W. J. Sharpe, formerly Casualty Officer here, who is serving one year for desertion. The petition asks that Major Sharpe be released on July 19, in view of the fact that he served overseas and contributed to the victory which will be celebrated on Saturday. The ill-health of Major Sharpe is also a reason why the Veterans ask for his release.

SELL CHEESE ON BOARD

Something unusual in the history of the Peterboro Cheese Board occurred Wednesday morning when the Board refused to sell the 1,629 boxes of cheese offered. This was done as a protest against the lack of interest which many of the factories have manifested, and also against what members term selling off the board. Mr. Thompson Brellis, who president, stated that the registration of the Peterboro Cheese Board and of the entire factories in this district is being subjected by many persons and factories to serious injury. The only remedy, it was stated, was an immediate revival of interest by all the dairymen and factory patrons who are represented on the Board and also the others who should be represented. Selling off the Board is causing disunion. The Maple Leaf Pine Grove, Buckhorn, Cedardale, Myrtle and Fleshwood factories have adopted this practice. The executive of the Cheese Board argue that the highest prices are obtained when the greatest number of buyers are attracted, and that the number of buyers depends upon the strength of the Board, or, in other words, upon the number of cheese offered for sale. If the factories are to act independently of one another they deprive themselves of the advantages of collective selling, and of the competition in buying that has always brought the highest prices. Two weeks ago the price was around 31 cents. This week the high offering by Mr. Gillespie was 24 cents. Mr. Thompson of Belleville, the only other buyer, opened at 23 cents, and the listless bidding proceeded by sixteenths to 24 cents.

PAINFUL INJURIES TO A LAD

George Dickman, a boy about 12 years of age, whose home is off Bridge Street East, was on Wednesday struck in the mouth with a baseball bat which inflicted a cut requiring seven stitches to be taken. The lad was temporarily looked after Friday by friends prior to the arrival of a physician. No serious results are anticipated.

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST BOYS

Two boys, both of whom are under the age of 14 years, were today in Children's Court before Magistrate Mason charged with burglarising two stores in Bellview, Rawdon Township. The boys broke into the places and stole two vallses, also a few articles. The older boy was also accused of stealing a bicycle, the property of Frank Mackie, of this city. Both offences were proven, but it was shown the younger boy was led into the affair by the older boy. The latter was given an indeterminate sentence at the Mimico Industrial School and the other was allowed to return home to his parents.

One Year Ago To-day

JUST ONE YEAR AGO TODAY the Allied armies on the Western battle front were spending their last twenty-four hours with "backs to the wall". That fact was not then known to the outside world, for the news despatches on that day told us that "The invaders had resumed their victorious attacks on both sides of the Rheims salient and were meeting with considerable success in pressing the Allied armies STILL FURTHER BACKWARDS.

July 19th, 1918

One year ago to-morrow

THE TIDE OF BATTLE turned just one year ago tomorrow. A smashing stroke by Foch between the Aisne and the Marne developed into a rout for the enemy that never ended until Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, and the subsequent signing of a victorious peace on June 28, 1919.

July 19th, 1919

To-morrow

THE PEACE CELEBRATION tomorrow throughout the British Empire will therefore be one of the Empire's most historic days—coming as it does on the First Anniversary of the day when the German military machine had to give way and start on its way to defeat—the most momentous year and event in history to be celebrated tomorrow. Make it a day of Real Thanksgiving.

Belleville Celebrated Peace Day With Thanksgiving And Joy

RELIGIOUS SERVICE ON COURT HOUSE LAWN OPENS PEACE DAY PROGRAM—PARADES, BAND CONCERTS, FIREWORKS AND COMMUNITY DANCE—BUSINESS GENERALLY SUSPENDED.

Peace Day was observed in Belleville with appropriate ceremonies and a general cessation of business with the exception of refreshment places. The day's program began with a Union Peace Service in the Court House grounds at 11 a.m. The beautiful terraced lawns facing the Court House were crowded with hundreds of citizens gathered to return thanks to Almighty God, humbly and reverently for the blessings of peace. A large number of members of the Great War Veterans Association marched to the Court House headed by the XV. Regimental Band, and in the parade were a number whose absence from active work showed that they had seen service for the Empire in previous wars.

The service was eminently fitting for the occasion and the tone throughout was one of devout and humble thanksgiving for peace without any manifestation of boisterous or undue feasting. The program throughout was symbolic of the sentiment that the joys of victory had been fully tempered with a primary duty of the day was one of public thanksgiving that a peace treaty had been signed between the principal belligerents thus officially bringing the war to a close.

Music for the service was rendered by the Salvation Army band, and the program opened with the Doxology, and consisted entirely of prayers and praise, there being no addresses. The service was arranged and in charge of the Ministerial Association of Belleville, and the clergymen present and taking part were: Rev. C. T. Scott, D.D., Adjutant G. F. Goodhew, Rev. Rural Dean Swayne, Rev. R. C. Ramsay, M.A., Rev. W. Elliott, Rev. A. H. Foster, Rev. Wm. Harris Wallace, Rev. George Marshall.

In the afternoon a Peace Parade was held comprising decorated automobiles, floats, bicycles, etc., which was very interesting and was viewed by a large number of citizens.

The excellent display of fireworks in the evening together with band concerts by the Salvation Army and XV. bands maintained the thanksgiving sentiment, and large quantities of confetti were thrown in the moving throngs of many people gathered from far and near to do honor to the occasion. Hundreds of automobiles brought in residents of the surrounding country and everybody seemed in a jolly frame of mind. One of the best and most enjoyable features of the Peace Day program was the Community Dance which took place on the street, pavement of front street, the space between Bridge street and Victoria avenue being roped off and kept free of vehicular traffic. The dancing having full swing from 7.30 until midnight, and excellent program of music being rendered by the XV. Regimental Band.

For the short space of time at the committee's disposal in arranging a Peace Day program, the enterprising citizens certainly did themselves proud and lost no time in making the necessary arrangements.

Thanksgiving Service

At 11 o'clock in the morning a union peace service was held on the Court House grounds, which was largely attended by all classes of citizens.

Just previous to the service members of the City Council, the G.W.V.A., fraternal societies and citizens generally assembled at the City Hall, and headed by the 15th Regimental Band marched to the spacious lawn to take part in the service of thanks. The various choirs of the city led in the singing of the hymns, while a music accompaniment was furnished by the S. A. Band. Rev. D. C. Ramsay, pastor of John Street Presbyterian church, and President of the Belleville Ministerial Association presided. The service was opened by the singing of the Doxology, followed by the invocation by Rev. Dr. Scott, pastor of Bridge street church. The hymn "Before Jehovah's Awful Throne," was given out by Adj. Goodhew of the Salvation Army. Rev. Rural Dean Swayne, rector of Christ Church, read the 118th Psalm; the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison, led by Rev. D. C. Ramsay; the hymn "O God of Bethel by whose hand," was given out by Rev. W. Elliott, pastor of the Tabernacle church and Rev. A. H. Foster, pastor of Holloway Street Church offered up an appropriate prayer. The Psalm, "The Lord is my Shepherd," was sung, followed by the responsive reading by Rev. W. Wallace, pastor of the Baptist Church. The service closed by the singing of the National Anthem, led by the band.

Peace Parade

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a grand peace parade took place from the market square and marched up Front street to Mill street and returned to the market square, where dismantlement took place. The veteran marshall, Mr. J. B. Flint, headed the procession, which was a creditable one considering that only two days were given for perfecting arrangements. A number of beautiful decorated autos were to be seen in the procession and it was not difficult for the judges to select the winner for the best decorated car, namely that of Mr. William Young, who resides at 275 Ann street, city. It was a "Peace" car tastefully decorated, and with a large red paper bell over the top. The Red Cross car of Mr. Harold Lloyd also attracted considerable attention. The driver was attired in khaki, and was also a companion. In the rear seat were two ladies attired in Red Cross nurses with an apparently wounded soldier between them. An original design was that of Mr. H. Desmarsh, plumber of this city. He had attached to two wheels of his vehicle a bath tub, in which was seated his daughter Violet Desmarsh, who drove the vehicle with the bath. The float of J. M. Greene Company, dealers in musical instruments, had a nicely decorated truck upon which was a player piano, which gave forth patriotic airs during the parade. The Deacon Shirt Company had three trucks, laden with their products as part of their $2,000 order of shirts for the Roumanian Government. At a few minutes after 2 o'clock the parade moved off in the following order:

Marshal—J. J. B. Flint.
Mayor Platt and wife in car.
15th Regimental Band.
Members of the G.W.V.A.
Red Cross Car.
Young's Peace Car.
Mitchell's Co's. decorated truck.
Johnstone's Kiltie Band.
Demarsh original design.
Deacon Company's display autos with flags.
Salvation Army Band.
R. T. of T. decorated truck
Willard Storage Batteries truck. Decorated berries.
Decorated autos.
B. Sandford's decorated waggon bearing mottos of Foster Ward Booster Club: "Boost Belleville, not knock." Green's musical truck.
Sons of England Society.
City Fire Brigade.

During the progress of the parade Front street was lined with spectators and many favorable remarks were to be heard regarding the parade.

Band Concert.

At the conclusion of the parade the 15th Regimental Band, under the able direction of Bandmaster Lieut. R. Hinchey, gave a concert on the Court House lawn, which attracted a number of citizens. The selections rendered were musical gems and at the conclusion of each number the applause was not stinted. The program was as follows:

March—Tri Mountain.
Selection—Empire Land.
Cornet Soloist Characteristic—Lassus Trombone.
Selection from H. M. Pinafore.
Overture—Gipsy Queen.
National Anthem Selections.
God Save The King.

Evening Events

The chief attraction in evening in the evening was the community dance held on Front street. At 6.30 that thoroughfare from Victoria Avenue to Bridge street was barricaded against vehicle traffic, and was also thoroughly cleaned. In the early part of the evening, many commenced to assemble and as the time approached and later the crowd at certain points was so dense that it was almost impossible to move about. The dancing was not just north of Campbell street where the 15th Regimental Band was stationed. The band furnished a fine programme and although the night was hot many indulged in dancing. This was certainly a unique feature in the city, and was thoroughly enjoyed, it could be noticed. The German was burned, in effigy, the figure being suspended from a wire stretched over two buildings on the street. While the band was playing a patriotic selection a large Union Jack was unfurled from a rope in the centre of the street, also the picture of a large bull dog with the motto, "What we have we will hold." Although the band concert was concluded shortly after 11 o'clock the street presented an animated appearance until the midnight hour. During the progress of the events the street was well lighted.

Fireworks

At 10 o'clock at the entrance to Victoria Park the display of fire works took place, which was enjoyed by an immense number of citizens who gathered about the park and river banks to witness same. The finale piece, a maple leaf design, had a very pretty effect.

Prizes Awarded

Prizes awarded for the parade were as follows:

Best decorated car—Wm. Young.

Peace Day Echoes

Fun was furnished between dances by Wheeler and Sanford's burnt cork artists, who excelled themselves in furnishing amusement.

At Griffin's Theatre, an appropriate program was given, including presentation of pictures showing Britain's victory, of peace submarines, the details of which were withheld during the war. The pictures revealed the fact that Britain during the war effected and surprised the Hun in the development of giant submersibles of great speed and offensive power, but was not advertising the fact to any great extent except in deeds of defensive and legitimate warfare.

The pool rooms were closed until 6 p.m. in compliance, it is said, with a request from the G. W. V. A.

Mr. Chas. Cook, assisted by Messrs. Association and Babcock certainly did a good job in clearing Front street for the dance.

Fire Chief Brown was a very busy man, he was on the job all day, and was of great assistance to the committee.

Veterans of Belleville add vicinity are of the law-abiding and peaceful kind, and consequently there were no returned men to be let out of the County Jail on Peace Day in accordance with the decision of Premier Hearst to release all returned soldiers incarcerated for violations of the Ontario Temperance Act.

Ald. Hanna is certainly some "live wire" and worked hard early and late to make the celebration a success. Charlie is one of those git-up-and-git individuals with a battery charged with ginger, pep and push which appears to say undertaking gatvanize it into life.

Many from the country were in the city for the celebration and especially in the evening.

No accident occurred during the day to mar the pleasures of the proceedings.

Since Friday only one arrest was made by the police, the victim being liberated, to appear in court on Tuesday charged with intoxication.

No War of Revenge Says German Leader

COUNT BERNSTORFF HAS HOPES OF REVISION OF PEACE TREATY, BUT SAYS TERMS MUST BE FULFILLED TO BEST OF GERMANY'S ABILITY — LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL NOT FUNCTION PROPERLY UNTIL GERMANY, AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA ARE ADMITTED, HE SAYS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

BERLIN, July 20.—Count Bernstorff, speaking at a Democratic party meeting today, said that Germany must never forget that a world policy such as was engineered before the war has become impossible. Peace, he added, had been signed under protest, but having been signed, honor demanded as a basis of future policy, that we fulfil the peace terms according to our best ability to show the entire world that the goal of our policy will be to secure a revision of the terms. Whoever lives in Germany knows that we neither want nor can we conduct a war of revenge. Count von Bernstorff asserted that the League of Nations was regarded in Germany as an alliance aimed at Germany and that without Germany, Austria and Russia it would be a fiasco. It will assume its real function when Germany enters it of combining all the peoples of the world.

New Fire Hall Decided Upon By City Council

BY CLOSE VOTE VICTORIA PARK SITE SELECTED—CONSIDERABLE DIFFERENCE OF OPINION SHOWN AND SEVERAL VOTES TAKEN.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held on Friday evening for general business, at which Mayor Platt, Aldermen Woodley, Treverton, Simmons, Riggs, Ostrom, Hanna, Hunter and White were in attendance. The Council by vote decided to erect a new fire hall at the entrance of Victoria Park.

Sewer Tenders

Two tenders for the construction of sanitary sewers on portions of Toronto, Cedar, Boswell, Bleecker and streets were opened and the contract was awarded to J. C. White, whose estimate tender for the entire work was $16,943.45, being $1,100 lower than the tender submitted by a local contractor. The city engineer's estimate of this work was $16,397.76

Water Extension

After Mr. H. Demarsh had addressed the Council it was decided that the Water Works Department should extend a 6-inch main to that street, where Mr. Demarsh is erecting some dwellings.

Trench Work

The tender of Mr. Ruttan for trench work in connection with the extension of water works on Dundas street from the east of Bleecker Ave. to the hospital, was on motion accepted.

Bylaw

A construction Bylaw introduced by Ald. Woodley was passed through its various stages and numbered.

Proposed New Fire Hall

Ald. Ostrom—The question is where are you going to build the proposed new fire hall?

Ald. Riggs—There is an objection by many citizens to the building of a new fire hall this year owing to the high rate of taxation. He was not in favor of the hall being built at the entrance to Victoria aPrk.

Ald. Hanna—Build it on the site pro cured on Front street.

Ald. Ostrom—Either build the hall this year or defer it for some years to come. Do something definite in the matter.

Ald. Hanna moved in amendment seconded by Ald. Riggs, that the fire hall be erected on the site procured on Front street.

After some further discussion Ald. Ostrom moved in amendment to the amendment that in view of the fact that the Council cannot agree in the matter that the building of the fire hall be deferred for the time being.

Upon a vote being taken the amendment was lost, the vote being as follows: three voting for it, namely Aldermen Ostrom, Riggs and Treverton; against, Aldermen Hanna, Hunter, Simmons, White and Woodley.

Only two voted for Alderman Hanna's amendment to erect the hall on Front street, namely himself and Ald. Riggs. Those against were Aldermen Hunter, Ostrom, Simmons, Treverton, White and Woodley.

The original motion of Ald. Hunter to erect the hall at the Victoria Park entrance was carried on the following division.

Yeas—Hunter, Ostrom, Simmons, Treverton and Woodley.

Nays—Hanna, Riggs and White.

After some informal discussion as to the disposing of the present property used as fire halls the Council adjourned.

Kingston Boys To Get Medals

The Kingston boys, Howard Hay-Cromlie and Clifford Jones, who will be crowned presently with the Royal Humane Society medal for bravery at the Kingston Industrial Exhibition next autumn, if present plans mature. The lads, who are about the fifteen years of age respectively gave the life of Little Jack Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McDonald's Grey Dock Manor Hay in August 1916, when they were playing with their parents there. Mr. Crothers who swam out beyond his depth and was going down for the last time, was noticed by Hugh Cromlie. He realized that perhaps he could save and though only eleven years of age he commenced to swim towards Mr. Howard Hay, who was playing in the nearby boat house, also near the lads was in danger and between the two boys, Mr. Crothers was brought to shore.

For the past three years, members of the Royal Canadian Humane Association have been in communication with the head office of the Association in England and it was only Tuesday that the medals reached the city. They are very handsome pieces of workmanship, and are made of bronze. Attached to the medal by a blue ribbon is a bronze clasp bearing the word "Bravery" and on the back of the medal has been made of the case of presentation but it is expected that the medals will be presented to the two brave boys at the opening of the Kingston Industrial Exhibition.

Hugh Cromlie is a son of Henry S. Cromlie, of this city, and Clifford Howard Rees is a son of Edward A. Rees, Dagot street.

Ask Investigation Of Americans Death

Mexican Murder and Other Outrages Subject of Demand for Enquiry

WASHINGTON, July 21—Request was made by Governor Robertson of Oklahoma, in telegrams received by the State Department for the investigation of the murder of John W. Cornell, an American citizen, the maltreatment of his wife, and the wounding of three other Americans in the Tampico district of Mexico.

"The unprovoked and unwarranted assault," the governor's telegram said "by bandits and thousands that have occurred in the Republic of Mexico against American citizens during the past year, with no apprehension has ever been made for some."

"The time for oration on the part of Mexican officials and the people of that government has decided, clubs or other societies who are loyally and peaceably pursuing their proper avocations and who are not violating laws will not be satisfied with anything but a searching and complete investigation, together with prompt punishment of those guilty of these outrages. As governor of this State I emphatically insist that the time has come when the wrongs must be righted or the unsettling anarchy in Mexico terminated."

Copies of the telegram were sent to Senators Simmons and to the Oklahoma members of Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 21—Reports of American citizens in Mexico have been executed by the Mexican Government which, through unofficial sources of two-thirds of the republic's revenue, is slowly restoring order.

Manitoba Crops Are Excellent

WINNIPEG, July 21.—Hon. T. Winkler, Minister of Agriculture has issued a very optimistic crop report which states that Manitoba farmers will soon be cutting a splendid crop of wheat, hay and other grains.

Practically all sections of Manitoba will have an excellent crop. In the Red River Valley the rains of the past month have drowned out a few fields. Those sections have replaced a small percentage of the low lands.

No place outside the Red River Valley has received too much rain and prospects are that a good many cutting will start the latter part of July and be general during the first week in August. A little rain spoiled here and there, but not enough to cause anxiety. The amount of hail damage is comparatively small.

The crop prospect was never better and the abundant pasturage is ideal for dairying and live stock rais- ing.

"THE HOME TOWN GIRL"

To have a girl love you is one thing and to have her stick to you when you go wrong, is another. In many cases love dies out of the window, when the latter case prevails. In "The Home Town Girl" a new picture, starring Betty and charming Vivian Martin which will be presented at Griffin's to-night to Wednesday this question forms one of the main points of the story. Miss Martin's many Belleville admirers will be glad to learn that in this picture she is at her best. In the role of a New England girl, she admirably conveys all the qualities of loyalty faith and unselfishness. By the employment of these attributes, she saves her boyish lover from moral ruin and routs envy and selfishness from the minds of all with whom she come in contact. On the same program with the above offering a 2-reel Mack Sennett comedy entitled "The Little Widow" will be shown it is one of those wildly hilarious affairs that makes the blood tingle, setting the nerves most seriously at the bitterness. A new Mutt and Jeff cartoon and a 2-reel Pathe Daily are also given. Wait are also announced for presentation.

JAPANESE OBJECT TO KISSES.

Motion picture producers have learned through bitter experience, in the case of films they export to Japan, that kisses and embraces are distinctly out of order in the land of cherry blossoms. It is said in the short speed of six months the Jap police censors removed 2,330 kisses and 333 hugs from American films, allowing only Queen Isabella's kiss to Columbus to escape the censorial scissors. William Russell productions must have been on their good Japanese behavior when they filming his newest photoplay "A Sporting Chance" for there's nary a "clinch" nor even the tiniest little peck in the picture, although you do hear wedding bells a-tinkling in the distance during the last few feet of reel five. However, since the gentleman has only met the lady a bare twenty-four hours previously and as both of them have been kept mighty busy with a complicated and enthralling mystery in the meantime, and perhaps it is too much to expect of so swift-moving and peppy a hero as "Big Bill." "A Sporting Chance" is being shown at the Palace to-night to Wednesday, matinee daily. It's a picture that keeps one guessing to the final inch of film and winds up with a clever, unexpected twist that fairly stuns with surprise. A new Luke comedy, Pathe's Canadian News Graphic and a beautiful hand colored travelogue are also being shown on the same program.

Mrs. Morgan Has Gained 22 Pounds

Was Told That Operation Was Only Hope—Tanlac Restored Health.

"Anyone who had noticed the dreadful condition I was in can readily see the wonderful change Tanlac has made in me," said Mrs. R. M. Morgan, residing at 1817 Morton street, Kansas City, Missouri, in telling of the remarkable benefits she had derived from the medicine recently.

"I have actually gained twenty-two pounds in weight on five bottles of Tanlac," she continued, "and have improved so much that my neighbors often speak of it. My health had been all broken up for more than a year and I was so nervous that the least noise would upset me. My appetite left me and what little I did eat would sour on my stomach causing gas and intense pain. I would bloat terribly and during these times my heart would palpitate frightfully, almost cutting off my breath, and I was so weak and dizzy that I could not walk a block without stopping to rest. I was badly constipated, had raging headaches, and was losing weight and strength all the time. I would roll and toss most all night, unable to sleep, and would get up in the morning even more tired than on going to bed. I was constantly under treatment and all the time taking some kind of medicine, but nothing helped me and I finally got right down in bed.

"At the time I got Tanlac I had been confined to my bed for a month. I had been told that an operation would be necessary and was almost in despair, as I always had a horror of the operating table and knife, but by the time I had not thought seriously about Tanlac being good for me, although I had often read the wonderful results others claimed to get from it. But, being so anxious to avoid an operation, I decided first to try Tanlac and sent for two bottles. Well, before I had finished my second bottle my appetite was better, the gas stopped forming on my stomach and I did not suffer from shortness of breath and palpitation any more. Now, to put it all in a few words, my nerves are normal and I have no more headaches, dizzy spells or bad days of any kind. Tanlac has not only relieved me of my physical suffering, but it has eased my mind, too, as I fully believe it has saved me from an operation. I can truthfully say Tanlac has made me feel like a new person and I can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Tweed by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Bleakley.

TO THE WOLVES.

Toronto Times.

In an act of sublime treachery, without parallel in our political annals, The Globe now deserts Hon. N. W. Rowell because he refuses to go back to the official Liberal Party and lick the dirty boots of Hon. Charles Murphy.

At the call of The Globe, Mr. Rowell helped to make Union Government possible and gave hearty support to the Military Service Act. He was reviled by his former associates, and his friends were blackjacked without mercy. Mr. D. D. McKenzie publicly named Mr. Rowell in association with Judas Iscariot.

The Unionist Liberals decided to continue in their present company, realising, first, that the problems of reconstruction were not settled, and secondly, that no men of patriotic British temper could coalesce with the Organized Hypocrisy sitting on the Speaker's left.

The Globe prefers its old associations. For sixteen years it pretended to be a convert to Free Trade, yet it gave its ardent and continual support to the Protectionist administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It had learned to be crooked, and today, with an opportunity to run straight, it reverts to its old habits. It throws its former darling to the wolves, and goes on its devious way rejoicing.

We selected the lower part of the gorge for our work. In the first place it was hidden from the town of Avranches by the rising ground, and in the second, the riches by the rising ground, and in the second, the water was more shallow and broken up with the rocks, and there would be less chance of the falling debris being carried away.

We were fortunate in having with us several men with a practical experience of rock blasting. Under their supervision we bridged the gorge with four great banks of timber, and letting down half a dozen cradles on either side, began to bore a hundred holes in the solid rock. Each hole was twenty inches in depth and contained a two pound charge of blasting gelatine. They were all connected by wires to an electrical firing apparatus placed a hundred yards away from the edge of the gorge. Although we were equipped with diamond rock-drills, the work occupied ten days. Hawkins, who had worked on some of the hardest quartz reefs in the world, said that he had never struck any formation of such metallic hardness.

I should hardly like to say what the men suffered from the cold of that icy hill, foam-pattered spray, and the unceasing thing for us to pull up a man in a half-fainting condition and have him let down again a few minutes. We watched the men carefully under the searchlight and a signal cord hung to the side of every one of them, but in spite of all precautions four of these fell senseless into the rushing water below, and died as surely for the Queen as though they had perished in the front of battle.

The Asturnians were of no use to us in this work. Time was too short to teach them the intricacies of modern machinery and engineering. We employed half of them in guarding the camp and the other half in hewing down hundreds of stunted fir trees and piling them up thirty yards from the brink of the precipice.

The work was finished without interruption from the king's forces; and it is doubtful if he had any knowledge of what we were doing. On January 5th the last hole was bored, and the last connection was made and four hundred men stood ready with trees and brushwood on their shoulders to assist in the formation of the dam.

I fired the charge myself. There was a terrific concussion, a long roar, and we saw the edges of the gorge crumble away in a cloud of dust and smoke. We rushed to the brink of the gulf, fixed the searchlight and saw a great mass of debris piled up the sides of the chasm, twenty feet above the water. Every man hurled his burden of trees or brush into the river and we could see them being forced and tangled by to the jagged lumps of stone, till they seemed to bind the whole fabric with a network of wood. The work had been well done. The face of either cliff to a depth of three feet and a length of ten yards had been precipitated into the ravine. The river beyond against this new obstacle with fury and some of it forced its way through the crevices of the rocks; but for a few minutes the torrent below the dam dwindled away into a babbling brook, and the water on the other side was rising inch by inch. I held a brief consultation with Captain Thorlassen and we made a series of accurate measurements and observations. As we did so, we noticed that the water suddenly ceased to rise in any perceptible degree. It had evidently reached the level of the entrance of the gorge and had the whole great plain in which to expand itself.

As the result of our observations we set the men to work again and five days later, two more huge slices were cut off the rocky walls and hurled on to the dam. And we had to repeat this operation three times to bring the obstruction up to the requisite height and breadth. When we had finished there was not an ounce of explosive left in our camp, and the top of the gorge had widened to over forty feet. We completed the work at the end of January, and as we returned to the camp we saw an ice-covered lake three hundred acres in extent spreading out from the mouth of the gorge and grinding its broken edges against the hills on either side.

CHAPTER XXIV

Day by day the icy surface of the lake broadened and crept nearer to Avranches and day by day we watched it from the camp as men watch the dogs creep on some trembling prey. On February 10th the whole valley was a couple of feet under water and we could see the inhabitants of the town blocking up the gateways of the outer wall and running hither and thither in indescribable confusion.

Obituary

MATILDA WILSON GILROY

Matilda Gilroy, widow of the late Mr. William Gilroy, of Blenheim, Ontario, whose maiden name was Wilson, was born at Roslin, Ontario, eighty-five years ago. She is the last of a family of nine children, and passed peacefully away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Atkin on July 5th at Wellington. Mrs. Gilroy and niece, Miss Sherry, her companion, came to Wellington in February, 1919, and were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Atkins, Mr. Atkins being a brother-in-law to Mrs. Gilroy.

Mrs. Gilroy was an active worker in the church at Blenheim during a residence of over thirty years, and before that she was a resident of Thomasburg, Ontario, for twenty-five years. She was a member of the Anglican W. A. and Ladies Aid at Blenheim.

On July 7th, the funeral took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Atkin, Rev. V. O. Boyle, M.A., rector of St. Andrew's Anglican church, Wellington, officiated. A number of friends and relatives were in attendance.

THAT BLOW IN THE DARK.

Red tape is long, tangled and very thick, and leads generally to the circumlocution office, where it loses itself in the impenetrable mazes of method madness and simplicity. Canadian military administration is apparently in danger of efficiency strangulation from red tape methods judging from the case of James Mossman, of Belleville, who served valiantly and well in the Canadian forces overseas as a gunner, closed his active service in Germany, came home to Canada and was honorably discharged. Military red tape pursued him, however, and he was not permitted to enjoy the blessings of civilian life very long before he was called upon to defend himself upon a charge in which it was alleged that he struck a superior officer in Belgium in 1918.

One dark night in Belgium a lieutenant in the Canadian forces became a casualty, not as the result of a German shell, but as he believes from the impact of an unfriendly fist connected with some stalwart Canadian soldier. The lieutenant suspected that the man behind the fist was Gunner Mossman, and eventually a charge was laid in accordance with the officer's suspicions. It was on the night of November 8, 1918, when the lieutenant received the blow, but Gunner Mossman continued on active service unmolested until his discharge at Kingston on March 29, 1919, when he returned to his home in Belleville to resume the arts of peace. On May 9, 1919, however, he was placed under arrest and taken to Kingston for trial for an alleged military offence committed in Belgium Nov. 8, 1918. After nine weeks detention at Kingston, Mossman was given two days notice to be ready for trial. Through the efforts of W. F. Nickle, M.P., a delay was secured to properly prepare the defence, and when the case came up before a court martial Gunner Mossman was defended by Commandant Evans, a newspaper man with an extensive experience of military life and methods and now officiating as chief executive of the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada at Kingston. The evidence produced by the prosecution was exceedingly slim and the court speedily returned a verdict of honorable acquittal.

Viewed from any angle it is incomprehensible to the mind of a mere civilian why the military authorities should have entertained for one moment the idea of subjecting an honorably discharged soldier to a court martial for an offence alleged to have been committed in Belgium in 1918. In any event the case has occasioned widespread comment of an unfavorable nature from both press and public. The Toronto Telegram caustically refers to the Mossman case editorially as follows:

Every returned soldier suffering from a well-founded grievance has a powerful friend in W. F. Nickle, M.P. for Kingston. Mr. Nickle has a keen and true sense of the rights and dignity of his fellow-countrymen of the rank and file of the Canadian army.

That sort and every other sort of sense seems to be largely absent from the equipment of the red tape soldiers who run the Militia Department at Ottawa.

A lack of head or a lack of heart, is revealed in the treatment of Gunner James Mossman, of Belleville, 1st Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, as illustrated in the following sequence of dates:

Nov. 8, 1918—Charged with striking a superior officer in Belgium.

Feb., 1919—Returned from Germany to England.

March 29, 1919—Honorably discharged from 1st Battery at Kingston, Canada.

May 9, 1919—Arrested at his home in Belleville and brought to Kingston for trial by court-martial for an alleged crime committed in Belgium Nov. 8, 1918.

Monday, July 14, 1919—After nine weeks' military imprisonment at Kingston, Gunner Mossman ordered to be ready for trial on Wednesday, July 16.

An honorably discharged soldier is allowed to remain in civilian life for nearly six weeks. Then that soldier is jerked out of civil life and dragged to a military prison in Kingston. The soldier is kept in prison from May 9 until July 14. After nearly ten weeks' imprisonment Gunner Mossman is given forty hours notice to prepare for trial by court-martial. If Gunner Mossman were guilty of a crime the crime was committed in Belgium eight months before the date fixed for his trial in Kingston. The prosecution chose its own date for the trial and left Gunner Mossman a short two days to assemble his witnesses and prepare his defence.

A spirit of tyranny and injustice must lurk behind the proceedings against Gunner Mossman. A soldier who was not tried before his restoration to civil life was entitled to remain in civil life without trial. The whole outrage was aggravated by the tactics that kept Gunner Mossman in captivity for nearly ten weeks and then gave him from Monday to Wednesday to prepare for trial on an eight months old charge.

A gross abuse of military law will fall short of its climax by the activity of the Kingston branch of the G.W.V.A. and by the protest of W. F. Nickle, M.P., addressed to the Minister of Militia at Ottawa. If Toronto were the scene of such an outrage the G.W.V.A. could have appealed to Brig. John A. Gunn and the G.W.V.A. could have depended on help from Mayor Church or Brig. John A. Gunn, D.S.O.

Toronto members of Parliament lack either the inclination or power to speak to the red tape specialists as W. F. Nickle, M.P., has often spoken for wronged and oppressed soldiers and their dependents. The Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. should arouse itself to the duty of tracking down the origin of the Mossman outrage. Gunner Mossman was acquitted. How many Canadian private soldiers are still suffering or have suffered from the results of such abuses of military law as the abuses that were employed in the pursuit of Gunner Mossman.

CRISP COMMENT

Our heart is bursting to bleed for Mr. Hartley Dewart, the new leader of the Liberal forlorn hope in the Province. Poor soul, he is beginning to get it going and coming. Hon. N. W. Rowell practically tells him he hasn't any license to be where he is and that he is disloyal to all the principles of true Liberalism, especially the principle of Prohibition, which Mr. Rowell apparently thinks is purely a Liberal idea and creation, with the Conservatives having nothing whatever to do with it.—Kingston Standard.

The uplift movement in England is taking the form of stronger beer and bigger airships, says the Ottawa Journal.

Movies and the Eyes.
Scientific American.

Moving pictures, under favorable conditions, do not cause so much fatigue of the eyes as the same period of concentrated reading. When there is eye discomfort there is usually some ocular defect, which should receive the attention of an eye specialist. Under favorable conditions moving pictures causing fatigue, if continued, become unpleasant, and may, if persisted in, become harmful, a condition which is greatly aggravated by fixed staring at one spot on the picture, a practice which should never be indulged in.

Our Improved Conditions.
Kansas City Star.

Hours of work have been greatly shortened in the last fifty years. The work of women and children has been restricted. Education has become more general. Books, magazines, and newspapers have become abundant and cheap. Music in one form or another is available for almost every home. Reproductions of the great art works of the world are to be had at a nominal cost. Capital has been accumulated for great enterprises that once could not have been undertaken. Schools and hospitals are built on a scale never known before. Every town has its public library, its theatre, its comfortable hotel. Transportation has been enormously developed. The steamship, the railroad, the trolley, the motor car, are all available for a large proportion of the population. The home is full of labor-saving devices that were unknown to our grandparents.

The Issue Joined.
New York Globe.

The closer we come to the actual conflict in the Senate over ratification of the peace treaty and the league covenant the more apparent does it become that the issue must be fought out on the fundamental problem, with minor aspects pushed into the background. When President Wilson goes before the country to defend the covenant he has one question, and only one, to ask: "Will America undertake to do her share in maintaining peace and order throughout the world If the answer is Yes, then the covenant should be accepted without amendment and without reservation. For if America enters the League with reservations, so can any other country; and an agreement among nations in which each ascribes to a different thing will not and cannot have any force or meaning.

"WE WERE THE MEN OUT THERE"

We were the men out there!
What though today we are the mismated, the half, the blind,
Dear God, 'twere better even thus than to go at all!
We were the men out there!
What though we be the shattered, with once filled ranks grown small,
Dear God, 'twere better even thus, than not to go at all!

CLEAR THE WAY.
Charles Mackay.

Men of thought, be up and stirring
Night and day;
Sow the seed—withdraw the curtain
Clear the way!
Men of action, aid and cheer them,
As ye may!
There's a fount about to stream,
There's a light about to beam,
There's a word about to glow,
There's a flower about to blow;
There's a midnight blackness changing
Into gray;
Men of thought and men of action,
Clear the way!

Once the welcome light has broken,
Who shall say
What the unimagined glories
Of the day?
What the evil that shall perish
In its ray?
Aid the dawning tongue and pen;
Aid it, hopes of honest men,
Aid it, paper and it, type—
Aid it, for the hour is ripe,
And our earnest must not slacken
Into play.
Men of thought and men of action
Clear the way!

Lo! a cloud's about to vanish
From the day;
And a brazen wrong to crumble
Into clay.
Lo! the Right's about to conquer;
Clear the way!
With the Right shall many more
Enter smiling at the door;
With the giant Wrong shall fall
Many others, great and small,
That for ages long have held us
For their prey.
Men of thought and men of action
Clear the way!

His Opinion.

They were talking about that terrible cry, "Man overboard!"

"Only those who have been roused from midnight slumber on board ship can comprehend its meaning," said a seasoned traveller, "for a sudden alarm, the fear, the horror—"

"Oh, yes, they can!" replied a tame little shoemaker, who had no pretensions as a traveller. "I heard it once when I wasn't on ship, and I realised the horror of it more than anyone else."

"You couldn't!" said the great traveller, contemptuously. And the assembled company sided with him to a man.

"But I could," persisted the cobbler. "You see, I was the man who fell overboard!"

"I see there's a new hippopotamus at the Zoo."

Glancing at his son a moment later he said:

"What are you laughing at, Harry?"

"I was jus' laughin' to think of a stork carryin' a hipperpotamus," returned Harry.

ALBERTA HAS RECORD ALFALFA CROP

Despite the late season in some farmers in the Brooks district in Southern Alberta says the their first cutting of this year's alfalfa crop. They say the yield is better and in the aggregate heavier than alfalfa has ever been before. Some fields are known to have yielded as much as a half ton, and the general run of fields in the district is the area from the first cut. One farmer has already threshed 200 bushels of last year's crop, this field will be sufficient to bring a return to the grower of more than fifty dollars to the acre, and another somewhere in the district reports a final crop of four and a half tons to the acre. In addition to the alfalfa now ready for cutting, there is a large acreage of alfalfa which has been sown this year, and which is coming along like last year's crops are coming. Alfalfa growing in this area has proven itself a profitable crop.

Alfalfa has been the salvation of many a farmer in Southern Alberta during the dry years. Hardy, a deep rooting plant, it withstands the intense heat of the summer months and yields a heavy crop of hay. Besides this it is a soil builder and a soil restorer. Many farmers in the district have found that after a few years of alfalfa growing their land has been restored to a high state of fertility and their crops of grain have increased enormously. Alfalfa is also a splendid feed for stock, and is relished by horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. Besides the hay crop, alfalfa yields a heavy crop of seed, which is in demand at high prices.

An Alfalfa field near Brooks, Alberta.

city of alfalfa hay will be shipped from there again this fall. It was in this district that [illegible] on a large scale was first practised in Southern Alberta. That it has been a success is shown by the fact that as much as $18.00 per acre has been offered for land below the ditch. The district is becoming more and more closely settled, and the benefits deep rooted habits of alfalfa that are now [illegible] everywhere are a powerful asset. Prosperity and contentment crowns the farmer in this section of his crop.

Further Lethbridge District a quite a small fraction of the area in Southern Alberta, there this crop can be grown successfully. Already numerous fields of alfalfa are to be seen within easy distance of Brooks, Bassano, Gleichen, Strathmore and other stations on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway between Medicine Hat and Calgary. Next spring, when the seeds of a heavy crop, which have been sown, will have grown, many more fields of alfalfa will be seen, and the district will be one of the most prosperous in Southern Alberta.

Milk Cows Pay If....

Milk cows pay well if you keep the cost of feed down—and if you feed right.

Ensilage is essential winter food, not only for cows, but for all stock.

Have lots of ensilage—good ensilage. Build a good silo of ample capacity.

Toronto Silos hold several tons more than other silos. The hip roof allows you to tramp the ensilage right to the top of the staves.

To match the high quality of the Toronto Silo, we have produced the new Toronto Ensilage Cutter—built on a new principle and wonderfully efficient in operation. No more choked feedway or burnt knife wheel. The Toronto Ensilage Cutter is safe and speedy as well as efficient. You should own an ensilage cutter—shot depend on a Toronto machine.

Our literature on silos and ensilage cutters covers this important subject thoroughly.

These booklets will be sent free to farmers who write for them.

Mac of the C. P. R.

To the thousands who pass through the gates at 266 Windsor Station, Montreal, year in and year out it is hardly necessary to introduce the genial official whose photograph appears above. To those who are not fortunate enough to be acquainted with him, we beg to introduce Mac, the ever popular and courteous station master at Place d'Viger C.P.R. depot, the one dependable friend of the travelling public in a formal way this official is registered as T. W. Marrire but to the travellers, he is "Mac." That's true. The hundreds who spend their holidays up in the Laurentien mountains; the hundreds who have their summer cottages up the line, all know Mac and he knows them, and intimately. There are lots of little things that Mac does for his travelling friends that earn their everlasting gratitude. You see, Mac is not merely a station-master, starr, attendant and official in attitude, but he is an adviser—a friend—to whom the patrons of the C.P.R. turn when they are in travelling difficulties. And they always get satisfaction. Mac is known to go out of his way to help the travelling public and it is doubtful whether any C.P.R. station official has more friends than has Mac. His temper never seems to suffer, despite the trying times he sometimes has and even the most humble traveller is assured of a courteous and kindly reception at Mr. Marrire's hands.

A Popular Si e.

When the trains bringing back the heroes of the war pulled in, many hands were shoved through the car windows to shake hands with Mac, who, before the year of 1885 knew all has always had a warm spot in his heart for the "rocker laddies." Mr. Marrire was under fire in the rebellion of 1885 and has the medal and the Saskatchewan bar. He also possesses the good conduct medal and has been thirty years in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway. As a station-master, Mac is ideal. His courtesy, his friendliness and kindheartedness have won for him the esteem, not alone of the travelling public, but of his superior officers. He can enforce discipline but still retain his friendship—surely an exceptional quality.

Nothing to Mac! Long may he preside over the destinies of the travellers who go and come to the Place Viger Station.—From The Montreal Standard.

Must Organize Dominion Wide To Get Aliens

Diphtheria, Typhoid and Pneumonia Have No Terror for Him.

WINNIPEG, July 21.—Judge R. H. Myers is recommended to the Provincial Government that the Alien Investigation Board rescinds its labors at the end of this month.

The board came into existence for five months and has investigated 4,362 aliens, granting cards to 3,976. The other 386 applicants were refused on various grounds, some of which were of a technical or temporary character and others because the board considered the individuals not desirable citizens. About 115 persons who presented themselves at the offices of the board were handed over to the North west Mounted Police as draftees evaders for failing to report to the police, etc.

MAKE IT DOMINION WIDE

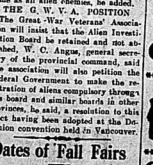

Judge Myers said that if the Dominion Government determined to investigate the alien situation with a view to discover and deport the undesirables it should adopt the system of compulsory registration and an examination by local tribunals in a manner similar to the procedure under the Military Service Act, 1917. One general Canadian-wide organization is absolutely necessary if the alien question is to be effectively and effectively handled, said the judge. Those born in Russia should be dealt with the same as all alien enemies, he added.

THE G. W. V. A. POSITION

The Great War Veterans' Association will insist that the Alien Investigation Board be retained and not abolished, W. C. Angus, general secretary of the provincial command, said The association will also petition the Federal Government to make the registration of aliens compulsory through this board and similar boards in other provinces, he said. A resolution to this effect having been adopted at the Dominion convention held in Vancouver.

BRAVE BELGIAN BIRDMAN

Aviator DeWeerd, a Belgian birdman with a strenuous and exciting war experience including an aerial battle near Chateau Thierry with three German planes, when he was shot down, and suffered eleven bullet wounds, passed over Belleville early Friday evening flying to Winchester, where he was scheduled to give an exhibition of aerial stunts on Saturday.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT

Mr. Edward J. Mooney of this city who is connected with the Bell Telephone Company was on Saturday evening the victim of a painful and rather peculiar accident. He was driving his car down Front street just after a large rope had been stretched across that thoroughfare at the junction of Victoria avenue, when not noticing the rope he drove into it. The result was the wind shield of the car was broken to pieces and the flying glass cut Mr. Mooney's hands to such an extent as to require medical aid.

SAVED FROM DROWNING

Cardinal people are urging the award of Humane Society medals to Thomas Amell and Melvin Bellinger of that town, who recently saved Miss Katie Mackenzie from drowning in the new canal there. Miss Mackenzie who can not swim, was trying out a pair of water-wings when they slipped from her arms and she sank. On coming up the second time she shouted for help and attracted the notice of the two boys who jumped in after her. Amell was the first to reach her but was forced under the water, Bellinger finally bringing both to shore after a hard fight.

LOVE'S DREAM SHATTERED

Three weeks married, but never again!" Such was the brief introduction to a young married man in a local police court last Friday. His car, a two-seater, in which his bride of 3 weeks sat with a scowl that would sour milk. They were married in New York State three weeks ago, and have been going and fighting ever since. On the street, almost opposite the Sentinel-Star they had a 'love quarrel' that would do credit to a couple married three years. Each wanted to run the car. To strengthen her argument she baked her lord and master with a hat pin—and they were not love taps either. Each jab nearly went through him, and brought blood. Not to be out done he hit her across the face with his hand, and she started to yell "police" and "murder." Chief Ruse came the scene in response to the hurry-up call, but on his arrival the fight subsided. The last seen of the "happy couple" she was driving, and the car headed eastward. It was apparently the end of a perfect day.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

CARS COLLIDE ON FRONT ST.

At the junction of Front and Bridge streets on Friday evening a collision occurred between two Ford cars. The fenders of both cars were damaged to some extent, but both were able to proceed on their journey.

WHO OWNS THE BERRIES?

Mr. Clarence Clapp, residing at 91 Front street, city, reports to the police that on Saturday a crate of blue berries was left at his residence. He did not order any berries and the delivery was evidently a mistake.

TRIED TO FORCE DOOR

An attempt was made to force entrance to the McKeown drug store late night, the marks of a chisel being visible upon the front door close to the lock. The attempt failed.

DOG KILLED BY CAR

On Saturday afternoon a small terrier dog was killed by an auto on Front street near Bridge street. The owner of the canine was not ascertained.

CHILDREN CAUSE TROUBLE

The police were notified on Saturday that children were causing some trouble to employees about a factory on Pinnacle street. All was quiet about the place when the officer arrived upon the scene.

DRUG STORE BROKEN INTO

The drug store of Rev. A. L. Geen, situated on Front street, was broken into Saturday night or early Sunday morning, but nothing of value has thus far been missed. An entrance was effected by forcing open the front door, the lock being broken from out of the casing. A drawer of the cash register was forcibly opened, but nothing taken. The drawer contained some 75 coppers, but they were not touched. The affair was reported to the police, who are investigating.

NO QUORUM

On Friday evening a meeting of the Board of Education was called, the chief business for consideration being the estimates for the year. No meeting was held as it was impossible to get a quorum. The members present were Messrs. F. S. Deacon, H. W. Ackerman, A. E. Ashley, M. Bellory, A. McGie, F. L. Gilpin, F. Sharpe, D. V. Sinclair and Col Ponton. A special meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock to prepare the estimates for presentation to the Council

COLLISION ON COMMERCIAL ST.

At 1.15 on Saturday afternoon Col. Bywater of Trenton, accompanied by Mrs. Bywater, the latter driving the car, was proceeding along Commercial street near Dundas street, when they were run into by a car going in an opposite direction, driven by Mr. Vance of Trenton. As a result of the impact Col. Bywater's car was considerably damaged. It was alleged that Dr. Vance was in the wrong. A settlement of the affair was later satisfactorily arranged between the parties. Fortunately no person was injured.

RETURNED HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson residing at 217 Charles street in this city, have returned home after a trip to California, for Mr. Johnson's health, which is much improved. At Long Beach they visited their son, J. H., who has just returned from the front. He went over with the aCnadian Army. Another son, T. B. of San Francisco, also enlisted and went overseas with an American unit. While Mr. Johnson enjoyed his trip very much he still is of the opinion that there is no place like Belleville.

A FINE FISH

Messrs. S. Bongard and H. A. Morgan of this city, on Saturday afternoon were trawling on Mosquito Bay when they hooked and landed a fine maskinonge, which tipped the scales at 35 pounds. The fish was much admired by all who saw it. Mrs. Bongard and Mrs. Bongard's mother were in the boat when the fish was landed.

FERTILIZE PLANT FOR TRENTON

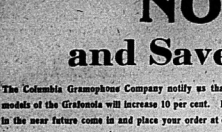

At a special meeting of the Canada Union Iron Mines Corporation, Montreal, according to the Montreal Gazette, it was resolved to accept the resolution of the executive to enter the fertilizer business. The Company are now negotiating with the present owners of the British Chemical Co. plant of fertilizer for the same period. On account of the heavy freight rates on fertilizer from the Southern States, a good market in Canada can be found for a Canadian made product.

Called by Death

NICHOLAS W. LAZIER

Mr. Lazier was born in Prince Edward County in 1827, being the second son of Richard Lazier. In very early life he went to Shannonville where he resided for almost twenty-six years, then moving to the first concession of Thurlow, where he spent the next twenty-six years when he moved to Belleville, where he resided for another twenty-six years. He went to Manitoba where he had since lived. He was a life long Methodist. He was taken seriously ill about two weeks previous to his death. He is survived by three sons, George B., Frank and Walter all of Seattle, and one daughter Mrs. (Dr.) Peake of Transcona, Manitoba; also two brothers, Stephen A. and Col. B. S. Lazier of this city. The body arrived here this morning via Canadian National, accompanied by his son, Geo. B. Lazier of Seattle. The remains were conveyed to the home of Miss Peake, 75 Dundas street. The funeral notice is to be found in another column of this issue.

Industrial Development

A meeting of the property owners in the First and Broken Front Concessions of the Township of Sidney, west of the Belleville Cemetery, will be held at the Bayside School House on Saturday evening, July 26th, 1919, at 8 o'clock, Standard Time, to consider a proposition for a big industrial development in this section. Every owner please attend.

Someone with an exaggerated sense of humor sent telegraph despatches to newspapers from Trenton stating that four men were killed in an automobile accident there. The story was false and its only basis was the destruction of an automobile for moving picture purposes. It hardly seems possible that the despatch could have been sent in good faith without investigation and the joke may soon be on the joker, as it is a criminal offence to furnish a newspaper with false information.

Austrian Killed By Russian V.C.

Ottawa Tragedy Began in Bicycle Dispute—Victim Drew Knife and Was Killed by It.

OTTAWA, July 21.—"I've killed fifty-two of them; he makes the fifty-third" said Corporal Filip Konowal, V.C., a veteran of France and Siberia when arrested last night on a charge of murder. The victim is Bill Artick said to be an Austrian. According to witnesses, a dispute occurred over bicycle. Artick threatened Konowal with a knife and the latter wrested the weapon from him and stabbed him. Konowal himself was suffering from serious knife wounds in the hands and wrists when arrested.

Konowal served with the 47th Battalion in France and also went with the Canadian expedition to Siberia, receiving the Victoria Cross for his services. He led the returned men in the peace parade Saturday night.

Enemies of Britain Backing De Valera

Says Sir Edward Carson in Defending His Speech Threatening Armed Resistance of Ulster to Dublin Home Rule.

LONDON, July 22.—Sir Edward Carson did not speak in the debate in the House of Commons on the Clynes motion, but in conversation gave his reasons for his Belfast speech.

"Consider this De Valera campaign in America which is being conducted against the integrity of the British Empire by people who were our enemies all through the war," he said. "It is being utilized on the other side of the Atlantic and on this, with the obvious aim of browbeating Ulster and forcing her under some sort of Dublin Parliament. Remember that throughout the war Ulster men and women were the foremost of the Kings subjects in devoting themselves and their substance to the support of the Empire and to fight the fight for liberty and justice."

Wish For New Form of Work

One in Every Five of Returned Soldiers Would Change Old Employment.

OTTAWA, July 22.—One man in every five soldiers of Canada's expeditionary army indicated a desire to change his job in his answers to the questionaire, distributed throughout the active forces since the armistice, by the Department of Soldiers Civil Re-establishment. In other words 55,290 out of 273,444 soldiers that filled out their cards want to improve their station in life.

It was found that 87,771 men desired to engage in pursuits connected with agriculture and stock raising. Of that number 72,218 had been so employed previously, but of these 4,716 wish to take up other avocations.

As 20,269 expressed the desire, however, to go on the land instead of resuming their previous callings, agriculture on the basis of these cards, would get 15,551 new recruits.

French Aviatrix Killed in Crash

Baroness de la Roche Meets Death at Airdrome in Crotoy.

PARIS, July 21.—Baroness de la Roche, the French aviatrix, was killed in an airplane accident at the airdrome at Crotoy. The baroness was flying with a passenger when the accident occurred.

The Baroness De la Roche was the first woman to make an airplane flight over Paris. This was about ten years ago. She won her air pilot license in 1910.

In 1915 the Baroness made an altitude record for women, rising to a height of 5,569 feet, and in June of the present year so flew to an altitude of 15,700 feet, beating the record of Ruth Law, the American woman flyer.

During her career as an aviatrix the Baroness had met with many accidents.

Chicago twice defeated New York yesterday and took a firm hold on the American League standings.

MARTIAL LAW MAY BE PROCLAIMED IN WASHINGTON ON ACCOUNT OF SERIOUS RACE RIOTING—ASSAULTS ON WHITE WOMEN, ROBBERIES, ETC., BY BLACKS GIVEN AS CAUSE OF RIOTS—SERGEANT STABBED TO DEAD BY NEGRO GIRL.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The proclamation of martial law may be necessary to end race rioting here which resulted last night in the killing of five persons and the injury of at least fifty more. Several days of disorders following a wave of attacks on white women, robberies and assaults by negroes, culminated in a series of race battles during the night hours with which the police were unable to cope fully, despite the aid of military provost guards. Several of the injured were reported fatally hurt this morning and at least two hundred rioters were under arrest.

The dead include Sergeant Harry Wilson, shot through the heart by a negress when he entered the house from which she was firing indiscriminately into the street.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—A bill for separation of races on street cars in the District of Columbia, was introduced to-day by Senator Harrison, Mississippi, who said he was prompted to offer the measure because of race riots.

When some 175 cases of men arrested during the rioting were tried to-day in police courts, maximum sentences of one year's imprisonment and fines of $100 and dollars were imposed on all found carrying concealed weapons whel those charged on with disorderly conduct escaped with $25 fines. In most cases jury trials were demanded.

11 Killed, 26 Injured When Dirigible Exploded

BIG AIRSHIP LANDED ON ROOF OF CHICAGO BANK, EXPLODED, AND CAUSED DEATH AND DESTRUCTION—CITY WILL PASS ORDINANCES REGULATING FLYING OVER THE CITY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Official enquiry was started today by the State Attorney to fix responsibility for the explosion and collapse of the dirigible airship which crashed through the roof of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank yesterday afternoon, killing eleven persons and injuring twenty-six others. Counsel for the City of Chicago, as a result of the accident, has today commenced to frame ordinances to govern and control air flying over the city.

Most of the dead were employes of the bank, trapped and burned to death by the shower rain of fire caused by the explosion of the balloon's gasoline tanks as they hit the floor of the rotunda of the bank, where over 200 bookkeepers and clerks, nearly all girls, were working.

Thousands See Disaster.

The "blimp," owned by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, had been flying above the Loop for several hours when the accident occurred. Thousands witnessed the disaster. When approximately 500 feet above the bank, a spurt of flame was seen to shoot from the top of the gas bag near the centre of the aircraft.

The crowds gathered on the streets to watch the flight saw the great machine buckle and quiver as it started for the ground on its fatal plunge.

As the blazing bag started its tragic descent four of its five occupants jumped and two of these landed safely in the street as the "blimp," a veritable ball of flame, struck the roof of the bank with a crash audible throughout the Loop district. There was nothing but terror in the hundreds of employees of the institution of the coming tragedy. A shadow passed over the main rotunda. Over 150 were busy, and a terrifying crash followed.

It seemed, according to the survivors, that the entire bank was on fire. Breaking through the iron supports holding the glass overhead, the fuselage of the "blimp" with two heavy rotary engines, and with it gasoline tanks smashed to the floor.

The Tanks Exploded.

Instantly the tanks exploded, scattering a wave of flaming gasoline over the workers for a radius of fifty feet. A panic ensued. There were only two fire escapes which the workers could leave the wire cage which surrounded the rotunda. Men and girls, with flaming clothing, fought their way through the exits. Girls on the second floor ran screaming to the windows and several jumped to the street below.

In an instant the marble rotunda was cleared except for the dead, whose bodies were left where they fell. Flames, licked to a white heat by the gasoline blaze, and the dying, who crawled feebly away from the scorching fire, their clothes slowly burning off.

The intense heat made rescue work impossible until after the fire department arrived. It was thirty minutes before the bodies under the craft's fuselage could be dragged out. They were burned beyond recognition.

Germans Are Making Elaborate Plans To Re-Capture Trade

BUSINESS EXPERTS TO GO TO ALL THE LEADING COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD TO TRY TO FOSTER BETTER RELATIONS.

BERLIN, July 22.—As part of an energetic drive to restore her business relations with foreign lands German business experts will be sent forth to all the leading countries of the world either as "free lance" investigators or as attaches of German embassies and consulates. Aside from this movement, which is of Government origin, private concerns and trade organizations are forming elaborate programs for the resumpture of German overseas commerce.

The mission of the Government experts will be to gather data in all lines of trade. Moreover, they will endeavor to foster better relations between German business and the business of the country to which they are attached. Presumably, they will work directly in connection with the trade bureau recently formed as an adjunct to the Foreign Office.

While the Government is setting about to aid business, to get on its feet again, business leaders themselves realize that German commerce is not going to be welcomed effusively on the heels of th great war and are making their plans accordingly. A recent suggestion is for the systematic establishment of German chambers of commerce throughout the world.

With foreign agents already flooding Europe, waiting to capture new business, Germany is planning to get representatives on the road as soon as the slack industrial situation permits. For instance, the correspondent saw a big motion picture concern contract with a prominent salesman, whereby he will go to New York soon and strive to put on the market a new type of film. He also will seek to open relations with American companies to obtain certain of their pictures for German showing.

German leaders admit, however, that they cannot proceed with their big campaign immediately, because there are not sufficient manufactured products on hand. What German needs today, if she is to regain her trade position, is more raw materials and more food.

Movement On Foot For A Bigger Belleville

W. C. MIKEL, K.C., SETS BALL ROLLING FOR GREAT INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IN THIS SECTION—7,000 ACRES OF WATERFRONT SERVED BY THREE RAILWAYS REQUIRED FOR AMBITIOUS PROJECT.

A movement is now on foot which may insure a Bigger and Better Belleville. A meeting of the property owners of the Front of Sidney, west of the Belleville Cemetery, has been called by W. C. Mikel, K.C., for Saturday evening, the 26th of July, at 8 p.m., for the purpose of laying before them a proposal to acquire the land from the Belleville Cemetery west to Trenton, in the First and Broken Front Concessions from the Grand Trunk Railway to the Bay, some 7,000 acres. If satisfactory arrangements can be made for acquiring this property it is to be turned over to a company which will lay it out for industrial development. About half this tract of land will be utilized to provide free sites for large industries, having all modern appurtenances, also for parks, streets, schools, libraries and other public purposes. A large portion of the balance will be made available for homes for employees of the industries at a very small price per lot so that workmen and their families can have spacious garden areas and healthful, pleasant surrounding which will be an inducement for a large, happy and contented labor population.

Advantage will be taken of the Ontario Government's housing scheme by which the Government will advance money to build houses on these lots and extend the time for repayment over a period of 20 years with interest at 5 per cent. per annum, so that every family will have an up-to-date comfortable home, which may be paid for by monthly as rent.

This land lies on the main line of three transcontinental railways of Canada, also on the main waterway between the head of navigation and the sea and is in the great Trent power basin, where there is 50,000 horsepower available. There seems to be no reason why this should not be one of the greatest industrial centres of Canada if the people will only co-operate and act in unison.

Sick Man Murdered Dragged From Bed

CLEVELAND July 22—After a day of theorizing, without any tangible clue to aid, half a dozen experienced investigators agreed that two persons familiar with the house participated in the murder of Daniel Kaber, wealthy Cleveland publisher. No arrests have been made.

Mr. Kaber, paralyzed with neuritis was dragged from his bed Friday midnight and stabbed twenty-four times with a dagger made from a file and clubbed. He died Saturday in a hospital. Before he could cry for help his assailants escaped. When the 3-arm was given a blood-stained glove was found near the man's bed. The companion glove, new and slightly soiled, was picked up on a stairway. The theory is that while one person grasped the invalid's throat another stabbed him. Imprints of naked fingers were still quite distinct on the throat when an autopsy was made.

Peace Treaty Approved By British Commons

ALL NIGHT SESSION OF BRITISH COMMONS RESULTED IN APPROVAL OF GERMAN PEACE TREATY AND ANGLO-FRENCH CONVENTION — ANY DEFECTS IN THE TREATY CAN BE REMEDIED BY LEAGUE OF NATIONS, SAYS PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 22—At what was virtually an all-night session, the House of Commons completed its consideration of both the German peace treaty and the Anglo-French convention. The bill carrying approval of the German treaty was considered in committee of the whole, receiving lengthy debate, in which Premier Lloyd George took an active part. The bill was then placed before the House and passed its third reading after a motion by John Devlin to reject it as a protest against the Premier's attitude towards Ireland was overwhelmingly defeated by 163 to 4. Then at three a.m. the Anglo-French pact was taken up and a bill approving it was unanimously passed after a short but sharp debate in which the argument that the treaty was not consistent with the League of Nations failed to find any support.

The German treaty passed through all its phases without amendment.

In concluding his speech on the treaty Premier Lloyd George, while making no claim of perfection for it, expressed confidence that any defects would be remedied by the League of Nations. Despite its imperfections, the Premier declared the treaty would stand as a lighthouse in the deep and as a warning to nations and rulers of nations against the perils which the German empire shattered itself against.

Losses Are $3,708,000 Big Drop in Values

Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation Failure—Large Amount Involved.

TORONTO, July 22—The total losses of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation amount to $3,708,000, according to a statement made by G. T. Clarkson, the liquidator. These losses are made as follows:

Loans Standard Reliance made to Dovercourt Land and Savings Company, $2,800,000; Monies advanced by the Standard Reliance to syndicates and private companies, $318,000 Reduction in value of properties owned by the Standard Reliance and carried on its books $200,000; Losses in other assets, $30,000. The liquidator will explain at a special meeting of Chatham creditors the plan for closing up the company's affairs.

Of the big mentioned $925,000 is for the Lawrence Park properties, being the difference between the amounts realized and the value as shown by the books. There is also $1,145,000 written down for properties owned by the company. Another loss is $333,000 in stocks, bonds and securities held by the Dovercourt Land, of which $155,000 is Standard Reliance stock. Still another is $120,000 in loans made by the company on stocks. Another estimate is a loss of $22,000 on mortgages and agreements. For open accounts due the company, there is a loss of $22,000 the value being $25,000 as compared with $114,000 on the books.

Husband Murdered Lover Arrested

Murder of Railway Conductor Promises Interesting Developments.

SYRACUSE, July 22.—Joseph Dimento, Oswego Italian, arrested on four warrants involving his relations with Mrs. Frances Clark, wife of Frank Nellis Clark, the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg, R.R. conductor, who was murdered at Belle Isle has been released on $1,200 bail. His brother-in-law, Joseph Fumento of Oswego, who was held on the charge of having concealed weapons, but who it was thought might know something of the murder of the conductor, was released on the same bail.

Mrs. Clark and Dimento both confessed to the secret nature of their relations. Oswego and Onondaga county sleuths are running down fresh clues in the murder of Frank N. Clark, the train Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg railroad conductor and arrests are expected shortly. Finger prints on the club with which Clark was beaten to death have been taken and an investigation along that line is under way. The knife with which Clark was stabbed and sleshed a score of times has not been found and it is not likely will be discovered. The officials have found more letters and post cards from Mrs. Clark to Dimento, to her Italian lover. They spoke of sending him tickets and money to come back to her when he was away.

Constable Murdered Suspect Killed By Posse

BRUTAL MURDER BY FOREIGNERS NEAR NIPIGON—MOUNTED POLICE CHASE FUGITIVES—ONE KILLED, ONE WOUNDED.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 21.—George Armstrong, ex-Naval Trade Constabulary, ex-corporal of the C. P. R. police and town constable of Nipigon, was shot from ambush early Friday morning by two foreigners, one believed to be a German, the other a Bulgarian.

Armstrong was attempting to effect the arrest of the men for petty theft from the section house. He walked along the track to death, and the police believe he was first shot with a rifle, through the head and then finished off with revolver shots at close range. His half-clad body and powder marks indicate that he was killed in much the same manner as one would finish a wounded animal His body was dragged and placed in the grass but not entirely hidden. It was discovered by a section man fourteen hours later. A description of the men was wired to every point between Port Arthur and Nipigon.

The chase began Friday night, Constables Burns and Symons made a surprise attack on the men from a section house fifty miles from the scene of the crime. A running fight followed during which score of shots were fired on either side. The murderer used a Winchester rifle and three revolvers. The constables escaped unharmed.

FUGITIVE SHOT DEAD

One of the murderers was shot through the left breast just above the heart and died instantly. The second man wounded in the left leg, rolled down a steep embankment and was lost in the bush. An empty Winchester rifle and an empty revolver were found beside the dead man. Search is being continued for the wounded one. The constables are being assisted by Northwest Mounted Police.

When Constable Armstrong's body was found there was between $30 and $90 in cash in his pocket together with his watch. He did not have a fighting gun with him. A revolver was found in its holster in his pocket.

GORDON A. SHILLABEER

At dawn on Friday last Mr. Gordon A. Shillabeer passed away from an attack of appendicitis. Deceased was 39 years of age, and was born at Roslin, being a son of Mr. William Shillabeer of that place. For the past 7 years deceased had been engaged in farming in the west. A widow and one child survives. The body was brought here and taken to the home of the father.

MRS. ROBERT J. SYMONS

On Sunday, June 22nd, Mrs. Robert Symons of this city, was the victim of an auto accident which occurred at Crofton, Prince Edward County, when a car, the property of Mr. Bovay of Crofton, went over an embankment. Mrs. Symons had both arms broken and her spine was also injured. At the time it was thought the injuries she sustained would prove fatal, but her conditionn last week was such as to give hopes for her recovery. She however, on Sunday took a turn for the worse, and at 11 o'clock last night she passed away. Deceased was in her 56th year, having been born in Ameliasburg Township, Prince Edward County, in 1863. She was a daughter of the late Mr. Hyland Root. Since her marriage some 35 years ago she had resided in this city, where she had a large number of friends. Mrs. Symons was a member of Christ Church, and always took an active part in church work. She was also intensely interested in patriotic work during the war, being promin ently identified with the West Belleville War Workers. Deceased was a lady who made friends in whatever circle she moved in, and her demise will be sincerely regretted. She was a member of Quentina Lodge No 113 of Belleville of this city. In addition to the husband, Mr. Robert symons of the Belleville Fire Department, two sons and one daughter surviving. The sons are Harry M., a returned soldier, and James Butler, and the daughter, Mrs. Fred Bennett, all of this city. To the bereaved family will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of relatives and friends.

THOMAS MACNIDER

After a long illness the death occurred this morning at his home at Rose Corners of Mr. Thomas Macnider, aged 80 years. Mr. Macnider was born in Quebec, but had been a resident of this district for many years and was well known and highly respected. CHAPTER XXIX—Continued

A few days later the lower part of the town was flooded. The enormous weight of the water had forced in some ill-constructed barrier, and pouring through the streets and houses a yard in depth, had driven the inhabitants out of their homes to the higher ground. A gang of soldiers, however managed to stop up the gap, and as the water from the wretched people returned walking on the ice, and apparently endeavouring to drag out some kind of existence in the upper parts of their houses. Before the end of February the water was twenty feet deep outside the walls; the loopholes and windows were stopped up in vain, and the whole of the town between the first and second ring of fortifications was uninhabitable. Still no word came from the king, and his flag floated as proudly as ever from the highest tower of the castle.

But his soldiers and his people were not disposed to look upon the advancing danger with so much equanimity. The whole surface was frozen hard, except at the edges, where the rising water broke the ice and left a narrow moat about the castle walls and the shores of the lake. The risk of crossing this channel of small floes and freezing water was great, but many risked it. Scarcely an hour of the night passed in which we did not see small black figures hurrying away across the frozen plain, or did not hear the shrieks and cries of drowning men.

One night five hundred soldiers of the king's own guard crossed the ice to our camp and gave themselves into our hands. They came with a pitiable story on their lips. Half the city was under water. The whole of the population and the soldiers were crowded together within the last line of ramparts. Food was running short and the king was driving the wretched citizens from the walls, to perish or escape as best they could. Many of them, fearing to leave the city, were huddled together upon the ice in the lower town, without food or light or warmth. The army itself was fast merging into a disorderly rabble without guidance or discipline. Some were for escaping to the hills and fortifying Drabancon; some were for meeting Count Guy in open fight, and deciding the issue on a single cast of the dice; some were for surrender; some had vowed to hold the castle till the water washed their dead bodies from the walls. Not a day passed without strife and bloodshed. The place was a hell of indecision and tumult. Yet over all stood the king, calm as the sea itself, favouring no policy, and with his own resolutions locked in his crafty brain. With two thousand picked men he kept himself within the walls of his great castle, and brooded over the ill-fated town like a vulture. Charles the Red was loved by no man, but feared by all. Of enormous physical strength and reputed to be more skilful in the use of the sword than any man in Astrasia, he held the whole of the place in a state of terror and despair. His presence was the only check on open rebellion.

But we were destined to learn his policy within the next few days. Like many statesmen of our own European countries, he knew the surest remedy for internal disorder. The din and fury of battle have always been powerful enough to drown the feuds and dissensions of parties. Men have little time to argue with their neighbours when they are led against a common foe. It is those who wait inactive for the bullet and the steel who are wont to discuss how best to meet them. On the night of the first of March, Charles the Red, as he was called from the flaming colour of his beard, played for high stakes and lost them.

It was a dark night for the moon was yet above the horizon. The stars only showed a dim white sea beneath us, and in the distance a dark island twinkling with a few yellow flames. The only searchlight we had brought with us from Sancta Maria was unfortunately out of order. It had been of considerable assistance in watching the movements of the enemy by night. We had, however, no fear of the darkness. Every sound could be heard in the stillness and anything in the nature of a surprise was an impossibility.

I did not go to bed that night until after twelve o'clock. And I had scarcely closed my eyes when I was aroused by the cry of the sentry. I listened for a minute and heard the sound of footsteps and voices, and then the clank of arms, and the stir and movement of the whole camp. I flung on my clothes and rushed to the battlements. They were lined with men peering into the darkness across the valley.

"Hark," cried someone, and all there near me were silent. I listened. I heard sounds in the distance, the continual clank of steel, the cracking and shivering of ice, and now and the faint splash and the voice of a man who waits for his enemy, and very faint, but to the man who waits for his enemy the long signal of his approach. The most unlikely thing in the world had happened. We were going to be attacked in our almost impregnable position, and the king was going to hazard his throne on the result.

Big Screen Features Filmed At Trenton

The Trenton Advocate, speaking of the moving picture industry there, says:

The production of the first picture by the Adanac Producing Co. is already well under way. A number of well known actors and moving picture people have been engaged in Trenton during the past week or so on the new film. A valuable automobile was sent over the mountain side into the sand pit below. Those acting in the picture were not killed, but the dummies that replaced them when the car went over the cliff were "killed." It is understood that this most realistic scene was for "The World's Shadow," the new picture.

In the last issue of the Canadian Moving Picture Digest appears the following references to Trenton's moving picture enterprise. The Digest says:

Canada's latest producing company bids fair to get off to a good start at the studios at Trenton, Ont., and active work on the first production will be started within the next week.

The Adanac Producing Company has been established on a firm financial basis, with Denis Tansey, M.P. as president and J. J. Shea secretary-treasurer. The company has leased the studios of the late Canadian National Features at Trenton, and, after extensive alterations and additions, have one of the best plants in the United States or Canada.

Rodolph Berliner has been selected for the position of general director, and Travtise Vale, one of the best directors in the business, formerly with World Film, will be in absolute charge of production.

Mr. Vale has been in New York for the past week selecting his cast for the most prominent parts, and will return with the principal players this week. Tyront Power, a dramatic actor of prominence both on the stage and screen, has been placed under contract to play the lead in the first release.

Eve Unsell, who has written many stories and arranged many plays for the screen, wrote the continuity for the initial effort of the Adanac Producing Company. Its title is tentatively "The World's Shadow," and has a new and novel plot never before presented on the screen. Adanac will give this a most elaborate staging, and no effort will be spared in making this one of the really big productions of the year.

"Although many offers have been made for the distribution of this picture when it is ready for the theatres of the country, Charles Berman, in charge of distribution for the company, declares that nothing definite will be done until the last scene is completed, but there is a likelihood that the production will be disposed of on a state-rights basis in the United States, and foreign rights will be arranged to the financial benefit of the organization.

TURNED PLANE INTO BUTCHER'S CART

CHATHAM, July 22—Two Wallaceburg men purchased an airplane in Toronto and made the trip from the Queen City to here in less than three hours.

The next morning the machine was used for the first time commercially by new owners, when they delivered a parcel of meat for one of the local butchers to the hotelkeeper of Sombra.

CANADA TAKES FULL RANK WITH WORLD NATIONS

The forward step was taken when Canadian plenipotentiaries signed the treaty of peace at Versailles with those of the world powers. From the time the first British settler came to this country, the possibilities were held of founding and developing a great nation to eventually take its place along with the other great nations of the world. Many weary years have intervened since then, and at times it seemed as if such a thing could never be accomplished. But the faith of the pioneers has been justified, and they "who builded better than they knew" bequeathed to their children a rich heritage—which is now reaching its full fruition.

Its growth has been accelerated, not forced, by the awful hours of agony endured during the last four years of horrible warfare. But that is now a thing of the past and today Canada's sons and daughters, regal in the dignity of their newly acquired nationhood, stand upon the threshold of a new era.

Whatever may be the national characteristics that eventually will be the chief traits of Canadians, it is of vital importance at this stage of development that habits of thrift should be cultivated by the people. To "teach the young how to shoot" is no longer popular or necessary—but to teach the children the true meaning of Thrift, in all its relationships, will be to provide them with an equipment for fighting the battle of life successfully and for developing a sturdy type of character.

With this object in view the Thrift Campaign, by means of War Savings and Thrift Stamps, should find a response everywhere, and should receive the cordial support of parents, teachers, and all educational authorities.

Habits, even bad ones, are not acquired in one day. It therefore must not be expected that within the short time the Thrift campaign has been in progress any great impression has been made upon the habits of people. But its continuation upon a permanent basis will bring results of untold value, even unto the "third and fourth generation."

HAPPINESS UNDER YOUR OWN HAT.

The secret of happiness so long and feverishly sought for by so many people has been discovered by the Toronto Star, which gives the following joy recipe in its Questions and Answers column:

The cure of the blues lies wit* yourself, and being "always on the go" is but a temporary remedy. "Happiness is not found in 'places.' It comes from within. You can discover happiness in your own home—in your office—in the workshop—just as easily as in Europe or China or at the North Pole—and usually a great deal easier. Once get this idea firmly fixed in your mind," says Grnham Hood, "and you will have solved lots of the problems of life, and some of the most important ones at that. The discovery that happiness is under your own hat, and that it can be found in no other place in the world, is one of the first secrets of success. But how am I to find this happiness? you ask. The answer can be condensed in two words: Keep busy! The only happy life is the busy life. The happiest man in the world is he who has just a little more work to do than it is possible to perform in the hours of an ordinary working day."

Newspaper men should be the happiest of mortals if the above reasoning is correct for they have no difficulty whatever in "keeping busy" in a day that never ends, for while the ink is still wet on the last edition today, the making of tomorrow's paper is well under way; and when you come to think of it the newspaper boys are a pretty genial bunch anyway you want to take them, dry or wet.

CLOSING BUSINESS PLACES NOT COMPULSORY.

Many queries having been made to the press in connection with the civic and national proclamations asking that Saturday, July 19, 1919, be observed as Peace Day and a public holiday, it is due to the general public that this point be cleared up from a legal standpoint. Considerable uncertainty seems to exist as to whether the proclamation of a public holiday, nationally or locally or both entails a compulsory closing of places of business. Edward Meek, K.C., barrister, who presides over the legal page of the Toronto Mail and Empire, gives his opinion that business places can not be compelled to close upon any public holiday other than Sunday or in accordance with the early closing by-law enacted upon the petition of three-fourths of the proprietors of any particular class of business places in a community. The questions submitted to Mr. Meek and his answer are given herewith:

H. J., Lucknow.—Are stores compelled to close on legal holidays or on holidays proclaimed by the council?

(2) Must stores be closed on the 19th of July? (3) Can the council pass a by-law compelling the stores to close at an earlier hour in the afternoon?

Ans.—Stores are not obliged to close at any time except where there is a positive statutory command, making it a punishable offence to keep open, such as the Lord's Day Act. The council may proclaim a public holiday and many citizens may voluntarily refrain from working on that day, but storekeepers may, nevertheless, keep their shops open and do business on all such holidays. (2) The 19th of July is not different from any other holiday, it is merely a holiday created by Royal proclamation, like the others. (3) The council has no authority to pass a by-law compelling stores to close at any particular hour or on any particular day. But part two of the "Factories Act" says: "Three-fourths of the occupiers of shops within the municipality belonging to any particular class may make a written application to the council asking for the passing of an early closing by-law." After verifying the application as to the names and signatures, the council must pass a by-law giving effect to the application. (R.S.O. chap. 229, sec. 84.)

CRISP COMMENT

Trenton now has an Industrial Commissioner, the Town Council having appointed Mr. H. M. Grills at a salary of $3,600 per annum and travelling expenses. Trenton Council also passed a by-law providing for the borrowing of $300,000 under the Ontario Housing Act. The Board of Trade executive is at odds with the Town Council over the selection of a site for the new houses to be erected by the Housing Commission, being of the opinion that more suitable property could be obtained centrally located upon streets supplied with water and sewer service. However, from the present outlook the Town Council will act upon the recommendations of the local Housing Committee and build houses for workingmen upon a site secured upon the outskirts of the town. It must be admitted that the Town Fathers of Trenton are energetic and progressive and making every effort to create a Bigger and Better Trenton.

The Poet's Corner

LONG AGO.

I once know all the birds that came
And nestled in our orchard trees,
For every flower I had a name—
My friends were woodchucks, toads and bees,

I knew where thrived in yonder glen
What plants would sooth a stone-bruised toe.
Oh! I was very learned then,
But that was very long ago.

I knew the spot upon the hill
Where checker berries could be found,
I knew the rushes near the mill
Where pickerel lay that weighed a pound,

I knew the wood—the very tree,
Where lived the poaching, saucy crow,
And all the woods and crows knew me,
But that was very long ago.

And pining for the joys of youth,
I read the old familiar spell,
Only to learn this solemn truth,
I have forgotten, am forgot,
Yet, here's this youngster at my knee,
Knows all the things I used to know,
To think I once was wise as he—
But that was very long ago.

I know it's folly to complain,
Of whatso'er the fates decree,
Yet were not wishes all in vain,
I'd tell you what my wish would be,
I'd wish to be a boy again,
Back with the friends I used to know,
For I was very happy then—
But that was very long ago.
—Eugene Field

PEACE DAY—1919.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Rinc out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

News vs. Advertising.

New York Telegram.

It is pretty generally known that Mr. Henry Ford is suing a Chicago newspaper for $1,000,000 damages and the case attracted some attention until, being now in its ninth week, it wore out its welcome. It got almost as tiresome as the peace conference.

Silent Demobilized Men.

London Daily Chronicle.

While public attention has been concentrated on the miner, the railwayman and the trade unionist in general, there has been a tendency to overlook the position of the demobilized soldier. Yet no one is likely to suffer more from the rise in prices, the scarcity of houses, the economic position as a whole. What has been extraordinary has been the silence of the demobilized men. He has learnt in the army the habit of saying nothing in public, about his grievances. He has been long suffering and patient. Again and again, when on active service he said that all he asked for was to return to the conditions which he had left behind. That is impossible. Conditions have changed. He has not had, till now, to face the problem of prices. He is not yet fully absorbed into the army of labor. At present he is far from being represented by any existing party or association.

Cost Would Be Heavy.

Victoria Times.

W. F. Nickle, Unionist member for Kingston, declared that the maintenance of a permanent force of 10,000 men would involve an annual cost of $15,000,000. Mr. Nickle's estimate is too low. The cost is certain to run to $20,000,000 per annum. This, however, would not cover the whole expenditure required by the Department of Militia and Defence for maintenance of a permanent force, while perhaps the largest factor in the military budget the only one, if Canada maintains a permanent force of 10,000 men Parliament probably will have to vote between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 per annum for the whole military service, or nearly three times as much as it appropriated in 1913.

A Laugh or Two

A little widow with dimples is a dangerous thing.

It is awfully hard for a genius to keep his name on the pay roll.

He: Have you ever loved and lost?
She: No, the jury gave me very good damages.

"Are you fond of moving pictures?"
"No, but my wife makes me do it every spring cleaning, whether I like it or not."

Milliner: "I know that hat would please your husband."
Customer: "Not unless you took thirty shillings off the price."

Wife (during the quarrel): "You looked so sheepish when you proposed to me."
He: "Perhaps because you looked so wolfish when you accepted me."

"You haven't explained how you happened to get Mr. Wacker's checkens in your possession," said the magistrate, sternly.
"I'se trying to think, your worship. Give me time," replied the prisoner. "I will. Fourteen days."

Knew the Sound.

In a village cricket match the local butcher was batting, when a ball bumped up and hit him on the head, from which the wicket-keeper made a catch.
"How's that?" yelled the wicket-keeper.
"Hout," said the umpire.
But it hit me on the head," protested the batsman.
"I don't know where it hit you," responded the umpire, "but I know the sound of wood, so hout you go."

First Nights At "The Movies"

Vivian Martin Charming in "The Home Town Girl" at Griffin's —"A Sporting Chance" At the Palace.

NEW VIVIAN MARTIN WINNER

Recognized as one of the most popular stars of the screen, Vivian Martin numbers her admirers by hundreds of thousands. Her latest starring vehicles is "The Home Town Girl." That it will delight her Belleville admirers is confidently predicted by the Griffin Management. Miss Martin has the role of a little Yankee girl, who loves a soda water clerk in a country drug store and when he goes to New York for a better job so that they can marry, she promises to wait for him. He gets into difficulties through gambling, but his trust in him does not waver and when she goes in search of him, she succeeds in pulling him out of the mire and making a man of him. The story is strong one and in every scene of the play has a thrill distinctly its own. Miss Martin is accorded excellent support, her leading man being Ralph Graves. A very funny Mack Sennett comedy entitled "The Lunatic Widow" in which the famous Sennett beauty chorus plays a chief ing role, is also screened along with thrilling Western story and a new Motts and Jeff comedy cartoon.

AN ODD SETTING

A completely equipped chemical laboratory is one of the novel and interesting sets used in "A Sporting Chance" the new comedy-drama in which William Russell is appearing at the Palace the first half of this week, matinee daily. Although the set serves for only a brief scene, to establish the identity of "Anthony James," consulting chemist, neither trouble nor expense was spared to make it look like the real thing and countless other glass contrivances common to the experimental laboratory of an expert chemist, are plainly visible. In "A Sporting Chance" Russell appears as a young New Yorker who, on the point of committing suicide, becomes involved in an engrossing mystery concerning a beautiful young woman, a curious murder, and a priceless emerald. The thrilling adventures into which he is drawn by his offer to pose as the perpetrator of the murder culminates in a sensational climax. Strange to relate that climax is much of a surprise to the wise folk in the audience as to the hero himself. Fascinating little Pritzi Brunette plays opposite the star in her most piquant style. A new Luke comedy entitled "Hear 'Em Rave" the Arcta Pictorial, and the Canadian News Graphic are also being offered on the same program.

REV. MANLY BENSON CALLED BY DEATH

TORONTO July 22—The death took place at the residence of his son, 25 Temple avenue, Toronto, on Sunday, of Rev. Manly Benson, D.D., 77 years of age and who was for 55 years in the service of the Methodist Church. Deceased, who was supernumerated last year, had been stationed at Hamilton Strafford, St. Thomas, Ottawa, Montreal, Perth, Toronto, Arnprior, St. Catharines, Simcoe and Tilsonburg, his last charge. He was a native of Prince Edward county.

Rev. Dr. Benson is survived by his widow and four daughters.

Pie Fillings!

A little Benson's Corn Starch should be introduced into juicy fruit pies, such as rhubarb, cherry, etc., to prevent running over.

Orange Cream Pie (see Recipe below) is not difficult to make and will prove a happy addition to your dessert recipes.

Serve custards, blanc mange, sauces, gravies, cakes and puddings made with Benson's Corn Starch. Write for booklet.

PIE CRUST

Take ¾ cup flour with ¼ cup of Benson's Corn Starch, ½ teaspoonful of salt, ½ teaspoonful of baking powder, ½ cup of lard or other shortening. Mix and sift flour, starch, salt and baking powder, add lard and shortening, mix and rub well together. Add ice cold water until dough will roll smooth and not be sticky.

ORANGE CREAM PIE

Place in double steamer over the fire, 1 tablespoonful Benson's Corn Starch, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoonful salt, 1 cup boiling water. Cook until thickened, stirring frequently. Remove from fire; add yolks of 2 eggs, juice of 1 orange, and juice of one orange and ½ lemon. Mix well. Line greased pie pan with very thin pie crust, brush out with white of egg and bake in moderate oven. Fill crust when done and cool. Cover with meringue made of the whites of the eggs, very stiff; add one tablespoonful of powdered sugar. Arrange by spoonfuls on top of pie and put in hot oven to brown a delicate color. Serve cold.

NO MORE KIDNEY TROUBLE

Since "46" Commenced to Take "Fruit-a-tives"

73 Lisgar Avenue, Ottawa, Ont.

"Three years ago I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising.

I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now what I have not known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain".

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

At Sidney Town Hall tomorrow afternoon the Conservatives of lesser West Hastings will meet in convention to select a candidate for the next Provincial election. The gathering will no doubt be a representative one.

WRIT FOR DAMAGES

A writ has been issued by Fred Scullhorp of Port Hope for $200 against the G.T.R. for the death of a horse, caused, he claimed by the negligence of the company's employees.

SOLDIERS GIVEN GIFTS

At Bumley, near Cobourg, Pte. Roy Eddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Eddy, and recently returned from overseas, was presented by citizens with a handsome gold watch and chain and a suitable address. Pte. John Freeman and Pte. Charles Carr, who returned recently, were also presented with gold watches. Alnvick Township Council also presented Pte. Eddy with a $10 gold piece.

CAR OF BOOZE SEIZED

Chief of Police Jackson of Prescott made an important capture for alleged violation of the Ontario Temperance Act. Some weeks ago Chief Jackson had noticed a stranger passing through Prescott with an auto truck, and going in the direction of Montreal. The visit via the Fort town was repeated on more than one subsequent occasion. The suspicion of Chief Jackson was aroused, and he instituted an investigation, with the result that his suspicions were confirmed to the effect that the automobile was being used for the purpose of conveying liquor from Montreal to Ontario. Dyer, or Samuel Freedman of Parry Sound was arrested and fined $400 and costs and the liquor, with the automobile, was confiscated.

RECORD PRICE FOR HOGS

Mr. D. Scott and son of this city, today shipped from here a large consignment of live hogs. The price paid was a record one, namely $19.75 per hundred weight.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS

Mr. James Rice of Peterboro, while bathing in the Otonabee River at Peterboro', on Sunday was drowned and a like fate befell Mr. Leo Lynch, of Hastings Village, on Saturday. The latter was drowned in the Trent River when a canoe in which he was in capsized. Both bodies were subsequently recovered.

GUARDED ENGLAND'S COAST

Flight-Lieut. A. P. Bell, son of Mr. T. G. Bell, 33 Isabell street, city, has returned from overseas after over two years' service with the Royal Air Force. Lieut. Bell had many interesting adventures and narrow escapes as he was assigned to seaplane duty guarding the English Coast. He has resumed his former position in the Parliament Buildings at Toronto.

ACCUSED OF STEALING ALCOHOL

R. E. Nailer and J. A. Cummings, two young men, were this morning arraigned before Police Magistrate Masson, charged that they did on Sunday night, 20th inst, break into and steal from the drug premises of Mr. W. H. Lattimer, 10 gallons of alcohol of over the vale of $100. The magistrate stated that the Crown was not prepared to proceed in the case and he enlarged the proceedings until the 26th inst. Mr. Carnew for Crown and Mr. A. Abbott for the accused.

FATALLY BURNED

Mr. Frank James of Rochester, N. Y., a former well known resident of Port Hope was on Sunday, the 13th inst., arranging for his annual motor trip and vacation in Port Hope. He was working in his garage with a gasoline torch when suddenly the torch exploded throwing the blazing fluid all over his hands, arms and chest and one side of his face. He was taken to the Hahnemann Hospital and despite the best that medical skill could devise he passed away on Tuesday. The body was brought to Port Hope for interment.

Make Mounted Police Stronger Than Ever

Corps Will be Increased to a Membership of 2,500 Men This Summer.

OTTAWA, July 22.—Before the summer is over the Royal Northwest Mounted Police force, it is said, will be numerically stronger than ever before. The recruiting campaign opened in May is progressing favorably. The objective is a force of between twenty-six and twenty-seven hundred and Commissioner McLean when questioned in regard to the matter yesterday expressed the opinion that the men required would be secured before the end of the summer. He stated that already several hundred splendid men have been recruited, many of whom are returned soldiers and former members of the force. An order-in-Council extending the territorial jurisdiction of the Mounted Police as far east as the Great Lakes and westward to the Pacific Coast, also made provision for increasing its size to 5,000 men, but it is not planned to raise more than the number mentioned at present. During the war the strength of the Mounted Police Force dropped to less than four hundred men, so the newly constituted force will be more than six times as great as then. Owing to the great scope of the work undertaken, however, the larger force is necessary.

ALL CANADIAN TROOPS HOME IN THREE WEEKS

OTTAWA, July 22.—Only 28,604 Canadian soldiers, including hospital cases, were still in England, on July 15. Up to that date 305,220 members of the expeditionary force had been demobilized. Had labor disputes in England not delayed transportation of the troops the number returned to Canada since the signing of the armistice would have been larger. Practically all of the men still in England should be home by the end of three weeks.

Plane Crashes Aviator Killed

WINCHESTER, Ont., July 22.—Pte. Willis Nephew, 19 years of age aviator of Finch, Ont., was fatally injured last Saturday morning when his machine crashed to the ground while an exhibition flight in connection with the Peace Day celebration. His companion, Lieut. Arthur Dewart, Ottawa, Arthur Deweert, sustained a fracture of the collar bone and severe injuries to his head and shoulder.

The accident occurred as the men were attempting to get into the air. The machine was twelve feet from the ground and, travelling at a rate estimated at 50 miles an hour when the nose suddenly pointed toward the ground and, the machine fell and turned over. Both the men were thrown clear of the wreck. There were only a few persons on the grounds at the time, the spectators being for the most part stablemen, trainers and drivers assembled there in connection with the races in the afternoon.

OSHAWA BEAT COBOURG

OSHAWA, July 22.—Oshawa outplayed Cobourg on Saturday in a Central League fixture at Alexandra Park by a score of 8 to 5.

The visitors did all the scoring up to the fourth innings tallying five runs, but this proved unavailing as Oshawa lightened up, and the close of the game saw 8 runs in their credit. One of the largest crowds of the season was in attendance.

Despair of Settlement Of The Irish Difficulty

LONDON, July 22—Premier Lloyd George replied to his critics in the debate in the House of Commons yesterday on the second reading of the German Peace Treaty, and the Anglo-French convention. His recent announcement that the German Emperor would be tried before a tribunal in London, had created much discussion, and several members, including Lord Robert Cecil, expressed doubts as to the advisability, of the trial being held in London. The selection of a neutral country for this purpose, it has been contended, would have been better.

The Premier, in answer to this, said 'What right have we to assume that any neutral country could desire to be the scene of such a trial? The allies have sufficient confidence in this country that whoever comes here for trial will receive a trial equal to the highest traditions of the British nation, and there are none higher in the world.

'If war is to be abolished it must be treated, not as an honorable game with its element of personal glory, but as a crime. That is why we decided that the author of this war should be tried."

Another matter of extreme importance which came up for discussion was the Irish question, and to this the Premier devoted considerable time, with numerous interjections by Jos. Devlin, Nationalist for Falls division of Belfast.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Unionist for Chelsea, warned the Government that some of the Unionists considered the settlement of the Irish difficulty just as urgent as did the Irish members.

The Premier caused laughter by describing the Irish convention which had failed to agree, as his attempt to apply President Wilson's principles to Ireland.

Answering Mr. Devlin's demand for a referendum, he urged that the difficulty was that Ireland was not a unit-ed people. Three divisions in fact, religion and temperament and outlook—in fact, in everything constituting the fundamental conditions of a nation. Ireland's difficulty was bridged, it was useless to talk about self-determination, and until Irishmen definitely faced this difficulty he despaired of any settlement.

Negro Lynched By Crowd Because He Protected Girls

Seventy-two Year Old Man Shot White Man Who Was Attacking Colored Girls.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Lynched by a Georgia mob because he protected two young girls of his race from an attack by white men, was the fate of seventy-two-year old Berry Washington, according to a sworn statement filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People by a clergyman of the town where the crime was committed. For obvious reasons the name of the clergyman has been omitted.

The statement follows: I wish to inform you of an outrageous lynching which occurred at Milan, Georgia, May 24, 1919, Telfar County, John Williams, sheriff. On May 24, at 1 o'clock at night, John Dandy and Lewis Evans, white, went down into the colored people's section of the town and went to the home of a widow by the name of Emma McCollers, who had two daughters. They knocked, but the occupants refused to open the door, and they shot through the door. The ball wenthrough the organ and the sewing machine. That frightened the girls and they ran out to another old home. Her name was Emma Thber, and is a widow with two little children. The white men went after those girls and the girls ran under the porch and hid. These white men broke down the door and tore up the floor. The old widow got frightened and jumped in the well and the children screamed for help.

Berry Washington, colored seventy-two years old, ran out with his shotgun in his hand. When he got near the hall he met both of the white men. John Dandy, 25 years old, with a wife and two children, asked the old man what he came out for. He said 'to see what was the matter with the women and children,' and then John Dandy fired at him and said: 'I will kill you, old man.' The old man fired and killed him (John Dandy) first. He fell with his pistol in his right hand and a cigarette in the other, and a pack of liquor fell out of his pocket. The other white man (Lewis Evans) ran.

"Another colored man came out and advised Washington to go up town and wake the chief of police and give himself up. The policeman's name is Stuckey. He sent Washington to McCrae jail at 2 o'clock on the night of the 24th. He stayed in jail until Saturday night, the 25th at 1 o'clock. A mob of seventy-five or one hundred brought him back to Milan. They carried him to the same spot where he shot Dandy and lynched him. He was hanged to a post, his body shot to pieces and left hanging there until 3 o'clock Sunday morning, May 26.

"He was lynched because he protected his own women, in his part of the town. White boys came down there about the hours of midnight and disturbed the peace and happiness of the colored and white people. They ordered every colored person to leave town Saturday night. Poor old men, women and children left their homes before dark. Not a colored person spent the night in his home Saturday or Sunday night. Up to May 27, this had not been published in any of the Georgia papers, it was so disgraceful. Strange publish that a white Baptist minister directed the mob.

"Yours for justice and the race."

FOXY GERMANS MAKE SWISS BANKS NERVOUS

GENEVA, July 23.—Swiss bankers are expressing anxiety over the German National Assembly's proposal to require all German securities owned by Germans to be returned to Germany as large sums have been loaned by them on such collateral, particularly to members of the former Royal houses of the Central Powers.

The German Government's proposed law would require all German securities belonging to Germans to be restamped. Unless the securities should be produced they would be refused validity. German paper to the value was said, deposited securities, valued at between thirty-four and thirty-six billion marks in Switzerland.

Austria which is said to have about 10,000,000,000 crowns in secrities in Switzerland, is said to be contemplating similar action.

The women of Mexico use fireflies as jewels. They tie them in little gauze bags and put them in their hair or their clothing. Then, until they require them again they keep them in little wire cages and feed them on scraps of sugar-cane.

Peace With Rumania Sought By Bolshevik

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 23.—A Bolshevik delegation has arrived at Kishineff with an offer of peace to the commander of the Rumanian-Dniester troops on behalf of Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik Premier, according to a Berlin Government wireless despatch.

Lenine offers to cede Bessarabia to Rumania on condition that Rumania shall prohibit Ukrainian citizens and bands of Admiral Kolchak's, head of the All-Russian Government at Omsk, from crossing the Rumanian frontiers. An armistice to last eight days has been concluded on the Bessarabian front and a delegation has gone to the Rumanian headquarters.

D'Esperey Was Ready For Hungary Days Ago

Had 150,000 Troops for March on Budapest—Was "Prepar-ing" Them.

VIENNA, July 12.—(Delayed)—General Franchet D'Esperey, commander of the allied forces in the Near East announces that he is preparing to advance upon Budapest, the Hungarian capital with 150,000 troops. The army is made up of French colonials, Rumanans, Jugo-Slavs, Italians, and Hungarians. The Hungarians are commanded by Gen. Kroicheviff.

Special despatches within the past ten days have reported that such movement by Gen. D'Esperey was in contemplation, but no definite announcement, such as contained in the foregoing had previously been received.

Vera Delaveille Has Surrendered

TORONTO, July 23.—Vera de Laveille, the second French woman who was an accomplice of Frank McCullough, is once more back in the hands of the police and back in Toronto Jail from where she escaped on May 29.

She was taken into custody yesterday afternoon on Beverley street, a few feet south of College street, by Detective Walter McConnel. Miss Laveille surrendered herself to a prearranged plan between herself and counsel, W. B. Hoskins.

AUSTRIAN AND RUSSIAN DEAD AFTER QUARREL

EDMONTON, Alta., July 23.—Singular circumstances surround the death of Jacob Charowskiuk, an Austrian, and Sam Seytka, a Russian, whose bodies were found close to 93 overturned boat by detectives L. J. Caldwell of the Provincial Police in Lilly Lake, situated near Fedorah, about 25 miles north of here.

The two men resided on either side of the lake and were about one mile apart, both using the same boat for crossing from one shore to the other. It is presumed that the men came to their death on Sunday, July 13, as a result of a quarrel that took place between the two while both were in the boat.

Recovery of the bodies from the water revealed the fact that Charowskiuk had a cracked skull and Shytka a bruise on the neck.

Seditious Conspiracy Is Charge in Winnipeg

Informations Against the Strike Leaders Amended — More Likely to be Laid.

WINNIPEG, July 23.—By means of an amendment to informations against local strike leaders a charge of conspiracy was laid to the charge of sedition laid against Alld. Heaps, Abl Queen, George Armstrong, William Ivens, J. H. Queen, W. A. Pritchard and R. E. Bray when these men appeared before Magistrate Noble at the Law Courts.

The amended information is now a charge of "seditious conspiracy" where before it was "seditious activity."

Other informations have been laid, it was announced last night, against the other strike leaders who did not appear on this charge.

Grave Sequel To Epsom Riot

LONDON, July 22.—Privates F. H. Wilkie, 102nd Canadian Battalion, J. Cousins, 12th Canadian Highlanders, A. McKester, Third Canadian Reserve, A. Mason and R. A. McAllan, both of Camp D., forestry corps, who were committed for trial at Bow street for manslaughter in connection with the death of Sergeant Green of the Epsom police force, also Bugler Robert Todd, of the Canadians, who was committed on a coroner's warrant, were brought up in the Surrey assizes, Justice Darling presided. They were indicted for unlawful and riotously assembling to disturb the peace and causing damage to property. All the accused were defended and pleaded not guilty.

In some parts of China it is still considered a high act of virtue for a woman to commit suicide after the death of her husband.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

PARIS, July 23.—The Japanese delegation to the Peace Conference today issued a denial of assertions that the Shantung settlement in the German peace treaty was in exchange for the withdrawal of the Japanese contention regarding the racial clause in the League of Nations covenant.

French Gov't Strong

PARIS, July 22.—Premier Clemenceau, who won for his cabinet a vote of confidence late yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies emerged from the conflict stronger than the test vote showed. The final vote of confidence on a resolution by Deputy Sinyan approving the Government declaration of policy showed confidence in the Government by 293 to 176, a majority of 113. The last vote which was on a demand for priority for the resolution of Deputy Chaumet gave the premier a majority of only 91.

FOUR HELD FOR KILLINGS

OTTAWA, July 23.—Four persons held in connection with the death of fellow citizens appeared in Hull courts this morning. George Durand and his wife faced murder charges in connection with the death of Ernie Gal-Maloney, of Toronto, who was killed in a roadhouse on June 16. The case is proceeding. Cpl. Conrad Jones, who was charged with the murder of William Artick on Sunday last and was remanded until July 28 for a preliminary hearing. Fleming Laminoff, who accidentally shot his neighbor, Mrs Beauchimp, yesterday was remanded until July 28. The woman died of wounds.

TROOPS FOR YORKSHIRE

LONDON, April 22.—Troops were moved today into Yorkshire mining districts. Sir Eric Geddes explained that this action was taken to protect those engaged in pumping operations in mines. In making this explanation, Sir Eric laid emphasis upon the statement that troops would be kept out of sight as much as possible and the police would be responsible for the protection of citizens.

Race Track Betting

OTTAWA, July 23.—The Government is not inclined to seriously consider the prospect of race track betting starting immediately, notwithstanding the expressed opinion of Sir Allen Aylesworth, former Minister of Justice that such would be legal on the proclamation of peace. It is felt there are many more questions will make no move toward betting for some time.

Ford Case Judge Has Speed Fever

Forbids Arguments on Objections —Record Now Contains 1,500,000 Words.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., July 22 —What with arguments of counsel, which resulted in a ruling by JJudge Tucker, cutting off debate for any objection whatever, and the reading of a deposition by John Reed, a magazine writer, Henry Ford escaped with only one hour on the witness stand today.

The witness, who is suing the Chicago Tribune for $1,000,000 on a charge of having libelled him by characterizing him as an anarchist, developed nothing new in the way of views or ideas differing from those expressed on the stand last week.

The manager was interrogated by Attorney Elliott G. Stevenson, senior counsel for the defense, while Attorneys Alfred Lucking and Alfred G. Murphy maintained their accustomed tire of objections.

The elimination of argument over objections was adopted as a means of speeding up the trial, the record of which now runs close to 1,500,000 words.

The day opened with a long argument on the scope of cross-examination, particularly as it involved prepardness. Early in the case, after three days of argument, Judge Tucker ruled that evidence of preparedness, produced for the single purpose of airing the views of what constitutes a state of defence, was inadmissible. This ruling was modified, however, by the judicial opinion that whatever Henry Ford wrote or said, or the Tribune published was admissible. The fact that Mr. Ford, through his peace publicity campaign, conducted by Theodore de Lavinge, employed as an expert by the manufacturer, wrote voluminously in opposition to preparedness, let in much testimony on that subject.

Ten People Shot In Berlin Riot

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

BERLIN, July 22—Ten persons were shot during disorders which attended the breaking up of the majority socialist meeting by Communists and Spartacans here Monday. Those attending the meeting which was held in the trades union building attempted to lynch a man who fired shots but he was saved by his helpers who were in the building.

A. And N. Veterans Oppose Prohibition

KINGSTON, July 23.—The Kingston delegates to the Dominion convention of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, held in Montreal this week, have been instructed to support Dr. Evans, who is vice-president of the Dominion Association, in the following:

In the matter of pensions, that $1,000 be paid for total disability, with four classes, the lowest to be 25 per cent. of the maximum.

Present Patriotic Fund to be converted into a Post-war Relief Fund, and the Government shall add to-its present millions all battalion and canteen funds accumulated by the C.E.F. turning the funds over to a Relief Committee to benefit soldiers.

All men on Allied front shall be paid the sum of $2,500; a daily paper in some centre of Canada in interest for returning men.

Present clothing allowance to be made to first men returned.

Investigation into reason why attempt was made in London to exclude Canadians from taking part in the Peace Parade.

Proper and separate hospitals for military insane in charge of men overseas; full pay during treatment.

Opposition to the dangerous principle of prohibition prevalent in Canada and a demand for beer and wine.

Royal Proclamation Kills War Measures

TORONTO, July 23.—Sir Allen B. Aylesworth, K.C., former Minister of Justice for Canada, has given a written opinion to the effect that racing in Canada, with betting, will be legal the moment the royal proclamation issues in England that the state of war as to both Germany and Austria-Hungary ceases, and at the same moment the order-in-Council of June 7, 1917, will cease to exist and have effect because from that moment Canada is no longer at war, no matter what either the Governor-in-Council or the Parliament of Canada might do or say.

BANK CASHIER MISSING SHORTAGE $900,000

Philadelphia, July 23.—Ralph T. Moyer, cashier of the closed North Pennsylvania Bank here, had not been taken into custody though his arrest had been ordered by Frank Slack Banking Commissioner John S. Fisher, in connection with alleged shortages said to aggregate $900,000.

Moyer left his home this morning, escorted by another man, stepped into his limousine and drove away.

Fisher ordered Moyer's arrest last night after he had received a report from Bates W. MacBurney, receiver of the bank, saying the cashier admitted the $900,000 shortage. Moyer also confessed that he had falsified the books by inserting loose leaves in the ledgers when the bank inspectors came, MacBurney said.

Cobalt Miners Go On Strike

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press, Limited

COBALT, Ont., July 23.—As theatened for some time and definitely decided upon last Sunday, eighteen of the Cobalt camp generally went on strike at noon today, after the refusal of mine managers to accept the agreements for increases in wages, and the proposal for a board of conciliation to adjust grievances.

The Episcopal Church proposes to be the first orthodox denomination to grant full equality to women in church affairs, provided the canon law now in course of preparation is approved at the Triennial General Convention to be held in Detroit next October.

$66,487 For School Purposes Asked By Board of Education

OVER NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN EXCESS OF LAST YEAR'S ESTIMATES FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES IN BELLEVILLE — SALARY INCREASES LARGE FACTOR IN SWOLLEN ESTIMATES.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held yesterday afternoon at which the following members were in attendance:

Messrs. F. S. Deacon, chairman; F. E. O'Flynn; B. Mallory; A. McGie; A. E. Ridley; S. S. Moore; D. V. Sinclar; A. E. Bailey; J. B. Tree; F. Elliott; Col. Ponton and Dr. Marshall.

The object of the meeting was to discuss and pass the estimates for the year, which are considerable in excess of those submitted last year.

A recommendation was adopted that the salary of Mr. Diamond, Secretary Treasurer be increased from $450 to $720 per annum.

The Board went into Committee of the whole on reports, etc. Mr. Deacon in the chair.

A number of accounts recommended to be paid by the Finance Committee were passed.

THE ESTIMATES

The estimates as presented showed that the tota requirements to pay the teaching staff in the various public schools of the city was as follows:

Queen Victoria	$[illegible]
Queen Alexandra	8,350
Queen Mary	8,000
Grier Street	9,700
	$[illegible]

There are also other expenditures such as fuel, caretakers, etc., which make a total required for Public Schools of $40,969.

The amount required for High School purposes is $25,518, making a total of $66,487, to be asked from the City Council.

Mr. J. Elliott in speaking of the estimates stated that the amount to be provided by the city was $2,237 over that of last year, but this was due to increase in teachers' salaries, crease in teaching staff and the night school expenditure.

The estimates as presented were passed as were also the necessary by laws to ratify the same.

After routine business of a general nature was transacted, the Board adjourned.

Late Telegraph Briefs

Canadian Press Limited

The British Commons approved the Peace Treaty.

Clemenceau's Government was sustained by a large majority.

Alfred Goss, of Rous Lake, near Orillia, seventy-one years of age was instantly killed by the discharge of a gun he was taking down from a wall.

George Nelson, eighty-one, a retired farmer, was killed near Ridgetown by being caught in the teeth of a cultivator he was using, it is supposed, his mules took fright and bolted.

Washington casualties in race riots in the last three nights total seven killed and eleven injured. Fifteen hundred troops have been called out.

French Chamber of Deputies gave a vote of confidence to the Clemenceau Government 372—181.

No settlement in British coal mine strike is in sight. Naval men will man the pumps and save the mines.

Vera de Lavelle, sweetheart of the murderer McCullough and who aided him to escape, gave herself up to the police yesterday.

A charge of manslaughter was brought against five Canadians who were arrested in connection with Epsom riots.

CANADA FIRST IN AIR LANE REGULATION

Ottawa, July 23.—In view of the Chicago airship disaster it may be recalled that Canada, was among the first to recognize the necessity for regulation of the air traffic. On July 16 the Canadian Air Board, with approval of the Privy Council, forbade absolutely trick flying, exhibition flying or flying at low altitudes over urban areas. A fine of $1,000 was imposed for the offence. In the meantime the Canadian Air Board is framing up a permanent code for regulating and making safe the traffic in the air lanes.

Bolshevik riots in Paris yesterday were silenced by use of machine guns.

English Coal Strike Serious Situation

LONDON, July 23.—On the morrow of the peace celebration with the newspapers columns still paying plentiful tribute to the great demonstration and urging the nation now to settle down to work, Great Britain finds herself confronted with one of the most serious crisis in her history.

Alarm is everywhere felt at the action of the coal miners in putting a stop to the output in a large area of the coal fields, and especially at their striking the permanent destruction of some of the mines by preventing the pumps from operating. The London press voices this alarm in unmeasured terms seeing the nation faced with unparalleled calamity.

RECKLESS BOLSHEVISM

Except in Socialist quarters, the conduct of the Miners' Executive, with varying degrees of vehemence, and characterize it as something from a deplorable, suicidal blunder to wicked, reckless Bolshevism.

The decision of the Government to employ navy men to pump the mines, the "traffic dilemma" as one correspondent has it, and that to save a national asset, is approved by a respectable majority of widely differing views, but in some quarters the Government is sharply criticised as having blundered in handling the situation, and the promise given the miners to carry out the findings of the commission which were embodied in the Sankey report on the mining industry.

Liverpool Dock Strike Delays Sailing of Transports

S.S. SCOTIAN, ADRIATIC, ORDUNA HELD UP BY STRIKE—TWO HUNDRED SHIPS AFFECTED AS SAILINGS CANCELLED OR INDEFINITELY POSTPONED—NO PROSPECT OF SPEEDY SETTLEMENT.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LIVERPOOL, July 23.—A strike among the dockers which broke out here early this week has resulted in the bringing around of chaos in the arrangements for the departure of fixed ships at this port, their sailings being cancelled or indefinitely postponed. The steamer Scotian, with two thousand passengers, was ready to sail for Montreal yesterday but was unable to leave. The Adriatic, due to leave on Thursday for New York, and the Orduna, scheduled to sail for New York on Saturday, have had their sailings indefinitely postponed. It seems unlikely that these two liners will be able to leave on time and perhaps not until the strike is settled. There were no apparent prospects today of any speedy settlement of the difficulties.

Industrial Development

A meeting of the property owners in the First and Broken Front Concessions of the Township of Sidney, west of the Belleville Cemetery, will be held at the Bayside School House on Saturday evening, July 26th, 1919, at 8 o'clock, Standard Time, to consider a proposition for a big industrial development in this section. Every owner please attend.

GERMANY GIVING UP STOLEN MACHINERY

BRUSSELS, July 22.—The work of recovering stolen Belgian machinery from Germany is proceeding with full swing. Approximately 3,000 tons of machinery are being shipped back weekly, to the original owners by German industrial firms, who had set them up in their own factories. The total tonnage returned on July 1, was 18,000.

The Belgian Government will this week issue regulations governing trade with the Germans. Every transaction will require a license, and importers and exporters will be obliged to submit specifications, prices and other details. Subject to this control trade will generally be free except the exportation of gold, platinum, arms and munitions. Importations of raw materials from Germany will be encouraged and the importation of finished products, not directly competing with Belgian industries, will be permitted.

Music and Drama

Vivian Martin's latest picture, "The Heart of Girlie," which is being shown at Griffin's to-night, is a delightful photoplay. A very funny Mack Sennett comedy, a new Mutt and Jeff cartoon and "The Raid" a thrilling Western story with Neal Hart in the stellar role are also being shown on the same program.

"FRITZI" PLAYS WITH "BILL"

Fritzi Brunette, the midnight-eyed beauty who is William Russell's leading lady in his latest picture, "A Sporting Chance" which is being shown at the Palace to-night says she is only just beginning to live down the nickname of "Georgia Cracker." This uncouth label was pasted upon her when she first entered picturedom some years ago, because of the broad dialect that folks are born and educated in Savannah come by naturally. Since then she explained with bubby Bob Daly—who is a Bostonian of the Bostonians—has virtually eliminated the "Ya'll" from her vocabularly. Miss Brunette's beauty is as dusky as her name suggests, and in her role of "Gilberte Bonheur" the only woman figuring in the cast of "A Sporting Chance" she said to be more exquisitely charming than ever.

"VICKY VAN" AT GRIFFIN'S

Who, that loves a detective story, is unfamiliar with that famous character created by Carolyn Wells, the American Sherlock Holmes, and hero of many of her novels—Stone. He will be seen in the flesh in "Vicky Van," Paramount's screen version of one of Miss Well's latest novels, in which beautiful Ethel Clayton is the star, and which will be shown at Griffin's for the week-end, with a matinee Saturday. Ethel Clayton will be seen in the name part, a sort of dual role. She is in reality Ruth Schyler, wife of a wealthy man old enough to be her father. With a legacy of her own, to escape the hateful monotony of her married life, she assumes a different name "Victoria Van Allen" and disguising herself, holds weekly bohemian parties in an adjoining house she has purchased. Her husband discovers the game and abuses her. He is later found dead—there enters the mystery, who killed him. Many are suspected and then Stone enters. "Vicky Van" is a modern detective story with all the attendant thrills of a narrative of that description. It will appeal to all who like a romance with a touch of mystery and much suspense. Miss Cayton is supported by a fine cast her leading man being Emory Johnson. Charlie Chaplin appears on the same program in a new 2-act gloom chaser the British News and a thrilling Western picture are also announced for presentation.

"A PAIR OF SILK STOCKINGS" AT THE PALACE THEATRE

The many Belleville admirers of Constance Talmage will no doubt be in evidence at the Palace for the week end where she is appearing in an elaborate 6-act picturization of the brilliant novel and stage success. "A Pair of Silk Stockings" besides the above delightful comedy, the 4th chapter of the smashing serial of circus life "The Lure of the Circus" will also be presentd.

Duluth Woman Gains 15 Pounds She Says

Tanlac Made Mrs. Norman Well Two Years Ago—Good Health Continued, She States.

"Although it has been two years now since Tanlac relieved me of my suffering and built me up so wonderfully every day is still a well day for me," was the statement made by Mrs. Liddia Norman, Route 4, Box 242, Duluth, Minn., while in Abbett & Company's drug store, recently.

"For three years," she continued, "I had suffered agonies with rheumatism all over my body. My feet were so swollen I could hardly get my shoes on, I had to wear gloves to keep down the swelling in my hands as much as possible. I was in so much pain that I was all bent over and had to use a cane in order to get about. My stomach was in a very bad condition, too and what I would eat seemed to lump up badly and lay in the pit of my stomach and ferment. I would belch up terribly with gas and have such depressed feelings in my chest and around my heart that it was difficult for me to get my breath. My appetite was very poor—there were many times I couldn't eat at all—and at times I was very dizzy. I couldn't get any sound sleep had fallen off a great deal in weight and just felt miserable most all the time.

"When I read and heard so much about Tanlac, I made up my mind to try it and it was the wisest decision I ever made. By the time I had finished my third bottle I discarded my cane, and could eat what I wanted without the least trouble afterwards. After taking five bottles the rheumatism was gone entirely and I could walk as well as I ever could, and I also found I had gained fifteen pounds in weight. Well I haven't had an ache or a pain to this good day and I still eat and sleep like a child and feel fine all the time. I have related my experience with Tanlac many times and am willing to keep on telling it as long as I can help other people in their suffering. I am getting a bottle of Tanlac now just to take as a Spring tonic and I know what I say in this statement will start many others on the road to health."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

EX-CONVICT OF "PEN" ESCAPED FROM ASYLUM

KINGSTON, July 22—Joseph Chartrand, an inmate of Hamilton Asylum, made his escape from that institution several days ago, and is still at large. Chartrand's case was serious, and two guards were looking after him. One of them he escaped during the night. After sawing his way through several thick bars, he left the institution, wrapped only in a blanket, but stole some clothes from a nearby residence.

Chartrand was for some years in the Portsmouth Penitentiary, but a few years ago he startled the officials of the penitentiary by sawing through the bars of his cell, and escaping through the wall. He was later caught before he got many miles away. He was transferred some time ago to the Hamilton Asylum.

Chartrand was sent to the penitentiary for killing a police officer at Copper Cliffe.

London Officer Makes Big Catch

Grand Trunk Dish Washer Had 380 Quart Bottles of Liquor.

LONDON, Ont., July 22.—Jules Kennedy, a colored dish washer on a Grand Trunk dining-car, was fined $500 with the option of spending four months in the jail when he was convicted by Deputy Police Magistrate Bartlett of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

Kennedy's consignment of 380 quart bottles of Walker's and Seagram's whiskey valued at $2,000 at bootlegger's prices was confiscated. Kennedy claimed that he would have received $30 a case or $1,000 for it.

The arrest was made by Policeman Charles Reick, several hours after the dining car had reached the city on the 9.30 express from Montreal. The officer while on his beat in the vicinity of Burwell street, noticed several men acting in a suspicious manner. He walked around the block so as to avoid attracting their attention and found himself an observation post in a coal yard. Soon afterward an automobile raced up to the railway and stopped abruptly. The group of men suddenly became extremely active carrying boxes and bags to the waiting machine. The officer rushed out, but the car sped away in the darkness. He overhauled Kennedy however, and attempted to handcuff him. The negro put up a desperate fight, but he was finally clubbed into submission, and with the 380 remaining bottles was taken to Carling Street Police Station This is the largest consignment of liquor confiscated in London since the Ontario Temperance Act came into operation.

"HARDBOILED" SMITH GETS A TRIMMING

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Lieut. "Hardboiled" Smith was beaten nearly to death when he arrived as a prisoner at Fort Jay a few days ago, according to a statement made by Representative Dallinger, chairman of the subcommittee which has been investigating the treatment of prisoners in American army camps in France. Other prisoners at Fort Jay, who accused Smith of maltreating them, leaped upon the former officer before the guards could restrain them and he is now in a hospital.

In the statement Mr. Dallinger asserted that other witnesses would be called to prove that a Lt. Mason, another officer in charge of camps, "clubbed prisoners, robbed them, and stole their money, yet his sentence was nothing more than a dishonorable discharge. Commenting that the first sentence imposed upon Lieut. "Hardboiled" Smith was a dishonorable discharge, Mr. Dallinger sarcastically inquires:

"Why didn't the court have him slapped on the wrist?"

Only 77 hours were consumed by the congressional committee in ascertaining that "awful cruelties" had been practised upon the prisoners, says Mr. Dallinger, and adds that it would have taken the war department 77 years to accomplish this disclosure. Regarding Smith the statement says:

"Hardboiled" Smith arrived at Fort Jay, N.Y., the other day, and was almost at once seen by some of his victims there serving sentence. He was recognized by them, and before the guards arrived he was beaten to a pulp and I believe he is now in the hospital recovering from a punishment meted out to him by those very men whom he had himself tortured. It is thus that man takes the law into his own hands when the courts fail."

OPTOMETRISTS MEET.

Rochester, N.Y., July 22.—With upwards of 1,000 delegates present from all parts of Canada and the United States, as well as from Havana, Cuba, and one from China, the American Optometrist Association opened its 22nd annual convention here today. The morning was devoted to annual reports and consideration of the revision of the constitution. A resolution was adopted on the death of Sir William Crookes, the eminent British scientist, which occurred within the year.

This afternoon the congress gave its attention to educational material to be utilized by the bureau of public information in a national campaign to be begun in the near future.

GRAND TRUNK CARMEN DEFER STRIKE ACTION

London, Ont., July 22.—Members of the Brotherhood of Carmen employed on the Canadian lines of the Grand Trunk have decided to defer action on their recent strike decision, according to an announcement made by their spokesman, Joseph Corbett of London. Mr. Corbett states that the Canadian War Labor Board is reputed to be prepared to adopt the forthcoming wage award of W. D. Hines, Director-General of American Railways. In the event of the award proving satisfactory to the men, the strike menace will be removed. The Brotherhood asserts, however, that only a brief delay will be tolerated, and that the vote to defer action is based on the specific understanding that the new Hines award will be available within a few days.

"Hellhounds And Snakes" Cries Gentleman From Mississippi

DENOUNCING REPUBLICAN SENATORS FOR TRYING TO MAKE PARTY QUESTION OF PEACE TREATY AND LEAGUE OF NATIONS—AFRAID OF WILSON'S POPULARITY.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Comparing Senators who opposed the League of Nations to "hellhounds" and "snakes," Senator Harrison, Mississippi, yesterday delivered a fiery attack on them in a speech in the Senate.

Harrison dared Republican opponents of the league to make American withdrawal from it the issue in the 1920 campaign.

"If you do," he predicted, "you will hear the voice of the people. Republican hopes will be forever shattered and your party ignominously defeated."

He declared opposition to the league is based, first, on jealousy of the great prestige attained by President Wilson, and, next, on the fact that munitions makers in States represented by anti-league Senators, that disarmament under the league will cut off their profits.

"Nothing has been left undone by you," he charged, addressing the Senate Republicans, "to have Colonel Roosevelt write over the conference door at Versailles. Your action is only comparable to the conduct of the notorious hellhounds Milton stationed at the infernal gates.

"Never before in the discussion of a great national question has deception been so lavishly practised and misrepresentation so generously employed. Every alluring piece of sophistry that oratory could command, every cunning device that politicians could conjure, have been advanced by the opponents of the League here that in the country reason might be dethroned and prejudice aroused.

"When opposition to international policies such as will make for the peace and happiness of mankind is founded on rank partisanship and personal dislike—aye, merely to shatter the popularity or retard the growing ascendancy of a partisan individual—it is worse than Bolshevism done wild. The treaty that is now before the Senate for ratification is here not because of any loyalty of party—but I mean the Republican leadership of this body."

Harrison assailed in turn Senators Borah, Lodge and Knox, and Will Hayes, chairman of the Republican National Committee. They have concentrated "mud batteries" against the league, he said. He charged them with responsibility for China's failure to sign the peace treaty, for widening the breach between the United States and Japan, and for trying to arouse the Irish in this country.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely harmless, is very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt, and dandruff.

Enterprize Shown By Organized Labor

A large new building is being erected in Washington D.C., for the headquarters of the International Association of Machinists and the Machinists' Journal speaks of the new structure as follows:

The tremendous growth in membership of the organization during the past few years has continually increased the work of the Grand Lodge, and makes more room necessary. In fact, the Executive work has been hampered and delayed as a result of limited office space. No more room could be secured in the American Federation of Labor Building. Consequently, the work of the Grand Lodge has had to continue under these disadvantages. Therefore, upon the completion of this new building it will help to give us a more efficient service between our three hundred and twenty thousand members, represented by over three hundred local lodges and one hundred district lodges, all of which have considerable routine, as well as special business to do with our Grand Lodge.

This building will be on a corner lot; in fact, it is one of the very best locations in the City of Washington, directly opposite the A. F. of L. Building, which will make it convenient for all our work with the other organizations located here. It will be a modern, seven-story building, up to date in every way. The sixth and seventh floors will be entirely occupied by the International Association of Machinists. The other floors will be rented which will bring in a good return on the money invested. Already the demand for office room in our new building is evidence that all space for rent will be taken before the building is ready to occupy.

The ground was broken and the steam shovel started excavating July 8, 1919. The steel girders are now day by day being swung into place. In fact, the Contractors agree to have the building ready to occupy by October 1. The date for the laying of the corner-stone has not as yet been definitely decided. It will, however, probably be some time during the month of July. Special attention will be given the plans for this demonstration; invitations will be sent to representatives of the other organizations as well as our own. The Executive Board ordered the suggestion that Brother Mark Riley, a Charter Member of Atlanta, Georgia, Lodge No. 1, organized May 5, 1888, and who has been in continuous good standing those thirty-one years, a member of Manchester, Georgia, Lodge 610, be brought to the Building. The presence of Brother Riley will be a fine expression of our thirty-one years of consistent and determined growth.

The remarkable success of all organized groups in society today is moreor less determined by their unity of purpose. Numbers alone will not bring success. Working together surely are the overwhelming majority but as yet they are not united in purpose. Our success with the problems which we will be compelled to meet from time to time as machinists will depend upon how closely we unite. As a group. Those with whom we must work out wage agreements, hours and general working conditions will respect any heed our demands to the degree that we as machinists pull together.

The realization of this building will mark another step forward in our determined policy to stand on our own feet,ready to meet any and every problem confronting our organization and our members.

SIX-WORD WILL FILED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 22—A will of six words scribbled hastily on the margin of a daily market report four minutes before the testator died, was filed in the Surrogate Court. The writer was Alexander William Waters, general agent of the American Fruit Exchange. With the words: "All I have belongs to Zulma," he left his $200,000 estate to Zulma Powell, his housekeeper.

Mr. Waters had just reached his office when he realised death was near. He reached for the nearest piece of paper—a market report—scribbled the six words and obtained the signature before he died.

10,000 Dependents To Be Returned

OTTAWA, July 23—The majority of Canadian soldiers' dependents now in Great Britain during the war have been returned to Canada, states Col. Obed Smith, Canadian Commissioner of Immigration in England Twenty-seven thousand women and children were sent home to the Dominion before the signing of the armistice with total loss of life, despite the submarine activities of the Germans. Since the armistice 15,000 women and children have been returned to Canada. Some 10,000 dependents of Canadian soldiers, mostly the families of men who have been employed in the munitions factories, remain yet to be brought home. Col. Smith has been in charge of the women and children's section of the demobilization branch in England. He says that great improvements have been made in the system of assembling, embarking and accommodating soldiers' dependents returning to the Dominion.

Colonel Smith says that at the Canadian Immigration Office in London preference is being given returning from people in the British Isles, particularly discharged British soldiers with families, who contemplate coming to Canada. Until all the Canadian troops and their dependents have been returned to the Dominion, however, no general encouragement will be given to immigrants to undertake an immediate move to this country. The British Government, Colonel Smith states has agreed to submit all applications for passports for Canada to the Canadian authorities. This departure gives to the Canadian immigration officials an opportunity to pass up on persons proposing to settle in Canada and also to control the influx of aliens and city dwellers into the country.

Colonel Smith is making his first visit to Canada for several years. He will confer with Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization today, and will leave for Winnipeg on Thursday.

RED SOX VS. TIGERS

Last night a very good game of baseball took place on the St. School grounds, between two Y.M.C.A. city junior league teams, namely the Red Sox and Tigers. It was mainly seen that the Red Sox could put it over their rivals even if they were only playing six men and the Tigers nine, At the first inn. each team batted and score was 12 to 10 in favor of the Tigers. Then the famous six came to bat and the score went up to 12—12. The line-up:

Red Sox—C. M. Latchford, W. Cretney, F. Miles, T. Wrightmyer, B. Joss, J. Lee, G. Ashley.

Tigers—Ashley, Hunter, Stork, Barrage, Low, Kemp, Bushart, McConchie Jeffrey.

DEMPSEY'S TRAINER WILL GET "TED" LEWIS READY

Ted Lewis, the former welterweight champion, who is to meet Jack Britton, the present little-holder, at Jersey City on July 28, will put himself in the care of Jimmy Forrest, the trainer who prepared Jack Dempsey for his battle with Jess Willard.

Britton, too, has decided that the good old country air will do him a lot of good, so the first of next week he will hie to Rye Beach, where he has conditioned himself for all his important bouts.

Britton and Lewis each posted $1,000 yesterday as a side bet, resulting. It is said, from a chance meeting on the street. The verbal battle about the probable result of the coming bout

WANT DEMPSEY TO GO ABROAD

NEW YORK, July 23.—From an authoritative source abroad it was learned that Georges Carpentier and Joe Beckett, scheduled to box twenty rounds for the European heavyweight championship in London on September 2, have signed with Promotor Cochran, of the London Sportsmen's Club, the winner to meet Jack Dempsey, providing the latter accepts Cochran's offer of $125,000 for the championship of the world, to be held in London on October 2 next.

Cochran's representative George McDonald, will visit these stores very shortly, it is reported, and, unless Dempsey's manager is successful in his effort to induce Jack Dempsey to accept this lucrative match. An announcement was made by Promoter Tex Rickard at Chicago, was to the effect that he would meet the winner of that bout, but that the said contest would have to be staged on American soil.

JACK JOHNSON IN BOUT WITH FLYNN

BOSTON, July 23.—Announcement has been made that Jack Johnson, former heavyweight boxing champion, who is exiled from this country, will box Dan (Porky) Flynn of Boston at Monterey, Mexico, next Sunday. The report comes from Galveston, Tex as, and is to the effect that the Chicago negro has reconsidered his determination to quit the ring forever.

Since Johnson fled from the United States he has been shunned in England, France and Spain, and has finally landed in Mexico. Monterey, where the bout will take place, is the capital of the State of Nuevo Leon.

PROMOTER "SNOWY" BAKER

DIES IN LOS ANGELES AT 200

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Mrs. "Snowy" Baker, wife of the Australian sport promoter, called on Jack Dempsey's world's champion heavyweight boxer, and Jack Kearns, his manager, and offered Dempsey $100,000 to stage his next bout at Sydney, Australia. The offer was confirmed in a cablegram from Baker. Kearns told Mrs. Baker he could not give a definite answer at this time, as he had a similar offer from Paris and was waiting for developments in that matter.

BENEFIT BALL GAME

George Brown, well-known known as "Shorty" a well-known and popular baseball player who lost a leg in Trenton in a railway accident will be tendered a benefit by his many friends in the shape of a baseball match between the G.T.R. and Ontario teams, leaders in the Central Ontario League and Bay of Quinte League respectively. This was decided upon last evening, at a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. building. The game will be a twilight one held on Friday, August 1, at Agricultural Park, Belleville. A committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. W. Thompson, Gerald Lynch, Walter Gerow, R. Logan, John Fahey, Herb Holland, Chas. Hawkins (Trent), R. Collins (Sec.) to perfect arrangements for the game. Another meeting will be held Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. A. when all those who will ball players and citizens interested are invited.

THE NEW CENTRAL FIRE STATION.

While the City Council by a small majority voted to erect a new central fire hall to consolidate under one roof the entire city fire department, it is not generally anticipated that building operations will begin this year. In fact the action of the City Council is regarded more as a try-out to ascertain public opinion on the question. Thus far no detailed plans or definite estimates have been presented as to site and expense involved and this surely is necessary before any final action is taken in the matter. In the meantime the proposal to erect a new central fire hall is the subject of general discussion by the ratepayers, with various shades of opinion being expressed. A representative of the Underwriters Association who recently visited the city recommended a site on the city property known as Fire Hall Park, at the entrance to Victoria Park, in preference to the site originally selected and cleared for the purpose between Victoria Avenue and Mill street.

Objection is taken to the Fire Hall park site in that it would cut off the view of the harbor and deprive the citizens of a portion at least of a pleasant recreation area very popular as an outing spot in summer weather. While the view of the harbor from Victoria Park would not be disturbed it might be argued that an attractive building on the site suggested would shut out the view of the unattractive railway bridge without messing up the scenery to any great extent, but if the citizens are to be deprived of any park space the necessity must be great to compensate for the loss.

Without definite plans and detailed estimates of cost discussion of the subject must of necessity be more or less vague and the City Council should furnish the ratepayers with these before any definite action is taken.

It would seem as if the question of a modern fire alarm system should be considered before any action is taken upon the matter of erecting a new central fire station. The city has thus far been very fortunate in the matter of fires and the obsolete fire alarm system has answered the purpose, in a way, but why wait for a calamity before providing a means to quickly notify the department that their services are required?

The most important phase of the fire protection is the question of insurance rates and large property holders are puzzled over the apparent fact that the more improvements made, at the suggestion of the Fire Underwriters Association to the city fire protection facilities the higher the rates for insurance go. Last year the largest increase in fire insurance rates yet made was imposed in the face of the installation of new electric pumps of the most modern design at large expense.

Underwriters should be held with representatives of the Fire Underwriters Association and definite assurance secured, if possible, of a substantial reduction in rates co-incident with improvements made in local fire protection facilities. The fire loss average in Belleville must be very low judging from the few large conflagrations and efficiency of the fire department and the revision of rates should be downward instead of upward.

As there seems to be a decided difference of opinion among the ratepayers as to the whole question of a new central fire station the Council should go slow and first submit detailed plans and estimates, but first of all should endeavor to reach some understanding with the underwriters as to the possibility of securing lower rates.

CHEESE MEN AGAINST PRICE FIXING.

A delegation from the British Government will come to Canada to confer with the Canadian Government upon the question of fixing a price for cheese. Newspaper articles enamanating from Ottawa strive to give the impression that the drop in the price of cheese was occasioned by the lapse of Government regulations which fixed the price. Local cheese men say that Government price fixing is not desired by the trade and the present lower price of cheese is affected by the sagging of British exchange, coupled with low priced cheese from the Antipodes. The Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade has passed a resolution protesting against any further government price fixing of cheese and declaring a free market. A veteran cheese buyer of Belleville in conversation with an Intelligencer representative condemns the proposition to again fix the price of cheese and states that all the trade desires is to be left alone and permitted to deal in an open market.

OTHER VIEWS

Peace Signing Changes Nothing.

Journal of Commerce.

There is no new situation respecting Canada's relation to Imperial politics. There is no new constitutional position respecting Canada's participation in war. When England is at war, Canada is at war. That was the situation ever since Canada was a part of the British Empire. That is the situation today. But while it is important enough that when England was at war Canada was at war, for a great many years the position has been that only Canada, through her Parliament, could determine the extent to which Canada would participate in war.

Divorce in Canada.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

By a non-partisan vote the House of Commons has expressed itself in favor of the establishment of divorce courts in provinces where they do not already exist, thus relieving the Benedicts of the necessity of a growing burden. In the minds of many people such a change is long overdue. If divorce is to be recognized at all the way should be open to all. Under existing conditions the way is closed to the poor.

Should Know Better.

Edmonton Bulletin.

As between the English-speaking Bolshevik leaders and their non-English-speaking colleagues, the former, if there was conspiracy, deserve a good deal less consideration than the latter. They know better and they have a standing which makes them dangerous. The alien born agitator may be only the half-baked product of tyranny, rather than an intelligent deliberate rascal. Whatever happens to the alien-born Bolshevik, something infinitely worse ought to happen to his English-speaking fellow conspirator, if this country is to be made safe for democracy.

Eighty Strikes In June.

Ottawa Journal.

Eighty strikes in Canada in the month of June is the record vouched for by the Labor Gazette. Some of them were of large dimensions, with proportionate industrial loss to the country. The loss by the Winnipeg general strike alone mounted into the millions. Sooner or later all these loss causes higher cost of living to everybody; sooner or later a continuance of such loss is going to be felt in severe business depression.

Who Won the War?

New York Herald.

Who won the war? The millions who lie sleeping in the soil of France; the millions who, dead or living, contributed their part to the conflict; Americans, French, British, Canadians, Italians, Belgians, Japanese, Serbs, Roumanians, Australians, patriotic Russians—all who gave their courage and strength to the cause of human liberty. History will generously give praise to the Allies and their associates. All "won the war."

"I don't like your heart action," the doctor said, applying the stethoscope again. "You must have had some trouble with angina pectoris."

"You're partly right, doctor," said the young man sheepishly; "only that ain't her name."

Author Too Particular.

The Star: "The author of this play is a great stickler for realism."

The Manager: "I haven't noticed it."

The Star: "Why, he objects to my wearing diamond rings in the scene where I pawn my hat to buy food for the children."

Cheap Bargains.

"My husband has the queerest ideas of economy."

"Indeed?"

"Why he actually seems to think I could save money by staying away from the spring bargain sales."

The Only Help.

When the railroads were tied up with the worst glut in history, one severe winter, one train was fifty-seven hours late, and a passenger became wearied.

"Get me something so I can figure out when I'll get to New York," he said to the colored porter.

"Yes, sah, I'll get you a time-table, sah," replied the porter.

"Time-table? Time-table? Thunder, no! What I want is a calendar."

Hard for Chaos.

The wholesale grocer was carefully explaining matters to the commercial traveler whom he had recently engaged, and the C.T. was making himself as nice as he could.

"Mr. Binks," said the boss, "your predecessor was not up to his job. His affairs were all tangled up. He was a muddler."

"Yes, sir," replied the new hand meekly, as though he was sorry, but couldn't help it.

"That being the case, Mr. Binks," said the wholesaler pompously, "it is up to you to get order out of chaos."

For a moment the commercial traveller looked puzzled, then a beatific smile spread itself across his countenance.

"Sir," said he, eagerly, "I don't happen to know Mr. Chaos, but I'll get an order out of him if I have to go and live with him."

The Poet's Corner

THE JULY GARDEN

It's July in my garden, and steel-blue are the globe thistles
And French grey the willows that bow to every breeze;
And deep in every current bush a robin's blackbird lurks and whistles, "I'm picking, I'm picking, I'm picking these."

So off I go to rout them, and find instead I'm gazing
At clusters of delphiniums—the seed I sowed in the spring.
But these are spurs that fell from the Muses and caught the most amazing
Colors of the welkin's own as they came hurtling down.

And then some roses catch my eye, or maybe some Sweet Williams,
Or pink Canterbury bells, and purple peals of Canterbury bells,
Or pencilled violas that peep between the three-leaf trifoliums
Or red-hot pokers all aglow or popping with honey bees.

And while I stare at each in turn I The blackbirds—and the blackguards!—
Have got to keep robbing me of pie;
For what do songs and such matter when I have so fair a garden,
And what is July without July?

—E. E. Vernede.

War Made Men Read.

An overseas padre speaking on books for soldiers, says: "Men are now reading who have read before in their lives." That is quite true. Others are finding books they never considered before and may never consider again. The variety of titles in the C. E. F. libraries has doubtless grown in the last two years, but in a few cases there are lines of demand. Fly Life of Heinrich Heine," "Four-Fold Weeks in Astronomy," "Recollections of Mansfield Park," "Essays, 'Education and the Higher Life,'" "Poems of Love," "Life of Alfred and 'Henry the Eighth and His Six Wives." The last was quite a favorite popular book in the collection, but the soldiers complained pretty generally that it did not live up to expectations.

While I was looking over the shelf the champion heavyweight boxer in a Company came in and took a small red volume. He had rather self-conscious air and I asked him whether he liked the book.

"Well, yes and no," he said, judicially.

"What is it?" I persisted, as he continued to look the book tightly locked under one arm.

"It's called 'When Patty Went to College,'" he answered defiantly."

Sockeye Salmon.

The waters in which the sockeye salmon are taken includes the Fraser river and Puget Sound in both Canada and the United States. In 1917 the pack amounted to 148,164 cases in Canada and 411,122 in the United States. There are at one time forty canneries on the Fraser river and Puget Sound. The shortage is attributed to the building of a dam on Quesnel lake in 1913 without the proper provisions to ascend the river; the rock slide on Hell's Gate in 1914, which prevented the salmon from reaching Stuart lake and Babine lake, and the failure of Washington and British Columbia to adopt protective laws.

The Sockeye Commission is now for the preservation of the sockeye salmon of Fraser river and Puget Sound. A treaty for the protection of the fish has been signed by the United States Bureau of Fisheries and adopted by the authorities of British Columbia and the State of Washington. Regulations were then drawn up by the American-Canadian Fisheries conference in Seattle in April.

Ironing by Power.

What publicly owned or operated Hydro-electric power is doing for the homes of Ontario was graphically illustrated at a recent meeting of the Electrical Development Commissioners in Guelph. The monthly report presented explained that the peak load for Monday, occurring at 10 o'clock and of Tuesday, the 10th, when 2,782 kilowatts were required, was due to the fact that it was "ironing day," and the housewives were busy using heavily on the electrical energy. The exceptional calls for power had come to hours. By keeping them in pen Guelph's eittens.

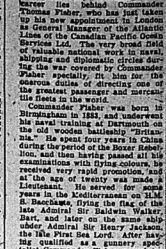

Primitive Football.

Football is a favored sport of English-speaking peoples. The first football of Canada, however, in the shakes primitive form, consisted of scrimmages and contestants sometimes numbered hundreds of men, women, and children—one whole village, perhaps, pitted against another. The ball was the head of a cow, if such as possible, and the game lasts until one side gave in from fatigue.

Time Lost In Disputes.

The time lost on account of industrial disputes in Canada during April was much greater than during either March, 1916, or April, 1915. There were ten instances during the month 37 strikes, involving 12,416 workpeople and resulting in a time loss of 111,683. Twenty-seven strikes were reported as being commenced during April. At the end of the month 14 of these, affecting approximately 1815 workpeople remained unterminated.

Naval Officer As C.P.O.S. Manager

Commander Thomas Fisher, R.N., General Manager of Atlantic Lines, C. P. O. S.

A particularly interesting naval career lies behind Commander Thomas Fisher, who has just taken up his new appointment in London as General Manager of the Atlantic Lines of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services Ltd. The very broad field of valuable naval work in naval, shipping and diplomatic circles during the war covered by Commander Fisher specially, the many and momentous duties of directing one of the greatest passenger and commercial fleets in the world.

Commander Fisher was born in Birmingham in 1881, and underwent his naval training at Dartmouth on the old wooden battleship "Britannia." He spent four years in China during the period of the Boxer rebellion, and then having passed all his examinations with flying colours, he received very rapid promotion, and at the age of twenty was made a Lieutenant. He served for seven years in the Mediterranean on H.M.S. Bacchante, flying the flag of the late Admiral Sir Baldwin Walker, Bart., and later on the same ship under Admiral Sir Henry Jackson, the late First Sea Lord. After having qualified as a gunnery specialist Commander Fisher served for a short time on the staff of the Director of Target Practice. Later he joined H.M.S. Dreadnought as Gunnery Officer and when in 1912 Mr. Winston Churchill introduced staff training into the Navy Commander Fisher was one of the first batch of officers to be selected. In due course, ultimately being selected to remain on as a lecturer at the Naval College at Portsmouth. When war broke out he went to sea with the Grand Fleet as Gunnery Officer to the president of the War College, as Flag Commander, in the Battleship Iron Duke. He was associated here with the important work of safeguarding the passage of the Expeditionary Force to France, and was present at the landing of the Royal Naval Division at Ostend in September, 1914. When the enemy's attack on Calais in the winter of 1914 he joined the Trade Division of the Naval Staff at the Admiralty and was there in charge of that part of the organization set up to deal with questions relating to neutral shipping. These were the early days of the Blockade and neutral steamers were doing their best to evade the British patrols and carry supplies to Germany via neutral ports. Commander Fisher took a prominent part in devising and carrying out the system of supervising the movements of neutral ports. Commander Fisher took a prominent part in devising and carrying out the system of supervising the movements of neutral ports. Commander Fisher became in charge of the Contraband Control Department, and in the arduous task of the cruisers employed on blockade duty, because it was one of the conditions that all neutral ships suspected of carrying contraband to Germany should call voluntarily for examination at a British port.

In the early days of the war Commander Fisher's services in this matter have recently been recognized by the award of a C.B.E.

In 1916 he was employed as technical representative in the various negotiations for the use of neutral shipping by the Allies. This work was of vital importance to France and Italy and indirectly to this country also, in maintaining supplies during the most difficult part of the war. Incidentally, Commander Fisher gathered a valuable knowledge of the shipping interests of Europe.

During this period Commander Fisher served on various Government Committees dealing with commercial and shipping matters, including among others the Coal Exports Committee presided over by Sir Douglas Owen and the Board of Control Committee for the Conservation of Coal, presided over by Sir Maurice Marwood. It is not without interest that the latter Committee, on the motion by Commander Fisher, supported by Sir Richard Redmayne, passed a resolution which ultimately led to the introduction of the Daylight Saving Bill by the then Home Secretary, Mr. Herbert Samuel.

In the summer of 1917, soon after the United States came into the war, a liaison officer was appointed to the British Mission dealing with shipping with the American shipping board. Sir Thomas Rogers was first chosen for this important post and he was followed by Commander Fisher, who filled this difficult and responsible position with marked success.

Other C.P.O.S. Officials.

Following the appointment of Commander Fisher, R.N., as General Manager of Atlantic Lines, with Head Office at 62 Waterloo Place, London, it is now announced that the other principal officials of the Company in Europe, some of whose appointments have already been intimated, are as follows:

Mr. J. A. Martin, Manager, Royal Liver Building, Liverpool.

Mr. J. V. Forster, C.B.E., Assistant Manager, Royal Liver Building, Liverpool.

Mr. E. T. Stebbing, Passenger Manager, Royal Liver Building, Liverpool.

Mr. A. H. Allan, Freight Manager, Royal Liver Building, Liverpool.

Mr. Frederick Brocklesby, Accountant, Royal Liver Building, Liverpool.

A Great Shipping Record

The 18,000 ton C. P. O. S. Liner "Empress of France."

At the outbreak of war the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Ltd., had in commission in the Atlantic and Pacific services thirty-eight steamships, with an aggregate gross tonnage of 241,299 tons. Since August, 1914, the construction of four steamships, previously authorized, having a gross tonnage of 67,000 tons, has been completed, and twelve steamships of 76,000 gross tons have been purchased within the same period. During the war fifteen steamships were lost by enemy action or through accidents at sea, and eight have been sold to the British Government after having been requisitioned, and one sold to the Canadian Prince who later presented it to the British Government for use as a hospital ship. The construction is being proceeded with at the Clyde yards of the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, of a ship 635 feet long between perpendiculars, having a gross tonnage of 22,000 tons. This ship will be known as the Empress of Canada. Three passenger ships of the intermediate class for the Atlantic service are to be put under construction at the yards of John Brown & Son, and the Fairfield Shipbuilding Company. At the end of the last fiscal year the company had in ocean service twenty-eight steamships, of a gross tonnage of 264,420 tons, and six steamships under order or purchased but not delivered, having a gross tonnage of about 85,000.

The steamships lost through enemy action were the following:—

Calgarian, 17,515 gross tons; Carthaginian, 4,444 tons; Ionian, 8,268 tons; Hesperian, 10,507 tons; Lake Michigan, 9,388 tons; Milwaukee 7,322 tons; Montcalm, 8,646 tons; Mount Temple, 9,792 tons; Montfort, 6,518 tons; Missanabie, 12,469 tons; Megantic, 14,878 tons; Minnie, 4,938 tons; Pomeranian, 4,421 tons.

The ships lost through accidents at sea were: the Corinthian, 7,333 tons; Lake Manitoba, 9,674 tons.

The eight steamships sold to the British Government were the Montreal, 8,360 tons; Montcalm, 8,500 tons; Montrose, 7,207 tons; Mount Temple, 9,792 tons; Missanabie, 4,338 tons; Numidian, 4,836 tons; Ruthenian, 8,598; Tyrolia, 7,988 tons. The S.S. Empress of India was purchased by the Prince Princess and presented to the British Government for use as a hospital ship. Her gross tonnage is 5,954. The last tonnage lost through enemy action and other causes is 124,852, and the tonnage sold is 59,471, a grand total of 184,323 gross tons.

Ships purchased during the war are as follows:—

Botsford, 2,782 tons; Dunbridge, 6,650 tons; Holbrook, 6,656 tons; Masterman, 5,023 tons; Montcalm, 6,542 tons; Medora, 5,336 tons; Matawin, 4,574 tons; Minnie, 4,938 tons; Montrose, 7,207 tons; Mount Temple, 9,792 tons; Warkworth, 4,622 tons; War Beryl, 10,200 tons; War Peridot, 10,200 tons. Vessels built and added to the fleet during the year: Metagama, 12,469 tons; Metagama, 12,420 tons; Metis, 12,277 tons; Minnedosa, 14,367 tons.

PICTORIAL HISTORY OF THE WAR

One of the natural results of the war has been a flood of books dealing with various aspects of the great conflict in the way of fiction founded upon it, of much factless fiction, and some historical publications of more or less merit. One of the most valuable works yet published "The Pictorial History of the Great War" and consists of a popular and pictorial narrative of the great war in one volume profusely illustrated with a number of photographs showing various phases of the most stupendous clash of arms which has ever occurred the world. The work sketches the immediate events leading up the declaration of war and continues with a very readable narrative of the outstanding events and results which marked the conflict. Large type is used and the book is well printed on good paper, with excellent binding, while the pictorial work is of a high order. As a condensed and accurate history of the war essentially for home circles the book is all that is claimed for it, and will be especially valuable as an educational medium to interest the rising generation in a study of the war. Its causes, principal events and effect upon the future history of the world. Canada's war effort as well as that of the United States is given due prominence in the book which is edited by S. J. Duncan Clark, war analyst and special critic of the Toronto Star. The department dealing with Canada's participation in the war is edited by W. S. Wallace, M.A. (Oxon.), Public Major Canadian Infantry and lecturer on history in the University of Toronto.

The book is being introduced in Belleville by Mr. B. Winstide, representative of the John A. Hertel Co., Limited, publishers, of Toronto.

LOON CAUGHT WITH TROLL

IS NOW BEING STUFFED

Catching a loon with a troll was the unique experience of Leo Delisle and "Billy" Austin, of the Government Printing Bureau, while out fishing in Green Mountain Lake, Labelle county, Que., during the week-end.

They were trolling with an "Abbey" spinner, and the loon was swimming and diving about 50 feet away, when the web of one of its feet caught on a hook in the bait.

After a short but strenuous battle the bird was despatched, and is now in the hands of a taxidermist.

It weighed eight pounds and measured 50 inches from tip to tip of its wings, being a magnificent specimen of a male bird.

For Your Convenience

THE saving of the extra steps and extra motions has been shown to be a big thing in the business world. Efficiency engineers at fancy salaries have been hired to study the most convenient ways of getting work done. The biggest industries have proved that convenience pays, and it is the same in the household.

EDDY'S MATCHES & Indurated Fibreware

Grand Trunk Doing Much Work on Its Track Roadbed

In an effort to improve its roadbed and increase the efficiency of the road, the Grand Trunk Railway has a force of 900 men at work on the main line between Brockville and Montreal, laying ballast and new rail. On the sixth district between Brockville and Belleville, there are 170 men engaged in the regular maintenance of way work and in spreading ballast at places where work of this class has not been undertaken for several seasons.

During the war period, the labor shortage made the maintenance of the road a difficult task and much work as done was accomplished chiefly by the regular section gangs. This spring a large number of men were taken on the strength of these gangs and work started putting the tracks in shape to withstand the heavy freight and passenger traffic.

At the commencement of the summer extra gangs were employed and have since been busily engaged in placing much-needed ballast on the road and in laying rail from Montreal West westwards.

Ballast trains are being run daily from two Grand Trunk gravel pits, one located near Renfrew in the township of Horton, and the other at Coaticook, Que., to the scene of operations. The gravel pit at Gladstone, near Prescott, has been found not suitable for this work, the gravel apparently having deteriorated in quality in view of the large quantity which has been taken out, and the long haul from Renfrew and Coaticook has hence become a necessity.

Are Laying New Steel.

On the fifth district, between Brockville and Montreal, the work is in charge of Supervisor of Track J. B. Franklin. Progress is being made on both the laying of rail and the placing of ballast. To date ballast has been placed on both tracks to a point west of Cornwall, while new rail has been laid in position from Montreal West to the eastbound track westward. The steel gangs have been at work only a short time. The strength of the gangs at work on the track between here and the magnolia is 900, accommodation for whom is provided in boarding cars at the different stations.

On the sixth district between Brockville and Belleville, Frank Giffin, supervisor of track, has charge of the work. Instead of ballasting all parts of the line at present, gravel is being laid at those points which appear to be in the most need of it. Stretches of track near Mallorytown, between Rideau and Kingston and at other points have already been covered and further work is in contemplation, all calculated to improve the roadbed and lead to better running conditions. Gravel from both Renfrew and Coaticook is being taken daily to this section and a rapid unloader will shortly be received to facilitate the work. At present the gravel is being discharged from cars usually used for the carriage of coal.

To provide gravel at closer range the Grand Trunk is opening another pit at Port Hope. Ballast from this pit will shortly be laid between Kingston and Belleville.

Men moved swiftly to their posts; orders were hurriedly given and obeyed. Troops were arranged, guns trained, ammunition served out, swords drawn, bows strung, and the whole camp was moving like a hive at dawn. There was plenty of time, for the sounds were yet faint in the distance, but it was better to wait than be surprised. We were determined to be ready when the hour came.

But we had reckoned without our host. While orders were still being shouted, and men still hurrying to and fro, there came a rattling sleet of arrows from the south, and a moment later there was a roar of guns and a rattle of Maxims. Then there was a clash of steel and men were fighting hand to hand. Charles the Red had indeed prepared a rare surprise for Count Guy of Marmorel. He had raised a large force of knights and soldiers, and had managed to throw them against us on the one side where we least expected attack—the one that faced the road to Santa Maria.

In less than twenty minutes great bodies of men dashed up from east and, west, and shortly afterwards the storm broke from the north, and our camp was hemmed in on all sides with a ring of steel.

It is impossible for me to speak of that battle with the accuracy of a historian. In the darkness I saw nothing but the spitting flash of our guns, the occasional flash of a sword, and dark masses of men swaying to and fro in the starlight. I felt nothing but the rap, rap of arrows against my coat of chain mail, and the occasional lurch of a stricken man against my saddle. But my ears had no lack of sounds to fill them. The roar of artillery, the war cries of the knights, the clash of steel, the groans of the wounded, and the thud and crash of blows. It was a deafening pandemonium; but a man can only write of what he sees and for ten minutes, I saw little.

Then the moon rose above the mountains, and I could see that we were completely hemmed in by a great army of men, and that the enemy were breaking like waves over the walls and fighting their way within the very ramparts of our camp, too. In every line each of our guns spoke a long furrow passed through the silvery surface of armed men, closed up again, while the Maxims literally cut down swathes of men and flattened them to the earth as a tornado flattens a field of corn. The carnage was horrible. I know of nothing like it in modern war. Since we had been in the country our guns had taken on a terrible, almost diabolical and terrible effect; but it was reserved for Charles the Red to teach us what work modern artillery can do against great masses of men. I shall never forget that scene in the moonlight. The waves of steel clad men, rushing against the guns, only to be buried back and shattered into mangled heaps of flesh and blood; the ghastly pile of a warm quivering faces; the continuous shrieking of the wounded; and through it all the hot sleet of arrows streaming from every point of the compass on to our devoted heads.

I had little to do, though now and again a few knights broke through the ring of death, cut down our guns and at their posts and heaved their way to where the twin ensigns floated over the centre of the camp. But they never reached their goal. They had passed the guns, but cold steel was waiting for them, and they died like heroes, fighting to the last with sword and revolver, and the battle-axe of another would have beaten the life out of me, if the Lady Percha had not interposed his shield.

The whole affair did not last twenty minutes. No fight could have lasted longer under such assistance as we were butchery. The enemy broke and fled, leaving three-quarters of their number behind them on our lines, a great piles of dead and dying, and the very mountain side was red with freshen blood. The victory was ours, but it was a victory dearly won that with out them the barricade would have been rushed in that sharp and sudden surprise by the enemy in the first brunt of the conflict, sticking to their guns till they fell in the forefront of the battle. Two hundred of them died that night, and when the fight was over there were five rounds left for each gun, and two cuts of cartridges for each knight before the last sound of the agreeing army had died away, Count Guy knighted himself, Captain Phrilanus and Captain Edwards with his own hand and vowed that every one of our men should receive a house, land and tree maintenance by the state till the day of his death.

The enemy were not suffered to disturb us further. The whole long mountain-side was strewn with their dead. A large body of knights and spearmen and archers pursued the fugitives, cutting, slashing, and spearing up to the very edge of the lake. Less than one thousand men reached the shore, and even then the low was dyed with their blood. There were single combats on the slippery surface, and long after our men had retired, the arrows of the archers found many a mark and our rifles made a line of dead up to the very castle walls.

Gillette Safety Razor

The Shaving Service for Every Man Everywhere

NO STROPPING—NO HONING

The Gillette owner knows no discomfort over certain places generally regarded as "awkward"—the sensitive spot below the lip; along the angle of the jaw; and where the beard is growing cross-grain on the tender skin of the neck.

The Gillette Safety Razor shaves the entire beard with complete satisfaction.

The Gillette idea is scientific—it is RIGHT! It realizes the fact that minutely adjusted machinery can hone and strop an edge better than any man can do it by hand, and it puts this principle at the service of any man who invests $5.00 for a lifetime's shaving comfort.

NO STRIKES ALLOWED IN RECONSTRUCTION WORK

BERLIN, July 21.—Allied representatives have told the German delegation under arrest at Versailles, it is reported here in Government circles, that Germany must be prepared to introduce measures for compulsory work, if necessary.

This, it was said, was intended as a means of bringing about prompt execution of the reparation works in Northern France, utilizing troops and a half million civilian laborers.

Officers here said the Allied conference on this matter was conducted in a friendly spirit. These officials agreed that Germany has a problem in her labor troubles.

RICH MAN'S GIFT TO BRITISH GOVERNMENT

London, July 22.—A wealthy man of London who signs himself simply as "J. S. T.," has written to one of the newspapers, declaring his intention to subscribe to the victory loan in the sum of $750,000 and then "turn the bonds back" to the government for immediate cancellation. "Today on the eve of peace," writes J. S. T., "we are faced with another crisis, less obvious, but none the less searching. By a natural reaction, not unlike that which led to the excesses of the restoration after the reign of the Puritans all classes are in danger of being submerged by a wave of extravagance and materialism.

"The wealthy classes know the danger of the present debt. Let them impose upon themselves, each as he is able, a voluntary levy. It should be possible to pass the exchequer within twelve months such a sum as would save the taxpayer fifty million pounds a year. I give one-fifth of my estate as a thank-offering in the firm conviction that never again shall we have such a chance of giving our country that form of help which is so vital at the present moment."

COLD WINTER COMING? COAL WORRY, ANYWAY

Washington, July 22—Urging Congressional investigation of the coal situation, Government officials and coal operators told the House Rules Committee yesterday that a fuel shortage was impending.

"Coal men fear the situation may get away from them, and that prices may rise $5 or $6 a ton," declared C. E. Lesher, of the Geological Survey.

"Their advertising is in hope that this may be averted, for they know that the condition would reflect on them."

Anthracite production since January 1 was 10,000,000 tons less than last year, and bituminous 74,700,000 tons, Lesher said, due to lack of demand.

"The only remedy is for the coming public to lay in supplies now," he said.

Geo. H. Cushing, managing director of the American Wholesale Coal Association, said the coal shortage in the east and northeast during the war would be repeated this winter, adding that its extent would depend on the industrial activity in those sections.

$30,000 FRANCS DAMAGES FOR MURDER OF SERGEANT

BERLIN, July 22.—The German Government has notified Marshal Foch that it will pay the 30,000 francs damages demanded for the family of the French sergeant murdered by Germans at Mannheim, but will refuse to pay the millions francs indemnity asked.

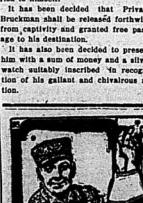

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Such is the statement of Mr. A. O. Norton, of Boston, the largest Rock Manufacturers in the world. His voluntary testimonial regarding ZUTOO follows:

"I have been a sufferer from Headache since childhood and have used all of nearly all the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and have no bad effects. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given Zutoo to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

AMERICAN FISHERMEN LOSE THEIR "BAIT"

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., July 22.—A party of American fishermen going to Northern Ontario to fish came to grief here on a Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo passenger train when, in the chartered coach in which the party were ride, customs officials discovered about thirty bottles of booze wrapped in a sheet, and several pungent hot-water bottles loaded with the same brand of old-King Alcohol.

The party, consisted of twenty, but one wold admit ownership of the booze. He was fined $200 and costs by Police Magistrate House. The travellers have a worthy steel men from Ambridge, Penn.

They vowed next year they would go to Michigan to fish.

HOW TIGER ENTERS VERDUN THE HEROIC

PARIS, July 22.—Premier Clemenceau had a great reception yesterday when he entered Verdun. He was addressed there by the Deputy Mayor, who told M. Clemenceau that four thousand of the former fourteen thousand inhabitants had returned to the town, but that most of them would have to leave for the winter unless their houses were repaired meantime. The Premier assures the working men that heat and coal for this use would be provided in proper quantities.

M. Clemenceau also announced during the time that the American Government two days ago had offered to send competent workmen to aid in the task of reconstruction.

Peterborough, July 22.—The first aerial passenger service between Peterborough and Toronto was established here yesterday when Arthur Cooley, of Toronto, late of the Royal Air Force conveyed Reg. Turner, of J. J. Turner & Sons, to the Queen City. Cooley had been in the city for several days giving aerial exhibitions and doing a little passenger service. At nine o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Turner received word from a Toronto firm to proceed to that city at once for the purpose of making arrangements for decorating the city for the Prince of Wales. Twenty-five minutes later he was on his way in Cooley's two-seater airplane, and exactly one hour and 25 minutes later landed in Toronto, a distance of 80 miles. The party encountered heavy rainstorms on the way.

Y.M.C.A. Boys Camp Closes—Home Again

A Wonderful Outing, Full of Pleasure and Profit.

The last week at the Y.M.C.A. boys' camp was a very busy one. Tuesday night the boys were invited across the bay by the campers in the cottages. The evening was spent singing songs around the camp fire. The ladies treated to candy and cocoa. After which the boys returned to camp.

Field Day of Sports.

Saturday was field day and we had a great time. Curry was the best all around boy, winning 220 points. John Hibbard was second, winning 90 points. All the officials and Saturday we had our water sports—swimming for distances, plunge, diving, front and back swimming and many others. All boys came in, after which the boys returned to camp.

Peace Celebration.

Saturday evening the boys invited the people from the cottages over to the camp to spend the evening at their peace celebration. Forty-nine responding. A large bonfire over which hung the kaiser had been made. Before the bonfire was lit, the boys of the Boy Scouts entertained the visitors first to a drill exercise then first aid to the injured. Messrs. Buchanan and Dunberry told a few stories. Tea cocoa was served during which the boys sang patriotic songs and gave their camp yells. At 10 o'clock the guests took their departure after giving the boys three hearty cheers, after which the boys sang "Good-night, Ladies."

Home Again.

Monday the boys returned home. The camp is still open. Dr. Scott is remaining another week with his Scouts. The results for the two weeks were as follows:

Best all around boy, Sam Curry, 12.30 points; C. Elsmore, 8.40 points; R. Parker, Desoronto, 6.60 points.

Best Section—No. 3, comprising S. Curry, A. Buck, H. Ablard, J. Coddack, H. Ablard, H. Clark.

The Y. M. C. A. wish to thank the friends who made it possible for them to make the boys' camp a success by helping them to finance it and giving the use of their cars in transporting the boys to and from camp: Mrs. R. SHOOTING CHERRY PICKERS

COST BRANT FARMER $100

BRANTFORD, July 22.—P. S. Greenwood, a prominent farmer of Brantford Township, was fined $100 and costs in the Police Court here for letting go two charges of buckshot at George Sykes and Paul Fish, two young city bakers. The magistrate asked Greenwood if he would have given the two young men some cherries if they had asked for the same, and Greenwood replied that he would not. The two young men were picking cherries over the fence and were both wounded when Greenwood aimed at them.

Magistrate Livingston commented on the lack of magnanimity on the part of Greenwood, and imposed the fine.

LIKE PRE-WAR DAYS IN 1,000 ISLANDS

Kingston, July 22.—Pre-war conditions with respect to tourists have returned this summer. Steamers making connections between Kingston and the United States ports report a large number of automobile parties being ferried across the border. The same applies at places east of Kingston. There are more tourists at the Thousand Islands at this time than have been there during the past ten years. The excursion business in and out of Kingston is large.

GERMAN-OWNED SHARES WERE SOLD AT AUCTION

NEW YORK, July 22.—Eight thousand German-owned shares of the three chemical companies formerly controlled by the Roessler and Hasslacher interests were sold at public auction by the alien property custodian to Coffin and Company, bankers, and the Americas Anilines Products, Incorporated, for approximately $4,000,000.

Toronto Doctor To Swallow Germs

TORONTO, July 21.—In an effort to disprove the long accepted theory that germs are the causes of virulent fevers, Dr. John B. Fraser of this city may soon engage in a duel unique in the history of the world, a "duel with germs" to which he has been challenged by Doctor H. W. Hill, executive secretary of the Minnesota public health association.

Dr. Hill's challenge was issued in reply to Dr. Fraser's contention that disease can better be counteracted by Dr. Fraser's methods of remedies than by the use of anti-toxins and vaccines.

Dr. John B. Fraser, stated that his daughters, Miss Matilda Fraser and Miss Bata Fraser and himself have infected themselves hundreds of times with diptheria, typhoid, meningitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis germs during the past five years and never once have they developed any disease.

"It is my contention from experiments that germs are comparatively harmless and I hope thus to relieve some of the superstitious fear that surrounds them and where germs are concerned," he said.

ONLY 60,000 AT FIRST

"Some years ago I first swallowed 50,000 diptheria germs in water and watched my health carefully but no disease resulted. Diptheria germs were chosen first because its zeonits there is a reliable remedy should the disease show signs of developing. Swallowing first 6 tuch 150,000 diptheria germs in milk and felt no ill effects. Again I took a million germs in my food and then seeggal millions were swallowed by the mouth and nostrils. Miss Maude and Miss Bata repeated the set of experiments and dit not suffer the lightest ill health, "they tried the germ diet and in all 45 tests were made with diphtheria germs.

A CHAMPION GERM KILLER

"Fifty similar tests were then made with typhoid germs: twenty with fresh vigorous pneumonia germs swished in the nose and throat; twenty more with millions of tuberculosis bacteria taken in water, bread, meat, cheese porridge and butter and no disease appeared.

"As theoretically it is contended germs develop mainly in the mucous membranes of the nostrils, special pains were taken to swab the nostrils with millions of meningitis germs other millions were worked over the turbinated bones, and still other millions applied to throat, tonsils and tongue. In addition to local applications, more millions were incorporated in water, milk, bread, meat, potatoes and cheese and every chance given them to develop, but without success.

"The claim of germ theorists that mixed germs are more dangerous than a single variety was carefully investigated. Different forms of food and drink were inoculated with germs of typhoid and pneumonia, typhoid and tuberculosis, meningitis and tuberculosis, diphtheria and meningitis, diphtheria and typhoid, in all ten experiments were made and no disease followed."

CARNIVAL SHOW BARRED FROM COBALT

COBALT, July 21.—The Town Council, at a special meeting, refused permission to exhibit in the municipality of Cobalt to an organization known as the Canadian Victory Show and billed to play here all next week under an agreement with the local branch of the G.W.V.A.

The action followed receipt of information from Haileybury and the shows from North Bay by Mayor McKinnon and Chief of Police Bonneville and was clinched when telegrams were received from eight Mayors in old Ontario corroborating this in some respects. Ten municipalities and the Provincial Government had been asked for an opinion at the request of the G.W.V.A. The organization, it is understood, has made arrangements to go to Haileybury instead.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, July 22.—With a run of about 4200 cattle at the Union Stock Yards yesterday the percentage of good butcher cattle was very light. The quality of this class was good and steady for the light steers and heavy steers. All other classes were lower.

The biggest decline was shown on light weight steers and heifers and we would call these at least 50c per cwt. lower than last week. Good butcher cows were in fair demand, while the medium and common cows were slow of sale and lower.

Bulls were lower, in sympathy with the cheaper cattle. Veals, milch cows and springers there was a fair demand for the better class of cows.

There was likewise a limited inquiry for woody ewes and lambs, are at lower levels. The prospects were undoubtedly favorable for steady prices for good to choice butcher cattle and lambs for the coming week.

SOLDIERS ON RESERVE.

Instructions regarding men who have served with the Canadia nExpeditionary Forces indicate that while these men are receiving war service gratuity thereare still on the reserve strength and in cases where discharged men are needed are subject to be called up for duty. But in cases where discharged men have received their full gratuity allowance, they are struck off the strength of the reserve list and are finished with military duties. Regarding pensions, men who are receiving pensions are not in any manner connected with the militia.

GRANDMOTHER'S LUNDY'S LANE

During the War.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sarah Lundy, aged throughout the Dominion as the "Grandmother of the Canadian army because she knitted 400 pairs of socks for the Canadian Red Cross during the war, died on June 20 at her home in Lundy's Lane, Ont., in her 92nd year of age. She was in good health until a few days before, and had lived in her home and died from the effects of the falls.

Mrs. Lundy lived nearly all her life in Stamford township, Her brother's family, the Hainstocks, settled near Niagara Falls, N.Y., before the Revolutionary War. Many stories of wild exits gave the name to Goat Island. In 1812 Mrs. Lundy, whose maiden name was Sparkhall, married Lenry Lundy, grandson of William Lundy, who, with Captain Thomas Lundy, who fought with the Canadian militia in 1812 and 1814.

The historic roadway, Lundy's Lane, was named for the family. Four generations of Lundys have been born on it, and some of the present residents are the fourth settler still live there. The property, on which the house stands, was given to the Lundys over the great seal of King George III.

The foundation of the house in which Mrs. Lundy died was laid more than one hundred years ago. The house is close to the old Lundy graveyard, in which stands the grandfather's clock brought to this country 140 years ago by William Lundy. The clock still runs.

Mrs. Lundy's fame as a knitter was nation-wide. When the war started the war she joined the little band of women who were called under the name of the Lundy Lane Willing Workers. One of the president of the workers brought Mrs. Lundy a supply of yarn and needles, and she brought it would be over here for weeks; but in a few days she received the invitation, and a box containing a rattlesnake was opened in view of the congregation. Harrison sought the snake just below the neck and the rattler struck him five times in rapid succession on the arm between the elbow and wrist. The minister signed that Harrison had allowed himself to be bitten before and surely there would be no harm to result from the bites.—Harrison was at once yelled with sickness and, after lingering two days, died despite the attention and treatment of physicians. Harrison leaves a widow and two children. He was a farmer.

Terrible Storm Hits Quebec And One Nun Killed

QUEBEC, July 21.—One of the most violent electric storms that ever visited this district swept over the city and surrounding country last night, causing damage as well as loss, and tying up the public services for a considerable time.

The storm swept down from the mountains, driven by a northwest gale and as it struck the outlying suburbs

Faith Failed Before Rattlesnake Bites

TUSCUMBIA, Ala., July 22.—To exemplify his faith in the religion he has accepted and in the power of the Almighty to heal, Joseph Harrison, 32, a citizen of Cabert county, is dead after two days 'intense suffering from the bites of a rattler at a meeting held in a church near here Sunday.

During the evening services the pastor in charge stated that there was in the congregation one of his followers that had with great faith that he would strive a rattler to bite him, feeling [illegible] was immune from the poison. Paul at one time was immune from the strike of a serpent.

Harrison at once came forward, accepting the invitation, and a box containing a rattlesnake was opened in view of the congregation. Harrison sought the snake just below the neck and the rattler struck him five times in rapid succession on the arm between the elbow and wrist. The minister signified that Harrison had allowed himself to be bitten before and surely there would be no harm to result from the bites.—Harrison was at once yelled with sickness and, after lingering two days, died despite the attention and treatment of physicians. Harrison leaves a widow and two children. He was a farmer.

Tornado Hits Bancroft

Fifty Buildings Damaged, Some Wrecked.

BANCROFT, July 22.—A tornado struck this town at 5.30 p.m. yesterday, doing damage to the extent of $50,000. Fifty buildings were damaged, some wrecked. The storm struck the town from the west, and in its fury trees were uprooted, barns lifted from their foundations and overturned, telephone, and telephone wires swept to the ground, while two large chimneys collapsed and crashed down in ruins.

The heaviest damage reported was caused at Beauport Asylum just outside the city limits. A large chimney, 150 feet in height, was struck by lightning and swayed by the terrific force of the wind it crashed down through the building occupied by female inmates and penetrated it almost in two. Two inmates at the time were in another section of the building, but Sister Ct. Prudence, who happened to be in the chimney at the time it fell, escaped, was instantly killed. Before entering the convent she was a Miss Mahoney, of St. Agapit, Lotbinière county.

EARLDOMS, $200,000 FOR HAIG AND BEATTY

LONDON, July 22.—The Times reported that earldoms would be conferred on Field Marshal Haig and Admiral Beatty. Parliament according to the newspaper, will be asked to vote $200,000 for each of them.

Sir Douglas Haig's condition was improved last night, although he has cancelled his engagements for several days. He has a slight fever. He collapsed after Saturday's peace parade.

CAMP-MEETING CO-OPERATION

As was intimated through these columns some time ago the programme committee of the Oak Lake Camp Meeting sought conference with and counsel of the ministers and several leading laymen of circuits immediate. ly affected by depletion of attendance at churches during the campaign. The result is that the following schedule can be attended to now at lowest expense to you, and should be arranged for early to ensure delivery when required.

Remodeling and Repairing of FURS

The Kill-Kare Komedian, Charlie Chaplin, who is appearing at Griffin's tomorrow to Saturday, Matinee Saturday, in a new 2-reel bomb-shell of joy.

M exchange of preachers, ordained and lay, is suggested for Sunday, July 27th, and the request is made that all Sunday Schools of the below-mentioned churches meet at 9.30 a.m. and church at 10.30 so as to give all an opportunity to hear Rev. Dr. Chown, General Supt. of the Canadian Methodist Church, who speaks at the camp-meeting in the afternoon and evening, 2.30 and 7.30 respectively: Camilton, S. C. Gay; Bethany, Geo. Webster; Aikens, Geo. T. Woodley; Scott's, Wm. Tuffs; Foxboro, J. F. Rikely; Holloway, H. M. Honeywell; Marsh Hill, A. McClatchie, M.A.; Plainfield, Rev. J. S. McMullen; Bethel, Jas. Huffman and C. Wallace; Mt. Pleasant, W. Clare; Zion's Hill, R. N. Bird; Gilead, T. E. Wills and E. Bidley; Moira, H. K. Denyes; W. Huntingdon, Rev. Jas. Batstone; Rawdon and West Huntingdon, local arrangement.

He Rose From the Ranks

"TED'S the sort of fellow that know's what's what," remarked a non-commissioned officer in the Canadian trenches recently regarding the rapid rise of Major Edward Hooper Birkett, M.C., D.S.O., from the ranks to his present position in the Canadian Engineers. "I remember that when he was in our company he was a fine soldier, and was the brightest of the boys and the life of the bunch. With all of that though he had his engineering work down cold. One night during our first few months in France after placing a night working party in their trenches he called Ted aside and for a few moments. Meanwhile a high staff officer dropped in on us and ordered that Ted's dispositions be altered. Very soon afterwards we could hear Ted stumbling through the darkness and pouring maledictions upon the man who had dared to change his men. He isn't a very big fellow, but he went up to the officer and in a way us fellows a good laugh to hear him telling a colonel off while he was only a lance-corporal. Of course he had his nerve right with him, but he didn't half get it in the neck, as the officer had no right to change his dispositions."

And so it was throughout his term of service in France that Major Birkett's faculty of knowing "what's what" brought him steadily promotion. He graduated from the Royal School of Mining at Queen's University in 1909 as a mining engineer, and for some considerable experience in Western Canada, Mexico and New Zealand, when he was summoned back to the university to join the student corps, made up of cadets—or the Fighting Fifth — which was being organized for active service. Under Sir Percy Fessors, Major Alexander McPhail, C.M.G., D.S.O. In the second week in August he trudged into Valcartier as a sapper, and his career there absorbed into the 2nd Field Company, Canadian Engineers, C.E.F., for active service.

In October he was transferred to the 1st. F.C.C.E. and reached France in February. After taking part in the battles of St. Julien, Festubert and Givenchy in April, 1915, he was promoted to lance-corporal, and in June his good work secured for him the rank of corporal. In December, 1915, he was granted his commission, and a year later he was promoted to captain. Meanwhile on June 13, 1916, he was awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in the recapture of Mount Sorel. In face of repeated enemy attacks he organized his company and helped to rally infantry troops. On that occasion he was on duty for twenty-four hours and was wounded in the left hand. During the war this was his only injury.

His served in all the principal engagements of the Canadians, including the above at the Somme, Vimy Ridge, and Passchendaele. In August, 1918, he was rewarded with his majority, and in addition he was mentioned in despatches on no less than five occasions for splendid service, and invested with the D.S.O.

Major Birkett is a son of John Birkett, treasurer of the Canadian Locomotive Co., Kingston, and Mrs. Birkett, and another brother, Lieut. Leonard Birkett, M.C., served for many months in France.

New Burlap Substitute.

Manufacturers engaged on government contracts are being offered a substitute for burlap by a large Massachusetts mill which has discovered a material that can successfully be used for bailing. Instead of 100 per cent jute, the substitute is made of one strand of Swedish pulp paper and two strands of jute. It is made nine and 12 ounces in weight and 36, 40, and 48 inches deep. A government test of the nine-ounce product shows a tensile strength of 119 pounds, as against 90 pounds for regular eight-ounce burlap. —New Bedford Standard.

New Textile Material.

Textilit, said to be used in 23 of the largest German factories, is a substitute material that is predicted to outlast the war as a permanent addition to the textile industry. It consists of a paper thread and a fiber thread twisted together and, though the percentage of long fiber is very small, it is claimed to have yielded products that the uninitiated cannot distinguish from the former linen and jute fabrics. The fiber gives a firmness that paper fabrics do not possess. The material is made into weaving and sewing yarns and webs of all kinds.

Correct.

A funny one occurred in Judge Wood's court the other day, observes the Los Angeles Times. It was a divorce case and the witness was inclined to be vague. Finally he mustered up courage and said:

"I can't testify much, judge, 'cause I don't know what this incompatibility is."

"Cold feet and hot words," snapped his honor.

Ancient Grievance.

"The German soldier who cursed Columbus for discovering America has counterpart in a soldier from Alabama."

"How is that?"

"I overheard one of our boys giving Julius Cæsar 'Hail Columbia' for not finishing the Germans when he had the chance."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Wedding Bells

STOCK—McCURDY

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. R. McCurdy, 281 Church street, at 11.30 this morning a pleasing event took place when their only daughter, Miss Florence Adelia, became the wife of Mr. William Robert Stork, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Stork, of Pickering. Ont. In the presence of immediate relatives of the contracting parties, the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Scott, pastor of Bridge street Methodist church. The couple were unattended. The bride was given away by her father and looked charming in a gown of flesh colored crepe de chine with overdress of Georgette, embroidered and beaded with pearls. She also wore the groom's gift, a necklace with pendant of onyx and pearls. The interior of the home was appropriately decorated with pink and white carnations, gladiolus, ferns and cut flowers.

The groom is a telegraph operator at the G.T.R. in this city.

At the conclusion of the ceremony and after congratulations had been showered upon the young couple a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of. Later Mr. and Mrs. Stork left on a wedding trip to Detroit and other cities of interest and will also spend a week or two with the groom's parents at Pickering. Upon their return they will take up their residence at 281 Church street, city.

The bride's travelling suit was navy blue silk, heavily embroidered, and she wore a small navy and champagne georgette hat and champagne georgette blouse. That the bride was a popular young lady was evidenced by the many beautiful gifts she was the recipient of, including substantial cheques.

The guests present outside of relatives, included a few intimate friends from Toronto and Pickering.

The numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stork will unite with The Intelligencer in wishing them every happiness and prosperity in their journey through life.

TOO MUCH STRESS.

Reason For the Increase of Heart Disease In Dominion.

Too exciting modern life strikingly show itself in the death rate from some diseases has greatly fallen off; it has steadily and rapidly risen from certain other maladies during the last few years.

Most noteworthy is the fact that heart disease has leaped to the front as the foremost cause of mortality in Canada, taking in this respect the place formerly held by tuberculosis.

There are now so many deaths from heart disease in Ontario—forty per 1,000 of population—it were attributable to tuberculosis twenty years ago. In the meantime mortality from the latter plague has so far lessened that fewer than sixty thousand die of it where it killed eighty in 1900. But heart disease takes nearly eighty lives today where in 1900 it destroyed sixty.

Heart disease fifty years ago was a relatively rare malady. It has now become exceedingly common. Why? Physicians say that the increase is due to the excessive "drive" of Canadian life. The strain to which the heart is subjected is too great.—S.

It is the same way with apoplexy, the death rate from which has risen steadily and fast during the last twenty years. And the cause is the same. A blood vessel breaks in the brain, and there you have it. Your people will die of apoplexy this year for every three that succumbed to it in 1900.

Again, it is the same way with kidney trouble. Bright's disease will kill four this year for every three that died of it in 1900. Too much drive; too much strain. Heart and kidneys work together; what affects one will almost surely affect the other.

Three people will die of cancer this year for every two that succumbed to this fell complaint in 1900. As a killer it is gaining ground much more rapidly, than heart disease. Already it destroys nearly half as many lives as the latter, and it is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

But cancer is a problem all by itself. Nobody knows what causes it, or why it should spread and increase in the way it does. It is a total mystery—which makes it all the more horrible.

The decrease of tuberculosis is due to improved sanitation, the malady being typically infectious. Typhoid (thanks chiefly to preventive inoculation, but also to sanitary measures) has so diminished that only one person will die of it this year for every four killed by it in 1900.

The death rate from diphtheria has declined by two-thirds during the same period owing to the use of a specific antitoxin. Pneumonia has run about half its course. It is a disease hard to deal with, frequently following measles, "flu" or other sickness. Commonly its germs are present in healthy mouths and throats, waiting for a chance to make an attack.

Education.

A professor of a Western University has evolved a series of test questions for the educated which he avows are the best evidences of a real education. If you can answer "yes" to each and all of the questions you are truly educated, the professor says. Here are the questions:—

1. Has education given you sympathy with all the good causes and made you espouse them?

2. Has it made you public-spirited?

3. Has it made you a brother to the weak?

4. Have you learned how to make friends and keep them?

5. Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

6. Can you look an honest man or a pure woman in the eye?

7. Do you see anything to love in a little child?

8. Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

9. Can you be high-minded and savvy to the meanest drudgeries of life?

10. Do you think that washing dishes or hoeing corn is just as compatible with high-thinking as playing golf or studying golf?

11. Are you good for anything else?

12. Can you be happy alone?

13. Can you look out on the world and see anything but dollars and cents?

14. Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see a clear sky?

15. Can you see anything in the puddle but mud?

Canada Lands.

A paragraph appearing in Repatriation, a monthly bulletin published in the interests of returned men in Australia, voices the speech delivered in Sydney by Premier Holman, of New South Wales, in which he stated that the state had settled 1,100 men on the land. The Premier claimed that this was a much larger number than had been settled in any of the other states. New South Wales sent to the battlefields of Europe 1per cent. of her population, or one-fifth of the Australian Expeditionary Force. The proportion of ex-service men settled in the land in the other states was much smaller. Out of New South Wales the figures would be for the whole of Australia 2,820 men benefitted by the Land Settlement Act, up to the date of the Premier's speech.

Up to 17th of May, the Soldier Settlement Board of Canada had approved 1,890 applications for the benefits of the Soldier Settlement Act and a great many more applications were being received. Qualifying Committees in the various provinces. The number which will be largely augmented by the returns for the last week or two, and for the present month show that Canada is well in advance of her sister commonwealth in providing suitable farms for her war heroes.

HAMILTON VETERANS VOICE DEMAND FOR BEER

HAMILTON, July 23.—East Hamilton Branch Great War Veterans' Association at a largely attended meeting passed unanimously a resolution demanding the Government to rescind immediately war measures that prevented the sale of liquors, beers and wines.

The resolution read: "Be it resolved that as we never complained respecting any war measure being passed to help win the war, and did not complain about the sacrifices and privations which we endured, we demand now that the war is over and peace has been officially declared, that the war measure prohibiting the sale of liquors and wines be rescinded immediately."

THIS VETERAN IS 82 YEARS YOUNG

GUELPH, Ont., July 23.—"Being no longer physically fit is the reason given on the discharge certificate of Pte. William Clements, of 9 Omar street, Guelph, for his being returned to civil life in August, 1915, but closer perusal of the certificate by the secretary of the Guelph branch of the G.W.V.A. showed that on the date on which he was discharged, Pte. Clement was eighty-two years and three months old. Therefore, the Guelph G.W.V.A. claim that they enrolled today the oldest member of the association.

Clements enlisted on March 17, 1915, in the 34th Battalion. He went to England with that unit, and was discharged on August 7, 1916. His regimental number was 602,297. He is a carpenter by trade and was born in Ontario at Pte. Helent, Waterloo County. Clements is a widower, is hale and hearty, straight and soldierly in appearance, and before the war was church service attendant-badgeman in the Canadian militia.

VOL. 84 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1919. NO. 227

W.H. Ireland Selected As Conservative Candidate

LARGELY ATTENDED AND ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION CHOSE POPULAR TRENTON MAYOR AS CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE FOR THE LEGISLATURE—EX-MAYOR H. F. KTECHESON OF BELLEVILLE DEFEATED BY ONE VOTE.

The Conservatives of the West Riding of Hastings, as constituted for Provincial purposes, yesterday afternoon met in convention at Sidney Town Hall for the purpose of selecting a candidate to represent the party at the next Provincial election. The required number of delegates from Belleville, Trenton and Sidney, 138 in all, were present, as were a number who were not delegates. Considerable interest was manifested in the proceedings, owing to the fact that it was known that there were at least three aspirants for the nomination, one from each of the three municipalities which constitute the riding.

Nomination of Candidate.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Allen of Trenton, President of the Association, the meeting was opened by Mayor W. H. Ireland, of Trenton, who without any preliminaries called for the nomination of candidates when the following were proposed;

Mr. W. H. Ireland, of Trenton, was nominated by Mr. P. J. O'Rourke, seconded by Mr. W. C. Switzer.

Ex-Mayor H. F. Ketcheson of Belleville was nominated by Ald. Sam Devereaux, seconded by Mr. S. T. Vanderveort.

Mr. Charles Ketcheson of Sidney, was nominated by Mr. John Sargent, seconded by Mr. Geo. Burkitt.

Mr. John A. Kerr, Belleville, was nominated by Mr. J. L. Tickell, seconded by Mr. F. O. Bennett.

Mr. P. J. O'Rourke, Trenton, nominated by Mr. A. Galna, seconded by Mr. R. L. Haines.

Mr. W. H. Matthews, of Trenton, nominated by Mr. A. Sine, seconded by Mr. J. H. Jones.

Mr. A. Abbott, of Belleville, nominated by Mr. F. E. Crouter, seconded by Mr. W. House.

Mr. Clem H. Ketcheson nominated by Mr. Clem Armstrong, seconded by Mr. Walter Ketcheson.

Mr. Ernest McAllister of Frankford, nominated by Mr. T. Vickerson, seconded by Mr. G. Gorson.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville nominated by Ald. Simmons, seconded by Mr. Geo. Kerr.

Mr. F. R. Mallory, of Sidney, nominated by Mr. Mikel, seconded by Mr. Walter Scott.

Mr. S. T. Vanderoort of Belleville, nominated by Ald. Ostrom, seconded by Mr. H. A. Morgan.

Mr. R. L. Haines, of Belleville, nominated by Mr. J. A. Kerr, seconded by Mr. C. J. Bowell.

Mr. C. J. Bowell, of Belleville, nominated by Ald. White, seconded by Mr. G. A. Reid.

This closed the nomination and the several nominees were called upon to speak.

Nominees Speak

Mayor Ireland of Trenton, being the first speaker, said his remarks would be brief. As a Conservative and he always would be such. He was a candidate and if successful at the convention and poll would do all he could for the Province of Ontario and the riding of West Hastings in particular. He would pledge his support to the nominee of the convention.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson stated he was a candidate because he had been urged to be so by his many friends. If selected and elected he would do all he could for the riding. Whoever was selected he would do all he could to elect the choice of the convention. He and his family had always been Conservatives.

Mr. P. J. O'Rourke said that the meeting brought back to recollection the convention of 1908, when the late lamented Mr. J. W. Johnson received the nomination. It was understood that Belleville had the Dominion member and a Senatorship that Trenton or Sidney should at least once in a while have a local member. He did not consider it fair for Belleville to wish for everything, especially when Trenton gave way for Mr. Johnson to receive the nomination. Mr. Ireland had been Mayor of Trenton four years and he would be a candidate who would do credit to the riding of West Hastings. He had nothing whatever against ex-Mayor Ketcheson of Belleville. He felt confident Trenton in the election would as in the past, roll up a large majority for the Conservative candidate, as it had always recorded large majorities for the late Hon. H. Corby and the present member in the Federal House, Mr. E. G. Porter. His concluding remark was not to forget that Trenton had Parliamentary timber.

Mr. W. H. Matthews said he felt honored at being nominated, but would retire in favor of Mayor Ireland. The nomination in his opinion belonged to either Trenton or Sidney according to an agreement made some years ago.

Mr. A. Abbott said it was a surprise for him to be nominated, but he was not a candidate. He would stand by the nominee of the convention.

Mr. J. A. Kerr thanked those who nominated him, but he would withdraw. He would support the choice of the convention.

Mr. Charles Ketcheson in his opening remarks referred to the fact that for 11 years he had represented Sidney Township in Hastings County Council, and he had always tried to uphold the dignity and integrity of the Conservative party. He had always tried to do his duty as a citizen both in public and private life in the future as in the past he would do what he could for the Conservative party, a party that was above doing what the grit party would do. He was proud to be a Conservative and was in a position to represent West Hastings if he was selected and elected. It was in his opinion high time that the farmers had a say in the public affairs of this country. A municipal training was a good thing, and he thought he could do so. He would abide by the decision of the convention, and thanked his nominator and seconder.

Mr. Clem H. Ketcheson said that Sidney Township was the only municipality in the riding that had selected two lady delegates to the convention, but they were not in the hall although they did come. He could not see his way clear to be a candidate at the present time owing to certain conditions. He had always been an active worker of the Conservative party and would do what was in his power for the party. He hoped whoever the candidate was he would be returned by a large majority.

Mr. E. McAllister stated that he was not a candidate and thanked those who nominated him. In speaking of the ladies he said that the party should do all they could to get them and keep them in the ranks.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., said he would refuse to be a candidate because there were no lady delegates. (Laughter.) It was a mistake to do or think that Belleville desired to rule everything. If Sidney and Belleville could keep together upon a candidate it felt sure the Belleville delegates would hav fallen into line. All named were good candidates and he would be behind the successful one and to do all in every support. All should go away from the convention determined to enter the fight when it takes place having but one object in view, a victorious finish.

Mr. S. T. Vanderveort stated that he thought Trenton had no grievance or a claim as it had the local member for some 12 or 14 years. Sidney might possible be entitled to it. He was not an aspirant for the position.

Mr. F. R. Mallory said that while he was not a candidate he believed that Sidney was entitled to the honor. It would be a pleasure for him to see the farmers have some backing in the Legislature.

Mr. B. L. Hyman withdrew his name from the list of nominees.

Mr. C. J. Bowell said he was not a candidate but whoever the candidate might be he would receive the support of The Intelligencer until the last vote was polled.

Balloting for Candidates

This completed the list of nominee speakers and left three names to go before the convention, namely ex-Mayor Ketcheson of Belleville, Mayor Ireland of Trenton and Mr. Chas. Ketcheson of Sidney.

Scrutineers were selected and balloting was proceeded with. The result of the first ballot was as follows:

H. F. Ketcheson, 62.
W. H. Ireland, 41.
Mr. Chas. Ketcheson 35.

The latter retired according to an agreement made that the party receiving the lowest number of votes should drop out.

Upon the second ballot W. H. Ireland received 69 votes and H. F. Ketcheson 68, one vote being spoiled.

The result of this ballot was received with much enthusiasm by the supporters of Mr. Ireland.

Ex-Mayor Ketcheson moved that the selection of Mayor Ireland as the candidate be made unanimous, which was done.

The selected candidate returned his thanks for the honor conferred upon him and requested the hearty support of all present.

E. G. Porter, M. P.

Mr. E. G. Porter, K. C., the popular representative of greater West Hastings in the Dominion Parliament, being present was called upon to make a few remarks and upon coming to the platform met with a hearty reception. In his opening remarks the speaker said he desired at this, the first opportunity, of thanking the electors of West Hastings for the magnanimous manner they had stood by him in the election of 1917. It was a peculiar contest and wonderful odds there were to contend against, but he had been victorious, thanks to many friends. In referring to political matters he said that Ontario had a good Government, and that Government had a good policy and we had a good candidate and we will elect Mr. Ireland by a good majority, making it good all around. At the present time in the Province of Ontario there was a condition of unrest, both in the political and economic field. The political situation is peculiar in more sense than one, and the spirit of unrest in this field was greater than in the economic. No man could conscientiously say what the result would be. We have the Tory party, the Grit party, the Unionist party, the returned soldiers, the U. F. O. and the ladies vote, and some of those have never been tested before. There is a feeling of unrest, a feeling that something could be done for the betterment of the people. It was true that a great deal of this unrest was purely personal, and the persons are loking narrowly at the matter. Such a narrow colorected view was decidedly wrong. The advantage of all people as a whole should be considered and approached from a national rather than a personal point of view. A united people will sweep away the chaff before the wind. If this united effort be undertaken it will bring about the desired end the same as the valiant acts of our soldiers, who fought so nobly for our country. As citizens of Canada, and citizens of the greatest Empire on earth, we are proud of their deeds of heroism. We should all use our individual efforts to bring about the conditions we desire to see. The Provincial Government had done much for the people of this Province under the able leadership of Sir William Hearst. It is a common thing to blame a Government for real and imaginary wrongs, but a Government is only the reflex of the people. When Mr. Ireland is elected to the Legislature he will reflect your views, he will be elected to represent the work of the majority of the electors of the riding. In the approaching election he (the speaker) would give Mr. Ireland every possible assistance. There were three candidates and no reflections whatever could be thrown against the other two. In conclusion Mr. Porter thanked the convention for its generous support and eliminate the discordant element from the ranks of the Conservative party. (Applause.)

The meeting was then closed by cheers being given for the King, the candidate, Mr. Porter and the singing of the National Anthem.

Aerial Fleet As Well As Navy To Be Taken Away

NEW YORK, July 24.—Karl H. von Wiegand, cabling to the New York Sun from Berlin, says:

With Admiral von Tripitz's fleet at the bottom of Scapa Flow—the navy practically wiped out—Germany, without making any resistance, is about to have her aerial fleet taken down by giving up the remainder of her fleet to Zeppelins.

The Government has refused to ask the Allies for permission to duplicate the feat of the British airship R-34 in flying across the Atlantic to America and return with her 2-72, the largest airship in the world, completed a short time ago, Baron von Germaingen, nephew of Count Zeppelin and head of the company of that name, who had asked that such a petition be made, has been informed it would be useless as there was no prospect whatever that the request would be granted by the Allies.

Gloom has descended upon German's airship builders, who say decidedly that the Treaty limits their inventions, work and experience for many years will be reaped now by other countries.

It is expected that the Allied commission which is to take over the Zeppelins will arrive here soon, and Germany's navy will be wiped out indeed among the Allies. There is much speculation here as to whether the United States will get one of these Zeppelins.

Germany had a considerable number of these craft, but the losses were heavy and only a few, comparatively, of the aircraft that have been destroyed were lost in the war, however; at one time 18 were dismantled because they had been superseded by larger more successful types and new developments.

Of the ten Zeppelins remaining the Z-71 and Z-72 are the latest built. Each is of 70,000 cubic meters and 50 tons capacity; the other eight are of the same type as the R-34. If the American army or navy puts in a claim for one of these craft in the division that is to be made, presumably the request will be for one of the two largest Zeppelins, because they could easily make the flight across the Atlantic. Mr. Wiegand declares the airship of the large type the impression prevails here that she will not miss the opportunity to get one.

Aside from the Zeppelins there is one Schuetteland, the sole survivor of 15 of that type while the Zeppelin plant had begun work on a huge craft capable of carrying fifty passengers across the Atlantic but the peace treaty prohibits airship construction for a period of six months, and besides the company is in financial difficulties.

Conference On Yorkshire Strike

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, July 24.—The Executive of the Miners Federation met Premier Lloyd George and other members of the government, this morning in an effort to settle dispute in Yorkshire coal fields. The Premier was attended by Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister for National Service and Reconstruction Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, Minister of Labor, and officials of the coal and labor department of the Board of Trade. Before entering the conference the representatives of the miners said "of course we are ready for settlement, but not on the governments own terms."

No settlement was reached at the morning session and the conference adjourned until evening to allow the miners representatives time to consider further government proposals on the question of piece rates growing out of the advance in the price of coal.

The pumping situation in Yorkshire mines today was pronounced satisfactory with the exception of one important mine. Two hundred sailors are now manning mine pumps without interference and attention is being given to operation of ventilation systems in the deeper pits of south Yorkshire where fans have been stopped since the strike began.

Sir Eric Geddes, Minister without portfolio, who is on the spot representing the government has received satisfactory replies from the Lord Mayor of Leeds and other municipalities whom he asked yesterday to see that the supply of coal was economized. The supply at Leeds is virtually exhausted and the outlook for householders is serious.

All mines in North Staffordshire district which were idle yesterday because of the strike, resumed operations today.

GUELPH AFTER INDUSTRIES

GUELPH, July 24.—The Guelph Chamber of Commerce is negotiating for three more industries, with excellent prospects of securing them all. The representatives of the firms have been in the city, and all that is needed now is suitable buildings. One manufactures cloaks, another sauces and pickles and the other insulated wire.

Russian Troops Mutinied Joined Bolshevik Forces

TOWN OF ONEGA HANDED OVER TO BOLSHEVIK BY MUTINOUS RUSSIAN TROOPS—ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE RAILROAD REPULSED BY BRITISH VOLUNTEER TROOPS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 24.—The Government has received a despatch from Major-General William Ironside, commander-in-chief on the Archangel front, stating that Russian troops have mutinied and joined the Bolshevik, handing over the town of Onega and the Onega front to the enemy. The latter also tried to take the railroad but were repulsed. There are few British troops on the railroad front and none on the Onega front.

General Ironside now has the situation in hand and believes that the fresh British volunteer troops are equal to their difficult and perilous task.

Sister Mary Basil Case To Go To Privy Council

ATTACHMENT ORDER ISSUED AGAINST PRIESTS OF THIS DIOCESE LEVYING UPON DUES PAID FOR MAINTENANCE OF ARCHBISHOP.

KINGSTON, July 24.—Judge H. A. Laval has ordered that twelve attaching orders be issued against the following Catholic priests of this diocese—Right Rev. Chas. A. Murray, Brockville; Right Rev. John Masterson, Prescott; Rev. C. J. Killeen, Belleville; Rev. John T. Hogan, Perth; Rev. P. A. Kelly, Smith's Falls; Rev. John Connolly, Trenton; Rev. Alexander Canon, Picton; Rev. J. T. Hartingsan, Deseronto; Rev. Thos. McCarthy, Reid; Rev. T. P. O'Connor, Napanee; Rev. John Kehoe, Gananoque and Rev. M. Maher, Marysville.

The contention made by A. B. Cunningham, counsel for Sister Mary Basil on whose behalf the proceedings are being taken to secure the judgment for $20,000 against Archbishop Spratt and Mother St. Regis of the House of Providence, for alleged abduction, is that the Archbishop is supported by a cathecrarium, or a tax of ten per cent levied upon such parish revenues, as new rents, offerings, Christmas and Easter donations and marriage, funeral and baptismal fees.

It is the duty of the parish priests to collect these dues and once a year to pay the cathecarium to the Archbishop for maintenance and support. It is for the purpose of securing these writs of attachment have been issued, does that the attaching orders have been issued and the moneys cannot now be paid over by the priests of the diocese whose names are given until the orders are quashed or revoked. Mr. Cunningham is endeavoring to secure the fulfilment of the judgment to satisfy Sister Mary Basil's claim and the examination of the Archbishop, which is proceeding this afternoon was to ascertain his assets to meet the judgment against him.

TO PRIVY COUNCIL

The attachments have been made to assure counsel for Sister Mary Basil of sufficient funds if a decision is made to carry the case to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the final Court of Appeal for the British Empire, which is a very expensive proceeding. If her full claims are not met by the defendants in the case it is the determination of Sister Basil and her counsel to carry her appeal to the highest court to seek the restoration of the original judgment pronounced by Justice Britton, after hearing the case in Kingston, and which was changed unfavorably to Sister Mary Basil on appeal to Toronto. In that case the expense will be provided by the cathecrarium, against which the writs of attachment have been issued.

GEORGE PRIMROSE VETERAN MINSTREL DEAD

SANDIEGO, Calif., July 24.—George H. Primrose, famous minstrel, died here yesterday following a severe illness that began one month ago. He was born in Canton, Ont., 66 years ago. A widow and a brother survive him here.

Primrose's career as a minstrel dates from the time of the famous Haverley troupe. He began his stage career when fifteen years old, and is credited with having originated soft shoe dancing. After being with the Haverley troupe for several years, Primrose toured the country with a company known as Barlow, Wilson, Primrose and West. Later the name was changed to Primrose and West, a combination which lasted for many years. About sixteen years ago Primrose joined forces with Law Dockstader. Of late he had appeared on the vaudeville stage.

Called By Death

LETITIA BLAIR

At Hazard's Corners, Madoc Township, death came suddenly yesterday to Mrs. Letitia Blair, widow of the late Mr. John M. Blair. Deceased was upwards of 70 years of age, and was well known in the locality where she resided. She was a member of the Methodist Church. One son, William of Murray Township and two daughters, Mrs. Blake Way of Thurlow Township and Mrs. Mark Snider of Sask., survive. The body has been brought to the home of Mrs. Way in Thurlow.

THOMAS B. WILSON

Death came suddenly this morning to Mr. Thomas B. Wilson of Point Ann. A few minutes after Seven o'clock he was stricken with heart failure, expiring almost immediately. Deceased was 70 years of age. Mr. Wilson was time-keeper for the Canada Cement Company and had been at the plant at Point Ann for the past 10 years, previous to which he was connected with a plant at Port Colborne. He was a gentleman who was deservedly popular with the employees and his demise is much regretted. He was born at Newburg where the body was later taken by motor, after being prepared for burial at Tickell & Sons undertaking parlors. Mr. Wilson was a member of the Presbyterian church. A widow and six children survive.

LONDON BUSINESSMEN FORM LIBERTY LEAGUE

LONDON, Ont., July 24.—Many businessmen of this city are banding together to form a "Liberty League" to combat anything which they consider is likely to interfere with personal liberties. It is stated that the first movement to be attacked would be one which aims at strict observance of the Sabbath. Later on the list of objectives is the abolishing of prohibition.

Military News

SOLDIERS' GRAVES

The graves of fourteen soldiers at Cataraqui Cemetery have undergone a wonderful change during the past two months, inasmuch as crosses have been erected bearing the soldier's name, number, regiment and date of death. In most cases the graves were minus a cross and sunken below the level of the ground. Brig.-Gen. V. A. S. Williams took the matter up with the results that both cemeteries at Kingston were spruced as well as those at Petawawa and Ottawa. Those in Cataraqui have been completed and photographed, while St. Mary's are nearing completion. Some 30 graves have been attended to in Cataraqui while 17 are being fixed in St. Mary's Crosses similar to those erected in France mark the graves of these soldiers.

FORT HENRY TO BE CLOSED

50 AMERICANS KILLED NOT ONE MEXICAN TRIED

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Henry P. Fletcher, United States Ambassador to Mexico, told the House Rules Committee that since his appointment three years ago, about 50 Americans had been killed in Mexico without a single prosecution being made by the Mexican authorities.

Replying to questions by the chairman, Mr. Fletcher said withdrawal of recognition of the Carranza government by the United States would only increase the turmoil in the southern republic. He added that he did not know of any revolutionary leader capable of establishing a permanent government.

WORLD'S HEAVIEST MAN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, July 24.—Jack Wilson "the fattest man in the world," weighing 680 pounds, is in Holy Cross Hospital, paralyzed. He was stricken last night when exhibition in a circus sideshow at Coney Island. The ambulance summoned was too small for his bulk, so an auto truck was obtained. It took twelve men to carry Wilson.

Wilson had been on exhibit at Coney Island shows two years. Before that he was with Barnum & Bailey's. He is 28 years old. His mother weighed 135 pounds and his father 170.

JUDGE ROBSON TO HEAD COMMERCE BOARD

WINNIPEG, July 24.—Judge Robson, former Utilities Commissioner of Manitoba, is to be chairman of new board of commerce. Correspondence between Judge Robson and Government has been going on for some time in reference to subject, and difficulties have been so adjusted as to pave the way for acceptance.

This Will Remove Hair Or Fuzzy Growths

(Toilet Tips)

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone.

FARMERS LEAD IN CAR OWNERSHIP

The report of the Department of Highways for last year shows that 101,599 passenger motor cars owned in the Province of 4,900 were owned in towns, villages, and townships, and only 36,699 inthe cities. Of the latter 17,171 were owned in Toronto. There was a total registration of 169,374 cars in the Province, including 7,523 motor trucks. This was an increase of 26,584 in the number of cars of all kinds over the previous year.

An analysis of the occupation of the owners shows that 37,755 are farmers and drovers; skilled trades, 6,634; business firms, 2,166; merchants and manufacturers, 27,144; physicians, 2,712; other professions, 3,229; commercial travelers, 2,507; agents, 2,333; liverymen, 1,784; soldiers, 634; Government and corporations, 569; military departments and units, 305; unspecified and unaccupied, 13,270.

Of motorcycles there were 5,002 last year—a decrease of 178, as compared with 1917. There were 10,629 chauffers' licenses issued during the year—an increase of 8,214.

Of 10,086 motorists who were summoned to the Police Court on various charges under the Motor Vehicles Act 8,367 were before the court on charges of speeding.

A Diagram Picture — Note the Pointed Corn

Why Corns Hurt

Note this diagram picture of a corn. Note its conical shape. The tause of the corn is pressure. And pressure makes it hurt. The point of the corn is pushed into the nerves. Applying a Blue-jay plaster instantly removes the pressure. Note the felt ring (A) in the picture below. The ring gives barefoot comfort in the tightest shoe.

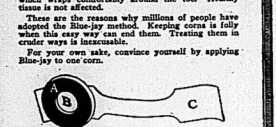

But that is temporary. One should not continue a ring. The corn should be quickly ended.

The lib of B&B was in the center of the ring does that (marked B in illustration below). In two days, usually, the whole corn disappears. It stops the pain, then ends the corn. And it wraps the corn so the action is undisturbed.

Then the action of the B&B was is centered on the corn. Hold there by the rubber coated adhesive tape (C) which wraps comfortably around the toe. Healthy tissue is not affected.

These are the reasons why millions of people have adopted the Blue-jay method. Keeping corns is folly when this easy way can them. Treating them in cruder ways is inexcusable.

For your own sake, convince yourself by applying Blue-jay to one corn.

When morning came and the long fires streamed once more up into the sky, the scene about our ramparts was so terrible that we decided to move our camp. We had no longer any need of fortifications, but I have learnt that it is impossible for a leader to be too careful. We resolved to entrench ourselves lower down the mountain not more than a hundred feet above the edge of the water.

At noon the Princess Thora was led out on her horse through the heaps and lanes of dead. Count Guy and Sir Thule de Brie insisted on her being blindfolded, so that she saw nothing of that fearful sight. Her face was white as death and tears streamed down her cheeks. These dead men were her subjects, and perhaps under different circumstances would have died in her defence. She could hear the hoofs of her steed striking the steel of their armour, and feel the stumble of its feet against their bodies. Poor child! she had indeed succeeded to an inheritance of blood.

CHAPTER XXX

For three days our men toiled on that death-strewn height, and did their best to bury the dead, and note the names of the principal victims. Lords, knights, and common soldiers were all there, but no one found the body of the king himself, or those of his two sons. Our work was not yet over, but the fate of the castle lay in our hands. The waters still continued to rise, and the crust of ice was breaking and toppling over the summit of the city walls. The whole of the town was flooded out and apparently all the wretched inhabitants had made their escape into the surrounding country, save those who were too weak to move, and those who had perished in the attempt. We could see the frozen water glistening round the base of the very castle itself. But the king's flag still floated on the highest tower, and Arranches was not yet delivered into our hands.

Then the water suddenly ceased to creep up the mountain side and we knew that the power of the dam had reached its limit. We had now to choose between increasing the height of the barrier and storming the castle by force of arms. We decided on the latter, as being the quickest means of attaining our end. It would have taken two more months to completely flood the king from his castle—if, indeed he was still in it—and four months, to drain off the water from the plain. The undertaking was too gigantic for our purpose. It was like taking a fifteen-pounder to shoot a squirrel. We resolved to move our forces on the castle; blast the gate down with dynamite, and put an end to the war with a single decisive stroke.

On the night of March 1st, three hundred picked men made their way across the ice to the beleaguered city. They took with them a single gun, and all the remaining ammunition. Four of our sailors wheeled some large iron-bound boxes on small trolleys. These contained a hundred pounds of dynamite apiece and a firing apparatus. The gun was fired and strong. Now that the water had ceased to rise, it had thickened considerably. It was very rough in parts, but it would have been an army in close formation.

We advanced in a great semi-circle two miles in length, and a hundred yards in depth. Every man was twenty feet from his neighbor. Save in a tended lines offered a difficult target to the enemy, and minimised the danger of breaking the ice, if there should happen to be any weak spots in it.

The moon was shining brightly above the hills, and it gave almost as much light as the artificial day. There was no question of a surprise. We were prepared to reduce the place by force, and to hazard our lives in the doing of it. Every single survivor of our expedition who could walk had obtained permission to join in the attack. For two months I and Captain, or as he must call him now, Sir Otto Thorlaxson, had been engaged on a long series of observations with our most delicate instruments and we had located the Pole within the cattle walls. The true location of course, depended on the exact measurements from the point of observation to the castle. But we had obtained this from fifty different quarters, and had no reason to doubt their accuracy. The Asturanians are by no means ignorant in practical matters of this sort, and the maps of their country would do credit to an English ordinance surveyor. The result was made known to every sailor and captain in our little band, and their thoughts had been once more turned from the grim realities of war to that imaginary spot where a man can grasp all the lines of longitude with a single hand. And not one of them would have missed the chance of being first within the castle, for all the rewards and gold Count Guy could have offered them. They did not for the moment seek the glory of knocking away the last prop of Charles' kingdom, but the honour of being first at the North Pole.

Music and Drama

ETHEL CLAYTON AND CHARLIE CHAPLIN AT GRIFFIN'S

From the records of past picture productions it is evident that the well-told detective story is exceedingly popular with the great majority of the reading public. The same obtains of the mystery play or picture. Griffin's has offered a number of stories on the screen which deal with the detection of crime or some mysterious occurrence which formed the cause celebre of the drama. And always they have achieved popularity. Now comes Ethel Clayton in a new picture, "Vicky Van" from a novel by Carolyn Wells, the well-known writer of detective fiction which is to be shown at Griffin's this week end. This was recently issued in book form and was widely read. It is one of the Fleming Stone series, wherein the astute sleuth copes with serious and perplexing problem. Miss Clayton plays the role and is the priest on which the big mystery runs. Charlie Chaplin also appears on the same program in a new two act comedy, the British Dove and a thrilling Wetern story are also announced for exhibition.

Charles Ray in "The Busher" had everything that Christy Mathewson had in his palmiest days—except Christy's speed, curves and brains—but he had nerve. He kept steadying them over and they kept knocking 'em down so fast that the score-keeper got writers' cramp trying to keep track of the damage. That's where the fun started. That's what you want to see! A rattling story of the earthly diamond you cannot afford to miss. Griffin's next Monday to Wednesday.

Two Smugglers Attack Inspector

His Wife Threatens to Shoot—They Jump Overboard and at Least One Drowns.

WINDSOR, July 24.—Inspector John McCabe of the United States immigration staff, whose special duty it is to watch for Chinese smugglers, was engaged in a thrilling battle with two white men who were trying to cross the Detroit River from Sandwich in a small boat early yesterday morning with three celestials for a cargo.

Inspector McCabe in his motor launch, and accompanied by his wife, was drifting quietly down stream, when he detected a row boat approaching. When ordered to stop the smugglers replied with oaths, and pulling up to the launch began an attack on McCabe. Some of the men was recognised as Harold Santaine of Windsor, a returned soldier, while the other was John Geiser, recently released from the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for Chinese smuggling.

Geiser attacked the immigration inspector with a heavy iron bar, nearly striking a bone in his arm, while another blow crippled his motor, leaving him at the mercy of the smugglers.

Then Mrs. McCabe came to her husband's assistance, and with his revolver taken from a locker she threatened to shoot. Both men immediately leaped overboard, and at least one of them perished, Inspector McCabe believes.

The three Chinese Jong Ing, Ing Wing and Ing Way were held in Detroit for deportation.

Fatal Ending To A Quarrel

AYTON, July 21.—Wm. Umbach, coal dealer, of this place, was assaulted and killed by N. C. Coutts, of West Toronto at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in front of the Commercial Hotel here.

Coutts threw stones at Umbach after the latter had stopped him from choking Chas. Riepert at the Grand Trunk Stock Yards, and later followed him to the Commercial Hotel, where he attacked Mr. Umbach from behind, crushing his skull with a heavy cane. Coutts was taken in charge shortly after by Constable Sohn.

Mr. Umbach had been a respected citizen of this place for half a century and his untimely death is a great shock to all who knew him. He was formerly Deputy Reeve of Normanby.

THE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

West Hastings was well and worthily represented in the Provincial Legislature by the late J. W. Johnson, whose regrettable death left the constituency temporarily without representation in the Ontario House. Yesterday the Liberal Conservative party of West Hastings assembled in Foley Town Hall to select a candidate to contest the next election in legislative honors. After a keenly contested election the choice of convention rested upon Mr. W. H. Ireland, Mayor of Trenton, a man who commands the esteem and respect of all who enjoy his acquaintance. Mr. Ireland is a successful business man and takes a keen and active interest in all public affairs in his home town of Trenton and in the district at large, and is a whole-souled Canadian of wide vision, energetic and progressive. That he enjoys the confidence of his fellow townsmen is evidenced by the fact that he has served several years as Mayor of Trenton, an office he still continues to hold with credit to himself and benefit to the community.

Mayor Ireland is widely known and very popular throughout the entire constituency of West Hastings and will be an ideal candidate for legislative honors. He possesses business ability of a high order, is liberal and progressive and his election is a foregone conclusion.

The convention was marked by a commendable spirit of harmony, although the successful candidate was elected by a majority of one only the election was made unanimous upon the motion of the defeated candidate. On the final ballot, Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, of Belleville, Mr. Ketcheson, of Sidney, who was also a candidate, dropped out the first ballot, and will no doubt do all in his power to elect the ticket.

While the city of Belleville would have appreciated the honor of the nomination for one of our citizens the choice of the convention will be ratified and the Liberal Conservatives of this city will loyally support Mr. Ireland, who is to be congratulated upon his success, and to whom he is to himself and the town of Trenton. That he will be elected seems assured and that he will be a credit to the constituency and be of great assistance in advancing the interests of Hastings County generally can not be doubted.

CANADA FIRST.

Canada's lead in establishing curative training and occupational therapy in hospitals throughout the Dominion where soldiers are receiving treatment, is now being followed in Great Britain. It is announced that this form of treatment is now being established under the direction of the Ministry of Pensions.

In the most recent number of "The Ex-Service Man," to reach Canada it is stated: "It is understood that the Ministry of Pensions, having settled the policy, are now beginning to take practical steps in the provision of providing disabled men with curative training or treatment training—that is, a combination of medical treatment and occupational training under the eye of the doctor at centres equipped by the Ministry.

"The first of these centres will be at Hayes, Middlesex, and the work connected with the provision of hutments for the men is now being pushed in hand.

"Similar schemes on a smaller scale are projected in other parts of the country." There is great scope for this form of treatment which has been more favored hitherto in certain other countries than in our own country."

This method has been employed in Canada for some time and has been long established in all the hospitals under control of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment. Patients in the wards are taught various useful handicrafts. As their period of convalescence is reached they are induced to take up any one of the many occupations taught in the occupational shops, which have been established at these hospitals. Later such men as have been so disabled as to be unable to follow former occupations may follow the courses in vocational re-training, which are also under the direction of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment.

The purpose of curative training is to aid the process of cure by offering the patient occupation which will occupy his mind and which will induce the subconscious use of muscles and limbs impaired by wounds. This method has proven of great success and it has been established that through it the hospital period has been considerably reduced, and the men are the more quickly rendered fit to resume their places in civil life.

Men respond freely to the instruction of the Ward Aides and some are remarkably ingenious and clever bits of work are produced. There is a patient in the Dominion Orthopaedic Hospital, Toronto, who, although minus his right arm, has produced some examples of wood carving that will readily bear comparison with the work of men not so handicapped. Such examples are by no means rare and will be found in every hospital in Canada.

CRISP COMMENT

General Pershing expresses the plain truth when he says that all plans put forward for future war depend for their success upon the strength of the Anglo-American union of friendship. Canadians should remember this.

The welcome rain after the terrific heat brought smiles to the farmers and needed relief to the growing crops. Everything comes to him who waits, even though long deferred.

Sir Douglas Haig apparently finds peace more strenuous than war for he collapsed during the Peace Day parade in London and has been under the doctor's care ever since. War is stern and strenuous, but the good soldier, trained to the minute, keeps fit as a fiddle and reconciles his diet and his habits to preserve his strength as far as possible. Peace time, however, with its parades, public speaking and banquets, is more deadly to the soldier than the high explosives of the enemy.

Fiction is sometimes stranger than fact. Some railroad men were talking today at the local C.N.R. station of fast express runs and the discussion ended in a laugh when one said: "Why, the C.N.R. express left Trenton twenty minutes late and arrived in Belleville ten minutes ahead of time. That's going some for twelve miles, all right, but another speaker said, 'That's nothing. Why, the other day the C.N.R. flyer made up six minutes coming from Shannonville to Belleville!" (Six miles.)

OTHER VIEWS

Up to Canadians.
Gall Reporter.

Unless Canadians get down to business, investigate the conditions of the market, appoint business men to help in the campaign, this country will see very little of the huge trade that Germany controlled in the British Empire before the war.

The Irish Agitation.
Wall Street Journal.

If there were not something highly unwed in this Irish agitation in a country the least burdened and the most prosperous of any in Europe, it would be unnecessary to point out that had the inhabitants of Ireland been Englishmen they would have seized their independence centuries ago and nothing could have stopped them. Murdering an occasional policeman is not the way to secure independence, nor does it convince the world of a united desire.

Deprecates Extreme Measures.
New York Globe.

Now that the prohibition amendment has been passed the people want to see it enforced just as rigidly as it can be without interfering with the legitimate rights of citizens. If they are compelled to choose between having the law made a dead letter and having it enforced by the obtrusive measures proposed by a few of the prohibition fanatics they will take the former alternative. For the sake of temperance and for the sake of the law itself the friends of prohibition ought to halt this extravagant campaign before it is too late. If the sale of liquor is stopped as well as its manufacture for use other than as medicine or in the sacrament, the evil of drinking will pass away. It is not worth while to fill the country with spies and oppress it with despotic judges in order to prevent a few drink addicts behind locked doors from swallowing a last melancholy drop or two.

Discards Golden Rule.
Canadian Finance.

To many thousands in this country the slogan, "Hard work and thrift," makes no appeal for they have no option in the matter. Sheer necessity compels those people to work hard in order to provide the necessities of life for their families. Thrift, so far as it is possible, is also compulsory, for the conscientious bread-winner realizes his responsibility to his family for education, and similar necessities, and provides for them to the best of his ability. The Golden Rule is the ideal slogan and its adoption would have an immediate effect on the cost of the necessities of life. But a successful slogan should be a practical one—it may be that the time is not ripe for the adoption of the Golden Rule as a slogan. If this is the case, we must get busy.

What England Did.
The Outlook, London.

One of the most monstrous but persistent items of anti-British propaganda in the United States and Canada has been the suggestion that in the bloody fighting of the great war Englishmen had displayed a selfish, if not cowardly, regard of their own lives—while lavishly sacrificing those of Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Scotsmen (Welshmen, God, of course, above all, Irishmen). Indeed the legend is growing up that hardly any English men were over the top! It is characteristic of our people that, so far, they have treated this calumny with indifference and contempt, but retaliation can be carried too far, and it is necessary that the facts should be plainly stated. The official statistics are now all available, and show that out of every hundred white British subjects, throughout the empire, who laid down their lives in the war, no less than eighty-two were English, and the remaining eighteen contributed by Scotland, Ireland, Wales, and the overseas dominions. Or, if the losses of the United States are included, over 75 per cent. of the total of English-speaking men who made who made the supreme sacrifice came from little England alone. England is seldom attributed with her own achievements, but it is time we found a voice with which to pay the debt, Of boundless love and reverence and regret,
To those great men who fought and kept her ours.

A Laugh or Two

Up To You.

It's a gloomy day, a toothy day,
A blue and dismal rainy day,
A sad, forlorn and tearful day,
If you would make it so.

A lonesome day, a sighing day,
A cheerless and a crying day,
"What's the use in trying" day—
It's up to you, you know.

It's a glorious day, a happy day,
A joyous and a buoyant day,
A merry, laughing, snappy day,
If you would make it so.

A brilliant day, a sunny day,
A rare, a fair, a funny day,
A "good for making money" day—
It's up to you, you know.

Would She?

"Now, ladies and gentlemen," said the conjurer with a wave of the hand, "this is the magic cabinet. I invite any lady in the audience to enter this cabinet. I will then close the door, and when it shall be opened again the lady will have disappeared, leaving no trace."

There was an impressive silence until a little, undersized man in the second row turns into an enormous woman who sat by him and breathed heavily: "Maria, dear, won't you oblige the gentleman?"

The Bolshevik Boss.

Samuel Gompers was talking in Washington about his recent foreign tour.

"Heaven deliver us," he said, "from the Bolshevik type of labor leader!"

Here Mr. Gompers gave a hearty laugh.

"You know," he went on, "about the unemployment allowance of 25 shillings a week that is given to English labor? Well, a Bolshevik labor leader at a labor demonstration one night pointed to a modest neatly dressed young woman and hissed in my ear!

"'Scab! Look at the dirty scab! If it wasn't for her sex I'd heave her out of the window!'

"The Bolshevik gave an indignant snort.

"'Why,' he said, 'when her munition plant shut down she said it wasn't right—the dirty scab—to take the 25 shillings unemployment allowance when there were plenty of good places vacant, and got-blimey if she didn't go back to general housework!'"

BALLADE OF APPROACHING BALDNESS.
(Punch)

I'm back in civil life, all brawn and chest,
Lungs made of leather, heart as right as rain;
I still could dine off bully beef with zest;
I've never had a scratch or stitch or sprain;
Life seems to throb in every single vein,
Yet I'm a whilted sepulchre, in brief,
I've one foot in the grave, I'm on the wane,
I'm heading for the sere and yellow leaf.

From Mons to Jericho I've borne my And back from Jericho to Mons great—again;
I've sampled smells in Araby the Blest
Would burst a boiler or corrode a drain;
The blankshires have a sort that raises Cain—
I've messed with them and never came to grief;
And yet I'm dashing like a mon-etop
Full steam into the sere and yellow leaf.

It caught me hard this morning when I dressed
And read the mirror's verdict. Ah, the pain
Is gnawing like a canker at my breast,
Is beating like a hammer in my brain;
I hunt deep out of break beneath the strain,
I'm going bald on top! O, cruel fate!
Where youthful hopes lie wrecked! O, dismal lane
Whose end is but the sere and yellow leaf!

Envoi.

Prince (Mr. Punch!) on Armaged-don plain
My love-locks fell a prey to Time, the thief.
Regrets are useless, unguents are in vain;
Only remains the sere and yellow leaf.

SOLDIER HITS PREMIER

LAWSON WITH INKWELL

MELBOURNE, July 21.—As the outcome of a stormy interview between H. E. W. Lawson, Premier of Victoria and a deputation of soldiers in the Premier's office, the Premier was struck on the head and cut by an inkwell thrown by one of the soldiers. The men then proceeded to pitch the office furniture into the streets and forge up important official documents.

The police dispersed the rioters and arrested five of them. Later, a crowd attempted to rush the watch-house and stoned the police, but was dispersed with several casualties.

The difficulty had its origin yesterday in a crowd including returned soldiers and sailors, attempted to rush a military barracks. Shots were fired and a passing soldier was killed. There were several arrests made and afterward excited meetings of soldiers were held, at which the police methods were denounced.

Representatives of the soldiers went to Premier Lawson's office and demanded the release of the men arrested. The Premier promised to make an inquiry into the affair, but this did not satisfy the men, and the inkwell throwing and other disorders followed.

PLANE FLIGHT TO AND FROM SUDBURY

An aeropane flight from Toronto to Sudbury and return, a total distance of 600 miles, was completed by one of the "J. N." training planes of the International Aerial Transport Company. The flight, which to some degree was hazardous since between Toronto and Sudbury there is but one charted landing field, commenced last Thursday when Flt. Lieut. S. Dinsmore Moore, left the ground at Armour Heights, and after three and a half flying hours landed in Sudbury. But one stop, at Barrie, where a fresh supply of gasoline and oil was taken on board was made on the journey. On Saturday Flt. Lieut. Moore celebrated Peace Day with a flying exhibition at Sudbury and yesterday he flew back to the city. With him came Mr. L. Sargel, of Sudbury, who, coming to the city on a business trip, was probably the first business man to make use of this new mode of transport. An even better speed record was created on the return journey, the machine, a heavy training plane, equipped with a 90 horse-power motor, making the 259 miles in three flying hours.

Ethel Clayton in "Vicky Van" at Griffin's this week end is a bully picture that gets a half-Nelson on your interest with the very first scene and never let an instant relaxes its grip.

WOMAN FOUND MURDERED

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 24.—Police and county officials were seeking to solve the mystery of the murder of Miss Nettie Coates, of this city, whose body was found in a barnyard near Sodius. There was a bullet wound in the body. She had been missing several days.

An unhappy wife whose soul craves companionship and love, a dual existence, exposure, a fatal quarrel and one of those deep mysteries that makes you grip your seat until the last inch—these are a few of the reasons why you will want to see Ethel Clayton in "Vicky Van" at Griffin's this week and—a rattling good detective story with a big heart interest punch.

Ruth found that marriage doesn't always mean love, and she chose to lead a dual existence as a means of finding the one great thing her soul craved. And then came the exposure, the murder of her husband, and a mystery such as only a Fleming Stone could solve. Ethel Clayton was never better in this throbbing story of love and mystery, and you must see "Vicky Van" at Griffin's this week end to appreciate the heart-rending climax.

Social and Personal

Miss Davis and Miss Gertrude Davis have gone to Lake-of-Bays, Muskoka, where they spend the next month.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Toner, are spending their vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Toner, George St.

SWINGING A BUSINESS

Judicious advertising is the device that makes business boom. Classified Want Ads. are turns business bringers that are suitable to any business, large or small, and soon become big, and the big ones to become bigger.

New York restaurants and lunch rooms patronized wholly or in part by women are said to experience far more difficulty than other establishments of the kind in securing and retaining waiters or waitresses. Several explanations have been given, but the two chief reasons seem to be that the women patrons are far more difficult to please than the men—and the women don't tip. Even with large placards on the wall saying "No Tips," a man will leave a dime behind him. He simply can't help it. He hasn't the courage not to. But the majority of women don't hesitate to leave the table without placing a gratuity under the plate. Minus the customary tips, the waiter who serves in an establishment patronized by women has only his small wages for his work. Consequently he accepts employment in such a place only when he cannot find a position in a men's restaurant.

ADVERTISING FOR ADVERTISING

We will devote this space regularly to a series of advertisements to stimulate interest in our Classified Want Ads.

We are publishing advertising and practice our own precepts because we appreciate their value.

This series will be prepared with pertinent points of general interest, whether you wish to buy or sell, to employ or be employed, to borrow or to lend, to find a home or a tenant.

It will pay us to run these advertisements. That is the best proof we have to offer that it will pay you to be a user of our Classified Want Ads Column.

Canada To Decide Its Naval Policy

Legislation is Expected at Next Regular Session of Parliament.

OTTAWA, July 25.—Naval matters are likely to engage the attention of Parliament to some extent at the next regular sitting of the House, which will open during the winter months. Rear Admiral Jellicoe was accompanied by the imperial Government to confer with the Governments of the Overseas Dominions as to the best policy for them to adopt in the light of what was revealed by the war. Admiral Jellicoe will be a visitor to the Dominion this autumn, when the matter of after-the-war naval department will be discussed with him. It is not likely that any concrete conclusions will be arrived at in time for an announcement by the Government of a permanent naval policy at the special autumn session to be convened early in October, but it is regarded as more than likely that legislation dealing with the matter will be introduced at the winter session.

There is little disposition to speculate here as to what the permanent naval policy of the Dominion will be, but in view of the demonstration during the war of the ability of modern submarine craft to operate at great distances from their home bases, it is thought that provision will have to be made for an adequate system of coast defence.

Physician Murdered In Lonely Settlement

BROCKVILLE, July 25.—Lured to a lonely cabin settlement in the mountains of Colorado, Dr. Griffin S. Austin, aged fifty, of Strong, Colorado son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Austin of Lansdowne, was shot to death in a particularly cold-blooded manner, it is alleged, by a Mexican named Ben Martinez, whose sole motive in killing Dr. Austin was evidently to steal his motor car. After lying in the open all night with a bullet wound in his abdomen, Austin was discovered by a friendly American and rushed to St. Mary's Hospital, Pueblo, where he died on July 14. A deathbed statement by Dr. Austin implicated Martinez, and the latter is at present a prisoner in Huerfano County Jail, charged with murder. Particulars of the crime have been received by R. J. Austin of Lansdowne, brother of the murdered doctor, from Mr. S. Chapman, of Walsenburg, Colorado, who was a friend of Dr. Austin and who attended him after he had been wounded.

Murder And Outrage By Bandit Mexicans

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The House Rules Committee, which is conducting a preliminary investigation into Mexican situations with the investigation is to determine whether or not a more thorough and sweeping inquiry of the whole Mexican Problem shall follow, heard the terrible story of Mrs. Mary Correll, the Oklahoma woman whose husband was murdered by Mexicans and who herself was subjected to brutal and unprintable indignities by her husband's slayers.

Mrs. Correll's story was in the main as circumstantial accounts previously published. She added, however, the interesting information that the murder band was led by a man who spoke English and wore the uniform of an American soldier.

The principal witness, however, was William H. Mitchell, the General Manager of the Mexico City branch of the Bank of London. This bank, Mr. Mitchell testified, was looted by the Carranzas Government. Mr. Mitchell pointed out that Carranistas as well as certain bandit factions wore uniforms resembling that of the American army, and he added that in his opinion the fact that the leader of the band that murdered Mr. Correll and outraged his wife wore so garbed was evidence that he was not that the murderers were Carranistas.

Mr. Mitchell, who is an Englishman, has lived in Mexico for seven years. He left the country in 1917, but returned for a time in the summer of last year.

Liberals won twenty-six out of the thirty seats in the P. E. I. general election yesterday.

Former Belleville Man May Have Been Drowned

B. E. SILLS, OF KINGSTON, MISSING—HAT WITH HIS NAME IN FOUND IN EMPTY BOAT—BROTHER LIVES IN BELLEVILLE.

KINGSTON, July 25.—On Wednesday afternoon two lads named Hall, were coming in the city in their motor boat and just west of Cedar Island found a boat floating some distance from the shore. In it a mans' white sailor hat and navy blue coat with a gold watch in the breast pocket were found. Written in the hat was the name, B. E. Sills, 206 Bagot street. The police were immediately notified and P. C. Clark took possession of the articles. It was found that the boat was hired at 4 p.m. at Little's livery by a man who said he would return at 5 p.m.

From the position of the boat it is assumed that the occupant must have landed somewhere and leaving the boat insecurely fastened it was blown away by the west wind in the direction of Cedar Island. If it had been left at Cedar Island it would have gone down the river.

The missing man formerly belonged to aid in the search.

80,000 Gallons Gasoline Destroyed

BAYONNE, N.J., July 25.—Eight thousand gallons of gasoline, contained in eight tank cars, exploded on the switching track of the Texas Oil Company here this morning, causing a fire which resulted in the serious injury of four persons with many others suffering from minor burns. The property loss to the company was heavy. The cause of the first explosion has not been determined. The first car exploded about 7 o'clock and the flames enveloped the other cars before they could be removed from the danger zone. Explosions followed in rapid succession, rocking buildings two miles away.

The flames spread to two storehouses containing about 15,000 gallons of oil in cans as well as the filling room where the tanks are filled and for a time it appeared that the entire plant of the oil company was doomed.

Expelled From Union For Share in Strike

128 Trainmen Suspended by International Labor Officials, Says Witness.

WINNIPEG, July 25.—E. H. Cooke one of the officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was witness before the Robson Commission.

It was impossible for me to ascertain the names of men responsible for the unauthorized strike of our members," he told the commissioner.

"The men who served notice on the C.P.R., however, were H. H. Maybury G. Goodfellow and G. McDonald, so I assume I am justified in believing these men were the leaders."

One hundred and twenty-eight trainmen on the Canadian Northern lines were expelled from their unions by international officers for participating in the strike.

England's Big Coal Strike Will End Amicably To-Day

WHOLE TROUBLE AROSE THROUGH COAL CONTROLLER ATTEMPTING TO EVADE PIECE-RATE PROVISIONS OF SANKEY REPORT, WHICH GOVERNMENT HAD ADOPTED AS A WORKING BASIS.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 25.—(7 p.m.)—The strike of approximately a quarter of a million men in the coal mines, which threatened to paralyze industries, was settled today.

LONDON, July 25.—Yesterday was fully occupied with conferences between Premier Lloyd George and other members of the Government and the mining interests, and closed with the prospect of a settlement. According to the strike leaders in Yorkshire, the whole trouble arose through the Coal Controller attempting to evade the piece rate provisions of the Sankey report, which the Government had adopted as a working basis.

One of the results of the conference between the Premier and the miners' executive was a new piece rate offer on the part of the Government, which the Miners' Federation appointed a sub-committee to consider.

The sub-committee, which required elucidation of the points in detail, held a long conference last evening with the Coal Controller. No official report of this conference has been issued, but it was unofficially stated that when the Miners' Federation meets today to consider the sub-committee's report there is every prospect that a settlement will be reached.

An official report issued after the conference held today between Premier Lloyd George and the executive body of the Miners' Federation said an agreement had been reached and that the principle laid down by the government in its proposition has been adopted.

The Government proposition based on the interim report of the Sankey coal commission that the reduction in outputs through reduced hours would be less than ten per cent. afforded Government assurance that piece work rates should not suffer any loss in earnings and that piece rates would be increased by an amount which on an average was found necessary correspond with the ten per cent. reduction in hours.

In order to carry out this agreement says the report it was necessary to fix a definite average of reduction in working time resulting from the introduction of a seven hour day and after examination of figures it was decided the seven hours seven minutes as a basis for this calculation.

Liberal Sweep in P.E.I. Election

Twenty-six Liberals and Four Conservatives Returned.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., July 25—Complete return of yesterday's elections shows 26 Liberals and four Conservatives returned. Both leaders, Premier Arsenault and J. H. Bell, were elected. In addition to Premier Arsenault only two members of the executive weathered the landslide, viz —McNill, Commissioner of Public Works, and Kennedy, without portfolio. J. D. Stewart is the fourth Conservative elected. McKinnon, Commissioner of Agriculture was defeated.

"ANZAC" SACRED TERM;

WANT NO ABUSE OF IT

NEW YORK, July 25.—Request that American business houses refrain from commercializing the term "Anzac," the abbreviation for the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps, was made here by the Australian Commission in the United States.

"Some American firms have adopted 'Anzac' as a trade name," said D. B. Edward, Secretary of the Commission. "That New Zealand and Australia the word is consecrated by memories of their heroic deed. This country's trademark laws seem clearly to indicate that any emblem or insignia in any way sacred to another nation shall be respected, and not commercialized."

Bolshevik Army Driven Back

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, July 25.—The Bolshevik army is being driven back to Petrograd by Northern Russian army and Finns. Many Bolshevik troops are turning over to Antics to save themselves from starving.

Three Little Sisters Drowned Together

OWEN SOUND, July 25.—A most distressing fatality occurred near Rockford, about three miles from Owen Sound, when three little girls, daughters of W. E. Foster, were drowned in the Sydenham River at the back of the father's farm.

The children, aged nine, eleven and twelve, had gone to bathe, but instead of going to their usual place, went to a spot where the water was quite deep. When the children did not return home after several hours' absence, their mother became alarmed, and on going to the river found their clothes on the bank. The bodies were recovered shortly afterward. When found the youngest was clasped in the arms of the oldest. This, and the fact that, while the youngest girl was wearing her bathing suit, the two others' suits were lying with their clothes, leads to the belief that the little one had gone in first and got beyond her depth, and that the others had hurried to her rescue and all perished together.

Fielding Favored By Eastern Libs

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press, Limited

OTTAWA, July 25.—As a result of the defeat yesterday of the Conservative Government of Prince Edward Island Province, eight of the nine provincial members of Canada, will be delegates, it is expected in attendance at National Liberal Convention in Ottawa from August fifth to seventh. All provincials parliaments except Ontario are now majority Liberals.

It is believed that two chairmen will be selected for the convention, Premier Geen, of Quebec, and Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia.

Regarding the leader to be selected it is understood that while western members will insist on a western man Hon. Mr. Fielding seems to be the favorite of eastern Liberals.

Village Wiped Out By Forest Fires

DETROIT, Mich., July 25.—Forest fires in Northern Michigan which have assumed serious proportions, according to advices received here. It is reported that Dollar Settlement on the White Fish Bay shore about thirty miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie was wiped out late yesterday but that residents escaped on the lake. Explosions of dynamite blasts for a time yesterday threatened a number of houses on the outskirts of Sault Ste. Marie, but was brought under control by city employees.

In the northern part of the lower peninsula, fire has broken out anew east of Mancelona. One of the largest camps owned by the Antrim Iron Company was destroyed this morning, and volunteer fire brigades have been rushed to the scene.

C.N.R. Has Not Bought A Ton of U.S. Coal

Sir Robert Borden Puts Question on Nova Scotia Miners Rumor.

SYDNEY, N. S., July 25.—As a result of a telegram from Sir Robert Borden was read dealing with coal purchases by the National Railway Board, during the recent time R. H. Butts announced that United Mine Workers' leaders were engaged and agitators.

The secretary of the meeting started the proceedings by reading a number of prepared questions which were, evidently designed as points for the politicians who were expected to be present. The questions dealt mainly with unemployment at Sydney Mines and the Government's apparent inability in the matter of furnishing orders for coal.

Mr. Butts started by observing that judging from the appearance of the audience there was nothing much the matter with the people of Sydney Mins. He reminded them that he was not now a member for North Cape Breton, and that the questions submitted should have been better put to D. D. McKenzie and other local liberals. For himself he had been chased out of the constituency and was now representing another. He recalled the fact that after a recent meeting he was accused of cowardice for not having attended, but he was there to let them know he was not afraid to speak out.

BEWARE OF AGITATORS

Mr. Butts then proceeded to score the local labor leaders. He told his hearers to beware of agitators, whose only business apparently was to go up and down the country creating discontent and trouble in mining industrial centres. The worst enemies the men had were amongst themselves. There is too much "pitch" going on and he commended the remarks of Mayor as a previous meeting by Lieut. Col. J. A. MacDonald, who advised the workers to be careful in their choice. Above all he said beware of the strike promoter and of all those who were inclined to I.W.W. and Bolshevism.

The secretary then read the following telegram on the C. N. R. coal situation from Sir Robert Borden:

"Mayor McConnell,

Sydney Mines, C. B.

"The Canadian National Railway Board advises me that they are purchasing over 200,000 tons more of Nova Scotia coal this year than last year and although the present weekly consumption is only 19,000 tons there are placed orders with sixteen different companies in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton and over thirty different companies 10,485 tons a week. They have distributed their orders with due regard to the output of the various mines and could not, if all American coal has been purchased to supplant Nova Scotia coal. Unfortunately the Dominion Coal Company and Nova Scotia, Coal Company are handicapped in the St. Lawrence commercial trade by the present universal shortage of tonnage and this embargo largely affected the Cape Breton and Nova Scotia outlook. The Canadian National is still taking large quantities in spite of actual requirements and cannot add to its present orders as they are operating by two boats between Quebec and Sydney."

Croatia Would Be A Republic

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PARIS, July 25.—Despatches from Agram and Gratz report a serious military revolt in Croatia. The revolt is asking the form of a movement for separation from Austria and the formation of a republic. Violent combats occurred Tuesday and a large part of the garrison refused to fight. Thirty persons were killed and many wounded.

Troops are leaving their units, officers and soldiers are tearing off their insignia and the army is in a state of dissolution, advices say. The Serbians are trying to suppress the revolt. They have sent use of troops, both Serbian and Croatian.

Aged Citizen Found Dead in Bed

Mr. Joseph Boseley, who lived alone at 17 Sinclair street, city, was last evening found dead in bed. Recently neighbors have been in the habit of visiting Boseley and taking him some delicacies. On Wednesday he was heard about the house and yard, but yesterday no one saw him. Mr. William Hardon, who resides next door, last evening went to Boseley's house but was unable to gain an entrance or to find any trace of life about the place. He secured the services of Mr. E. J. Brown, also a neighbor and the two gained an entrance into the house by raising a window. Upon going up stairs they were startled to find Boseley dead in bed having apparently passed away whilst he slept and the bed clothes had not been disturbed. The police were notified of the occurrence as was Dr. Yeomans, coroner, who, learning the facts of the case deemed it unnecessary to hold an inquest. The body was conveyed to Tickell & Sons Undertaking Establishment and prepared for burial. Deceased was 76 years of age and was born at Kingston but had lived the greater portion of his life in this city. For a number of years he was engaged as a painter in Walker's Foundry but of late years owing to ill health, had lived a retired life. A number of years ago his wife and daughter died. One brother James, resides in Utica. Deceased was a veteran of 1866 having done duty on the frontier during the troublesome times of that year. He was also in early life a member of the Belleville volunteer fire department having been attached to the hook and ladder department. Deceased was known to many in this city.

BOGUS CHEQUE ARTIST.

A stranger tried to put over a bogus cheque on the firm of Kingaby & O'Beirne, Kingston, jewellers, on Wednesday. The man ordered jewellery to the value of $138, and then gave a cheque for the amount on a Kingston bank. As Mr. O'Beirne did not know the man, he asked him to wait a minute. He then telephoned the bank on which the cheque was drawn, and found that the party had no account there. As a result there was no sale and the man made a hurried exit.

"TWILIGHT"

A twilight recital will be given by Mr. V. P. Hunt in Bridge St. Church, Sunday, after the evening service, 8.30 o'clock. Mr. T. G. Mitchelmore, a blind organist of London, Ont., Miss Stirebel Walton and Mr. James Booth have kindly consented to assist. All interested in music are invited to attend.

STROKE PROVED FATAL

A few days ago Mr. George W. Burgess, who conducted a grocery business on Dundas street in this city was the victim of a paralytic stroke, which proved fatal as he passed away last evening. Deceased was in his 45th year and was born at Weaverville, Va., for the past 12 years Mr. Burgess had been in business here and was well and favorably known throughout the city, where he had many friends. He was a member of the Methodist Church. A widow and one son, John R., at home, survive.

A WORTHY OBJECT

At the Village of Shannonville last evening under the auspices of the Shannonville Library Association a lawn social was held which was largely attended, the object was to provide money for a memorial library to commemorate the memory of the Shannonville boys who gave their lives in defence of their country. Mr. W. Elliott of this city, was chairman and gave an address, as did also Rev. Mr. Stregan, ex-Mayor Hitchcock and Mr. Ponton. The Foxboro band was present and discoursed an excellent programme of music. A good sum was realized for the worthy object.

FORD AFTER STOCK OF FORD OF CANADA

DETROIT, July 25.—Ford Motor Co. of Canada stock has advanced more than 100 points within last two weeks, from $250 on July 10 to a new high mark of $459 to-day.

There has been active buying all the way up, and brokers handling the issue are passing but information that interests close to Henry Ford are accumulating the stock to give the motor magnate a greater majority of the stock than he formerly held.

Ford Motor Company of Canada is a seperate organization, with the $7,000,000 of capital stock outstanding fairly well distributed among the public. It controls sales rights of the Ford Car in Great Britain and Colonies.

Par value of the stock is $100. It sold as low as 146 in 1918 and in the same year went as high as 252. Authorized capitalization is $10,000,000.

KNIGHTED IN 1908 NOW IN WORKHOUSE

LONDON, July 25.—From a position of affluence popularity and public service which won him a seat in Parliament and a knighthood, Sir Lake White is ending his days as the inmate of a workhouse infirmary in Driffield. Clever enough to rise from poverty to a noted career, injudicious investments brought him low, and at the height of his political power he was forced to confess himself bankrupt. He carried down with him numerous trusting constituents and his liabilities of $135,000 included $95,000 in loans from poor people who had confided their all to him. The shame of having thus wrecked the savings of those who believed in him completely unnerved him. Now he is dependent on public charity, his spirit utterly crushed and he is one of the most pitiful figures in the north of England.

The high price of tobacco is seriously interfering with the pipe of peace, mourns the Kingston Standard.

Demand A Refund Of All Excess Profits

Comprehensive Recommendations Made at Army and Navy Veterans' Convention.

MONTREAL, July 25.—Land and sea veterans of every war in which Great Britain has participated from the Crimea to the present met in the Windsor Hotel, as delegates for the Dominion convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in the War. The delegates include W. H. Tupper, K.C., Dominion President, son of the late Sir Charles Tupper. Members of the Dominion executive, who arrived were Major H. E. Beck, Regina; E. W. Lowe, Winnipeg; R. C. Irving, Winnipeg; T. J. Young, Victoria; and J. G. Evans, Kingston. Major W. Gordon and C. H. Cross, were already on the ground and welcomed the incoming veterans.

Drastic Proposals

Drastic proposals for making profiteers refund excess profits to the national treasury, for reducing the high cost of living and keeping the cost of the necessary commodities of life at a reasonable figure, and for its toil, and for business enterprises a fair return on the capital actually used were made at the convention by the Winnipeg delegates.

Would Appoint Tribunal

The recommendations made include appointment of a competent tribunal by the Federal authorities, upon which tribunal organized farmers, organized labor and organized soldiers should be represented with full powers of investigation.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Farmer More Has Gained 37 Pounds

All Troubles Overcome By Taking Tanlac—Had Suffered Eight Years.

"I suffered for eight long years before I found a medicine that would help me any good, but since taking Tanlac I have gained exactly thirty-seven pounds, and all my troubles have been completely overcome," said John N. Moore, a well known and prosperous farmer who lives on R. F. D. No. 4, Empire, Ill., while in Shorthouse's drug store in Bloomington the other day.

"When I commenced taking Tanlac," he continued, "I had reached the point where I couldn't do any work at all, and was forced to hire a hand to take my place on the farm. I had suffered so much and so long with stomach trouble, I was just about down and out as far as health and strength was concerned. During all these years my appetite was very poor, and what little I did manage to eat would cause me worlds of suffering. Gas would form on my stomach so bad that I could hardly get my breath, and I would have the worst sort of cramping spells. I finally got to where I was hardly able to relish what I ate, and would actually get nauseated every time I looked at anything to eat. I had fallen off so much, and was so low in health that all my friends were talking about the awful condition I was in. I was very nervous all the time, and never knew what a good night's sleep was.

"I heard about Tanlac, then, and although I would give it a trial. Well, sir, my friends and neighbors are taking differently now. They are asking me what in the world have I been taking to make such a big improvement in my condition, and it just does my heart good to tell them that Tanlac did it. It is wonderful the way I have gained in weight and strength. I can go to the field now and do as much hard work as any hand on the farm. My stomach seems to be in perfect condition and I never have indigestion, and am not bothered with gas forming after meals. I have the best appetite I ever had in my life, and can eat just anything I want. I am free from all kidney troubles, too, and sleep just like a boy every night. Tanlac has done all that for me, and I am as well and hearty now as I ever was in my life, and as long as I live I will pass the good word along to others who suffer as I did."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Herrington, in Madoc by J. Wm. Vineberg, in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

CHAPTER XXX—Continued.

I looked on that strange scene in the moonlight more with sorrow than with spectacular pleasure. Of the hosts and men who had sailed from London a bare two hundred were moving across the ice to their final goal. Of these many limped, and still a few had but a single arm, while the number of gashed faces and bandaged heads bore witness to the fierce nature of a contest from which scarce a man had come out unscathed. More than one hundred men were unable to leave the camp. With wistful eyes and envious eyes on their lips they watched their more fortunate comrades depart across the ice. The other s's hundred odd were dead. Some had died in the long journey to the Frozen North and the first cruel winter, others had fallen victims to disease but the great majority had perished on the field of battle. And for what had they died? Not indeed for the glory of their country, nor in the pursuit of science nor yet for their own advantage; but to place a stranger on the throne of a strange kingdom! Yet they had died as brave men will ever fight, to help a women in distress and right a grievous wrong; and they had not died in vain. From the bour when the first shot was fired against the walls of Santa Maria to that last bloody day, when more than two hundred of us, in the embrasures of our fortress, the throne of the Lady Thora had been in their keeping and they had kept it well. It was with their labors and with their lives that the foundations of a new kingdom had been wrought and set in place.

Yet it was no time for melancholy thoughts such as these. There before us in the white light of the moon lay the goal of every man's ambitions. For some the crowning victory of the war. For others the fulfilled hope of many years—the discovery of the North Pole. It was a striking scene. The great plain of ice, dotted with crawling speck of humanity. In the distance a ring of broken floes, the lonely remaining trace of what had first city wall had stood. Beyond that a wilderness of dark objects, breaking through the crust of ice, towers, spires and other tall buildings that not been totally submerged. Then another line of wall, seven feet in height though in foundations more than thirty yards beneath the ice. Then more scattered islands of stone, but higher and numerous, and then another wall, this time twenty feet in height then a wide moat of smooth unbroken ice; and finally the castle itself dark and silent like some huge monument reared to the memory of a dead city. I have looked on many scenes of desolation in my life. Gordon on the ruins of burning sand, on wastes of sea and granite rock, on interminable fields of ice and snow; but I do not think anything has appeared to me more desolate than the ice-bound and ice-buried city of Arranches. It was not mere ly that it was dark and cold and silent, but that it did itself seem to be the tomb of all light, and life, and sound.

We reached the ice blocks which marked the line of the outer wall without hindrance or interruption. We were more than a hundred from the castle, but death might have lurked behind every piece of masonry that littered the ice, yet we were glad to reach the shelter of the jagged floes. Some of them were over four feet in thickness and we had considerable difficulty in getting our gun through the barrier.

We moved towards the next wall with every precaution. Dr. Silex, I formed perfect fortification for either a defending or attacking force, and it seemed hardly likely that the enemy would allow us even to reach within opposition. Yet such was the case. We passed a few dead bodies glued to the surface of the ice by a frozen pool of blood, but no living soul offered to oppose us. Even in the castle itself there was no sign of life. Not a single figure was silhouetted against the moonlit sky and not a single light gleamed from its long rows of windows and loopholes. The silence was suspicious. Under the shelter of the outer work we extended our lines so as to surround the whole wall. Yet no one saw or heard us as we did so.

We waited for an hour. Then Count Guy saw that the cold was only inflaming the impatient spirits of our men, and the advance continued. The water was now lower in the town, and our path more difficult. We moved among the tops of the houses which formed dwarfed streets in all directions. The terrible nature of the catastrophy I had conceived was marked by the moonlight. Blocks of ice hanging through the windows; floors of ice; long icicles festooned from the walls; household goods piled and frozen together into shapeless blocks; here and there a dead body, white and rigid, still preserved in the frost, and cased into a tomb of ice. It was terrible to look upon. I saw the face of a woman peering up through the glassy surface and could read a curse on her half-opened lips. A little further on a child stared up at me with eyes of piteous terror. One of its tiny hands still grasped a rudely fashioned toy. I gave

Masked Robbers Operate in Toronto

TORONTO, July 25.—Hardly a day passes but reports reach the police of the unpleasant and nocturnal operations of mysterious gentry in masks, and equipped with approved bandit accoutrements. The latest in this wise was made known to the police, when the Law Brothers, laundrymen, 618 Gladstone Avenue, were held up by two masked men, armed with rifles and robbed of cash to the amount of $40. The story completed, the masked marauders left the way they had come, and disappeared into the night.

According to the story told by the two Chinamen, they were shutting up for the night near midnight, when the intruders appeared in the front doorway, and with levelled rifles ordered them to throw up their hands, and "shell out." The frightened Chinamen in response to the demands of the robbers, indicated the location of the till, and while one of the men kept the Celestials covered with his rifle, the other looted the cashbox of all it contained.

It would seem that an organized gang is working at this particular phase of crime, and that motor cars are popular means of quick transportation when the robbers desire to make a getaway. In almost every robbery of this kind reported for the past six months, autos have figured largely in the scheme.

DEWART'S WAR RECORD.

Hartley Dewart is impossible as a political leader principally because of his war record. He was one the few men prominent in public life outside of Quebec who supported the proposition to defer raising reinforcements for the hard-pressed Canadian soldiers on the battlefields of France until a vote could be taken on the question. At the most critical period of the entire war Dewart's politics were more to him apparently that the appeals from Canadian soldiers for reinforcements and he is the man chosen by Ontario Liberals as represented or misrepresented in the Toronto convention as their ideal of a leader worthy of being elected Premier of Ontario. Liberal prohibition papers may be sincere in their attacks upon Dewart because he will not declare himself upon the temperance question, but the returned soldiers and their relatives will rt remember Dewart's war record before anything else and judge him accordingly when the time comes to vote for a new legislature.

REACH OUT FOR BIG THINGS.

Peace time production possibilities know no limits for Canada, and judging by the magnitude of Canada's war effort there will be big doings in the industrial world in peace times, for the larger vision and ability to do big things is not lacking. One of the finest sites for an intensive industrial undertaking is situated right at the very doors of Belleville city with the finest shipping facilities by water and three railways. In addition there are vast ore deposits close at hand to provide the raw material for large metal industries, besides every advantage in markets, and attractive home life for workers. Large captains of industry have examined the plans for a great industrial centre adjacent to Belleville and have pronounced them sane and perfectly feasible. The first thing necessary, however, to the success of these plans is to secure the hearty co-operation of the owners of the land comprised in the proposed industrial site. Selfish efforts to take advantage of the opportunity to unduly inflate the sale price of the lands in question may defeat the entire project, but an effort will be made to acquire options on the land at fair valuation in a straightforward way with all the cards upon the table and with a full knowledge of all the details presented.

The project seems a large one, but this is a day of big men and big undertakings and only by aiming high can we hope to attain the heights. Nothing venture, nothing win, and who could be better employed than in an effort to bring increased prosperity to this section?

SILVER TOWN OBJECTED TO CARNIVAL.

The mining town of Cobalt, forewarned by other municipalities, refused to permit one of the carnival shows, which have been epidemic in Canada for some time, to do business there. The Cobalt authorities care to be congratulated for their good sense, but many other places suffered in more or less indignant silence during the visitation of fakirs and purveyors of poor entertainment and gambling devices masquerading under a patriotic label and thus cheating municipalities out of the local license fees. Provincial and Federal authorities, not so easily footed, insisted upon the full license fees regardless of the patriotic label, the provincial fee alone being fifty dollars per day.

During the stay of a carnival in a community a great deal of the business which ordinarily is enjoyed by tax-paying confectionery and ice-cream stores is diverted to the show grounds and goes out of town with the show, leaving hardly a nickel on the dollar behind as memorials.

The whole carnival idea is an orgy of gambling for dolls and other things, with the odds many times against the player. The carnival connects up with some local organization and thus secures cancellation of the ordinary license fee, besides protection for its mediocrity and gambling features.

In the best of carnival shows the gambling rake-off is the principal feature, but the show as a rule saves its face by providing good entertainment in wild animal shows, dog and pony exhibitions, etc. When the fake spreads even to the entertaining features then is the public long-suffering indeed to put up with it.

The provincial censor should be instructed to report on all shows entering Canada and promptly cause all undesirable aggregations to be deported.

∴ CRISP COMMENT ∴

The London Daily Express says very truly concerning the Peace: "The fairest of our world are not decided, and of us, on every one of us, on our capacity for sacrifice and effort, must depend the future for which a million have laid down their lives."

That brilliant, clever, witty and artistic cartoonist, Mr. A. G. Racey, of the Montreal Star, summed up the present state of the world in his cartoon of last Friday in which the Angel of Peace is sitting on the world volcano and saying, "Well, the lid is on the main crater tight enough to celebrate."

What, asks Life, has become of the poor workingman who used to say every Saturday night, "Well, thank goodness, I still have my job?" Maybe he's in the garage fixing up the car for a Sunday trip, suggests the Kingston Whig.

"Canning" is a misnomer as now applied to mother's indoor sport of putting up fruits and vegetables. "Jarring" is the word. Jarring is better in every way. When mother jars she jars the whole house, says a Toronto Star paragrapher who evidently speaks whereof he knows.

In a diocesan letter the Bishop of Exeter compares the Empire to a steam-engine that is laboring under a heavy load. "There is great danger," he says, "that the most important factor in the engine, where there is friction between Capital and Labor, should run hot. Many a mischief maker has tried to put sand into the bearing—what is needed is oil."

An editorial writer on one of the London Sunday papers who has evidently travelled extensively—in his dreams—says he is not surprised at the strike in Winnipeg, "where some very curious political views have long been developing." With knowledge of those regions, however, I should be inclined to look across the border to Seattle for the underground headquarters of the movement." To "look across the border" from the Middle West and gaze on Seattle would need not only a very long rubber neck, but a very powerful periscope. And yet the Department of the Interior has been distributing Canadian geographies free to public schools in Great Britain for over twenty years, especially maps of Western Canada and the Coast,

OTHER VIEWS

Let the People Decide.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Provincial prohibition, according to Mr. Dewart, leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, is a question for the people and should be kept out of party politics. He is right. It is an important question, and it should be dealt with on its merits. The issue should not be complicated by party considerations. It is seldom that the people of this country have the opportunity of dealing with a public question exclusively on its merits.

Not a Man of Honor.

Philadelphia Record.

While the possible trial of the former Kaiser is under discussion in Germany and out of it, and the former Kaiser's ministers and his five younger sons — the former Crown Prince has accounts of his own to settle—have offered, to substitute for him. William II. does not take this action that one would expect from a man of honor. He is a fugitive from his army and from his country. He ran away because his army would not fight longer for him, and he was afraid to go back to Berlin. One of the German comic papers printed a cartoon showing the Kaiser disappearing in the distance, while the foreground is occupied by a throng of Germans, famished and in sorrow. The legend beneath the cartoon was: "We shed no tears for him, for he left no tears to shed." Now it is far more dignified for a defeated monarch to surrender to his enemy than to run away. Were William II. a man of honor he would no longer embarrass his own country or the one to which he fled for safety; he would promptly give himself up to the Allies.

Produce.

London Free Press.

The same economic laws that force up the price of coal to the British consumer and that compel the Premier of Italy to tell his people that production is their one safeguard against high prices are laws that prevail here. Not until the world has replenished her stores, has recouped her storehouses for the losses that war has imposed, will living costs come down. Governments can and must prevent profiteering. They can and must encourage production. But it is not given to governments to provide the solution. Governments are not all-powerful. Power is with the people. By persistent and intelligent production they can remedy the ills of which they complain.

Foch's Favorites.

Canadian Military Gazette

The writer has the following story from a gentleman in whose word he has absolute confidence: Shortly before the armistice a private luncheon was given by a lady in Paris to a number of her friends, of whom Marshal Foch was one. In the course of the conversation the lady said: "Marshal, will you tell us who are your best soldiers?" He replied, "Madam, that is a hard question. To begin with I must not speak of my own poilus. But you have asked and I shall answer—Mes enfants cheris sont les Canadiens". (My dear children are the Canadians). The point to note is that Foch was not speaking for publication, but at a private gathering and amongst his fellow-countrymen only.

The Coming Trial.

New York Times.

It is lucky for William Hohenzollern that his trial is to take place on English soil—not at all because the English will be more sympathetic with him than another nation might be, but because there is a traditional fairness and impartiality about English justice which no other country, not even our own, has been able to surpass. The object of the French and Italian courts is to obtain a conviction; the aim of an English court is to administer justice. Our own practice is marred by far too much opportunity for delay, by devices of technicality that cheat justice of her due.

THE QUEEN OF FLOWERS.

There came at purple even
An angel from the skies,
To bear a gift of Heaven
To gladden human eyes;
So now I see adorning
My green and grey lawn,
This flower of the morning,
Born at the early dawn.

Thou art the Queen of Flowers,
Thou sweet, enchanting rose,
The fairest in the bowers,
Kissed by the breeze that blows;
So away my heart forever
And make it beauty's throne,
That I, indeed, may never
Dwell in this world alone.

Upon the air ascending,
How fragrant is thy breath,
With daintly odors blending
Beyond the lands of death!
The holy incense offered
Upon the golden shrine
The sweetest ever proffered
Before the throne divine.

I'll pluck thee for the maiden
Who pledged her love to me,
Whose heart is richly laden
With its sincerity;
She shall become the wearer
Of thee, my rose divine,
For none indeed, is fairer
Than this sweetheart of mine.
—O. McCullough.

THE LAND OF TEARS.

Went back "home" last week to see
If things were the same as they used to be.
Got sort o' tired of city life—
Noise and crowding and ceaseless strife—
Yearned to look at the old gray town
Out at its elbows and running down,
Thought it would seem good 'cross the years,
Found instead 'twas a lane of tears!
Gaps in the ranks of the boys I knew;
Girls mostly widows; only a few
Seemed to have lived and made their way;
Nobody nigh who cared to play.
Weren't even glad to have me come—
There just in time to remind me of some
Grief and care that had grown between
Them and me since Time was green,
Black the color, mixed with blue,
Where I had looked for a rosy hue:
My mind teemed with memories sad
They saw only the darkest night,
Past full of gloom, no future at all.
Just satisfying themselves to await the call
From the Angel of Death who'd passed next door,
Sighing and wishing of "Nevermore."
Came straight back to the crowd and noise,
The seething city and its joys,
Where life stays young despite its years,
Leaving forever the Land of Tears.

DEAD BABIES FOUND IN SEWER MANHOLE

MONTREAL, July 25.—Two little naked bodies, apparently about one week old, were found in a sewer manhole at the corner of Sherbrooke Street west and Bonny Street by a cleaner as he was preparing to clean the fifth from the drain. They were packed tightly in an old cardboard box, and without the slightest trace of identification.

A squadron of sixteen aeroplanes assigned for Canada by the Overseas Club may be expected shortly from England according to Mr. Francis R. Jones, D. S. O., who recently arranged with the Imperial Air Ministry to present to the Canadian Military Authorities in the name of the Overseas Club and Patriotic Leagues a complete squadron of sixteen aeroplanes. They consisted of the following, viz: seven originally subscribed for in Canada and nine others, including one from the City of Liverpool.

No. 7 Ontario, Canada. £1,500 presented by the residents in the Province of Ontario, through Mr. Fane Sewell, H. C. S., College and Spadina, Toronto.

No. 13. Montreal No. 1 £2,250 presented by Mr. Robert Hampson, of Montreal, through Mr. George Lightball, H. C. S.

No. 15. Montreal No. 2. £2,250 presented by the British Empire Grain Co., of Montreal, through Mr. George Lightball, H. C. S.

No. 15. St. Catharines, Ontario. £1,500 presented by Major R. W. Leonard of the Corps of Guides.

No. 17. Nova Scotia. £2,250 presented by the people of Nova Scotia. Collected by the Halifax Branch of the Overseas Club.

No. 27. Montreal No. 3. £2,250 presented by the Board of Trade, Montreal, through Mr. Lightball, H. C. S.

No. 75 (Montreal No. 4. £2,250, presented by the Board of Trade, Montreal, through Mr. G. Lightball, H. C. S.

The following machines were subscribed for by the members of the Overseas Club in various parts of the world:—No. 61 to No. 68. Six machines presented by members of the Overseas Club on Empire Day, 1916.

No. 73. Seven Seas. £1,750 presented by the members of the Overseas Club.

No. 101. Drions Overseas. £1,500, presented by the members of the Overseas Club and Patriotic League.

The sixteenth machine, added at the last moment, was given by Captain A. M. Simpson, of Hewsalt, Cheshire, in the names of the City of Liverpool.

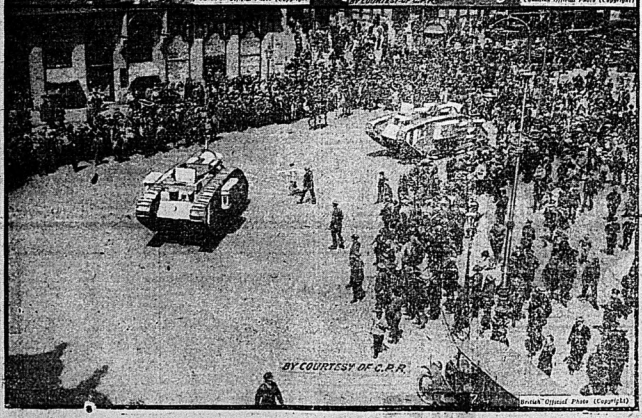

The actual presentation took place at London Aerodrome, near London, Mr. Evelyn Wrench, C. M. G., Chairman and founder of the Over Seas Club, formally asked the Air Ministry to hand over the machines.

Lord Londonderry also made the presentation, referring to the great work of the Over Seas Club during the war, mentioned that 175 members and associates had served in the forces, and members in all parts of the world as a certain acting secretary at Headquarters in England and is now touring the Dominions from East to West with the object of visiting local branches and members, and further increasing the already large membership. Just previous to crossing the Atlantic he visited France, Belgium and Germany as the guest of the Canadian Military Authorities, and has some interesting things to say about this and his war time experiences in the Old Country.

In several cities the Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce have convened special meetings of their members to hear Mr. Jones speak. The Canadian Club and the Chapter of the I. O. D. E. have also with their accustomed public spirit arranged many special meetings in order that he may address their members. Next year Mr. Jones is in the Maritime Provinces. In August he goes west to the Pacific Coast visiting all important points and has already a long list of engagements. In the latter end of September and in October he will address meetings in Ontario and Quebec.

Ethel Clayton in Mysterious Detective Story at Griffith's—Charlie Chaplin and Mary Fuller.

Ethel Clayton supplies her unexampled versatility in her new picture, "Vicky Van" which is the feature offering at Griffin's for the week-end. Carolyn Wells wrote the book which has been one of the season's best sellers It is, probably the best of the author's long series of detective novels dealing with the exploits of Stone, her own particular creation. The story concerns a girl who marries a man old enough to be her father. She is unhappy, and when she inherits wealth in her right, conceals the fact and secures an adjoining residence in which she arranges a secret entrance from her original home. She goes there whenever her husband is away and in disguise poses as Vicky Van, a delightful hostess to a gay Bohemian set. Later her husband discovers the deception and one young man who has become interested in th unhappy young wife. The husband chokes her in his rage. Later he is found dead. Many are suspected and then enters Fleming Stone, the famous detective to solve the mystery.

Charlie Chaplin also appears in one of the best comedies he has appeared in Belleville in some time titled "The Bank" In initial screening in Belleville, the Ontario News with its gist of important news events and Mary Fuller in "The Beautiful Imposter" completes a bill all of which will be shown again to-night, and Saturday matinee and night.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain. How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc. are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food ferments, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases as they are real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of pure bisurated magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acids, gases, and thus counteracts sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people to enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Called by Death

MAJOR C. E. ROBERTSON, M. D.

Major A. C. Robertson, M. D. died at Calgary, After an illness of about three and a half years, of rheumatism which he contracted in France.

The late Dr. Robertson was a native of Madoc Village, being the eldest son of the late John and Sarah Robertson He was a graduate of medicine of Queen's University and had a very successful practitioner, being considered an authority in surgery.

After graduating he went to Klondyke then to Dawson City, Yukon, and subsequently moved to Edmonton where he had a large practice. At the outbreak of the war he offered his services to his country and was sent to France where he endured the hardships of the first Canadian campaign. In November 1916, after eight months in the trenches with the boys, the late Major Robertson was forced to go to England having contracted rheumatism. He was advised to go to Canada and can'e over as a medical officer with the first Canadians to return. On arriving here he became worse, and in spite everything possible was done by the Militia Department to effect his recovery he lingered on with slight hope of a partial recovery.

He was a man of strong physique and while he suffered much as a result of his service overseas he always affirmed that he never regretted having gone as he felt it a duty he owed to his country.

His wife, who is a daughter of Rev. Mr. Porter, of Toronto, and family survive, also his mother and one brother, Dr. J. A. Robertson.

The remains were interred in Edmonton.—Campbellford Herald.

The late Dr. Robertson is a nephew of Mrs. Wm. Orr of Madoc.—Madoc Review.

Action every second—fascination in every reel—mystery that interests and thrills, and a surprising final twist that keeps you all unprepared — that's "Vicky Van" with Ethel Clayton at Griffin's this week-end.

PLENTY OF WORK

TORONTO, July 25.—"There is no need for any man in the province of Ontario to be out of work, provided that he is willing to tackle some line of business in which he has had no previous experience," said J. A. Miller of the Ontario government employment bureau, "The demands for farm labor are at wages of from forty to fifty dollars a month are far more than we can fill. The whole thing is that we cannot get the men to leave the city. So far as female help is concerned, we are absolutely unable to meet the demands. Factory girls are impossible to obtain. This to my mind, is very largely due to the fact that the young Canadian girls have married since the soldiers came back from the war. The English girls do not suit all the Canadian soldiers, by any means."

PARTY GOVERNMENT BEST, SAYS PROFESSOR

KINGSTON, July 25.—Prof. O. D. Skelton, of Queen's Quarterly in an article entitled "Party Government" says in part as follows: "It is apparent that party lines will soon reform. Once the emergency which called for the formation of a coalition breaks down, the porising, deadlock, intrigue, a more cancelling of principles. The return to party government will be for the better. Party lines will be lines of clear cut, and that men take advantage of the shuffle to align themselves according to their real convictions, not according to inherited faction prejudices. Apparently the Unionist party will be perpetuated. How far it will assume a semi-Liberal character depends in some degree on whether the unreconstructed Conservatives of the Rogers' wind stay in the party and help shape its tendencies or hive off into a temporary dissidence.

Mitchell's Hobby Made Him Famous

BRIG.-GEN. C. E. MITCHELL, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Legion of Honor, (French), Order of Leopold, Croix de Guerre (Belgium), Order of the Crown and Cross of War (Italian) had a hobby. And that hobby suddenly picked him up in its arms and carried him up to the stars.

In spite of the blazing streak of ribbon on his left breast, he is not a professional soldier. Before the war, he was an engineer, an enthusiastic investigator of industry, both in the engineering and sociological sense. And he had a hobby which he rode feverishly, furiously, joyously.

And that hobby was the science of military intelligence.

In his younger days, when he was consulting engineer at Niagara, he was a member of an infantry militia regiment. But that line of soldiering—roadmaster drills, desultory shooting and an annual camping frolic with red-coat mamma, didn't strike his enquiring mind as being up-to-date. And, of course, there was the hobby.

So in due course he began to agitate for the formation of some military unit which would have army intelligence, maps and topography as its medium of service. In 1903, the Corps of Guides was formed and he became one of its senior officers.

He studied the ground. He learned to see a landscape in a map, a bird's-eye view from a chart. He studied earth, trees, streams, contours, figured out how to defend any place from anything.

He studied the defence of Toronto against invaders from all directions.

His engineering confreres regarded it as his zealous devotion to the subject with perfunctory attention. Why couldn't Charlie bend all this energy to something more profitable?

But then the war fell with a crash, and the major, (as he was then in the Corps of Guides), promptly stepped into his destined place as staff officer, intelligence, in the first contingent. His hobby developed into a gold mine for the troops. For besides having an eye trained to see everything of importance in a piece of ground, the major's enthusiastic studies had taught him also how to see spies, and more important still, how to grasp instantly the features of such things as trench warfare, patrols, organization of intelligence branches in small units.

A Canadian patrol in No Man's Land captures a German prisoner near Hooge. This prisoner, before going to prison camp, comes before an intelligence officer. He belongs to the 137th Landwehr. And how long has he been in the Hooge section. Ten days. Where was he before that? Down at Arras! The 4th Bavarian Guards Division.

Ho, ho! says the intelligence officer, the second rate Landwehr is pulled out of the line at Arras and the snappy, offensive guards are put in!

Something coming off at Arras!

Word is sent down. Our observation balloons watch the German lines for days for increasing artillery, for increasing traffic on the roads in rear, for new work on trenches and so on. The troops at Arras make a raid and discover fresh prisoners that something is coming off!

So down by Arras, the British put in a big attack, guns, shell the roads in rear, put fresh troops in the line, and Old Heinie discovers that he has been discovered and calls off his attack. Hell has been check-mated. Hundreds of lives saved. Why? Because an intelligence officer talked to a Hun prisoner a hundred miles away, but, gathering all his facts together, had "clopped out" the situation.

Gen. Mitchell was one of the most distinguished of these intelligence officers. To describe all that the intelligence officer has done would take an encyclopaedia. But they were everything, from the movement of enemy armies down to the digging of a new Hun machine gun post on a quiet section of the line. They must know everything from the number of enemy guns in a certain piece of front to the number of latrine wells of drinking water is to be found in a village we propose to capture.

Gen. Mitchell did great work at Chief of Intelligence in the Canadian section from its first trip to the line. He was a wizard with maps. He could read the airplane as a photographer of enemy positions. He helped make air photographs the solution of hundreds of difficult problems. He could read at sight the most complex, typewritten summary of what the industry would be if they advanced! He was the eyes, ears, nose and taste—the observation post—of the corps. He selected the things we were to bite off, chew and eat up.

In October, 1916, during the Somme offensive, he was promoted to the General Staff (Intelligence) of the Second Army under Gen. Plumer.

When the corps went to Passchendaele a year later, few will forget the splendid information that was supplied us for that seemingly impossible task by Gen. Mitchell. His resumes of previous actions, studies of the ground and forecasts of probable enemy action were masterpieces. He did all in his power to help his countrymen do their job. And you will recall we did it.

Gen. Mitchell is home again, slathered with ribbons like an ally here. And his confreres, who were deprecatingly at a "hobby," swing still in their swivel chairs, with no decorations other than those which four years of worry have hung on them.

PLAN ENORMOUS DAM.

Ingenious Scheme to Heat Maritime Provinces.

Modern ingenuity has discovered a most efficient mode of heating houses in winter—that of hot water, furnace and radiators are sometimes in the case of hospitals or other large buildings, placed at a distance from the apartments to be warmed. In such cases pipes conduct heated water into the radiators and back again when cooled. Thus, cool water is continually entering the bottom of the caldron while heated water flows from the top. It is now proposed to apply the warm waters of the Gulf Stream to the eastern provinces of Canada and the United States, that such regions might enjoy a more even temperature throughout the year and permit a more luxurious vegetation.

The closing of the Straits of Belle Isle, which are about 11 miles wide at the narrowest point, thereby shutting out the Labrador current, the harbinger of Arctic blasts and the reason why St. Lawrence ports are frozen during the winter months, would divert the "Cold Wall" to the Atlantic and allow the warm waters of the Torrid Zone to circulate freely around eastern shores. Such a change, it is thought, would increase the value of lands and natural resources by billions of dollars; would greatly improve living and public health conditions; would release vast quantities of fuel, now necessary for heating purposes, to be used in industry; would be the means of augmenting the population, commerce and revenues of Canada.

The project has been pronounced feasible by engineers. The cost would be great, but nothing in comparison to the results to be gained. The bar is in fact alpse to the desired area, it is thought, would require little extra expenditure.

The Labrador current sends a large volume of water through the Straits of Belle Isle; thence southwesterly along the coast of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the United States, creating a cold current, technically known as the "Cold Wall" between the Gulf Stream and the North American coast.

The climatic effect of this Labrador current on Canada covers a wide extent of territory. It brings winter sway, but, gathering all his facts together, had "clopped out" the situation.

Gen. Mitchell was one of the most distinguished of these intelligence officers. To describe all that the intelligence officer has done would take an encyclopaedia. But they were everything, from the movement of enemy armies down to the digging of a new Hun machine gun post on a quiet section of the line. They must know everything from the number of enemy guns in a certain piece of front to the number of latrine wells of drinking water is to be found in a village we propose to capture.

Gen. Mitchell did great work at Chief of Intelligence in the Canadian section from its first trip to the line. He was a wizard with maps. He could read the airplane as a photographer of enemy positions. He helped make air photographs the solution of hundreds of difficult problems. Government Savings Bonds

War Saving Stamps.

A handbook issued by the Canadian Government in furtherance of the campaign for the sale of war savings stamps, contains a concise statement of this plan of investment, its attractive features, the method of conducting the campaign and results of the campaign in Canada. The attractive features of this form of investment are its absolute security, backed by the collective wealth of Canada; easy payments by means of small savings made at the investor's convenience, protection again loss by registration of the bonds, power of redemption with interest before maturity, and a fair rate of interest of five per cent. on the investment. The Government has supported the issue of $50,000,000 of war savings stamps during 1919, and it is expected that they will all be absorbed. This money, says the handbook, is required in order to meet the interest charges on the war debt and to furnish funds for needed development in Canada, as it is probable that Canada will be thrown on her own financial resources for a considerable time to come. "Overseas in the devastated countries there will be a pressing demand for commodities such as we produce, but those lands devastated by war have not at the moment the means with which to purchase. If we are to supply them with goods we must do so on credit and the banker is the attitude is the Canadian Government."

FROM AMERICA TO EUROPE.

Did Primitive Canadians "Discover" the Old World?

In a recent issue of Nordisk Tidskrift (Stockholm) Prof. Gustaf Storm-tellus had an article in which data concerning communication between America and other parts of the world previous to the time Columbus were collated and discussed. On the basis of these facts, the professor considers the question of the early cultural links between various parts of the world. He thinks that the threads of communication could have had any demonstrable influence on cultural development.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the Vikings and other Scandinavians discovered and visited America long before Columbus. It is less generally known that there are data that point to people having journeyed, many centuries before Columbus' time, from the American continent to Europe. The direction of ocean currents facilitates such a discovery. Finds of wreckage is occasionally washed up on the west coast of Europe with marks of identification that show it has come from America.

A couple of mediaeval authors tell of "Indians" who came to the Germanic countries. Even before the birth of Christ Pomponius Mela tells how the ambassador of Ceylon had received from a German king as a gift some "Indians" who had come on Germany's coast during their vessels before a westerly wind. Mela's date is the first century A.D. These strangers who could not themselves speak, but whose origin should have been supposed to be "Indians" is, in view of the period's geographical ideas, very unnatural. The supposition that these "Indians" were Red Indians from America was confirmed in a notable way by an archaeological find of about a century ago.

In the Lourve a Roman bronze head, supposed the bust of the Lord of Christ, that plainly represents an Indian, was found in Rome and has apparently been used to hold chestnuts at the roast. At the back is seen the beginning of the tuft of hair which the Indians to this day have worn as a token. This tuft of hair is distinguishable from all that one is accustomed to see on busts, but it offers all the characteristic features of an Indian head.

Helium Used In War.

Prof. McLellan of Toronto University, who was appointed by the British Admiralty in 1915 to investigate the possibility of large scale production of helium, found large quantities of this gas naturally in Ontario and Western Canada, producible at a cost of a shilling per cubic foot. The United States also possessed and gave large orders for machinery and plant. The possibility of securing large supplies of helium has increased simultaneously with the practical details of production. Airships inflated with this gas were used successfully by the British navy and the pr<ress made warrants the opinion that in another year large quantities of helium will be produced in Canada. Gen. Mitchell's helium-filled airships will be in service, which will be of greater range, less buoyant than hydrogen, but much safer. Before the war it cost from $1,250 to $4,000 per cubic foot.

Our Federal Government.

The teacher of a little rural school in Ontario was trying to acquaint the youthful mind with all the workings of the Federal Government, its branches and its duties. Having covered the lesson, she began her review, asking, "How many houses of Parliament are there?"

Answer—"One."

"Name them."

Very promptly and without malice aforethought one little girl piped up: "The House of Commons and the House of Refuge."

Everybody who has heard the story thinks she hit the nail on the head.

KEED IDENTIFICATION CARDS

WINDSOR, July 25.—Following the lead of Windsor Customs authorities, who require from American autoists coming into Canada that they carry with them their identification cards issued when the automobile licenses are purchased, the Detroit Customs official have inaugurated a similar system. HOUSING IN OSHAWA

The Oshawa Housing Commission has under construction one hundred houses in all, seventy of which are being built independently by the Commission in the best residential parts of the town, for sale under the Government housing plan. These houses will not be for rent. The Housing Commission has taken full advantage of the $300,000 Government appropriation.

NURSES VACATION

Matrons and nurses in the service of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, will in future be granted leave of absence for two weeks in every six months. Ordinarily, the Civil Service allowance for holidays makes provision for eighteen days holidays in a year. This extension has, however, been made for those on the nursing staff in view of the arduous nature of their duties.

COLBORNE SOLDIERS HOME

A large number of Colborne soldiers are returning. Among them Capt. Glen Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Thompson, who sailed on the Regina. Pte. Simeon D. Scripture, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scripture, is home; also Gunner Lorne Redfern, son of Capt. and Mrs. C. E. Redfern. Capt. D. R. Sargent visited friends in the district before going on to Vancouver. Pte. Harry Lee and Pte. Bruce Usher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Usher, both of Wicklow, are home. Sergt. Earl Ives, who was with the Toronto University Hospital, has also returned.

WAR GRATUITY

In future all officers and soldiers of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who have been transferred to the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment for medical care, shall be counted, for the purpose of payment of war service gratuity to be still upon active service until the time of their complete discharge from the strength of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. This will work out such that at the conclusion of treatment the gratuity pay shall be computed upon the length of military service, plus the entire period of medical treatment. This ruling will apply to all officers and men coming within the scale of gratuity payments who have since February, 1918, or who may hereafter be retired or discharged from either the military or naval forces.

GYPSIES PUT ONE OVER IN COBOURG

Six auto loads of gypsies recently arrived in Cobourg, and the women of the band were soon busy trying the old game of telling fortunes. With the proper way it is necessary to have a roll of bills in the victim's hand, and a handkerchief over the hand. When the handkerchief is taken off a bill is always missing. Chief Ruse was notified of their arrival and ran the gang out of town before they could practice. The only victim reported is the Italian butler of Mr. George A. Howe, who lost a ten dolar bill. The gang travelled in fine new cars, one of them having a big Hudson. It is the same gang that have worked here before, and the woman who did up the butler was fined her last year for doing up a young banker.—Cobourg Star.

LIEUT JORDAN RECOVERING

Lieut. S. Jordan, who was injured in the G.T.R. wreck near Belleville about a month ago, and was taken to the General Hospital, Kingston, for treatment, is reported making good progress toward recovery, but is not expected to return to his home for some time yet.

FIRE AT KINGSTON

One of the principal blocks on Princess street, Kingston, had a close call from being wiped out by fire yesterday morning about three o'clock. The blaze started from some unknown cause in C. E. Marrison's photograph gallery, which was gutted and the stock of A. E. Treadgold, sporting goods, was damaged by water. The loss is placed at ten thousand dollars.

BROKE HIS ARM

Little Jackie Mouck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mouck, Church street, seems to be having more than his share of ill luck lately. Last week he fell from a delivery rig and was bruised and shaken up; this week a bench toppled over with him and a broken arm resulted.

THOMASBURG LAWN SOCIAL

A very enjoyable Lawn Social was held Wednesday evening on the lawn of the Methodist Church at Thomasburg. Rev. Mr. Murdick was chairman and two recitations were given by Miss York and addresses by Rev. Mr. Smart of Tweed and W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, after which refreshments were served. The grounds were filled to their capacity.

BURGLARY AT HAVELOCK

Much excitement prevailed in Havelock Wednesday morning last when the news got out that some five or six stores in the town had been visited by burglars Tuesday night and a large amount of goods and cash secured by the latruders. The post office was also so entered but it is unknown what loot was secured. There appears to be an organized gang operating in this district as similar occurrences have been reported in other towns.

BABY BORN ON TRAIN

Mrs. Wm. C. Corley, enroute from Toronto to England, had a birth to a baby girl on the C. P. R. express due at Belleville at 2.08 a.m. Thursday Ward was wired to the Port Hope hospital and upon the arrival of the train the mother and baby were removed to the hospital. The baby died a couple of hours later, but the mother is progressing favorably. Dr. Hazelwood, of Bowmanville, who was in attendance passed the last among the passengers and a substantial sum was received.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

A distressing fatality occurred in Emily Township on Tuesday evening when Miss Anastasia Houlihan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Houlihan, lot 7, con. 17, was killed by lightning her body being found next morning. The late Miss Houlihan left home during the day to pick berries about a mile west of her father's farm. As she did not return in the evening her relatives became alarmed and a search was immediately instituted and kept up during the night. About six o'clock Wednesday morning her body was found in the berry patch under a tree by Mr. Bernard Murray.

YACHT BLOWS UP

A launch accident which might have been attended with fatal consequences occurred at Healey Falls on Saturday morning when Mr. Chas. Fowlds' yacht carrying a party composed of Messrs. Fowlds, John Thomson, Lieut. Wells, Thomson, and Lieut. Currie of Ottawa, was blown to pieces and sank. The trouble arose from a defective engine which caused an explosion in the gasolin tank. Some of the party were blown into the water and others badly scorched. Lieut. Currie was so severely scorched that he was conveyed to the hospital in Ottawa, while Mr. Charles Fowlds was also badly burned. Mr. John Thomson suffered injuries.

Food Export Demands Likely To Be Heavy

Stocks in Storage in Dominion at Present Compare Well With Last Year.

OTTAWA, July 26.—The stocks of food products in cold storage on July 1, compare favorably with last year, is shown by the report of the Cost of Living Commissioner to the Minister of Labor, concerning food in storage and in process of cure in Canada on that date. Attention is drawn, however, to the export demand, which is likely to be considerable. Attention is drawn also, to a serious accumulation of fish.

More Butter on Hand

"On July 1st, there were 10,365,116 pounds of creamery and 1,000,634 pounds of dairy butter in storage. This is a total of nearly two million pounds above last year. There should be no shortage next winter if exports are not too heavy.

"The oleomargarine in storage is only 421,594 pounds. As in the case of butter, the heavy flow of milk in June-has had a large effect upon the stocks.

"Eggs are also coming into storage more freely than last year in spite of the high prices, but apparently not so freely as two years ago. The stocks include 12,263,456 dozen in cold storage, 482,791 dozen on hand other than in cold storage, and 533,737 pounds of frozen eggs.

"The total stock of pork was 39,659,877 pounds. Of this, by far the largest part was in process of cure and not in cold storage at all.

Meat Supply

"The stocks of beef are 40.31 per cent. less than last month, but greater than normally at this time of the year. The supply for best shipping ox not so high as earlier in the season, and the prices for the meat have been advancing materially.

"The stocks of mutton and lamb consist of 1,537,807 pounds of frozen and 60,230 pounds unfrozen. Comparative figures show a total to July 1st 77 per cent. less than a month ago, but 46 per cent more than last year.

"The stocks of poultry include 64,585 pounds, being 167,600 pounds chickens, 883,495 pounds fowls, 12,294 pounds ducks, 36,624 pounds geese, 182,805 pounds turkeys and 151,152 pounds undressed, making a total of 1,507,825 pounds. Comparisons, show this to be 25 per cent more than last July.

The fish in storage are accumulating seriously. The stocks in cold storage on July 1st, were 20,357,445 pounds and in addition there were 2,244,400 pounds on hand other than in cold storage.

REFUSED ONE MILLION DOLLARS FOR PATENT

MENOMINEE, Mich., July 26.—Two million dollars was refused here by Marshall B. Lloyd for his new method of producing coal and fine grades of coke his machine for weaving the fabrics.

A group of American men interested in the manufacture of baby carriages, buggies and hammocks inspected the device in Mr. Lloyd's factory and saw, for the first time in the history of the world, a machine that would make coke. It is the only coke at present time this costly operation has been done by hand. The Lloyd Loom, however, will weave the fabric thirty times as fast as the most expert hand worker can and with far greater superiority.

A "jack pot" of $1,000,000 was made up by the manufacturers during the noon hour and offered Mr. Loyd. He turned it down. A short while ago the Australian government purchased rights to Mr. Lloyd's inventions for $250,000 in order to give industrial assistance to returned wounded soldiers. The gift of a consideration upon operating the machine in the Lloyd plant here convinced the Hon. G. M. S. Maclfold, member of the Australian parliament, that his country needed the machine to help out its returned and crippled heroes.

One million dollars has been raised her for the erection of a factory in Menominee in which the Lloyd method of production and loom will be used. Construction of a plant that will employ 800 men and women is now well under way. When completed it will be the largest baby carriage and woven furniture factory in the world.

"Prohibition" In Montreal Leaves No Thirsty One Dry

"DON'T KNOW RESTAURANT OR CLUB WEHRE I CAN'T GET HARD STUFF," BOASTS CITIZEN—LOTS OF WAYS OF GETTING AROUND THE ENFORCEMENT OF LAW HAVE BEEN DISCOVERED SINCE IT WENT INTO EFFECT SIX WEEKS AGO, WRITES TORONTO TELEGRAM REPRESENTATIVE.

(Toronto Telegram Staff Special)

MONTREAL, Que., July 26.—"Prohibition? There ain't no such animal! Like all other Quebec laws it's not enforced," laughs the average Montrealer when questioned.

"I don't know a restaurant or a club there I can't get hard stuff," said one yellowknown man. "Habitual drunkards could be turned down of course. Proprietors are leary about serving anyone who would give the whole show away. They fight shy of a fellow who would spill the beans. To be served in the best places you must be an habitue. They've got to know you. Just your friends or any of your friends' friends can get the entree.

"Strangers? Oh, all they need is to ask a policeman. It's wonderful what half a dollar will do down here. Cabbies, you'll find, are in the know, too, if you tip them. Went anything to eat? Oh, you know how easy it is to get a drink. What do you like?"

Breathed of Peat Fires

Half an hour later, to a supper orfer ut one of the city's best-known cafe, the speaker appended a request for "two ginger ales like I had last night, one double and one half."

The amber mixture in the fee-cooled clinking tumblers that were promptly brought was not even camouflaged. Ginger ale glasses are usually tall and well filled. These were comfortably stout, and the strength of their smoky-amazing contents not impaired by over-much extraneous fluid.

Tables all around were filled shortly after eleven. Lots of the patrons had "ginger ale" and some "light wines."

"Suppose a policeman or detective came in, what would we do?" quoth friend the visitor from dry Ontario.

"Drain our glasses like everybody else," responded the guide forthwith demonstrating the trick, and having his first order refilled, remarked: "See how easy it is. There would not be a smell of liquor left by the time the glass could be produced in court.

"Some places," he explained, "go to the trouble of serving your orders in tea cups. Teapot and all appears with your spread, though the pot holds nothing better than hot water.

"You can get the goods' anywhere with 'stalls' liquors are different. A good many of them stick to the soft stuff. It's served now at little tables. Proprietors will feed if they do not literally 'abolish the bar.'"

$1,500,000 To Fight Return of "Flu"

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Congress should immediately appropriate $1,500,000 for fighting influenza, recurrences of which medical authorities say are probable, Rep. Fess, Ohio, told the House.

Fess and Senator Harding of Ohio, have introduced measures embodying the recommendations Fess made.

"The last epidemic cost 500,000 deaths and a total economic loss of nearly $4,000,000,000, according to figures compiled by the American Medical Association," Fess said.

"There is general belief in the medical world that the second and third years will show frightful aftereffects unless specific remedies can be found. But the appaling loss of 500,000 lives—five times our loss in the war—with assurance that the plague will be more deadly enough to awaken us to immediate action."

Fess read to the House a letter from Dr. C. Crier, secretary of the American Medical Association which stated that mortality was forty per cent. above the normal death rate in the years after the influenza left man epidemic. Medical authorities, Geier admitted, are still baffled over the origin and cause of the disease, and stated that the "possibility of the discovery of any real anti-toxin for influenza is wholly dependent upon the efforts of the federal germ causing the disease."

BEAT UP GERMAN, GIVEN SEVEN YEARS

Toronto, July 26.—Mayor Church has written to Newton D. Baker, Secretary for War for the United States Government, bringing to his attention the case of a brother of C. A. Graham of this city, and asking him to intervene. Mr. Graham's brother was once a member of the United States Army, joined the war and his parents would not sign the papers for him to go overseas, so he ran away and enlisted under the name of Gordon. After the armistice he moved up to Bamersback, with the army of occupation. At that place he gave a German officer a whipping for poking fun at the American uniform. He was tried by court-martial, sentenced to seven years, sent home to the United States and is now in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, federal prison.

COUNTY COURT.

Before Judge Deroche.

Tanner vs. Goodman.—An action to recover the price of two carloads of iron shipped to defendant by plaintiff from the northern part of the county. A dispute as to the price gave rise to a verdict for plaintiff for $451.85 and costs. Mr. Carnew for plaintiff and Mr. Singer of Toronto for the defendant.

Bare-Footed Russians Drive Back Bolshes

PARIS, July 26.—Twenty thousand Russians, many of them, bare-footed and without rifles, and unsupported by heavy artillery, compose the northern Russian army, whose front extends from the Finnish coast to Pskov and which is driving back towards Petrograd a Bolshevik army a four times as large, according to reports received here from officers of the American relief administration on the scene. Officers and soldiers alike are clamoring for tanks, which had been promised them by the allies, and but for the lack of which they express confidence they could reach Petrograd speedily.

The reports of the provisioning show that after the arrival in some sectors of white flour supplied by the allies many of the Bolshevik quartered to the base of white bread and joined their enemies. One entire organization known as the Green Guards, 2,000-men strong, surrendered.

The improved conditions and the better food now supplied to the northern army is drawing up the men, whose moral is reported high as compared with that of the Bolshevik opposing them. The latter, according to reports, have to be kept on the front lines by threatening them with their own machine guns. Scurvy is said to be prevalent among them.

There is sufficient food available in the Gulf of Finland to supply Petrograd and its suburbs for three months but the lack of co-ordination of allied assistance to the northern Russian army and to the Esthonians operating in conjunction with it, is declared to be preventing the movement upon Petrograd from progressing with sufficient speed to effect relief much before winter.

JUGO-SLAVES AND ITALIANS FIGHT

Laibach, Austria, July 26.—Eight Italian carabiniers and four Jugo-Slavs were killed in a clash at Volosko near Fiume, yesterday, according to a despatch from Agram. The encounter between the Italians and Jugo-Slavs was said to have occurred after the Italians tried to break up a meeting called to consider sending Slav children to Croatia so that they would not have to attend Italian schools.

GET 500,000 POUNDS

LONDON, July 26.—The Marconi Company has ben awarded £500,000 damages against the Government for breach of contract in connection with the construction of the imperial wireless system. The company claimed £1,000,000 damages.

Young Wife Shot To Death in Bed

GLASSBORO, N.J., July 26.—Mrs. Clara Saber, thirty years old, wife of Charles Saber, proprietor of a grocery store here was shot and killed and her mother, Mrs. Mary Terowky was wounded at the Saber home here shortly after two o'clock yesterday morning.

The murdered woman's husband was asleep in an adjoining room. He was awakened and grappled with the intruder and they exchanged shots none of which took effect.

The shooting and screams of the women aroused the neighborhood and when neighbors and Night-Marshal Bee arrived they found Saber running in and out of the house but was unable to find any trace of the burglar.

Mrs. Saber was shot through the right lung while in bed. Her mother had a shot in her right arm. She was taken to Cooper Hospital, Camden.

The older woman told the officers she was certain there were two burglars in the room where she and her daughter slept, and that they wore handkerchiefs over their faces.

BRICK PLANT OPENED WITH PRAYER

On Friday last, the new brick plant at West Lake was formally opened, Mr. L. V. Stephens of Buffalo who has been behind the project from the first with several other men, a party from the same city were in attendance at the opening, also a number of interested citizens of West Lake and Wellington.

This plant which is situated on the West Lake shore began operations on the day of opening.

Samples of the brick were shown and with the abundance of raw material at hand and the demand for the finished article, a promising future would appear to be in prospect.

After a short address by Mr. Stephens the company was formally by Rev. Mr. Ray of Buffalo. Mr. Gospell, a Buffalo contractor and his firm handled 500,000 sand lime brick in 60 days last year and are prepared to handle an entire output of the West Lake plant.

Mr. Hanson of the Buffalo Carpenters Union believed that there would be a great demand for building material and believed that there were great possibilities ahead of the company.

The plant is equipped at present with one brick machine with a capacity of 12,000 bricks per day. Other machines will be added as was stated by a business manager, Mr. Picton Gazette.

IMAGINED EVERY MAN IN LOVE WITH HERSELF

London, July 26—A painful suggestion of a woman's alleged weakness and of her delusion that she was licensed by a higher decree to commit any crime, was made at the divorce petition of Mr. Herbert Harris, an engineer of Newborough Road, Wimborne, Dorset.

Mr. Thomas John Howell, an insurance agent, who was cited as co-respondent, denied the allegations.

Mrs. Harris, at present in a lunatic asylum, admitted in the plea, that she was legally represented on behalf of her guardian ad litem.

Since marriage, in December, 1894, there had been seven children. In 1909, said Mr. Harris, his wife had an illegitimate child. But he forgave her, and they lived together.

Towards the end of 1914, when soldiers were billeted at Wimborne, her manner changed, and she absolutely refused to live with him. She went out with soldiers and he had seen them embracing. Later, he had reason to suspect her relations with Mr. Howell, and he remonstrated with her. He also spoke to Howell himself, mentioning her weakness, and asking him to keep away from her for the sake of her children and the home. Though he said he would do so, he continued to meet her.

PHILANTHROPIST DEAD

CHICAGO, July 26.—La Verne W. Noyes, manufacturer and philanthropist, died of a complication of diseases, aged 76. Most recent of his philanthropic gifts was the establishment of what is known as the La Verne W. Noyes Foundation," a fund of $2,500,000, the income to be used for the education of American soldiers, sailors and marines in the world war, for children and descendants. The Ida Noyes Hall, a $300,000 social centre and gymnasium at the University of Chicago, for women students, was his memorial to his wife, a well known writer and artist, who died in 1912.

Offer For Cheese 25 Cents A Pound

Producers Not Satisfied and Ask Government to Finance the Market.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 26.—A meeting of importance to cheese industry not only of Brockville district, but to all Canada was held here yesterday afternoon, in the form of a joint meeting of Brockville dairymens Board of Trade together with representatives of boards of trade of Cornwall, Morrisburg, Iroquois, and representatives of the dairy industry in the Napanee district.

The meeting was addressed by Sir Thomas Clement, chairman of the butter and cheese import committee commission appointed by the Ministry of Food in Great Britain to handle the dairy produce in England. Mr. F. Warren, director of butter and cheese supplies, under the British Ministry of Food, Dr. J. W. Robertson, C. M. G. Ottawa, Canadian director of food supplies in Europe, Messrs. James Alexander and A. A. Tyer, exporters, of Montreal, were present.

After Messrs. Robertson, Warren and Sir Thomas Clement delivered addresses in which they stated that owing to the British government fixing a price of one shilling and six pence had been placed on cheese in England, and consequently more than twenty-five cents could be paid for cheese in Montreal, less the price of freight from Brockville and all other boards in Canada.

Much discussion, sometimes heated, ensued, and the following resolution was passed:

That whereas we, the representatives of the Cornwall, Iroquois, Napanee and other boards assembled in the Brockville, dairymen's board of trade this 24th day of July, 1919, having just now learned from representatives of the British Ministry of Food that they have by authority of the said British Ministry of Food offered a price of cheese of only 25 cents per pounds, less the cost of freight from factory to Montreal,

And whereas, the said representatives of the British Ministry of Food have stated that if the cost of handling of cheese and that of exchange can be reduced, the price of cheese will be increased to producers;

Therefore, Resolved that we representatives of producers urge on our Dominion Government to take some action to reduce the cost of exchange even if it does involve the giving of large sum of credit by our Government to the British Government for the purchase of our Canadian cheese, as we are not satisfied with the present price of 25 cents per pound of cheese and feel it will have a depressing effect on the cheese industry.

And that a copy be sent to Sir Robert Borden the Prime Minister.

Replying to a vote of thanks, Mr. Warren said that the Canadian people could remember having heard a stronger expression of opinion than he had heard at the Brockville board. He told of his experience in Belleville, where the whole product had been purchased within less than a day, and at a sacrifice to Danish producers in order that they might maintain the British market. He was sorry that he would have to return to London feeling that he had not given entire satisfaction. He would be happy to present any resolution but would have preferred to return with none at all.

Theatre Manager Guilty of Forgery

MONTREAL, July 26.—Joseph Eugene Champagne, promoter of theatres and formerly theatre manager for Wolfe, Sawyer & Heller, incorporated, Chicago, was found guilty of forgery on four counts yesterday before Judge Choquet and remanded for sentence next Tuesday.

When Judge Choquet declared the verdict during the closing chapter of a strenuous career came to an end. The one ambition of the accused, he admitted, was to be a theatrical manager, and it was while trying to carry out his plan that he committed the errors which finally brought him to justice. At one time he was part owner of two Montreal theatres.

The forgeries were committed during the summer of 1918, and totalled $40,000. The accused came up for trial June 30th and July 4th, and on July 9th the case was taken en delibere. This morning judgement was rendered, finding the man guilty. The cheques were drawn on the Royal Bank of Canada, Bonsecours Branch.

Soldier Charges His Fiancee Was Faithless

COULDN'T HAVE MARRIED HIM ANYWAY AS SHE WAS ALREADY MARRIED—PROMISED TO MARRY HIM WHEN HE CAME HOME FROM THE WAR, HE SAYS, AND ACCEPTED HIS AUTOMOBILE AND ASSIGNED PAY.

Timothy P. Boller, a returned soldier undergoing treatment at the Military Convalescent Hospital in Toronto, has issued a writ for $855.00, and costs, against Mrs. Edith Redmond of Peterborough, and Mr. Albert Vass, of North Monaghan.

Boller, in his statement, alleges that in the summer of 1918 Edith Redmond became engaged to him and promised to marry him, but that she agreed to a postponement of the wedding until he returned from the war.

He also states that Mrs. Redmond fraudently conspired with the defendant, Albert Vass, to deceive him and to obtain from him the money and possessions, by the defendant, Edith Redmond, becoming engaged to marry the plaintiff, and after obtaining the money it was agreed between the defendants that the defendant, Edith Redmond, should refuse to marry the plaintiff.

Edith Redmond was, at the time of the contract, to marry the plaintiff, and still is, a married woman, it is alleged.

Boller claims that Albert Vass well knew that Edith Redmond was a married woman, and could not enter into a marriage with the plaintiff. That the plaintiff didn't know that the defendant Edith Redmond, was a maried woman and could not enter into a marriage with him, and relying upon her statements that she would marry him, and that she was single, he made over to her a bill of sale of Ford car, valued at $450.00, $325.00 from his account in the bank, and gave an assignment of his pay to the defendant, Edith Redmond, upon which she has collected $180.00—making in all that the defendant, Edith Redmond, has received from the plaintiff, $855.00.

Boller was a farm hand in North Monaghan, before entering military service.

The plaintiff states that the defendants divided the money obtained from him and that Albert Vass is now in possession of his automobile, refusing to say the said money or deliver the car.

Boller concluded the writ issued by stating that he is now crippled and unable to work, and is suffering from the loss of an arm and from a general breakdown in health, and that reason was unable to have the said bill of sale set aside. The writ was issued in the County Court.

Called by Death

EDMUND ROBLIN

Mr. Edmund Roblin passed away at his home, Mimico Beach, Toronto, Thursday in his 72rd year. The late Mr. Roblin was a cousin of the late Mr. Redmond Roblin, formerly Premier of Manitoba. He was born at Picton, where he was engaged in business for many years. He is survived by his wife and one son, Ernest Roblin, of Winnipeg. The funeral will take place at Picton.

THE LATE J. A. LAMBERT.

James A. Lambert, who founded the Mount Forest Representative, a prized newspaper publisher, died in Toronto after a prolonged illness. Mr. Lambert was born in Cherry Valley, Prince Edward County, and his mother still lives there in her ninety-fist year. He learned the printing business at Picton. He is survived by two sons, Norman P., formerly of the Toronto Globe and now secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture of Winnipeg, and Elmer F., general secretary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Toronto.

WILLIAM EATON.

The death of William Eaton, aged and highly respected resident of Prince Edward county, occurred at his home near Picton after a painful illness, occasioned by injuries received in a run-away accident some weeks ago. The deceased, who had reached the advanced age of 81 years, was a native of England, having come to this country with his wife and family some forty years ago. His wife predeceased him many years, and he leaves to mourn one son, Mr. Fred Eaton of Green Point, and four daughters, Mrs. Frank Benway of Hillier, Mrs. Fred Young of Picton, Mrs. H. Ackley of Syracuse, and Mrs. (Dr.) Bean of Winchester. His second wife (nee Miss Lydia Branscombe,) also survives, as well as twenty grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

The funeral service was conducted at the home on Monday afternoon, Rev. Alfred Brown of Picton officiating. Interment was made in Bowerman cemetery, west of Bloomfield.

5,000 FRENCH BRIDES COME TO AMERICA

London, July 26.—Over 5,000 French girls have been married to American officers and men belonging to the American expeditionary force in France, telegraphs a Paris correspondent.

Many of them are typists, stenographers and dressmakers, while a number are farmers' daughters at whose places the American soldiers were housed.

There has not been one case of a married American soldier abandoning his French wife. Few desire to stay in France, the married couples generally taking the voyage to America as a honeymoon trip. They are provided with a cabin on board ship, and married soldiers on the way are freed from any military duty.

There have been, of course, many breaches of promise and sad love stories. The story is told of a poor French girl in the country who had fallen in love with an American soldier. She failed to hear from him for a few weeks and her father wrote to the colonel of his regiment asking for particulars, and mentioning that his daughter was engaged to him.

The father received a laconic note saying: "The soldier you have been inquiring about has been executed. He was a bandit, whom our police were seeking for."

It's better to think of what you are going to eat than to be unable to forget what you have eaten.

Attack Prohibition Then L. D. Alliance

(Toronto Star)

What is the Citizens' Liberty League? A number of the prominent officers of the Toronto Central Branch of the League, which is appealing for funds to the public, were asked what the objects of the league are by The Star.

Sir Edmund Osler, honorary president, said in answer to a question as to the objects of the league, "Oh, just to protect our liberties."

"What liberties?" asked The Star.

"All liberties," he replied.

"Are there other liberties than anti-prohibition?" he was asked.

"Lots of them," he replied. "We mean all liberties. They will be out to stop cigarette smoking and tea drinking next, and we don't want that. We want to get in ahead of anything like that."

Mr. D. L. McCarthy, K.C., answering the same question, said that all personal liberties were to be protected, and not merely the rights interfered with by prohibition. The league was started long ago to protect the citizens in Northern Ontario. These people worked all week and it was sought to prevent them doing a little fishing on Sunday. That was one of the objects," said he. "Then, the league is wider than just anti-prohibition?" he was asked. "Far wider. It will protect all liberties, but the secretary is the man to tell you about that," he concluded.

"It is all our liberties," was Mr. Aemilius Jarvis' reply. "Far more than the prohibition measure."

"We are not just at present to defeat the prohibitionists at the coming referendum, and to secure a return of some of our liberties which we lost during the war," declared T. L. Carruthers, secretary. "We are about to launch an advertising campaign, but we are solely a citizens' organization. No one who is directly or indirectly connected with the liquor business can become a member of the league or subscribe to its funds. We reconsider that the liberties of the people should be restored and we are a moderate crowd. We do not believe in the open bar, and we do not advocate it, but we want beer and wine; and we consider that other liquors should be obtainable through proper means. By proper means we do not mean a doctor's prescription, but through some government and legal way."

"Is that all you are doing at present?" asked The Star. "That is all we have in view just now," was the reply. "Later on, after we get this referendum out of the way, we will give some attention to the Lord's Day Alliance, and see if we cannot get some liberties there. There is fishing, which is a particularly live topic in Northern Ontario, and certain games which the people of the cities demand, and the right for a man to work in his garden a little on Sunday if he wants to do so without interfering with anybody."

RUSSIAN REDS OPEN OFFICE TO BUY GOODS IN DETROIT

DETROIT, July 26.—Prepared to spend $100,000,000 for Detroit and Michigan manufactured goods and pay for them in gold or securities the Soviet Government of Russia has opened a purchasing agent's office in Detroit with Dr. A. Horin as purchasing agent. An office door appears this announcement: "Commercial Department Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic."

"This office" Dr. Rorin said "has been opened for business and for no other purpose. Political prejudices have no part in the business Russia needs manufactured goods, especially machinery, textiles, drugs, automobiles and motor trucks. Most of materials needed can be purchased in Detroit.

"We are not asking credit. We are prepared to pay cash unless manufacturers desire to accept securities represented as sound in every country in the world. The Soviet Government does not want to do business with Britain or Germany. It desires to open commercial negotiations with United States because it has raw materials manufactured goods, the transportation shipping organizations and labor. "Realising prejudice against Soviet Government and the well-known fluctuations of the Russian ruble, the American and foreign banks $200,000,000 in gold to be used for purchases made in America. I speak advisedly when I say that Detroit and Michigan, because of the enormous manufacturing interests, can have at least 65 per cent of that $200,000,000."

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots, How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this treatment is under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

TEN THOUSAND STAKE IN BIG AIRPLANE RACE

TORONTO, July 26.—The prize for the Hon. Commodore International airplane race between New York City and Toronto and from Toronto to New York during the Canadian National Exposition the week of August 26th has been raised from $5,000 to $10,000. This announcement was made following a conference at the offices of the Canadian National Exhibition between representatives of the American Flying Club and Capt. James Plenty of the Aero Club of Canada. Representatives of John McE. Bowman, president of the Commodore, a former resident of Toronto, who arrived here from New York, especially to make the announcement. Following the conference Capt. Beaty said that he was negotiating with the Postmaster General, Hon. P. E. Blondin, for a special mail day when mail from Toronto will be carried to Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany and New York City for the first time. The $10,000 will be split up into a number of prizes, the first prize being $5,000, the second $2,000 and the third $1,000. President Julian Sale of the King Street Association heartily endorsed the suggestion for the Commodore International airplane race and the linking up of Canada and the United States by aeroplane.

Standard Reliance To Be Reorganized

CHATHAM, July 26.—The majority of the 500 depositors and debenture holders in the Standard Reliance Loan Company packed the County Council Chamber to capacity Thursday night and carried a resolution expressing confidence in the proposal to reorganize the company for winding up the affairs. Mr. G. T. Clarkson, the liquidator, from Toronto, faced a bombardment of questions bearing on the subject, for almost two hours.

An amendment, which was lost, called for no reorganization until a Government Commission could decide to what extent the Directors are responsible to the creditors. A resolution also carried reiterating the request of the previous meeting that the circumstances of failure be investigated by a Royal Commission, with a view to the punishment of any persons responsible for the loss company's failure. Mr. Harry Cowan was named as representative for this district, to attend meetings in Toronto and present proxies of city and district people interested.

Chairman Collins, in opening the meeting, stated that the feeling of the people in the district was that there should be a reorganization, and that there was a feeling that a depreciation of over $3,000.00 could not have been brought about in the ordinary way. As one had said, "There was a nigger in the woodpile somewhere."

Liquidator's Investigation Anyway

Liquidator Clarkson stated that he had no interest in the Company, but that he had acted as auditor in 1913-14 in which time the Company was found sound. In 1914 he objected to the Company loaning money to the Dovercourt Land Company. He made other recriminations, which resulted in his retirement as auditor. There will be an investigation whether the Company is reorganized or wound up," he declared. "I can assure you," he told the assembly, "the statement I have issued is a fair one. If times get back to normal there is a chance of your getting your money back in full by forming a new company. I strongly advise reorganization of the Company, as this will cut down expenses." When referring to the Dovercourt property, Mr. Carkson stated that property on the books was valued at $600,000 more than it was actually worth. He also mentioned that there is one property in Toronto credited on the books at $120,000, which is not worth $20,000.

Could Pay 40 Cents on Dollar

After explaining in detail how he arrived at the estimate of the assets, Mr. Clarkson stated that the estimate was fair and provided for a reserve for contingencies. The liquid assets of the Company alone, he said are sufficient to pay 40 cents on the dollar. He also stated that he thought the first dividend could be paid within six months.

Creditors will be preferred stockholders in the new Company, and they will elect the Board of Directors. Mr. Clarkson informed the meeting that provision had been made for new directors to make advances up to fifty per cent. in cases of real hardship.

PLENTY OF MONEY BUT HAD NO HOME

NEW YORK, July 26.—On the ground that a boy of thirteen who will have a young interest in property worth $2,760,000 when he is 21 years old, has been driven from Pat's by the high cost of living in France and is now without a home here and has no means to buy one, Surrogate Ford signed an order yesterday permitting the payment of $100,000 from the estate for a home.

The boy is John Arthur Rinckley, whose father was the late J. Arthur Rinckley, well-known yachtsman and owner of the Islanthe, died at Bellport, L.I., in 1911. His home will be at Hadlburg Duchess County, on an estate of 200 acres, of which 75 acres are park property and the balance farm land. The house is a two storey and a half brick dwelling situated on an elevation giving a view of the Hudson and the Catskill and Berkshire Mountains. The estate is to be purchased from William P. Clyde. The boy is now living with his mother and grandmother at the Hotel Touraine.

The application to Justice Ford was made by the boy's grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Wood who was appointed his guardian under the terms of his father's will. The document was so strictly drawn that the $100,000 payment for home could not be made out of accumulated income of the estate without a court order. Mrs. Wood also asked permission to use an additional $15,000 to pay for a surgical operation for the boy and for extra expenses of the new home.

This kid is like "Cleo the Vamp"—he has the longest hook in captivity. He plays on the Brownsville team with Charles Ray in his new screamingly funny picture, "The Busher," a rattling story of the baseball mound that you cannot afford to miss, at Griffin's next Monday to Wednesday.

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months and unless prompt action is taken little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent all the dreaded summer complaints. They are an absolutely safe medicine being guaranteed by a government analyst to contain no opiates or narcotic or other harmful drugs. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"JUST INDEPENDENCE UNDER ANOTHER NAME"

LONDON, July 26.—Discussing Dominion Home Rule for Ireland, the Daily Telegraph reviews the assertions of Joseph Devlin and Sir Horace Plunkett that it must be full and complete on Dominion lines. The Telegraph continues:

The value as an Imperial safeguard of the Imperial veto upon Dominion legislation is precisely nil. It might conceivably be used once then it would end forever if the occasion was one in which Dominion feeling had been aroused ever so lightly. We ask therefore, in all seriousness, is this the Dominion Home Rule which is declared to be the measure which will satisfy Nationalist sentiment. If it is, Great Britain will have none of it, for it is nothing but independence under another name."

The Telegraph proceeds to say that if Ireland would be satisfied with something less, then it is not Dominion Home Rule at all, and suspect it is this very ambiguity which has made the term so popular recently in certain quarters.

"Our conclusion is that all this talk about Dominion Home Rule is mischievous in the highest degree. Let us ignore the theatrical buffooneries of de Valera and give common sense a chance. The Irish Nationalists can have for the asking self-government for three-quarters of Ireland in which they hold sway, but the liberty of choice they demand themselves must concede to Unionist counties."

Hon. A. L. Sifton Heads New Can. Air Board

Seven Members Will Take Active Control of Aviation of Dom.

TORONTO, July 26.—The whole business of civil and commercial aviation in Canada is now at last being dealt with in a masterly and comprehensive fashion. Following upon the appointment of a Canadian Air Board on June 24, as called for by a statute of the last session recently concluded the members of this Board according to Order-in-Council, Judge Advocate General, Vice-Chairman of the Board, have taken the first concrete step towards the consummation of their task by deciding to create four official appointments under the Air Board, applications for which will be advertised for next week.

The composition of the Air Board as given out by Col. Biggar is as follows: Chairman, Hon. A. L. Sifton; Vice-Chairman, Colonel W. H. Hoare; Hon. S. C. Mewburn representing the Militia Department.

Representing the Naval Department for Naval Affairs: The Hon. C. C. Ballantyne; Dr. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General; Mr. Busby, Inspector of Customs and Excise; C. A. Wilson, representing the Department of Naval Affairs are the remaining four members of the board.

Four New Positions

The four officers which the board have decided to create are (1) Secretary for Flying, (2) superintendent of Government Flying Stations, (3) superintendent of certificates branch, and (4) medical officer. The superintendent of certificates will supervise the granting of certificates of efficiency to all pilots, navigators, airdromes and mechanics in Canada. The medical officer will have charge of the examination of all candidates for flying certificates. The terms on which the certificates will be issued will probably conform closely to the regulations laid down by Hon. Winston Churchill for the English Air Ministry on April 29. The appointments will be for three years, as the Special Civil Service Act does not apply to air services.

Overseas Men Have Chance

The Air Board have sent full information overseas and have cabled requirements to insure that Canadian airmen overseas will have full opportunity to file their applications in time.

KING AGRIPPA WROTE TO JESUS OF NAZARETH

The following clipping was recently found in the Bible of an old lady who died in Chicago forty-eight years ago:

The Herald prints today a special cable from London which says that two letters, one from King Agrippa to Christ, and the other from the Saviour to the King in reply—letters referred to by Eusebius in the fourth century—have been discovered after being lost for 902 years.

The letter from King Agrippa to Christ reads:—

I have heard of Thee and the cures wrought by Thee without herb or medicine. for it is reported that Thou restorest sight to the blind and maketh lame to walk, cleanest the leper, raisest the dead, chasest out devils and unclean spirits and healest those that are tormented of diseases of long continuance.

Hearing all this of Thee, I was fully persuaded that Thou art the very God come down from Heaven to do such miracles, or that Thou art the Son of God, and performest them. Wherefore I have sent Thee a few lines intreating Thee to come hither and cure my disease, healing—

Hearing that the Jews murmur against Thee and continue to do Thee mischief, I invite Thee to my city, which is but a little one, but is beautiful and sufficient to entertain us all.

Christ's reply to the above reads:—

Blessed art thou for believing Me whom thou hast not seen, for it is written of Me that they that have not seen Me shall believe and be saved. But concerning the matter thou has written about, that I come to acquaint thee that all things for which I was sent hither must be fulfilled and then I shall be taken up and returned to Him that sent Me. But after by ascension I'll send one of My disciples that shall cure thee of thy distemper and give life to all them that are with thee.

Professor Boohrmann, of Vienna University, announced that these letters had been discovered carved in stone over the gateway of the old palace of the Kings of Ephesus, and that they were undoubtedly the letters referred to by Eusebius and other early writers according to whom they were written in Syro-Chaldaic characters and originally discovered under a stone, eighty-five miles from the City of Ismuun in the year 97, and then lost.

Fragments purporting to be of the original were declared glorious by Pope Leo III. Professor Bohrmann says the discovery proves that such letters were written and supplies the full text.

A special from London is also printed, to which Professor George Robert Milne Murray, keeper of the Department of Botany and Natural History in the British Museum, is quoted as saying that the inscription was undoubtedly genuine. Professor Murray had been shown a facsimile.

The statement given above is said to have been made by Professor Bohrmann, of Vienna University, to the Archaeological Congress in Rome.

GERM DEFIER NAMES CONDITIONS

Dr. J. B. Fraser has sent The Toronto Star the following letter from Sand Lake:

Duel With Germs

To the Editor of The Star:

Sir: As I am away from convenient telephone, telegraph and railway facilities I failed to hear that Dr. Hillis, of St. Paul, Minn., had accepted my challenge to test out the danger of germs in air, food and drink. Now, providing that Dr. Hills does or did accept my challenge (I have not heard from him directly) if he agrees we will make an extended series of tests —strictly scientific—and by using direct methods, will avoid the mistakes made by the early German investigators which led to erroneous conclusions.

MORE POLICE PROTECTION NEEDED.

Recent events make it plain that more police protection is needed in Belleville at night. When it is possible for burglars to attempt to force the front door of several stores on Front street in one night without detection and successfully burglarize two stores the same night it is time something was done to give police protection in proportion to taxes paid. As at present constituted the night police force is entirely inadequate to a city which covers as much ground as Belleville. With one man on duty at the police station at night answering police and fire calls an emergency police call my come in, and if the desk man leaves the station a fire call may be phoned in with no one to receive it. It is true the desk man can give the police call but the patrolman may be too busy to respond immediately.

Since the war ended the movement of yeggs, tramps and others afflicted with the wanderlust has been resumed and there is once more a constant procession up and down-the land, night and day, but particularly at night of wanderers who "toil not neither do they spin", but are fat and sleek and in many instances sawy and extremely dangerous.

Railway men know the signs of the night prowlers. There is the camp-fire in the bush near the railway yards and the appetizing smell of "hobo mulligan" sifting through the air, there are dark forms blending with the shadows or darting quickly from behind water tanks and freight sheds to catch the "blind baggage" of outgoing express trains, besides those who prefer the bumpers of the fast freight—nobody rides on the way freight, which travels by day and is too slow for any self-respecting tramp.

The reassembling again of the great moving army of tired men who dislike work, especially in the summer months, carries danger to communities where police protection is inadequate and it has been the experience that this danger is intensified after a war when especially dangerous characters can disguise their intentions by posing as returned soldiers and perpetrate crimes which otherwise would be impossible.

This is a time when police protection should be able to cope with any emergency, night or day, and foolish economy in this department at the present juncture will only be an encouragement to crime.

One has only to read the opening daily record of criminal events in the newspapers to realize the necessity of increased police protection.

Do it now!

SLANDERING PUBLIC MEN.

Hardshell Grit organs which either actively opposed Union Government, from its inception or played "safety-first," hating any departure from "straight" politics, even in war time, but afraid to declare themselves in the face of an aroused public opinion, are emerging from the war cloud more vicious than ever in uncalled for attacks upon public men. Fortunately there are few such newspapers in Canada. A recent instance of partizan spleen was exhibited by the exploitation of a false story originated by the London Advertiser that Sir Robert Borden was receiving annual dividends of fifty-one per cent. on some stock he holds in a cold storage company. This was copied and enlarged upon by the few newspapers of the blind partizan type of the Advertiser, but these newspapers were not fair enough to publish Sir Robert Borden's denial of the assertion that he is receiving dividends of fifty-one per cent. per annum on an investment in the cold storage concern. The policy of telling a big lie and then sticking to it seems to animate these journals in the monstrosities who seem to regard politics as an excuse for slander and have apparently learned nothing from the war in the line of Christian brotherhood, truth and eternal justice.

Sir Robert Borden said in the House of Commons on July 7:

"I was an original subscriber to this company, which was established about fifteen or sixteen years ago, before the passage of the Cold Storage Act of 1907, and the purpose of the company was precisely that to which encouragement was afterwards given by the Cold Storage Act of 1907, to the extent of providing for the erection of the capital in any such company. The company in which I have a small interest received no subsidy under the act,—it never applied for any so far as I am aware. The company was not formed for the purpose of profiteering, and it has never bought or sold one dollar's worth of any commodity whatever. It has confined itself purely to the purpose encouraged by the Cold Storage Act of 1907, that is, the storage of commodities for persons who have the right to keep them in cold storage for such time as they see fit, and to take them out whenever they desire to do so. Personally, I have never had anything to do with its management and have never attended any of its meetings, its affairs being under the direction of capable, fair-minded and honest men in whom I have confidence.

"I might add further that after the company had been established some fifteen or sixteen years ago it got into difficulties, and those who had become shareholders were asked to advance further money in order that its operations might be extended, as it was evident that it could not carry on under the conditions that then prevailed. Shareholders, including myself, advanced further money for the purpose of preventing the company going into liquidation, and I recall the fact that there was some apprehension in my mind that the money which I then invested, as well as that which had previously been advanced, apparently bade adieu to me. For four years there was no dividend whatever; in other years I think the dividend has been six per cent., and during seven years eight per cent. The total yield on my investment from that time I began up to the present has been less than five per cent. The journal in question asserts that my return from this company during the past year has been 51 per cent.; it has just about one-seventh of that amount; that is to say eight per cent. on the capital invested."

STAY-AT-HOMES STAYED IN JAIL.

Weakness is the term applied by the Kingston Whig (Liberal) to the action of Premier Hearst in ordering the release of all returned soldiers incarcerated for infraction of the O. T. A. The Whig says that the amnesty should have included civilians, if made at all. Seems as if the Whig has its Grit partizan war club out again after having so consistently supported the win-the-war government. It happened that Premier Hearst was required by the Army and Navy Veterans Association to release returned soldiers so that they could join in the peace celebration. Premier Hearst being one of those old fashioned patriots who believe nothing was too good for the soldier and having a lively recollection of the hardships experienced by the boys over there, including his own son, for the benefit of the civilian stay-at-homes willingly agreed to release the soldiers. The stay-at-homes stayed in jail because there was no particular reason why they should be released.

RETURN TO PARTY GOVERNMENT.

The Kingston Standard, which since peace has been declared has advocated a return to straight party government on the ground that the present Government was elected purely as a war Government, in a leading editorial points out that, with peace declared, the country will now expect, or at least will hope for, from Sir Robert Borden, the formulation of policies which, like his pre-war policies, will be essentially Conservative, no matter how the name may be recognized by the Cabinet after reconstruction. The Standard adds: "If any former or present Unionist is prepared to continue under Premier Borden's leadership, we take it for granted that he must also be prepared to accept the fiscal, financial and economic policies which it is only natural to suppose will not be in harmony with former Liberal ideas."

Full of fanatical religious fervor a deluded individual in the United States recently undertook to show his faith by allowing a rattlesnake to bite him. The snake not being of that peculiar religious faith inoculated the chump with deadly virus and death resulted. One called the Kaiser underhook to effect partnership with the Deity in a similar way, regretting that it takes two to make a bargain. And that man would have been better off today if a rattlesnake had bitten him.

OTHER VIEWS

Minneapolis Journal.

The lesson which has been made a variety of decisions as to the status of the billboard. These decisions have been sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States, and an opinion has been handed down which is now final in law. The supreme court holds that a billboard in the residential district of a city may be a nuisance, and the city may in the exercise of its police power prohibit it, even though it stands upon private land.

Why the British Did Not Attack.
Westminster Gazette.

Admiral von Scheer criticises our conduct of the early days of the war. The German fleet, he says, was not ready, and could have been destroyed in the first week. We doubt it. What was there to prevent the German fleet retiring behind the defences of Kiel and through the canal? But the short answer to the Admiral is that in those first weeks the British fleet was engaged on more urgent business guarding and securing the passage of the British Army to France.

The One Big Union.
Toronto Saturday Night.

It is something that Canadians, especially Canadian trade unionists, should keep well in mind, that the "One Big Union" is the cornerstone of the I. W. W. movement; and when we consider the countless murders, attempted assassinations and deeds of robbery, arson and violence which have been proven against various branches of the I. W. W. (not forgetting the attempt at instance rendered by that body to Germany during the late war), it must be admitted that the "One Big Union" idea comes from a polluted source.

Predict Transformation.
Detroit Free Press.

Regular transoceanic communication and travel by dirigible will mean great changes in the United States. Cities like Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis will be to all intents and purposes "ocean ports." And as the dirigible develops they will become more and more world commercial shipping centres. That will mean not merely the construction of hangars but also of "harbors" of refuge which will provide shelter so that dirigibles may land in high winds and be safe after casting anchor. And this will be only the beginning of a growth that will transform the whole business face of the land.

The Feeling Exists.
Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

The committee on the high cost of living admits in its report that there are individual cases of profiteering. Well, why not get after these individual cases? It might not lower the cost of living materially to do so; but it would be an evidence of good will toward the consumer. The reason why there is so much dissatisfaction at present is not merely that the cost of living is so high and that the sympathies of those in authority are with the profiteers rather than with their victims. There may be no foundation for that belief, but the fact that the feeling exists shows the necessity of doing something to allay it.

Proportional Representation.
Toronto World

An election by the Trades and Labor Council is about to take place, at which it is said the strength of the moderates, as compared with the radicals, is to be tested. The election is to be conducted under the Hare-Spence system of proportional representation and there is an excellent description of the method in the current number of The Industrial Banner. No one can say that it is difficult to understand after reading this account.

New South Wales, the most populous of the Australian states, has adopted proportional representation, and this is regarded as heralding its adoption by the whole commonwealth. Here in Canada provincial governments in Manitoba is preparing to adopt the plan, which it is expected to apply in the first instance to the Winnipeg constituencies in the provincial elections.

Glad He Felt Good.

A commercial traveller, on leaving a seaside hotel, told the proprietor: "Pardon me, but with what material do you stuff the beds in your establishment?"

"Why," said the landlord proudly, "with the best straw to be found in the whole country."

"I returned the traveller, "is very interesting. I now know whence the straw came that broke the camel's back."

"I am astonished."

"And tonight I am going to burn all the old love-letters in my chest of drawers."

"B-but why? Are you going to discard him?"

"Discard him! Why, you goose, I am going to marry him!"

"I presume you're mighty glad the war is over."

"Well, I don' jes' know about dat," answered Mandy.

THE HAY FIELD.

With slender arms outstretching in the sun
The grass lies dead.
The grind walks tenderly and stirs not one
Frail, fallen head.

Of baby creepings through the April day,
Where streamlets wind,
Of childlike dancing on the breast of May,
This is the end.

No more they part their arms and wreathe them close
Again to shield
Some love-full little nest—a dainty house
Hid in a field.

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

The Acting Premier of Australia, Mr. Watt, has taken the Australian newspapers to task for "irresponsible criticism." Australia is the Melbourne of the Indian ocean, between Australia and Africa.

Bahring Strait would be in the far South Atlantic. The Panama Canal would find itself near the west coast of Sumatra. The Straits of Magellan would be in the neighborhood of Lake Baikal, across which the trains of the Trans Siberian railroad run.

Australia would be an island in the Atlantic ocean, with Bermuda off its northwest coast and the Azores off its southeast coast. The city of Australia would be in the middle between Chile and Argentina. Pekin would be south of Buenos Aires. The Philippines would be in the heart of Brazil. Cape Horn would be in the middle of the Himalayas.

The whole of Africa, it transhapped to the opposite side of the globe, would be in the Pacific ocean. The most populous city of Timbuctu would discover itself to be surrounded by the Fiji islands, inhabited by people blacker than the ace of spades. The Sahara, if one drew upon it a map of its antipodes, would be sprinkled with many of the island group of Polynesia.

Some Definitions.

A well-known educationalist made a list of thirty-four non-technical words received from the "wrath of Lads," and induced the teachers in his home high school to try their brighter pupils on the defining of these words. Here is his announcement of the results:

Those who have studied the classics defined the words very well. The students of English pure and undefiled, who excelled even Shakespeare in that they knew no Latin and no Greek at all, presented papers the extraordinary merit to be beyond belief without the documentary proof. The first one presented, written by a boy who had studied English eleven years in school, contained the following amazing definitions:

"Pomp—a dancing slipper.

"Conscientious—strictly honest.

"Chronic—a record.

The Treaty of Calgary.

The treaty of Calgary has been signed. Its terms are hotly resented by all signatories. The pact is unique. Its effects are not political, but economic. The contract is that it is an agreement between the domestic of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, organised as the Housekeepers Association, and their employers, on behalf of which is to elevate the status of the servant class; or, to be more explicit, to wipe out the classification as such altogether. Seriously, it's a most worthy scheme, and the results are reported to be mutually satisfactory to the employers, as well as to the employes. Provision is now made in Calgary to show greater consideration to domestic servants than heretofore, and this advanced step will not only spell greater freedom to the women employed as housekeepers in the Canadian city, but also aid in everywhere liberating domestics from a condition of mentality absolutely out of keeping with their work, and liberating their employers from the bondage of imposing such conditions.

Broke Long Silence.

A member for Battleford, Saskatchewan, has spoken for the first time in the House of Commons. Albert Champagne, a French-Canadian rancher who had served ten years in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, sat as Liberal member for Battleford from 1908 to 1917, without once rising in his place to make a speech.

Sir Sandy Oswald Wright, who was elected as a Unionist in December, 1917, broke the golden silence of Battleford, when his side of the house, a discussion of the budget. His remarks, it is said, was greeting with acclaim and that the people of Battleford, who have been being looked for the first time in the House, drew understanding cheers from the Unionist benches.

The Port of St. John.

The nationalization of the port of St. John, N.B., appears to be assuming definite shape. Certain elaborate improvements at once and will place the port among the greatest ports of the Dominion.

THE ANTIDOTE.

Canadians Have Absurd Notion That They Are Opposite China.

On the other side of the world, exactly opposite to the spot where you happen to be at the present moment, is a geographical point very interesting for that if for no other reason.

Supposing that from where you are standing or sitting a hole was bored straight down through the centre of the earth, and that you could drop through it, and, after falling for many thousands of miles, land on the other side of the world, and there step out, would you know where you were? Certainly, would you? Because that exact spot is the opposite to Canada. It is the antipodes, but how could you find out? Why, anybody could tell you, answering the question with the utmost confidence, that you were in China.

Canadians have an absurd notion that they are opposite China, but the truth is that the Celestial Empire is on the other side of the earth. If any one tried to be world-wise and said that you were in Brazil he would be in the middle of the Indian ocean. Transfer Canada to the opposite side of the world, and the entire country would form an island in that vast expanse of sea.

London and Paris, if similarly transferred, would be in the Southern Pacific, south of New Zealand. Denver would be near the middle of the Indian ocean, between Australia and Africa.

Bahring Strait would be in the far South Atlantic. The Panama Canal would find itself near the west coast of Sumatra. The Straits of Magellan would be in the neighborhood of Lake Baikal, across which the trains of the Trans Siberian railroad run.

Australia would be an island in the Atlantic ocean, with Bermuda off its northwest coast and the Azores off its southeast coast. The city of Australia would be in the middle between Chile and Argentina. Pekin would be south of Buenos Aires. The Philippines would be in the heart of Brazil. Cape Horn would be in the middle of the Himalayas.

The whole of Africa, if transhapped to the opposite side of the globe, would be in the Pacific ocean. The most populous city of Timbuctu would discover itself to be surrounded by the Fiji islands, inhabited by people blacker than the ace of spades. The Sahara, if one drew upon it a map of its antipodes, would be sprinkled with many of the island group of Polynesia.

Some Definitions.

A well-known educationalist made a list of thirty-four non-technical words received from the "wrath of Lads," and induced the teachers in his home high school to try their brighter pupils on the defining of these words. Here is his announcement of the results:

Those who have studied the classics defined the words very well. The students of English pure and undefiled, who excelled even Shakespeare in that they knew no Latin and no Greek at all, presented papers the extraordinary merit to be beyond belief without the documentary proof. The first one presented, written by a boy who had studied English eleven years in school, contained the following amazing definitions:

"Pomp—a dancing slipper.

"Conscientious—strictly honest.

"Chronic—a record.

"Bronchoscreenect — gaseous, bubbling.

"Stamina—an excuse.

"Clinical—clerical.

"Hypocrite—one who talks religion—unfaithful.

RANGE GIRLS' PAY IN SASKATCHEWAN SHOPS

REGINA, Sask., July 26.—Minimum wages for female employes in retail stores in Saskatchewan were fixed at $9.50 for beginners during the first three months, $10.50 the next three months, and $13.50 for the balance of the first year. Therafter the employers are to be deemed experienced, and to receive a minimum wage of $15 a week. The hours of work are to be 48.

Those were the decisions announced by the Saskatchewan Minimum Wage Board, following sittings at which evidence was heard at Moose Jaw, Prince Albert, Saskatoon and Regina.

Out of 659 adult women and girls reported employed in this class of work in the Province, 341 are below said wages from 6 to 10 per cent. and a large proportion will have their pay considerably increased when the Board's order becomes effective. Where

Meet Ford Car Needs: Double Its Virtues

The Goodrich 3.75 Tires, built especially for the Ford car—built of heroic size and for heroic service—fit Ford to the sum-total of its perfection.

Bigger in fabric, fashioned with a regular five-bar safety tread, with an extra inch on the circumference and extra thick in the cross section, it is just the tire the weight and work of a Ford car need.

The Three-Seventy-Five is a 31 x 3½ inch tire. Its bigger bulk tells you why it lasts longer and rides easier.

Though Three-Seventy-Five cost a little more than ordinary Ford-size tires, their slightly higher cost per mile is quickly cancelled by the economy of longer mileage, and the greater satisfaction you get from a better looking, more efficient Ford car.

We reached the third wall without opposition and still there was no sign of life from the castle. We were now about one hundred rods from the main entrance and it was impossible to suppose that our approach had gone unnoticed. Either the place was deserted or else some great surprise was in store for us. Our leader took the latter view, and laid his plan accordingly.

This third wall, owing to the upward slope of the town rose at least twenty feet above the ice. It was nearly ten yards in width, and very similar in character to the forts of Santa Maria. We scaled it with the aid of rope ladders, and managed with considerable difficulty to haul up the gun after us. This we trained on the main gate of the castle. The parapets were over four feet in height and afforded ample protection for the gunners. Nothing lay between us and the entrance but a smooth sheet of ice. When all our men had scaled the wall, and were armed with strong bows and loaded rifles, we fired point blank at the gate.

The shell, which was exploded by percussion four-tenths right on the massive oak and iron, and small fragments of it came rattling back against the parapet. It was evident that we should be able to make short work of the gate without the use of dynamite. It was a doll's affair compared to the great entrance of Santa Maria, where the iron alone was four inches in thickness. We waited a minute for some response, but there was no sound save the faint crackling of the ice in all directions. The smoke drifted away in the moonlight like a silver cloud, but we saw a gaping hole some two feet square. But no one moved along the castle walls, and no lights flashed from the long line of loopholes. Either the place was deserted, or else the defenders were exercising considerable self-restraint. We fired again and again, till every inch of the gate was demolished and the entrance was a mere heap of wood and stone and iron. The fragments of the last two or three shells rattled on the far side of the courtyard. Still there was no answer.

Then the sword was given to advance Our sailors slipped over the edge of the parapet like monkeys dropped on to the ice and raced across the slippery surface to the gate. I was well among the first of them, for I have, as you know, been something of a runner in my day. I had, moreover, no rifle to carry, and my hands were free. The repeated shocks of the exploding shells had cracked and split the ice in all directions, and it groaned and moved under our feet. But it stood firm until we reached the edge. Then we splashed up to our knees in water and reached the gate. Captain Edwards of the Spitfhan, was first through the entrance, and I followed him, revolver in hand; for if the enemy had any surprise waiting for us, now was the time for it. But we encountered nothing. The courtyard was empty, and the moonlight fell on nothing but wall and towers of stone.

Then Dr. Thorkness had decided that the great donjon keep of the castle was as near as possible the exact location of the North Pole; and it was decided to treat it as such until fresh observations could be made in the summer from the place itself. We hastily mounted for a second, in expectancy of a sudden sleet of arrows, or a fierce rush of steel clad knights. Then we tore across the courtyard to the door of the keep. I reached it first by a foot, and grasping the handle turned round to the others.

"It is mine!" I gasped.

"It is yours," they cried. "Three cheers for the Silex Expedition." They shouted lustily, and I fumbled round my waist for something I had brought with me. I untied it and waved it in the moonlight. It was a small Union Jack. Again they roared out their cheers; and the Astorians, who were now crowding up in the rear, cheered heartily for Count Guy and the Princess. They knew nothing of the events before their eyes, save that it was the standard of those who had set their leader on his throne. The rear guard was full of men; the air flashed with swords and lances, and there was a scene of wild enthusiasm. Avarov was in our hands, and our feet on the North Pole itself.

Then, suddenly, a clear light gleamed out from the window in the tower and a great silence fell upon the throng and every eye was turned to that patch of yellow, forty feet above the ground. A few moments later we heard a peal of hearty laughter, the clink of glasses and the faint clash of steel. Then there was a louder burst of laughter and then silence.

A soiled cuff attracts the eye

YOUR cuff is the most exposed portion of your shirt. It soils the quickest. And everyone knows how PROMINENT a soiled cuff is. It seems a magnet that draws all eyes.

A soiled cuff irritates a particular man. He keeps pushing or pulling up his shirt sleeve to hide it. It causes him to change his shirt when the body of it is still fresh and clean.

The Double Wear Cuff is a boon to the particular dresser. When the cuff gets soiled just turn it. It folds easily and lies perfectly flat whether turned in or turned out. And just think of the comfortable feeling it gives you to know that you can turn your cuff, if you should happen to get it soiled unexpectedly when down town, and it's inconvenient to go home and change your shirt.

Music and Drama

THE SPIRIT OF THE WEST.

The grandeur of the west, its little mountains, streams and valleys, is beautifully shown in "The Midnight Stage," the photoplay starring Frank Keenan. It is an adaptation to American environment of "The Lyons Mail", one of the dramas that firmly established the artistic reputation of the late Sir Henry Irving. Competent screen critics who have witnessed this screen masterpiece declare that the story, with its environment and primitive characters far surpass the French original. Mr. Keenan interpreting the dual role of the upright man and evil man, displays a power of delineation which makes the characters live, and a tripping intensity which holds interest from the beginning to the end. Compared with the picture story, the original stage presentation, though marked with high honors, seems awkward and unsatisfying. Frank Keenan has achieved the distinction of being the foremost character actor of America and even his exquisite walk in "The Bells," also one of Irving's favorites—cannot surpass his achievement in this tense, blood-stirring western romance, which will be shown at the Palace this Monday to Wednesday, matinee daily.

FAMOUS FICTION DETECTIVE

How a woman, wife of a wealthy New Yorker, passed through a secret door into the next house and there assumed a different name, appearance and personality, is partly the story of "Vick Van," which is being shown at Griffin's tonight. The big problem is the death of Randolph Schuyler, husband of the heroine. Who killed Schuyler? "Vicky Van"? You will know when you've seen the picture. Fleming Stone, the famous detective, is called in, in "Vicky Van" to clear up the mystery. Ethel Clayton is at her best in this dual role. The cast is also excellent. Noah Beery has the important role of Schuyler, a leering, lanky part, which demands much fine acting. Emory Johnson plays opposite the star with signal success.

Charlie Chaplin is also appearing on the same program in a very funny comedy, "The Bank." Mary Fuller in "The Rattled Inspector," and the Gaumont News are also being exhibited.

CHARLES RAY BATS '000

Quite sufficient is the title, "The Busher" given the Thomas H. Ince photoplay, with a baseball atmosphere, which comes to Griffin's this Monday to Wednesday. Charles Ray portrays the title role. He appears first as a baseball writer in the Rush League. His regular business is being hired man for Deacon Nashby and his Sunday baseball playing has to be done on the quiet. The Blue Sox, of the professional league laid over in Brownsville by a wreck on the railroad, are the country boy's throwing and he becomes a member of the big team. Success inflates his chest and he forgets the fervent prayer he made a little country girl before he left and falls for the wiles of a city vampire. On the particular day all Brownsville comes to see him pitch, his ever confidence proves his undoing and he is taken from the game in disgrace. The city girl "throws him down". The only one giving him any sympathy is the little girl from the back town. He goes back to his job as hired man resolved never again to throw a baseball. Curiosity, however, makes him climb a tree to see the rubber game of the Rush League. When Deacon Nashby discovers him in the ninth innings and tells him all is lost if he doesn't pitch he refuses, the streets that follow will be found both amusing and interesting. "Fatty" Arbuckle also appears on the same program in a very original and amusing comedy, entitled, "Moonshine", three other selected plays will also be exhibited.

AFTER A HARD DAY'S WORK

Rub the tired muscles with a few drops of the soothing, refreshing, antiseptic liniment, Absorbine, Jr. You will find it pleasant and convenient to use and remarkably efficacious. This liniment invigorates before and after meals, limbers the joints and prevents soreness and lameness after a strenuous, tiresome day of sport or work.

America's best athletes and trainers use Absorbine, Jr. to relieve strains and wrenches and also as a rub-down before vigorous exercise to prevent such conditions.

Absorbine, Jr. is concentrated and therefore economical—only a few drops are required at an application. One ounce Absorbine, Jr., to a quart of water or witch hazel makes an invigorating rub-down and general purpose liniment.

Their counsel stated they believed both boys were insane at the time of the murder. Judge McIntyre appointed a commission to examine their mental condition.

ARE THE DAYS OF MIRACLES OVER?

DISTRESSION AND PAIN ARE LIKELY TO FOLLOW. FACTS ARE LOOSERS

When a woman who has been down for years finds relief from suffering by a certain scientific preparation—can you deny that the remedy must be good?

Read these extracts taken, word for word, written to us by Mrs. E. Cross, of 369 The Queen's Avenue, London, Ont.:

"I suffered for several years with Rheumatism and Sciatica. I could hardly get up or down stairs. My husband bought a box of Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules, and almost immediately I felt relief. The swelling started to go down and the stiffness left my knees. I might say that previously, I had tried T.R.C.'s but had tried almost everything under the sun without success. I am happier and wiser woman now, and I assure that to you enough for the old T.R.C.'s have given me."

It's the same story from hundreds of other Rheumatic sufferers. They tried T.R.C.'s and T.R.C.'s fixed them up. If you don't believe it, try them.

Let your druggist get a box for you now (Templetons, 142 King West, Toronto), or write The Templeton Drug Co., Ltd., Sole Agents for Belleville, Dolan, the Druggist, 352 Front St., Phone 136.

This is Judd Seth, who plays on the Brownsville team with Charles Ray in his screamingly funny story of the earthly diamond, "The Busher," at Griffin's Monday to Wednesday. Judd was with the Pink Sox last season, a team that won six STRAIGHT games by CROOKED playing.

DIVORCE SET ASIDE BY NEW BRUNSWICK JURY

Fredericton, N.B., July 25.—The first jury ever summoned to hear a divorce case in New Brunswick found for the defendant, Mrs. Charles Fitzrandolph, in the case which has been going on here for nearly a week.

The case has been twice tried and once reviewed before the Supreme Court. On the first trial there was no jury and Mr. Justice Crockett gave a decision in favor of the plaintiff, granting a divorce, from which the defendant appealed to the full bench and was granted a new trial with a jury.

Mrs. Fitzrandolph, before her marriage at Boston, Mass., in 1903, was Miss "Betty" O'Brien, of Baltimore, Md., a sister-of Norah O'Brien, the actress.

Has Labored Long for Prohibition

THERE is one of seventy-six years of the most strenuous living and most able activity have left Joseph Gibson of Ingersoll not a worn out old man whose life has all been spent, but rather a man full of "ginger" and imbued with, as part that quality makes him one of the youngest in spirit of any company he cares to enter.

It should hardly be necessary to say that Joseph Gibson's great cause all through life has been that of temperance. For nearly sixty years he has been pounding old John Barleycorn, with both fist from the platforms, from the pulpit, on the street and through the mails. He has cheated old King John of his hair on many occasions, and for this reason alone he knows that he can roast to coast and even well within the interior of the land of Uncle Sam.

Born in a little cabin used as a wayside inn on the west coast of England, in the year 1842, and having left that country with his parents for Canada at the age of nine years, he can almost be termed a Canadian all through. He is in heart, and that is really the part that counts. He is a Canadian at heart, yet with the warmest possible love and devotion for the land of his birth and the place of his people. The family came to a little hamlet near Ingersoll, then called Manchester, and now known as Salford. There they stayed for a short time before going to a farm in Zorra. They came from there to Ingersoll one year later, and the boy busted himself as best he could about the home, while his family went in the blacksmithing and wagon manufacturing business.

In 1870 the young lad went to work in the implement foundry of Noxon Brothers at Ingersoll, first as a laborer and later as a mechanic. His ability soon got him into the office. After a short time of this he entered the grocery and provision business, also in Ingersoll. About this time he was being widely recognized as an able platform speaker in the cause of temperance, although only twenty-three years of age. In those days, the liquor men had chosen as their champion a wonderfully clever and finished platform speaker in the person of E. King Dodds. For three years Mr. Gibson was literally always to be found upon the heels of Dodds. He followed the man to his meetings, and many were the verbal wars waged from the platforms. In those three years, young Gibson missed only one of Dodds' meetings. Mr. Gibson had been the favorite of the temperance men, and his success during those three years was the joy of the temperance minds.

Gibson's energies did not end with the temperance cause, nor were they all given to that end. He was a force in the Methodist Church, as he is to day, and from those days he has never missed a convention or any assembly. He was once sent to London, England, in the year 1901 to attend a great world-wide council of the Methodist Church, which is held every ten years. He was also active in all the branches of the church work—in the Sunday-school, in the pulpit, and wherever else he could fit in.

He was once defeated in a contest for the House of Commons at the time of the National Policy. He was defeated, however, with the realization that he had helped to roll up a vote that a Conservative had ever polled in his riding up to that time.

He loves baseball and cricket, especially the former, because of the fact that at one time pitched for the champion team of Canada, called the All Canadas. Referring to baseball, Mr. Gibson says the pitcher is still called the pitcher, although in reality he throws the ball in the game of to-day. In his day, it was underhand pitching and nothing else. The rules of the game, as far as the pitcher's end of it was concerned were very austere, and a man had to have his mind with him all the time.

Joseph Gibson, despite all these activities, is to-day postmaster at Ingersoll, and has held that position since 1882. He has held it despite the coming and going of Governments, and has held it despite the coming and going of his own ambitions. He goes down to the office bright and early each morning, and has his share of the active work to do. This he does with all the characteristic "pep" and hustle, and when his time comes and the work is finished, he goes into his private office to read his correspondence from all parts of the continent and on many subjects.

His home life is all that it should be. He is happiest when there, although he enjoys the thoughts of longing when he looks over the places where his six sons saw the days of boyhood and grew up and then left him. One of these is Lieut.-Col. Thomas Gibson, now Deputy Minister of Militia overseas. All the sons are married and away from the parental roof. With his wife and daughter he is happy, however, and looks each day for the sunshine of life that his energy and his love of nature brings him. He has ten few Sundays at home, however, as he is nearly always away on the cause of the Dominion Alliance, of which he once headed the Ontario branch. He is also, with T. P. Fitzgerald in the Toronto Star Weekly.

More Men for Colleges.

It is officially announced that exofficers and men of British extraction, now domiciled elsewhere than in Canada, are eligible to receive grants to enable them to study in Canada, under the Imperial Government scheme for affording financial assistance for higher education and training. The Canadian Universities will welcome such students.

VATICAN CHOIR TO TOUR; FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

New York, July 26.—For the first time since organized, 1,500 years ago, the Vatican Choir will be heard outside the Roman Basilicas. The choir will come direct to New York and tour this country and Canada. There will be seventy voices in the choir.

Announcement of this was made by Theodor Mitchell of the Longacre Building. The arrangements were completed by James Slevin of this city, who has been in Rome working on the project.

The choir will be under the direction of the Right Rev. Mgr. Maestre Raffaele Casimire, Canon of St. John Lateran, director of the Pontifical Chapel, and head master and director of composition of the Schola Cantorum.

How Life Insurance Began

LIFE insurance was humanity's "long felt want." Centuries before it was invented the need for it was felt by business men.

Away back in the year 1550 a speaker in the British House of Commons said—

"Dost not the wise merchant in every adventure of danger give PART to have the REST assured?"

As soon as the cargoes of the merchants of those days were insured the need was felt for assurance on the lives of the men who were responsible for the cargoes. The insurance of goods in transit led to the assurance of the lives of the officers responsible for the goods.

Gradually the practice of life insurance was extended to others and at last became general —some day it will be universal.

Life insurance is now available for every man and woman who is in normal health. The first life insurance company that was scientific was established in 1762 in London. It was a Mutual Company and is in existence to-day in a thoroughly sound financial condition. Its principles are those of Women's diseases always yield from the very beginning of the treatment to the mild but effective action of Orange Lily. Within two or three days after commencing its use the improvement becomes noticeable, and this improvement continues until the patient is completely cured. Orange Lily is an applied or local treatment, and acts directly on the womanly organs, removing all congestion, toning and strengthening the nerves, and restoring perfect circulation in the diseased parts. In order to convince all suffering women of the value of this remedy, I will send a 40 cent box, enough for 10 days treatment, absolutely free to each lady who will send me her address. Enclose 3 stamps and address Mrs. Lydia W. Ladd, Windsor, Ont.

WOMEN CURED AT HOME

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OF CANADA

THE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OF CANADA

The PROFESSIONAL and BUSINESS SECTION has been established to assist professional, business and technical men and women.

Many officers, soldiers, sailors and war workers, who sacrificed their positions during the war, now desire to secure employment in the occupations for which they have been specially trained.

Employers should not wait until increasing business forces them to employ anybody they can obtain, but should look ahead and avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to enlist the services of highly trained workers, ordinarily secured only with difficulty. On application there can be referred to you, for example:—

ENGINEERS	LAW CLERKS
ARCHITECTS	COMMERCIAL ARTISTS
BUSINESS EXECUTIVES	SALES MANAGERS
ACCOUNTANTS	TRAVELLING SALESMEN
SECRETARIES	CHEMISTS
TEACHERS	YOUNG COLLEGE GRADUATES

These workers are returning to civil occupations with increased initiative, a broader view of life, and a greater capacity for work.

BODY ARRIVED HERE.
The remains of the late Mr. Barton Foster, who died in Wyandotte, Mich., arrived here at noon today and were taken to the residence of his sister, Mrs. A. Gillen, Dundas Street. The funeral notice will be found in another column.

NO BIDS FOR CHEESE.
At the Madoc and Stirling cheese boards this week a considerable number of boxes of cheese were boarded, but no sales were made, as there were no bids. This is owing to the fact that the standard price of cheese has not yet been fixed.

CAR BURNED IN DRIVE HOUSE
At Roslin on Tuesday a drive house the property of Mr. John Cochin was destroyed by fire together with a Chevrolet car the property of Mr. Cochin. How the fire originated is not known. Loss to the building and contents partially covered by insurance.

FINED FOR BAD ROADS
Judge Madden found the counties of Lennox and Addington guilty of continuing a nuisance by not keeping the Napanee road in repair. Besides paying the fine of $150, they also had to pay $100 more for contempt of court in refusing to abate the nuisance. Several doctors and citizens testified to the deplorable condition of the road.

BULLOCK KILLED BY LIGHTNING
During a thunder storm this week a bullock belonging to Mr. C. J. Lewis, pasturing in Reeve Coulson's field at Orono, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. A peculiar feature was that the tail was completely severed from the body. Although several other cattle were in the field there were no more injured.

GOOD FISHINGG.
The fishing in Moira lake is pronounced as the best for several years. Two of the campers set out on a fishing trip Saturday morning. The bait was plenty, the fish were hungry and at noon the successful gentlemen returned with a catch of 16 black bass. Congratulations are due Messrs. Bud Morris, of Toronto, and Wm. Summerville, of Hamilton.

BOOZE PLANT LOCATED.
Inspector Stokes, in company with Inland Revenue Officer McFee, of Belleville, located a barrel of raisin booze in process of manufacture on a premises occupied by some Finlanders in Huntingdon township near the big swamp on Thursday evening last. The aforesaid manufacturers were not in to callers just at the time and they have not been seen fit to call upon Mr. Stokes up to date. The barrel was emptied of its contents and a sample secured. The inspector called again the next morning but in the meantime the empty barrel had been removed, no doubt by its owner. The inspector did not find any distilling plant other than a coffee pot. It is very evident that this establishment has a number of auxiliary plants.—Tweed News.

SUCCESSFUL GARDEN PARTY
The annual garden party in connection with the Home of the Friendless of the city was held last evening upon the spacious grounds in connection with the Home on Moira street. Under the capable management of Miss M. Connors, Matron, the grounds were tastefully decorated to suit occasion and looked inviting when lighted up. The ladies of the W. C. A., who are immediately connected with the Home were present and lent valuable assistance in making the affair the success which it proved to be. A large number of citizens were present and thoroughly enjoyed the programme of music furnished by the 15th Regimental Band, under the able direction of Bandmaster R. Ritchey. The gate was in charge of Mrs. Geo. Dennark, while Mrs. Geo F. Stewart was in charge of the refreshments which were in great demand. The fish pond was fairly besieged by the children and was in charge of Mrs. Fred Andrews. The flower and candy booth was under the supervision of Mrs. Adjt. Goodhew of the Salvation Army. The aged people of the Home were not forgotten and were provided with some of the luxuries. A report of the function a goodly sum was realized.

B. E. SILLS STILL MISSING
Though every available clue has been followed up no trace has been found of B. E. Sills, formerly of Belleville, who disappeared from his home in Kingston Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Lake, owner of the boat livery, was interviewed and was unable to add any further information to what he had given previously. On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Sills rented a skiff from him some time around four o'clock, and that was the last seen of the missing man. The boat was found drifting near the head of Cedar Island with the unfortunate man's coat and hat folded on the stern seat. Mr. Robert Sills, of Belleville, brother of the missing man is following up every possible clue. Though many theories have been advanced, it is generally felt that the missing man has been drowned. The Kingston police are at present working on the case. Mr. Robert Sills left Kingston yesterday afternoon for Garden and Wolfe Islands in search of his missing brother.

Mr. Evan Evans, recently returned from overseas, will sing at St. Thomas Church tomorrow morning. Mr. Evans' beautiful voice gave much pleasure to all who heard him before he left. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. 11

Murderer Identified As Winnipeg Man

CHICAGO, July 26.—The veil of mystery behind which Gordon Fawcett Hamby, New York's unique condemned murderer, has hidden his life history since he was convicted a few weeks ago of the killing of two officials of the First Brooklyn Savings Bank, was lifted by the aged widow of "Blind John" Condon, one time "race track king" of Chicago and the Middle West.

Mrs. Condon, after a long struggle with her memory, identified Hamby as (in all probability the shiftless son of "Busy Jim" Fanby, race track employe of her sightless husband. Hamby shook the turf dust from his heels when Canada began sending troops across the ocean, and despite his fifty-six years, gave his life as a soldier, although he died of disease en route to France.

"If the 'Hamby' of Sing Sing's death house is the son of 'Busy Jim' Hamby, he comes of a substantial and highly respected family of Winnipeg. Reports from that city tend to confirm Mrs. Condon's identification of the son of her husband's late race track "runner."

GAVE CLUE HIMSELF

In the death house of Sing Sing Thursday, the bank slayer, apparently annoyed over the persistence with which officials pursued their efforts, declared that his alias, gave way finally and told them they would learn who he really is if they asked the information of John Condon, 2623 Michigan Avenue, this city. No John Condon could be found there, but Mrs. John Condon was found, she readily identified herself as the widow of "Blind John" Condon, the race track man of prominence.

With considerable difficulty the aged widow eventually recalled also the association of her husband with "Busy Jim" Hamby and then police and other investigators agreed that "Hamby's" sole effort to shield his identity consisted in changing a single letter of his name.

Tracing the history of "Busy Jim" Hanby revealed that he came originally from Canada and that Gordon Fawcett Hamby apparently had imbibed some of the father's roving traits. Inquiry in Winnipeg established the fact that "Busy Jim" Hamby had lived there and that after he had lived there and that after he had left to satisfy h's desire to follow the racing game, his child ren were cared for by the family of George Hanby, an uncle of Gordon. George Hanby is a health inspector for the city of Winnipeg.

RAIN CHECK BUSH FIRES

ESCANABA, Mich., July 25.—Rain falling today checked the majority of fires in the woods throughout the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Reports of serious losses from forest fires have been exaggerated except in a few isolated places, forest officials said.

Shingleton, a small town near Manistique, was threatened yesterday, but the fire was confined to the cut overlands. Two other villages, neither having more than a dozen dwellings, are said to have been destroyed by the fires.

Liquor Vote And Election At Same Time

Toronto Mail and Empire Says This Would Be Best Public Policy.

TORONTO, July 23.—Strongly supporting the suggestion that the prohibition referendum and provincial general elections be held on the same day the Mail ad Empire says editorially, in part:

"As a matter of fact it would be the best of public policy to hold the election the same day as the referendum. That is not to say that it would be good luck for Mr. Dewart.—He himself is very sure that it would not.

"The referendum will bring the people to the polls in larger numbers than any other public business. Practically every man and woman in Ontario is deeply interested in this matter—of solving the drink traffic problem. Both the thoroughgoing advocates and the thoroughgoing opponents of prohibition will turn out in full strength and so will favor one form or another of qualified prohibition. Whatever the issue of the voting on the referendum, there will be little chance for anyone to complain on the score of public indifference.

Elmira Depositors Sell at 50 per cent

ELMIRA, July 23.—After the meeting of depositors and debenture holders of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation at which the liquidator, Mr. G. T. Clarkson, explained the nature of the company's assets and the seems of reorganization being proposed whereby the least expense will be incurred in realizing on the assets, a number of farmers holding claims against the head hotel and assigned their claims for fifty cents on the dollar. Mr. Clarkson, when he noticed the transactions, remarked "Very foolish, very foolish."

MOTHER AND CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

NEW YORK, July 23.—Police are investigating the mysterious imprisonment of a mother and child in their burning home in Jersey City, which they recently received having caused their death in the City Hospital. They rescuer found the door to the room in which they were imprisoned tied securely with a rope on the outside so that the occupants could not open it. Mrs. Mary Fiestnick, thirty-four years old, and her daughter, Sylvia, eleven years old, the victims, died in the hospital after being carried from No. 475 Henderson Street. Their garments were burned from them.

Army Of 30,000 Citizens Have Marched Out Of Belleville

NOTHING TO KEEP THEM HERE IN THE WAY OF PROFITABLE EMPLOYMENT, AND CITY HAS LOST EVEN NATURAL INCREASE IN POPULATION, SAYS W. C. MIKEL, K.C., ADDRESSING LAND OWNERS OF BAY SHORE ON GREAT INDUSTRIAL PLAN TO DEVELOP RESOURCES OF THIS DISTRICT.

The Bayside school house was filled to overflowing Saturday night when nearly every land owner from the Belleville Cemetery to Trenton in the first and broken front concessions attended. All were most interested in the proposal of W. C. Mikel, K.C., to acquire the land in this section, about 1,000 acres, for industrial development. Mr. Mikel opened the meeting by explaining his proposition, when a number of questions were asked by those present, and others delayed by road conditions. Mr. County Treasurer Mallory, who is a large land owner in this section, said he was not opposed to giving an option but thought the price should be higher than the actual value of the land now because it might increase in five years. Arthur Burk said the cost of living improvement had became necessary for the working of the farm during the period of option should be added to the purchase price. The point was raised as to whether some of the land on which options were taken would be left out when it came to closing the options. Arthur Wills suggested that a clause be put in the options requiring the purchasers to take all land for which options were given.

A committee was suggested composed of Burnham Mallory ,John Jess, C. B. Meyers, Frank Wilson and Arthur Burk.

The general feeling of the meeting was favorable to the proposition and an adjournment for further consideration was made to Aug. 8th at the same place at 3 p.m. standard time.

Mr. Mikel said:

Big Things.

You have met here tonight to consider one of the biggest real estate deals in Canada, the acquisition of the land in the first and broken front concessions of the township of Sidney from the Belleville cemetery west to the line between the second concession on the north and the Bay of Quinte on the south—about 7,000 acres. We have been considering small deals and things in this section. We hear of industries coming to other places, expending one, two, five hundred thousand dollars and even millions, but such things seem difficult to appreciate when spoken of with reference to this locality. Ontario has about 700 industries with capital of about 947 million dollars, and these pay out 165 millions in wages and salaries a year. It may not do us any harm to get accustomed to big things. Our opportunities are as good and our people are as capable as they are anywhere.

Chance Not Entirely Missed.

Mr. Mikel said he had been giving a good deal of attention to the question of developing the opportunities of this section, even before the war. He had tried to get an airship industry started in Belleville in 1915. We got one biplane built but people did not seem interested. If that industry had been taken hold of then several Belleville people might now have been millionaires. This presents a still greater opportunity. He hoped the people in this section would not let it pass.

Advertise our Advantages.

The possibility of developing a big industrial community in what may be described as Outer Belleville section does not seem to have been fully appreciated by the people in that section or largely due to the native caldness with sufficient force. The merchant may have the best goods in the world, but if he does not adopt progressive methods and that fact be known, and show up his goods in the most attractive manner he may still be a dismal failure.

Past and Present.

There was a time when the Belleville section did not have such opportunities as now possessed by it. There was only the one Railway, the old Grand Trunk, operating in but two provinces and no hydro electric power. Even then we had energetic progressive spirits who endeavored to make the most of our position. They were stimulated by observing the progress of other places that had no greater advantages than we had. Now, this section is most favorably situated. It is on the main line of three transcontinental railway lines carrying goods and passengers to and from every corner of the country. It is on the main waterway from the head of navigation to the sea. It enjoys the benefit of the cheapest hydro power on the St. Lawrence, the Trent Valley and the newly opened canal to New York city. It has the most extensive power basin with immense quantities of electric power available at reasonable prices. It is situated between the two great industrial centres of Toronto and Montreal, and sufficiently far from each to enable development to go on without interference from either.

350 Industries from the U. S.

For years there has been a pretty constant flow of industries from the United States to Canada. With the inevitable growth of Canada and its position of influence in the British Empire this industrial flow—to nothe Republic to the south of us has reached 350 plants, and will continue to increase. Even within the present year 30 or more branch manufacturing plants come to Ontario and many others already here have expanded, introducing very large amounts of capital.

Big Industries Need Plenty of Land.

The need of big modern industries is plenty of land; some require as much as fifty acres. The trend of these modern big industries is in the direction of acquiring large tracts of land to allow for the natural operation of the plant and for possible expansion but also for the purpose of introducing new methods of taking care of the welfare of the employees and providing. This policy makes the employees happy for their pleasure and recreation, by and extended and insure a sufficient supply of the best quality of labor. Some have gone the length of providing restaurants, temporary hostelries for meals and other forms of entertainment. This demand for large quantities of land cannot now be supplied in the big Canadian and American cities.

Plenty of Land West of Belleville Cemetery.

Of course, we have no large blocks of land within the actual borders of the city such as some of the big modern industries require. West of the Belleville cemetery there is plenty of land for this purpose. If the owners there are prepared to dispose of this land, the last physical difficulty in the way of development will have been overcome.

Border Veterans Greatly Aroused

WINDSOR, Ont., July 23.—Anti-British articles written over the signature "Costello," appearing regularly in the Free Press, a Detroit morning paper have so incensed the people of the border cities, that a movement is on foot to petition the federal authorities to have the paper banished from entering Canada.

Costello claims to be a veteran of the A. E. F. and in Siberia, and his articles teem with abuse of the British command, which, he alleges, counsels leaving the wounded to their fate. Further, he alleges, had the command of the forces been in the hands of Americans, there would have been a different story to tell.

Great war veterans along the border are angry, not so much with the disgruntled soldier as with a newspaper lending its columns to his ravings. Lieut. J. Leighton, recently home from Siberia, gives the lie direct to the allegations of cowardice.

"Unless the government prohibits paper carrying such cowardly propaganda entering Canada, we border veterans have another method that we will not hesitate to use, and that is an officer of the Windsor command made at headquarters."

Another of the articles is promised in Friday's edition of the paper.

Costello is connected with the Roman Catholic university in Detroit.

QUEBEC'S ATTITUDE AS TO LIBERAL LEADER

MONTREAL, July 23.—A hint of what will be the attitude of the Quebec delegates at the Liberal convention to be held in Ottawa next week, is given by Jos. Archambault, M.P., for Chambly Vercheres, at a meeting.

Mr. Archambault said that the new leader would have to be a man outside of Quebec; not because Quebec is lacking in men qualified enough, but because a Quebec man in the present circumstances would not secure a strong enough following in the other provinces, while the French Liberals who had one of their own as leader since 1887, would have no objection to following a chief from any other province. At that was intended was to get a man strong enough to oust the Calonist party.

ADMIRALTY CUT SHIP PROGRAMME

LONDON, July 23.—Since the signing of the armistice, British Admiralty has cancelled orders for 326 ships, resulting in a net savings of £12,000,000. This announcement was made during the course of the naval debate in the House of Commons by L. J. McNamara, Parliamentary Secretary of the Admiralty.

FAMOUS DANCER MISSING

NEW YORK, July 23.—Gertrude Hoffman, famous dancer, has disappeared from her home here, according to a report given to police detectives by agency by her husband, Max Hoffman, who has asked that a search be made for her.

She is said to have last been seen entering a Fifth avenue drug store Wednesday.

BATHING BEAUTIES MUST DRAPE THEIR FORMS

CARDIFF, Wale, July 23.—The city council of Barry has decided to let the police prosecute all publicity abuse as bathing girls who wear immodest costumes. Beach Inspectors have been strugled to take the photographs of all conspicuous offenders by mail and to post copies in public places. The Barry council took this step after two saucy sea nymphs had slapped an inspector who reprimanded them.

TWO LARGE HOTELS DESTROYED BY FIRE

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., July 23.—The Manhattan Hotel and the Morrel House, adjoining, at Sharon Springs were destroyed by a fire which started in the kitchen of the former. The loss is estimated at $200,000, partly covered which is in jewels and apparel the guests in the two hotels.

JAZZ SEEMS DOOMED

LONDON, July 23.—The passing of the Jazz is foreshadowed by the secretary of the somewhat grandiloquently styled Imperial Society of Dancing Teachers.

The society is holding an annual congress next week and some newly-invented dances are to be exhibited which will "supersede jazz, the fox trot and other dances."

Returned Soldier Drowned in Moira

William McFaul, Under Treatment For Shell Shock, Wanders Away From Rockwood Hospital and is Drowned.

On Sunday afternoon, a drowning accident occurred on the river Moira about a mile north-east of the railway bridge and for some time the identity of the victim was unknown, but subsequently he was identified as Private William McFaul, a returned soldier. It appears that about 2 o'clock, Mr. Leonard Snider who resides in the 5th Concession of Thurlow, was down at the river bathing when he observed a man attempting to cross the river from the opposite shore. At this point there are some three or four old stone piers, a dam at one time having been built there. The man was able to reach two piers, owing to the shallow water but in stepping off the second pier he dropped into about 8 feet of water. He carried a stick in his hand and this he waved. After a few minutes he disappeared from view.

Mr. Snider went for assistance and Mr. Will Cook dove down and succeeded in bringing the body to the shore.

Dr. Faulkner of Tweed, a coroner was present and after hearing the circumstances decided an inquest was unnecessary. The body was given to Undertaker Tickell of Tweed and conveyed to their undertaking establishment and prepared for burial.

The victim of the unfortunate affair was about 35 years of age. He was a son of Mr. Penry McFaul, who at present is in Saskatchewan, fired at Kemptville and two sons who went overseas with the 255th Battalion. He was shell shocked and of late had been an inmate of the Rockwood Hospital, Kingston, which institution he left on Friday last. On Saturday night about 11 o'clock, he was at Mr. Reynolds' store, at Canifton and took a train to Carbyville with Mr. F. Robinson who lives near there. This was the last seen of him until the accident occurred. He was attired in a light striped combinationsuit. About his neck hung a small purse, which contained pieces of tobacco and a Y.M.C.A. meal ticket issued at London, England. Since returning to Canada, his mind has been somewhat affected by the death of his brother Larry, a in the Queen's Military College, Kingston and another brother Jack is in Saskatchewan with the father. Two sisters are living, namely Mrs. James McDonald of Campbellford and Miss Mary of Sask.

Day At The Beach For Shelter Kiddies

Kindly Citizens Can Give Pleasure and a Healthful Outing to Children.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir:—Will you permit me to again appeal to the public to help us to give the children in the Shelter a day's outing. We have arranged for the 4th and that they will respond to this the 4th annual outing which will take place Thursday, July 26th. We will be pleased to receive cash or provisions, such as cake, fruit, etc. These could be left at the Y.M.C.A. or at the A.S.S. office, 22 Church street or the Inspector will be pleased to call and take same if you will phone him and if anyone sending motor cars could set their way clear to send them along it would assist us greatly. Kindly remember the children and let us all help in giving those little ones a splendid outing. Thanking you in anticipation of your kind favor,

Yours respectfully,
THOS. D. RUSTON

Derbyshire Miners Return to Work

200,000 Miners in Yorkshire District Still on Strike.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press Limited

LONDON, July 23.—All miners in Derbyshire who went on strike last week returned to work today as a result of the settlement of the mining dispute reached between the Miners Federation and the government. In Yorkshire, however, two hundred shop conference last Friday in London at which a settlement was reached maintains that the employers must make the next move toward the settlement of the differences arranged between the Federation and government.

The Church In The Wildwood Opening Of Oak Hills Camp Meeting

REV. DR. CHOWN, GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT OF CANADIAN METHODISM, PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT OPENING SERVICES—ATTENDANCE VERY LARGE—MUSICAL SERVICES VERY INTERESTING—CHICAGO EVANGELIST COMING.

There's a camp in the lake by the wildwood,
No lovelier place do I know,
Where Christ is as near as in childhood
And the fountains of life overflow!
Come to the church in the wildwood!
Oh, come to the camp on the hill!
No place is more dear since my child-hood
Than the precious old church on the hill.

The above song was very popular at the Methodist Camp Meeting which opened yesterday with a very large attendance and an interesting program.

The camp is situated in a beautiful grove on the shores of Oak Lake, and no better site could possibly have been chosen for a camp ground. Already the campers are beginning to pitch their tents among the trees and becoming citizens of the colony which will continue for three weeks while the camp meeting is in progress.

The Oak Hills Camp Meeting was originally started under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference, but it is now managed by the Laymen's Association of Oak Lake, which has the motto—the power is Methodist the movement is essentially nonsectarian. The clergymen of the district are invited to the camp meeting services their entire support and assistance but the men directly behind the evangelistic gun directing the campaign are laymen and the following trustees are in charge: J. A. Lott, President; G. T. Woodley, Vice-President; G. V. Ketcheson, Secretary; G. J. Massey, Treasurer; D. A. Thrasher, G. N. Smith, S. W. Lloyd, Mark Holden, George A. Ketcheson, R. R. Bird, J. W. Kelley, J. F. Ridley, Wm. Tuffs.

Programme Committee—Rev. L. M. Sharpe, Rev. J. S. McMullen, Nelson Parliament, M.P.P., R. N. Bird, J. F. Ridley.

The big feature of the Oak Hills camp meeting this season will be the presence of Rev. Harold L. Stephens of Chicago, who is said to be an evangelist of the whirlwind type, eloquent and magnetic. He will begin his addresses next Sunday, and the services are led by Mr. C. H. Rudd, of Toronto, a talented vocalist, who also arrived yesterday to conduct the song meeting choir which will be large and efficient.

The Tabernacle.

Over seventeen hundred dollars has been expended upon the camp meeting equipment by the Laymen's Association in the cluster besides a great deal of their individual time in building operations. A large frame tabernacle has been erected capable of holding over twelve to fifteen hundred people. The building is so planned that plenty of fresh air circulates through large openings which run the length of the structure on both sides, just below the overhanging roof. Then there are large doors and windows always open. The interior of the building presents a novel and attractive appearance with its pillars of tree trunks with the bark still on and the general air of rustic simplicity.

The building is equipped with a Siebe gas lighting system presented by a member of the ministry who is a strong supporter of the camp meeting movement. Unfortunately, however, the pipes had not been overhauled since last season and the system could not be used for the evening service yesterday. An emergency lighting service was furnished by lamps and lanterns on the rostrum and the headlights of several automobiles shining through doors and windows. As can be imagined, the effect was weird. All old fashioned well known hymns were sung so it was not necessary for anyone to strain their eyes at the song sheets in the semi-darkness. As Rev. Dr. Chown, the speaker of the day, said, it was a most unique occasion, but the crowded seating a variety of circumstances, sometimes in the dark, but this was the first time he had preached to automobile light.

The meetings yesterday were in charge of Rev. J. S. McMullen, of Camnitton, with Rev. W. P. Rogers, B.A., President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, chairman of the afternoon service. Rev. Everson also assisted, besides members of the Laymen's Association and Mr. Robertson, a student at Moody Evangelistic Institute.

The outstanding features of the opening day were the vigorous and eloquent sermons preached by Rev. A. D. Chown, D.D., LL.D., General Superintendents of Canadian Methodism, who delivered helpful messages as to the duties, responsibilities and opportunities of the church in connection with present day problems. Dr. Chown said that the occasion revived memories of over thirty years ago when in the camp meetings of those days hundreds were brought to Christ and became sanctified workers for the Master. He predicted ten years or more of world unrest and turmoil before normal conditions and a higher standard of civilization was reached. He touched upon the general perplexing questions of the day, including conscientious objectors, the merchant, manufacturer and farmer should conduct his business not alone for profit but with the larger motive of service to humanity. He gave an interesting account of his experiences in the war zone, of the heroism and self sacrifice of the soldiers and said that by all the rules of modern warfare the Huns should have won the war a hundred times but were saved penalty by divine Providence—God won the war. Dr. Chown pleaded for a religion animated by unselfish sentiment which would sanctify even the everyday affairs of life, all working together for the general good.

Camp Fire Sparks.

In addition to the large tabernacle erected, a dining hall has been added and a large cottage constructed for the accommodation of speakers.

Dedicated to God and not to any particular creed or sect is the tabernacle building, said Rev. T. S. Woodley, Vice-President of the campground association.

An auto-bus took a full load of Belleville people to the campground in the afternoon, returning after the evening service.

Beautiful Oak Lake glimmering through the trees shines like a gem of "purest ray serene," adding the necessary final touch to a scene colorful and whatever delightful.

The young lads and their lassies were there in large numbers and the absence of the usual evening service afforded an opportunity for heart-throbbing thrills of hand-holding and incipient love affairs were speeded up by the accompaniment of such hymns and good sound Methodist doctrine.

Evidence of the old time religious fervor was not wanting and the Amen Corner gave evidence of coming to vigorous life before the evangelistic campaign is far advanced.

A spring on the camp grounds furnishes good drinking water and a well is being sunk.

The camp grocery supplies everything from castor oil to gasoline and from bread to bacon.

Just think of it! A well known clergyman on his way in his Model T Ford to the camp meeting ran out of gas and stalled plump across the road in the middle of a hill. Well, no other car tried to pass and went hard and fast into the ditch. Soon there was a string of automobiles and buggies a mile long held up by the gasless buggy. Being a Methodist, the sky pilot took up a collection of gasoline and went on his way rejoiced after helping the other car out of the ditch and the entire procession of cars was able to proceed to the camp grounds.

Another Hun Lie

PARIS, July 23.—M. Ribot has denied absolutely the assertions of Maximilian Erzberger of Germany that the allies made a proposition through the Vatican to make peace with Germany in 1917. On the contrary, says Ribot, who was French Premier and Finance Minister at that time, France and Britain, in a public note to the Pope declined the proposals on the ground that they provided insufficient guarantees for Belgium.

Changes In Motor Vehicle Act Which All Autoists Must Heed

Citizens will be glad to learn that the Vehicle Act has been amended to make accidents still less frequent. Motorists will do well to notice the following rules, because they are now law, and as such will be enforced.

Every motor vehicle used for commercial purposes must be equipped with a mirror securely attached to it and placed in such a position so as to afford the driver of such motor vehicle while driving or operating the vehicle a clear view of the roadway in the rear of such vehicle which may be approaching in the rear.

No motor vehicle shall be driven upon a highway in a city, town or village at a greater speed than 20 miles per hour nor any highway outside of a city, town or village at a greater speed than 25 miles an hour, and on any intersection or curve where the driver has not a clear view of the traffic at any greater speed than 10 miles an hour in city, town or village or 12½ miles per hour outside a city, town or village. The councils of any city, town or village may set aside any highway or portion thereof on which motor vehicle may be driven at a greater rate of speed for purpose of testing the same and may pass a bylaw regulating and governing the use of any such highway.

No person shall hire or let for hire a motor vehicle unless the person by whom such motor vehicle is to be driven is licensed to drive motor vehicle as required by this act or a person to whom a license has been issued by the sections of this Act or a person to whom a certificate of competency has been issued by the Minister of Public Works and Highways.

All persons who buy, sell, wreck or wreck or dismantle second hand vehicles shall keep a record of all motor vehicles sold, bought or wrecked by them during the week, and such information with reference thereto as may be required by the department.

No persons shall buy, sell or wreck or otherwise deal with any motor vehicle where the manufacturing serial number or identifying mark has been obliterated or defaced or is not readily recognizable.

When any motor vehicle is placed in the possession of any person who buys, sells, wrecks or stores motor vehicles and the same remains in his possession for more than seven days without good reason, such person shall forthwith at expiration of such period (two weeks) make a report thereof to the Minister of Public Works and Highways.

Bylaws may be passed by the councils of any municipalities on the conviction of officer or on the order of judge or police magistrate before the conviction is heard a reward of not less than $20 to any person who pursues and apprehends or causes to be apprehended any person stealing a motor vehicle within the municipality. The amount payable shall be in the discretion of the judge or police magistrate but not exceed the bylaw.

Is there no limit to this kid's cleverness? Note with what ease he catches the "Fly" ball. He plays on the Brownsville team with Charles Ray in his screamingly funny baseball picture, "The Basher." The Basher is possessed of as zippy a curve as you ever saw—lots of speed but no control. He's dead from the neck up. Until—but that's when he ceases being a basher. This yarn leads the league for funny incidents; we'll say so. It's at Griffin's tonight to Wednesday.

Letters to the Editor

RETURNED SOLDIERS AND GOVERNMENT

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Sir:—Wake up Belleville with your patriotic spirit—and start to realize that returned soldiers today need something more than a brass band to meet them at the station.

Give them a chance to start in civilian life again without the aid of the pick and shovel used by them to such a good advantage at the front, and of which they have had their fill. Allow the stay-at-homes to fill those positions who besigned our local doctors when reinforcements were needed at the front, with thanks of the heart, otherwise RIDDN in the army as cold feet, or rushed to the matrimonial bureau as a way out of the fighting line. How many returned men do we find today as enumerators, a position just suitable to the boys accustomed to walking many miles; that as we follow the stay-at-homes to fill those positions who besigned our local doctors when reinforcements were needed at the front, with thanks of the heart, otherwise RIDDN in the army as cold feet, or rushed to the matrimonial bureau as a way out of the fighting line. How many returned men do we find today as enumerators, a position just suitable to the boys accustomed to walking many miles; that as we find one of our worthy aldermen who should be looking after the interests of the boys, and a number of other citizens who could very well do without the same and give the boys a chance who tore themselves away from all family ties and volunteered when their country needed them, to return now and find those who remained on the platform waving hand kerchiefs and cheering, have gobbled up all the good positions and expect the boys to return to the pick and shovel used so effectively by them in France.

Now in conclusion let me say that if the heads of the G.W.V.A. do not intend to take up this matter and try to get the boys what they are entitled to then let them step down and give the boys a chance.

Here is a good chance for the patriotic and influential citizens of the city to wake up and show the boys you intend to keep the promises made so many times at recruiting meetings by placing them in positions so justly earned, thereby boosting the boys who have boosted Belleville in France.

CAPTAIN HYLAND.

Called by Death

GEORG W. WILLIAMS

Mr. George W. Williams, who was well known in Belleville, passed away at an early hour on Sunday morning after being ill for some time. Neuritus and heart trouble were the cause of death. Deceased was in his 54th year and was born in Prince Edward County. He had, however, resided in Belleville the greater portion of his life where he had many friends. By occupation he was an agent. He was in religion an Anglican, being connected with Christ Church. Mr. Williams was unmarried. An aged mother, residing in the city, two brothers and two sisters survive. The brothers are Douglas and Irwine of Toronto, and the sisters are Mrs. (Dr.) F. N. Foster of Detroit, and Miss Melina of this city.

SARAH BARRIAGE

Mrs. Sarah Barriage, an aged lady, passed away last night in this city after being ill for some time. Deceased was 86 years of age, and was born in England. The greater portion of her life was spent at Millbown, Tyendinaga Township. Her husband preceded her to the tomb some years ago. Three son, Abraham and Edwin of College Hill, city, and Richard of Gahawa, and one daughter, Miss Emma Barriage of College Hill, survive. The body was taken to Shannonville for interment.

Kingston Youths Drowned in Lake

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Doctor Advised Him To Take It

A. F. Roberts, Successful Cattle Dealer, Gains 16 Pounds in 60 Days Taking Tanlac.

"One of the best doctros in Colorado advised me to take Tanlac, and it has not only overcome my troubles but I have gained sixteen pounds since I began taking it sixty days ago," said A. F. Roberts, who lives at Rocky Ford, Alberta, Canada, a few days ago.

Mr. Roberts is one of the largest cattle dealers in his section of the country, and before moving to Canada a short time ago, he spent most of his life in Colorado, U.S.A.

"I can now understand why Tanlac enjoys such wide popularity both in Canada and the United States," continued Mr. Roberts, "and since it has done me so much good, I know that it is a very dependable medicine and deserves all the praise that is being given it. For the past two years I have suffered from stomach trouble, and when I commenced taking this Tanlac, it was almost impossible for me to retain anything I ate. I was very nervous and never got a good night's sleep and finally got so weak and rundown that I was hardly able to get about. I often had dizzy spells and was bothered a great deal with constipation.

"My physician certainly knew what he was doing when he prescribed Tanlac for me, for it has done the work for me, as I am as healthy and strong now as I ever was in my life. In fact I has done much more for me than I expected it would do. I have a fine appetite and everything I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have the slightest sign of stomach trouble of any kind. I am no longer bothered with constipation, and never have those dizzy spells any more. I have regained all my strength, too, and that nervousness has left me, and I sleep like a log every night. In fact, I am simply enjoying perfect health again, and I give Tanlac credit for it all."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, in Trenton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morton, in Madoc by J. Will Vince in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

CHAPTER XXXI

I pressed my shoulder against the door and it swung slowly backwards, revealing nothing but darkness. Someone thrust a torch into my hand, and I saw a wide bare chamber and a narrow flight of stone steps disappearing in the gloom above. They jutted out from the interior wall of the keep, and were without a rail of any kind. A single man at the top of them could have held his own against a hundred swordsmen, though one good shot from a bow or rifle would have brought him crashing down on the floor below. It was a nasty place to climb in single file, and there was at least one living man to give us welcome when we reached the summit. I hesitated a moment at the foot of the stairs, peering into the blackness. A tall figure in armour pushed through the crowd of sailors behind me and came to my side. It was Sir Thule de Brie.

"This is my business" he said abruptly. "I have a long account to settle. If there is any living soul in this tower it is Charles the Red; for no one else would stay to meet us. I have waited for six years to meet him face to face. I have much to avenge."

"I, too, have wrongs to avenge," answered, placing my foot on the first step, and holding the torch above my head.

For answer Sir Thule took me by the arm and swinging me back, snatch ed the torch from my hand. "I ask your pardon, Sir Edward," he said, "but you do not know what man you have to meet—nor do you know the castle as I do" and he began to mount the steps with his eyes fixed upwards and his right hand grasping his sword.

I was annoyed, for no one likes to be thrust from the post of honour; but in my heart I knew that he had acted rightly. He was best fitted to take the lead, and no one, save the Princess herself had more to avenge than Sir Thule de Brie.

I followed him up the stone steps, my revolver in my right hand, and my left touching the rugged wall of stone. The steps were hardly three feet in width, and we could only advance in single file. Behind me came Captain Edwards, then half a dozen sailors, rifle in hand. Count Guy of Marmorel watched us with a grim smile. He, at any rate, had no burning desire to meet his former master.

We filled up the narrow staircase till we were thirty feet above the ground. The light from Sir Thule de Brie's torch fell now on an open door at the top of the stairs. A single strong man in that doorway could have sent the long line of us crashing to the earth like a row of ninepins, but the doorway was empty. I began to wonder if there was really anyone in the tower at all, and if the light and the sounds of laughter had not been due to some supernatural agency.

I passed into a low vaulted passage with a sigh of relief. I had no fury for that crazy staircase of stone, and am not ashamed to confess that I prefer to meet an enemy on level ground.

The passage was about twenty feet in length, ad I could see a bright light shining from underneath a door at the end of it. We paused for a few seconds and again I heard the sound of laughter and the clink of glasses and the faint clash of steel. Sir Thule de Brie moved forward quickly ad flug open the door. A strange sight lay before our eyes as we paused at the entrance.

The room was a large one and could not have been less than forty feet square. A dozen great oil lamps flared round the walls. In the centre of the stone floor there was a long oak table. It was laden with every delicacy that Asturnia could produce, and covered with jewelled goblets of gold and steel and silver, which sparkled in the flickering light. The room was terribly cold, and the reason was not far to seek. Great ice blocks were piled round all sides of it, and they glittered like a crystal wall. At the head of the table, in a large oaken throne, sat Charles XV. of Asturnia, his long copper-coloured beard, sweeping down to the golden plate in front of him. It was his grim fancy to have his armour painted crimson, and he looked like some huge stain of blood against the white ice behind him. His size and physical strength were enormous. I noticed that one side of his helmet was torn into a jagged hole that hair his red plume was shorn away and that his armour was scarred with a hundred cuts and dents. His evil face was terrible to look upon and I could well believe the stories I had heard of his atrocious cruelty.

KEENAN'S ZENITH MARK

That a good story is essential to picture's full measure of success has always been the contention of Frank Keenan, America's foremost character actor, whose latest starring medium is "The Midnight Stage" to be shown at the Palace to-night to-Wednesday matinee daily. In fact he held—and very justly so—that the story is the essence of the film, the most skilful acting and the best art of the actor avail nothing with material that is structurally bad. In "The Midnight Stage" Mr. Keenan makes an ideal demonstration of his theory—in fact, he brilliantly proves it; for this story which is an adaptation of "The Lyons Mail," the French play, which served to add to the fame of the late Sir Henry Irving, is one that holds the interest from the beginning until the end, and moves forward, with sustained action, until the tremendous climax at the finish. The adaptation is by Jack Cunningham, who has used the picturesque locale of the Sierras in the early days of the West, when the rush of gold-seekers made stirring romance and red-blooded history of American achievement. Mr. Keenan portrays the dual role of John Lynch, son of a proud Southern family, sharply contrasting with his double, "Bigg" Rivers, a murderous road agent. The story throbs with primitive emotion, but is softened by a charming love story.

CHARLES RAY IN GREAT BASEBALL PICTURE

To speak in the parlance of baseball which furnishes the atmosphere of his latest story, Charles Ray hats an average of 1,000 in "The Busher" the new Thomas H. Ince picture which opens a three days engagement at Griffin's to-night. The story concerns a youth in a small town who is gifted with remarkable throwing arm and attracts the attention of a big league manager. He is promoted is professional baseball, but suffers a noticable affliction of inflated cheek and falls down on the job, just when all his home folks are at the game to see his wonderful pitching. The situations are novel and refreshing, and will tickle all lovers of the great American game, for there are subtle hits of diamond satire. There is a pretty love story and the picture sparkles with humor through out. "Patty" Arbuckle also appears in the same program in a very funny comedy "Moonshine" 3 other selected plays are also announced for presentation.

Army of 30,000 Citizens Have Marched out of Belleville

Time and Money Required for Preparation.

It will take some years to lay out this territory by town-planning engineers for the needs of industry, including shipping and intercommunication. The requirements of the residents of a modern community will have to be carefully considered, planned and prepared. Large sums of money will have to be spent. All this will have to be done before any work takes place on the ground. It will, therefore be necessary to obtain options extending over a number of years. When all this organization work is complete and arrangements are made with the large industries to take advantage of the opportunities, then the options will be taken up.

Civic Must be Ready for Free Sites.

About half of the land will be set apart to provide free sites for the industries and also for streets, parks and other public needs. A considerable portion of the balance will be sold, or kept for sale, to employees of the industries at a very low price. The remaining lots will be sold for business purposes and residences and out of these a good profit will, no doubt be realized, if the scheme proves a success.

Present Owners May Share in Profit

Those who own this land may take their profit in cash or in stock, or partly in cash and partly in stock, of the proposed company which will be organized to carry on the enterprise. In that way the owners may participate in the profit which it is hoped to make on the final disposition of the sites. However, if the owners refuse to give the options or hold the land at too high a price the proposal to bring about this great development will be killed at the inception, but it is hoped that no such result will follow.

Work for Everyone.

The wrecking of the existing buildings on this land, the building up of the various plants and their operation will give profitable employment to not only everyone now living on the land who desire employment, but also to a great many more persons.

Money Easily Obtained.

Land is so scarce in the large centres now that it is difficult for workmen and their families to procure suitable homes with large garden areas at all convenient to their work, and at moderate prices. This scheme will solve those difficulties. The housing policy of the Ontario Government whereby money is loaned to enable persons to build modern homes at low interest with the privilege of repayment by the month as rent, extended over a long time, will be taken advantage of.

Labor Follows the Industry.

A few thoughtless persons have said industries can only be started where there is large quantities of labor. In other words, if you want industries you should first import five or ten thousand workmen into a place and then start up industries. This is not the way towns grow into cities, and towns become cities. The labor follows the demand and the demand is created by the industries. Labor is forced away from a non-progressive place and compelled to seek employment in an enterprising community.

Army of 30,000 Marched Out of Belleville.

The natural increase in population in Belleville since it became a city would have made Belleville a city of 20,000. It is now only about 12,000, which means that an army of 30,000 good, enterprising men and women have marched away from Belleville to get employment in progressive towns. Belleville has always been a delightful place for young people to grow up in, and obtain an education, but when the young men and young women arrive at majority and commence to look for profitable employment, he and she are too often compelled to say good-bye to their parents and to the old home, and join the army of exodus. This special will keep your boy and girl at home, and bring back to the promised land some of those who have wandered away during the last forty years.

Remove Cause of Next Possible War.

An element has come into prominence in Canada and in most countries of the world lately which has caused considerable trouble. It openly and avowedly aims at revolution. Its object is to strike down constitutional authority, destroy law and order, do away with all rights of property, of liberty of the person, and of life itself. Its exponents have from the public platforms said that if this revolution can be brought about peacefully, so much the better, but if not, then they propose to bring it about by bloodshed. This means civil war, with all its paralysing effects. It means worse, because the persons who are promoting these ideas are restrained by no law, sense of honor, conscience, sympathy or religion. Their methods are the most barbarious. They hope by extreme brutality to cower and terrorize people into submission. They are sometimes called Red Labor, Bolsheviki, One Big Union, Iron Workers of the World, Anarchists. Their object is to take away your property, everybody's property, savings and capital. It may be that selfishness on the part of some who own capital, whether in the form of money or land, has given an impetus to this movement. There is danger of many innocent persons in the ranks of labor and elsewhere being swept forward in this movement by cunning agitators, and our next great war may be with this element. If it comes, it will be worse than the war just closed. If large, healthy, attractive industrial sections can be established where the rights and needs of labor are fully cared for, as it is proposed in the foregoing statement, they will go a long way towards preventing discontent and unrest and removing the danger of a bloody war with the anarchist.

A sure sign that you don't know much is to think you know it all.—Beecher.

LEARNING TO SWIM.

Reading the daily newspaper record of drowning accidents, including the death roll of "the fool who rocks the boat," the venturesome bather who cannot swim, and those who take chances in canoes when they are unable to swim, one is lead to wonder why more advantage is not taken of the swimming facilities of the Y.M.C.A. in every city on the continent. In Belleville, for instance, boys and girls and grown-ups as well are learning to swim in the Y.M.C.A. tank under the watchful care of experts, but the classes are not nearly as large as they should be. Y.M.C.A. tanks are in use summer and winter and there is no excuse for anyone not learning to swim in the most approved manner and mastering all the stunts of diving, floating, treading water, etc., that make swimming a delight as well as a healthful exercise. Parents owe a duty to their children to see that they master the art of swimming, especially in view of the moderate fees charged by the Y.M.C.A. for expert instruction.

ASKS FAIR DEAL FOR THE BRITISH.

The New York Herald, which has been devoting considerable space lately to letters on the Irish question, and which has been accused of bias by both sides in printing articles concerning De Valera's activities, printed the following editorial:

"England is preparing to celebrate Victory Day with American troops and Gen. Pershing at the head of the procession. The Stars and Stripes well be America's testimony to the liberty dearly won and the sincere sought unity. But while this solemn yet joyous celebration is in preparation, England is in open meetings denounced by some Americans.

"We do not wish to turn the scales of justice one way or another in a family quarrel, but we do respectfully call attention to the impropriety of denouncing and hissing the name of Great Britain at a time when England is honoring America's soldiers and America's commander in France.

"Respectful tribute to England's services in the recent war need not rob patriots of their right of opinion in another matter. Is it not fitting to acknowledge the protection the British fleet gave us while we were preparing, and afterward? Is it not altogether proper that we, as Americans—native or adopted, and of whatever inheritance—should bow respectfully to England and acknowledge the debt we owe her in civilization?"

A FOOL BUSINESS.

Brockville Recorder.

Isn't it about time some person with authority stopped this military tom-foolery of prosecuting Canadians for something they did or failed to do during the war? One would think to read of the activities in this direction that Canada was cursed with the militarism that finally laid Germany low.

That case of the Belleville soldier, who has been hounded for months, and finally acquitted, on the charge of hitting an officer in Belgium is an example. Chances are the officer was making an ass of himself, clothed in his brief authority, and he ran up against something. True, the soldier may not have been the right selection for that requisite duty, but from what the R. and T. hears, some person had to do it.

The plain fact is, if what has been said of several officers be true, there will be other lickings just as soon as they all get into civies and the distinction of military rank ceases to exist. The uniform has saved many a big head from getting punched by the men in the ranks, and the latter are not likely to forget, and the former will not be allowed to do so.

Thousands of our best boys patriotically served in the ranks for love of country and devotion to duty, and though on the whole the officers were splendid men, instances are known where they became too bumptious altogether. That bump will be reduced by the boys who were imposed upon.

This is a country of civilians, and the young Canadians became soldiers only to serve their country in time of stress, and they are returning to civil life rapidly. This country is going to be run on a civil, not a military, basis, and it is time that brave, honest, daring men who are anxious to grasp life's work where they left off, in response to the call of duty, should be protected from despotism which under the cloak of military discipline is seeking salve for wounded dignity.

OTHER VIEWS

A Capital Offence, Surely.

Quebec Telegraph.

France has provided the death penalty for profiteers. Most people will consider this capital.

Penitentiary Revelations.

Winnipeg Tribune

The further evidence and conclusion of the trial of a penitentiary convict on the charge of murder, cannot change the sound conviction that the inspection of our penitentiaries should be open to grand juries. If the Minister of Justice is unbending on this point then he should be instructed by parliament. In connection with the whole penal system we are going along in Canada tolerating and perpetuating things which have been abandoned in other advanced lands.

The Senate's Future.

St. John Telegraph

It is unlikely that the business of reforming the Canadian Senate will make much headway this year, owing to political and industrial unrest, but signs are not wanting that a change with respect to the upper Chamber is at last coming within the circle of practical questions at Ottawa and that popular opinion will successfully press for action within a year or two. Roughly speaking, there is an idea abroad in the land that the Senate must be killed or reformed and within the Red Chamber there are some men who are convinced that the Senate itself should respond to public opinion and propose remedies for its own ill-health and its decline in popular decline in popular estimation.

Government and the Press.

Westminster Gazette.

In the tribute paid to Viscount Burnham and Sir George Riddell, the newspaper Press celebrated the victory which it has won during the last five years over the prejudices of Whitehall. The way began with the firm tradition in Government offices and firmest of all in the War Office, that the newspapers should be ignored, obstructed in their search for information, and kept generally in what was regarded as their proper place. Had it been possible to maintain that attitude, the public would have been in ignorance of most of the facts about the war, and we should certainly not have seen that unity of national effort which finally triumphed. The work of educating our governors was done slowly, and with much toil in this country, but it was done. In Paris, however, when peace was to be made the whole lesson had to be gone over once more. We trust that in future matters of whatever kind the Government will turn first of all to the aid of the press, which is no more than to say that it will trust the capacity of the people of the nation to bear the truth about any situation.

"No," replied the man whose specialty is worldly wisdom, "but I consider it a physical impossibility."

A New One on the Teacher.

Miss Dancross had made a special study of Biblical history, and she addressed the Sunday School class thusly:

"Now, children, I have told you all I can concerning the nations which were driven out by the Israelites. They were the Hivites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Girgashites, the Hebusites. And, let me see—yes, the Amonites. Can you remember them all, children. Now you look puzzled, Rosie. Have you any questions to ask?"

"No, teacher," came the sly reply, "except that you haven't told us about the fleabiter."

The Poet's Corner

WHY?

I well remember how in long past days,
Oft by your side I went where grief was rife,
And there we worked midst sorrow, pain and strife,
Saw suffering alleviated in divers ways.

Keen recollections come: how you would sigh
To see the anguish deep on every hand;
There was so much you could not understand;
You were but mortal, and so, questioned, Why?

Then when you seemed so near your heart's desire,
When life's best blessing loomed so near in sight,
And future months and years seemed full of light,
Your heart aglow with love's all powerful fire,

It seemed so hard just then for you to die;
Just when your pathway gleaned with happiness,
And bending o'er you, for a last caress,
I heard you whisper the old question, Why?

But after you had died I came again,
And through my falling tears gazed on your face,
Yet comfort found, for understanding grace
Was on your brow; to you all things were plain.

BULGARIAN GENERAL ARRESTED FOR CRIMES

Saloniki, July 26.—Colonel Asmanoff, former chief of staff of the Bulgarian 10th Division, was ordered arrested by the Ministry of War, charged with complicity in alleged pillaging and other crimes during the Bulgarian invasion of Macedonia, according to the Athens New Agency. The arrest followed the seizure of what was said to be a memorandum by a high Bulgarian official dealing with a number of incidents that occurred under authority of the Bulgarian military. A number of other officers were said to be involved in the charges.

General Bourmoff, former commandant of the 10th Division, was said to have declared during a judicial examination that "this affair should be rather a credit to Bulgaria, but in any case nothing was done except execute the orders of General Sekoff, the generalissimo at that time, and of General Loukoff, commander of the second army, and chief of the general staff."

MRS. PORTER FLIES AT THE AGE OF 76

TORONTO, July 26.—Probably the first aerial picnic ever held in Canada took place yesterday afternoon at Leaside Camp. Over 500 people were present and between 5 and 6 o'clock over 1,500 passengers including a number who were taken up for a jaunt in the air. Trips were made about every ten minutes and five pilots operated the machines. The oldest passenger taken up was Mrs. Porter, 76 years old and mother of one of the employees. The pilots were Capt. C. M. Cruden, Lieuts. S. Moore, D. Scheller, Colley and G. S. W. McCarthy.

AIRSHIP OFF ON 8,000 MILE TRIP AROUND U. S.

Washington, July 26.—An army bombing plane carrying a crew of five, commanded by Lieut.-Col. R. S. Hartse, left the ground here on the first leg of a flight of nearly 8,000 miles around the rim of the country. The first stop scheduled is Augusta, Maine, 560 miles from Washington.

The flight is the longest ever attempted by the United States army Air Service, and will carry the machine through thirty-one states, and cover long stretches of the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts, as well as the Canadian border.

SOLDIER KILLED BY PROHIBITION WHISKY

Toronto, July 26.—The inquest into the death of Pte. K. W. Wilson, who was found dead in bed at Stanley Barracks July 13 was last night formally opened by Coroner Dr. Young and after evidence taken as to the fact that liquor was thought to be the direct cause of death, the inquest was adjourned until July 31. In the interim an attempt will be made to find the drug store from which the liquor was sold to the soldier. Wilson had stated to two soldiers on the night he came in with the liquor that he had purchased it from a "drug store near Bathurst and Queen streets."

Long-Wearing Stockings for Active Boys

The rough and tumble games in the school-yard are mighty hard on stockings. Boys will play hard, so we make a stocking specially for them—the Buster Brown Stocking.

This stocking has a two-ply leg and three-ply heel and toe. It is knitted from extra-long yarn spun by ourselves to make sure it is right.

Special training is necessary to knit Buster Brown quality into hosiery. We have spent years training our employees to knit Buster Brown Stockings.

Because we do all these things, you'll find them longer-wearing. You'll be pleased to see how seldom they appear in the mending basket. You'll find the cost of clothing your boy lower.

And they're mighty fine looking too. Good looks are knit into Buster Brown Stockings. You'll find your boy will be proud of them.

Sold everywhere. Ask your dealer for "Buster Brown" durable hosiery.

BUSTER BROWN'S SISTER'S STOCKING

Buster Brown's Sister's Stocking for the girls is a splendid looking stocking at a moderate price. A two-thread English mercerized lisle stocking, that is shaped to fit and wears very well indeed.

MANAGER RESIGNS

As Mr. W. Thompson has resigned the management of the G.T.R. team, the players are getting together tonight to choose a new manager. It is understood that it is practically settled that Mr. Thomas Fegg, a popular G.T.R. trainman will handle the team the balance of the season. Mr. Ed. A. Thomas was also favored and as either would make good managers the fans should be satisfied with the players' choice. "Tommy" Fegg is a well known player of many different sports. He understands baseball thoroughly and under his directions our boys should come through with the silverware. Harry Pringle whose untiring efforts has helped the team to success all season will be Business Manager, and will work hand in hand with Mr. Fegg.

TWILIGHT RECITAL

Under the direction of Prof. Hunt, organist of Bridge Street Church a sacred recital was given last evening at the conclusion of the public service. A large number were present and appreciated very much the programme provided. Miss Strethel Walton sang a solo entitled "Abide With Me," and James Booth sang "Crossing the Bar." Both numbers were rendered with much effect. Mr. T. G. Mitchelitree, a blind organist of London, Ont, gave a number of selections upon the organ which demonstrated that he was a master of the key board despite his affliction.

Sporting News

WIN FOR PETERBORO

Our town came back to Belleville after Saturday's game with the short end of a 3-2 score, which should have been in no way the case. Peterboro played nice ball before their home crowd which we would estimate number of about 2,000. With just a little care our boys could have scored a shut o. Coyer pitched great ball, once or twice retiring the side with the bases full o. the strike-out route. On one or two occasions he pitched himself out of holes with one man down.

In the first innings, the first man up for Belleville made a nice single which was followed by a double with no men down. The coacher let the man try to score from third on a short over thrger, he was caught, the man on second led off, slipped in the mud and was caught on a close decision. Mills came along with his longest hit of the season, on whic's the two runners could have scored easily he also slipped in the mud going around first and was held at that base. Outside of this Belleville scored their first run on a wild heave. The second counter was earned when a sacrifice hit scored a man from third. In the seventh or eighth Belleville had a grand chance with three on and two down. Peterboro did not get an earned run. The inning run came in on account of the ball being played to first with one down when a man was on third and was trapped easily at home. The seventh came with two on and two down. A pop fly was hit which was dropped by an infielder letting a runner walk across the plate. Third came on account of overthrow by one of the fielders when the ball should have been returned to the pitcher. Altogether the boys had eight errors three of which were costly. The diamond being wet, marred the game at times but it is a great ball field, having been used by the old Peterboro Canadian League team.

Manager Solomon and the Peterboro fans gave our boys fair treatment and it is to be hoped that when Peterboro plays here again the local fans do the same. Leader of Sunday umpired behind the plate. He was very impartial to both teams. Kay of Peterboro was the scorer on hand, in fact he gave Belleville three bad deals, each time they came when Belleville needed all chances and square deals.

Line-up for Belleville—Rae c f; Weiss; Gerow 1st; Mills c; Symons 1st; Kelleher r f; Goyer p; Smith 2nd; Meagher 3rd; Mordeg, pitch hitter.

Southern Negroes Protest Will Not Submit To Injustice

MORE NEGROES WILL HAVE TO BE SLAIN THAN ALL THE SOLDIERS IN THE WORLD WAR BEFORE THE COLORED RACE WILL AGAIN SUBMIT TO INDIGNITIES OF PAST, SAYS REV. J. G. ROBINSON, OF CHATANOOGA, TENNESSEE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer
Canadian Press Limited

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 28.—A declaration that "before the negroes of the country again will submit to many of the injustices which we have suffered at the hands of the white man, he will have to kill more of them than the combined number of soldiers that were slain in the great word war" is made in a letter written to President Wilson by Rev. J. G. Robinson, presiding elder of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at Chatanooga, and made public here today. The letter was written by Rev. Robinson, who acted as spokesman for a delegation of bishops and laymen of the African Church, which presented a pledge of loyalty to President Wilson at the outbreak of the war and appeals for the President's support in behalf of legislation to prevent lynching and to force the southern states to place negroes

Suspect Arrested By Toronto Police

Inquiry Being Made Into Raising of One Dollar Bills.

TORONTO, July 29.—A number of complaints have been received lately from local sources and also from Hamilton and London, of the operations of a man in his been defrauding the public by raising American one dollar bills to ten. In connection with the complaints, Rosario Ermelli, giving his address as 203 York Street, an Italian was arrested by Detective Taylor on a nominal charge of vagrancy.

In all cases the money has been cleverly counterfeited. The system used by the person or persons behind the scheme has been to take the perennial stamps off cigarette packages and to paste these numbers over the figure one on the bill, thus making it read ten. Where the word one appears, and it does twice, on an American one dollar bill, it has been neatly printed out with a pin or some other sharp instrument.

Fatal Explosion In Cheese Factory

One Man Fatally, Another Seriously Injured, Woman and Children Shocked.

KINGSTON, July 27.—When a boiler in the cheese factory of Thomas Anglin, near Joyceville, exploded early last night, John Potter, aged thirty-eight, son of Trueman Potter, of this city, received terrible injuries, which caused his death early this morning. Robert Oldman, about twenty-two years old, employed in the factory, suffered serious injuries, and is not expected to live, and Mrs. Gallery, wife of Edward Gallery, the cheesemaker, and her two children, who were standing in the doorway of the factory when the explosion occurred, suffered from shock.

One side of the factory was torn out by the explosion, and the boiler was carried a distance of more than one hundred yards. Dr. D. E. Mundell, Coroner, has been notified, and will hold an inquest at the police station here Monday night.

John Potter was unmarried. He was not employed in the cheese factory, but went into the factory to have a talk to some of the men. Edward Gallery, cheeseman, was at work at one of the vats and had a miraculous escape.

Strike Ties Up Chicago Street Cars

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

CHICAGO, July 29.—Fifteen thousand street railway employees went on strike for higher wages at four o'clock this morning, completely tying up the surface and elevated system of the city. The employees demanded 85 cents an hour, an increase of 77 per cent over present wages, an eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime.

Y. M. C. A. SPENT NEARLY $100,000

NEW YORK, July 29.—Out of a total of $125,282,052, received by the Y.M.C.A. for war work, it asserted had spent $97,817,005 to April 1, 1919.

Over Thirty-Eight Mills Is Rate Of Taxation For This Year

ESTIMATES BROUGHT DOWN AND TAX RATE STRUCK BY CITY COUNCIL—OVER THREE MILLS HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR—OVER FOUR MILLS INCREASE ON GENERAL RATE—FIVE-TENTHS OF A MILL INCREASE FOR HIGH SCHOOL PURPOSES—EIGHT-TENTHS OF A MILL INCREASE FOR HIGH SCHOOL PURPOSES OVER LAST YEAR.

At the meeting of the City Council held last evening the chief business transacted was the passing of the estimates for the year, which showed that the sum of $306,924.46 was required to be raised. Of this amount $111,267.78 is debentures and $66,500 for school purposes. The rate will be 38 3-10 mills as compared with 35 1-10 mills last year. The necessary by-law validating the same was passed. A motion to grant $225 for six bands concerts by the Fifteenth Regiment Band was adopted.

Members present were: Mayor Platt, Aldermen Woodley, Hunter, Hanna, White, Treverton, Simmons, Riggs.

Minutes of last meeting, also special meeting, read and confirmed.

Reports of committees, communications, etc., were laid upon the table and the Council went into committee of the whole on reports, etc., Ald. White in the chair.

A number of accounts recommended to be paid were passed.

Dorothy Jordan notified the city that through the defective condition of the market steps she fell and injured her ankle and claimed damages.—Referred to the City Clerk.

Introduction of Bylaws.

Alderman Woodley introduced a number of bylaws which were read a first time and referred to the committee of the whole on bylaws, Ald. Woodley in the chair. The bylaws were as follows:

A bylaw to adopt the estimated expenditures and receipts for the year 1919.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for Public School purposes in the municipality of the city of Belleville for the year 1919.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for High School purposes in the city of Belleville for the year 1919.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for municipal patriotic purposes for the year 1919.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for Roman Catholic Separate school purposes in the municipality of the city of Belleville for the year 1919.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for the purposes of the municipality of the city of Belleville other than for school purposes for the year 1919.

A bylaw to provide for the appointment of a collector to collect taxes levied by the municipality of the city of Belleville for municipal purposes and for High and Public Schools and Roman Catholic Separate School purposes and for the municipal patriotic tax for the year 1919, and to collect the frontage tax for rolling and laying the various streets in the city under the various bylaws for such purposes, and the local improvement taxes for the said municipality for the year 1919.

A bylaw to borrow from the Government $25,000 on the housing proposition.

The bylaws were passed through their various stages and numbered 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 21.96, and 2197.

Terms of Payment.

The terms of payment of taxes as adopted are as follows:

On all taxes paid up to and including the 15th day of September and 29th day of October, 1919, at par.

On all taxes paid after Oct. 29th and up to November 29th, 1919, inclusive, 2 per cent. will be added.

On all taxes paid after Nov. 29th, and up to Jan. 1st, 1920, 4 per cent. will be added.

On all taxes paid after Jan. 1st, 1920, 5 per cent. will be added.

Motions.

Ald. Simmons moved, seconded by Ald. Treverton: Since this Council has considered it expedient to defer the building of a central fire hall until 1920 we recommend that a bylaw be prepared and submitted to the people for their approval at the municipal election of the city of Belleville in in January, 1920 for the building of a central fire hall on a site to be selected by the City Council of 1920 and approved by the underwriters' inspector.

Ald. Hunter—Would you allow the electors to say where the hall is to be located?

Ald. Simmons—Let the Council of 1920 say where the fire hall shall be located.

Ald. Ostrom—We should dispose of some of our fire property and make one central station. This would provide more revenue for the city.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Hanna moved, seconded by Ald. Hunter, that the 15th Regiment Band be engaged to play six band concerts for the sum of $225 on Victoria Park, Corby Park and other parts of the city and that each of such concerts be given the public through the press.

Ald. Woodley said he would be in favor of band concerts if they were distributed about the city.

Ald. Hanna—They will be held in various parts of the city.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Hanna moved, seconded by Ald. Riggs, that whereas public sentiment, as represented by our local press is against the decision of the Council to build a new central fire hall this year, and with the lack of unanimity of the Council itself in the matter, we therefore believe it advisable to defer further action in the matter until the spring of 1920.—Carried.

The Council adjourned until Monday evening next.

Chicago Race Riots Continue 4,000 Soldiers Called Out

TWENTY-TWO DEATHS AND HUNDREDS INJURED IN CHICAGO BATTLES BETWEEN NEGROES AND WHITE MEN—STREET CAR CONDUCTOR SHOT AND KILLED — RACIAL DISORDERS SPREAD OVER ENTIRE CITY.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

CHICAGO, July 29.—Four thousand soldiers with full war equipment, stood ready today to quell race rioting between negroes and whites that during two nights of terror in the south side black belt cost the lives of at least twenty-two, including one negro policeman, and the injury of hundreds of others, many seriously, and probably a dozen fatally.

One unidentified negro was killed and two negroes were wounded at Wabash and Adams street, in the heart of the down-town district, in rioting which was renewed this morning. Joseph Powers, a white street car conductor, was shot and killed soon after daylight in the stock yards section. William Henderson, a negro, was arrested on suspicion in connection with the killing. Racial disorders spread to the north side of the city today, where a number of negroes were chased and threatened. Very few negroes live in that section of the city.

CHICAGO, July 29.—(Noon)—A vicious race fight broke out in the county jail shortly after eleven o'clock. The whites outnumbered the blacks twenty to one, and the guards were swept aside when they tried to stifle the trouble at its start. In all twenty-four are now dead as the result of the riots of the last three days.

LOCKED UP IN CELL AT DAKOTA BOUNDARY BUT SMASHES HIS WAY TO FREEDOM—DEFIES HEAD OF IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS CAUSES UNPLEASANT INTERNATIONAL INCIDENT.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

MAHNOM, Minn., July 29.—At Pembina, North Dakota, while en route from British Columbia to Minnesota, Hon. Walter Scott, former Premier of Saskatchewan, was ordered from the train by an United States immigration officer and placed in heavy barred cells. After being locked up three hours and a half Scott freed himself by smashing a hole through a plaster wall and thence to liberty. Officers then essayed to arrest him but changed their minds when Scott showed them a telegram he was sending to Sir Robert Borden about the incident.

OTTAWA, July 29.—The Cabinet will continue this afternoon its consideration of the wheat problem. Until well after one o'clock this afternoon the question was threshed out in all its details. Regulations for the proposed purchasing board have been prepared and are being reviewed in all their bearings. It is expected that the Government will decide to appoint the board and that definite action will be announced to-night.

Allied Ultimatum

LONDON, July 29.—Reuter's understands in connection with the Government's warning to Bela Kun that arrangements have been made for a Franco-Serbian advance to attack the right flank of the army of Bela Kun should the latter not comply with the allied terms.

Huns Caused War

AMSTERDAM, July 29.—An International trades union congress opened this afternoon under the presidency of M. Oudegeest of the Dutch federation. The statement of M. Oudegeest in his address that the "Capitalistic systems of all countries were responsible for the war," was vigorously protested by American delegates Tobin who contended that the monarchists and militaristic elements of Germany and Austria were solely responsible.

U. S. Senate Wins

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Franco-American treaty will be sent to the Senate today by President Wilson.

ROWELL SOLD LIBERALS

OUT SAYS DEWART

KINCARDINE, July 29.—Hartley Dewart, K.C., the Ontario Liberal leader making at a convention of the Liberals of West Bruce, charged that Hon. N. W. Rowell as far back as 1917 entered into an arrangement with Premier Hearst, whereby he was to hand over the members of the Liberal Opposition as chattels of a Unionist party in Ontario.

Fox Terrier Saves Master

Barking and Licking His Face Rouses Him When the Building Burns.

ST. THOMAS, July 29.—Fire originating from an unknown source early completely gutted the three-story building occupied by the New Method Laundry in West Talbot, the contents, including several hundred dollars' worth of laundry parcels all ready for Saturday's delivery being entirely lost. The loss is estimated at $15,000 or more.

Several of the other buildings in the block were also badly damaged, but their contents was saved. The C. J. Hyman Hide & Wool Co., had some $10,000 worth of wool in its second story, which was saved by the firemen.

That no lives were lost in the fire, which was a speedy one, may be attributed to the utmost human intelligence of a little fox-terrier belonging to James Bolthy, one of the occupants of the second story of the laundry. Mr. Bolthy was sleeping soundly when the fire broke out, and was made loveable to the danger of the rapidly-spreading of his dog. As a final awakener the faithful little animal climbed up on his master's bed and licked his face. Mr. Bolthy is an elderly man and lived alone and it is quite probable would have perished in the flames if his dog had not awakened him.

Mine Managers' Course Condemned

Hon. Gideon Robertson Says They Have Refused to Compromise.

OTTAWA, July 29.—Interviewed as to cause of Cobalt strike and steps taken to avert it, Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, stated that, in his opinion, it was due to the exceptional determination of the Temiskaming Mine Managers' Association not to deal with or recognize the Miners' Union. The employers base their stand on the past unsatisfactory experiences with the Western Federation of Miners which, in the ministers opinion was, at that time, quite justified. During years the power of the Western Federation has materially altered, employers who now recognize and deal with the Federation find the results quite satisfactory. It is, therefore, rather unfortunate, he says, that the Temiskaming Mine Managers' Association should lodge the Federation, and by policy and leadership of ten years ago, when Mr. Haywood was its leading spirit.

Position Unchanged, Says N.W. Rowell

President of the Privy Council Declares That it is the Globe Which Has Crossed the Floor.

OKANAGAN CENTRE, B.C., July 29—"I have not changed either my position on my political principal since the formation of the present Union of the Toronto Globe, entered the Union Government, and if The Globe and I are not agreed today as we were at that time, the change is not due to any act of mine.

"I was elected in Durham as a Liberal supporter of Union Government. I am this today. If I find I cannot continue to be both a real Liberal—and by that I mean a real progressive—and a supporter of Union Government, I shall advise my constituents of the fact and tender my resignation. I do not anticipate that any resignation will be necessary on that ground."

The foregoing were two of the outstanding statements made by Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, in the course of an interview accorded The Vancouver World's Okanagan representative on Wednesday evening, in Okanagan Centre, where he is spending a holiday on his ranch, and in which he remarked he had thought to get away from politics for a time.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCED AT WINNIPEG

Wheat advanced to $2.40½ for the October delivery and to $2.37½ for the December delivery, on Monday. The sudden strength of the wheat market is due to the adverse crop conditions prevailing both in Canada and in the United States. In the Canadian belt the weather continues very hot. Offerings on the Winnipeg market were rather light, and the demand was continued light offerings for some time. Rain is needed in many Western districts.

Sporting News

Let us not forget the good games our baseball boys have played this year. They are still on the top rung but are not mean and are sharing it with Peterboro, with Port Hope on their heels. Port Hope will play here on Civic Holiday. This game will put one team out, either Belleville or Port Hope, so it would be some game and the fans should turn out in numbers. In the meantime Peterboro play at Cobourg. They might receive a jolt there but it is hardly likely. "Cannon Ball" Ed. Scott, of Lindsay, was with the boys on the bench at Peterboro. He was very anxious to see Belleville win.

Bone Dryness Is Killing Cabarets

NEW YORK, July 28.—Its goodbye to the chow-chow. Soon we will not be able to dance with the soup, laugh with the salad and watch a contortionist while we eat spaghetti. Because the cabaret is going away from use. Bone-dryness is killing it.

A tempered form of aridity has been in being since June 30. The drought has been modified by intermittently humid areas. Whisky is sometimes served in teacups, if the service is known to the waiter. A call for sherry often meet with prompt response, although sherry is one of the most impish mockers known to man. A special gin ale, in which no special part is mixed in the bottle before the bottle is brought on, has been known to produce excellent results. But cases are few and far between. Broadly speaking the town is dry.

The proprietors of cabarets approached the great thirst shaken by doubt. It thought it might be possible to serve capers and food at a profit without the admixture of alcohol, but they are mostly convinced now of its impossibility. At Healey's Golden Glades the other night five depressed spectators watched a full chorus of lissome lassies do stunts on the ice. The ice was no colder than the audience. Yet the five were of the faithful who have beamed happily at the show throughout the season. At Churchill's one night, eight musicians played lively music for four couples. They had the floor to themselves. They were not even tempted by the fat man who strives to accomplish by tonnage what he is unable to do by agility. But they were not happy.

Lots of Elbow Room

At Rector's one has elbow room, but it was not elbow room for which one went to Rectors. The Palais Royal announces that it will close up. The Moulin Rouge's management states that it may be kept open. The statement is made in that tone of unperturbed sorrow in which your broker states that Wild Oates common has just crashed another four points.

Mr. Dunsany of Jack's says that happiness has been handed the raspberry. The Beaux Arts has been closed for the summer. Reisenweber's is offering entertainment only in the Sophie Tucker room. Thence henceforth are spending the heated season unpleasantly in the McAlpin bar looking at each other.

The truth, according to cabaret proprietors is that folks will not ingest enough food to make a floor show profitable. There is a distinct limit to the height to which prices can be raised. Restaurant patrons thought the limit had been reached some time ago. They did not worry so much when they could kill dull care and drive away apprehension by hoisting in a scuttleful every now and then; but there is slight exhilaration in Virginia ham plate. Once a merry party could while away an evening counting the birthmarks of the performers, but now cold dread intervenes. There are muffled whispers of rubber soles and stenciled freckles.

Owners Just Hoping

The cabaret owners are still whistling among the tombstones. They vaguely hope that something may happen—that the Anti Saloon Hangers will all drop dead or that there will be a popular uprising, or something—but none of them expects anything. As time goes on they intimate the cabarets will close one by one. People will continue to go to shows, they say, and they will continue to go to restaurants, but only drink made the stamseing of the twain possible.

Ben vivants intent upon eating green corn without disturbing the Oxford bows would—if frigidly sober—resent the irruption of a young person dressed like a Cupid and playing a violin. Ladies from our best home circles have in the past been known to think it a good joke when the young lady on the end tickled a fat husband on his tired ribs. Under prevailing conditions such an incident would furnish a topic for fireside discussion for the rest of the year.

Of course the cabaret owners might abandon the theatre business and entice custom by purveying very good food. But that has not been the New York way. On the continent diners-out approach the menu in a good restaurant with something like awe. They select after consideration that is almost prayerful a dinner that starts with hors d'oeuvres and finishes with cognac. When they finish they have what the army calls a perfectly balanced ration. They enjoy a pleasant sense of repletion with no symptoms of apoplexy. The New York habit has been to order a large plate of something hot, washed down with something cold, and followed by something cold irrigated by something hot. Then Bons Dyspepsia!!!

BENSON'S Corn Starch

Desserts—Rolls Sauces

BENSON'S is pure prepared corn starch, delicate and nourishing, unexcelled for all cooking purposes.

It improves the texture of bread, biscuits and rolls if one-third of the flour is substituted with Benson's Corn Starch. It makes pie crusts light and flakey.

There is a recipe for the most delicious Blanc Mange on the package, together with a dozen other uses. Benson's is the best Corn Starch for making sauces and gravies smooth and creamy.

LEMON PIE

(Enough for one medium sized pie)

1 cup sugar, 4 tablespoonfuls Benson's Corn Starch, 2 cups boiling water, yolks of 2 eggs and juice and grated rind of 1 lemon. Mix corn starch, sugar, lemon juice, grated rind and beaten egg yolks. Add boiling water to this mixture, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and smooth. Pour into a baked pie crust and cover with a meringue made of the white of the two eggs, whipped, and sweetened sugar. Brown meringue in a slow oven.

Pie Crust

2 cups flour, 1 teaspoonful baking powder, 1 teaspoonful salt, ½ cup shortening. Scrap lard with knife. Add water.

CHAPTER XXXI—Continued

On either side of him sat two tall knights, with their visors down, and rigid as statues of steel. The armour of one was pierced and riddled like a sieve, and it was scarcely possible to believe that any man could have gone through the battle unscathed, save that the steel of his cuirass was covered with a bright crimson stain. Both of the knights wore the royal crest—a fox couchant gules—on their helmets, and I had no doubt that they were Counts Ralph and Raoul de Brie, the only surviving sons of the latter.

Charles the Red rose to his feet as we advanced across the room, and I could see that he was even taller than Sir Thule de Brie. The other two knights remained motionless and did not appear to notice our entrance. The king held a golden goblet in his hand, drained it, and resumed his seat with a loud laugh. The steel of his great sword crashed on the stone floor and he struck the oak table with his mailed hand.

"By my faith, cousin" he cried "I have not seen you for many years, and cannot receive you as I should. This is all that is left of my army," and he pointed to the motionless figures on either side of him.

"The wheel has turned," answered Sir Thule de Brie. "When I saw you last, my Lord Charles, my army was as small as yours is to-day. Do you yield yourself into my hands?"

The Red King rose to his feet and laid his sword on the table before him. "I did not stay here to yield, Sir Thule de Brie," he said in a loud voice "I could have fled across the ice with the cuns who followed me. I stayed here to fight—for a last good fight, Sir Thule de Brie."

"You shall have it" Sir Thule de Brie replied; then, turning to the men who were crowding in the doorway: "There is no need for you here. But tell Count Guy of Marmorel and Sir Hugh de La Perche that the king desires their presence." The men left the room.

"Three men to three, I suppose," he continued; "but your companions—your sons—they do not seem eager for the combat."

"They will suffice at present," the king answered with a horrible grin; "whoever wishes to do battle with my sons, must go to heaven or hell." Then, leaning forward he raised the visor of the two knights. Their faces were white and drawn with death, their eyes wide open and staring. The cheek of one was crossed with a dull red gash. I saw at a glance the meaning of the wall of ice.

My eyes were both silent with pity and horror. The king's face was terrible to look upon. He gazed at his two sons as though he were trying to draw back the life that had left their bodies glancing from one to the other with fierce looks of passionate love. Then he suddenly sank back in his chair with a crash and buried his face in his hands.

"Vield, my Lord Charles," said Sir Thule de Brie. "This is no place for fight—in the presence of your dead children." The voice roused the king as though he had been stung by a scorpion. He rose to his feet, and shook his sword across the table.

"This is the place Sir Thule de Brie" he cried "By the side of their dead bodies. I have waited for this. I have not waited for life. That can be nothing to me now. I have no wish to escape and the kingdom does not matter now, my sons are dead. This is the place, Sir Thule de Brie. I only wait for the man."

With these words he picked up the two dead bodies, one in each arm, and set them against the wall in a far corner. Then he flung himself into the chair and fingered the hilt of his sword "I am the man," answered Sir Thule de Brie after a pause; "it is he spoke there was a clank of steel in the passage, and Count Guy of Marmorel and Sir Hugh de La Perche entered.

The king turned on them with a face like that of a wild beast, and rose to his feet with such violence that the heavy oak chair went spinning back from the table, and splintered the ice behind him.

"Ah, Count Guy," he cried, "you come in time to offer your services to your king. On which side are you today? When a man has twice turned traitor, and twice abjured his knightly oath, it is hard to tell for whom he is fighting—though it is generally against the weaker side."

Count Guy's face flushed. "You are our prisoner," he answered sternly, "there is no question of fighting now. I am here to accept your sword."

"You shall have it, Count Guy," he said, "you shall have it," and grasping the huge oaken table with both hands he flung it from his path, and sent food, plates, goblets and chairs to the ground in one crash of destruction. Then he picked up his sword, swung it round his head, and strode across to Count Guy of Marmorel.

First Nights At "The Movies"

Charles Ray a Big Feature at Griffin's in Splendid Baseball Picture—Frank Keenan at The Palace.

To see any picture starring Charles Ray is a delight, but to see him in "The Busher," his latest picture, is a privilege which, once enjoyed, cannot be forgotten in a hurry. This was the verdict of the large audience that greeted this meritorious production at Griffin's last night. Tale is a capital story of the small town baseball player who migrates to the city, and, finding himself more than usually prosperous as a member of a big league team, gets Chesty and is dropped from the role to teach him a lesson. There is an excellent love story which holds the interest to the final scene. The picture is finely produced and the supporting company, headed by Colleen Moore, is far above the average. The picture scored a decided hit. "Fatty" Arbuckle is also appearing on this same program in the best yet of his series of comedies, titled, "Moonshine." The British Canadian News and "The Gun Packers," a thrilling and amusing story of the early west, completes a splendid varied program all of which will be repeated again tonight and Wednesday night.

A KEENAN MASTERPIECE

Two men, identically alike as to face and figure, but as far apart as the pole in character, one "square", honest and upright; the other, an unethical and road agent, whose soul is red with stains of murder and violence. Their trails cross in the golden, pine-trimmed setting get to the west. Here is a brief outline of "The Midnight Stage," in which Frank Keenan, America's foremost character actor, does the most remarkable work of his career in the dual characterization. Love, hate, greed and lawless passion furnish the color and thrills for this engrossing Western drama, which is an adaptation of Sir Henry Irving's historic success, "The Lyon's Mail." The screen version is more effective in its appeal more impressive in its dramatic action because of its fine natural setting and the picturesque period of American development in which it is laid. A new "Mutt and Jeff" animated cartoon, a beautiful hand colored travelogue of Nordi Lake, and a funny Rollin comedy are also being shown on the same program.

Brave Soldier Presented D.C.M.

At the home of Mrs. Garrioch, 4th Concession of Thurlow Township, on the evening of the 22nd inst., a pleasing event took place. A large number of relatives and friends were present to do honor to her two sons who recently returned home from overseas after covering themselves with glory during the entire conflict. The programme was carried out. Rev. Mr. McMullin of Canifton presided over the gathering, fulfilling that position with his usual agreeability. Addresses were given by the chairman and also by Rev. A. S. Kemp and Mr. J. Elliott. Solos were rendered by Misses Kitchener, Mesdames worthy, Mrs. Belanger and Mrs. McMullen, instrumental selections by Miss Rankin and Mr. H. Wagner and recitations by Miss Edna Badgley. Roy Garrison won a distinguished conduct medal, which was presented by ex-Mayor Ketchenon of this city, as uncle of the brave lad, and to the other lad a gold watch. The recipient of the D.C.M. also received a diamond studded gift, which was presented by Mrs. Peter Mather on behalf of those present. The following address was read by ex-Mayor Ketchenon:

Canifton, Thurlow, July 2, 1919.

Mr. Roy Garrison.

Dear Friend:—We, a number of your neighbors and friends, have met on recent return from far away, hard-fought battle fields, felt it became our Christian manhood and womanhood to congregate tonight in the dear old home that sheltered you in other days and swings wide its doors to your cherished home coming.

In the first place we extend to you a heartfelt welcome from the hearts and homes of dear old Thurlow in which you lived, was remembered and earnestly prayed for as one of our bravest and most valiant soldier boys.

We feel keenly our sense of responsibility in placing on record our gratitude to you who volunteered so loyally at the very beginning of hostilities to lay yourself upon the altar of your country, if necessary to make the supreme sacrifice, that British institutions and liberties might be preserved, that justice, equal rights and fair play might be forever the heritage of the weak and oppressed nations of the world.

You have fought for the greatest, noblest and most significant cause that the world has ever known anything about. Therefore, we are proud that you the offer made, the sacrifices endured, the battles fought, the victories won. Yes, it was a long, long way to Tipperary, but you, our hero, went every step of the road.

The thing that comes home most keenly to our hearts is the fact that you went in our place and fought in our stead, that we could sit in comfort around our glowing hearths and tables of plenty, lie down in peace and sleep in comfort, without the horrors of shot and shell and aircraft raids, simply because you and such noble heroes held back the murderous Hun upon the far-flung battle line of France and Flanders.

Dear Roy, we unitedly wish for you a successful and honored career in you future civilian life as you have achieved in war.

As a small token of the very high appreciation of yourself and all you have accomplished, we ask you to accept this gift.

Signed on behalf of the community.

PAPER RESTS CASE IN THE FORD SUIT

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., July 29.—The Chicago Tribune rested its case shortly before noon yesterday in Henry Ford's million dollar libel suit.

Alfred Lucking, counsel for Ford, offered the deposition of Edward Marsh Hill, the writer, covering circumstances surrounding an interview with Ford, published in the Detroit Free Press.

The deposition, taken in New York in November, 1918, is said to give a different angle to the widely quoted remark that the word "murderer" should be embroidered on the breast of every soldier.

Marshall testified the words originally were those of Jane Adams and were suggested by him in special reference to the Prussian military clique including the Kruppe.

GLARE HEADLIGHTS TO BE ELIMINATED.

Word comes from Toronto that the headlight glare restriction clause of the Ontario Motor Vehicle Act will become effective on or before September 1. This means that all motorists will be required to use deflectors or diffusing devices. The latter are in general use in Quebec, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan, as well as in the United States, and have been found to be effective in making night driving more safe and comfortable. The cost of these deflectors ranges from $1 to $10 per pair, and there are many types.

Many automobiles parade Sherbrooke street, Montreal, every night, but since the adoption of headlight deflectors there it is quite possible to see approaching cars and the street beyond. If it were not for the ray reflectors or diffusers, the eyes of all drivers would be practically blinded at all times, and the danger would be considerable. Under present conditions, driving along Montreal's favored boulevard is a pleasure.

Ontario has been very lax in adopting the measure to provide for the dimming or deflecting of headlights. The restrictive clause has been on the statute books for many months, but it has never been put into operation, because the authorities be'eved that there was no efficient deflector. The special lenses or devices have been tested and approved in many other provinces and states, however, and have shown their worth. Ontario is also behind the times in compelling the use of lamps on horse-drawn vehicles. All rigs used at night in New York State must carry a light, and this practice has undoubtedly saved many nasty mishaps.

THE ISLAND ELECTIONS.

The Liberal party is entitled to such encouragement as can be drawn from the Prince Edward Island provincial election, where Conservative membership in a House of thirty members was reduced from eighteen to four, and the Liberal representation increased from eleven to twenty-six, one seat being vacant when the Assembly was dissolved, says the Montreal Gazette. The Assembly Government, probably was the victim of the prevailing unrest. The population of the island is principally engaged in farming and enjoys prosperity through the high price of foodstuffs, but in common with other classes, farmers are apt to regard the cost of what they buy more than the price of what they produce, and when discontent exists blame is usually attributed to the Government. The Island is divided into fifteen constituencies, each returning two members, so that each elector exercises two votes, and as the total number of ballots cast was approximately 37,000, it would appear that about 18,500 voters went to the polls. Of the total votes 20,000 were given to Liberal candidates and 17,000 to Conservative candidates, the proportions being as 54 per cent. to 46 per cent., yet in the House the Conservatives will have a representation of only 13 per cent., that is 4 out of 30 members, the result being that while the House majority will reflect the political views of the majority of the people it will not adequately exhibit the strength of the minority. It is upon examples of this kind that advocates of proportional representation base their cause. If the new Assembly was constituted according to the popular vote it would consist of 17 Liberals and 13 Conservatives, giving the former party a majority of 4, whereas that majority is actually 22 under the present electoral system.

ARMY PUT CANADA ON FRENCH MAP.

That business men in France are turning their attention to Canada as a source of supply more than before the war is emphasized in the information reaching the Canadian Trade Commission. It appears that the participation of Canadian troops, many of them with a knowledge of French, has stimulated interest, and has been, so to speak, an advertising force for Dominion trade. A typical instance is quoted by the Commissioner General for Canada in France, who in describing the requirements of a large importing house says: "I sincerely believe that much sentiment exists here in France from the many interviews I have had and continue to have with men of all sorts—business, commercial and professional. I believe that the sentiment exists that purchases would be more preferable from Canada than from the United States. There is a great deal of love for Canada shown and Canada has become known for the many lines of endeavor undertaken by the Canadian army.

As to the Soldiers.

Hamilton Spectator.

Uncle Sam has so far considered $60 a sufficient bonus to hand his soldiers when telling them their services are no longer required. Not on the latter, however, as a movement has been inaugurated for the grant of a $50 Liberty bond for every month's service overseas. In preferring their claim reference is made to the splendid response of Canada in this respect. In comparison, at least, the difference is no marked as to warrant the belief that their services have been very poorly requited.

SAFETY FIRST.

(Vancouver World)

Jenkins had an auto car,
Johnson had a nag;
Jenkins travelled near and far,
Johnson had to lag.

Jenkins struck a road one day—
Johnson headed toward it;
Didn't hear the brass horn's bray,
Jenkins didn't hear the neigh,
Came together in a way
Neither could afford it.

Didn't stop to say "Hello,"
Didn't stop to look,
Auto wasn't going slow,
Nag was doing his bit.
Auto kissed the horse's nose,
Nazzie was offended,
Kicked the auto in the lamp,
Bit its frame he tried to tramp,
Thought he was an awful scamp,
Tale is almost ended.

Jenkins lies upon his bed,
Talking of the moon,
Auto isn't in the shed,
Won't be very soon.
Nazzie's where the horses go
When they leave this sphere.
Rosalind? Freezing? What's his show?
Didn't learn his habits, so
Cannot answer "Yes" or "No".
Only he's not here.

John'son in the hospital,
Broken all to bits,
Nurses think they'll get him all—
Seems like nothing fits.
Maybe he'll be whole once more,
Out upon the street,
Auto might run as before—
Now it's scattered on the floor
While mechanics paw it o'er—
Won't admit defeat.

Jenkins may not drive again,
Johnson has no nag,
Classy conversation, when
Either breaks his gag.
Jenkins cusses nags and mules;
Johnson: "Cat's the worse."
Says the drivers are all fools,
Don't know steering gear from tools,
Threatens suit and paenion rules.
Moral—"Safety first."

11 Boys Drowned When Boats Tipped

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 29.—Eleven boys, all members of the Spring field Boys' Club, were drowned in Big Pond, East Otis, when a flat boat and several canoes in which they were being towed were tipped over by high waves.

The boys, who were in camp with 42 other boys on an island, had been on the mainland for athletic sports and were being taken back for dinner. About half way across a high wind came up, causing a wave to partly fill a flat boat with water. When the launch towing them turned to go back to the mainland, other waves quickly filled the boat and it soon sank. Some of the boys held on to the boat, but when one of the youngsters lost his hold all of the others on that side of the boat started to rescue him. This caused the boat to turn over and all lost their hold. Other boys, who were following in canoes, paddled into the struggling mass of humanity and some of the canoes capsized also, accounting for other drownings. Santaniero who was one of the club directors of the launch, when he saw the panic among the boys, jumped into the water in an effort to rescue. He soon was pulled down by the struggling boys and drowned with the others.

Dr. M'Fall Inquires Into All War Profits

OTTAWA, July 29.—"Leading members of some lines of industry and commerce have, as we very well know, reaped harvests since the war began, yet to conclude that all classes of business have done so is utterly unfair. It is safe to say that not only are these members of every line of business who have played absolutely fair, but there are also great groups whose yearly balance sheets show very little change in profit during the last seven years," said Dr. R. J. McFall, cost of living commissioner, yesterday.

The reply was given to the question if any classes of our commercial interests exist which have not taken advantage of the war to increase their profits at the expense of the consumer.

HE'S INVESTIGATING

To ascertain the answer to such questions, and many others of great importance," Dr. McFall continued, "I have required the leading manufacturers and wholesalers of all important products of their business for the statements as to the financial standing and profits of their business for the last seven years.

"Since we have the series of seven years' statements, it is more difficult for those interests to fool us, but we are taking an additional precaution against deceit by having one of the best firms of chartered accountants in Canada supervise the revision of the reports.

FACT, NOT CAMOUFLAGE

"We feel that when this large task is completed we, and our successors, the Board of Commerce, will have the basis of fact, not camouflage, to work upon.

"We only regret that this work is not completed and that the retailers' book-keeping systems are so inadequate that we cannot now give a complete answer to all that is implied in the question."

BLIND OFFICER WAS CRUEL TO HIS WIFE

LONDON, July 28—Married to officer blinded in the war, Mrs. Cecilia Lowry, of Abbotsford, University-road, Belfast, petitioned the Divorce Court for dissolution of her marriage with Captain Gerald Lowry, a manager because of his alleged cruelty and misconduct.

Mr. W. O. Willis said Captain Lowry was engaged to Mrs. Lowry before the war. Her father was a manufacturer in Belgium, but after the outbreak of war he had to give up business and reside in Ireland. She married Captain Lowry in London in 1915 after he became blind, for a time her married life was happy. Then he became a most violent man, abused her and knocked her about from time to time.

Lady St. Helier, a sister of Mrs Lowry would be called as witness on the question of cruelty. Eventually Mrs. Lowry left her husband.

ASSETS OF STANDARD ALLIANCE TO BE CAREFULLY NURSED

Mr. G. T. Clarkson, liquidator of the Reliance Loan and Mortgage Corporation, will attend meetings of the creditors of that company in New Hamburg on Tuesday night, and in Brockville on Friday night for the purpose of explaining the position of affairs and the plan for organizing a company to handle the assets of the corporation. Seventy-five per cent. of the creditors present at the meetings is necessary to authorize the establishment of the proposed company.

This will be capitalized at between seven and eight million dollars, of which about $5,000 will be preferred stock and $2,650,000 common stock.

MURDERS CHILD AND HIDES BODY UNDER COAL PILE

CHICAGO, July 29—Assistant Chief of Police Alcock announced that Thomas Fitzgerald, janitor of a north side hotel, had confessed to the murder of Janet Wilkinson, six-year-old daughter of a grocer, who has been missing since last Tuesday.

Fitzgerald told the police he strangled the child to death and buried the body underneath a coal pile in the basement of his home.

The janitor was arrested last Wednesday and at first strenuously denied any knowledge of the girl's whereabouts.

SUNDAY CARS FOR OSHAWA

OSHAWA, July 29.—Oshawa is in a fair way of having street cars operating on Sunday, if the wishes of a majority of the Town Council prevail. At the last meeting of that body a resolution was put through in favor of a Sunday street-car service, authorizing the Railway Committee to take the necessary steps to have such a service inaugurated and maintained. The officials of the Oshawa Street Railway Company have signified their willingness to co-operate.

15 Maxwell Trucks Ran 109,700 Miles at a Total Repair Cost of $313.07

THESE are figures taken from owners' books. 10,000 owners of Maxwell trucks have been asked to send us their operating costs. The first fifteen received were from the United States, and contained these amazing figures —109,700 miles at a repair cost of $313.07.

Three of these Maxwells turned 60,000 miles at a repair cost of $150. A fourth ran 5500 miles at a repair cost of 25 cents. A fifth, 5000 miles at a repair cost of $1.

Another, 7000 miles and the expense of keeping it on the road was $2.50.

All told, the repair cost was just .002 plus per mile! And by repairs we mean the total for parts and labor.

So obvious, so well known has become the economy of Maxwell trucks in regard to gas, oil, and tires, that it is no longer an item of news.

18, 19, even 24 miles to the gallon on gas, and 250 miles to the gallon of oil, or 8,000, 9,000 and 10,000 miles to a tire is a matter of common occurrence.

But the main point about a Maxwell truck is this: it runs on and on, and never quits going.

It is efficient.

It's a great money earner because it's a great money saver. Many Maxwells pay back their cost in a year's time.

Price for chassis $1715 f.o.b. Windsor.

Dr. Yeomans, who is President of the Boys' Department, occupied the chair and gave a practical address on citizenship and the need there was of the boys to improve in every way their opportunities as they were the coming men. Mr. A. E. Duesberry led the boys in song and solos were rendered. Brief remarks were given by some who were present. Suitable prizes were presented to those who while at camp kept the best kit, were best at cooking and keeping the neatest tent, also prizes for the best all around boys in athletics and deportment.

Grand Orange Lodge Opens 90th Session

Record Attendance Is Anticipated—Over 500 and 600 Delegates Have Arrived.

OTTAWA, July 29.—The 90th meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, which opened here yesterday promises to be the largest ever held in Canada. Members and delegates have come into the number of between five and six hundred from all parts of the Dominion. The sessions promise to be very busy ones, and will last until Friday.

Only a short list of toasts has been arranged for the luncheon at the Experimental Farm on Thursday evening at which the G. M. for Eastern Ontario, Mr. W. J. Twoman, will preside. The toast of the King will be duly honored and that of the Grand Lodge will be in the able hands of Hon. J. W. Squires, chief justice of New foundland, to which Grand Master H. C. Hocken, M.P., will respond. Sir James Outram, Bart., will propose the ladies and Mrs. G. O. Arkerly of St. John, N.B., Most Worshipful Grand Mistress, will reply.

150 LADIES MEET

With the meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of Canada, there will be assembled in Ottawa, one hundred and fifty women from all parts of the Dominion, representative of the Ladies Orange Benevolent Association, who will convene at Racquet Court, the meeting promising to be the most important in the history of the Grand Lodge of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association.

Paid $20 Gallon For Perfectly Pure Water

ST. CATHARINES, July 29.—Police Sergt. Brett, after a midnight chase last week, captured an auto load of tinned goods which he immediately pronounced alcohol. The owners of the consignment put away, but Eustin Souvrigs, a Thorold taxi driver, paid $200 for having it in his car. The police have since made a thorough examination of the cans, revealing a peculiar state of affairs. Each can was supposed to contain a gallon of alcohol. A screw cap on the top of the can revealed alcohol of quite a decided strength. But when the can was cut open, a false bottom was revealed, just deep enough to hint at the possibilities of the container. About a teacupful of alcohol was there, and below the bottom was pure water.

One would-be bootlegger bought $100 worth of the so-called alcohol, paying $20 a gallon.

RAILWAYMEN FINED

BRISBANE, Australia, July 23—Twenty-four railwaymen were fined or dirated for refusing to work on a train conveying police reinforcements to the strike area at Melbourne. Mr. Considine, a member of the House of Representatives, was sentenced to three weeks' imprisonment for alleged disloyal conduct.

CONSTANT PAIN AFTER EATING

The Tortures of Dyspepsia Corrected by "Fruit-a-tives"

Dr. Martin's, N.D.

"For two years, I suffered tortures from Severe Dyspepsia. I had constant pains after eating; pains down the sides and back; and horrible bitter stuff often came up in my mouth.

Death Caused By Negligence

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

KINGSTON, Ont. July 29.—That Thomas Anglin, owner of the Central cheese factory at Atkinson, Ont., was negligent in not having his boilers examined and that the Ontario Government was in not enforcing the law for inspection of all stationary boilers in the province, was the finding of the coroners' jury which investigated the death of John Potter of Kingston, who died as the result of a fractured skull, due to the explosion of a boiler in the factory last Saturday evening.

TEXTILE WORKERS STRIKE

PASSAIC, N. J., July 29.—Six hundred textile workers went on strike here when their demands for a fifteen per cent. increase in wages were refused by the three mills employing them, the Botany Worsted Mills, Forstmann and Huffman, and the Garfield Worsted Mills.

Injured In An Auto Collision

PORT HOPE, July 30.—An auto party of five persons, Malcolm Haw, Albert Meanstan, Alexander McDonald and Will and Percy Tink, met with a serious accident when returning from Bewdley. When at the cedars, just north of Mr. Walter J. Cowbrurts residence they met a large car going north, and it is claimed the driver took more than his fair share of the road. Albert Meanstan, the driver of the Port Hope car, turned out sharply to avert a collision and in doing so struck a rut and his car turned completely over. All the occupants were badly shaken up, but the injuries to Malcolm Haw are quite serious. It is thought that Malcolm struck his side on the edge of the door. It is feared he is injured internally. He was unconscious most of the night, and is suffering much pain. The car which passed at the time did not halt to offer any assistance.

Trifles With Truth Says Premier Hearst

TORONTO, July 30.—Premier Hearst declares as "ridiculous and without the slightest foundation," Mr. Dewart's allegation that in 1917 he entered into a conspiracy with Hon. N. W. Rowell whereby Mr. Rowell was to handle the Ontario Liberals over as chattels to a permanent Unionist party.

"They are so absurd as to preclude even their discussion," said Sir William in dismissing the charges made by Mr. Dewart at Kincardine on Friday night. The Premier intimated that he would reply to the charges of Messrs. Dewart and Proudfoot at the proper time.

Regarding the prohibition referendum promised by Sir William in 1916 when, according to Mr. Dewart, the Premier had promised a ballot paper with only one question, but had offered four, Sir William said he had explained that matter in the Legislature when the present referendum measure was introduced, and that if Mr. Dewart had any charges he should make in that connection he should have done so at that time.

FAMILY OF FIVE NOW NEEDS 1,550 YEARLY

OTTAWA, July 30.—The Civil Service Commission publishes the report on which the payment of the $10,000,000 bonus to Government employes is based.

The report explains the accepted method of measuring changes in the cost of living, shows the effect which increases in Canada have had on the income of the average person and indicates the method of computing the new bonus.

It is stated that $1,000 a year supported a family of five in moderate comfort before the war, while $1,550 would be needed today as the cost of living was increased more than 53 per cent.

A bonus of $420 a year to householders with an increase of $1,200 or less is recommended, and a proportional bonus to persons without dependents, the bonus to point the bonus scales downwards according to a fixed percentage.

SIX SEAMEN KILLED BY BOILER EXPLOSION

(On board the U. S. New Mexico) wireless via Colon, July 30.—Six men were killed in a boiler explosion on the U. S. S. Melville, a naval tender attached to the Pacific fleet.

CAMPING DAYS.

When we come to the end of our camping days,
And the train bears us back to town;
When we fall once again into city ways
And our sons lose all their brown;
Then memory will bring back those camping days,
Every moment and hour so glad,
And we'll think, as we sit in the firelight's rays,
Of the wonderful time we've had.

We'll think of each swim, each hike, each game,
Of the sunset over the lake,
Of the secret learning that all camps claim,
To know how to give and to take;
We'll think of each tussle and fight and raid,
Each "skeeter" bite, bruise and fall,
But the memory of those good pals we made,
Will stand out clearest of all.

And it may be that in the days to come,
We'll recall words spoken there,
The kindly words of a kindly tongue
To inspire us to do and dare,
To live that our country's war-drained heart
May be cheered by a fresh new strain,
Young in years or in spirit to do its part—
Then our camp has not been in vain.

—F. F. Buchanan.

THEATRE MANAGER GIVEN FIVE YEARS.

MONTREAL, July 30.—Joseph. Eugene Champagne, cashier and Canadian representative for Wolfe, Sawyer and Heller, incorporated, Chicago, who was found guilty two weeks ago on 46 charges of forgery, totalling in money value $40,000, came before Judge Choquet today for sentence.

The judge, after reminding the accused that he was receiving a salary sufficient to enable any man to live comfortably, told him that there was not the slightest excuse for his misdemeanour. Champagne was condemned to serve five years in the penitentiary.

WAGE WAR On the Mosquito With the Coal Oil Can.

Get rid of all empty cans, bottles and dishes which may have been left lying about the yard, is the remedy recommended by Dr. Hastings, M.O.H., for the prevention of mosquito pests. By eliminating those things, which after a heavy rain are filled with water and serve as breeding places for the unpleasant midnight visitors, the trouble will be materially reduced. The Toronto M. O. H. also advocates placing a couple of spoonfuls of coal oil in whatever water may be left standing in cavetroughs after a storm. This precaution will remove still another possible breeding place.

Canadians Have Hard Time Getting Home

Steamship Accommodation is Booked Far Ahead—Must Have "Pull" to get Passage.

LONDON, July 30.—As was publicly warned at the time of the armistice, Canadian civilians who came to England since November, whether the dependents of soldiers of not, and intending prior evidence at the time of arrival, are hard against the crowded conditions of the trans-Atlantic boats. The normal rate of return of dependents who came before the war ended is being faithfully maintained, and from the congregating camps at Buxton, the average is in Liverpool; and little complaint is heard on this score. But for the others the position is hopelessly discouraging.

BOOKED FOR MONTHS AHEAD

The Canard line, which includes the Anchor and the old Canadian Northern steamers, will not book for Canada at all. Two of their boats may be done it is free your name, with the assurance that you will be notified when a space occurs. The accomodation is booked to the middle of September and a long waiting list ensures months more of full steamboats going west. The plight of officers, who risked losing their rates even after the armistice, is distressing—if they have not some undergoing means of overcoming the rule.

THERE ARE LOOPHOLES

Of course, there are loopholes. Provision is made for business men if at all possible, and with judicious "pulls" the ropes others have succeeded in softening the hearts of the steamship companies. Actors, artists, English-men and his family of four succeeded in visiting Canada from March to May for pleasure, at the busiest time of all. But the fact remains that there are still be thousands of Canadian women and children, and a few men, who are waiting patiently in England months beyond their wishes.

Passages are, of course, high. The cheapest first-class fare on a boat like the Aquitania or the Mauretania is $185, on the Carmania $162 and even on the Royal George $150. Cabin rates immediately in the Panonia and Saxonia and in the C.P.R. boats is $85 at the lowest.

DE VALERA MIGHT BE ARRESTED AT BORDER

OTTAWA, July 30.—If Mr. Eamonn De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," accepts the invitation of the "Friends of Irish Freedom" in Montreal to visit Canada, his troubles will begin at the border, if the views of one Minister prevail in the Cabinet councils. The problem of dealing with President De Valera is one that the Dominion Government would rather avoid, but De Valera is regarded here as a political prisoner, and escaped from custody. If he attempted to cross he might be arrested and turned over to the British authorities, who are not said to want him overmuch, or he might only be turned back at the border. It is thought however, De Valera may avoid discovery at the border in some ingenious manner, and the Government would be forced to arrest him after he had arrived in Montreal and soon as he made a public appearance here.

Spence Conviction Was Quashed

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

TORONTO, July 30.—Judge Morson this morning squashed a recent conviction by Magistrate Klugsford against Rev. B. H. Spence, Secretary of the Dominion Alliance in connection with the famous Parasite book banned by the censor. The judge took this action because no attempt was made to circulate "The Parasite" after it was published. The conviction carried with it a fine of $500 or four months' imprisonment.

Last Minute Telegraph Briefs

COPENHAGEN, July 30.—A despatch from Vienna says that Dr. Karl Renner in a letter to President Seitz of German-Austria, outlining his policy in connection with the question of an acceptance of foreign ministry, says that German-Austria's struggled for future existence is proving much more difficult than even pessimists expected. Austria, he asserts, can hardly live in her present position and can only surrender Itself trustfully to the League of Nations.

Sam Gompers Talks Turkey To German Trade Unions

PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR TOLD GERMAN UNIONISTS THAT IF THEY MAINTAINED TRUCULENT ATTITUDE ON WAR QUESTION WORKMEN OF OTHER COUNTRIES COULD NOT RETAIN RELATIONS WITH THEM IN FUTURE—GERMAN DELEGATES BACKED DOWN.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

AMSTERDAM, July 30.—The work of the International Trades Union Congress was hindered by a protracted discussion in committee of the whole international organization over the German declaration of the stand of the German delegates unionists during the war. The Germans maintained an unrepentant attitude until Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, told them plainly that if it were continued it would be impossible for workers of other countries to retain relations with them in future. The German committee finally declared that the German trades unions always recognized that Germany acted wrongly and that German workers were always opponents of the war, armaments and imperialism, and if German workers had suspected Germany was the aggressor in the great war, they would have tried to prevent it. On this declaration being accepted by the congress the delegates went on with the business of organizing the international federation.

Great Awakening Is Needed To Save Britain From Ruin

SIR R. S. HORNE, MINISTER OF LABOR, CALLS ALL CLASSES TO CRUSADE—BETTER DEFEAT IN FIELD THAN PERIL OF NON-PRODUCITON.

By Thomas Geggie.

LONDON, July 30.—Not for years has a Cabinet Minister felt impelled to make such an anxious appeal as that made through the press by Sir R. S. Horne, Minister of Labor. The following are extracts from his long statement which will be give the widest publicity in Britain.

"Any man who is unprepared to put forth an effort 'even greater than that he made during the war mocks the dead he professes to glorify. They died to preserve their country. If men are unwilling to exert all their power in peaceful production and honest toil, the country will be ruined as irretrievably as if the Hun had invaded it and spread his devastating hand over it.

"No class is free from criticism. Many manufacturers are profiteering at the expense of the community. Many workmen are refusing to give an adequate day's work for the service of the country. As a result of these two factors Britain is becoming impoverished. Unless there is a great awakening this nation, which has proved its courage and capacity for sacrifice, will go down to disaster through failure to use victory wisely.

"Far better in such a case would it have been to have been beaten on the field of battle and to have returned with a chastened spirit to retrieve our fortune by persistent toil. At the present time our production of almost all that is essential for the continuance of the country's success has reached a dangerously low level. The output of that prime necessity coal is imperilling every industry we possess.

"It is the duty of every right thinking citizen to be a missionary preaching the gospel that in work alone lies safety. It should be the pride of everyone to bear this banner in this new crusade."

27,000 Soldiers Mobilized For Duty In Chicago

RACE RIOTS CONTINUE WITH MORE DEATHS BUT CIVIC AUTHORITIES WILL NOT ACKNOWLEDGE DEFEAT AND CALL ON MILITARY READY TO QUELL DISORDERS—RESIDENCE OF NEGRO BURNED, OCCUPANTS ESCAPE.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Rioting between whites and blacks continued long after midnight and several casualties were added to the list of 27 dead and hundreds of wounded. A negro residence at Fifty-seventh St. and Wentworth Avenue was burned by whites, but the occupants escaped.

The Ninth and Tenth regiments of Illinois troops from Cairo were reported on the way to Chicago to increase the available soldiers to more than 27,000, but none had taken up patrol duty, the city officers refusing to admit defeat and ask for military aid.

A Labor Saving Combination

"IT is the last straw that breaks the camel's back." So runs the old proverb. And it is the little extra efforts which tire you out on washday.

Eddy's
Indurated Fibreware
Washtubs and Washboards

form a combination which save you much extra labor. Indurated Fiberware tubs are much easier to lift and to move about. They keep the water hot for a much longer space of time, because they do not conduct heat as metal does. They are easier to keep clean, because they are made in one piece without joint or seam, and the hard, glazed surface is impervious to liquids or odors. And they cost no more. Last longer, too.

Eddy's Twin Beaver Washboard has a double rubbing surface of Indurated Fibreware which loosens the dirt quickly and saves many tiresome motions.

Picton Dairymen Loud in Protest

Resent the Fixing of Cheese Price by the British Food Board—Want an Open Market.

PICTON, July 30—At Picton Cheese Board a very heated discussion took over the arrangements made for the handling of Canadian cheese. Much indignation was expressed that members of the British Food Board should come to Canada and dictate prices and terms as to how the Canadian cheese business was to be handled, with drastic rule, for buyers, with penalty of suspense for non-observance. Both buyers and salesmen expressed the opinion that the usefulness of the board as a means of competition was at an end. Many speakers in their remarks endorsed the action of Brockville, Cornwall and other boards in their protest to the Dominion Government for their inaction in the matter.

The following motion was carried unanimously: Moved by A. M. Platt, salesman for Cherry Valley factory, seconded by E. P. Cox, salesman for Weller's Bay cheese factory:

"That whereas we have learned with consternation that the British Food Board has fixed a price of 25c per pound for cheese delivered at Montreal we, the dairymen of Prince Edward County, demand a full explanation as to the reason why such action is necessary to single out this line of food products, to the detriment of cheese producers, when other manufactured foods have the benefit of an open market; that if such action is persisted in it cannot help but decrease production; that we feel that after the sacrifices Canada has made in many ways for the Motherland this discrimination against us is something totally uncalled for; that if cheese is selling in England at 1s 5d, or 30c per pound, there is certainly no great spread between the prices at Montreal and to the consumer in England."

SOME HEN

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Sir,—Ananias and Sapphira were accomplished liars. They have had many brilliant successors. I presume you readers will unite in saying that the story I am here relating about a hen is told by those who could successfully compete with the liars above mentioned. It is to be hoped that they will not meet with the same fate as their predecessors referred to.

Mr. Gus Rhodes, a highly respectable and prosperous farmer in Lennox County, Wisconsin, has a three-year-old White Rock hen which has a record of 151 eggs in one month, 77 of which were laid in one week. Her record for May was: May 2nd, 4 eggs; 4th, 3; 5th, 4; 6th, 5; 7th, 6; 8th, 4; 20th, 5; 22nd, 6; 23rd, 4; 24th, 7; 25th, 4; 26th, 9; 27th, 9; 28th, 11; 29th, 10; 30th, 14; 31st, 14; June 1, 1; 2nd, 16; 3rd, 11; 4th, 1.

Hundreds of people visited the farm. J. H. Benson, the celebrated poultry fancier, made affidavits before the County Judge that on one day the hen laid thirteen eggs, and subsequently on the same day two more, making fifteen eggs in ten hours. Mr. Benson in his affidavit states that there was no other hen in the barn during the day, that no eggs were put in the day other than those laid by the hen, that the hen was carefully watched, and that she actually laid the fifteen eggs in ten hours.

Of course not one of your readers will believe this sworn statement. The Literary Digest gives the above information, together with a lengthy account which space will not permit to insert. The eggs were full size, full hard shells, with single yolk.

FREED AFTER SERVING 10 YEARS PUNISHMENT

MAN CONVICTED OF MURDERING SWEETHEART FOUND INNOCENT AFTER NEW TRIAL

A case which deserves much thoughtful consideration is that of Wm. H. Bacon, 103 Morgan Street, Bennington. For ten years Mr. Bacon suffered the agonies caused by rheumatism. At times he was helpless hand and foot by the grip of Rheumatic pains. On the advice of a friend he stood for a new trial and was freed. T.B.D. Aug. 1.

Read what he has to say—

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for ten years. I was confined at times to bed so ill that I could not move. A friend advised me to try Templeton's Rheumatic Pills. They worked wonders for me and I have never suffered from the disease since.

It's practical evidence like this that obtains strong testimonial, and is always welcome. If you suffer, buy a new treatment and see for your self. CHAPTER LXXI—Continued

The Count's sword leapt into the air like a flash of light, but before the two men could meet Sir Thule de Brie had stepped between.

"I am the man" he said quietly, "and not Count Guy of Marmorel."

"Stand from my path," cried the king. "It is Count Guy who desires my sword." But Sir Thule de Brie did not move, and only swung his weapon to and fro before him. Yet, if he had moved, he might have cut the knot of all our difficulties. Count Guy was a great warrior and a leader of men, but the king was more than his match with the sword; could not understand this interference. The throne was won for the Princess and only one desire remained in my heart—the death of Count Guy Marmorel.

But whatever Sir Thule de Brie's personal feeling in the matter were, he stood his ground and there was a moment's pause. I heard the sound of laughter from the courtyard below and the wind suddenly began to moan round the tower. It sounded like the roar of a storm. Then the king's face worked horribly and he sprang forward.

"Out of my path," he cried hoarsely "I will give you with fighting when I have dispatched you with that traitor. Until then, no an shall stand between him and me alive."

"You speak to your conqueror," Sir Thule said cold; "you are his prisoner. He is the sure king of this country. There is no obligation for him to meet you. It has but to give the word, and fifty of his knights will fall upon you. Herald, however, give you so much leave to permit me to meet you hand to hand."

"Count Guy permit others to do his fighting?" sneered the king. "But he shall not escape today. He has asked for my sword, and by our Lady of Brabancon, he shall have it through his body. Stand on my path, Sir Thule de Brie."

For answer, Sir Thule swung his sword so that the point of it grazed the king's arm. The latter struck back with scornful and terrific blow that the knight went staggering two paces backwards. Then they both paused and again I heard a long low moan of wind round the tower, and the voices of the crowd in the court-

FIGHTING THE MOSQUITO PEST.

Belleville has a plague of mosquitoes this season, worse than other years, and reports from other communities reveals a like condition. The pests take possession of the verandahs during the evenings and drive householders indoors with their persistent attacks. Owing to the high water Victoria Park has been wet all season and a favorite breeding ground for mosquitoes, making the park a place of torture instead of pleasure for outing parties.

The marshes along the bay shore are also contributing millions of germ carriers and the nuisance is a serious one. The mosquito evil has been successfully combatted in various sections of the United States with the use of oil, and steps should be taken here to ascertain if something can not be done to at least mitigate the nuisance locally by draining stagnant pools and using oil where necessary, especially in Victoria Park, a recreation centre for the citizens. Reports from campers at Oak Lake state that mosquitoes are almost unknown there this year owing to the absence of stagnant water and marshy places, showing that local conditions are responsible for the nuisance here. It may be that the area covered by the mosquito breeding grounds here is too large for effective treatment except at prohibitive expense, but the question is worthy of close investigation and report.

The Hamilton Herald says that the mosquito pest in that city is the worst in modern times. Similar conditions prevail in other parts of Canada, and especially in summer resorts where people go for rest and recreation. Unless the whole verandah is screened, which is expensive, the seekers after rest must choose between the mosquito outside and the heat inside.

The Herald points out that it is quite unnecessary to submit to this annoyance. The pest has flourished because there has been no energetic crusade against it.

"Cities and districts in all parts of the continent have been freed from this unendurable nuisance. The methods by which that has been accomplished are no secret. Even in the swampy districts around the Panama Canal the mosquito has been robbed of its sting. The problem here is child's play to that."

Mosquitoes breed in stagnant pools of water, in barrels used for holding rain-water, and even in little puddles of water which lie in empty cans. The remedy is to drain off the water or cover it with a thin film of oil, which prevents the young insects from rising to the surface. It is, of course, somewhat difficult to deal with large swampy areas. But even in the dry, rocky regions of Muskoka and other summer resorts, there are little pools which are breeding places for the pest, and which could easily be drained off or oiled. There should be a crusade against the mosquito, and our Governments should lend th ir aid, at least to the extent of giving advice or information.

Trenton expects to spend $800,000 upon a housing program. Belleville Housing Commission is more modest and will be content with $25,000 from the Ontario Government's Housing Fund. The sum of $25,000 will provide for about ten new houses, which will make little or no impression upon the situation as regards scarcity of suitable houses. An explanation from the local Housing Commission is in order.

The stiff rate of taxation struck by the City Council this year will not add to the peace of mind of the long-suffering taxpayer. While a higher rate was inevitable and fully anticipated the increase in the estimates for school purposes due to an increase in salaries was given as the principal reason for a larger tax rate. The presentation of the estimates, however, shows that the heavy increase comes in the general rate with over four mills added to last year's rate, while the school rates show only a fractional increase. An explanation is due from the City Council as to why and wherefore of the large increase in the general rate.

He was a man of strong convictions and sterling character and his influence in the Legislature was always for good.

Vacation Days

Take Along a Gillette

Gillette

For the Gillette owner, life is one long holiday from stropping and honing. It is a round of daily luxurious shaves. The shaving quality of the hard-tempered, keen and lasting Gillette Blade is a never failing source of satisfaction.

You, who are planning a vacation, should include one pleasure you can enjoy twelve months each year—buy a Gillette Safety Razor. Free your holiday from strops and hones.

The new Kit Set—the Pocket Edition Gillette Safety Razor—in a limp leather roll case, complete with twelve double-edged blades and a mirror, takes only a few inches of space in your kit.

Remember how the Gillette was the choice of the soldiers of all the Allied armies. You will need a Gillette to remove your open-air growth of beard.

The price is $5.00.

Drifting Politicians.
Quebec Chronicle

Both political parties in the Dominion are at present experiencing their full share of the difficulties of "reconstruction on a Peace Footing"; for also oldtime, or so-called Laurier Liberals, there is the necessity of finding a new leader and of formulating a permanent platform on which to stand while the Unionist Coalition is in an equally perplexing quandary, its raison d'etre having vanished with the war.

It seems incredible that only seventy-nine years has elapsed since the inventor of the sewing machine took out his first patent, yet this fact is brought to our notice by the observance in Spencer of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Elias Howe.

The Poet's Corner

THE COUNTRY PAPER.

Tisn't filled with cuts and pictures,
Nor the latest news despatches,
And the paper's often dampened and the print is sometimes blurred,
There is only one edition and the eye
quite often aches,
Traces of a missing letter and at times a misspelled word;
No cablegram nor special anywhere
the eye engages,
The make-up is a trifle crude and primitive,
But the atmosphere of home life fills and permeates the pages
Of the little country paper printed where you used to live.

Every printed line reminds you of the days long since departed,
Here a hoosier's chum is mentioned,
there a schoolmate's name appears,
And the eye grows moist in reading,
while the soul grows heavyhearted
O'er the changes time has wrought throughout the awfully passing years.
Memory's scroll has deep impressions stamped upon its face forever,
Of sweet pleasures which the busy city life can never give,
And in fancy you are roaming through the quiet town wherever
You peruse the country paper printed where you used to live.

A Laugh or Two

"My husband ain't been arrested for nigh on twenty years."

"Really," said the second. "Well, mine's in fur life, too."

Willie Slim—"I thought you were a great deal bigger than you are."

Featherstone—"What gave you that idea, Willie?"

Willie—"Why, my sister said that all you did was to take up room."

Johnny—"Pa, am I made of dust?"

Pa—"That's what they say."

Johnny—"Are you made of dust, too?"

Pa—"Well, your mother and sister seem to think so—and of gold dust at that."

A New Eyeglass.

"What are you studying now?" asked Mrs. Johnson.

"We have taken up the subject of molecules," answered her son.

"I hope you will be very attentive and practice constantly," said the mother. "I tried to get your father to wear one, but he could not keep it in his eye."

Valuable Dog.

"Look here, sir," said Johnston's neighbor, Jones, "that dog of yours has gone and bitten my mother-in-law, and he could not keep it in jaw."

"Good heavens!" said Johnston. "I'm grieved to hear that. He must have broken his muzzle." "I hope it won't be serious, and that it won't bring me into trouble. I——"

"Trouble?" interrupted Jones. "My good fellow, not at all! Buy, I came along to see if you wouldn't like to sell me the animal."

Settled the Argument.

"James," cried Mrs. Timid, "there are burglars downstairs."

"Oh, no, there ain't, m dear," replied Mr. Timid.

"I'm sure there are."

"I'm sure there ain't."

"I tell you there are."

"I tell you there ain't."

"Your husband is right, mum," interrupted a bloodthirsty-liking individual who thrust his hd into the room at this juncture. Ye're upstairs."

And so he started dow he was heard to say to his pal: "Always believe in helping a husband when ever I can. I'm a marrioman myself."

COTTAGE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

During a thunder storm on Monday night a summer cottage at Sturgeon Lake occupied by Mr. J. Jones and family of Toronto was struck by lightning, which did considerable damage to the contents. A mattress was set on fire but the blaze was extinguished. A little boy was badly cut on the head by broken glass and flying splinters.

BICYCLE STOLEN.

The police here are making every effort to recover a new Massey-Harris bicycle which was stolen last night from near the G. T. R. shops. The wheel was the property of John Hallum, a call boy on the railway. The number on the wheel is 50,378, double frame, painted green and had a parcel carrier on behind.

RITCHIE CO. PICNIC.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by the staff of The Ritchie Co. down "Mosquito Bay," where they were conveyed in Mr. C. M. Reid's yacht, "The Mac." A bounteous supper was partaken of, the arrangements of this being in the able hands of Mrs. M. Darlington and Miss Thompson. Swimming was taken advantage of by most of the party, and the picnic was voted a great success.

REUNION OF CONSERVATIVES

A meeting of representative Conservatives from all parts of West Hastings riding was held in this city yesterday at which it was decided to hold a reunion of the party and an outing at Marmora Village on Wednesday, August 20th. It will also take the nature of a testimonial to Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., the popular and energetic member of the riding in the House of Commons. A full day's programme of sports and festivities will be arranged; and a number of prominent and eloquent speakers are assured. The names of the speakers together with a programm of events will be announced later.

RAILWAY SHOPMEN AWARD.

An award which will be of great interest to 35,000 shopmen of the railroads of Canada will be made this week at Washington. It is that of Walker Hines, director-general of labor for the American railroads, and will affect its wages, hours and working conditions the members of the three divisions of the Federated Shop Trades, who are located in the United States. The complete executive of the Canadian division, with the exception of R. J. Johns, of Winnipeg, is at present in Washington, conferring with the labor leaders there, as negotiations between the War Board and the Canadian Division were adjourned until the American award was made known. The latter will then be used as a basis for negotiating as to wages and hours in the Canadian railway shops for the ensuing year. Until the American award is made known, and considered by the representatives of workers, it is uncertain whether the trouble which has been pending for some time in both the States and Canada will be averted, or if the leaders of the workers, of either country will try to obtain further concessions than those given in the award.

ACCUSED OF SERIOUS OFFENCE

Arthur Ketchesau, an unmarried man residing in Rawdon Township, was this morning before Magistrate Masson charged with a serious offence. Caleb A. Lloyd, a rather aged man, was also accused of aiding and abetting in the offence. As the case was not ready to be proceeded with an enlargement for a week was granted. The accused were both remanded to Jail. Mr. Carnew represented the Crown and Mr. A. Abbot appeared on behalf of the accused.

Mrs Morgan Has Gained 22 Pounds

Was Told That Operation Was Only Hope—Tanlac Restored Health.

"Anyone who had noticed the dreadful condition I was in can readily see the wonderful change Tanlac has made in me," said Mrs. E. M. Morgan, building at 1817 Norton Street, Kansas City, Missouri, in telling of the remarkable benefits she has derived from the medicine recently.

"I have actually gained twenty-two pounds in weight on five bottles of Tanlac, she continued, "and have improved so much that my neighbors often speak of it." My health had been all broken up for more than a year and I was so nervous that the least noise would upset me. My appetite left me and what little I did eat would sour on my stomach causing gas and intense pain. I would bloat terribly and during these times my heart would palpitate frightfully, almost cutting off my breath, and I was so weak and dizzy that I could not walk a block without stopping to rest. I was badly constipated, had raging headaches, and was losing weight and strength all the time. I would roll and toss most all night, unable to sleep, and would get up in the mornings even more tired than on going to bed. I was constantly under treatment and all the time taking some kind of medicine, but nothing helped me and I finally got right down in bed.

"At the time I got Tanlac I had been confined to my bed for a month. I had been told that an operation would be necessary and was almost in despair, as I always had a horror of the operating table and the knife. Up to this time I had not thought seriously about Tanlac having any good for me, although I had often read the wonderful results others claimed to get from it. But, being so anxious to avoid an operation, I decided first to try Tanlac and sent for two bottles. Well, before I had finished my second bottle my appetite was better, the gas stopped forming on my stomach and I did not suffer from shortness of breath and palpitation any more. Now, to put it in few words, my nerves are normal and I have no more headaches, dizzy spells or trouble of any kind. Tanlac has not only relieved me of my physical sufferings, but it has eased my mind too, as I fully believe it has saved me from an operation. I can truthfully say Tanlac has made me feel like a new person and I can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Belleville by Ostrom's Drug Store, Interton by J. H. Dickey, in Deseronto by W. J. Malley, in Stirling by J. S. Morrison, in Madoc by J. Nit Vine in Marysville by T. J. McAlpine, in Ormsby by Jas. Campbell and in Thomasburg by J. H. Blakley.

Old Time Religion Out In The Open

Interest Increasing in Oak Hi's Camp Meeting—Old-Time Revival Looked For.

Following upon the successful opening Day Service of Oak Lake Camp Meeting on Sunday last, Monday, ministerial day, was a fairly representative event. There was a sprinkling of farmers from the very busy agricultural section, several of the commercial world, a goodly number of the fair sex, and a satisfactory showing of the ministry.

Mr. Geo. Woodley was the enthusiastic chairman of the afternoon, when Rev. Dr. B. D. Chown gave a very clear and broad discussion upon the subject of Evangelism, and Mr. N. Parliament, M.P.P., an address on "What the Laity Should Expect of the Ministry," emphasizing leadership and citizenship. Excellent discussion followed.

The evening session was presided over by Rev. W. Elliott, Chairman of Belleville District, Rev C. Gall of Robbin's Mills, being the preacher. His message was a strong presentation of the truth and an appeal for real evangelism.

The ministers of the Conference have been present besides the General her been present, besides the General Supt., Dr. Chown, Rev. W. D. P. Rogers, Pres. of Bay Con., W. Elliott, I. McMullen, Jas. Batstone, L. M. Sharpe G. McQuade, A. Frederick, J. F. Emerson of Yarker, W. H. Clarke, C. J. Hall, W. W. Jones and Evangelist M. Johnson of Stirling. Leader C. H. Rudd of Toronto is leading the song services and Miss M. Andrews, pianist.

Evangelist H. L. Stephens of Chicago will be present for next Sunday and Rev. E. E. Scott will also assist. Wednesdays are being made special days; Missionary this week, Laymen's Aug. 6th and Sunday School and Temperance Day, August 13th. Public attendance is most cordially invited.

BROCKVILLE CREDITORS WANT THOROUGH INVESTIGATION

BROCKVILLE, July 30. — The creditors of the Brockville branch of the Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation at a meeting held here, passed a strong resolution demanding that the Ontario Government should investigate the affairs of the Corporation. Included among those present the majority of them small investors, but many with the savings of a life-time wasted, were women. The creditors felt keenly their loss and are anxious to bring to book those who are alleged to have permitted the affairs of the Corporation to be mismanaged. Criticism was also made of the methods of arbitration employed locally by the officers of the concern.

There is no deposit at the Brockville branch practically $22,000, with another $500,000 represented in debentures. These depositors and debenture holders are resident in Brockville, Gananoque, Prescott, Kemptville, Smith's Falls and other points in this district. The manager of the Corporation office here holds pockets to the value of $70,000 for the Toronto meeting concerning which G. T. Clarkson is expected to come to Brockville and explain to the creditors the steps to be taken in connection with it. Creditors were advised to recall all proxies which they had issued.

One Big Union Wins At Winnipeg

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer Canadian Press Limited

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—A split which has been foreseen for some time by those in the labor movement actually occurred last night when the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council by a large majority of the delegates adopted constitution of One Big Union and severed the secretary and treasurer of the Council to turn over all of the Council's property to that organization. There were about 120 delegates present out of a total membership of about 250. Prominent members of the Council declared after the meeting that it was not a representative one as the tactics of radical members towards those not in agreement with them was such as to keep away many of the delegates of best radical type.

In the meantime R. A. Rigg representing the American Federation of Labor and Dominion Trades Congress is going ahead with his re-organization of union forces here under the direction of these bodies.

Grand Black Chapter Of British America

Convention at Ottawa Expresses Loyalty to Irish Brethren.

OTTAWA, July 30.—With the election of officers the presentation of important reports and the adoption of a resolution of loyalty to the brethren in Ireland the convention of the Grand Black Chapter of British America came to a close, John Easton, of Manitoba was re-elected Grand Master. The election of officers resulted as follows: M.W.G.M., John Eastin, Manitoba, re-elected; D.G.M., J. W. Penney, Newfoundland; Associated D.M., W. H. G. Armstrong, Saskatchewan; Grand Chaplain, Rev. Rural Dean Sanders, Montreal; Grand Registrar, J. S. Williams, Toronto.

Grand Treasurer, W. H. Wilson, Toronto; Grand Lecturer, Benjamin Kirk, oronto; Grand Censors, John Bailey and Archer Pilgrim; Grand Marshal, Geo. V. McCready; Grand Standard Bearers, J. C. Puddester and Howard Brown; Pursuivants, E. Armstrong and John Dunbar.

Committee—C. M. Carey, L. Read, James Jennings, R. B. Maxwell, Thomas Hope, Thomas Bowery and H. Johnston. D.G. Registrar—J. W. Benson, D.G. Treasurer—L. S. Stanley. D.G. Lecturer—Geo. H. Langley, Newfoundland. Neil Stewart, Nova Scotia; D. G. Wright, P.E.I.; C. B. Ward, N. B.; J. Rutledge, P.Q.; Robert Martin, Ontario West.; J. M. Thompson, Manitoba; S. Adrian, Saskatchewan; Sir James Ostram, Alberta.

Tupper Again Head Of A. & N. Veterans

Lieut.-Col. McCausland of Toronto First Vice-President—Officers Elected.

MONTREAL, July 31.—W. J. Tupper, K.C., of Winnipeg, was re-elected to the Presidency of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association in Canada in session at the Windsor Hotel, in the second annual convention of the organization. The remainder of the slate of officers elected was as follows:

Col. McCausland, Toronto, first vice-president; Commander Chas. Halifax, second vice-president; Maj. A. Gordon Montreal, third vice-president; Bishop Rigault of Ontario and Cardinal Begin of Quebec joint chaplains; R. C. Irving, secretary-treasurer.

The representatives from the various provinces to the Dominion executive were as follows: Comrades Young, for British Columbia; Tees, for Alberta; Reins, for Ontario; Helman for Manitoba; Cross, for Quebec; Daffy for Nova Scotia and Stewart for Saskatchewan.

Speaking at the annual banquet at the Windsor Hotel, Col. J. J. Creelman, Montreal, pointed out that Canada has had experience with many years of Governments controlled by manufacturers associations and such bodies and also has had experience in some instances with Governments controlled by labor. Both of these systems have proved unsatisfactory to the people of the country.

"It remains for us to find a happy medium between capital and labor and this medium is to be found among the veterans' association," he said.

Planning Memorial To Fallen Brethern

Grand Orange Lodge Will Consider Subject at Convention.

OTTAWA, July 31.—The erection of a national memorial to Orangemen killed in France will be considered at the convention of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge which opened yesterday.

The form of the memorial and the city for its erection will be decided at the convention.

The head of the Grand Black Chapter of British America was launched yesterday morning at the Orange Hall. An address of welcome was tendered by Mayor Harold Fisher and replied to by Hon. W. D. McPherson, Provincial Secretary for Ontario, who dwelt on services rendered by the 80,000 Orangemen from the Dominion and Newfoundland.

Addresses were also presented by the City of Ottawa, Ladies' L.O.L., M. H. C. Hockes, M.P., in replying, dwelt on the "potentiality of the L.O.B.A., and the influence of women for good in this world. The men of Canada should stand hereheaded before the women for their work in the war," he said.

Citizens Liberty League Opposed To Prohibition

LEAGUE TAKES ACTION ON REFERENDUM AND ADVOCATES AFFIRMATIVE VOTE ON ALL QUESTIONS ON BALLOT —ALSO AGAINST "SAD SUNDAYS."

TORONTO, July 30—Rising suddenly, just before the meeting of the Citizen's Liberty League was about to adjourn last night in the Forestery hall, Fred S. Sutherland, of the Sutherland Bros., mining brokers, 12 King street east, subscribed the sum of $500 for the beginning of a fund to organize every nook and cranny of the Province. Mr. T. L. Carruthers, the secretary, announced after the long list of men and women, for several women were present, had signed as members, a total of $750.

Two motions were passed by an unanimous standing vote:

"1. That the members of the Citizen's Liberty League, assembled to consider the question of the referendum, will mark their ballots "yes" to each of the four questions to be submitter by the Government, in order that by this means they will defeat the machinations of an organized minority and secure for the people a return of that liberty of conscience and action in their daily lives, which was taken away from them without their consent or mandate." Moved by J. Hymas and seconded by N. McCombe.

"2. That all monies that may have been collected in fines in connection with the working of the Ontario Temperance Act from the soldiers and sailors in the army or navy of His Majesty King George, shall be returned forthwith." Moved by W. J. Carmichael, the secretary of the G. A. C.

Those on the Platform

The chairman o the evening was Dr. H. E. Shepherd, and on the platform were: :Col. A. C. Machin, M. P. P., of Kenora; J. Hyman, F. Gordon Osler, treasurer of the league; Archie Draimin, and Lieut. Frost in charge of the musical part of the evening. A letter was read from Mr. F. J. Hellmuth, the legal adviser of the league, who was unavoidably unable to be present, that counsellor the members, on account of the Government alliance as to the result of sharing "No" to one of the four points on the referendum, to sign "Yes" to all the questions. Altogether 250 or 300 people were present and there was the most intense enthusiasm.

"I think this is a spontaneous movement of the majority of the people in opposition to the domination of the minority that wish to enslave and enchain us," said Col. Machin. "I am just a country boy. Then I went to my home. I hunted in because somebody had to. We're not backed by the liquor interests. We are just ordinary British subjects, trying to live up to the laws of God and the reasonable laws of men. We lived in a decent British Province until this new and freak legislation was introduced by a minority taking advantage of unnormal conditions caused by the war. We shall be able to get back to that happy time we have to rise in the morning, what we have to eat, and just exactly the time to order every minute of our lives. I feel that the free people of the Province of Ontario will not stand for it. If any man hints that we are controlled by the liquor interests he has only to look at our subscription lists. They will be always open for public inspection. This movement, however, is not only in connection with the liquor question, but in all the interferences with the liberty of the individual. I don't see that it is breaking the laws of God to keep the kiddies from eating ice cream on hot Sundays. That's one of the laws I want to see out of the way. I don't blame the wealthy man either from having his cellar full of whiskey, but why should the poor man be debarred from the intelligent use of it, by the "Arbitrary Methods of Government."

He instanced the 18,000 convictions for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act and the 300 orders-in-Council remitting some of these fines and imprisonments as extremely arbitrary methods of government. Only by firm ten and stringent these laws may become in the hands of fanatics!" he exclaimed. In conclusion, he criticised the Government was extremely ill in favor from all quarters, for refusing to print an advertisement of the officers of the League.

"As a lawyer and a physician," said Dr. Shepherd, who followed, "I maintain that the present Temperance Act is absolutely illegal from every standpoint. I was one of the physicians called up before the Liquor Board about issuing 75 or 100 prescriptions a month, which I thought were absolutely necessary. They told me that I had no right to issue more than 50 a month. Well, I told Mr. Flavelle that I was going to write all the scripts that I liked." (Loud applause.)

A voice: "Where do you live?"

Dr. Shepherd: "I have the right to prescribe at any time and at any place I choose."

R. C. Wood, the managing editor of the Grand Army of Canada Weekly Journal suggested that the Liberty League should find out at once whether they could hold open air meetings at the street corners. "We should take a leaf out of the book of the street preachers and preach the gospel in which we believe."

Beck's Prophecy to Hearst

Archie Draimin predicted a great future for Col. Machin politically in the near future. He may be the biggest man in the Province in spite of Premier Hearst's power.

A voice: "What about Dewart?"

Draimin: "He's just as bad as any other."

"I want to tell you that we are not drunkards behind this movement. I spoke to Sir Adam Beck in person with the members of the Government met in caucus about the Liquor Act. Sir Adam Beck told the Premier that if he passed the Act irrespective of what the people thought, he would lose seat after seat, and he did."

He said that he should not be surprised if the present movement would develop into a new party in the province. He pledged the Jewish vote in its support, and challenged anyone to find that his father, who was 81, ever thought that he had to have a glass of whiskey a day, and partly for that reason he thought also that he would live another 10 years. "Personally, I eat only chocolates and ice-cream," said the speaker, "but I should feel ashamed if anybody could tell me when and how I should eat them." He questioned Premier Hearst's policy, and thought that he was influenced too much by his wife.

Bloodshed in Quebec Textile Strike

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer

Canadian Press Limited

QUEBEC, July 31.—There was bloodshed this morning among textile strikers at the Dominion Textile Company's plant at Montmorency Falls. About sixty strike breakers arrived on a train this morning but were not permitted to disembark, about three hundred strikers preventing them from landing. A picket of twenty special constables rushed forward and rescued workers, but had to club some of the strikers and one constable, hard pressed, had to fire in the air. Three or four strikers were slightly injured.

Gov't Will Buy And Market Canada's Wheat Crop

NO SPECULATION WILL BE ALLOWED OR PROFITEERING IN DISPOSING OF CANADA'S WHEAT CROP OF 1919 —WHEAT WILL BE SOLD AT PREVAILING WORLD PRICES—CASH ADVANCE TO WHEAT GROWERS.

OTTAWA, July 31.—The Government has finally determined its policy in regard to this year's wheat crop. The main features of the plan are:

1. A board to buy and market the crop of 1919.
2. A cash payment on account to be made to the farmer at the time he sells his wheat.
3. The wheat crop of Canada is to be sold by the board at the prevailing world prices, and the surplus proceeds, after expenses are deducted, to be distributed to the original sellers of the wheat in proportion to grade and quantity.
4. No speculation on exchanges or profiteering by handlers to be allowed in disposing of the wheat crop of 1919 to the disadvantage of either producer or consumer.
5. A direct and immediate cash sale by the farmer, and a speedy movement of the crop along the usual channels of transport.

Purchase Of Canadian Cheese By British Import Committee

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER POUND DELIVERED AT MONTREAL, THE LIMIT, SAYS OTTAWA DESPATCH—DAIRY PRODUCE COMMISSION WILL NOT BE REVIVED.

OTTAWA, July 31.—Following the recent collapse of the cheese market a representative of the British Ministry of Food (Mr. Warren) and the chairman of the Butter and Cheese Import Committee (Sir Thomas Clement) associated with the Ministry of Food, London, England, were in Canada last week for the purpose of arranging for the purchase of 20,000 tons of Canadian cheese. They met the producers at Brockville on Thursday and offered 25 cents per pound delivered at Montreal. Sir Thomas Clement announced that a local committee to represent the British Butter and Chese Import Committee would be formed in Montreal to arrange for the export of the cheese. The Canadian merchants who handle the cheese are to be paid a commission of 1½ per cent. plus ½ cent per pound to cover handling charges.

Taking advantage of his presence in Ottawa Mr. Warren was asked for a statement as to the reasons for the purchase and why they are unable to pay more than 25 cents per pound. His answer was as follows:

"The maximum retail price of cheese in Great Britain, including the home production, has been fixed by the Ministry of Food at 1/6 (36c.) per pound, and there are sufficient reasons why the maximum cannot be raised.

"The cost of handling the cheese from the time it is delivered by the Canadian produced at Montreal until it reaches the consumer in Great Britain at the present time amounts to 10.95 cents per pound, made up of the following items:

	Cents per lb.
British retailers' profit (which includes loss in weight in cutting up)	5.
Commission paid to British wholesalers and British importers (average)	1.5
Inland transport in Great Britain	.5
Storage and handling in Great Britain	.75
Interest in carrying stock	.33
Ocean freight and landing charges	1.75
Discount	.75
Commission paid Montreal exporters	.37
Montreal handling charges	.20
Total	10.95

"In addition to these charges the British committee will have to bear the loss on account of the low rate of exchange, which at the present time is equivalent to about 2 cents per pound.

"The British Committee will lose on the Canadian cheese purchased at 25 cents and this loss will have to be met from the profits on purchases in other countries, or become a charge on the British Treasury.

The foregoing figures are confirmed by Dr. Jas. W. Robertson, who has just returned from England.

There is no "fixing" of price and Dairy Produce Commission will not be revived. Producers are free to dispose of their cheese through any other channels and at a higher price if that should be possible.

Dairy & Cold Storage Commissioner

6,000 Soldiers On Duty In Chicago Negro Quarter

SHOOTING, STABBING AND LOOTING STILL CONTINUES IN RACE WAR BETWEEN WHITES AND BLACKS—SNIPERS FIRE ON SOLDIERS — DEATH LIST THIRTY—INJURED LIST TEN IN CRITICAL CONDITION.

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited

CHICAGO, July 31.—Six thousand troops on duty with rifles and bayonets in the most densely populated negro quarters of Chicago, and a light fall of rain, has not stopped the fighting between the whites and blacks. Later midnight isolated groups were shooting, stabbing and looting in places which the military had been unable to reach. The death list remains at thirty, none being reported killed last night. Several hundred have been injured during the four nights of rioting, a dozen of whom may die.

Adjutant-General Dickson on returning from placing the troops reported that snipers had fired on a company of soldiers on the way to Englewood, but no one was injured. The General reported that after the troops had taken their stations quiet had prevailed i- the patrolled areas.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Chicago was comparatively calm today for the first time since Sunday and public officials expressed the belief that the use of fire protection of state troops has effectually quelled the race riots which resulted in thirty deaths and injure of more than one thousand persons.

Funerals were held today for twenty victims of the race riots.

Coroner Peter Hoffman continued his taking of testimony at the inquest over the bodies of victims, a number of witnesses being examined.

Train Held Up 53 Passengers Killed

EL PASO, Texas, July 31.—Mexico City papers received here today give meagre details of the hold-up of a passenger train on the railroad between Mexico City and Vera Cruz last week, in which fifty-three passengers were reported killed. The train was held up and robbed by bandits, who fired into the passenger coaches, according to the newspaper report. No foreigners were known to have been among those killed.

WILL ERECT A PLANT TO MANUFACTURE SALVARSAN

Toronto, July 31.—Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Officer of Health, in receipt of a license issued by the Commissioner of Patents, Ottawa, to manufacture salvarsan, a drug used in fighting venereal disease. Dr. McCullough stated that the Provincial Board would immediately take steps to establish a plant in connection with the Provincial Laboratory for the manufacture of this drug. He had hoped, he said, that they would be able to issue salvarsan to the public in three or four months. The price at which it is to be sold has not yet been stated.

Terrors of Peace Worse than War

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

LONDON, July 31.—Marshal Foch submitting to photographers at his hotel in London yesterday said to a reporter of the Mirror: "For me the terrors of peace are worse than those of war. I hate all the posing."

Major-General Maxime Weygand, who is accompanying Marshal Foch, said it was for Great Britain to decide what should be done with the former German emperor, "he is covered with blood and should be treated branded as a coward," the general declared, "the French people think that is enough punishment."

State of Peace on Ratification

Special Despatch to The Intelligencer, Canadian Press, Limited.

PARIS, July 31.—The French Cabinet approved to-day a proposal that peace should be considered to exist officially from the date of the ratification in the official journal of the ratification of the German treaty by the Chamber of Deputies when completed. It was suggested that the ratification of the German treaty should be considered to mark a state of peace without awaiting the ratification of treaties with other powers still nominally at war with France.

Called by Death

HARRY B. SILLS

Seldom has an event happened in Trenton that has awakened such genuine sorrow throughout the entire community as has the death of the late Harry B. Sills, which occurred early in the afternoon of Tuesday, the 22nd inst.

Two weeks prior to his death he was hard at work putting on the finishing touches of his preparation for the Junior Matriculation examination and was enjoying the very best of health. It would be hard, indeed, to find a finer example of robust, young manhood anywhere, and his overflowing young life was constantly seeking an outlet in all kinds of wholesome sport.

His exuberance of spirit and his desire for innocent fun were irrepressible and he was always the life of any young party of which he happened to be a member. This made him a universal favorite and keen indeed is the regret and deep the gloom which his sudden and unexpected death has brought to his wide circle of young friends not only in Trenton but in Belleville and elsewhere, where he was well known.

The startling suddenness of the sad event is shown in the fact that he wrote during the first two days of his examination and within several days after the conclusion of the examination his young life had passed away from everything earthly into the realms of the great beyond.

The sickness had its origin in a sore toe, the result of wearing a tight boot. An infection followed which, while causing great pain, gave rise to no uneasiness. Every precaution, however, was taken but several days later pleurisy developed, followed later on by pneumonia, but even then those in attendance did not despair or give up hope. Everything was done that loving care and medical skill could devise, but in the late forenoon of Tuesday, alarming symptoms suddenly developed and within a very few hours all was over.

Although a great sufferer Harry was wonderfully patient and uncomplaining to the last. He retained consciousness to the very end and his last words were of the brighter world into which his young spirit was about to wing its flight.

The love and esteem in which he was held was abundantly in evidence and for this the parents feel profoundly grateful.

Many beautiful floral offerings were sent, among which may be mentioned those from the pupils of the High School, his classmates of the 4th Form, a pillow, special boy friends, and the Brotherhood of Local Engineers.

The funeral was beautiful in its appropriateness and its sad impressiveness, as also in the genuineness and sincerity of the grief on the part of the very large number present.

The service was held at his late home on King street and was conducted by Rev. (Capt.) W. G. Clarke of the King Street Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. (Capt.) H. B. Kenny, of Campbellford, both former pastors in Belleville, where the family resided before removing to Trenton.

At the head of the procession, marching with drums muffled and arms reversed, were the members of the High School Cadet Corps, of which the deceased had been an officer. The corps accompanied the remains to their final resting place in the Belleville Cemetery.

The boys who bore the casket were chosen from those with whom he had been most intimate and were as follows:—Irwine Ireland, Jack Farley, Clarence Saylor, Hudson Campbell, Seymour Pinkle and Willis Abbott.

Harry had passed his 18th birthstone, and in the opinion of those in a position to know would undoubtedly have been successful in his examination, qualifying him for admission to the university.

He leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother and little sister, and seldom has the sympathy of any community been poured out more freely or more generally to those bereaved than on this occasion to the sorrowing father and mother.

Music and Drama

POPULAR ACTOR

Thomas Holding, who plays opposite Dorothy Dalton in "The Lady Red Button" which is on view at Griffin's tonight in Salisbury, is a well known figure on stage and screen. Before his advent into motion pictures he played with Mrs. Kendall, Edward Terry, Forbes Robertson, Maxine Elliott and Nazimova. "The Lady of Red Button" reveals an absorbing drama and is said to be one of the best screen vehicles Miss Dalton has appeared in. In many months. "Shamhaired" is the title of the new Charlie Chaplin comedy to be shown on the same program along with the British News and selected plays.

CAN'T MAKE PICTURES
AS YOU MAKE SHOES

The yard-stick and so-called "Efficiency engineer" constitute the greatest menace to the artistic development of the motion picture according to Albert Cappelani, whose work in "Les Miserables" and "Camille" has established him as one of the greatest directors in America. You can't make photoplays as you make shoes, declares Mr. Cappelani. There are too many motion picture factories in America and too few real studios. Producing a motionpicture o is an art, not a job. The standardizing of the feature picture into five reels is one of the greatest drawbacks to the advancement of our art. You might as well tell a painter how many words he must write his next story in, or a painter how many brushfuls of paint he must use on his next canvas. The majority of stories produced as five reel pictures today could have been infinitely better in three reels. On the other hand many a wonderful story has been ruined by the necessity of cutting it to five reels. Albert Capellani is director general for Clara Kimball Young who begins at the Palace, this week-end in "The Common Law", Robert W. Chambers' popular novel. Conway Tearle is leading man for Miss Young.

In Memoriam

TURNER—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Rowena Turner, who departed this life July 21st, 1918.

One precious to our hearts has gone,
The voice we loved is stilled,
The place made vacant in our home
Can never more be filled.
Our Father in His wisdom called
The boon He love had given;
And though on earth the body lies,
The soul is safe in Heaven.

WAR HERO PUNISHED
FOR PRE-WAR OFFENSE

NEW YORK, July 31.—An Associated Press Despatch from Seattle, Wash today says: Lt. D. M. Delmas, late sergeant-major of the British army, and wearer of the Victoria Cross, is in jail here today, awaiting his second return within a few months to the penitentiary at Huntsville, Texas, according to local police. There Delmas must serve two years and nine months remaining of a five year term for having accepted, it was charged, deposits for the International Bank and Trust Company of San Angelo, when the bank was insolvent. Delmas, it is said, escaped from the Huntsville prison in 1912, joined the British army, fought until wounded and discharged in 1916. Returning to San Francisco to visit friends, he was taken back to Texas in 1917, broke jail again, and once more served under the Union Jack at the front.

MANY VETERANS ENROLLED FOR SUMMER COURSE

Toronto, July 31.—There are more than thirteen hundred teachers and inspectors taking the summer courses provided by the Department of Education this year. A number of returned men are enrolled in these courses, and, in addition there are two special courses in which only returned men are receiving instruction. In manual training there are 25; and in the academic courses for admission to the Normal Schools and Faculties of Education there are 110.

Dr. Cody, Minister of Education, expresses himself as exceedingly well pleased with the numbers of students and inspectors attending these courses.

5,000,000 EGGS ROT IN GENOA

GENOA, July 28.—Five million eggs brought here by the American steamship Sun, early in the present month have since been decaying on the dock. The port authorities say they understand the eggs were consigned to Switzerland and it is not known what has caused the delay in transhipment. The municipal authorities have requisitioned the eggs and will sell them to the best advantage.

JEHU CARRIED CROCK TO THIRSTY SLEUTH

Toronto, July 31.—"Hello, Mr. Johnson! Bring us a crock."

Receiving the above message by telephone from two thirsty men who had taken rooms at a down-town hotel, James Johnson, who has a taxi stand on York street, hurried to comply with the request, and in due time reached the hotel with the desired article. In the room he began to bargain with his prospective customers, and finally a price of $12 for a quart bottle of whisky was agreed upon. But as Mr. Johnson attempted to leave the room he found the passage barred by the form of Plainclothesman Sullivan. Then he realized that the two supposedly thirsty ones were Plainclothesmen Sullivan and Knight from No. 1 Police Station. As a result of his alleged attempt at profiteering he was confined to the cells of Court Street station, and appeared before the police magistrate to answer a charge of committing a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act.

SCREEN COWBOY WAS MUSSED UP BY STEER

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 31.—Fred Stone, noted comedian and former cowboy, had a narrow escape from death here when a steer he had just "bull dogged" gored him at the annual Frontier Day's celebration. He was saved by cowboys after he had been trampled on but not seriously hurt.

"Bull dogging" consists of making a flying leap from the saddle to the shoulders of a steer, seizing it by the horns and twisting its neck until the animal crumples to the earth. Stone's first attempt resulted in his being thrown over the head of the animal. He tried again and brought the steer down in two minutes thirty seconds. In the "wild horse" race Stone finished fourth.

Classes To Co-Operate To End Race Riots

Five Negro Leaders Blame Articles in Certain Negro Papers —Colored Patrol.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Governor Lowden called city officials, welfare workers, business men and negro leaders to a conefrence yesterday. He told the body that the cause of the race riots did not matter; that they must be ended by full co-operation of all classes. He made an especial appeal to business men to aid indicating that negroes were dissatisfied with the recognition they had received commercially for their war work.

A statement signed by five negro leaders laid the blame for the riots on "false and misleading articles in certain leading negro papers and the disadvice given by would-be leaders who have inculcated false ideas in the minds of many thoughtless colored people pertaining to their rights upon termination of the war in Europe, regardless of education, property rights or citizenship."

The statement concluded with the assertion that the substantial negro people desired only full protection of the State and city, and punishment of law breakers, white or black.

Enormous Damage Done by Hail

HALIFAX, N.S., July 30.—A hail storm devastated the country around Sackville, Nova Scotia, ten miles from here. The stones, which were more than an inch in diameter, shattered the windows, ruined crops, killed poultry and even damaged woodwork. A high wind preceded the storm and many roofs were torn off.

SLEPT ON BABY, CAUSING DEATH

Toronto, July 31.—A strange and tragic death came to Baby Adolphus Miron, of Markham street, Burwash, that his great-granddaughter had been put to sleep on his bed, John Conley, aged 70 years, and a stout man, who works at night, went into his room and lay down upon the child as it lay on his bed. Some time later, when it had been smothered. Dr. D. A. Mc-Miron went into the room to see Pierson, of Bathurst street, was summoned, but life was extinct.

Do You Remember
The Old Corn Doctor?

He stood on the street, in the olden days, and offered a "magic corn cure."

The same ingredients, harsh and inefficient, are sold in countless forms today.

But they did not end corns, and they do not now. Nor does padding, nor does paring—methods older still.

The One Right Way

Modern scientists in the Bauer & Black laboratories have evolved a perfect method and embodied it in Blue-jay.

In 48 hours, while the corn is forgotten, Blue-jay somehow ends it, and forever. Hardly one corn in ten needs a second application.

The way is sure. It is easy, pleasant, scientific. Quit old-fashioned methods. Try Blue-jay on one corn—tonight.

Then it seemed to me that I heard another sound indistinct but persistent — a loud rumbling murmur such as a distant sea makes on a rocky shore, and then the harsh scraping and rasping of something against the castle walls. Count Guy heard it too, for his eyes glanced swiftly to the window and he said something to Sir Hugh La Perche. Then for a moment all the sounds died away, and I could hear nothing but the clash of steel.

The combat was terrific in its intensity. The two figures, one crimson and the other white and gold, moved round and round the room, across it, backward and forward, beating one another to and fro, hacking and hewing with enough force to shet down a wall of stone. Yet neither faltered nor tired. The fight was almost mechanical in its swiftness and regularity.

Then I began to imagine that the whole room trembled with the shock of the contest, and that I could feel the quiver of the stone floor through my body and beneath my feet. I looked at the walls and it seemed to me that they vibrated, and that the oil lamps swayed to and fro. A moment later I heard a distant roar like thunder, and saw the sky ablaze through the loopholes, and I fancied that the whole tower was shaken to its foundations.

Count Guy of Marmorel saw these things too, and for one brief moment the combatants paused and glanced about them. But they fell to with renewed vigour, and for a while I heard nothing but the grinding of their swords, and saw nothing but the flash of steel.

Then, suddenly, I heard loud cries from the courtyard below, and the hurried rush of men; and a moment later I saw Sir Thule de Brie stagger back from the whirling ring of steel, with the blood pouring from his left shoulder. Charles the Red had struck home at last, and his sword was lifted to strike again, when suddenly the whole tower rocked, the ice blocks came pattering and splintering from the walls, there was a roar like the explosion of dynamite, and the floor split between the two men like the sides of a walnut shell.

The crack widened and widened, and I saw that the half of the floor on which the king stood was allowly slanting upwards and backwards; that the walls had cracked wide to the ceiling and that the whole tower was virtually splitting in two. One half remained upright and the other half was falling away from it inch by inch.

The Red King watched the widening gulf between him and his foe and smiled as he saw Sir Thule sink to the ground in a pool of blood. For a moment he hesitated, and I thought he would jump the yawning gulf. But he only drew back from the crumbling edge a pace or two, and raising his sword, hurled it point foremost with all his might, at Count Guy of Marmorel. The weapon missed its mark, but it stuck Sir Hugh de La Perche with such force that it drove him two feet backwards and pinned his left arm to the oak lintel of the door.

It was the Red King's last blow. Before Sir Hugh's cry of pain had died away, there was a roar of crumbling masonry a cloud of dust, the flash and flare of falling oil lamps, a glint of splintering ice, and half of the tower flung itself outwards to the ground. I saw two dead bodies sinking out of sight in a shower of stones and mortar and golden cups and chips of ice; and a second later I saw a great crimson form clinging to a cracked wall like a fly. Then the wall parted and sank, and disappeared as I heard the shrieks of crushed men, and cries of terror, and above all I heard the roaring of the wind, and the long steady grind of ice against the castle walls.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES UNDER WEIGHT OF STEAM THRESHER

MEAFORD, July 31.—An incident resulting in injuries which are expected to prove fatal occurred in Collingwood township. A Mr. Fred Doherty whose father, Mr. Samuel Doherty, resides near this town, was moving his steam thresher outfit from one farm to another, the bridge he was crossing collapsed under the weight of the machinery, with the result that Mr. Doherty was caught between the engine and the water tank and was unable to extricate himself until assistance arrived. One of his arms was broken while his body was so badly scalded and burned that his doctor and nurses hold out no hope for recovery. The fact that it has a weak heart will tell against any chance that he might otherwise have for recovery. The injured man was married only a few weeks ago.

SHOOTS HIS WIFE, THEN SUICIDES

Pontiac, July 31.—Lying side by side on the grass a short distance from the main building of the Pontiac State Insane Asylum, the bodies of George Neary, 31, and his wife, Mabel, 19, both former residents of London, Ont., were found. In the forehead of each was a hole made by a bullet from a 38-calibre revolver which lay beside the body of Neary.

Letters left by Neary told of his intending of killing his wife and then committing suicide. The couple formerly resided in London, but had separated, young Mrs. Neary coming to Pontiac and obtaining employment in the Insane Asylum as an attendant. Sunday evening last, Neary arrived in Pontiac in an effort to effect a reconciliation. Monday night the asylum staff gave a dancing party and Neary attended, presumably upon invitation of his wife. The couple danced together once or twice and those who noticed them, believed they were lovers. Neary was attentive and his wife apparently found his attentions welcome.

About midnight, it is said, the two went for a stroll and this was the last time either was seen until the discovery of the bodies some hours later. The fact that Mrs. Neary failed to appear at her room caused her room-mate, who notified the asylum authorities, they in turn telephoning the sheriff that Mrs. Near was missing. Search was immediately made and the double tragedy revealed.

$400 FINE AND COSTS FOR DRUG PEDDLER

Windsor, July 31.—Four hundred dollars and costs or nine months in jail, was the sentence imposed today on John Child, the first of the Windsor ring to be arrested here. Reid on Saturday was arrested as he stepped from a local express office with a parcel from Montreal labelled "clothes," but which contained $400 worth of cocaine and morphine.

The second arrest was made today when Mabel Wilson (colored) was apprehended with a parcel from Montreal labeled "cigars." The value of the drugs in this shipment is also $500. She will be arraigned Wednesday.

VACATION DAYS IN PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY

The Thursday and Saturday evening dances at Hillcrest are largely attended. Among recent arrivals at this resort were Mr. and Mrs. F. Hinds and family of Trenton and Capt. and Mrs. Brooke of Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Temple and Mr. and Mrs. James Bell of Trenton were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rixon.

Mrs. Morley Currie was the hostess of a delightful bridge and dance party at the Golf Club House, Picton, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Dr. Franklin of Toronto, who is spending a month in Picton. Among the guests present were Miss Lois May of Ottawa and Mrs. (Dr.) Nichol of Montreal.

Mr. Boulther and family and Mrs. Harry Boulter of Detroit are at their home on the bay shore for the summer.

Miss F. Call of Toronto, is holidaying with friends. Mrs. G. Harper, Toronto, has taken a cottage at the Sandbanks for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. George Milford and children, Toronto, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Vandewater.

Major and Mrs. Maynard are leaving to take up residence in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Porte, Mrs. Dwight and Dr. and Mrs. Philp enjoyed a pleasant trip in their yacht, Vera, II, among the Kawartha Lakes.

ALLIES TO FIGHT TYPHUS IN BALTIC STATES

Paris, July 31.—One hundred and seventy thousand cases of typhus exist in Poland and the Baltic Russian States, according to reports received by officials connected with the American sanitary expedition now hurrying to Poland by automobile through Germany to the afflicted districts.

The Polish Department of Health, facing what its officials term a crisis, have appealed to the allied Governments for aid in checking the spread of typhus. Allied staffs will be detailed to the Polish Ministry of Health.

MRS. VERNON CASTLE SELLS PROPERTY FOR $75,000

NEW YORK, July 30.—Mrs. Robert E. Treman, formerly Mrs. Vernon Castle, has sold her former town residence and adjoining house at 120 and 122 Lexington avenue, northwest corner of Twenty-eighth street, to Harris and Maurice Mendelsohn, active operators. The houses are four stories high, on plot fronting forty feet on Lexington avenue and eighty feet on Twenty-eighth street, and were held at $75,000. Mrs. Treman had owned the property for a number of years, and occupied the corner house prior to her marriage to Captain Treman last May. She now resides at Ithaca, N.Y.

POLE MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY

Quebec, July 31.—A case of murder is causing excitement in the Chicoutimi District where a Pole, Theodore Koutinn, was clubbed and stabbed to death early Sunday morning in a bunkhouse at Kenogami, a small town near Chicoutimi. The provincial police are working on the case. The victime lived alone and he was said to have hidden a large sum of money somewhere in his shack. People residing nearby state that on the night of the murder they heard people talking in the cabin and that they spoke Italian or poor English.

NEW WHEAT AT $2.70

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 30.—The first car of new wheat on the market here brought $2.70 a bushel—47 cents above government guaranteed price. Grain dealers look for high prices to be maintained on all of this year's crop, because of the demand for wheat and the damage crops have sustained.

SENATORS DRY AND WET.

Toronto Globe, which is bone-dry and apparently thinks of little but prohibition, tries to make it appear that the blow handed pro-the Senate was a political one and blamable upon the Conservatives. The Toronto Times takes objection to the Globe's political methods and says:

Says the Globe: "The truth is that the defeat of the prohibition measure was compassed by a Senate in which the supporters of the present Government are in a major-

This is a smooth way of pretending that the Liberals that august body were overborne by a hostile Conservative host. Let us consider the facts. Those who voted for prohibition were 10 Liberals and 16 Conservatives, a total of 26. Those who voted against the measure numbered 9 Liberals and 20 Conservatives.

Readjusting the vote by parties we discover that the real majority against prohibition was 8, the Conservative majority against was 4, despite the fact that 26 Conservatives took part in the vote and only 28 Liberals.

HIGH TAXES FOR POOR SERVICE.

While ratepayers greet the increased tax rate in no pleasant mood, but the steady increase in municipal taxes only emphasizes the fact that the present system of municipal government is radically wrong. Value for taxes paid is not visible to the naked eye to the extent, and there must be a tremendous waste from leaks in the result not of elected municipal representatives, but of the which provides new municipal managers every few years. citizens who give their services patriotically to the city remain long enough in the service to gain a beneficial knowledge of the ways of the various civic departments, and then step out, thankful from the responsibility. Permanent employees administer their own affairs, and supervision of new elective heads, practically every time there can be no cohesion of civic service under the present antiquated system. What seems to be needed is to conduct the city's business on a business basis with a practical manager in charge who has little study in civic administration. A most any system would be better than the present one of an elective council directing the affairs of the city at first hand.

Placing the heads of the various civic departments into a director-ate supervision over the entire city business and a working cohesion between the various departments into one business concern with reports and recommendations submitted to a small elective body or a term of several years would surely give better results, and the organization was headed by an efficient City Business Manager a thing could be accomplished and greater value obtained for money spent.

At present the ratepayers are heavily taxed for indifferent administration for bad roads, for neglected parks, for poorly lighted streets, services not up to the mark generally. This condition will go on and on unless the system in changed.

There is no reason why Belleville ratepayers should not take the lead in a movement for a reform in municipal government methods. As a matter, why should not the local Board of Trade initiate the movement. If we want a Bigger and Better Belleville we will have to work for it and would be to get legislative sanction, if necessary, for efficient municipal administration.

MORE TOURING NOW THAT WAR IS OVER.

Automobile touring will be done this summer and fall on a more extensive scale than ever, and persons who never before indulged in this form of vacationing will be out on the roads in thousands, according to those who claim to know. With the restraint of war time conditions removed, they believe that many motorists who during the past two years were forced to take extended trips in their cars, will this season make up for the pleasure they denied themselves.

Many sections of the country will see a marked stimulus of motor touring in fact that the country was at war and the people more busy with activities in France than in their own pleasures, acted as a check touring the last two summers. The "gasless Sundays" and other conservation all helped to reduce the touring mileage.

Conditions are different this summer. The war is over and the artificial restrictions no longer exist. The country on the whole is of a mind that comes with a victorious peace and this will be largely reflected by activities in its most popular form of recreation—gadabbling.

CRISP COMMENT

Sir Joseph Dewart is said to have promised the Jewish voters of southwest Toronto that if they voted him into power he would lead the Hebrews back to the Promised Land. According to the trend of recent legislation Hartwell will be able to lead his chosen people over dry land for the most part.

Hon. N. W. Rowell was accused by the Toronto Globe of having "crossed the floor from Grit darkness to Tory light. Rowell retorts "you're another" and "go cross yourself and see how you like it." Both could join hands and sing a duet around the table and sing "Crossing the Bar."

There is no doubt about an investment set your banker. If your bank is an old line, ask a regular banker, anyway. Most people fail to appreciate the interested service given to the public freely by the modern banker, the best possible authority upon financial investments.

Germany admitted they could fight no longer, but they can lie for ever remarks the Toronto Telegram.

Mr. Dewart stands in little danger of losing the support of his anti-pro-friends so long as he occasionally talks as he did in his speech at Lindsay last Friday. "I would like," he said, "to have an inventory of the contents of the cellars in the whited sepulchres of the pharisees of On-tario are not confined to one church or sect." Now if he were to re-peal and say he "votes dry" his liquor supporters after that the wink to each other. They'll understand.—Toronto Star (Lib-

OTHER VIEWS

An Insult to the Hog.

Providence Journal.

In 1914 a hog could be bought for less than nine dollars a hundred pounds. A hog would laugh in your face if you offered double that today.

Mother Hubbard, 1919.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Old Mother Hubbard went to the butcher to get the poor dog a bone; but when she got there, she said: "I declare! At the price the poor dog can have none!"

Nothing Settled.

New Bedford Standard.

There is rejoicing in Boston and its vicinity over the settlement of the carmen's strike, but in reality nothing has been settled. The performance just witnessed may be repeated at any time.

When Suicide is Confession.

New York Herald.

The local papers recently reported the suicide of a young married man "despondent because of illness and his inability to get work." In a great city, with its millions of inhabitants, such an incident is likely to be passed over as one of the minor events of the day. But back of that event, which readers of newspapers scarcely notice and which the police merely record on a blotter with many others, there is the greatest tragedy of all—the failure to obtain work.

Our Policy Towards Russia.

The New Republic.

The restoration of Russia is impossible until there has been a restoration of common sense throughout the world. It really is not possible to have a policy, to act with any dignity and effectiveness so long as we continue to live in a manufactured panic. We have not acted in Russia. We have dabbled in Russia. We have made war—a little bit. We have helped Kolchak—a little bit. We have negotiated with Lenine—a little bit. We have dismembered Russia—a little bit. But what we have done all the time is to dance around the edges of this continent-empire making perfectly terrible faces at it.

Passing of the Delirium.

New York Evening Sun.

The proposed international strike, United throughout Europe in protest against the peace settlement, has proved a complete fizzle. In France, Italy, Switzerland and Germany the workingmen generally have refused to obey the strike order, while the predicted disorders everywhere proved to be but paper riots. Only in Vienna could the much heralded "protest" be said to have had any measure of success. The failure of this movement augurs well for the early recovery of Europe from its post-war paralysis. The workingman has refused to listen to the counsels of the radical leaders. They have shown that they will not add to the disaster of the war the still greater disaster of revolution, with its attendant chaos, ruin and starvation. The delirium which threatened to grip all Europe is passing; recovery now will be but a matter of time.

The Poet's Corner

THE GREAT GUNS OF ENGLAND

The great guns of England, they listen to smile
To the boasts of a broken War-Lord;
he lays little threats and smile;
But the old woods are fallen
For a while.

The old woods are fallen; yet will they come again,
They will come back some springtime
With the warm winds and the rain,
For Nature guardeth her children
Never in vain.

They will come back some season; it may be a hundred years:
It is all one to Nature with the centuries that are here;
She shall bring back her children
And dry all their tears.

But the tears of a would-be War-Lord shall never cease to flow,
He shall weep for the poisoned armies whenever the gas-winds blow,
He shall always weep for his widows
And all Hell shall know.

The tears of a pitiless Kaiser, shallow and wide,
Wide as the desolation made by his silly pride
When he slaughtered a little people
To stab France in the side.

Over the ragged cinders they shall flow on and on
With the lifeless falling of streams that find not Oblivion,
For ages and ages of years
Till the last star is gone.

A Laugh or Two

It makes a young man happy when a girl returns his love, unless she returns it because she has no use for it.

An Awful Threat.

Mother—"Why did you not scream when Mr. Clive kissed you?"

Daughter—"He threatened me."

"How?"

"He said if I did he'd never kiss me again."

Sorry He Spoke.

"Speaking of bad falls," remarked Jones, "I fell out of a window once, and the sensation was simply awful. I really think that I thought of every mean act I had ever committed."

"Humph!" growled Thompson. "You must have fallen an awful distance."

Web Feet.

"I heard him call you 'Duckie!'" announced the small brother.

"Well, what of it?" demanded his sister, defiantly.

"Oh, nothin' much," answered the small brother. "I was only thinkin' maybe it's because of the way you walk, but it ain't very nice of him."

One on Mother.

Little Tommy has a great dislike to being washed. The other day his mother was showing him a new clock and remarked meaningly:

"Just look what a nice, clean face the clock has, Tommy!"

"Yes," answered the child triumphantly; "but it's got black hands."

Lenine's Workers In United States

List of 159 Special Agitators Who Wrecked Russia Being Closely Scrutinized.

NEW YORK, July 30.—A list of names of 159 agitators, who by permission of the German Government accompanied their leader, Lenine through Germany into Russia, and whose work in Petrograd accomplished the Bolshevik coup d'etat, will be made the basis of an inquiry by the Lusk committee investigating seditious activities here, in order to determine whether any of them have since made their way to America.

The names, all Russians—were supplied to the committee at its session today by Van Svare, lawyer, of Cleveland, Ohio, and one time Czecho-Slovak commissioner to Russia. Svark read the names copies of a Petrograd newspaper, the "Obtcheje Delo," later suppressed by the Bolshevik. The men all passed through Germany in sealed railroad cars, the first batch of twenty-nine having travelled with Lenin. These, Svare described as "the de luxe crowd." They ran for office in the constituent assembly when the Bolshevik were trying to get control of that body, he said.

"I was told whether any of these men have left Russia yet?" asked Chairman Lusk.

"I have been informed that Saran Naunjona Ravvich, No. 11 on the list, has been in New York city within a year or so and has been active here," responded the witness.

He agreed to give the committee the sources of his information after the session.

May Be in America

Asked whether any of the others who followed Lenine and his "de luxe crowd" into Russia had come to America, Svare said he would have to look over the names very carefully.

"I wish you would do so," said Chairman Lusk, "and give that information to us, because I think it is highly important to know whether the men sent from Germany to engineer the overthrow of the Government in Russia are here working among us."

It is known that some evidence now in the committee's possession is being held for the consideration of the extraordinary grand jury, which will begin an inquiry into Bolshevism on August 11. The federal immigration authorities are also interested and the list of names presented today will be closely scrutinized. A. R. Schell, special investigator of the deportation bureau, was present at to-day's hearing, having been assigned to follow the testimony and obtain any facts of value to the Government in its efforts to rid the country of alien revolutionists advocating violence.

Chairman Lusk asked the witness to sum up his impressions of industrial Russia under Bolshevist rule. Svare replied that, industrially the Bolshevik regime was nearing the end of its rope.

Tired of Bolshevism

"The Russian workingmen are getting tired of the Bolshevik system of running the factories," he said. "In the beginning the workers took over the factories and ran them themselves, throwing out the heads of the shops—the superintendents, foremen and the like. Now they are going to the superintendents and foremen and pleading with them to come back. The Bolshevik regime can run only so long as the machines last and the raw materials holds out. When equipment fails and material runs out, the Bolshevik

Favorite Picture Of People's Prince

When it became definitely known that His Royal Prince of Wales would open the Canadian National Exhibition this year the management at once got into touch with the official photographers in London and requested a profile photograph of him for reproduction on the Victory Year Medal to be awarded to the winners in the Agricultural; and other sections of the Big Fair. The photo shown above was received after considerable delay, and immediately a cable was rushed back to this effect:

"A mistake has been made. An official picture is desired. Also you sent shows the Prince with cutlet or coat and with khaki shirt collar turned in. Charming double chin, but hardly dignified enough."

Then came the answer:

"Sorry you dislike it. It's the Prince's favorite picture, taken with the Canadians in France and in every sense official."

And that's the reason why the People's Prince will appear on the Canadian National Exhibition 1919 medals, hatless, coatless and in the careless attire of the Fighting Man in France. He will open the Big Fair on Monday, August 25th.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Former Speaker Clark warned the House today, that if steps were not taken soon to curb the food profiteers in this country there would be serious trouble. He said that the penitentiary is the place for the men who rob the people of their bread and butter.

Representative Keller ,the new congressman from Minnesota, who ran as an Independent and defeated the Democratic and Republican candidates said that the people are not worried about the League of Nations, but the cost of food. He predicted Congress something is done to wrest the control of food from a few monopolists soup houses will be needed to feed the masses next Winter, and

BARTLEY — CRAIG

A very pretty house wedding took place Monday evening the 28th inst at the home of the bride's father, Mr. W. J. Craig, South Camniton, when Mr. Wm. J. Bartley, late returned from overseas was united in marriage with Miss Annie May Craig. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. S. McMullen of Camniton in the presence of about a score of the immediate relatives and friends. The bridal pair were attended by Mr. E. Edmunds and Miss H. E. Craig of Camniton. After the ceremony and congratulations the whole company sat down to a sumptuous evening dinner. The community unites in extending congratulations and well wishes to our young hero and his charming bride who are expected to take up their abode in Camniton.

POURED OIL ON BABIES AND BURNED THEM

NELSONVILLE, Ohio, July 31.— Several hours before authorities were to remove them to the Athens county home yesterday, several children ranging in age from 6 weeks to ten years were found with their mother, Mrs. Tony St. Naviser, burned to death or asphyxiated in their home at Kimberly, a small mining town near here. The children were tied to their beds and coal oil had been sprinkled over the room.

It is supposed that worry over the separation caused the mother to destroy herself and the children.

WANT TO RAISE PRICE OF CHEESE

OTTAWA, July 31.—With a view to having the fixed price of chees raised from 25 cents to 28 cents per pound, farmers from small parts of Central Canada will hold a mass meeting in the City Hall here on Tuesday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. After discussing the situation, delegates will draft a memorial and present it to Sir Robert Borden. The country, it is said, has been thoroughly organized and the largest and most representative gathering of farmers ever held in Eastern Canada is expected. According to reports, the farmers are aware of the necessity of quick action in order to avoid the complete demoralization of the cheese industry. Every cheese board and factory have been requested to send delegates.

Charged With Murder Couple Set Free

Keepers of Roadhouse Where Canadian Soldier Was Murdered Discharged by Hull Magistrate.

OTTAWA, July 31.—George Durand and his wife, the latter better known as Eugenie Hercloe Madame Fernande, were discharged by Magistrate Guyette in the preliminary hearing of the charge brought against them of having murdered Pte. James Lawrence of Toronto, who was shot in their house, on the Chelsea road, the night of June 16-17.

J. A. Parent, K.C., prosecuting attorney, immediately made the announcement that he would make application to the Attorney-General of Quebec to have the pair brought before the Grand Jury at the March term of the Criminal Assizes, and they were allowed to go their way on the same bail, $3,000 each.

Train Hits Truck And Demolishes It

Load of Furniture Destroyed, Yet Windshield Unbroken; Two Men Unhurt.

COBOURG, July 31.—While Fred Edmonson, of Oshawa, was moving the furniture of Rev. W. T. Wickett, of Tyronne, from that place to Bethany, his auto was struck by a train while crossing the C. P. R. tracks. Mr. Wickett was on the truck, and both men jumped as soon as possible. The load and the truck were demolished, excepting the engine, which is said to be in fair condition. A peculiar feature is that the glass in the windshield was not broken. Both men were injured, Mr. Edmonson quite seriously.

BOLSHEVIK MONEY TO BRIBE POLICE

LONDON, July 31.—The extent of the propaganda of the Soviets in Vienna to bring about a revolution in German-Austria is shown by an article in the Berlingske Tidende of Copenhagen. This paper learns from Vienna that, according to a report made to the Austrian Government by the police president of Vienna, which is based on secret documents recently found at the Hungarian Embassy in Vienna, the Hungarian Ambassador expended no less than sixty million kronen for the purpose of bringing about a revolution in German-Austria.

The documents further show that Nikolai Lenine, the Russian Bolshevik premier, had appointed the Hungarian Bolshevist Bettalheim, as party dictator in Vienna; that an extensive arming of the proletariat and the murder of high state officials were planned, and that the State Bank was to be entered from the embassy through the sewers.

Sixty million kronen, the report added, were to be expended in bribing the police.

TOBACCO BRINGS MOST FOR INLAND REVENUE

OTTAWA, July 31.—During July, war taxes collected by the Department of Inland Revenue totalled $1,378,025. The total revenue of the department from all sources for the month was $4,586,088, a large increase over the month of June, 1918, when the revenue amounted to $2,993,620. The largest source of revenue for the month was tobacco, the excise taxes on which brought $2,425,650 to the Dominion Treasury.

MURDER OF SOVIET ENVOY IS CONFESSED

LONDON, July 31.—The murder of Count Mirbach, the German ambassador to Russia, was confessed to by Jacob Blumkin, a Russian Bolshevik, who was executed by the Soviet authorities, according to a Moscow wireless message received here today.

Blumkin, the message says, was a member of the Left Social Revolutionary party, which was opposed to the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty. He was executed for the murder of Count Mirbach, and for the murder of Andreyev, a Bolshevik leader.
